His main goal is working with the youth of Beaver Island.

Lasater said that this young man, even though he has limited experience, will make up for it in enthusiasm, intelligence and a desire to do an exceptional job.

During the background investigation, he received very high praise from everyone the sheriff talked to and has a reputation of being a good, down to earth young man, eager to do an exceptional job for the citizens of Beaver Island.

Lucia's story

At 7 p.m. Aug. 7 at the historic Charlevoix Depot the Charlevoix Historical Society will present the story of The Lucia Simpson, Lake Michigan's last full-rigged, three masted sailing schooner.

Bill Sanderson will discuss the colorful history of the ship's adventures when hauling lumber as one of the 1700 schooners on the Great Lakes from 1870 to 1900.

Watercolors of The Lucia Simpson by Belvedere Resort artist Jane Stanley, as well as many photos will be on display.

The public is invited and new members are always welcome.

The Depot is located across from Depot Beach. Go to the end of East Dixon Avenue, bear right to Chicago Avenue, then left to the depot.

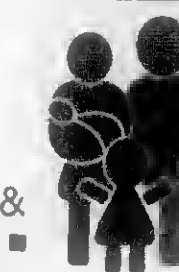

For more information contact the Charlevoix Historical Society at (231) 547-0373.

Despite resistance from Belvedere and Michigan avenue residents Charlevoix City Council gave the go-ahead to sidewalk construction on both streets Monday night.

"Today is there a need for sidewalks on Belvedere Avenue? Well, that's a flip of a coin but, five years from now will there be? Most definitely," Third Ward Councilman Sherm Chamberlain said.

Council's vote was divided. While second ward councilman Gabe Campbell made the motion to

"I don't like any part of this. I've never seen a city work so hard to destroy something that has taken two generations to build."

R. J. Button,
Belvedere Avenue resident support both projects, Campbell's fellow second ward councilman Bill Bellows voted in opposition of the motion. Bellows said he wanted to see the two sidewalk projects voted on separately.

Campbell's motion was supported by first ward councilmen Bill Haggard and Norman "Boogie"

Carlson. However, Carlson added to the motion that trees further along in their growth cycle would be used to replace south side trees that will be removed.

But Belvedere resident John Winn thinks that conditional clause isn't enough.

"I'll be dead before those trees ever give any shade. We will not have one tree from May Street to 7-11. It's going to look like a commercial thoroughfare," Winn said with disgust.

Like the second ward, the third ward was divided. A.J. Witthoef voted against the sidewalk plan saying if his constituents didn't want it, then he had to represent the voice of the people, while Chamberlain maintained its utility.

Chamberlain said he based his vote in favor of constructing the sidewalks on projections he made into future traffic volumes on Belvedere.

Mediation fails for fireworks lawsuits

By JULIE MUSILEK
Staff Writer

After a two day meeting of the minds that took place at Charlevoix High School it looks like the nine cases filed as a result of the 1997 Venetian Festival fireworks accident in Charlevoix will go to trial.

Charlevoix County Circuit Court Judge Richard Pajtas who is handling the fireworks cases ordered the parties involved to take part in the "mediation" to see if any claims could be settled out of court.

Former Oakland County Circuit Court Judge Barry Howard facilitated the mediation.

Attorney for Fireworks North, the non-profit group hired to transport and shoot the fireworks the night the accident took place, W. Mack Faison of Miller, Canfield, Paddock and Stone in Detroit explained the mediation.

"It was a two day discussion between attorneys and the parties involved in the fireworks cases including those representing various insurers. However, a resolution was not reached," he said.

A life of laughter and fun

By JOCEY FLORENCE

In the recent Venetian parade, many considered the Michigan State University Band to be the main attraction.

However, what many parade attendants didn't know was that there was a full-fledged former Ringling Brothers Barnum and Bailey Circus clown performing in the parade and living in Charlevoix.

Adele Forbrig, a year-round Charlevoix resident since 1995 and a summer resident since she was born, formerly clowning in the prestigious Ringling Brothers Barnum and Bailey Circus.

Forbrig's road to the big tent was not an easy one. In 1984, Forbrig's mother, Gina Lepman, read Forbrig an advertisement for auditions being given for Ringling Brothers Barnum and Bailey Clown College.

"She told me 'Adele, have I found a college for you.' It sounded like so much fun, and I thought, that's where I belong," Forbrig recalled.

Kanine top candidate to replace Haske

If the Charlevoix School Board approves the selection, Jim Kanine, Charlevoix Middle School seventh grade English teacher of 14 years, will step out of the classroom and into a high school administrative office.

On July 2 a selection committee searching out the ideal candidate for the Charlevoix High School assistant principal and athletic director position unanimously selected Kanine. They plan to make the recommendation to the school board at the Aug. 13 meeting.

"After having just interviewed for the middle school principal position, a position he (Kanine) applied and was a finalist for, we knew what was out there and decided to stay inside (hire within the district)," superintendent of Charlevoix Public Schools and selection committee member John Strock said.

Kanine, 45, was chosen by a panel to replace former assistant principal and athletic director Keith Haske who recently accepted the job of Charlevoix Middle School principal after Dennis VanGuilder unexpectedly resigned.

"I have always enjoyed coaching and sports very much, that is part of who I am," Kanine said.

He continued by explaining ways his past experience will be useful to him in this new role: "I've also really enjoyed the last 23 years in the classroom. In some ways, coaching and teaching go hand in hand. I have used parts of each field to help me in the other. They work so well together."

Kanine has worked in the Charlevoix School District for 14 years, but taught in Detroit for nine years prior to moving to Charlevoix — tallying a grand total of 23 years as a teacher.

But, not only does he bring with him teaching expertise, he also has administrative savvy. In 1985 and 1986 Kanine was an athletic director in Detroit. He has also coached almost every sports team possible.

Kanine's coaching role started when he was only 19. He has since lead numerous teams, including: boys varsity football, baseball, basketball and track and girls varsity softball and track.

So how did he get to Charlevoix?

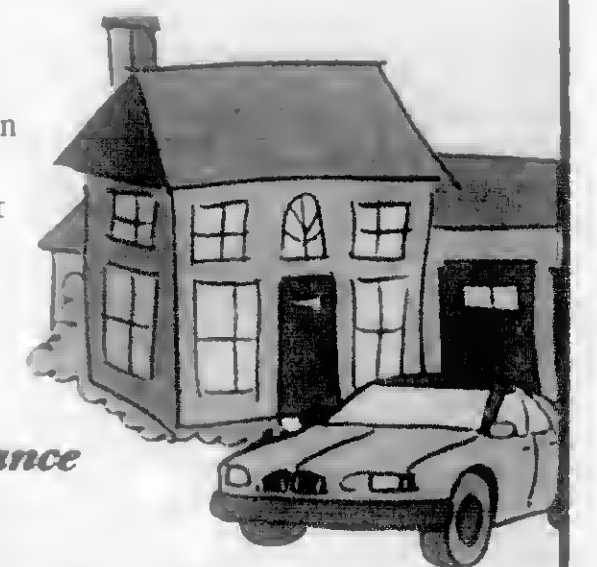

Well, in 1987 Kanine packed up his wife Jane and their three children; Jim, Rachel and Rebecca and headed north from their home in Dearborn to Charlevoix, where they have been ever since. He started his job as the seventh

Sidewalks example of poor use of money

EDITORIAL

Just when you thought your council was listening to you, you find out you are wrong.

Perhaps that is what went through the minds of many city voters Monday night as the Charlevoix City Council went against the opinion of many of their constituents and decided to build additional sidewalks on Belvedere and Michigan Avenues.

Their rationale: It is safer. We say: Baloney.

In the case of Belvedere Avenue, the city is going to build a sidewalk on a side of the road with a steep embankment, which makes it hard for drivers to see who is coming down the street, much less a sidewalk. Plus, this sidewalk will pass in front of over 30 driveways. This makes a real gauntlet to walk down.

The city says these sidewalks will keep people out of the street. Another slice of baloney. There are already sidewalks on both Michigan and Belvedere avenues. If people already do not use the existing sidewalk, what makes the city think they will now?

Plus — as resident Charlie Winn said at Monday night's city council meeting — if the city can make ordinances prohibiting bicycles and skateboards from the sidewalks, why can't they make an ordinance prohibiting people from walking in the street and using the already existing sidewalks on Belvedere and Michigan avenues?

It seems this issue is less about safety as it is about money. The city has money to build a sidewalk and let's face it, our city likes to spend money, even if we really do not need to.

This is just another example of poor governing by our city council.

But, you have got to hand it to some of these council members, they sure do have moxie to go against their constituents. Especially Norman "Boogie" Carlson, who is up for reelection this year and voted for these unnecessary sidewalks.

To be fair, not all of the council members joined in this voter-bucking action. Council members Bill Bellows and A.J. Witthoef deserve praise for their votes against this action.

Area hospital's history outlined in new book

Edith Gilbert

'Behind the news'

Most of us can only imagine what it was like to practice medicine at the turn of the century before there were antibiotics or laparoscopic surgeries, but a new Charlevoix book "A History of Caring" spells it out for us in fascinating detail.

The Charlevoix Area Hospital was officially opened in 1920 in a large, frame house located on Hurlbut Street that cost $2,000.

There was no Patients' Bill of Rights pending in Congress, and doctors, who made house calls, were sometimes never paid for their midnight horse and buggy runs, or were paid with a delivery of chickens and eggs. Sometimes, Dr. Saltenstall recalled, he was paid $2 in cash for a home delivery — occasionally in a migrant worker's unheated shack with a dirt floor.

Legal liability? Dr. Stewart describes the time when tonsils were removed in school, and children sat in the principal's chair while his grandfather, Dr. McMillan, performed anesthesia with drip ether.

Esther Carey, registered nurse, began working in the Charlevoix Hospital in 1944. "I remember that the pharmacy was a room in the basement and nurses went down and got what we needed," she recalls.

The special charm of these skillful interviews is that they are presented with the original quotes collected by Tamara Stevens, director of marketing and public relations. Much to her credit, she did not attempt to re-write the original anecdotes. Many black and white photographs accompany the soft cover edition of the Charlevoix Area Hospital history.

The old hospital with 22 beds, operating room and obstetrics unit served the community well until the late 1940s, when fund-raising efforts began for a new hospital. As always, location was a contentious issue, but finally the former trailer park location was chosen.

Esther Bleha recalls, "We had the grocery store at that time. People would come in the store and they'd cuss Chuck out. They'd yell at him about how he might vote. It was terrible! Business dropped down."

Since then the hospital has continued to grow both in size and the services it provides including an emergency room, coronary care unit, birthing center and physical therapy department.

Frivolous lawsuits? In 1934 malpractice insurance premiums were $17.50. There was no pre-natal care and there were many risky deliveries before C-section deliveries became an option. Doctors performed internal versions, which meant reaching up inside and turning the baby around, if possible. Tom Cary, current hospital board member since 1973, recalls that Dr. Armstrong delivered him at home on the kitchen table.

Later, there were only three doctors in Charlevoix, Wendy Saltenstall recalls, and no back-ups. "My father was always working," she said.

"The story that sticks out in my mind is when the cat knocked over the kerosene lamp during a delivery. There was no electricity during a thunderstorm and the cat got scared and knocked over the lamp and my father delivered the baby in the dark."

Paperwork? Hospital records in the old days were unbelievable, according to Dr. Plagge.

"The complete hospital record would say things like, 'The patient was admitted, had a hysterectomy and was discharged,'" he said. That's it!

Collectors of Charlevoix memorabilia will want to add copies of this valuable book to their collection. They are available at the Bridge Street Book Store and the Hospital Gift Shop for $20.

Letters to the editor

Remember the veterans
Editor:

On VJ Day, we celebrate the formal signing of the papers that brought an end to the fighting of World War II. It was a day of victory, but yet, it was a victory secured with the lives of hundreds of thousands of Americans.

VJ Day should serve as a lasting tribute to those who followed Old Glory to distant shores where they put their lives on the line because it was the right thing to do. Their sacrifice preserved freedom for generations yet unborn. We must never forget those brave men and women who paid the ultimate price for our freedom.

Right now, there are more than 65,000 veterans who can't remember last year's events. For them, VJ Day is just another long day in a hospital bed. These are the same men and women who fought, put it all on the line, for you and me. Many of them left homes and families to fight on foreign soil for the freedoms that you and I will be celebrating in just a few days.

LETTERS

But there will be very little celebrating in just a few days. There will be very little celebrating for most of the 65,000 veterans who will once again find themselves suffering quietly in beds in America's veterans hospitals.

Just before dawn on Aug. 14 (VJ Day), I will light a candle and as the light from its flame drives the darkness from the night, it will symbolize my commitment to honor all veterans and drive back the fear any hospitalized veterans may have of being forgotten. We must never forget.

Great job

Twenty-six years ago I moved to Charlevoix because of the natural beauty of this area. I have subsequently learned that our most beautiful natural resource is the people of this area.

Petunia planting and Venetian bring out the best in our townspeople. It is very impressive to watch the volunteers who man the booths downtown during Venetian. I would especially like to thank Dan Barron, of the Venetian committee, and the myriad volunteers for their planning and execution of the events of this spectacular week.

Thank you

Editor:
On behalf of the Charlevoix Kappa Sigma Sorority, we would like to thank the community for its participation and support of our recent Home Tour.

We also thank the individuals and businesses who made this Home Tour once again a success and volunteers who were hostesses at each home and who worked traffic control.

Finally, a special thank you to the homeowners on this year's tour: Stuart and Susan Kaufman, Ray and Pat Rohde, Don and Ruth Can Sulichem, David and Arlene Parker and Arnold and Polly Evans. Without their generosity, this event could not take place.

Our balance sheet is not quite complete, but we hope to donate about $5,500 to the Charlevoix Area Hospital and almost $3,000 to the Sue DeYoung/Judy Edger Breast Cancer Walk for cancer research.

Thank you, Courier, for the articles covering this event.

Cancer-causing substance near the new school?

Editor:
My family moved to Marion Center Road in 1954. At that time it was a largely agricultural community. Some of the very "mature" neighbors told me over the years that the area had once been a very large orchard.

Since that time, my father died of cancer in 1994. My son died of cancer in 1996. At least three other neighbors have died of cancer in the immediate area. A number of other neighbors have become sick with various types of disease. Oh yes, I live exactly one mile from the "proposed" school site.

The American Cancer Society and the Oncology Department of the University of Michigan Hospital will tell you that the incidence of cancer in agricultural areas is geometrically greater than in non-agricultural areas. The incidence of cancer in former orchard lands is greater still.

Before the "proposed" school began construction, the question of soil contamination testing was brought up by concerned citizens. Apparently nothing was done. It now appears that the playing fields are being prepared, which seems to mean a lot more Earth moving and potential exposure of previously undisturbed pieces of land. I wonder if anything has yet been done concerning the possible "brown-field" condition of this site. A prime cancer vector is contaminated dust.

I am writing this to tell you of the unfortunate circumstances which have afflicted my family while living here. I hope that someone has considered the possibility of such on a much larger scale. I would really hate to see a white elephant turn into a "love canal."

Great Venetian Festival

Editor:
We are all blessed to have such wonderful people put together our very unique Charlevoix Venetian Festival. Hundreds of hours of work, planning and directing went into putting together the best Venetian Festival we have ever had two weeks ago.

From the fireworks, to the boat parade, to the many bands that played and entertained us, to the Michigan State Marching Band and the fun carnival, it could not have been done any better — it was perfect. Seven days of continual fun for all of us.

I remember when I lived in Washington, D.C. and I used to go to the Capitol to watch the Fourth of July celebrations — our Venetian Festival blew their show away.

Please allow me to give special thanks to the Venetian Festival Board of Directors, who put this together for our community and raised some $250,000 to make it all possible. They are: Dan Barron, Dave Novotny, Dean Davenport, Thom Bickersteth, John Winn, Laurie Lounsbury, John Taylor and Anne Golski.

Aren't we fortunate to have caring people in our community like them? The answer to this question is a resounding yes.

Pool auction raises about $70,000 Sunday

By JEREMY MCBAIN
Editor

The annual Charlevoix Area Community Pool Auction Sunday at the Charlevoix Country Club raised between $67,000 and $70,000 for the pool fund.

While this is a great showing for the auction, it did not raise as much money as last year's total of $73,000, according to auction coordinator Scott MacKenzie.

However, MacKenzie was still happy with the results.

"It absolutely amazes me, the generosity of folks in town," he said.

The item receiving the highest bidding that night was the PT Cruiser, with a winning bid of $19,900. Next up was a Charlevoix Country Club Social Membership, with a winning bid of $13,000 and then a Lincoln Continental, with a winning bid of $10,000.

MacKenzie said there were quite a few bidding wars throughout the evening, especially on the Lincoln Continental.

"It was a fun evening," he said.

Bruce MacArthur, of the pool board of directors, added that a lot of the evening's success was due to the work put forth by MacKenzie.

In fact, MacKenzie is already working on next year's auction. As of Tuesday, he was trying to get a weeks stay at a London, England flat included in the items to bid on for next year.

The annual auction is used to help fund the community pool in order to keep it affordable for users. The pool is not supported by tax dollars.

Classic cars to be in town

The Charlevoix Street Legends Classic Car Club will host its ninth annual Up North Cruise Night and Car Show at 4 p.m. on Aug. 18.

The event will begin at Charlevoix Township's Shanahan Field, will travel around Lake Charlevoix and end with a special street parking display in downtown

Charlevoix.

Live entertainment will be provided in the Odmak Pavilion in East Park.

The car show will take place on Aug. 19 at Shanahan Field. Registration is open to everyone beginning at 8 a.m. and ending at noon.

A trolley service will provide transportation to the show site from downtown Charlevoix. A special auction to benefit Camp Quality will begin at 1 p.m. and all proceeds from the show will be donated to local charitable organizations.

The show will end with class awards presentations at 2 p.m.

CMU graduates

Two Charlevoix area students recently graduated from Central Michigan University. They are: Erin D. McDonough, of Beaver Island, with a bachelor of science degree and Karry B. Seibert, of Charlevoix, with a bachelor of science in education degree.

Dean's list

Holly J. Petkewicz, of Charlevoix, was recently named to the dean's list of Calvin College. To be named to the list, students must achieve at least a 3.5 grade point average or higher. Petkewicz is a 1999 graduate of East Jordan High School, graduating as the class valedictorian. She is the granddaughter of Jerry and Judy Petkewicz of Charlevoix.

Summer party

The Christ Child Society of Northern Michigan has its summer party on July 29 at the home of Dr. and Mrs. James L. McGauley. The annual benefit is the major fund-raiser for the society whose only purpose is to improve the lives of children and young adults in northern Michigan.

More than 350 guests enjoyed the food and beverages at this benefit.

Talk yourself into positive thinking

By FR. JIM GUNN Rector, Christ Episcopal Church,
Charlevoix

I once heard it said that you need not worry if you talk to yourself. You don't even need to worry if you argue with yourself. However, you do need to start worrying if you lose those arguments!

Seriously, we all talk to ourselves all the time. We don't sit there and verbally exchange remarks with ourselves — sort of a conversation between our right brain and left brain — but we do tell ourselves things mentally about our interpretation of what is happening in our lives and what may happen.

At last Wednesday's session of the "Food For Thought" summer series at Christ Church, we watched a video about how we can guard against the causes of depression in our lives. One of the biggest things that Dr. Chris Thurman spoke about was faulty thinking — ways in which we distort reality in our lives. One example would be if, when something unpleasant happens in our life, we tell ourselves that the rest of our life (or even the rest of the day) is going to be unpleasant.

I'd like to make three observations about approaching this issue of coming against faulty thinking.

First of all, it is always to our benefit to be involved in vital Christian fellowship. In 1 Corinthians 12:26-27, Paul speaks of the way life is shared in the fellowship of believers: "If one part suffers, every part suffers with it; if one part is honored, every part rejoices with it. Now you are the body of Christ, and each one of you is a part of it." If we live into that picture and share our joys and our sorrows with our brothers and sisters in Christ, then we have the safeguard of their more objective perspective. Faulty thinking tends to be a private project that gets corrected when other people are able to reflect with us on what has happened.

I want to illustrate the second point for you by mentioning four verses of Holy Scripture. As Paul is completing 2 Corinthians, he says, "Finally, brothers, good-bye. Aim for perfection, listen to my appeal, be of one mind, live in peace. And the God of love and peace will be with you." (NIV) He is not only saying that they should have agreement about what they believe but that they should share an attitude and approach to life.

Where does that come from? Let's look at Philippians 2:5: "Have this mind among yourselves, which is yours in Christ Jesus." It is what some of referred to as the mind of Christ. Because we are members of the Body of Christ, then we come to share in the mind of the head. However, that comes to be more true as we grow in our life in faith.

Paul indicates the direction we must take in his words of advice in Romans 12:2: "Do not conform any longer to the pattern of this world, but be transformed by the renewing of your mind. Then you will be able to test and approve what God's will is — his good, pleasing and perfect will." As our minds are renewed through the power of the Holy Spirit, it, then they come more in alignment with Jesus' mind.

The last verse I mentioned emphasizes the ongoing nature of that transformation and it is found at 2 Corinthians 3:18: "And we, who with unveiled faces all reflect the Lord's glory, are being transformed into his likeness with ever-increasing glory, which comes from the Lord, who is the Spirit."

As this transformation takes place, then we come to be more guarded against faulty thinking.

The third and final point that I mentioned comes from the "normal diet" that we give our mind. If we look at Philippians 4:6-8, we gain an appreciation for the recommended approach to all that occurs in our lives: "Do not be anxious about anything, but in everything, by prayer and petition, with thanksgiving, present your requests to God. And the peace of God, which transcends all understanding, will guard your hearts and your minds in Christ Jesus. Finally, brothers, whatever is true, whatever is noble, whatever is right, whatever is pure, whatever is lovely, whatever is admirable — if anything is excellent or praiseworthy — think about such things."

In so far as we place our lives in the hand of God and focus our attention on the things that are pleasing to Him, then we are filled with peace and wisdom.

May you all have the blessing of experiencing the peace of which these scriptures speak and the joy of living in the fellowship of which Christ is the head. I believe that you will be strongly guarded against faulty thinking if you focus on these three points.

Obituaries

Joan Mitchell Radney: Feb. 11, 1925 - May 4, 2001

Joan Mitchell Radney passed away on May 4, 2001 in Woodland Hills, Calif.

A burial service will be at her family's plot at Brookside Cemetery at 11:30 a.m. on Aug. 14.

She was born on Feb. 11, 1925 to Dr. William Will Mitchell DDS and Ruth Hooper Mitchell in Charlevoix. Her father's family had a farm in Ironton, but it was Charlevoix that captured the family's heart.

Dr. Williams Mitchell had a practice in Miami Beach, Fla., where the family spent their winters, and each summer they always came home to Charlevoix. The local doctor, Dr. Armstrong, would provide Dr. Mitchell with an office for

The family had always loved Charlevoix and thought of it as their home.

In the early 1950s, Joan met and married Zane Byron Radney. Zane Radney was in the television industry and in 1969 moved the family to California, where he worked for Universal Studios as a production manager, before retiring.

Joan was very active in "WAIF" now Operation Children, which is an organization that helps children find adopted families. She enjoyed traveling, being with her family and playing bridge with her many friends.

She will be remembered for her optimism, her endless energy and her quick sense of humor.

She is deeply missed.

Joan was preceded in death by her husband, Zane. She is survived by her children, Stephanie Pamp Repp, Suzanne Radney Janda, Mitchell Bryan Radney, four grandchildren and her brother, William Mitchell.

Arrangements were made by Winchester Funeral Home in Charlevoix.

Summer more intense in Charlevoix than last

By JULIE MUSILEK
Staff Writer

Blistering hot temperatures have had Charlevoix residents, visitors and even Lake Michigan in a full sweat.

According to Steve Rowley, meteorologist for the National Weather Service, high temperatures are the number one factor leading to decreasing lake levels — as temperatures rise lake water evaporates more rapidly.

He said the second most influential factor is annual precipitation.

Winter evaporation has added to the problem, he said. When lakes don't freeze over like in the last several winters and remain open water there is still evaporation. Rowley added when they are frozen the evaporation is almost negligible.

"Because the temperature around the Great Lakes from 1998-2000 tended to be higher than normal, it contributed to a lot of evaporation. Since 1998 levels of lakes Michigan and Huron have dropped 40 inches, the fastest rate of falling ever recorded," Rowley said.

While this may seem to be a frightening concept, Rowley added the numbers still show the lake to be one foot higher than the level that was observed in 1964, "when the lakes really bottomed out and caused a lot of problems for folks."

He said there are indications that there is a cycle involved which follows a 30 year timeline. Every 30 years a low is reached and then there is a gradual increase which leads the water levels back to a peaking point.

"If the lowest point has been reached right now, then 30 years from now it would be at the highest level," he said.

Currently, we can expect the evaporation rate of Charlevoix's surrounding lakes to exceed the evaporation rate of last year during the hot summer months.

During the last week in July for the year 2000 temperatures were below the sweltering highs we are currently feeling.

On July 26, 2000, the highest temperature reached in Traverse City was 86 degrees, followed by a couple of days in the upper 70s.

Rowley said that last summer at the end of July and reaching into the first days of August, temperatures were in the low to mid 80s. There were even a couple nights when temperatures didn't drop below 60.

On Aug. 1, 2000 recorded highs in the low 80s and lows in the 60s. Rowley characterized that Tuesday afternoon as "a warm, humid day."

A little relief from the heat came on Aug. 3, 2001. He said a cool front came in and the temperatures dropped to tolerable 71 degrees at a high and 57 degrees at a low — a forecast that was nothing but a dream for Charlevoix residents on Aug. 3, 2001.

"Last year at this time there was humidity around, but not anything like the stuff everyone felt yesterday (Aug. 1) or the day before (July 31)," Rowley said.

He said last summer at this time "things weren't nearly as intense."

In fact, during the three "classic summer months," — June, July and August — of 2000 there were no reported 90 degree days.

However, for the same months this summer, residents and visitors have already endured five days when temperatures climbed to 90 degrees and higher. There were two in June and July and one was already recorded in August as of press time.

But, if Rowley's cycle theory holds true, during June, July and August of 2024 Charlevoix visitors should be swimming and boating in deeper waters than they have seen before.

You don't have to go it alone.

Do you wish you felt more loved and supported—and not quite so all alone?

Christ Jesus promised, "Where two or three are gathered together in my name, there am I in the midst of them." So it's no coincidence when you walk into a Christian Science Reading Room and feel an unmistakable love bolstering and surrounding you. You're coming together with others who are seeking and finding God. It's a powerful way to feel supported.

You don't have to go it alone—you are always welcome at a Christian Science Reading Room.

Tinney is featured artist for hospital

Local watercolor artist Pat Tinney of East Jordan is the featured artist of this year's Charlevoix Area Hospital's Lighthouse Club art-work.

For the second year in a row, Charlevoix Area Hospital will present a copy of a rendering of the Pine River Channel lighthouse to the members of the hospital's Lighthouse Club in gratitude for their support.

To be a member of the Lighthouse Club, people need to donate $100 or more each year to the hospital. A reception will take place at 5:30 p.m., Aug. 16 at the hospital for all Lighthouse Club members.

According to Tinney, she is a watercolorist first and a high school art teacher second. She has been teaching in East Jordan for 15 years. Tinney has shown her work at the Portside Art Fair in East Jordan for many years and has been painting since she was 14 years old.

Tinney sold her first painting on the east coast as a teenager when her parents rented a bungalow right on the beach near Martha's Vineyard.

"I'll never forget it, it was a big painting of a lighthouse, ironically," Tinney said. "A man came along and saw it and he offered me $10 for it. I went back to the house and told my parents I sold a painting. I thought, this makes me happy, painting and having someone like it enough to buy it."

Tinney recently earned her master's degree in watercolor concentration. She focused her thesis and thesis show on Beaver Island, where for 10 years she has spent the month of August painting.

Tinney said she feels honored to be selected as the featured artist for this year's Lighthouse Club artwork. Last year's featured artist was Sue Bolt.

Tinney and her husband, pediatrician Dr. Rod Tinney, have three children and live in East Jordan.

Library board discusses new director position

By JULIE MUSILEK
Staff Writer

The library board wants to hang on to interim director Charles Kregel and they are already concerned a new director will not live up to the standards.

"What he (Kregel) accomplished in nine weeks hasn't been done in 27 years," Charlevoix Public Schools representative to the library board, Mary Anne Chew said at the board's special meeting July 12.

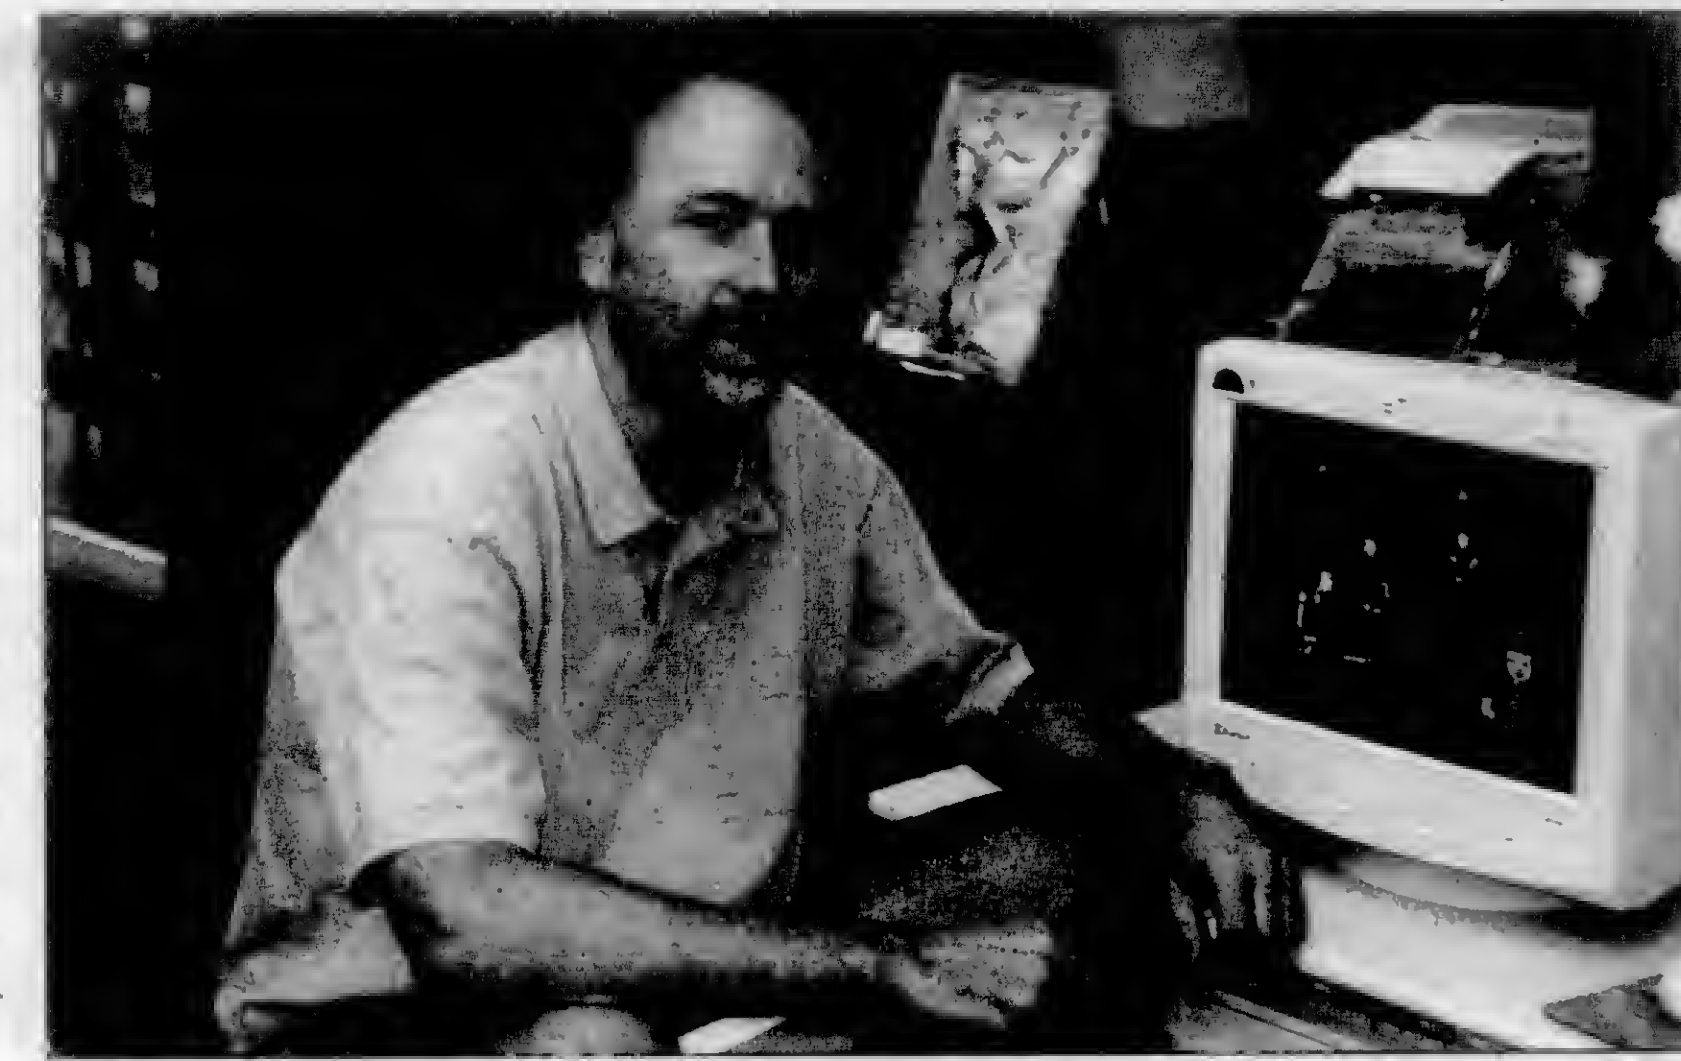

Summer projects Kregel completed at the library include; updates to both the children's and adult reading rooms, cleaned up the workroom, spruced up the cata-logging system, created a summer reading program, replaced books, hired employees and he negotiated a $13,000 discount on new technology for the library called Sirsi.

Even though the board wants Kregel to fill a permanent position at the library, after a nine week stay it's time for this traveling man to get back on the road and it's time for them to hire a new director.

According to reports at the meeting the director search has not been entirely successful. The board has found three candidates that possess characteristics that meet some of the library's needs, but not all of them.

Community health agency warns about rabies

Each year many Americans have to undergo anti-rabies treatment as a result of exposure to potentially rabid animals.

Other major problems associated with animal bites include the cost of treatment, disfigurement, infection, fear and worry and death, said officials with the Northwest Michigan Community Health Agency and District Health Department Number Four.

"Since 1990, about three cases of human rabies have been reported each year in the United States," said Joshua R. Meyerson, MD, MPH, Medical Director of the health departments which serve residents throughout northwestern and northeastern lower Michigan.

Meyerson is Medical Director for Northwest Michigan Community Health Agency, which serves Antrim, Charlevoix, Emmet and Otsego counties. He is also Medical Director for District Health Department No. 4, which serves residents in Alpena, Cheboygan, Montmorency and Presque Isle counties. In addition to his Medical Director duties, Dr. Meyerson provides specialized pediatric care to the Little Traverse Bay Band of Odawa Indians.

Last year, a total of 69 animals tested positive for rabies in Michigan including 63 bats, two fox, two skunks, one cat, and one horse. In 1999, 92 animals tested positive. In 1998, the number was 37. Locally, three bats tested positive in 2000 — one in Charlevoix County and two in Otsego County.

Wild animals — such as bats, coyotes, skunks, raccoons, foxes, woodchucks, bobcats and other cats — and domestic animals — such as livestock, dogs, ferrets and cats — are capable of transmitting rabies, Meyerson said. Rodents (except woodchuck and beaver) and lagomorphs (rabbits and hares) almost never call for anti-rabies treatment.

The last two reported cases of human rabies in Michigan occurred in 1948 and 1983.

Rabies is a virus found in the saliva of rabies-infected animals. If an infected animal bites you or your pet, the infection is transmitted and affects the nervous system.

Nonbite methods of exposure may include scratches, abrasions, open wounds or mucous membranes (mouth and eyes) contaminated with saliva or infectious material from a rabid animal.

Bats are of special concern and an exposure is defined as a bite, scratch or even finding a live or dead bat in living quarters where it had access to sleeping persons.

Rabies is a fatal disease but it can be prevented, Meyerson said. If you are bitten or scratched by an animal, or exposed to a bat, contact your physician for guidance and notify the county animal control officer. The essential measures in preventing problems following a bite or scratch includes:

• Local treatment of the wound. Immediate and thorough washing of all wounds with soap and water is perhaps the most effective measure in preventing infection, including rabies. After washing the wound, rinse with water and cleanse it with a topical antiseptic.

• Evaluation and treatment of the wound. A physician should be contacted immediately. Evaluation and prompt treatment of bites and scratches will prevent future problems. Treatment may include further wound cleaning and care, tetanus (Td/DTP) vaccine, antibiotics to prevent infection and anti-rabies treatments may also be indicated.

• Animal confinement or testing. All bites should be reported to the county animal control officer. Healthy dogs, cats and ferrets can be confined or observed for 10 days as directed by the animal control officer. Sick dogs, cats or ferrets and wild animals should be destroyed and tested for rabies. Rodents (i.e. chipmunks, mice) and lagomorphs (rabbits and hares) rarely call for anti-rabies treatment and testing, unless the bite history is very unusual or by a woodchuck or beaver.

• Do not destroy the animal by shooting it in the head, but rather contact the county animal control officer, local environmental sanitarian or a veterinarian. If animals must be handled, use heavy gloves tongs or similar tools; do not pick up the animal with bare hands. Dead animals should be placed in double plastic bags and refrigerated, not frozen.

According to Dr. Meyerson, the essential measures to follow in preventing serious consequences through an animal bite are to avoid strange animals, vaccinate domestic animals, keep pets under control, notify the animal control officer when exposure occurs, cleanse all wounds thoroughly, seek prompt medical attention, confine or test animals for rabies and contact the local environmental sanitarian if you have questions.

Sheriff's office responds to three accidents in area

The Charlevoix County Sheriff's office responded to three accidents recently. They were:

• Jamie Craig Loveall, 27, of Jenison, was injured in a four-wheeler accident around 12 p.m. on Aug. 4 on the seasonal portion of Struder Road.

The Charlevoix County Sheriff's Office reported Loveall's four-wheeler ran into a tree when he turned around to look behind him. He was operating the vehicle on a narrow section of the road.

Loveall was transported to Northern Michigan Hospital by Boyne City Ambulance with a possible broken collar bone, arm and leg.

• Joslyn J. Keie, 9, of Charlevoix, was injured around 4:30 p.m., Aug. 1 on Lake Charlevoix near Holy Island.

She was swimming from a 1987 Searay motorboat when her leg struck the vessel's cleat when she attempted to jump from its side.

Keie suffered lacerations to her leg as a result of the impact with the cleat and was treated at Charlevoix Area Hospital.

The accident remains under investigation.

• Kyle McDevitt, of Farmington Hills, was injured in a watercraft accident around 11:30 a.m., Aug. 5 on Lake Charlevoix near the Harborage Marina in Boyne City.

McDevitt was water skiing with his family when he fell and was struck in the head with one of his skis. He suffered a laceration to his head and was treated at Charlevoix Area Hospital.

The accident remains under investigation.

One day in the life of the parking patrol

By JOCEY FLORENCE
Staff writer

Generally, parking enforcement officers are not the most well-liked people. However, Charlevoix residents may be disappointed to learn that Andy Granath, Charlevoix's parking enforcement officer, does not quite fit the stereotypical mold.

"I'm really not out to get anyone," Granath said. "I like this job because I get to be outside all day and because I get to meet a lot of people. I really don't consider myself a nasty guy, though."

Granath is Charlevoix's only parking enforcement officer, therefore, he is in charge of distributing all of the parking tickets in town. He can be seen Tuesday through Saturday, from 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. walking through town and sometimes writing $2 tickets. The tickets jump up in price after 24 hours.

The initially low price of the ticket provides Granath with a source of solace.

"I don't feel so bad distributing tickets. If they were more than $2, than I'd feel guiltier," Granath said. After 24 hours, though, the price of the ticket greatly increases.

This summer is Granath's third year as Charlevoix parking officer. He was originally offered the job because of a suggestion made by a friend to Charlevoix Police Chief Dennis Halverson. At first, Granath was unsure of his capability ty to perform his new job.

"I don't generally like confrontation, so the first time that I wrote a ticket I was really nervous. Now that I've done it so much, though, it doesn't really bother me," Granath said.

Granath has good reason to be comfortable giving tickets: He usually distributes 70 to 85 a day along his route down State and Bridge streets, as well as the adjoining parking lots and side streets. Granath estimated that he walks about 20 miles each day.

Although 20 miles in 90 degree weather might not sound too appealing, it doesn't bother Granath.

"My uniform (a blue police shirt and his choice of shorts) is not that hot, and I drink a lot of water," Granath said.

Granath has also become familiar with the homeowners and store owners along his route. He is even recognized by some of their dogs.

"I've gotten to know a lot of the people on my route. Most of them are really nice," Granath said.

The parking lots near the Coast Guard Station and the marina are Granath's favorite parts of his route. However, he distributes the most tickets along Bridge Street.

Besides writing tickets, Granath is also responsible for emptying the meters once every three weeks. He takes a wheelbarrow through town early in the morning and collects all of the change.

Granath shares stories of his parking patrol duties

Granath, who will start his sophomore year at Michigan State University in August, has lived in Charlevoix for five years. Because his dad was in the Coast Guard, he moved around quite often as a child.

Granath has lived in Miami, Florida, Ohio, Maryland, Boston, Massachusetts and Wisconsin. But, his family decided to settle permanently in Charlevoix.

"I love Charlevoix. Everyone's so friendly and it's such a nice town to live in," Granath said.

The friendliness of Charlevoix's citizens is something that Granath has grown to appreciate during his time as a parking officer. Although most of the people to whom he distribute tickets are nice, he has experienced his share of rude confrontations.

"It doesn't really bother me when people get angry. I just listen to them; I never talk back to them or anything," Granath said.

The confrontations that he has experienced have forced Granath to develop a system that he follows when he's giving out tickets.

"If I'm writing out a ticket, or putting it on the car, and the owner comes out, I won't give him the ticket. Once it's on the car, though,

I won't take it off," he said.

While a job giving tickets to illegally parked vehicles forces Granath into some confrontations, he says it has had some positive influences for him.

"I used to be really shy, and now, because I get to meet and talk to so many people as a result of my job, I'm definitely less shy and more of a 'people-person' now," Granath said.

CHARLEVOIX WATERFRONT ART FAIR

Saturday, August 11, 2001
9:00 a.m. - 6:00 p.m.
East Park • Charlevoix

Waterfront Art Fair to be this weekend

If you are thinking about viewing or purchasing quality artwork, the Charlevoix Waterfront Art Fair, which will take place from 9 a.m. to 6 p.m. Aug. 11, in East Park may be just what you have in mind.

For 43 years this art fair has earned the reputation of being the second oldest and most prestigious outdoor show in the state.

Organized by Charlevoix's Council for the Arts, a non-profit organization, the Charlevoix Waterfront

Art Fair is a juried show that features a variety of traditional, functional, non-functional and abstract artwork. The mission of the founders, as well as of the present committee, is to bring fine art to residents and seasonal visitors to the area alike.

Proceeds from the event are channeled back into the community in various forms of promotion of and exposure to the fine arts.

The council sponsors an annual scholarship to encourage aspiring young artists and brings a variety of programs into the community and the schools in the form of dance, drama, symphonic performances and visits by artists throughout the year.

Exhibiting artists come to show their work from as far away as California, New York and Florida but most of the artwork is a sampling of watercolors, oils, acrylics, jewelry, ceramics, pottery, fibers, paper sculpture, mixed media and photography with a Midwest flavor.

Discover Two New Michigan Stories from Gijsbert van Frankenhuyzen...

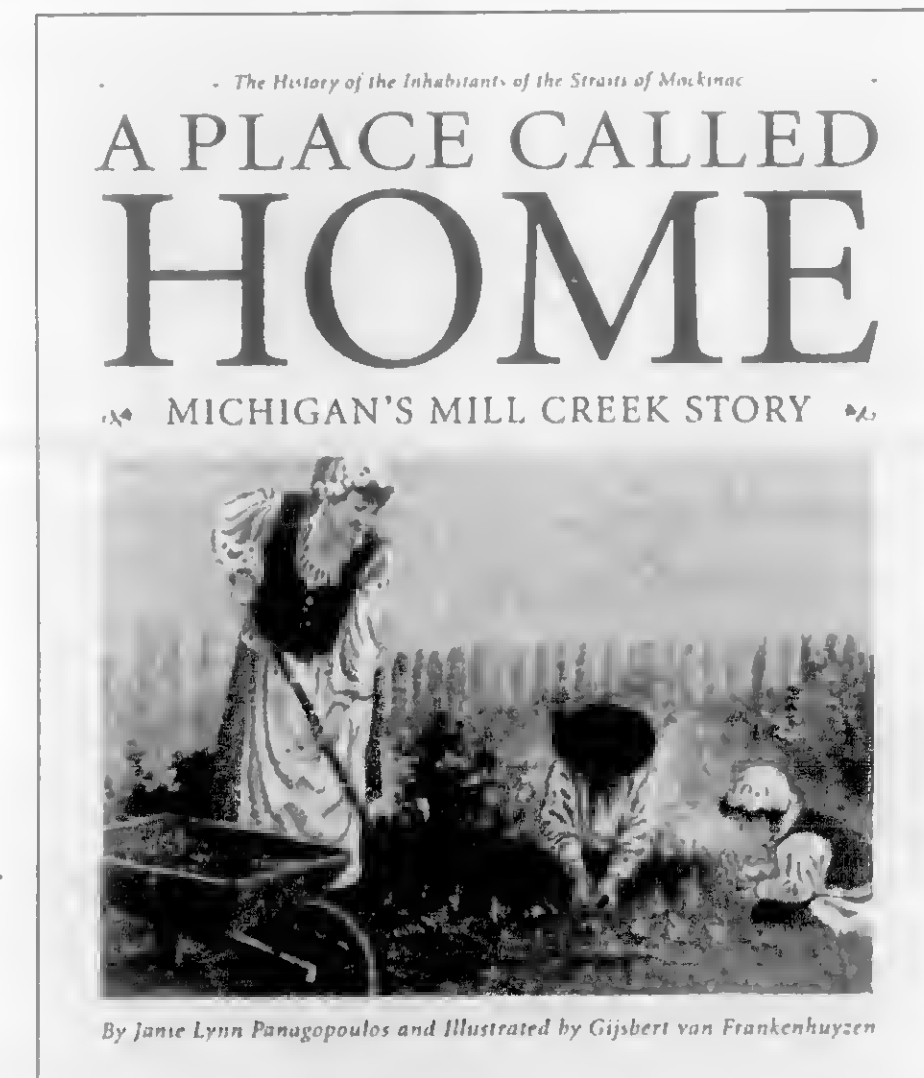

The Legend of the Lady's Slipper is the fourth book in the Legend series. Kathy-jo Wargin and Gijsbert van Frankenhuyzen capture the fleeting beauty and delicacy of these spring blossoms in the story of Running Flower, a young maiden determined to save her village. The pink and white flowers of the lady's slipper that carpet the ground will forever remind you of her sacrifice.

Charlevoix Waterfront Art Fair,
in booths 8 & 9.

Autographed copies of the Legend series books will be available for sale.

Gijsbert's (Nick's) two latest children's books are:

A Place Called Home: Michigan's Mill Creek Story. During the American Revolution, the Campbell family watched friends and neighbors move across the Straits of Mackinac to a new island home on Mackinac Island, while they stayed behind to await word of the need for a lumber mill. Mill Creek was meticulously researched by both author Janie Lynn Panagopoulos and illustrator Gijsbert van Frankenhuyzen, thanks to the generosity and ample resources available through the Mackinac Island Parks Commission.

Local artist brings new work to Waterfront fair

Barb Godwin, long time exhibitor in the Charlevoix Waterfront Art Fair, is looking forward to the upcoming show.

Frequenters of the art fair are familiar with the signature ceramics and pottery she has exhibited in past shows and sells in her clapboard studio and shop on Antrim Street in Charlevoix.

This year, she is extremely excited to display her new work, which was inspired by a recent trip she made to France and Italy.

The trip was a memorable one for Godwin. Her art career began while studying painting and drawing in Paris at the Atelier Porte Royale over thirty years ago. She was anxious to revisit Paris, this time with a focus on meeting and collecting. So along with her friend and traveling companion, Harriett Weinbaum, from Southfield, Godwin set out on a two week excursion which took the friends to France and Italy.

While renewing her spirit by absorbing the European culture, Godwin was on the lookout for other potters, woodworkers and craftspeople who dealt in weaving and glass. The trip was preceded by much research involving writing to various chambers of commerce in cities and towns of both countries.

"I also have a new friend who had a connection in Italy and France. That helped. Once we got to some of our destinations, we just talked to a lot of people," Godwin said when asked how she began her

Salmonson returns to show

Terry Salmonson, a local Charlevoix photographer, has been participating in the Charlevoix Waterfront Art Fair since 1973.

"This is the only show I do," said Salmonson. "It's wonderful. It's one of the best shows in the state, or the country for that matter."

Salmonson will have his traditional photographs on hand as well as those featuring the "Wooden Gallery Process" developed by Mike DesForger of Traverse City. This is a method of preserving and presenting a photograph.

There is no reflection, the surface is washable and the picture has much more protection from ultraviolet rays.

Salmonson, who has won numerous awards of excellence for his portrayal of the Charlevoix and northern Michigan area, is proud to be associated with the caliber of participants in the Waterfront Art Fair.

"It's great to be in that kind of company. The show has given me a lot of positive feedback for what I do," he said. "It is a way to show my work to the whole community."

search for kindred artists and craftspeople in France and Italy.

Godwin found that most of the shops were strictly commercial, selling the finished product with no trace of the process.

"I kept wondering where the workshops and studios were," Godwin said. "My focus was to find a shop-studio artist who did the whole process like I do."

They visited pottery shops which turned out plates, vases and other pieces for Pier 1, for example. All the steps in the process were accomplished by different artisans.

Eventually their travels took them to the hill towns of Italy. There they met Claudia Catria who they befriended and who graciously shared her craft.

"I probably purchased 25 pieces from Claudia," Godwin said.

Altogether Godwin shipped home about 80 pieces of work from a variety of craftspeople in Italy and France. She is anxious to display and sell these in her shop along with her own work.

At the Waterfront Art Fair on Aug. 11, Godwin will be in her booth in East Park surrounded by the craft she loves. Look for the white work and beach plates for which she is especially recognized, but also those new pieces - the motifs and shapes which were inspired by her trip abroad.

Board may put two directors in charge

LIBRARY

any one person as a director is we know up front these people don't have all the components you want and it may be tempting down the road not to rock the boat again and retain this person as the director," Kregel, who was involved in the interviewing process for the director's position, said.

So, they are grappling with the idea of hiring one of the three women now and hiring a second director who will act as the developmental coordinator as they prepare to either renovate the existing building or relocate.

But, board president Rick Brandi isn't too comfortable with the idea of hiring someone into the new position and telling them they may be second in command if someone else comes along that better fits the profile.

"There's a chance we may not find the perfect fit and could jeopardize this position," he added.

Developmentally, they are looking for an individual who not only knows how to run the library but one who is a leader in the community, who knows people in the community and is poised to do a developmental campaign.

Eveline Township board representative Anne Hansen also recommended the possibility of hiring someone specifically to steer the building project if that is the direction the expansion takes.

However, as Kregel said, regardless of whether there is one person or two in the director's seat, no director is going to do all of this on their own, the board will be closely involved in the upcoming changes.

If the three chosen candidates, Anna La Rue of Walled Lake and Harbor Springs, Michele Montague of Grand Rapids and Valerie Mayerson of Commerce Township are able to attend, the board will interview them publicly at their regular meeting, Aug. 9.

Woman to swim Lake Charlevoix for pool

By JULIE MUSILEK
Staff Writer

Patrice Smith, 39, of Wooster, Ohio and Charlevoix plans to take a Lake Charlevoix summer swim to the extreme.

On Aug. 10 Smith, along with Wooster residents Chuck Malta, 54, Smith's former swim team coach, and Reg Kramer, 49, will swim 14 miles from Charlevoix to Boyne City — Smith said this is the first recorded swim ever in Charlevoix.

The group started talking about the challenge a year ago and at 5 a.m., Friday their words and training will manifest in a grueling trip to Boyne City.

Smith said they plan to leave early, to try and beat strong afternoon winds.

They'll take off from the end of the South Pierhead Light and then will head down the Pine River Channel into Round Lake. Once in Round Lake they will each be met by a boat that will shadow their trip in case of emergency.

A sheriff's boat and a U.S. Coast Guard boat will also be on hand.

But the boats will be there for emergencies only, Smith said they will not use their fellow swimmers, the boats or the sandy lake bottom for physical support.

They'll then swim past the coast guard station, out of Round Lake, into the middle of Lake Charlevoix and onward to Boyne City where they'll end the swim at the public boat launch.

Smith estimates the trip will take from seven to eight hours to complete — a long time in the water. But, each member of the three person crew has put in the training.

In May, Smith started working out hard at the Charlevoix Area Community Pool. Malta and Kramer have done some long distance open water swims in Lake Erie and Smith has also trained in the open water of Lake Charlevoix.

"Our peak was swimming 40,000 yards in one week in addition to running and cross training," Smith said.

Smith's competitive swimming career began when she was seven years old. She took some time off to establish a family with her husband Jeff. The two are now the proud parents of two boys, Brian, 14, and Kevin, 13.

But, even after 32 years in the water, Smith said she is a little nervous for the Lake Charlevoix challenge but she's "pretty confident." She added that Malta is feeling the pre-swim jitters but she doesn't think Kramer gets nervous.

Aside from recent training this is a mature group of swimmers who have in the past participated in similar swims. Eight years ago they swam from America to Canada, nine miles across Lake Erie. They followed their Canadian excursion up with an East Coast venture, swimming the length of New York's Lake Chataqua, a total of 18 miles.

"That was really hard. We were fortunate to have a calm day," Smith said of the New York swim. They also swam 12 miles around Key West.

But, all three swims don't make this one any easier. Lake Charlevoix comes with its own set of complications, including cold water.

"We have never done a long swim like this in this cool of water. This will be a challenge," she explained.

Smith is donating any pledges she receives for the swim to the Charlevoix Area Community

Patrice Smith, of Ohio and Charlevoix, will brave Lake Charlevoix in a swim from Charlevoix to Boyne City this month. (Photo by Julie Musilek)

Pool, where she has trained. Pledge sheets are available at the pool or pledges can be mailed to the pool office, 11905 US-31 North Charlevoix, MI 49720.

Those who pledge will be entered into a drawing to win a three month pass to the pool. The person who can guess the time it will take Smith to complete the swim will take home the pass.

'Yachting notes'

Charlevoix Yacht Club Summer Series: Just as happens so often in early August evening races, the breeze went to bed before anyone else. Even with course shortened to just two legs, the last few yards to the finish line seemed endless.

For a change, the fastest corrected elapsed times in all classes were very close. SLAPSHOT (Spinnaker I) was the fastest at 0:47:23 with CYGNUS (P-26) [Yes a P-

26] was only two seconds slower at 0:47:25! BALD EAGLE (Spinnaker II) did it in 0:48:52, FLASH (Jib and Main) in 0:51:01 and SUPERFLUOUS (J-22) with a time of 0:51:04; was also first to cross the finish line (at 6:50:55). So, we'll run them down in that order: Spinnaker I; SLAPSHOT, HOI POL-LOI, HOOTIE, GOTCHA, MINT JULEP and WINDRUNNER. P-26; CYGNUS, LOST VERMONT, SANDPIPER, TIRELESS, ORIGINAL SIN and ARTEMIS. Spinnaker II; BALD EAGLE, SAFFRON. JAM; FLASH, APOTHECARY and POCO LOCO. J-22; SUPERFLUOUS, II RECKLESS, HUSSY, EAU DE VIE, FIRST DATE, PALEFACE LITE, CRAZY HORSE, SCURRY, HS MOISTURE MISSILE, ROCK STEADY, THUNDER-STRUCK, NO NAME YET,

WHAT'S HER NAME and BAN-ZAI.

The Top of the Standings: Three races, assume no drops: Spinnaker I; SLAPSHOT 5, GOTCHA 6, HOI POLLOI 9 and HOOTIE 10. Spinnaker II; BALD EAGLE 3, BABE and SAFFRON 8.

Pearson 26; LOST VERMONT 6, CYGNUS and TIRELESS 8. JAM; FLASH 3, POCO LOCO 7 and APOTHECARY 12. J-22; HUSSY 5, SUPERFLUOUS and SWINE FLEW 10, FIRST DATE 12.

Charlevoix Yacht Club Powerboats: The notice of the Charlevoix Yacht Club Leland Rendezvous did not arrive in time to be included in the August calendar so now take note, it is this coming weekend, Aug. 11 and 12. Join in the fun and travel a bit safer with good company. Call Bob Waldie at 231-582-6402 for details. He is also willing to try to find a berth for you.

Don't miss this fun trip down the West Coast of the Leelanau Peninsula to the charming fishing port of Leland. Sailboats, join us! Everybody (even non-members): Be sure to check out the newly revised Charlevoix Yacht Club web site. It is charlevoixyachtclub.org — easy to remember but note that it's org, not com. Tom Mielke invites your comments and also needs more input. You'll find the web version of the Binnacle, Yachting Notes, the Club Calendar and lots more including all Charlevoix Yacht Club contacts.

Nautical Trivia: We all know (don't we?) that "port" used to be "larboard." But from what terminology (actually, what functions?) did larboard and starboard evolve?

Call 547-2000 (leave word, including your name; it saves time and date) or e-mail joshb@tm.net.

Charlevoix Yacht Club's Aug. 10 hosts are Suzy (nee Barnes) and Michael Balter. They invite all to join them at the club for a fun evening. Wear a straw hat, derby, chapeau, cap, tam, beret, sou'wester, crown, diadem, helmet or wig and join in musical heads! Starts at six. See you there?

The mouse is gone! ...but only for a few days. This had to go to press before his departure so the events of the past weekend had to be omitted. I will be back in time for next week's race.

Yachting Notes is submitted each week during the summer months by the Charlevoix Yacht Club. To contact the club, see its website at www.charlevoixyachtclub.org or call 547-9170.

How To Kill A BUSINESS
... in ten easy steps

1. Don't Advertise
Just pretend everybody knows what you have to offer.
2. Don't Advertise
Tell yourself you just don't have time to spend thinking about promoting your business.
3. Don't Advertise
Just assume everybody knows what you sell.
4. Don't Advertise
Convince yourself that you've been in business so long customers will automatically come to you.
5. Don't Advertise
Forget that there are new potential customers who would do business with you if they were reminded.
6. Don't Advertise
Forget that you have competition trying to attract your customers away from you.
7. Don't Advertise
Tell yourself it costs too much to advertise and that you don't get enough out of it.
8. Don't Advertise
Overlook the fact that advertising is an investment in selling ... not an expense.
9. Don't Advertise
Be sure not to provide an adequate advertising budget for your business.
10. Don't Advertise
Forget that you have to keep reminding your established customers that you appreciate their business.

Townies beat Belvies, 16-14

The Townie All-Stars relied on savvy defense and timely hitting to hang on to beat the Belvies 16-14 in the forty-ninth annual Venetian softball match-up. There were several homeruns hit out into Lake Charlevoix during the game, three by Steve Dunkleberg

IV and Chris Cho. The outstanding defensive play was turned in by third baseman, Robbie Lyons II. Also during the event, Doug Kuhn was inducted into the local hall of fame with Charlevoix's own Peter D. Ance.

Despite opposition, council passes sidewalks

SIDEWALKS

Chamberlain explained that with two sets of condominiums being developed in Charlevoix Township, the city needs to be prepared for how that growth will impact infrastructure — like Belvedere Avenue — that connects those developments to the city.

"The history of Belvedere Avenue has changed tremendously. It has gone from a local road that serviced marinas and the club to one that connects communities, it connects the southeast part of Charlevoix Township to the downtown," Chamberlain said.

Throughout this sidewalk discussion city officials and council have said the plans to construct the sidewalks were based on safety concerns — they are hoping to keep people out of the street.

In an effort to further encourage safety, Mayor Alvin "Butch" Russell brought up a previous discussion council had about not allowing skateboards or bicycles to ride on the sidewalk.

Belvedere Avenue resident Charlie Winn used Russell's words to the residents advantage. "If you can make an ordinance to keep bikes off the sidewalk, why can't you make an ordinance to keep people out of the street," Winn asked.

Members of council and city administrators did not respond to Winn's question.

The plan council approved on Aug. 6 was a revision of their original idea for the north side sidewalk. The original plan would require some mature north side trees to be removed.

Prior to the Aug. 6 official meeting council along with city manager Mike Wiesner, city planner Gerry Harsch, Shade Tree Commissioner Roger Knutson and Belvedere residents walked the site to review the revisions.

The sidewalk on the north side will be five feet wide for most of the way, but will narrow to four feet just before Dr. Strawbridge's office.

The revised plans shifted the street itself over almost two feet to the south in an effort to save the trees. However, the shift will mean the loss of several south side trees and Belvedere Avenue resident R. J. Button is saying what's the point.

"I don't like any part of this. I've never seen a city work so hard to destroy something that has taken two generations to build," he said.

Witthoef was frustrated on the walk and said, "We did exactly what the people wanted, saved the trees and now they are still saying the work will hurt some of the roots."

However, Knutson assured those who walked the project site that the trees were not in danger.

Michigan Avenue residents were much less animated than their neighbors across the bridge on Belvedere Avenue. The only concern they voiced was a dangerous intersection by Michigan Avenue, Mount McSaubia Road and Division Street.

City Manager Mike Wiesner assured the residents that an engineer in East Lansing is looking into the issue and safety is a paramount concern of the city.

According to summaries of both projects additional meetings between the residents of both streets, the contractor, CCMS Associates, Inc. of Sault Ste. Marie and the city will take place in early August.

From there construction on Michigan Avenue could start as early as Aug. 13 and construction on Belvedere Avenue could start as early as Sept. 4.

Both are expected to be completed by Memorial Day of 2002.

Charlevoix resident's life as a clown

CLOWN

Ringling Brothers Barnum and Bailey Clown College, often referred to as "Boot Camp for the Circus," is the most exclusive and highly-esteemed circus arts school in the world. Only 60 out of the 600 applicants are chosen to attend the 10 week course held annually in Venice Beach, Florida.

Forbrig filled out an extensive application that asked questions that varied from what foods the applicants liked to if the applicant suffered from claustrophobia.

After completing an application, candidates had to perform an audition that consisted of presenting a few classic clown gags as well as doing many improvisational skits for the judges.

Forbrig was accepted after two application processes, and she became a member of Clown College's class of 1986.

However, Clown College was only Forbrig's first step to the circus. At the conclusion of the ten weeks, the clowns put on a show for local children and the owner of the Ringling Brothers Barnum and Bailey circus, Kenneth Feld. Feld hand-picked ten clowns for his circus based on what he saw in the performance.

Forbrig was the only girl in the class of '86 to be picked by Feld. She joined the other 23 clowns in the circus and began touring with them across North America immediately after clown college.

The reason for the question on her application regarding claustrophobia became apparent to Forbrig the moment that she set eyes on her living quarters for the next two years. Her room on the Ringling Brothers Barnum and Bailey Circus measured three and a half by six feet.

"Spending so much time in our tiny rooms provided all of the clowns with a real contrast to the huge arenas that we performed in," Forbrig said.

Her room was in a train car that she shared with four other clowns and 12 showgirls.

Despite her close living quarters, Forbrig's experiences on the train were one of the highlights of her two years with the circus.

"I loved traveling the country by rail and having the opportunity to see all of the cities. We were sort of treated like celebrities in all of the towns we visited. It was a very addicting lifestyle," Forbrig said.

But Forbrig's primary attraction to the circus was her love of performing.

"I loved having the ability to make so many people laugh each day," Forbrig said.

Forbrig had always had this unique ability. When she was young, her family, who are familiar with her antics, dubbed her "Kookie." The name stuck and "Kookie the Clown" became Forbrig's stage name.

Forbrig clowned in 1,200 shows in two years. She was in the ring six days a week, and usually performed in two shows a day. Her only day off was the circus' traveling day.

In each show, Forbrig clowned in 10 different acts. Some of these acts included walking on six foot stilts, riding an elephant, jumping on a trampoline, and performing her favorite skit, the "Washer

"I just want to make people laugh."

Adele Forbrig, aka "Kookie the Clown"

Woman," which involved clowns erupting into a brawl in which they attacked each other with wet clothing. She even shared the ring with Gunther Gable Williams, who is often regarded as the "World's Best Animal Trainer."

After two years, Forbrig decided to turn in her red clown shoes and left the circus. She then finished college — that's academic college, not one for clowns — and earned her teaching degree.

In 1989, Forbrig moved to Santa Fe, where she taught kindergarten, first, fourth and sixth grades during her seven years there.

Each year, as a fundraiser, Forbrig would organize a circus in which her students would perform.

In 1996, Forbrig moved to Charlevoix with her daughter, Samantha.

During these years, Forbrig remained in touch with many of her former fellow performers.

In January of this year, Clown

College held a reunion at Circus, Circus in Las Vegas, Nevada. Forbrig joined 12 graduates of the class of '86 for a weekend that included pie-throwing contests, water-spitting competitions and a race to see which clown could apply his makeup in the least amount of time with no mirror.

Perhaps the reunion reminded Forbrig of her love of clowning, because she has recently started again. Forbrig now performs at birthday parties and events, including the Venetian Parade.

"I missed clowning and wanted to get back into it. The closest things that I could do were birthday parties and events," Forbrig said.

Although performing for small groups at children's birthday parties is a little different than performing in front of thousands at Madison Square Garden, Forbrig doesn't mind.

"I just want to make people laugh," she said.

Fireworks lawsuits may now go to court

FIREWORKS

Faison explained that now plaintiffs and defendants will shift into trial preparation mode. According to Faison these steps may include Pajtas setting dates to hear motions designed to dismiss a claim or party and a pre-trial case evaluation.

The mediation took place July 30 and 31, the second and third days of this year's 71st Annual Venetian Festival, four years after the accident that spurred the lawsuits in question.

The 1997 accident killed former Charlevoix resident Mark Yager and injured at least 15 others when a 12-inch firework exploded in its shell launching shrapnel into the crowd of spectators.

Some defendants have been dismissed since the first plaintiffs filed suit, including: City of Charlevoix Police Chief Dennis Halverson, former city clerk Jo Anne Patrick, the City of Charlevoix and city manager Mike Wiesner, all three of whom Pajtas determined were protected by governmental immunity. Also dismissed was 1997 Venetian Festival chairman, John Taylor, because of a lack of sufficient evidence and Chamber of Commerce director Jacqueline Merta.

Venetian Games draw large crowd

In only the third year, the Venetian Games drew record participation with Games Commissioner Dean Davenport reporting over 2,000 participants.

The popular Jeff Drenth Road Race drew its usual 500 entries with the 3-on-3 basketball and Venetian Cup Regatta each had over 250 participants. Junior golf alone had 150 youngsters at the Carey Cup Venetian tournament with 50 adults also competing. Co-ed volleyball had 5 teams, more than ever, as did tennis with 59 participants. Competition in cottage croquet added another 48 combatants. Soccer had another record tournament with nine age divisions champions and 200 players. Swimming had so many entries that they had to swim 148 heats to crown their champions. New events, disc golf and sporting clays combined for 100 competitors. With Bingo in the Park participants estimated, the total closed in on 2,000.

"The impressive point is that nearly 95 percent are local sport enthusiasts," Davenport added.

The soccer tournament had so many teams that a second night was needed to complete the schedule.

At the Community Pool, Event Director, Al Gooch reported a good turnout with local swimmers participating in 41 different events.

Golf was a popular event with 150 junior and 50 adults entering the competition. The following emerging as champions of the Carey Venetian Cup:

- 8-9 Little Linkers-Boy's Champion-Kyle Parker and Ryan Halloran with Ellie McFalls winning the Girl's title.
- 10-11 Flight-Boys Nate Triplehorn, Girls-Kara Parker and Becca Madison tied.
- 12-13 Flight-Ivan Park won the Boys while Zita Anderson and Kendra Spencer tied.
- 14 and Up Flight-Allen Brooks won the Boys with Megan Cahill winning the Girls.

In the adult division winners were:

- Men's Championship Flight-Scott Blechl
- Men's first Flight-Jeff Kirby
- Women's Championship-Fran Marschner

The winner in the co-ed beach volleyball tournament was InDesign of Charlevoix with players Sara Blair, Kyle Kornoely, Blanca Lopez, Chris Seymour, Kelly Spoolstra, and Chris Kowal on the winning team.

With a record number of entries in the Venetian Regatta, the overall winner was GOTCHA. Tennis also had a record turnout. Here are the winners in the various age and skill flights:

grade English teacher, had a fourth child, Matthew and the rest is history.

Now, 14 years later he is ready for a change.

One of the many responsibilities

the assistant principal takes on is school disciplinary and Kanine said his philosophy of discipline is founded on consistency.

"The one thing about discipline is that it has to be consistent and it has to be fair. I want to make sure the staff, the students and the parents are aware of the policy and then I'll try and make sure I'm consistent and fair in monitoring the process," he said.

However, he said the new position is less intimidating than it could be — Haske blazed a smooth trail.

"One huge advantage is what Keith (Haske) has done. He shaped the position to where it is not looked on as adversarial," he said.

He added that he brings with him a second advantage too — he knows most of the students. He has taught the vast majority of the kids and knows them by name.

As he juggles athletics and discipline he also plans to keep up on teaching skills. He plans to continue attending education conferences and seminars to better serve the high school staff.

While Haske served as assistant principal, he was also commonly scene in the gym directing a crew of high topped hoopsters.

Sturock said that Haske will continue to coach the boys varsity basketball team who he has lead to three consecutive district championships.

"I think we filled both administrative positions with great people," Sturock said.

thers and Sons emerged the winners in Recreation A. The Men's Top Competition winner was "The Dennis."

er. Davenport praised the many men and women that served as event managers and those that worked at the many tournaments as judges, scorers, referees and umpires.

"It is remarkable that so many participants, spectators, and officials take the pride in our Community to ensure that the Venetian Games are a wonderful experience for all," he said.

Braun to play 100 holes for Junior Golf again

Last summer when Belvedere Golf Club Professional, Steve Braun, played 100 holes of golf in one day, he raised over $4,000 for the Charlevoix County Junior Golf Program.

It was part of the PGA of America's annual fund raiser for junior golf. He's about to tee it up and go again. The event is scheduled for Aug. 20 at the Belvedere Club Course with his first shot slated to begin at 6:30 a.m.

Braun, who has spent the last eleven years in Charlevoix, four at Dunmaglas, and the last seven at the Belvedere Course, has been pleased with the generous pledges from the Belvedere members and those from local residents.

He hopes others interested in area youngsters will contact him at 547-2611.

"A pledge for so much a hole is all we're asking and the cause is a great one," he said.

Dean Davenport, who organized and directs the local Junior Golf Program, expressed gratitude for Braun's efforts.

"Our only public fund-raiser has been the Supe Classic coming up in late August. With the money Steve raised last year, we were able to send six youngsters to the Ferris State week long golf camp, and when coupled with the Supe Classic revenue, we are able to be solvent and balance our operating budget. Steve's been a key instructor on our staff and his dedication and interest in area juniors is inspiring to everyone connected to our program," he said.

Plans are being organized to provide Steve with a caddy/cart driver for each nine holes he plays in order to conserve his energy.

Adults from the Junior Golf Mentoring program have volunteered and tradition calls for long time Belvedere member and centurion, J. Huston Witherspoon to drive the final hole.

Those seeking more information may call Davenport at 547-6433 or contact Braun at the Belvedere Golf Club. Fans may view the golf marathon by stopping by the course as Steve's scores are posted as he finishes each round.

Venetian fireworks and boat parades of the past

Marilyn Boss
'Days gone by'

As I sat and watched the marvelous fireworks display last Friday night, I let past memories flood over me. I felt so content to be here in Charlevoix, enjoying this spectacular show.

The weather was beautiful and the crowd was fascinated by the beauty of the rainbow of colors continuously lighting the night sky. We were in a spot close to the barge and it seemed as if the display was put on just for us.

The fact that in a little town, the people care enough to give to make this possible, is a real plus. Thank you to all of you who contributed to make it such a superb event.

We have been to Expo '67 in Montreal, Disneyland and Disney World, and have seen the fireworks in various cities and felt this was the finest display we have ever witnessed anywhere.

The first boat festival in town was in 1929, known as the annual boat regatta. The city council authorized the amount of $250 to underwrite the cost. The regatta consisted of power boat racing and was organized and promoted by what was then called The Charlevoix Boat Club.

Later, the Charlevoix Marine Club sponsored the Venetian Boat parade, begun in 1931. About this time, the Charlevoix Board of Commerce was formed and the parade was sponsored by this organization.

Up until 1958, the boat parade and fireworks were displayed on Sunday night and the quality of the parade had run down due to the fact that people that lived and worked in the city had to go home on Sunday afternoon to be at work on Monday morning.

Dale's cousin, the late Frank Boss, was on the city council at the time and convinced the committee who ran the two day festival to change the boat parade and fireworks to Saturday night. He told them that for religious reasons, he would like to see it changed and he would head up the festival and prove to them that for business reasons it would be a much more successful event, which it was.

I recall, when I was a little girl, watching the fireworks from the top of south Bridge Street hill, and seeing a display of the head of Uncle Sam one year and a huge American flag another year. I recall during one boat parade when the Chicago Club made a huge display on a big yacht, of a re-creation of the Chicago fire.

There were many interesting themes through the years and there was competition among the boaters to make their boats the best, due to monetary prizes awarded.

In 1964, the Couples Club at the Reformed Church decided to try their hand. The late Roy Raymer, owner of Wilflow Corporation, supplied his yacht to build a theme for the boat parade. We had our A frame under construction and we built a huge blue whale, 48 feet long in the living and dining which were open to the ceiling. The whale had jaws that opened and shut and Jonah was in the mouth, with his feet sticking out. The whale's spout spouted water and the tail wagged back and forth. We won not only first place, but also best of show.

The youth group also put together a float for the street parade, with a globe that turned around, powered by Terry Boss, who was under it turning it by hand as it went down the street. They also built an open Bible on the float and we won first prize in the parade.

Then, our family took a four wheeled horse cart and put plywood around it, sawing windows in the sides, with bars. We put the letters "Charlevoix Loonie Bin" on the side, painted it white and attached saws and various instruments used in operations to the sides.

Dale and I walked behind as Dr. Racy and Dr. Pildare, with white shirts turned backwards to look like doctor uniforms. I had chicken parts, with catsup all over them in a clear bag hanging from my belt. Our son, Bo, was inside the cart peering out of the bars and Sharon and Kathy, our girls, were dressed up as nurses, carrying a stretcher. Jim, our son, and our daughter, Kay, were walking, dressed like inmates that belonged in the wagon and Diane, our daughter, was on crutches. All were costumed in white. Ike, Dale's brother, carried a shotgun, guarding the outfit, with a white banner hanging down that said, "Bang!" We won second place.

In recalling this idea, we would not have done it today, but at the time, it was acceptable. I don't know how we did it all, in building three floats, but that year was a great one, and we all did our best to make it that way.

During the early fifties, there were some lean years and it was difficult to get boat owners interested in participating in the parade. One of the reasons was because candles and Japanese lanterns were used for lighting effects.

This caused a great deal of work for the boat owners in cleaning the wax off the decks, and if any wind developed during the parade, it created a safety hazard. It must be remembered that most of the yachts in that era had varnished, mahogany decks, and the wax from the candles, and the ashes coming down from the fireworks if the wind was just right, would make a mess out of a beautiful wood deck.

The queen competition originated in 1935, as part of the Charlevoix Homecoming and Centennial. The first queen was the late Marge Carey, who later became Mrs. S.E. Coleman. Today, we are fortunate to have Dan Barron heading up the new festival corporation and several hundred dedicated community minded people planning and carrying out our many events occurring during Venetian Week, making it the successful week it is.

Thanks to all of you for your efforts. We decided to become tourists for the week, and had a wonderful time, being downtown for the events. We had fun seeing old friends, and making new ones, enjoying what has become a homecoming for visitors and natives alike.

School tardy in suit

District's attorneys keep missing deadlines

By JULIE MUSILEK
Staff Writer

Tardiness may cost the school board a day in court.

"They have been late in responding to all interrogatories," Karen Ferguson, from Olson and Bzdok in Traverse City, an attorney involved in a lawsuit filed against the school board, said.

Ferguson and James Olson, who is also litigating the case, specialize in environmental law with the Traverse City firm, Olson and Bzdok, P.C. The two are representing plaintiffs, and Charlevoix residents, Kenneth Staley, Kenneth Richard Tunison, Robert Mossman, Paul Richards and Joseph F. Seidel in their fight against a sewer expansion that will service the new high school being built in Charlevoix's Marion Township.

Superintendent of Charlevoix
Public Schools, John Sturock explained, "The litigation has to do with whether we can use bond proceeds to fund the (sewer extension) project because it wasn't spelled out in the ballot language (when the bond issue was passed)."

Recently, as the case has progressed, school board attorneys Bill Ewald and Judith Lincoln of Braun, Kendrick and Finkbeiner,
P.L.C. of Bay City and Saginaw didn't respond on time to "interrogatories" issued by Olson and Ferguson.

The interrogatories were served by the plaintiff on June 29 and they didn't get a response from either Lincoln or Ewald by the July 27 deadline and as of Aug. 3 still hadn't heard back.

As a result of the oversight by Ewald and Lincoln, Olson and Ferguson issued a motion to compel discovery. Basically, asking for the court to order them to respond.

Cemex cleaning up kiln dust piles

By JULIE MUSILEK
Staff Writer

Charlevoix County Environmental Health Supervisor Larry Leven-good of Northwest Community Health Agency said that the pH of Lake Michigan water located near the Cemex site in Charlevoix may be high enough to burn human skin.

But, Cemex officials decided not to wait for an order from the Michigan Department of Environmental Quality. The company is already cleaning up on-site cement kiln dust (CKD) piles that are con-taminating Lake Michigan.

Levengood said he's happy to hear progress is being made in the clean up effort at Cemex. He explained that the company's past kiln dust disposal practices have taken their toll on the lake.

"There are impacts on the seeps in Lake Michigan where the groundwater and the lake water interface," he said.

Levengood explained that the kiln dust, interfacing with water has lead to a high pH level in the lake water surrounding the site

A life watching the Great Lakes

By JULIE MUSILEK
Staff Writer

Even though the Coast Guard Station has been in Charlevoix for over 100 years most people have no idea what they do on a daily basis.

According to executive petty officer Jimmy Greenlee, who is in charge of personnel at the station, when the crews aren't conducting a search and rescue operation they are busy preparing for one.

However with 104 calls they've responded to this year, spread over their coverage area which extends from Leeland to Cross Village, out past Beaver Island, they have been out on the water quite a bit.

Greenlee said in most cases calls that come in are communications, missing people, tow jobs or people calling for information. But, last week, they were called to an emergency in Leeland after a boat and a raft with six people in it collided.

As a personnel director, Greenlee's daily schedule is pretty normal. Monday through Friday he arrives at the station at 6:30 a.m., a half hour before "liberty" officially expires. Liberty is what the Coast Guardsmen call their off-duty hours.

At 7 a.m. the on-duty crew is at the station ready for action. The Charlevoix station has two six man duty crews who work two days on, two days off with rotating weekends.

Each crew has a duty coxswain, who drives the boat; a duty engineer, who fixes any boat problems; crewmen, an on watch person who handles the radio and a fireman.

In case of emergency, three of the other four individuals are required to man the station's 40 foot boat and two officers can run the 20 foot boat.

After a call comes in, the on-watch crewman contacts the officer in charge, then they head out to the scene.

However, there isn't a crisis every day. But you won't find the men and women on duty shooting pool and pounding back candy bars all day. Slow days require a lot of elbow grease. While the on-watch person, the engineer and the coxswain aren't generally outside buffing, cleaning and mowing, the other three on-duty are.

Monday is "41 Day" when the 41 foot boat is cleaned, Tuesday is "Yard Day" when mowing and exterior maintenance is done, Wednesday is "Rigid Hull Day" when the 21 foot boat gets the works, Thursday is "Building Clean-up Day" when the inside of the station is power scoured and Friday is "Catch Up on Anything That Was Forgotten Day."

Greenlee said weekends are totally dedicated to search and rescue operations as 95 percent of the issues they deal with occur during the weekend.

Winter days aren't quite the same. Instead of practice search and rescue missions on the water, they do them on the ice. Greenlee said sometimes the executive ranks will plan a surprise training rescue the crew is clueless about and they respond as if it is a real case.

As a personnel specialist, Greenlee knows that all work and no play makes for a grumpy crew so they've designated Wednesday mornings as moral boosting "Sports Day." Group activities include: runs, volleyball, softball and golf.

"Anything to do with wellness," he explained.

Greenlee, 26, is originally from Ludington and he and his wife, Nicole, have been in Charlevoix for one year and are currently looking to buy a home.

Greenlee joined the Coast Guard in 1993 for three reasons: One, his grandfather was in the Coast Guard; two, he loves to drive boats and three, the responsibility that is given to young people.

"The Coxswain is in charge of boats worth 100s of thousands of dollars," he said about responsibility.

"I enjoy it, it's a good job. One search and rescue case that works out can be very rewarding. Actually pulling someone out of the water makes you very thankful you have a job like this," he added.

They also handle law enforcement patrol. Greenlee said they randomly pick a time and go out and patrol the water.

OPINIONS

How to annoy others in public places

Jeremy McBain

'Just a thought'

Put down the phone....we have to talk.

And remember to turn off the phone after you put it down. I don't want it ringing in the middle of this.

Yes, you guessed it, I am about to slam on your cellular phone.

It seems everyone has one of these devices pressed next to their head as if it were some life-giving gem in today's world. These machines have invaded our society. Their ringing can be heard in restaurants, during movies, during meetings, in bars and just the other day I was almost run off the road by a reckless driver who was talking on one.

Why in the world do these people need cellular phones? What can be so important?

Not long ago, if someone wanted to get in contact with you, they could call your home or office and leave a message. They had to wait until you received that message before you could call them back.

Was life bad then? No. This system worked perfectly fine, until the cellular phone came along. For some reason, people seem to be afraid of not being in contact with everyone, even if it means disturbing everyone around them.

Have we really come to the point where we need to be in contact with others at all times? I don't think so.

As much as we hate to admit it, nothing is really important enough for the disturbances cellular phones bring into our lives. Sure I will admit they are handy in emergencies, but in places like a theater or restaurant, a ringing phone is a disturbance to others. And you do not look important talking on one of these, you only look like the source of everyone's annoyance.

Additionally, for those people who insist on using one of those cellular phones that are basically a walkietalkie in public — you know, those phones where everyone within a two block radius can hear the conversation — we really do not care to hear this. If you must do this, save a little of your cash and go buy some walkie-talkies from a toy store.

Another cellular attitude I get a real kick out of is this new fashion guys seem to have where they are always carrying around a cellular phone that hangs off their belts, like an old-fashioned gunslinger. I am always waiting for two of these guys to face off in a bar and draw, with the quickest dialer being the winner.

To add more fuel to my argument that cellular phones are useless for most of us is the stress they cause. By carrying around your phone with you at all times, you are just carrying around the stress of work at all times.

Trust me on this one. Stress can only lead to health problems and even problems in relationships. No one wants to hang out with someone who finds the conversation on his or her cellular phone more important than the face-to-face conversation they could be having at that time with their friend or loved one.

Also, think of the stress these phones put on our wallets. The last time I checked, most of those cellular phone plans were not very cheap, especially for something that we really don't need.

Speaking of cost, there is also the cost on our environment.

Every day there seems to be a new cellular phone tower popping up over our horizon, clogging up the view. If someone is going to put up an ugly thing like a tower, it should at least be useful, like an electricity producing wind turbine.

Then there is safety. Think of how many accidents have been caused by people talking on their cellular phones while driving. It is dangerous to for you and others to talk on the phone at 70 miles per hour. I bet you would think that conversation you had on the cellular phone while driving would seem a lot less important when you are wrapped around a tree.

Cellular phones really are not needed, except in cases of emergency — I will give these phone owners that leeway. But, it is strange to me how just a few years ago cellular

The First Amendment

Congress shall make no law respecting an establishment of religion, or prohibiting the free exercise thereof; or abridging the freedom of speech, or of the press; or the right of the people peaceably to assemble, and to petition the Government for a redress of grievances.

phones were a novelty, and now they are everywhere and people seem to think they can't get along without one.

I say put down that phone and concentrate on the movie, your food, your driving or the friend sitting across the table. Or better yet, leave the thing at home.

Writer learns a new lesson from trees

KNUTSON

with a fungus and I would be better off if I shed them now, rather than waiting for fall."

Sometimes a severe drought will cause a tree to come to the same conclusion about some of its leaves.

The important point here is that the tree is not attempting to repair the leaves. They are too complicated to repair, somewhat like the ignition module on your new car. The tree gets rid of the old non-functional leaves and builds new ones later (probably next year).

Trees have been discarding non-functional parts: leaves, small branches and even invisible roots for millions of years, and I'm still inclined to repair things too complicated for me to understand.

I have taken a lesson from the trees. No more repair. From now on, I discard the inoperative module and plug in a new one. After nearly five decades as a botanist, it is still possible to learn something from plants.

Article response

Editor:

I would like to respond to comments made by John and Charlie Winn in the August 8 article, "Sidewalks issue passes." John Winn was reported to say, "with disgust" that the project will make Belvedere Avenue look like a commercial thoroughfare.

I would like to respond, with disgust, that I believe that John Winn has done more with his lot-line to lot-line and over-the-water to road easement development of his property to give a "commercial thoroughfare" appearance to Belvedere Avenue than any sidewalk ever could.

In regards to Charlie Winn's clever comment that if an ordinance can be passed keeping bikes off the sidewalk why can't an ordinance be passed to keep people out of the street? I completely agree.

However, that would mean the people would need a sidewalk to walk on....wouldn't it?

Michael Jones
Charlevoix

Editorial response

Editor:

My opinion differs from yours as expressed last week (the city's decision regarding the Belvedere sidewalk). As taxpayers, that property belongs to all of us, not solely to the adjacent property owners. A proper sidewalk is far more conducive to pedestrian usage than some law prohibiting walking on the street — which could not be enforced until all sidewalks get plowed anyway. As to the money, it is budgeted and is there for infrastructure and I, for one, am very proud of the city for its continued infrastructure improvements. In that respect, we are head and shoulders ahead of any of the other small cities in our area (and I include Petoskey therein).

To me, the new design seems to offer a viable and attractive compromise, especially as it saves the trees that I would have hated to see cut. A couple citizens objected to the "higher cost" of the "serpentine" sidewalk at the golf course along US-31 and Mercer. Today, all of us in that area think it is pleasant and attractive, particularly where it winds through the woods adjoining Mercer, south of 31. The "higher cost" ended up being but a fraction of one percent! (And well worth it.)

My hat is off to those council members who had the insight and courage to vote for the project.

Thank you

Editor:

I stand amazed at the community of Charlevoix and the friends and neighbors who supported my three day, 60 mile walk for breast cancer research sponsored by Avon. Was it a success? Yes, your financial support totaled more than $6,000!

But, what touched me the most were your notes and calls encouraging me. The inspiring words kept me walking when my feet were hotter than the air which was 119 degrees. The commitment to my supporters kept me from quitting and hitching a ride to camp on each of the three days.

The true heroines, the survivors were who inspired us all. Saying thank you is inadequate so, it is my prayer that your lives will be as touched and fulfilled by your generosity as mine was by the experience of the 2001 Avon Three Day Walk from Fort Collins, Colo. to Boulder, Colo.

Thank you

Editor:

On behalf of Northwest Academy, we would like to thank the following families for hosting the 72 members of the Colne Community School Orchestra and Choir from Essex, England. It was a major commitment of time, energy and sleeping space. All the students and their chaperones reported that they had a great time and really enjoyed being in our area. Thank you to the Dean, Hand, Sanchez, Johnson, Potter, Dutcher, Trip, Goss, Trudeau, Lopez, Zawisza, Marcum, Seidel, Mossman, Smith, Slough, Ziener-Baker, Bellairs, Shaw, Burnett, Stutzman, Staley, Throp, Berlage and Larsen families.

Several of these families do not have students at Northwest Academy and were willing to host the visitors in order to make this time a success for the students.

Relieving oppressive weather in your life

By FR. JIM GUNN, Rector, Christ Episcopal Church, Charlevoix

From talking to a number of people, I think it is safe to say that many have found the recent weather to be oppressive.

The humidity has made me feel like a "limp dishrag," as the old saying goes. Much of the time it has seemed hard to breathe and even hard to move around. My clothes have tended to cling to me like glue and I have found myself mopping my brow every few moments. The moisture has hung in the air like a sodden blanket and the few showers that have descended have done little or nothing to relieve the oppression.

That makes me think of something Jesus said in the Gospel of Matthew (16:2-3): "He replied, 'When evening comes, you say, 'It will be fair weather, for the sky is red,' and in the morning, 'Today it will be stormy, for the sky is red and overcast.' You know how to interpret the appearance of the sky, but you cannot interpret the signs of the times."

What I mean to say is that we find it pretty easy to identify the weather as causing oppression but we often wonder about other causes of oppression.

There are many forces at work in the world today that can give us a feeling of oppression if we are trying to grow in our relationship with God. Most of the values that society in general holds up as important would actually tend to draw us away from God.

Much of the printed and televised advertising would promote greed and, according to Colossians 3:5, that amounts to idolatry: "Put to death, therefore, whatever belongs to your earthly nature: sexual immorality, impurity, lust, evil desires and greed, which is idolatry."

Beacons of Blessing

If we put anything ahead of our love for God and our devotion to Him then we will come under oppression. How do we escape that?

Well, if we wish to escape the oppression of this extremely humid weather, we can turn on the air conditioning. To escape the spiritual oppression of which we spoke, you can turn on the "air conditioning" of the Holy Spirit.

The word in Greek that we translate as Spirit also can mean wind or breath. The Holy Spirit can breathe new life into us and can bring our minds and hearts into line with God. One of my favorite passages in Scripture is Romans 12:1-2: "Therefore, I urge you, brothers, in view of God's mercy, to offer your bodies as living sacrifices, holy and pleasing to God — this is your spiritual act of worship. Do not conform any longer to the pattern of this world, but be transformed by the renewing of your mind. Then you will be able to test and approve what God's will is — his good, pleasing and perfect will." We are renewed internally when we allow the Holy Spirit to transform us instead of just following along in the path that the world sets before us.

Another approach to relieving the oppression of the heat and humidity is to take a dip in a pool or a lake. Another approach to relieving the oppression brought by being surrounded by the things of this world is to immerse yourself in the word of God, the Bible.

A few verses after the passage I quoted from Colossians 3, we have the following words: "Let the peace of Christ rule in your hearts, since as members of one body you were called to peace. And be thankful. Let the word of Christ dwell in you richly as you teach and admonish one another with all wisdom, and as you sing psalms, hymns and spiritual songs with gratitude in your hearts to God. And whatever you do, whether in word or deed, do it all in the name of the Lord Jesus, giving thanks to God the Father through him."

The Word of God is what Paul describes as the Sword of the Spirit in Ephesians 6. It is a powerful weapon which can cut us free from oppression. The power is explained in 2 Corinthians 10:3-5: "For though we live in the world, we do not wage war as the world does. The weapons we fight with are not the weapons of the world. On the contrary, they have divine power to demolish strongholds. We demolish arguments and every pretension that sets itself up against the knowledge of God, and we take captive every thought to make it obedient to Christ."

The weather can change — and often does on a moment's notice! — but the oppression of this world remains constant. May you find your relief from that by letting the Holy Spirit fill you and by immersing yourself in the powerful Word of God.

Marinas, boaters debate expansion

By JULIE MUSILEK
Staff Writer

The proposal to expand Charlevoix's municipal marina is getting mixed reviews from the boating world as this summer's boating season winds down.

The main marina users are boaters and harbor masters and when it comes to the direction the downtown marina should take the two groups aren't on the same page.

Northwest Marine and Yacht Club Harbormaster J. Eric Kammermann said the city should let businesses take care of the need for new docks, not tax dollars.

"I'm against the expansion. If there is a need for boat slips, let private industry take care of it instead of spending tax dollars on it," Kammermann explained.

He added that the season is short, nine weeks, and he thinks the city spending millions of dollars for that short a period is "ridiculous."

Kammermann's biggest day of the season was July 4 when all 20 of Northwest's transient slips, (rented by the day) were full. In fact, throughout most of the summer, these transient docks have been in use.

At both Northwest and the Irish Boat Shop and Marina, when private docks are not in use they become transient. Northwest charges $45 per night for a 30 foot slip and $60 per night for a 40 foot slip.

Even though Kammermann is anti-marina expansion, Northwest Marine boat slip owner Dan Fair from Troy said he has been coming here for eight years and the lack of boat docking at the municipal marina has always been a sore spot for him.

Fair thinks merchants and boaters would benefit from an expansion.

"When the downtown is full, people come here (Northwest Marine.) When we are full where does a boater go? So they don't stay," he said.

Fair said some of his co-workers in Troy who have boats on Lake St. Clair won't come back to Charlevoix because there was nowhere for them to dock during their last trip.

He said because of the city dock's "first-come, first-serve" policy, it is too hard for boaters to plan a vacation. There is no flexibility.

"These people come up, ready to spend $1,500 on fuel for their boat and there is nowhere to put it. So they don't come," he said.

The Fair family bought the Northwest slip two years ago and only go back to the city docks for short shopping excursions.

"We (the Fair family) use the city marina when it's available," Fair said. "As boat owners I think the expansion is a good idea. It just needs to be a little bigger. As a shop or a store owner, I would really be pushing for those docks."

Patrick Secretan of Irish said that like Northwest, their marina has been booked pretty solid this summer. Irish has between 20 and 25 transient slips.

Secretan said spring usually isn't nearly as packed as it is in the heat of July and August. And, this July and August, the Irish staff has been on hand to help boaters tie up so they can "pinch boats in tighter."

Irish Marina general manager Jack Hodge agreed with his summer employee and said, "Transient traffic has been strong this summer."

Secretan also pointed out a few bonuses to docking at a private marina like Irish as opposed to the downtown marina. That is the same flexibility Fair referred to. If you want to take your boat out and return to the slip you had at Irish and Northwest, you can do that, but at the downtown marina, it is every man for himself.

Irish charges $1.75 per foot per night to stay at the marina.

Hodge said that if the marina is expanded, Irish's business will most likely feel it.

"I have to believe it would affect us some," he said.

New librarian picked at board meeting, Aug 9

By JULIE MUSILEK
Staff Writer

After an uncertain couple of months the Charlevoix Public Library Board of Trustees unanimously agreed to hire Valerie Meyerson, 37, of Commerce Township to be the new library director.

Going into the second round of interviews that took place at the board's regular public meeting Aug. 9, many of the trustees were leaning towards Michele Montague of Grand Rapids. But, after asking a few more questions they discovered Meyerson better fit the experience and character profile they were in search of.

"Things went differently in this interview. Val did a great job of showing us her capabilities, she seemed more relaxed," board president Rick Brandt said.

He added that the real clincher for him was her discussion of programs she had implemented at the Wixom Public Library where she worked for seven-and-a-half years prior to taking a part time job with the Southeast Michigan Coalition on the Environment and Jewish Life (SEMCOEJL.)

Programs she implemented at the Wixom library included the 1992 summer reading package that followed a music theme, a children's story hour and an adult reading club.

Meyerson said that the Wixom library services a similar community as Charlevoix and this may help her adjust to her new position.

She said she excels in getting the job done, organizing and working with the public.

She added that one of her struggles while at the Wixom library was a conflict she had with the mayor who was not supportive of her view of library services.

"I had to bite my tongue a lot. That's how we resolved my relationship with the mayor there (in Wixom)," she said.

having her first child, Jeremiah, who is now 4 years old.

"The decision to leave Wixom stemmed from my pregnancy. I took a three month maternity leave and came back part-time after six months

Bank may change names

By JEREMY MCBAIN
Editor

The recent trend across the state of bank mergers and acquisitions is coming to Charlevoix.

Recently, North Country Bank and Trust, of Traverse City, announced it would be buying several Standard Federal bank branches in northern Michigan, including Charlevoix's branch, located near the corner of M-66 and Bridge Street. Of course, this move is subject to federal approval.

"Those branches are right in the market area that North Country Bank and Trust wants to be a dominate player," said Phil Callaghan, spokesperson for the company.

North Country Bank and Trust will be buying Standard Federal branches in Charlevoix, Gaylord, Houghton Lake, Petoskey and Rogers City. Additionally, the company is buying a Michigan National Bank branch office in Traverse City.

The acquisition is expected to take place by January 2002.

Callaghan said there are no plans to lay-off any workers at the Charlevoix branch.

With the acquisition, North Country Bank and Trust will be getting about $90 million in deposits that are currently housed in these Standard Federal branches. Callaghan said this increases the banks' capabilities in terms of lending.

According to Ron Ford, North Country Bank and Trust chairman and CEO, this acquisition will not affect any loans Standard Federal customers have. Those loans will still be maintained by Standard Federal.

Current Standard Federal customers at the Charlevoix branch will be receiving a new ATM card and checkbooks once the acquisition is official. It is not known at this time what changes will be made to checking and savings accounts under the new bank and if there will be any fee changes.

Officials at Standard Federal could not be reached for comment by press time.

Upon completion of this move, North Country Bank and Trust will have 32 offices located throughout the Upper Peninsula and lower northern Michigan.

CRYSTAL SKULL

Eerie & Mysterious... the Crystal Skull

Amazing & controversial, few will argue that ancient crystal skulls are true enigmas. Who made them? How & why were they made? Whatever their origins, there's no doubt they fascinate. Hailed as a marvel by those who have examined it, 2001 is the first U.S. exhibition of this genuine, life-sized artifact. You've seen them on T.V. -- be sure to take this once in a lifetime opportunity to see one for yourself.

How To Kill A BUSINESS ... in ten easy steps

1. Don't Advertise
Just pretend everybody knows what you have to offer.
2. Don't Advertise
Tell yourself you just don't have time to spend thinking about promoting your business.
3. Don't Advertise
Just assume everybody knows what you sell.
4. Don't Advertise
Convince yourself that you've been in business so long customers will automatically come to you.
5. Don't Advertise
Forget that there are new potential customers who would do business with you if they were reminded.
6. Don't Advertise
Forget that you have competition trying to attract your customers away from you.
7. Don't Advertise
Tell yourself it costs too much to advertise and that you don't get enough out of it.
8. Don't Advertise
Overlook the fact that advertising is an investment in selling ... not an expense.
9. Don't Advertise
Be sure not to provide an adequate advertising budget for your business.
10. Don't Advertise
Forget that you have to keep reminding your established customers that you appreciate their business.

My Sister's Closet has a new owner

By JEREMY MCBAIN
Editor

After working at My Sister's Closet part-time, Patricia Dillon liked the store so much, she bought it.

As of May 22, Dillon, of Charlevoix, has been the new owner of the name-brand consignment clothing shop located at 1207 Bridge Street in Charlevoix.

"I just really liked the atmosphere and the people and doing this type of thing," Dillon said.

Under her ownership, Dillon said the store will continue to sell "high quality" and name-brand consignment clothing, including women's clothing, purses, shoes and belts at "very reasonable" prices — in some cases at a fraction of the original cost. Some of the brands she already has in her store are Anne Klein, Gucci, Nine West and Jones of New York among others.

While consignment clothing is pre-owned, to be accepted at My Sister's Closet, clothing must be in style, in excellent condition and be name-brand, Dillon said.

Dillon, who was born and raised in Charlevoix, is a member of several different area organizations. She is president of the Veterans of Foreign War Auxiliary, secretary of the Legion Auxiliary, vice president of the Eagles, member of the Jordan River Arts Council and past member of the Barnard Grange.

She has two daughters, Katherine Dillon-Gambill and Christine Dillon-Daavid, both of California.

My Sister's Closet is open year-round from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m., Monday through Friday and 10 a.m. to 3 p.m. on Saturday. For more information, call 547-7350.

The business will have its grand opening under its new owner during Charlevoix's sidewalk sale days this week.

Michigan Room to have open house on Aug. 22

Mary Carney, owner of First Edition Bookstores in Muskegon Heights and Moran will be the featured guest when the Friends of the Charlevoix Public Library invite the community to come see the newly refurbished Michigan Room from 5 p.m. to 7 p.m. Aug. 22.

Carney will also be looking at the public's old or rare books and offering her opinion as to their monetary value.

The Michigan Room contains a number of rare and out-of-print books from donated collections of local authors and local residents in addition to historical documents, histories, biographies and Charlevoix High School yearbooks.

Light refreshments will be served.

The Charlevoix Public Library is located at 109 Clinton Street. For more information contact Cynthia Postmus at (231) 547-9754.

Learn to write your life story

Barbara Garypie, a seasoned lecturer from Marshall, will be teaching the public how to write their own life stories.

Garypie will be offering a special program on the subject of writing your spiritual journal at the First Congregational Church UCC at 1 p.m., Sept. 5.

This is the September meeting of the Women's Fellowship and because of the ability of this woman to help others put their thoughts on paper the fellowship is opening the meeting to all women in the community.

All you need to bring with you is paper, writing tools and a mind open to the idea that you can learn how to write your own story.

Call the church office if you plan to attend at (231) 547-9122.

Rod Smith clan met for reunion

A family reunion of the Rod Smith clan took place July 18-22 at the home of Smith's daughter, Joanne Carlson of Clark Road in Charlevoix.

The reunion was also hosted by a second daughter of Smith, Michael Williams of Florida and Norman Smith's grandson and his wife Lisa Carlson of Charlevoix.

In all, approximately 80 Smith descendants attended the reunion along with 15 close family friends. The group came from all over the country including: California, Washington, Texas, Maine, North Carolina, Florida and parts of Michigan.

While they were here they enjoyed boating, canoeing, fishing, movies, the Charlevoix Arts and Craft Exhibit and good conversations with others they met for the first time.

On July 21 a day-long picnic took place at the Ferry Beach pavilion on Lake Charlevoix which prompted many remarks about what a beautiful place Charlevoix is.

Patriarch Rod Smith has seven children, 25 grandchildren, 28 great-grandchildren and one great-great grandchild.

One highlight of the event was the presence of five generations.

Plans for a future reunion are already in the making.

Lifeguard competition given at Ferry Beach

On Aug. 4 the Charlevoix Area Community Pool hosted the 1st Annual Charlevoix Community Lifeguard Competition at Ferry Beach.

Area lifeguards competed in the following events: distance swim, submerged object retrieval, active drowning victim, run and swim event and a ring buoy toss. The lifeguards were judged on their skill, performance and time.

King of the beach was Justin Kelley and two females tied for queen of the beach. They were Libby Campbell and Tiffany Resch.

Kelley and Campbell won the team event.

Lifeguard competitions are a great way for lifeguards to practice their rescuing techniques in a simulated setting. The requirements to be a lifeguard are skill perfection and hours of practice.

If you are interested in becoming a lifeguard call the Charlevoix Area Community Pool at (231) 547-0982 for class information.

A community donation has been made so the pool is able to offer a September course for $70.

Prayer meeting to be at Safe Harbor Baptist

The Charlevoix County Jesus Video Project will host a prayer meeting at Safe Harbor Baptist Church in Charlevoix from 7 p.m. to 8:30 p.m., Aug. 18.

All faiths and all churches in Charlevoix County are invited to attend. A love offering will be taken and offered to the Jesus Video Project.

The project is an organization of Christians of all faiths and denominations who are attempting to provide a copy of the Jesus video to each household in Charlevoix County.

Safe Harbor is located south of Charlevoix at 06046 Old US-31 south near the intersection of US-31. For more information call the church at (231) 547-6283.

HEALTH

A dentist can help your teeth become beautiful

John Merrill, D.D.S.

'Your health'

According to statistics gathered by the American Dental Association, 1998 was the first year where the single most common reason to visit the dentist was for some cosmetic reason. This is a trend that continues to increase.

As the American public continues to ask more from their dentists in esthetic services, today's dentist is also challenged to keep abreast of the nearly constant improvement in materials and techniques. From tooth whitening, to composite or porcelain veneers, to complete smile makeovers, technology has improved the final results in dramatic fashion.

Completed properly, today's dentistry is truly undetectable. No more dark fillings or black lines around crowns, no more opaque or darkened or worn-out looking teeth.

It is truly exciting what is available today. So where do you start? If you already have a dentist, ask them what options you might have. Many offer cosmetic imaging, intra-oral mockups, or rebuilding models of your teeth to preview what might be available choices for you.

Surveys indicate that more of us look at another person's smile before we look at anything else. The attractiveness of a smile correlates strongly with success in the workplace, in promotions and in social confidence. The value of a great smile is indeed priceless.

If you are connected with the internet, log on to the American Academy of Cosmetic Dentistry at www.aacd.com. This is the flagship professional organization for dentists and the public interested in cosmetic dentistry.

I have spent the last three years in their accreditation program and was successful in completing and passing their rigorous requirements this last May in Boston. Dentistry is a wonderful and challenging profession. Northern Michigan is blessed to have many fine and conscientious dentists to help you to a better smile.

So I encourage you to look in the mirror.

Does your new smile fit you? Is it bright and youthful? Does it give you confidence? If not, I encourage you to give yourself a gift - the gift of a brighter and better smile.

Dr. John A. Merrill can be contacted by calling his office, located at 06483 M-66 in Charlevoix, by calling 547-9141.

Healthy cooking

More than 60 people came to hear cookbook author Deanna House (left) talk about the benefits of eating soy and to learn from her cooking demonstration at Charlevoix Area Hospital Aug. 9. House gave a presentation on healthy eating in April at the hospital and due to popular demand returned to educate people on soy products and cooking with tofu. She demonstrated four recipes and finished with allowing the audience to sample them. Her presentation was arranged by the Community Relations Committee of the hospital's Development Council. House is from Ada, Michigan, and can be reached at dhouse@iserv.net. (Photo courtesy of Charlevoix Area Hospital.)

Be careful what you use to get big muscles

Sports supplements may be a quick fix to add muscle, speed and bulk. But, physicians at the University of Michigan Health System say there's no telling what the long-term effects of over-the-counter powders and pills will be on the body.

"A major problem with many supplements is the fact that they're not controlled by the government," Edward Wojtyls, M.D., director of the U-M Health System's MedSport and associate professor of orthopedic surgery at the U-M Medical School said. "So many times when you buy something off the shelf, you really don't know what you are putting into your body. And to me that's very scary."

Athletes using steroids or hormones to add muscle are playing an even more dangerous game with their health Wojtyls said. And concerns are growing.

One study completed by the National Institute on Drug Use reported that adolescent use of steroids is on the rise.

Sports enhancers, or ergogenics, include everything from steroids, to hormones and supplements. They are substances that can improve athletic performance and make muscles work more efficiently.

"The over-the-counter supplements can be as dangerous as a controlled substance," Wojtyls said. "That's important to recognize, that many of these things have not been studied adequately. We don't have long-term studies on what they do to the body. So it is really a bit like playing Russian Roulette."

As athletes prepare for fall sports seasons, coaches, parents and friends should keep an eye out for the signs of support supplement use.

"When you see an athlete who gains 20 pounds of muscle mass very quickly, over a couple months in the summer, while that doesn't have to be steroid use, it certainly could be. And, if there's any doubt, a physician's exam and drug test would be the way to go," Wojtyls said.

Wojtyls said he and his colleagues regularly see patients who use Creatine, a legal substance sold at many health product stores. Some studies show that under the right conditions

Creatine can augment muscle function and improve performance.

"The problem with Creatine is we have only short-term knowledge of what it does. What something like Creatine will do to an athlete in the long-term is completely unknown," Wojtyls said.

One of the more recent studies on Creatine shows alarming results. According to Wojtyls, when Creatine is processed by the body, it forms formaldehyde, a very toxic substance, often used as a preservative that can damage everything from artery walls to muscle.

U-M physicians also see patients who use Glucosamine and Chondroitin, also legal substances found at health food stores. Those are often used by older people to protect joints, damaged knees and shoulders. Based on what researchers know so far, Glucosamine and Chondroitin won't do any harm to the body.

"The bad news is there is little to no documented benefit to using them," Wojtyls said.

It's a well known fact that, if bulging muscles are the goal, steroids will do the job.

"The problem is you have to balance the risks versus the benefits. If you look at the risks of long-term steroid use, it's unbelievable how dangerous it is. There are very few people who would choose that route knowing what they are up against," Wojtyls said.

In addition to muscle building, steroids can cause other side effects which include altered hair growth patterns throughout the body and acne or other cosmetic problems. It can also cause a significant change in a person's voice.

No Boundaries Regatta has successful start

A. Nony Mouse

'Yachting notes'

The Very Successful First Annual No Boundaries Regatta saw 29 boats start, after a one-hour postponement.

With just 2 knots of air, the boats crowded the starting line, but quickly spread out in pursuit of SPAR WARS II as he rounded the first mark. The wind filled in from the Northwest and the lake was filled with colorful sails as the racers made their way to the entry of the south arm of Lake Charlevoix.

Those lunching at The Landings or waiting for the Ironton Ferry were able to view the boats and, once again, SPAR WARS II, led the way around the mark. Once around the mark the racers began their beat to windward with about 10 knots of air.

Overall Winners: JAM: FLASH — Spinnaker: SPAR WARS II. JAM Div. 1: CHEEMAUN, APOTHECARY, ISLAND TIME, JUST BETWEEN US and STALWORTH.

JAM Div. 2: FLASH, WIND EMBLE, ECLIPSE, WINDSWEEP, KELLY and AWE-SOME.

Spinnaker Div. 3: OUR THYME II, ORIGINAL SIN, CABARET and ARTEMIS.

Spinnaker Div. 4: SPAR WARS II, SUPERFLUOUS, SCURRY, CRAZY HORSE, POCO LOCO, FLING, HOG TIDE and WHAT'S HER NAME.

Spinnaker Div. 5: SLAPSHOT, HOI POLLOI, HOOTIE, WINDRUNNER and FLYING MA-CHINE.

After the race everyone went to the club for the Pig Roast and Awards Presentations. The race and the Pig Roast were hosted by the Charlevoix Yacht Club and sponsored by Pat McKeown Ford. Many thanks to all who participated and helped make this event so successful.

CYC Summer Series: The J-22 Fleet led the way by several minutes as II RECKLESS (1:21:07) crossed the line just before 7:19 with HUSSY, FIRST DATE and SUPERFLUOUS, only seconds back. Trailing were PALEFACE

LITE, ROCK STEADY, EAU DE VIE, CRAZY HORSE, SCURRY, HIGH MAINTENANCE, NO NAME YET, SWINE FLEW, HOG-TIDE, WHAT'S HER NAME and BANZAI.

The JAM Fleet, led by FLASH (1:26:53) had a close finish with CHEEMAUN just seconds behind. APOTHECARY and POCO LOCO were back a bit. Next was the P-26 CYGNUS (1:27:26) by two seconds over TIRELESS. ORIGINAL SIN, LOST VERMONT and SANDPIPER trailed.

Spinnaker I honors went to SLAPSHOT (1:28:42) with HOI POLLOI one second back and GOTCHA another seven later. HOOTIE and WINDRUNNER lagged. Spinnaker II saw Babe (1:28:49) comfortably ahead of J HAWK and BALD EAGLE, who lead SAFFRON by a good bit.

Sunfish: With several regulars out-of-town on Aug. 5, the Race Committee had the pleasant job of starting all female racers for this, the third race day of the Summer Series. Light but steady air prevailed and with four races in; Suzy was first, Corinne second and Lisa Curry third (thanks to a last race charge to edge both Nancy and her mother, Wynne).

On Aug. 12, the skippers enjoyed a steady wind for the fourth of the five race series. It started with Gina taking first with her new boat! Overall with four races sailed by six boats Tom managed a first by one point over Josh, Suzy was third. Come out next Sunday for the last scheduled race!

No room for the Standings or Nautical Trivia — next week, we promise!

Charlevoix Yacht Club Aug. 17 hosts — Robbin and Laura Seriguchi. We hope to see you then.

Yachting Notes is submitted each week during the summer months by the Charlevoix Yacht Club. To contact the club, see its website at www.charlevoixyachtclub.org or call 547-9170.

Jordan Valley Trails Council
 P.O. Box 1238 • East Jordan, MI • 231-536-7351

As all of us are in the midst of warm weather and the activities that are the essence of summer, it may seem out of place to discuss snowmobiling, but we would like to take a moment to do it anyway. The Jordan Valley Trails Council (formerly the Charlevoix County Snowmobile Council) is the trail sponsor for our area's trail system. Our organization is responsible for the implementation of State of Michigan snowmobile program specifics and trail grooming. Our system is 77 miles long and last season alone, we groomed 10,586 miles, logging 1,549 hours in our equipment.

While the majority of our effort is performed by volunteers, we are fortunate to have assistance from area business. These progressive businesses recognize the importance and value recreational opportunity has on this area's economy and quality of life, and choose to commit valuable resources to our program. Their assistance makes the trail system that we enjoy regularly one of the finest in the state.

Please review the following list of corporate contributors and the next time you see members of their staff, let them know how much you appreciate what they do. Better yet, demonstrate your appreciation by looking to them first for products or services they provide.

Junior Golf board discusses season

Another successful season of junior golf for Charlevoix area youngsters drew to a close with the annual Drive/Chip/Putt contest that took place at the Belvedere course.

In addition, the governing board of the juniors welcomed two new members and the annual mentors scramble and honors luncheon marked the official end to the 2001 season.

Marty Joy, the Belvedere assistant teaching professional managed the final event and reported that Allen Brooks hit a 214 yard drive to win the long drive contest for the 14 and up age bracket. Mike Graham wasn't far behind, he hit a 204 yard drive to win longest drive in the 12-13-year-old group.

In the chipping part of the contest Brooks beat Mitchell Klooster in a special tie breaker play off and Graham took the title again this year in his group, beating Kelsy Dulaney in a play off.

Brooks was also all over the green and finished on top of the group in putting, edging out Michael Russell.

Both Graham and Brooks won the overall championship for their age with their fine showing.

were welcomed by board president Dennis LaCroix as the board met to review the 2001 summer season. Executive director Dean Davenport reported that 144 boys and 56 girls registered for the seven week season. Special mention was made of the 55 eight and nine-year-olds whose progress and interest was outstanding and the large number, 38 11-year-olds and 38 12-year-olds enrolled in the program.

There was some concern expressed over the large number of juniors enrolled that were from outside the Charlevoix County boundaries but no action was taken. Davenport pointed out how each of the three local courses contributes in unique ways toward the program's success.

"The country club provides us with free beverages at our pizza party held at the club's pool and allows us to store our loaner bags and carts as well as teaching tools during the off season," Davenport said.

In addition the club has hosted the Mentor's Scramble, that recognizes the work of volunteers, for the past three years. The junior golfers also play the country club course and use the range and teaching stations four times during the summer.

Big salmon caught by local man

After a long, hot day working at Grand Bay Marine in Charlevoix on Aug. 5 - Dan Gage and Sue Gnatkowski invited fellow employee Joe Medor, of Fenton, to go fishing on their boat after work. Little did the trio expect that they would capture one of the biggest salmon this area has seen in quite some time.

While Gage set the hook on the fish, he handed the rod over to Medor to reel the whopper in while Gnatkowski drove the boat. After a 45 minute battle on 10 lb. test line, Gage netted the 41 pound fish. He had to climb over the downrigger board and onto the swim platform of his boat as the testy salmon wrapped himself around the downrigger cable.

The huge fish measures 40 inches in length, had a girth of 30 inches.

Medor had never caught a fish of this size before. The fish was caught in Lake Michigan outside of Charlevoix at 8:45 p.m.

Junior Golf golf camp winners announced

The Municipal Course isn't open to the public during two tournaments and has allowed advanced players that pass the written and practical tests free golf when they play with an adult. In addition, the junior golfers play the course four different times during the course of the season.

The Belvedere contributes by allowing advanced players free play on four Sunday evenings and has helped make the mentor program work by granting a five play with companion certificate for mentors that work more than five junior sessions. The junior golfers are at the Belvedere four times each season too.

Davenport also recognized Dunmaglas and Antrim Dells courses that invited the juniors out to their courses once during the program.

The two fundraisers that fund the program will take place this August. Belvedere pro, Steve Braun plays a golf marathon Aug. 20, attempting to play 100 holes in one day with pledges going directly to Junior Golf.

On Aug. 29 the Belvedere hosts the Supe Classic Scramble with proceeds going to support Junior Golf. Anyone interested in additional information can contact Davenport at (231) 547-6433.

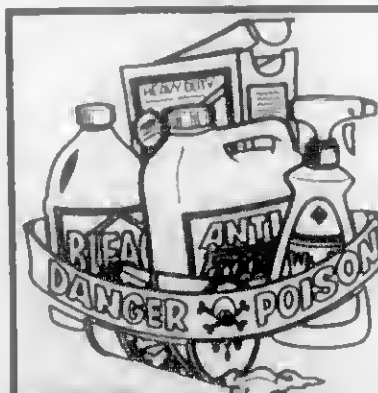

The annual mentors luncheon and scramble this summer attracted 23 golfers and 35 for lunch. The program honored two scholarships — six juniors were awarded scholarships to the week-long golf camp that takes place at Ferris State University. The six are: Kendra Spencer, Gavin Mahoney, J.D. Thomason, Kelsey Dulaney, Adam Wager and Lor Powers.

The board also awarded its second College Book Scholarship to a former Junior Golfer that was an excellent role model for young golfers and excelled on the golf course. Craig Siwarga, who graduated from Charlevoix High School in June, and is attending the University of Michigan at Flint this fall was the recipient.

CITY OF CHARLEVOIX Ordinance No. 667 of 2001

AN ORDINANCE TO ADD A NEW SECTION 15a WHICH IS THE DEFINITION OF A BUILDING LINE, TO RENUMBER THE EXISTING SECTION 5.5 (15a) TO 5.5 (15b), TO AMEND THE DEFINITION OF WIDTH IN SECTION 5.8 (11)(d), TO CLARIFY THE WORDING REGARDING MINIMUM LOT AREA AND WIDTH IN SECTIONS 5.33, 5.43 AND 5.48, TO CLARIFY WORDING IN SECTION 5.226 REGARDING NON-CONFORMING LOTS OF RECORD, AND TO AMEND SECTION 5.256 TO ALLOW THE ZONING BOARD OF APPEALS TO GRANT EXTENSIONS FOR THE IMPLEMENTATION OF VARIANCES.

THE CITY OF CHARLEVOIX ORDAINS:

SECTION 1. Renumbering and Replacement of Section 5.5 (15a) and the Addition of 5.5 (15b), Article II, Chapter 51.

A. The current Section 5.5 (15a) is renumbered as 5.5 (15b).

B. A new Section 15a is added and shall read in its entirety as follows:

Building Line: A line defining the minimum front, side and rear yards required by this ordinance.

SECTION 2. Repeal and Replacement of Section 5.8 (11) (d), Article II, Chapter 51.

Section 5.8 (11)(d) is hereby repealed and replaced with new wording which shall read in its entirety as follows:

WIDTH: The width measured along the front lot line or street line. In the case where a curvilinear street pattern or other circumstance results in irregularly shaped lots with nonparallel side lot lines, the width measured at the building line.

SECTION 3. Repeal and Replacement of Section 5.33(1), Article IV, Chapter 51.

Section 5.33(1) is hereby repealed and replaced with a new Section 5.33(1) which shall read in its entirety as follows:

(1) Minimum lot area and width: The minimum lot area and width in this zone shall be twelve thousand (12,000) square feet and one hundred (100) feet respectively. The building end/or structures shall not use more than thirty percent (30%) of the usable lot area.

SECTION 4. Repeal and Replacement of Section 5.43(1), Article IV, Chapter 51.

Section 5.43(1) is hereby repealed and replaced with a new Section 5.43(1) which shall read in its entirety as follows:

(1) Minimum lot area and width: The minimum lot area and width in this zone shall be nine thousand (9,000) square feet and seventy (70) feet respectively. The building and/or structure shall not use more than thirty percent (30%) of the usable lot area.

SECTION 5. Repeal and Replacement of Section 5.48(1), Article IV, Chapter 51.

Section 5.48(1) is hereby repealed and replaced with a new Section 5.48(1) which shall read in its entirety as follows:

(1) Minimum lot area and width: The minimum lot area and width in this zone shall be nine thousand (9,000) square feet and ninety (90) feet respectively at the building line for new construction and a width of seventy-five (75) feet at the building line for conversion of large homes. The building and/or structure shall not use more than thirty-five percent (35%) of the usable lot area.

SECTION 6. Repeal and Replacement of Section 5.226, Article VII, Chapter 51.

Section 5.226 is hereby repealed and replaced with a new Section 5.226 which shall read in its entirety as follows:

5.226. Nonconforming lots of record.

Any lot existing end of record on the effective date of this ordinance may be used for any permitted principal and accessory uses specified for the district in which such lot is located whether or not such lot complies with the lot area and width requirements of this ordinance, provided that all other dimensional requirements of this ordinance are complied with.

SECTION 7. Repeal and Replacement of Section 5.256(6), Article X, Chapter 51.

Section 5.256(6) is hereby repealed and replaced with a new Section 5.226(6) which shall read in its entirety as follows:

(6) Conditions of approval. In granting a variance, the board may specify, in writing, such other conditions regarding the location, character, landscaping or other treatment that will, in the board's judgment, be reasonably necessary to the furtherance of the intent of this chapter and the protection of the public interest. The breach of any such condition shall automatically invalidate the permit granted. Each variance granted under the provisions of this chapter shall become null and void after six (6) months unless construction or occupancy authorized by such variance or permit has commenced and is being carried to completion. However, the zoning board of appeals may grant a six (6) month extension upon the submission of a letter by the applicant providing reasonable evidence as to why the project cannot be commenced within the allowed time, and provided further, that an additional six (6) month approval extension may be granted by the zoning board of appeals upon the personal presentation by the applicant of reasonable evidence as to why the project cannot be commenced within the allowed time.

After a variance has been denied in whole or in part by the board, then no application shall be resubmitted for a period of one (1) year from the date of the last denial; provided, however, that a denied variance may be reconsidered by the board when, in the opinion of the zoning administrator, newly discovered evidence or changed conditions warrant such reconsideration.

SECTION 8. Effective Date.

This Ordinance shall become effective thirty (30) days after enactment.

Ordinance No. 667 was adopted on the 6th day of August, 2001, by the Charlevoix City Council as follows:

Yeas: Councilmen Bellows, Campbell, Chamberlain, Haggard and Witthoelt.
Nays: None
Absent: Councilman Carlson.

"And keep in mind that for males, some of these side effects are reversible after short-term use but in females it's thought that most of these effects are not reversible. Now, with long-term use we're more worried about liver problems and in particular cardiovascular system problems," Wojty said.

Individuals who use steroids for prolonged periods of time may also show behavioral changes. That's one of the reasons that steroids were initially used by athletes — to induce rage and cause an intensely competitive and fierce reaction.

Human growth hormone, another substance used by athletes to increase muscle bulk, is just as dangerous, if not more dangerous, than steroids.

"There are legitimate uses of growth hormone but the potential side effects are very, very, very concerning and therefore, monitoring by a physician any time it's being used is rule number one," Wojty said.

If an athlete really wants to get an edge, they should talk to their doctor or speak with a nutritionist who can help them maximize their potential in terms of muscle development.

"There's a lot that can be done to improve what you do naturally such as eating good, natural foods. You can also find what types of workouts are going to be tolerated best and how to get the most out of yourself so that you can live to your highest potential. That's the safest way to do it," Wojty said.

City marina expansion discussed by boaters

But city harbormaster Hal Evans Sr. said there's enough business to go around. In fact, last week was his busiest of the season. The Charlevoix marina had a waiting list of over 30 boaters.

"We've been overbooked all summer. This week is the worst week yet. Today, I think we got maybe seven of the 32 boats on the waiting list in," Evans said.

When asked whether the boaters get irate at the lack of accommodations Evans said, "No, they are just disappointed."

The marina is currently equipped with 17 docks, that are each 75 feet long. So there are 34 slips depending on the size of the boats — sometimes there can be two boats in one slip.

"We are basically maxed out at 60 boats," he said.

With all the demand and no supply of available docks, Evans is hoping to see an expansion of the horizon.

"The whole process is just starting. I'm looking forward to being a part of it, listening to the community and making solid decisions that will keep Charlevoix beautiful and will hopefully bring in a few more slips for the boats," Evans said.

This summer marks the second major boating season since the city's announcement of future marina and East Park renovations in June 2000.

Wixom woman picked as the new librarian

and it wasn't working and I realized there was more to it than my pregnancy," she said.

Meyerson did not share the same vision as that of the Wixom board and she said she did herself a great service by leaving.

With a new library building project possibly on the horizon, Meyerson is coming in at an exciting and possibly stressful time, but she said she's ready to face the challenge and a new facility can offer a community a spark. She thinks Charlevoix is ready for a larger facility.

However, she said the hardest part about leaving her life in southern Michigan will be leaving her job with the coalition and moving from part-time to full-time work.

Since Jeremiah, she has had another child, Annie, who is now 2 years old. Meyerson has put finding a daycare that fits their needs higher on the priority list than finding a house for the family to live in. Until they are able to find the right living situation, Meyerson's family will stay at her mother's home in Charlevoix.

Meyerson said she spent summers in Charlevoix at her parents' second home that is located behind the Castle Farms from the age of 4 and up. Like her father, she fell in love with Charlevoix.

She said when the library position opened up it was a sign to her that it was time to make the move to northern Michigan that she and her husband, Tom Johnson, had been talking about.

"I told my husband this is our door, it's finally opening for us and we need to walk through it. The idea of being able to move here is amazing to me," she said.

Johnson is a quality control manager at Key Plastics.

Meyerson plans to start at her new position Sept. 12.

Lake may have high pH due to kiln dust piles

LAKE

which in turn may have impacted plant and aquatic life.

In a quarterly report issued by Cemex in November of 2000 they discuss the process by which kiln dust may become a hazardous waste.

"Most manufacturing plants in the industry typically disposed of CKD in and around their plant site since the inception of cement manufacturing operations. If CKD comes into contact with water, liquid that leaches out may have an alkalinity level high enough to be classified as hazardous waste, if discarded," the report states.

Aside from Levegood's concern about the lake's ecosystem in conjunction with this possible "hazardous waste," he said his agency's main concern is human exposure to the contaminated water.

Cemex has posted a sign on the beach area that says, "No Trespassing on Exposed Rock," but Levegood said he was hoping for something that discouraged swimmers more.

The contaminated area doesn't abut the public beach and the further away from the site you get, the more Levegood said the alkalinity is diluted. But people get curious and Levegood thinks there is a possibility that someone could swim in that area and be hurt.

Phil Roycraft, District Manager for the Cadillac office of the Michigan Department of Environmental Quality's Waste Management Division agreed with Levegood.

Roycraft said a neutral pH is 7 and the water tested outside of the cement factory was at 11, "pretty basic." He explained that the threat would be strongest just after a rain and that someone swimming or walking the beach with sensitive skin could have a problem.

But, Cemex environmental engineer Michele Buckler said the company is facing this issue head-on.

In fact, the industrial site originally had nine kiln dust piles and is now down to two that require cleanup or what Buckler calls, "remediation."

On Aug. 10, while the Charlevoix Courier was on a tour of the industrial site, trucks were busy moving huge loads of CKD from pile four to the 34 acre site overlooking Lake Michigan, where piles five and eight have been disposed of. Buckler said pile four is made up of 560,000 cubic yards of CKD and it will take five months to relocate.

Pile five is at the base of where the three piles are now being stored; it was the disposal site for kiln dust from the early 1970s through the early 1980s.

Buckler said when pile five was originally placed it did follow the letter of the law at the time.

"No one knew there would be an impact. It has since been found to impact the water," she explained.

She said when water travels down through the piles it picks up metals and alkalinity that travel, with the water, into Lake Michigan.

The plan is that once piles four, five and eight have been consolidated the whole pile will be capped to try and resist water seeping through. They will also install a groundwater interception trench to collect and treat any water that may be affected.

There is no liner underneath the piles, as you would find in a typical landfill, but Roycraft said that because of how hard the substance becomes once it is mixed with water, the cap is the most important feature.

Buckler also said that the three consolidated piles sit on rock which will help divert run-off to the interception trench.

Piles one, two and three are fully covered with "over burden," which is a thick vegetation. Buckler said that Cemex doesn't expect, nor do they know, of any impact from exposure in relation to piles one, two and three.

These old piles sit on bedrock and "any potential impact goes into the quarry and is monitored through that system," she said.

A landfill was constructed at the site in 1998. The landfill sits on top of the cap for pile nine. In 2000, the side slope of pile nine was also covered.

In 1999 pile seven which was 125,000 cubic yards was moved to the 11 acre, type three, licensed landfill located on Cemex property that is lined with a double composite liner.

Half of pile six has also been disposed of in the landfill.

There are 29 additional acres at the site that can be used for a landfill expansion. Currently, all cement kiln dust that is generated is stored in the type three licensed landfill located at the site. Buckler said the company makes between 1.5 and 1.6 million tons of cement each year and accumulates 60,000 tons of kiln dust annually.

Cemex employees anywhere from 140 to 150 northern Michigan employees and the site has been a cement manufacturing fixture in the Charlevoix community since 1967.

Above, a truck moves out part of the material that once made up cement kiln dust pile four to the consolidated site where piles five and eight are disposed of. Right, a jar of the infamous kiln dust. (Photos by Julie Musilek)

Responses late in school suit

SUIT

The motion states, "Defendants and their agents have failed to respond to the plaintiffs' discovery requests. Therefore, plaintiffs request that the court direct defendants to respond to plaintiffs' discovery requests within seven days of the hearing on this motion."

Ferguson said that a discovery is a pre-trial opportunity for both sides in a case to "discover" relevant evidence for the trial.

"They haven't responded to the last set of interrogatories," she said on Aug. 8.

Questions asked by the plaintiff in this last set include core issues in the case including "requests to produce."

Ferguson and Olson have asked that school attorneys produce any documents regarding a conceptual proposal and final written agreement with the city to construct the sewer expansion for the new high school.

The second discovery request asked for copies of all final engineering plans and proposed project schedules for the sewer expansion and extension.

If these responses are not issued before Aug. 17, there will be a hearing at 2:15 p.m. that day.

In the meantime, the Charlevoix City Council has awarded the engineering contract for the sewer construction to John Adams and Associates of Ypsilanti. Council's approval was made pending funds being received from the school to pay for the design.

Sturck said planning and construction will continue.

"The litigation has nothing to do with it (proceeding with the sewer extension.) We are working with the city. Until someone tells me to stop, I'm going to move forward," Sturck said.

He added that if Ferguson and Olson prevail in court, the school will need to find another way to pay for the sewer project.

Ewald could not be reached for comment by press time.

Bible School

The First Baptist Church Vacation Bible School is Aug. 20-24, from 7 to 8:30 p.m. It is located across from the post office on M-66. RBM Ministries, Inc. will present "The Way Through" by Director Roger Spencer. This is free of

NMHTSA to have food program

The Northwest Michigan Human Services Agency recently announced the Child and Adult Care Food Program.

This program is designed primarily to provide meals to children in child care centers, outside school hours programs and family day care homes. Meals are available at no separate charge to all children enrolled in the Northwest Michigan Human Services Agency preschool in Ironton. Children who are 12 years of age or under, migrant children 15 years of age or under, older disabled children and children enrolled in an After School At-Risk program who were 18 years old or under at the start of the school year.

In accordance with federal law and U.S. Department of Agriculture policy, this institution is prohibited from discriminating on the basis of race, color, national origin, sex, age or disability. To file a complaint of discrimination, write USDA, director, Office of Civil Rights, Room 326-W, Whitten Building, 1400 Independence Avenue, SW, Washington, D.C. 20250-9410 or call (202) 720-5964.

In addition, the First Baptist Church is having a parents class called Making Children Mind Without Losing Yours by Dr. Kevin Leman in conjunction with the Vacation Bible School. The six lessons are: 1-Daring to be a courageous parent. 2-Why Kids misbehave. 3-Becoming the parent God wants you to be. 4-Nine ways to be your teenager's best friend. 5-ABC's of self-image. 6-When to let the little buzzards tumble. The registration fee for the parents class is $10. For further information call 547-4121.

Book sale

The Friends of the Charlevoix Public Library will be hosting a book sale from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m. on Aug. 18. The books will be displayed on the front lawn of the library and in the library basement. All book sale income is dedicated to the Children's Section of the library. The revenue from the 2000 and 2001 summer book sales and the ongoing book sale has purchased 1,100 new books for the Children's Section.

Pie and bake sale

The Women's Guild of

Bethany Lutheran Church will sponsor a homemade pie and bake sale at 10 a.m. on Aug. 18 at the Glen's Market of Charlevoix.

Proceeds earned will go for the new kitchen appliances in the new church building on US-31 North.

Lake meeting

The Lake Charlevoix Association will meet Aug. 20 at the Boyne District Library, 201 East Main Street in Boyne City. Dessert will be served at 6:30 p.m. followed by a short business meeting. This will be a chance to learn about the new Lake Charlevoix Association "Lake Keepers" program.

David Miles, co-director of the Charlevoix Historical Society, will present the program, "Historical Marine Scenes and Incidents in Upper Lake Charlevoix." David is the author of this year's acclaimed lectures, newspaper stories and televised account of the succession of bridges over the Pine River Channel. His presentation will be illustrated with enlarged vintage photographs.

The public, as well as members, are cordially invited to attend. It's also a chance to see the newly renovated and enlarged library.

Temple to host musical shabbat

Temple B'nai Israel, in Petoskey, will host Cantor Stephen Dubov for a special "musical" shabbat at 8 p.m. on Aug. 17. The service will be Cantor Dubov's premiere performance in northern Michigan.

Cantor Dubov is the cantor at Temple Beth El in Bloomfield Hills and formerly served the historic Touro Synagogue in New Orleans. In addition to liturgical and "Jewish" music, Cantor Dubov manages liturgical music and conducts youth soap operas. At Temple Beth El, Cantor Dubov manages liturgical music, conducts youth and adult choirs and also directs his recently formed Kidz Klez Band of Michigan.

Also officiating at Friday night's Shabbat Service will be Rabbini Intern Daniel Fellman, a student from the Hebrew Union College Seminary in Cincinnati, Ohio. Temple B'nai Israel member Irene Stein will provide accompaniment at the piano.

The Temple is located on the corner of Waukazoo and Michigan streets in Petoskey. For more information, call Rabbi Dan at 231-439-3213.

Temple B'nai Israel is celebrating 105 years of consecutive service in Petoskey. It is a member of the Union of American Hebrew Congregations and the Women of Reform Judaism.

RANGER FUND STARTED

Friends of the late Arthur Ranger have established a memorial to him with contributions to be used to furnish the reading room in Charlevoix's new library.

Because he was an avid reader and enjoyed good books, this project was selected as a way of perpetuating the memory of Mr. Ranger whose great loves were Charlevoix and its people.

A spokesman for the group said, "We wanted to do something worthwhile to perpetuate Art's memory. We all felt that furnishing the reading room in the new library, soon to become a reality, would be something that would be enjoyed by more people than anything else we could think of. I'm sure Art would want it this way."

A fitting plaque will be placed in the reading room when it is completed to designate the furnishings as a memorial to Mr. Ranger.

Anyone wishing to honor his memory may send their check to the "Charlevoix Public Library Fund" with a note that it be earmarked for the "Art Ranger Memorial."

Supt. Rex E. Milligan, administrator of the fund for the group, said Monday that $1,500 has already been contributed.

Library's Ranger room receives prized book

by Edith Gilbert
Charlevoix -- A newly published Pictorial History of the Great Lakes by Harlan Hatcher and Erich A. Walter (Crown Publishers, Inc.) has just been presented to the Charlevoix Library. This important contribution to American history is inscribed as follows by the President of the University of Michigan.

"Inscribed for Barbara Swinton Mordy who is presenting this book to the Charlevoix Library in memory of Arthur Ranger to whom the Great Lakes were old friends," Harlan Hatcher.

Mrs. Mordy spent many summers here since early childhood visiting relatives and friends. Her father Roy Swinton, born in Charlevoix, was Professor of Engineering at the University of Michigan.

The Pictorial History will be placed in the Arthur Ranger Reading room, built by contributions to the library building fund.

The Reading Room houses the prize collection of Michigan Historical books donated by Earl Babst in 1964 to the Charlevoix library.

According to Mrs. Dorothy Olmstead, librarian, these shelves are one of the most popular attractions of the library. People lose themselves for hours looking at early pictures of Charlevoix, Beaver Island and East Jordan or reading about logging, fishing, hunting and camping or railroads and ship building. Students, writers, artists and tourists are fascinated by the wealth of information to be found in the treasured volumes painstakingly collected by historians and scholars.

A memorial fund to Mr. Babst has been established for the purpose of enlarging the nucleus of this collection and to make it the finest collection of Michigan History in the region. With the advice and guidance of Dr. Robert M. Warner, Director of the University of Michigan Historical Collection, a list of-out-of-print books has been compiled for future purchase and some volumes have already been ordered.

Dr. Warner writes he was delighted to visit our very handsome new library and says, "You should indeed be quite proud of it...and I want to tell you how pleased I am to participate in this project."

A book plate in memory of her father has been designed and donated by Mrs. George P. Bent II to be placed in each book. It states, "In memory of Earl D. Babst, a gift of his friends in Charlevoix, Michigan of which he was a summer resident of the Chicago Club from 1903-1967."

If anyone owns books pertaining to this region or written by someone from this region and would like to donate them to Michigan Historical Collection, please contact Miss Olmstead at the library.

Dr. Hatcher and his collaborator, Walter, devoted four years to the preparation of the Pictorial History of the Great Lakes. They and their staff, with the cooperation of historical societies, museums, libraries, chambers of commerce and other public organizations and private sources and collections, obtained much new material and many previously unpublished prize pictures, engravings, contemporary prints, old maps and panoramic photographs of a region marked by such dramatic events as the Chicago fire, the battle of Lake Erie.

Running for a cure

Man running for cancer cure to be in Charlevoix

By JULIE MUSILEK
Staff Writer

Some travel from Key West, Fla. to the Mackinac Bridge area by plane and some go by car — either way most people use some form of motorized transportation, but, not P.J. Tannian, 24, of Grosse Pointe Park.

He decided to run it.

P.J.'s grandfather, Philip Aloysius Tannian lost his battle with cancer eight years ago. The two were very close and P.J. was deeply affected by the loss. But, instead of asking, "Why did this disease choose my grandfather," he asked, "How can I prevent cancer from claiming the lives of others?"

So, in the Spring of 2000, just after his graduation from Aquinas College in Grand Rapids he made a choice. P.J. approached his parents to discuss his choice. His father Philip "Jerry" Tannian said he and his wife Beverly thought P.J. wanted to talk about law school but found their son had chosen a different path.

"He (P.J.) said he wanted to spend the next year of his life preparing for and then running coast-to-coast to raise money and awareness for cancer research," Jerry said.

His mission has since been appropriately dubbed, "Coast to Coast for the Cure."

He set out to complete this 2,700 mile run on Dec. 1 at the southernmost point in the U.S. found in the Florida Keys and Jerry said he hasn't missed a day yet.

"He has run every single day — Christmas, New Year's, his birthday, my birthday. It doesn't matter if there is a driving rain storm, he's running," his father said.

To say P.J. is dedicated would be an understatement. He has gone through 24 pairs of sneakers since December and has endured painful shin splints, that a doctor told him wouldn't go away until he takes a break.

The shin splints came on in the mountains of Pennsylvania when the continuous uphill climb took its toll on his body. Jerry said sometimes his son climbs into his support trailer on his hands and knees at the end of the day and crawls into bed. But he always gets up the next morning, puts on his running shoes and charges ahead.

P.J. never runs less than 10 miles every day and by the end of the week has run the equivalent of between two and a half and three marathons.

He will make his way through Charlevoix on Aug. 27. Anyone who would like to join him for the run is welcome to.

Tax deductible donations can be sent to Coast to Coast for the Cure c/o Mt. Clemens General Foundation, 1000 Harrington Blvd. Mt. Clemens, Mich. 48043.

School responds to questions in time

Lawyers for the Charlevoix school district were able to file the answers to the interrogatories in enough time to save the district a day in court.

"They did not go forward with the hearing," Bill Ewald attorney for the school said. The hearing was set for Aug. 17 in relation to a lawsuit over a sewer line that is planned to run to the new high school site on Marion Center Road because the school was allegedly late on responding to questions sought by the plaintiff's attorneys.

Bill Ewald said they are now waiting for a hearing before Circuit Court Judge Richard Pajtas. No date has been set.

Ewald said the responses were not late. Ewald said the delay was a result of the requests being for documents the lawyers and the district did not have in their control to produce.

Judith Lincoln, another attorney for the school district, added the requested documents had even been turned in "several days" before the court hearing.

"We filed responses to the interrogatories, they objected and wanted more answers," he added.

Lincoln added the questions asked of the school were not complex nor were questions the case hinged on.

Ewald said, "In general lawyers don't file motions to compel discovery because it can be worked out by phone. I have no idea why they did that. Ninety-nine percent of the time I simply pick up the phone and call the other lawyer, I rarely file a motion to compel."

Harbor Industries gets sign variances

By JULIE MUSILEK
Staff Writer

The City of Charlevoix Planning Commission decided to soften the stringent sign ordinance for the local industrial site, Harbor Industries.

On Aug. 13 the planning commission granted three sign variances to Harbor Industries.

The first variance will allow a wall sign 168.7 square feet to be placed on the face of the building when traveling from M-66 into Charlevoix. The ordinance currently allows signs 72 square feet.

Planning commission chairman Dennis Kusina said he voted in favor of granting the variance because he felt the sign was proportionate to the size of the building.

"It won't stick out like a sore thumb on that building," Kusina said.

Tim Parker, vice president of Harbor Industries' northern operation, said that during the design phase, like Kusina, he felt the sign size was proportionate with the building.

"The code (sign ordinance) doesn't factor in buildings our size. The sign needed to be larger to be proportionate. If the sign followed the code it would look like a postage stamp up there," Parker said.

The commission then granted a second variance which will allow the Harbor Industries logo to be internally lit.

Parker said this logo will be back lit and that he's hoping there will be enough "ambient light" around the sign that there won't be a need to light the rest of it. The material they plan to use on the light fixture for the logo will be opaque.

Parker said he foresees a "halo effect" whereby the opaque fixture will channel light around through the back of the sign.

However, the two arguments made by Kusina and Parker didn't convince planning commissioner John Dobulis who voted against granting the variances.

"Basically when you come into Charlevoix from M-66 the first thing you will see is a billboard, 7 feet high and 17 feet wide with letters two and a half feet wide. I think they (Harbor Industries) did a great job on the building, but they don't need a sign that big," Dobulis said.

He added that in his two years of service on the planning commission the government body has never allowed internally lit signs and he was surprised that "all of a sudden" a variance was granted.

Joanne Curtis, president of the local service club Keep Charlevoix Beautiful — who have often opposed variances of this type — agreed with Dobulis.

"Keep Charlevoix Beautiful has been pleased and thrilled with the landscaping and attractiveness of the expansion project at Harbor Industries. We continue to emphasize exterior lit signs especially on the corner coming in because we feel they are more subtle and attractive," Curtis said.

A third variance was also awarded for the site which will allow "an accessory sign" that will be 18 square feet, two feet larger than what the ordinance stipulates. This accessory sign will be located on the berm that runs toward Traverse City along US-31 south.

The three aforementioned variances have to be approved by Charlevoix City Council before they go into effect.

Harbor Industries will be getting a new sign now that it was given a variance. (Photo by Julie Musilek)

Swimmers successful

Patrice Smith led two friends, Laura Lux and Chuck Malta, to successfully complete a swim Aug. 10 from Charlevoix to Boyne City. The swim took six hours and raised money for the Charlevoix Area Community Pool. Smith trained for the event at the pool. Julie Stoppel, of Petoskey, was also a winner that day, as her guess on the time of the trip was the closest at 6 hours, 15 minutes. She won a three month pass to the pool. About $1,000 was pledged by several people to estimate the group's travel time across the lake. Donations to honor Patrice Smith's feat can be sent to the Charlevoix Area Community Pool at 11905 US-31, Charlevoix, MI 49720.

OPINIONS

Seeking public input great move

Many times you have seen the city of Charlevoix criticized in this space, however this will not be one of them.

This time, the city should be commended for its work in planning renovations to East Park and designing a new marina for the community. This is not to say we agree with any plans that have been designed — which there are officially no final plans — we are just saying we agree with the process the city seems to be following.

The city is taking these two projects slowly and putting a lot of thought into it. Even better they are seeking the input of the people of Charlevoix, those who use the park and marina and have to live with any changes on a daily basis.

To do this, the city has said it will have a series of public meetings on changes to East Park and the marina this fall and winter. At these meetings, public concern and ideas will be gathered and included to be used in making up the final plans for these two projects.

EDITORIAL

Sure, we could criticize the city for having any of these meetings in the late fall or winter when many of the people who live on Round Lake are gone, but we will not do so at this time. Just the idea that the city is planning on having these meetings is fantastic.

It is vital that the city get input from the people before taking on two projects that will impact the community such as these. The city seems to understand this and seems to be dedicated to talking with the residents.

While we may or may not agree with the final plans on either of these two projects, it is commendable that the city seems to want to let the public in on the planning process.

We hope the city continues down this path of public inclusion. It will go a long way to creating trust in the people of our city officials and creating plans that will have the support of the residents.

The dog days of summer bring a hairy new visitor

Edith Gilbert

'Behind the news'

When I picked up the phone and my grandson confirmed his forthcoming visit, adding, "Is it OK if we bring our puppy?" I held my breath!

Now I love this boy, but a puppy? "She's housebroken and doesn't bark," Curtis added.

Long pause.....What's a Granny to do? I couldn't say, "No, I'm allergic to dogs," because we've had dogs all our life, so I replied, "What kind of a dog is she?" and was told, "She's a Dogue de Bordeaux, which is a French Mastiff. She's very gentle."

A gentle mastiff? "Well, I guess it will be OK. What's her name?" "Dahlia," was his reply. For the next week I prepared the guest rooms for Curt, his wife, two small children and of course, Dahlia.

When the group arrived, I was impressed with this so called puppy, Dahlia — all 110 pounds, 3 feet high, short hair, golden brown, no barking, four footed house guest.

For the first two days not a sound out of her. Dogs walked by the house on the sidewalk, the doorbell rang, squirrels climbed the tree — not a sound out of Dahlia. Then one morning we heard her bark.

"WOOF, WOOF!" What could bring this about?

I followed the sound into my office and there stood Dahlia barking at my wooden carving of a police dog that I had sculpted years ago, while attending art school!

Of course, that's how Dahlia stole my heart. "What better compliment," I thought, "than to have a live dog acknowledge my work with a loud bark!"

Once having established the pet policy by accepting Dahlia as my house guest, I've had to add a medium size golden retriever and later, a tiny, white Shih Tzu as summer visitors. The toy dog, Shih Tzu, was extensively bred in China since the seventeenth century and feels quite at home with all my Chinese ornaments. He likes to spin around and make a nest in my bed, while I watch TV.

Now I keep dog dishes, long leashes, left behind combs and brushes, at the ready in the basement, along with children's sand toys.

People who want to vacation in Charlevoix with their pets may have a problem. The only motel that accepts pets is The Lodge and they charge a one time fee of $15. The Chicago Club allows dogs, if they are on a leash, but the Belvedere Club has a strict no dog policy during the season.

Fortunately, there are several kennels in our area that are highly recommended, where pets are exercised and often visited daily by their owners.

I have checked with friends as to their policy regarding pets, and some accept these four footed friends, while others — especially people who already have dogs of their own — are reluctant to add another animal to the mix, since the two often don't get along.

To those who are new home owners in our area, I strongly urge you to be prepared for the $64 pet question, and have the telephone number of a good kennel handy.

Dogs may be a man's best friend, but remember, too, that your best friend may have a dog!

Council should be commended

Editor:

I want to personally thank the city councilmen for their good government approach to the issue of a sidewalk on the north side of Belvedere Street.

The safety of citizens of Charlevoix has to be the primary concern of government officials. This, of course, includes the safety of those many people who live or visit the city or who participate in the numerous fairs and festivals.

Forcing those people who own, rent or park on the north side of Belvedere Street to cross busy Belvedere Street twice in order to walk downtown was a major safety issue. This safety issue will finally be resolved with the new sidewalk approved by the very conscientious city councilmen.

People with a handicap, elderly or adults with small children are particularly at risk with the present incomplete sidewalk situation. The new sidewalk will make walking to downtown Charlevoix far safer for all citizens.

By moving the entire Belvedere

Street to the south, the city seems to have gone the extra mile to allow some of the condominium/homeowner remonstrators to continue to use about 20 feet of city right of way for landscaping and parking.

Let us hope this construction can be done as quickly as possible in order to minimize the inconvenience to all.

The new street, trees, curb and sidewalk will not only look far better than what we have today, but also will be far safer.

P.S. Since writing this letter, I had the opportunity to read the editorial in the Aug. 8, 2001, Charlevoix Courier. I note the letter policy states the Courier does not publish letters judged by the editor to be a personal attack. Too bad the editor does not follow this same set of rules, as he insulted Norman Carlson (city council member). All council members should be allowed to vote their own conscience after reviewing the facts.

Who does the editor think he is to be the judge and jury on the sidewalk issue? He is dead wrong. I hope he can stuff himself on his own "baloney" since he likes that word so much.

Cell phones should go

Editor:

Thanks so much for your opinion page on cell phones. I was not happy to look out at the beautiful Lake Charlevoix this year and see the cell phone towers on the horizon.

The most repulsive one was the one at the end of the point at Harbor Springs. This is the area where cars are not allowed to travel, but big as day at the end of the strip of land with the lovely old homes on it is the ugly tower.

I was with my daughter in Petoskey in a store painting pottery and someone's purse started ringing and all these Moms started digging in their purses. The call turned out to be for the wrong family member as they had switched phones for some odd reason. Please, do away with them!

There is a store on the main street in Petoskey that has two chairs out front to relax in and a table in between them with an old red dial face phone sitting on it, I guess for fun. My parents still have that old dial face phone on their kitchen wall and I love it.

This letter is intended to salute Charlevoix area golfers and the Charlevoix County Junior Golf program. This summer we were awarded scholarships to attend a week of golf camp at the renowned Ferris State University Golf Academy. We all agree it was a terrific experience and we learned a lot about golf and about ourselves while away from home for nearly a week.

Doing business without promoting is like working in the dark — nobody knows how to find you when they need you.

We all have been enrolled in the summer Junior Golf program for several years and have benefited from the excellent instruction and experiences that are part of the program. Because of our interest and potential we were lucky enough to be selected to receive the camp scholarship.

All of this was made possible through the generosity of the local golfers that support the "Supe Classic," which is the primary fund-raiser for our area Junior Golf program, along with PGA professional instructor Steve Braun whose 100 holes in a day also generates funds for junior golf. We wish to thank all the many people that organize and administer the golf outing, particularly Tom Bickersteth, Sam Supernaw and Nancy LeCroix from the board. We also want to recognize and thank the teaching staff of PGA professionals Joan Waha from Dunnaglas, Steve Braun and Marty Joy from the Belvedere.

Steve Good, Gina Rapin and Shane Hollandsworth from the Charlevoix Country Club and Scott Blechel from the Charlevoix Municipal Course. All of them volunteer their time to see that we receive the best instruction possible. We appreciate the organization that takes place under the direction of Dean Davenport and our adult mentors. It is the best!

On behalf of all the Junior Golfers, we want to express our gratitude. We hope that experiences like ours can continue for youngsters in Charlevoix County as a result of everyone supporting the "Supe Classic" which will be on Aug. 29 at the Belvedere Club Course.

Beetles help in fight against invasive plant

Many Michigan roadside ditches and wetlands have become especially colorful during the past few weeks because the invasive plant purple loosestrife is blooming.

Purple loosestrife is problematic because it displaces native wetland plants and degrades wetland habitat for fish and wildlife. The colorful plant has become so prevalent because it has encountered few predators in most places and each plant can produce more than two million seeds per year.

The aggressive growth of purple loosestrife in wetlands ecosystems (bogs, swamps, riverways and ditches) has captured the concern of state and federal agencies, scientists, environmentalists, hunters and anglers across the United States. Control of purple loosestrife has included hand pulling, burning chemical applications and — most recently — using natural enemies in a biological assault.

However, this year the pesky plant is not so prevalent in some places as it has been, according to Michigan Sea Grant researchers. After introducing leaf-feeding beetles Galerusella pusilla and G. californiensis, resource managers and volunteers, including students and their teachers, have seen dramatic results in many infested wetlands.

The Michigan Department of Natural Resources first released the U.S. government approved beetles in the Saginaw Bay watershed in 1994. By 2000, the stands of purple loosestrife there had dwindled to a fraction of the peak infestation. Monitoring of a beetle-treated wetland at Pointe Mouille in 2000 showed that purple loosestrife was completely absent from seven of the nine areas where it had occurred in 1997.

Approximately 200 sites statewide have been inoculated with the beetles.

The Purple Loosestrife Project, coordinated by Michigan Sea Grant Extension Associate Mile Klepinger and Michigan State University Extension entomologist Doug Landis, has trained 150 teacher volunteers to use the beetles. Klepinger and Landis have established a network of 24 Cooperative Biological Control Centers, produced instructional and education materials and maintain a web site.

Project leaders and participants are very optimistic about the long-term prospects for success with this approach.

"Biological control of invasive weeds carries some risk, just as the other control methods," Klepinger said. "However, we've learned that there is no risk-free way to manage loosestrife. If we do nothing, we risk continued degradation of our wetlands. This approach is self-sustaining and is beginning to show real results."

To become involved in the Purple Loosestrife Project, contact Klepinger at (517) 353-5508 or klep@msu.edu.

Police log

The information contained in this report has been compiled from the Charlevoix Police Department's log book, which is open to public inspection under the Michigan Freedom of Information Act. Because some officers are still working on their reports, and they were not available before press time, not all of the reports from this period are listed.

• A 21-year-old Charlevoix man was arrested for operating a vehicle under the influence of alcohol around 1:30 a.m., Aug. 17 on Bridge Street.

• A domestic assault reportedly took place around 6:30 p.m. on Aug. 15 on the 500 block of Newman Street.

• A 21-year-old Charlevoix man was arrested around 10 p.m. on Aug. 15 on Bridge Street for driving a vehicle while his license was suspended.

• Someone tried to break into a vehicle on Aug. 15 as it was parked on Belvedere Avenue. The suspect took the lock off of the vehicle, but nothing was missing inside.

• A vehicle backed into another vehicle on Aug. 14 near the Van Pelt Alley on Bridge Street.

• A driver reported her vehicle was hit by another vehicle around 2 p.m. on Aug. 14 on the Michigan Avenue curves. However, the driver of the other vehicle denied the incident ever took place.

• There was a two vehicle accident around 6 p.m. on Aug. 14 near the intersection of Bridge and Carpenter streets. No injuries were reported.

• A vehicle backed into another vehicle on Aug. 13 in the parking lot of Northwest Academy on Hurlbut Street.

• A purple and blue bicycle with a plastic basket on the back was stolen sometime after 7:30 p.m. on Aug. 12 on State Street.

• A 34-year-old Charlevoix man was arrested for operating a vehicle while under the influence of alcohol around 2 a.m. on Aug. 12 near the intersection of Bridge Street and Marion Center Road.

• A boat was damaged in the Charlevoix Municipal Marina sometime on Aug. 10.

• An assault reportedly took place around 4 p.m. on May 31 near the intersection of Elm Street and Meereer Boulevard.

New teachers to be at elementary school

By JULIE MUSILEK
Staff Writer

Charlevoix Elementary School will open their doors to three new, full-time, young teachers this year.

Traci Allison, 23, a Charlevoix native, Shelly Novotny, 33, of Charlevoix and Sara Jonker, 22, of Petoskey will join the elementary school staff, bringing with them classroom experience, youth and fresh ideas.

"Our field of applicants was extremely high quality. All three of these women came to the top from their own accolades," elementary school principal Dick Swenor said.

He explained that the school was able to have the best interview possible with Allison who taught third grade in the building for six months while teacher Rachel Brooks was on maternity leave.

"The parents enjoyed working with her and thought their kids were getting an excellent education," he said.

During her time with the school district, Allison said she learned how to communicate with parents and work with teachers in the building.

Allison will replace Molly Randall as a first grade teacher. She said she's looking forward to meeting her class and implementing some useful approaches to teaching, including the four-block method that stresses balanced literacy in language arts.

Allison graduated from Miami University located in Oxford, Ohio in May of 2000 and is a 1996 graduate of Charlevoix High School.

Novotny is a former Petoskey Elementary School teacher with nine years of experience under her belt. She left the Petoskey district a year and a half ago to be at home with her three children, Chandler, Paten and Reagan but says she's ready to get back in the classroom.

"Shelly is one of Petoskey's shining stars. She enjoyed our school and made the decision to get back into teaching in her own community," Swenor said.

The interview committee made up of Allison Mellon, Marcie Murdock, Stephanie Carey, Laura Taylor and Swenor told the school board that Novotny started a multi-age classroom in Petoskey and was considered "one of their finest educators."

Novotny received her bachelor of science degree from Central Michigan University in May of 1991 and her master's degree from Michigan State University in 1995. She will make her debut as a first grade teacher, replacing Mellon.

Jonker will replace Julie Bernhardt as a second grade teacher — Bernhardt moved to a third grade position. Jonker said the Charlevoix School District appealed to her because she grew up in Marshall, "a small town like Charlevoix" located just outside of Battle Creek.

As was the situation with Allison, Swenor and other teachers were able to gauge Jonker's ability during a substitute teaching position last year.

The selection committee offered Jonker high praises, one of which stated, "Sara (Jonker) is a quality young lady that is very excited about educating young children."

Her excitement and enthusiasm showed when she said, "I have a lot of great ideas other people haven't tried, especially just coming out of college. I'm one of those people that says, 'let's try this' and then I get people involved."

Jonker graduated from Hope College in May of 2000. Jonker's husband, Zach, is a teacher at Petoskey High School.

All three women are anxiously waiting for the building which is undergoing renovations, to be ready for occupancy so they can prepare their rooms for a successful school year.

Cellular tower may be in future for Norwood

By JULIE MUSILEK
Staff Writer

Land located off of Witmere Road in Norwood Township could be the site of a new cellular tower.

"Before anything can happen in Norwood Township the cellular company has to prove: one, there is a need (for the tower) and two, they have to agree to a lease agreement with us," Norwood Township clerk Doris Pearl said.

Pearl added that the board has not yet seen the agreement. The details are being worked on by township zoning administrator Lynn Smolensky and township attorneys.

Pearl also explained that this lease agreement being drafted is part of the preliminary planning process, the township is a long way from erecting the tower.

The township has been approached by numerous cellular companies looking to locate towers within Norwood, she said.

"It's (calls from cellular companies) a weekly occurrence. This whole cellular phone tower business is up and down. One company comes in and two weeks later they get bought out by someone else. It's a little like the stock market and computer companies — fly by the seat of the britches," she said.

Because of these inconsistencies with the cellular tower market Norwood Township is being cautious and making sure any agreement they enter into is "stiff." Pearl said if the agreement is accepted it will have to be "air tight." They don't want to enter into a contract with a company that won't be here 10 years from now to break down the tower if it is no longer in use.

"We may or may not be able to come to an agreement on the lease. If that doesn't happen it (the cellular tower plan) is dead," Pearl said.

The plan still needs to be brought before the board of appeals where a variance will be requested. If the variance is granted the plan then has to pass through the township planning commission.

Pearl said public hearings will take place all the way through the process.

Center to help you find money in antiques

Have an heirloom you think might be worth thousands? Find a unique painting at a garage sale that might be an Old Master?

Bring in your antiques and heirlooms to the Crooked Tree Arts Center. The Arts Center is presenting its annual Antique Appraisal Clinics, on Aug. 21 through Aug. 24.

Ernest DuMouchelle of DuMouchelle's Art Galleries in Detroit, will be at the arts center from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. on Aug. 21 conducting appraisals. No appointment is necessary as walk-ins are accepted.

The fee for appraisals are $10 for a verbal appraisal and $15 for a written appraisal of each item.

DuMouchelle is also booking in home appointments for Aug. 22 and Aug. 23. Appraisals of up to 10 items will be offered in the convenience of your own home. Please call Donna McDougall at the arts center to schedule an appointment (231) 347-4337.

The proceeds from this event will benefit children's programming at the arts center.

The children of Charlevoix and Emmet counties are encouraged to explore the world of performing and visual arts through classes, tours and workshops offered by Crooked Tree Arts Center.

For more information, please contact the Crooked Tree Arts Center at (231) 347-4337. The arts center is located in downtown Petoskey at 461 East Mitchell Street.

Girl injured in rollover accident on Aug. 14

A 16-year-old Boyne City girl received minor injuries in an automobile accident at about 10:30 p.m., Aug. 14 on Boyne City/East Jordan Road in Wilson Township.

Lindsie Joe Brewer, of Boyne City, lost control of her car rolling it several times. She suffered minor lacerations to her head and hand and was treated and released from Charlevoix Area Hospital.

Brewer was wearing her seat belt which prevented more serious injuries. Alcohol was not a factor in the accident.

Charlevoix County Sheriff's Department deputies were assisted at the scene by Boyne City Fire Department and Boyne City Ambulance.

Capacity problems cause telephone outages in area

By JEREMY MCBAIN
Editor

A capacity problem in Charlevoix has caused telephone problems for Ameritech and its customers this summer.

Due to the increased population in the summer using their telephones, the company's phone lines were not able to handle the increased amount of calls, thus resulting in various connection problems, according to Steve Koffman, a spokesperson for Ameritech.

Koffman said, right now the equipment is becoming overloaded due to a high volume of calls. This leaves some customers unable to dial out because there is no dial-tone or they are just getting a fast "busy signal."

Problems with the lines were reported at the beginning of the season, in May, and were reported last week.

"We have already increased capacity and moved around equipment to accommodate demand," Koffman said. But, the company is still looking at other ways to alleviate the problem in the future.

"At this point, the telephone problems should be decreasing as the population goes down (in the fall)," Koffman said.

So far, he said Ameritech has invested $3.3 million in Charlevoix County, of which $1 million was just for more access lines.

"We are still investing and still working. This might not even be the halfway point," he said.

Care for your cottage with new business

By JEREMY MCBAIN
Editor

"We will do the job and we will do it well."

Erika Kristoffer,
Co-owner of
Up North Cottage Care

Now that the summer season is coming to a close, many summer residents may be wondering about off-season maintenance on their cottages.

To help them out, two Charlevoix residents have combined their many years of experience in cottage care and created Up North Cottage Care to perform maintenance, spring cleaning, closing or opening duties and lawn care and snow removal on these summer homes.

The new business is being run by Erika Kristoffer and David Russell, both of which have extensive experience in summer residence care. Russell has been in the business for 15 years and most recently worked for the Belvedere Club and Kristoffer used to perform these types of services on Beaver Island.

In addition to offering their customers experience, Up North Cottage Care also claims to be able to perform these services at "low rates."

"We can beat anybody's rate and offer very professional quality," Russell said. "Plus it is efficient and dependable service. Everyone that knows us, knows this is true."

Kristoffer stressed the business is not a housekeeping service, but a summer residential maintenance company serving Charlevoix, Antrim and Emmet counties.

"We will do the job and we will do it well," she said.

In addition to the cleaning and upkeep of the properties, Up North Cottage Care is already looking at a future expansion into property management.

For more information on Up North Cottage Care, call (231) 881-8119 or (231) 881-7449.

Residents incorporate after sewer construction

By JULIE MUSILEK
Staff Writer

After a recent "sewer scare" Evergreen Point Association residents decided to incorporate to show their opposition to multiple family developments.

Residents said that after three sewage lines totaling 4,000 feet were installed along Evergreen Road without their knowledge, they want to make sure future development is controlled.

"Evergreen Point people are not for it (the sewer line.) It's not that we don't want this particular person (James Stoglin of Clarkston and Charlevoix) to have the sewer. But, we want control and that is the gist of this thing," Evergreen Point Association President Jim Keller said.

"We aren't trying to control development, we want controlled development. Single family residences like what is supposed to be out here."

Keller explained that there is a $7 million, 13 acre parcel for sale at the end of the point and he's concerned the Stoglin drain field extension will set precedent. He foresees a developer purchasing the 13 acres, running a sewer line to the city and building a condominium complex. He added that this possibility concerns association residents.

"We don't want 25 lots slammed dunked on the end," Keller said.

However, in the case of the Stoglin project it wasn't the sewer line being built or the possible development that could result that got residents fired up. Keller said "it was how it was done."

Some say private property lines were crossed and the landowners claim they weren't consulted.

Evergreen Point resident Dan Adler whose property was impacted by the extension said, "It was very distressing to go down to the property and find people digging a sewer through it. We feel violated."

However, Stoglin claims he was unaware private lines were crossed. He said, "If that were the case it would be no more than a couple of feet."

Stoglin said that the plastic lines were installed by a contractor hired by Charlevoix resident and attorney Joe Hayes III. The construction occurred in January and February of 2001.

Stoglin said the purpose of the project was to pump sewage from the three lakefront lots, one of which is owned by Dorothy Mudd of St.

Louis, Mo. and the other two by him, that don't perk. The sewage lines run to a 60 acre piece of property owned by Hayes.

The association's lawyer and Evergreen Point resident Richard Condit said Stoglin and Mudd did not contact the association prior to starting the project which they were not required to do.

Sewer construction causes concern among residents

However, Condit said he thought as a matter of courtesy contacting the association would have been the proper course of action.

But, Adler said Stoglin was required to get the permission of property owners whose land would be impacted by the project and he didn't.

"(James) Stoglin was supposed to get the permission of landowners where the sewer pipe ran through private property but he certainly didn't secure ours," Adler said.

Larry Levensgood, Charlevoix County Environmental Health Supervisor of Northwest Michigan Health Agency said he was at the site prior to the pipes going in and identified a location where Stoglin and Mudd could potentially locate drainfields on the Hayes property.

"But, we never permitted any installations," he said.

However, Levensgood added that the installation of the lines themselves isn't what the health agency needed to permit.

"They didn't construct a sewage system. Right now it's just a pipe in the ground," Levensgood explained.

So, the lines are in and the big question Levensgood said only lawyers can sort through is, "Who has jurisdiction in this case?" That is, who owns the road where the lines went in?

Levensgood said that in Eveline Township approval is required when running any utility from one piece of property to another. But, the lines run down Evergreen Lane in Eveline Township and the Hayes drainage fields are in Marion Township.

Chris Carson, Chairman of the Eveline Township Zoning Board of Appeals, said that as of now the lines are in but they can't be used because the township turned the appeal down.

Carson said after the plastic line had been run, Stoglin and Mudd took the matter to the board who on June 7 turned the project down at a public hearing. Abutting property owners were advised by the township of the hearing.

Carson added the project had already been completed when they came before the board.

He said part of the rationale behind denying the appeal was because the township doesn't have jurisdiction to decide who owns or maintains the right of way. Like Levensgood, Carson said only a judge will be able to decide how this pans out.

Condit said Evergreen Road is a private road owned by the Loeb family who granted an easement to the association for the purposes of ingress and egress.

"The easement was for the lot owners for the purpose of ingress and egress, not in my opinion, for laying sewer lines," Condit said.

Stoglin bought two of the three Mudd lots which were originally purchased by the Mudd family in 1957 from one of the Loeb family members. He said he thinks his development plan is "the lesser of the two evils" because they are single families, not multiple dwellings.

But, the association residents met Aug. 5 and unanimously decided to incorporate over this issue.

"I think (Stoglin) will get his sewer and I can see that he should. But we want it to go on the record that we are opposed to it. If it (the sewer) would have come in a positive way, the outcome would have been different," Keller said.

Doctor to speak at NCMC

Alan Berkowitz, Ph.D. will be speaking at North Central Michigan College's Conference Center in Petoskey at 7 p.m. on Sept. 10.

Berkowitz will be speaking on how it takes everyone to build healthy, respectful, non-violent communities.

"If you are part of a community, you'll want to come hear Berkowitz speak," said Chris Krajewski, program director at the Women's Resource Center in Petoskey. "Alan is a nationally renowned speaker who helps colleges, universities, public health agencies and communities design programs that address health and social justice issues."

Tracy Skinner, program coordinator at the Women's Resource Center, added, "There are so many different components that make up a safe, healthy community — good schools, well-maintained roads, clean air and water, affordable health care and a safe place to live. However, the biggest resource in any community is its people, and Dr. Berkowitz will focus on how each of us can be a part of ensuring a strong, safe community for our children, our families, our friends and our neighbors."

Berkowitz has over 20 years of experience in higher education as a trainer, psychologist, faculty member and Counseling Center Director. He received a Ph.D. in Psychology from Cornell University in 1981 and is a New York State licensed psychologist. He recently received the "Outstanding Service Award" from the Network of Colleges and Universities Committed to the Elimination of Alcohol and Drug Abuse for his significant contributions to the field of alcohol and drug prevention. He lives in Trumansburg, N.Y. with his wife and daughter.

The program is appropriate for all ages and is free of charge. For more information please contact the Women's Resource Center at 347-0067.

Partners in this project include: Human Services Coordinating Body (HSCB) (of Antrim, Charlevoix-Emmet, Cheboygan and Otsego counties), North Central Michigan College, Sheriff's Offices (in Antrim, Charlevoix, Cheboygan, Emmet, and Otsego counties), the Women's Resource Center of Northern Michigan and Zonta.

Back to school driving safety

As the 2001-2002 school year begins, AAA Michigan reminds motorists to remember the 'ABC's' of auto safety in its School's Open - Drive Carefully campaign.

"A great burden is on the motorist to take extra precaution when driving in areas with school-age children," said Richard J. Miller, AAA Michigan Community Safety Services manager. "Some of these kids have very little experience in dealing with traffic situations."

Since 1988, 237 school-age pedestrians have died in school bus-related crashes. Half of those were between the ages of 5 and 7, according to the National Highway Traffic Safety Administration. Last year, 105 children under age 16 lost their lives in traffic accidents in Michigan, and 11,257 were injured.

"The opening of school is a very hectic time for everyone," said Miller. "Children are excited to be going back to school and to their friends. Parents are trying to get to work and get their children to school on time. Often, they're distracted and may not be focused on basic traffic safety practices."

For example, AAA's recent survey of 20 elementary schools in lower Michigan shows that safety belt compliance for drivers and passengers at school drop off and pick up points is sadly lacking.

"While the overall safety belt compliance rate in our state hovers at about 80 percent, compliance by drivers and young passengers in a school setting was only 63 percent," said Miller. "When we looked at the safety belt compliance by young passengers alone, the percentage dropped to a dismal 56 percent."

Save the Natural Beauty of Round Lake JUST THE WAY IT IS

During council meetings about the expansion of the Charlevoix City Marina on Round Lake, has our City Council and City Manager considered what an absolute jewel of a natural resource we look out upon each and every day?

At WATCH inc, we have. The following are just a few questions we would like the citizens of Charlevoix and surrounding areas to consider as you look out on Round Lake over the next few weeks:

- Do we want or need to triple the size of the existing marina? And if so, who benefits? The current proposal extends the dockage 400 feet into Round Lake. Presently it is 75 feet.
- Do we really want to despoil the biggest natural asset in Charlevoix?
- Do we want increased waterway traffic caused by more boats? More boats mean more pollution, gray water, bilge water and fuel spills.
- Did you realize that floating docks trap water flow and surface pollution?
- Do we want access to the only fuel and pump out station to be severely restricted?
- Do we need more traffic problems on US 31 and Bridge Street? More boats mean longer bridge openings. If the proposed dockage is constructed the number of boats at the City Marina would increase to 140 or more by doubling up as is typically done.
- Do we want more exhaust emissions from cars waiting for the bridge to adversely effect the air quality for downtown merchants and visitors?
- Have we given any thought to how our parking will be affected by the increased number of boats and their visiting guests? Round Lake congestion will be increased due to the combination of expansion and anchored boats.
- Public comment should be received as soon as possible and before any final design decisions are made. How will the public be notified of any public meeting? Will the meeting be scheduled when ALL property owners and residents can be heard?

At WATCH, inc we have a different point of view. And we would like to hear yours. Please write us at PO Box 615, or call and fax us at (231) 547-5530 to voice your opinion. The Charlevoix City Marina on Round Lake will be built with your tax dollars. Available data indicates 10 to 1 against the proposed expansion as it is now designed. We realize there are many points of view. The main point being: we like the view just the way it is.

We also encourage you to write the following city and state agents to express your view:

AUG

SPORTS

August has many events for your boating fun

A. Nony Mouse

'Yachting notes'

The Charlevoix Yacht Club Treasure Hunt is this Aug. 26! Don't miss this fantastic event; get together your crew of pirates, a good name for your privateer and lots of resource materials — then contact one of these blackguards; Barb Murray 547-4357 or Pam Barnes 547-5137.

You must register at the club before 1 p.m. (for a 2 p.m. start). The privateer fee of $10, plus $5 for each adult pillager, includes fun, prizes and after-the-event appetite teasers, also at the club. There will be awards for the best costumes and names!

The Charlevoix Yacht Club Duke Memorial Race to Northport was Aug. 11 and had 12 boats start at various times (a Bermuda Start) based on their ratings. If the ratings were exact and if each boat were sailed to perfection, all would cross the line at the same time. While this did not quite happen, it was neat to see all the boats converging as they neared the finish line. The winners: JAM Fleet, FLASH; Spinnaker I, HOI POLLOI; Spinnaker II, NIGHT MOVES. An interesting wrinkle that received mixed reviews was the use of a "Four Hour Motor Rule." It permitted any contestant to use its auxiliary engine after its start time plus four hours. After the race, Dean Duke treated with a burger cookout. All thoroughly enjoyed the relaxing overnight in Northport.

Charlevoix Yacht Club Summer Series: The J-22 Fleet again led the way with all twelve crossing the line before the first boat in any other fleet. PALEFACE LITE (1:49:09) finished at 7:54:32, well ahead of HUSSY. FIRST DATE was also back a bit, then it was SWINE FLEW, ROCK STEADY, II RECKLESS, H S MOISTURE MISSILE, EAU DE VIE, WHAT'S HER NAME, CRAZY HORSE, HOG-TIDE, and BANZAI.

Spinnaker I honors went to SLAP-SHOT (1:57:37) with HOI POLLOI a couple minutes back and GOTCHA thirty seconds later. HOOTIE, MINT

JULEP and WINDRUNNER trailed. Spinnaker II had Babe (2:00:29) comfortably ahead of BALD EAGLE, who led SAFFRON by five minutes. J HAWK was another five back. The P-26 CYGNUS (2:06:46) held off ORIGINAL SIN by forty seconds with TIRELESS only six seconds back. ARTEMIS lagged by several minutes while LOST VERMONT and SANDPIPER retired. The JAM Fleet had only APOTHECARY finish, as CHEEMAUN retired while POCO LOCO and FLASH did not start.

Standings: (Using one of the two drops allowed.) Spinnaker I; SLAP-SHOT 5, GOTCHA 8, HOI POLLOI 9, Spinnaker II; BALD EAGLE 5, BABE 6, P-26; CYGNUS 5, TIRE-LESS 8, LOST VERMONT 10, ORIGINAL SIN 12, JAM; FLASH 4, APOTHECARY 10, POCO LOCO 11, J-22; HUSSY 5, II RECKLESS & FIRST DATE 12, SUPERFLUOUS and SWINE FLEW 14.

Sunfish: The last scheduled race was called because of weather as 50 percent of the fleet of two, both brave enough to go out, capsized before the first start. Don advises that they hope to schedule a make-up or Championship Race Day — more on that in the near future.

Nautical Trivia: "From what terminology (actually, what functions?) did larboard and starboard evolve?" Throughout the days of early sail and oar powered vessels, the steering board (or oar) was always on the right side. Therefore, vessels docked with their left side to and placed the "lading board" (gangway, today) on that side.

Somehow "steering board" and "lading board" later evolved to starboard and larboard. I have a different theory on starboard — while at sea in the military (before Loran or GPS) we always took star or sun sights from the bridge right wing — was that tradition or could it be the origin of starboard?

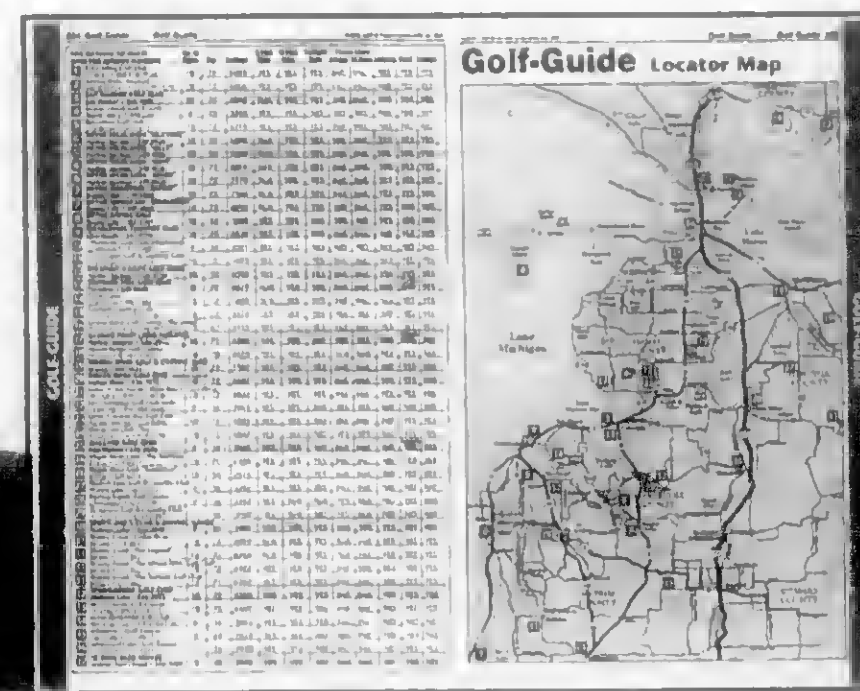

Yachting Notes is submitted each week during the "warm" months by the Charlevoix Yacht Club. To contact the club, see its website at www.charlevoixyachtclub.org or call 547-9170.

ENTERTAINMENT

Garden Club to have plant sale

The Charlevoix Evening Garden Club will be having its First Annual Plant sale from 9:00 a.m. until noon on Sept. 1, at Ferry Beach Pavilion number 2.

According to president Tansley Stewart, fall is a wonderful time to transplant, divide, develop, rebuild and rearrange gardens. The Evening Club will have annuals, perennials, ferns, herbs and dried flowers and other materials for holiday wreaths and decorations.

The Charlevoix Evening Garden Club is a member of the Federated Garden Clubs of Michigan, and was chartered in May 1998.

The evening "gardener's night out" meetings are at 7 p.m. on the first Tuesday of each month at the Charlevoix Area Hospital meeting room, and membership is open. The group is comprised of master gardeners and beginners, and the evening club provides an opportunity for gardeners that are busy during the day, or working during the day, to meet, enjoy an educational program and share gardening ideas and information.

Evening club members have been active with designing, planting and maintaining the gardens at the entrance signs on M-66 and US-31 North, the Junior Master Gardener's program, the Charlevoix Habitat for Humanity Home and conducting an annual education session with the third grade classes at the Charlevoix Elementary School.

For more information please call Linda Purdy at 547-6408.

SCRAPBOOK

Death comes to the Charlevoix bridge

By DAVID L. MILES

Charlevoix Historical Society
(Sixth in a series)

May 4, 1919 had dawned and remained dreary and dismal. Mrs. Guy Olney had been feeling just like the weather (perhaps the early stages of pregnancy) all day that wet Sunday in her home near the Catholic Church on south Bridge Street. She asked her husband to fetch her good friend Mrs. George "Carrie" Ross from her home just north of the bridge to cheer her up. Olney walked downtown to Woods' Livery, where the steps and railings of Bridge Park are now, borrowed a car, drove across the bridge to pick up his wife's friend, and returned home. It was about 7:30. He then returned the car and walked back up the hill to his house.

About 10:30, the women finished their visit and began preparing for Mrs. Ross's return. Olney again walked downtown, reentered the same car, drove home, and the two headed back in a cold misty drizzle to the north side, a distance of only a few blocks. Carrie Ross never saw the other side of the bridge again.

Olney's foot was heavy on the pedal as they sped through downtown. After they crossed Clinton Street, bystanders began to yell at him that the bridge was open, having just turned for the entry of the passenger steamer Kansas, once the City of Charlevoix, in whose hull and refurbished engine were elements of the ill-fated Champlain that had caught fire and burned with the loss of 22 lives in 1887 off Fisherman's Island, the worst maritime disaster in Charlevoix's history. It was as if the boat carried an aura of terrible luck in its wake.

The car was equipped with heavy weather curtains, which may have prevented Olney from hearing the warning shouts. Visibility was poor in the mist. He was within 40 feet of the bridge when he saw the disaster looming, slammed on the brakes and headed for the right railing. But the tires had no grip on the wet pavement. Instead, the car skidded around in a half circle, crashed through the lowered right gate backwards, and when the tires dropped over, the entire car pivoted and heaved upward to turn over and fall, crashing upside-down in the channel. From the time he hit the brakes to when the car hit the water, less than 5 seconds elapsed. It sank to the bottom in 20 feet of icy water.

Fred Myers, who owned a cigar store near the bridge, heard the commotion and rushed from the store down the embankment to help Olney, who had broken free, out of the channel. They and others waited for Mrs. Ross to surface, but she never appeared. The next morning, the car was hoisted from the water, but she was not in it. A deep dent on its rear end showed the force with which it had smashed into the gate, indicative that Olney had definitely been driving much too fast for conditions. Whether she could not get past the weather curtains, had drowned after having escaped, or had been knocked unconscious and the channel's swift, powerful currents had reached into the car to bear her away, was never determined.

The Coast Guard dragged the channel and Round Lake, but came up empty handed. Only her hat, and a lap robe from the car, washed up on the far shore of Round Lake. Her poor distraught husband, left with four children, ages 4 through 12, combed the beaches almost daily looking for some sign of her body. Soon the entire episode began to recede from the town's memory.

But 32 days later, fisherman John Nordrum set out before 6 a.m. to head for Lake Michigan. As he neared the Charlevoix Lumber Company's boom that held in its floating log stockpile near the bridge, he spotted her body, badly bloated and discolored, floating beside it. He secured it, chugged over to the company dock where he leashed it to a piling, climbed up to the bridgehouse to tell brigetender Elmer Johnson to notify the authorities, and went on his way. There was nothing more he could do.

Guy Olney was brought to trial later that year. The language of the Complaint and Examination written by George Weaver, Sheriff, is virulently melodramatic in its statements that Olney did "violently and wickedly precipitate and throw onto the revetments and retaining walls of said Pine River and into the waters," "and that he said Guy Olney did "in manner and form aforesaid feloniously and willfully kill and slay her." But the jury, impressed by his honesty in the box and willingness to admit full responsibility for the tragedy, could not come up with a verdict that would have required the wisdom of Solomon to determine. How to punish a man who had suffered for his mistake so much already? Not wishing to shoulder the responsibility, on Dec. 2 the jurors returned the case to the judge with a verdict of "guilty with a recommendation to the mercy of the court." There the trial transcript ends. Olney reportedly received probation and supposedly disappeared from the Charlevoix scene. Thus ended the most tragic event ever to occur in the entire history of the channel's bridges.

That week in May was not a good one for brigetender Elmer Johnson. Just two days after the Olney/Ross disaster that took place right before his eyes, an accident at the power plant caused an outage that necessitated the bridge being turned by hand with the huge emergency key. (The bridge had been converted to electric power shortly before this. Turning time was now down from the steam engine's five minutes to a swift three.) The S.S.I. Bruce, on the Beaver Island run, entered the channel and somehow managed to crash itself into the bridge, causing damage to its bow and some damage to the bridge equipment. Johnson was probably ready to stalk off the job and throw in the towel by this time. He quoted in the Courier of May 7 that "he would like to have some wise guy tell him just what to do, as when he swings the bridge some auto is bound to run into the river and when he has it shut or partly closed, he is likely to be bumped by a boat going up or down the river."

That last statement may have been a premonition of bad things to come, for about nine years later he himself was responsible for the worst accident of his career when he caused extensive damage to one of the most beautiful yachts ever to grace Charlevoix's waters, the elegant Sylvia IV owned by Logan Thompson of the Belvedere.

Driving tips for back-to-school time SAFETY

Since most serious crashes take place within a few miles of home, this is a real cause for concern, which we will discuss with schools, parents and children as part of our School's Open campaign this year."

In the campaign, AAA also emphasizes that driving carefully begins even before you leave your driveway.

"The key is to expect the unexpected," said Miller. "There could be kids walking or biking to school right behind you as you back out of your driveway. When driving in school zones, near playgrounds, or in neighborhoods where children play, expect a child to dart out into the roadway. That way, you'll never be taken by surprise and you will be able to stop in time."

During the campaign, the Auto Club is encouraging drivers to remember that children are not small adults. It could be more difficult for a child to judge traffic situations because their peripheral vision is one-third narrower than an adults. Children may also make the mistake of assuming that if they can see a car, the driver can see them — often motorists have a difficult time seeing children because of their small stature.

To help protect children, AAA urges motorists to follow these safety tips:

- Slow down in or near school and residential areas.
- Drive with your headlights on — even during the day — so children and other drivers can see you.
- Look for clues such as School Safety Patrols, bicycles and playgrounds that indicate children could be in the area.
- Scan between parked cars and other objects for signs that children could dart into the road.
- Practice extra caution in bad weather.
- Always stop for school buses that are loading or unloading students.

"Remember, back to school means back to basic driver safety," concludes Miller. "School's open, drive carefully."

Housing dilemma

Housing costs hurting workers in community

By JEREMY MCBAIN
Editor

(Editor's note: This is the first in a series of stories examining housing issues in Charlevoix that will be published throughout the fall.)

There is a blemish on Charlevoix's beautiful face.

Among the sandy beaches, spectacular sunsets, luxurious shopping, parades of large expensive yachts and rows of big beautiful homes this problem lies and grows bigger each year. The imperfection is affordable housing, according to many area businesses and officials. Charlevoix, like most of northern Michigan, is known as an ideal resort community that attracts many well-off folks looking for a beautiful northern Michigan retreat.

In fact, in the September 2001 issue of Outside magazine, Charlevoix was named as one of the top cities to live in the country — that is if you won the lottery. This is because of the area's beautiful scenery, but it comes with high real estate prices and a lack of jobs, the magazine stated.

But, while the real estate price increases are great for those wishing to sell their homes, it has created a problem for home buyers just starting out and many of the people who work year-round in the area.

"We are in for a train crash," Ed Amick, of Amick Realty, said.

"I think the housing crunch we have here is a horrible situation, particularly for workers and young people," he said. "It has been a problem for a long time."

And Amick said the problem will just get worse in the future, leaving many lower income workers in the area "stuck."

"Typically, they want a 20 percent down payment, which most of those people don't have and they can't save up fast enough due to inflation. They are just squeezed out of the market," he said. Amick added, because credit is relied upon so much in getting a house loan, if those people fall behind on a payment while trying to save money, they will only put themselves "deeper in the hole."

"It is just a real mess," he said. Vicki Morgan, director of the Charlevoix-Emmet Housing Coalition, said the issue is really affordable housing in the area. Affordable housing typically is a monthly payment equal to 28 to 31 percent of your monthly income.

But, the revenue from wages in Charlevoix has not kept up with housing costs, she said.

According to information supplied by the housing coalition, the median yearly income level per household in Charlevoix County is $47,300.

Using those numbers, Joseph T. Vogelheim, of Re/Max in Charlevoix, estimated a family with this income level could afford about $825 a month in payments or a home for $120,000. He added this would still be a very high payment to make.

Using information from the Northern Michigan Multiple List Service — a service used by real estate agents — Vogelheim said there are currently only 10 homes in the Charlevoix school district selling for under $120,000.

Using the same service, he said from Jan. 1, 2001 to Aug. 23, 2001 there have been 68 homes sold in the Charlevoix School District — not including waterfront homes. The average selling price of those homes was $151,613.

During that same period, there have been 86 homes listed on the market — not including waterfront homes — and their average asking price was $253,526. Vogelheim added. Seventy-nine percent of the 86 homes listed in the Charlevoix school district sold.

Homes costing within the affordable range given by Vogelheim make up only 11 percent of the market.

Boat sinks, spills gas

Saturday night's heavy rain caused a 16 foot powerboat to sink and spill about a-gallon of gasoline into Round Lake.

According to Charlevoix Police Chief Dennis Halverson, the boat sank near the Ward Brother's marina on Saturday, but was pulled from the water the next day.

About a gallon of gasoline was seen floating on the water from the sinking. It was turned over to the Charlevoix Fire Department.

Jazz on the Harbor to be this weekend

By JEREMY MCBAIN
Editor

The Charlevoix night air will be filled with the sounds of jazz from 8 until 10:30 p.m., Sept. 1 in East Park at the first annual Jazz on the Harbor Charlevoix jazz concert.

The concert will feature performances by The Don Julin/Ron Getz Quartet and The Claude Black Sextet.

"It should be a really great addition to the Labor Day weekend," said Jacqueline Merta, director of the Charlevoix Chamber of Commerce. Merta added, since this is the first time this event will be featured, she expects next year's jazz festival to be even bigger and better.

Jazz on the Harbor is free to the public.

The Don Julin/Ron Getz Quartet, of northern Michigan, performs instrumental music featuring mandolin and acoustic guitar, ranging from bossa novas, ballads, swing and some contemporary styles. The quartet was recently on a European tour.

Julin is known as a northern Michigan mandolin player and has been a part of the northern Michigan music scene since 1982. He is also a current member of the Classical Mandolin Society of America and performed in the En Masse Mandolin Orchestra in Minneapolis, Minn. in November 1999.

Getz is a guitarist and composer who has performed on television and radio, as well as in clubs from Boston to New York and most recently in northern and lower Michigan. He currently resides in Traverse City.

Claude Black, of Toledo, Ohio, began his career in Detroit and is known as a jazz pianist. He regularly performs with the group The Murphys at Murphy's Place Jazz Club in Toledo, Ohio. He was also the jazz emissary of The Muse Machine, a project that brings the performing arts to Toledo area students.

Black has performed and toured throughout the United States, Canada, the islands and Europe.

Jazz on the Harbor is sponsored by the Charlevoix Downtown Association and the Charlevoix Chamber of Commerce.

Girls' basketball coach, teacher resigns

By JEREMY MCBAIN
Editor
and by JULIE MUSILEK
Staff Writer

On Aug. 22 Charlevoix girls' basketball coach Jason Otter, 28, issued his official resignation as coach and special education instructor at Charlevoix High School.

"Jason Otter resigned his varsity girls' basketball position and his secondary teaching position with Charlevoix Public Schools, effective immediately," Charlevoix High School athletic director James Kanine said.

"Jason has another opportunity to pursue his career interests. We wish him well," he added.

Charlevoix High School principal Gary Grundman said Otter told him that he had an opportunity to go back to doing what he was doing in Saginaw. "An opportunity he didn't want to pass up." He will be a teacher and a coach in Saginaw.

Otter would not confirm this. In a written statement, Otter informed he had resigned.

"I totally believe in teaching principles that last a lifetime through basketball, hard work, dedication and discipline. It is my belief that Charlevoix girls' (basketball) will do this and more. I encourage all athletes to push for their goals," he said.

Otter then addressed Charlevoix athletes, especially the girls on the varsity basketball team, saying, "Goals can be reached and success is what you make of it. With a strong work ethic and dedication to your sport it will never go unnoticed. College scholarships are at your finger tips. I encourage you in the path you walk to meet your goals and dreams as athletes. It has been a privilege to work with you all. Thank you."

Sturrock said that the district will hire an interim teacher to fill Otter's positions and will deal with hiring a new full-time replacement in November. Otter said the assistant coach Jim Parish will be taking over as the interim head coach of the girls' basketball team.

Otter was recently the focus of an investigation that started by the high school's extracurricular committee. The investigation was the result of an appeal from parents to the school board to look into incidents that they said involved Otter.

Charlevoix school board president and extracurricular committee member, Allen Telgenhof, said the investigation in to Otter in not being pursued anymore.

"I don't know how productive it would be," he said.

Telgenhof added Otter was not asked to resign.

"There was never a point were he needed to be terminated or was threatened to be terminated," Telgenhof said.

He added he didn't want Otter to resign and knows it is hard on the members of the girls' basketball team.

"They are very devoted to him," he said.

Telgenhof said he thought Otter was a fantastic basketball coach and a great mentor for kids, because of his hard work ethic.

Telgenhof added, "I hope everything works out for him."

During an Aug. 15 meeting on the matter by the school's extracurricular committee — which was attended by parents, teachers and the varsity girls' basketball team — some parents alleged Otter was abusive to the players on the basketball team.

At the meeting, Charlevoix resident Sandy Ward said that her daughter quit the team because of the way Otter treated her.

"They (her daughter and other girls who have left the team) don't mind playing hard, they just don't want to be abused," Ward said.

She said her daughter came home crying often after encounter-

OPINIONS

A problem we should all strive to solve

Jeremy McBain

'Just a thought'

This week you will find the start of something startling.

On the front page of today's paper is a story on the affordable housing situation in Charlevoix. It is the first in a series of stories that will look at this important issue.

Affordable housing is an important issue because of the impact that it has on the community now and in the future. It affects the workers, the young, the poor, the old, the economy, growth and the environment.

The problem is that there is not enough affordable housing in the area. Sure, some may argue the definition of affordable housing, saying, "A $200,000 home is affordable to some people." But, arguments like that are only ignoring the problem.

The county of Charlevoix only has a household median income level of about $47,000. That is total income usually from a two-income family. This family simply cannot afford a $200,000 home, yet that is the going rate for a home in the area.

So, where does this family live? Must they be forced to make a two hour drive to work each day because of economics or do they have to live in a small apartment where they can hear everything said in the apartment and what about their neighbors. And what about these apartment complexes? Just to get them built means facing many angry people who don't want "those people" living next to them.

Sure, some callous and silly people may say, "If they can't afford to live here, then tough. We don't need them."

What they don't realize is the community does need them. We need them for the good of the economy and the creation of a real community.

We need neighbors who will spend their money on food in the grocery stores or clothing in the downtown business areas. We need people to send their children to the schools. We need people to be our police officers, firefighters, ambulance drivers and road workers.

We need people just starting out in life, people of lower income and people with families.

Without them, Charlevoix will have a bleak future and may wither in the coming years, cursed to be a community that only lives in the summer.

Sure, the summer residents are mostly great people. They are nice, they contribute a lot to the community and in many cases it is an honor to have them call Charlevoix home. But, we also need people here in the winter, the fall and the spring.

But most year-round people do not make enough money to afford those big luxurious houses we see so much of in Charlevoix. They can't make the monthly payment on a $200,000 home and still put food on the table and clothing on their children.

They need homes they can afford. So, what do we do? The answer is an elusive one.

As soon as the term "affordable housing" is used, we start to hear people saying, "Not in my backyard." Most of these people associate this type of housing with crime and other bad aspects of life. But, this impression is — in a majority of cases — wrong.

Therefore the first solution is to get people to change their thinking in Charlevoix. To get people to understand there is a need and developments like this are not going to negatively impact the community. If anything, they will be a positive impact.

Then there is the environmental question — you know "sprawl." This is an honest concern. How do we solve our housing needs and maintain our control over urban sprawl? I don't know the answer, but maybe as a community we can find it.

And then there is the problem with finding affordable land for affordable housing. In Charlevoix, land is selling for very high prices. People want the best price possible for their piece of property and who can blame them.

To help solve this problem, there are a few government subsidy programs out there that look promising. Perhaps we should look into those.

And lastly, I believe there are at least a few cases of greed out there that need to be stopped. Most people selling their home or property want their investment to be profitable for them, but some are just being greedy about it.

In researching this series, I came across a few stories about some folks who would buy up cheap homes and property and turn around to sell them for double what they paid, only a few weeks after buying it and without making any improvements to the property.

I couldn't get any solid evidence of this to allow names to be published, but it is out there. Therefore, I would like to say, "Thanks guys. We appreciate your understanding of the situation and your contributions to the community's future."

Once we come together as a community on this housing problem, only then will a solution be found. We need people of all income levels in this community and we need the residents to understand this.

Those who think otherwise are just fooling themselves.

We hope you enjoy this series as it is published throughout the fall and we hope it gets some of our readers thinking about this issue.

The story of our plants

Do you have any plants with Charlevoix connections that you would be willing to share with the Charlevoix Historic Depot Garden Committee? Are there plants that have been growing at the Belvedere Club or the Chicago Club since the early 1900s? Do you have a plant in your yard that is the direct offspring of a plant that grew in the yard of the Seth Mason family of the John Sargeant Dixon family? Are there plants in Charlevoix that can be traced back to Edward H. Green, our first lawyer or to Willard Smith the editor of our first newspaper?

Help the committee look backward in time as they attempt to resurrect or save the horticultural history of our beautiful town. If you have any historic plants, or suspect where some might be, contact Patricia Aikin at 237-9196 or Mona Bergeon at 547-2741.

Letters to the editor

Storm water

The U.S. Government and the State of Michigan have delegated responsibility for the lion's share of environmental protection to counties and local units of government. Although bare minimum standards and basic guidelines are set by state and federal government, the authority and responsibility for writing and enforcing environmental standards addressing the needs and natural resources of each county is left to local jurisdiction. It is recognized that each county is unique and that ordinances protecting the public health, safety and welfare will and must also be unique.

The County of Charlevoix has assumed responsibility for Storm water and Soil and Sedimentation oversight and enforcement. The Federal Register, Part II Environmental Protection Agency at 40 CFR Parts 9, 122, 123 and 124, National Pollutant Discharge Elimination System-Regulations for Revision of the Water Pollution Control Program Addressing Storm Water Discharges; Final Rule Report to Congress on the Phase II Storm Water Regulations; Notice, at 682724 B. Water Quality Concerns. "Uncontrolled storm water discharges from areas of urban development and construction activity negatively impact receiving waters by changing the physical, biological and chemical composition of the water resulting in an unhealthy environment for aquatic organisms, wildlife and humans."

Listing several studies at 6827 "...all had the same finding; runoff from urban areas greatly impair stream ecology and the health of aquatic life; the more heavily developed the area, the more detrimental the effects." At 68723 "it is generally acknowledged that erosion rates from construction sites are much greater than from almost any other land use" and "the equivalent of many decades of natural or even agricultural erosion may take place during a single year from areas cleared for construction."

It is common knowledge that the first line of defense in protecting streams and rivers and lakes and their fisheries and water quality is to establish buffer zones, or greenbelts to filter sedimentation and to protect banks. This is supported to all best management procedures guidelines and is a priority for sportsmen and conservation groups as well as land use planners.

The Storm water Appeals Board is currently reviewing the Storm water Ordinance. We have an opportunity and a responsibility to protect the natural resources of Charlevoix County for the public welfare, health and safety and to protect the economic investments and opportunities of the citizens of Charlevoix. Tim Boyko, supervisor of Hayes Township, encouraged this board to set a "Gold Standard" in protecting the streams and rivers of Charlevoix County. It is our privilege and responsibility to do this. If you have questions or would like to have input in the review of the Storm water Ordinance, feel free to call me at 237-0107 or 547-4820. There will be a public hearing at which the Storm water Appeals Board presents its recommendations and amendments to the Ordinance. Jo Anne Bier Beemon, Charlevoix County Drain Commissioner

I cannot describe my elation at your headline on Aug. 15, 2001. I hope that this means you are at least beginning to perceive the real story behind the "proposed" school site.

The sewer question is just one of many that have not been answered in regards to the new high school. Why is the school "working with the city" as Dr. John Strock stated? Is Marion Center now part of the city? I don't recall being asked if I wanted to join. What, if anything was ever done in regards to potential brownfields?

Since my last letter I have recalled even more people who have died from cancer along Marion Center. If I was a parent of a child going to that school I would certainly want to know what, if any, health risks were incurred by having a "convenient, out of town location."

My question of law enforcement has never been answered either. If the city is so involved with the school does that mean Charlevoix's finest will now be coming down Marion Center road? It is an unfortunate fact that crime and schools go together today; I think that we, those in the potential line of fire, deserve to know who will be enforcing the law well before any crisis situation occurs. From my own experience it's too late to start planning when the bullets are flying.

There is now a gas line snaking its way down Marion Center. What is its purpose? Natural gas may be cheaper than propane, but is also less efficient and requires special adaptation to fit any existing appliance. Workers have advertised their vehicles for sale at the entrance to the construction site. The amount of traffic along Marion Center, which was already too high, has increased even more. The noise volume from the construction and the dust is incredible. The other day the noise reminded me of being back at the tank ranges on Fort Hood. In short, every risk, complaint or worry that was expressed prior to starting construction has happened.

I believe that there are many questions which have never been answered in regards to this construction project. You have magnificently illustrated that point in your article. I can only hope that these issues are resolved in a timely and open fashion.

Joseph F. Seidel, Charlevoix

The history of our plants

Roger Knutson

'Ear to the ground'

Besides making our present days pleasant, plants can encourage us to look both forward and backward in time. After planting something, we can easily see its future.

It will look exactly like the pictures in the catalogs. And the past is often recorded for us in our memories of particular plants or even in the permanent growth rings of trees.

The Charlevoix Historical Society and the Charlevoix Area Garden Club embarked on a project that could lead many of us to look both forward to a garden and backward to the horticultural heritage of Charlevoix. The historic Charlevoix train depot will in the future be home to a garden composed of plants that have some history in Charlevoix.

And the committee making the arrangements needs your help.

Where are the plants that graced the gardens of Charlevoix from the 1870s to the 1930s? I suspect that many of them are still growing in backyards and corners, and that they could be propagated or divided or even transplanted to provide material for the Depot Garden, along with some history of the particular plant that is known.

Let me provide a personal example that won't work for the depot garden, but conveys the idea. About 10 years ago we were given a Geranium plant. The ones that grew on your grandmother's windowsill are formally called Pelargoniums, but everyone calls them Geraniums and knows what they are. The dear friends that gave us the plant said that they had acquired it at least a decade earlier from Mrs. Griswold in Denver, Colo. Mrs. Griswold's Geranium has been with us ever since. We have made cuttings from it over the years, but it is still the same plant.

Most winters it survives in the pot in a cool dark place and is ready to grow again with the coming of spring. It has even provided us with a few seeds that we grew into Mrs. Griswold's Geranium's children. We expect that same plant to serve for many years as a reminder of the people who gave it to us and/or Mrs. Griswold, even though we don't know who she was.

Area students win scholarships

This fall, college tuition will be a bit easier on the pockets of area families, thanks to scholarships recently awarded through the Charlevoix County Community Foundation.

Eleven 2001 Charlevoix graduates were selected to receive scholarships from several special funds held by the community foundation. All the funds were established by local citizens - to honor family members, civic leaders and educators who served this area.

Students awarded scholarships are:

- Corey Bascom received a $500 Don Meggison Service Scholarship from a fund set up by the Charlevoix Lions Club. He will be attending Grand Valley State University, where he will study business.
- Lindsey Carland received a

$2,600 Belvedere Club Scholarship. She plans to attend Michigan State University this fall and has not yet chosen a field of study.

- Benjamin Coen was awarded a $500 Michigan Association of Retired School Personnel Scholarship as well as the Eary Family Memorial Scholarship for $250. He will use his scholarship awards to study education at Central Michigan University.

- Shawna Flowers received a $500 Stewart Irish Coleman Scholarship from a fund set up by the Charlevoix Lions Club. She plans to attend Grand Valley State University this fall where she plans to study medical art.

- Patricia Kelly was awarded a $650 Charlevoix Area Hospital Nursing Scholarship. She will be pursuing a career in nursing at the University of Michigan in Ann Arbor.

- John Kilkenny was awarded the $250 Earl W. Miller Opportunity Scholarship. He plans to attend Ferris State University where he will study auto mechanics.

- Shannon Nystrom received a $4,000 Belvedere Club Scholarship, which she will use to study music and business at Belmont University in Nashville, Tenn.

- Abby Schaperkottler was awarded a $3,000 Belvedere Club Scholarship to study health sciences at Grand Valley State University.

- Jeremiah Teuscher was awarded a $500 Stewart Irish Coleman Scholarship from a fund set up by the Charlevoix Lions Club. He is planning to attend Albion College, where he will study secondary education.

- Jessica VanGuilder is planning to use her $2,400 Belvedere Club Scholarship award to study elementary education at Calvin College in Grand Rapids.

- Sara Ward is this year's recipient of the Peggy Carey Northway Nursing Scholarship for $1,000. She will use this award to study nursing at North Central Michigan College.

The Charlevoix County Community Foundation now holds about 115 different funds, 45 of which are designated for scholarships. Established by local citizens in 1992, the community foundation serves as a charitable resource for the entire county.

For more information about the community foundation, or any of its funds, please call the foundation office at (231) 536-2440.

Where Is It?

Tell us where in the Charlevoix Area you think this is.

In an effort to add a little more fun to our lives and yours, the Charlevoix Courier is working on creating interactive areas of the newspaper for our readers. In the spirit of this, we are announcing the creation of a new contest called, "Where is it?"

Each week, the Charlevoix Courier will publish a picture of some item on a local landmark or building. We invite our readers to send in their guesses on where this picture was taken.

Since every winning guess will be placed in the box, the more times you enter correct answers to "Where is it?" your chances of winning increase.

Big Rock Point to have open house

Employees at Consumers Energy's Big Rock Point Restoration Project will host a dry fuel storage open house for the public today.

The public is invited to visit at 11:30 a.m. or 5:30 p.m. Activities will begin in the plant's visitor center with a brief video presentation describing dry fuel storage and why it is necessary. Attendees then will be invited to walk about a half-mile to the dry fuel storage location.

They will have the opportunity to walk on the dry fuel storage pad, visit information stations and have their picture taken with one of the 19-foot-tall concrete and steel containers.

Dry fuel storage mementos, hot dogs, drinks and ice cream will be provided for all visitors.

"Dry fuel storage is a proven technology with more than 450 storage canisters in use around the United States. It's new to our area though and we feel it is important to give our neighbors the details about how they work and an opportunity to see and touch one of the containers that will be used at Big Rock Point," said Kurt Haas, site general manager.

Eight containers eventually will sit on a concrete pad specially engineered for the containers. Each container will weigh up to 167 tons when loaded with spent fuel. The containers are designed to withstand floods, fires, flying objects and tornado winds up to 360 miles an hour.

Big Rock Point employees will begin loading spent fuel into the containers next year.

A dry fuel storage facility is necessary at Big Rock Point and other nuclear plants around the country because the U.S. Department of Energy (DOE) has failed to open a federal storage site for spent nuclear fuel. By law, DOE was required to open a facility by Jan. 31, 1998.

Big Rock Point was the world's first high power-density boiling water reactor and a research site for the nuclear power industry. The plant was shut down on Aug. 29, 1997, after 35 years of service, making it the nation's longest running nuclear plant.

Grant requests being sought by foundation

Once again, it's time to put local charitable dollars to work on behalf of the community.

The Charlevoix County Community Foundation is inviting nonprofit organizations, educational institutions and municipalities who are in need of funding to submit grant requests in support of their projects.

During the next few months, the Community Foundation and its Youth Advisory Committee (YAC) will review grant proposals to help fund health initiatives, community development projects, education, the arts and cultural events, environmental efforts and human service programs.

The YAC, which is made up of representatives from high schools throughout Charlevoix County, will award grants to programs that serve children and teens.

Programs chosen for funding must serve residents of Charlevoix County, meet an urgent need, or enrich life for local residents in some way. The deadline for grant requests is Oct. 1, 2001, and funding decisions will be announced later in November.

Grant applications are available by calling the Community Foundation office. All applicants must call and discuss their proposals in advance.

Foundation staff is available to offer advice and assistance to organizations interested in applying for funds.

Established by a group of area citizens in 1992, the Charlevoix County Community Foundation is a grassroots charitable organization made up of 118 separate funds - all of them established by local donors.

All the funds are held in permanent endowment, so they can continue to grow and generate income to enhance the quality of life in Charlevoix County, now and for generations to come. To date, the Community Foundation's assets have grown to over $7.3 million, and grants and scholarships in excess of $2.5 million have been distributed to the community.

For more information about the foundation, grant applications, or help for grant-seekers, please contact the Charlevoix County Community Foundation at P.O. Box 718, East Jordan, MI 49727, by phone at (231) 536-2440 or by fax at (231) 536-2640.

Archery can teach some lessons of life

By FR. JIM GUNN, Rector,
Christ Episcopal Church,
Charlevoix

Very recently I purchased a new bow and some arrows (and associated gear like an arm guard, a shooting glove, and a target).

I originally learned to shoot about 40 years ago. I took to it quickly and have enjoyed shooting at various points in my life. Let me say, I am a target archer — I have never tried hunting with my bow. I have shot in competition a number of times and I taught my children how to shoot. As I thought about getting back into archery in an intentional manner, I considered some of the things I have learned over the years and have taught to others. As I did that I realized that some of those points could be applied in our lives in other ways.

If you are going to shoot well consistently, one of the things you need to learn is to hold the bow loosely. In fact, when you start to pull back the string I advise people to 'open the fingers of the hand with which they are holding the bow. In that way, it is only the pressure from the string being pulled that is holding the bow against your hand.

You could say that should make us think about our overall approach to life. We need to keep a "loose hand" on life. If you grip things too tightly, you become tense, nervous and anxious. When you do that with a bow, your hand starts to tremble and you cannot take a good sight. In life it can cause you to make wrong decisions that are founded in your nervousness and anxiety.

Another thing about archery is quite obvious — you have to learn from your mistakes. If one shot hits the target low and to the left, you have to adjust your aim up and to the right. So, too, do we need to learn from our mistakes and sins.

In fact, the word in the New Testament that is translated "sin" literally means "missing the mark." When we miss the mark in life, we need to adjust our aim, so to speak.

In the Episcopal service of Holy Baptism there is a point near the beginning when the person being baptized renounces all forms of evil and accepts Jesus as Lord and Savior. Later there are five questions concerning "life after baptism" and one of them reads as follows: "Will you persevere in resisting evil, and, whenever you fall into sin, repent and return to the Lord?"

Basically that is a promise to learn from your mistakes — you get back on track after a miss.

A third and final point from archery is to have a good "anchor point." If you do not draw the string back the same amount each time you shoot, then the arrow will be launched with a different amount of force and your shooting will not be consistent even though you aim at the same point.

I suggest to people that they find a place on their chin where they rest their thumb when they pull the string back. If the thumb is placed in the same position each time then the arrow will be fired with the same force.

In day-to-day life your "anchor point" is your spiritual life. It is the way in which you nourish yourself on Holy Scripture and seek God's guidance through prayer and open yourself to God's grace in worship. These are the kind of things that provide a foundation to your life and that enable you to meet life's challenges. If you have that "anchor point" you will be able to face each set of circumstances with the same kind of peace and strength.

If you see a bow and arrow perhaps you will recall these little thoughts. I pray that you will keep a loose grip on circumstances, adjust your aim after a miss, and find a good "anchor point."

If you do, I'm sure you will hit a "bull's-eye" in life!

Charlevoix resident finds new life in army

By JULIE MUSILEK
Staff Writer

A former Charlevoix resident recently learned a lesson about the value of change.

At the beginning of this year Sean Roberts, 22, had been in Charlevoix for 15 years and he said his life wasn't going in a good direction.

Roberts usual day in Charlevoix would start at noon when he would crawl out of bed and lounge around the house. At 4 p.m. he would step into his Pizza Hut uniform where he worked in Charlevoix until 11 p.m.

After 11 he would grab a beer and party into the wee hours of the morning. That was life, day-in, day-out.

But, in February Roberts told his mom, Charlevoix Courier classified advertising manager Valerie Pedersen, he was going to join the Army. Shortly thereafter he was off to Georgia and things changed drastically.

In Georgia, Roberts gets out of bed at 4:30 a.m., helps clean the barracks and is ready to go and standing at attention by 5:15 a.m.

Then, it's off to the physical training field where the group does morning push ups, sit ups and exercises "no human body is capable of performing."

At 7 a.m., after the platoon's morning workout, Roberts is in the cafeteria for "high nutrition, low taste chow."

A half hour later he is back in formation dressed in a set of camel colored fatigues they call BDUs (battle dress uniforms.)

Sergeants move down the line of future soldiers to make sure their uniforms are pressed, their boots are polished and they are clean shaven.

Then, they train on staged battlefields.

Training includes everything from live range activities where the trainees set mines, throw grenades, shoot rocket launchers and automatic weapons and engage in hand-to-hand combat. There is also a practice range where these same tactics can be mastered

Janet L. Odmark, 86, of Charlevoix died Aug. 13, 2001 at Charlevoix Area Hospital.

A funeral service was at 10 a.m. Aug. 17, 2001 at the First Congregational Church in Charlevoix. The Rev. Philip G. Schairbaum officiated. Burial followed in Brookside Cemetery.

Jan was born on July 10, 1915, in LaPorte, Ind. the daughter of James and Martha (Simpson) Stewart.

She received her bachelors degree from Western Michigan University and went on to Michigan

State University where she received her masters degree in education. Jan taught in Petoskey before moving to Charlevoix in 1946.

She retired from Charlevoix High School in 1975 where she taught Home Economics.

On Oct. 25, 1942 she married Clarence A. Odmark in Detroit. He preceded her in death on Feb. 23, 1989.

Jan was a member of the First Congregational Church, the church choir, Mary Burns Circle and the Michigan Education Association.

Survivors include two sons,

Richard E. (Isabel M.) of San Antonio, Texas and Robert S. (Donna K.) of Arlington, Va.; one daughter, Julie A. of Charlevoix; seven grandchildren, Allison, Jacob, Joshua, Abigail, Terra, Bourn and Kurt; two sisters, Mary Jewell of Traverse City and Susie (Jerry) Moore of Berkley.

She was preceded in death by two brothers, Robert and Phillip Stewart.

Memorial contributions may be made to the First Congregational Church. Envelopes are available at the Winchester Funeral Home.

Marilyn belle Curtis, 65, of Charlevoix, died Aug. 26, 2001 at her home.

A funeral service will be at 1 p.m. today at the Winchester Funeral Home in Charlevoix. The Rev. Harold Kruse will officiate. Burial will follow in Brookside Cemetery.

Marilyn was born on Oct. 7, 1935 in Clare, the daughter of Forrest and Elsie (Proust) Brewer.

She attended Clare High School, graduating in 1954. On Aug. 26, 1955 Marilyn took the vow to love Robert Alton Curtis "until death do us part," which by fate, was 46 years later to the day.

In 1959 the couple moved to Charlevoix to raise their family.

Marilyn was the type of person that always put her family first. She was a wonderful wife, mother, grandmother and friend. She spent her life giving to others. Everyone knew that you could count on her for good conversation and in Marilyn's presence everyone was someone special.

She was an avid reader and a lover of all God's creatures. It didn't matter if you walked upright, on all fours or took flight, Marilyn always had enough love and food for everyone.

She will be deeply missed by all who knew her.

Survivors include her husband, Robert; two children, Steven (Kari) Curtis and Candace (Dennis) Mousseau; two grandsons, Tyler and Travis Curtis all of Charlevoix; two sisters, Barbara (George) Sexton of Clare and Wilma Griffith of Wayland; one brother, William (Sandra) Brewer of Clare; and several nieces and nephews.

Marilyn was preceded in death by her parents and one sister, Carol Maxine Brewer.

Memorial contributions may be made to the Charlevoix County Hospice or to Charlevoix County Humane Society.

Envelopes are available at the Winchester Funeral Home.

Close the gaps in your medical history.

In these days of self-advocacy and personal health care responsibility, medical record ownership is very important. Having a complete record of your medical history, and your family's medical history, provides awareness, knowledge, confidence and control to you the patient, and it helps your physicians and other health care providers do a better job.

Beginning April 2nd, patients of the former Burns Clinic in Petoskey, during the years 1993 to 1999, will be able to get and keep original copies of their medical records. Distribution of these important files will continue for one year, after which all remaining records will be destroyed. So if you were a patient, or if you are the parent of a minor patient of the Petoskey office of the Burns Clinic between 1993 and 1999, go to the first floor of the former Burns Clinic Building in Petoskey where you will fill out a release form and pick up your medical records.

Photo I.D. is required and all records must be picked up in person. Release forms are also available on the Web at www.northernhealth.org and there is no charge for this service.

For more information, call (231) 487-7800 or toll-free (866) 457-2545.

Franklyn Lee "Cork" Curtis: April 1, 1945 - Aug. 18, 2001

Franklyn Lee "Cork" Curtis, 56, of Charlevoix died Aug. 18, 2001 at his home.

A memorial service was given Aug. 24, at the First Congregational Church in Charlevoix. The Rev. Philip G. Schairbaum officiated.

Cork was born on April 1, 1945, the son of Franklin and Ruth Ann (Bedford) Curtis. He was born and raised in Charlevoix, loved sports and was involved in track, and excelled in his four year tenure on the basketball and football teams.

He was honored as being named All-State Football during the fall of his senior year.

Outside the sports arena, for several years he was a varsity club officer, class treasurer (senior year) and a member of the marching and symphonic band for three years. Following graduation he enlisted in the United States Air Force and served most of his years in Taiwan, ROC, as a master electrician.

During this same time Cork and Joanne Hooker were married on March 28, 1969, at the Alumnae Chapel at Michigan State University. He then attended Michigan State University and Honeywell Institute of Technology, and remained an avid MSU sports fan all his life.

Their life led them from Lansing to Escanaba and Marquette, where he was active in many community clubs and organizations, together with professional affiliations, before returning to his beloved Charlevoix.

Cork was an avid outdoorsman, and he took much time to enjoy and appreciate nature with his son, Scott. Boat outings and Great Lakes fishing trips were enjoyed by his family on "Capt. Hook," with Frank at the helm.

Since 1979 Frank was the owner of Micro-Data Services of Charlevoix.

During his entire life his wit and determination never faltered. He will be remembered often by his quick wit and original humor which overflowed to others.

Frank was a member of the First Congregational Church of Charlevoix, U.C.C., where he was both baptized and confirmed and where he participated in many activities with his family.

He is survived by his wife Jo; one son, Scott; one sister, Cynthia (David) Garland; four nieces; one nephew; and many loving friends and relatives.

Frank was preceded in death by his parents, Frank and Ruth Ann.

Memorial contributions may be made to the First Congregational Church, Charlevoix County Hospice or to the Charlevoix Alano Club. Envelopes will be available at the First Congregational Church.

Church challenging others with project

Churches throughout Charlevoix County have been challenged by Safe Harbor Baptist Church of Charlevoix to donate $1,000 to the Charlevoix County Jesus Video Project.

Safe Harbor is donating $1,000 to the project as a challenge grant.

The money will be used to send the Jesus video to every home in Charlevoix County, excluding the Walloon area, which has already been funded. The Jesus video is used around the world to introduce people to the life of Jesus, as portrayed in the book of Luke in the Bible. The movie was originally filmed at Warner Brothers Studios, with sponsorship by Campus Crusade for Christ and funding by an individual donor. Since then, it has been reformatted for video and has been shown around the world.

To date, the Charlevoix County Jesus Video Project has raised $17,000. About $19,500 is needed to fully fund the video distribution of 12,590 videos.

Twenty-three Northern Michigan counties are committed to the project, with additional downstate counties participating. Videos have already been mailed to counties in the Upper Peninsula.

Any church, business or individual interested in contributing to the Jesus Video Project should make checks payable to Charlevoix County Jesus Video Project and mail them to P.O. Box 60, Charlevoix, MI 49720.

Art center honors Gerber with children's music

The Crooked Tree Arts Center recently announced the establishment of the Dorothy Gerber Chair for Children and Music.

This anonymous gift in support of the "chair" will enhance the arts center's efforts to bring music education to the young people of Charlevoix and Emmet counties. The Crooked Tree Youth Orchestra and the Beginning Strings Program directly benefit from the gift, named in memory of the work of Dorothy Gerber.

Gerber encouraged and supported many young artists and musicians all across the United States, underwriting their formal training as well as supporting their public efforts. She assisted hundreds of underprivileged children in this country and abroad, both directly and through the "Foster Parents' Plan."

Gerber kept up a regular personal correspondence with many children, helping to alleviate personal problems, to underwrite their education and provide love and encouragement.

Gerber, along with her husband, Dan, created and developed the idea for strained baby food. Her column, "Bringing Up Baby," ran in daily newspapers across the country for more than 30 years and was filled with helpful advice for young mothers.

The Gerbers raised five children, who have produced 18 grandchildren and 15 great grandchildren.

Gerber's dedication to helping children will continue with the programs offered through the Crooked Tree Arts Center. Over 370 beginning string students in Charlevoix and Emmet counties will begin their second year of learning violin, viola, cello and bass.

The communities of Boyne City and East Jordan will have the opportunity to enroll their students in the Crooked Tree Arts Center Beginning String Program for the first time beginning in September 2001.

The Crooked Tree Arts Center is located in downtown Petoskey at 461 E. Mitchell Street.

For more information regarding programming or donor opportunities, please call the arts center at (231) 347-4337.

Save the Natural Beauty of Round Lake JUST THE WAY IT IS

During council meetings about the expansion of the Charlevoix City Marina on Round Lake, has our City Council and City Manager considered what an absolute jewel of a natural resource we look out upon each and every day?

At WATCH inc, we have. The following are just a few questions we would like the citizens of Charlevoix and surrounding areas to consider as you look out on Round Lake over the next few weeks:

- Do we want to restrict our view with a floating docks that extends out 400 feet? Surveys indicate that the highest use by local residents was "viewing" not boating or other marine based activities. (Source: Lake Charlevoix Association)
- What effect will this have on the Venetian festival? Will the annual fireworks display and boat parade be more restricted by the increased dockage?
- What will be the rental cost to boaters: both seasonal and transient?
- Where will visiting dinghies tie up?
- What is the position of the DNR (Department of Natural Resources), Corp of Engineers, and DEQ (Department of Environmental Quality)?
- Who pays for this marina expansion? How does it effect our taxes and infrastructure?
- How would any revenues be used? Who decides?
- Who really supports this proposal? Are they local taxpayers or local businesses?
- Public comment should be received as soon as possible and before any final design decisions are made. How will the public be notified of any public meeting? Will the meeting be scheduled when ALL property owners and residents can be heard?

At WATCH, inc we have a different point of view. And we would like to hear yours. Please write us at PO Box 615, or call and fax us at (231) 547-5530 to voice your opinion. The Charlevoix City Marina on Round Lake will be built with your tax dollars. Available data indicates 10 to 1 against the proposed expansion as it is now designed. We realize there are many points of view. The main point being: we like the view just the way it is.

We also encourage you to write the following city and state agents to express your view:

The mystery behind the origin of the noon siren

By JULIE MOSILEK
Staff Writer

Tradition and testing were the two reasons Charlevoix city officials and residents came up with when asked why the yellow siren that has sat on top of city hall since 1968 roars once or twice a day.

Every day at noon and sometimes again at 9:30 p.m. the city siren sounds, but no one has a definite answer as to why it happens.

Charlevoix city street superintendent and former fire chief John Martin said back before there was a central dispatch system and pagers, the siren was used to beckon firefighters to the station and to tell residents to look out for firefighters in route.

According to former city fireman Al Bergmann the first siren was put in place in 1923 and was retired in 1968 when the yellow one we see today came on board. The yellow siren is called a three signal air raid siren.

Records given to the Charlevoix Courier office by Al Bergmann show that volunteer firemen bought the first siren in 1923 and it took them about two years to pay for it. Money was raised by sponsoring dances.

Bergmann brought in newspaper clippings that said fireman reported that the old siren was not loud enough to reach areas of town.

According to life-long resident Dale Boss, one ring directed the crew to the first ward which was the city's north-side; two rings meant the emergency was in the second ward, the valley; and three rings was for the third ward, located west of State Street.

However, that siren came before what we hear today. Boss said this old siren, which Martin said was bought by the town of Buckley in early 1968 when the current one was installed, was a single horn and it had more of a howl to it.

"It took a long time to wind up and a long time to wind down. The dogs all across town would just howl," he added.

There was also a light that would flash out in front of Central Drug located on Bridge Street that would alert emergency personnel of any messages they had.

But now, huge red trucks with flashing lights and attached sirens, CBs and pagers have made the old technology obsolete.

Back in the day the current siren was also used to warn residents and visitors of tornadoes. The siren would still be used today in the case of an emergency such as a tornado. Martin said it would have a special tone that signifies the nature of the emergency.

"We haven't heard those because we haven't had any (tornadoes)," Martin explained.

Prior to the decommissioning of Big Rock Nuclear Power Plant the siren was also used to warn people in Charlevoix of nuclear disasters.

But, currently, Big Rock doesn't pose as much of a threat to people in the area and the fire department is state of the art so again, why the siren?

Well, according to shift commander Joe Schwartzfisher with the City Fire Department, where the signal control module is stationed, the noon whistle could sound to let everyone know it's lunch time.

"It lets people know it's 12 p.m. People around here use it to know when it's lunch time," he said.

Schwartzfisher added that there is also a traditional component in the siren's use. He said when he joined the fire department no one told him why they do it. "It's just always been done that way."

Because the fire station is in charge of pushing the button that activates the noon siren, some days you don't hear it. They can only warn you that it's lunch time in Charlevoix when there is someone in the building.

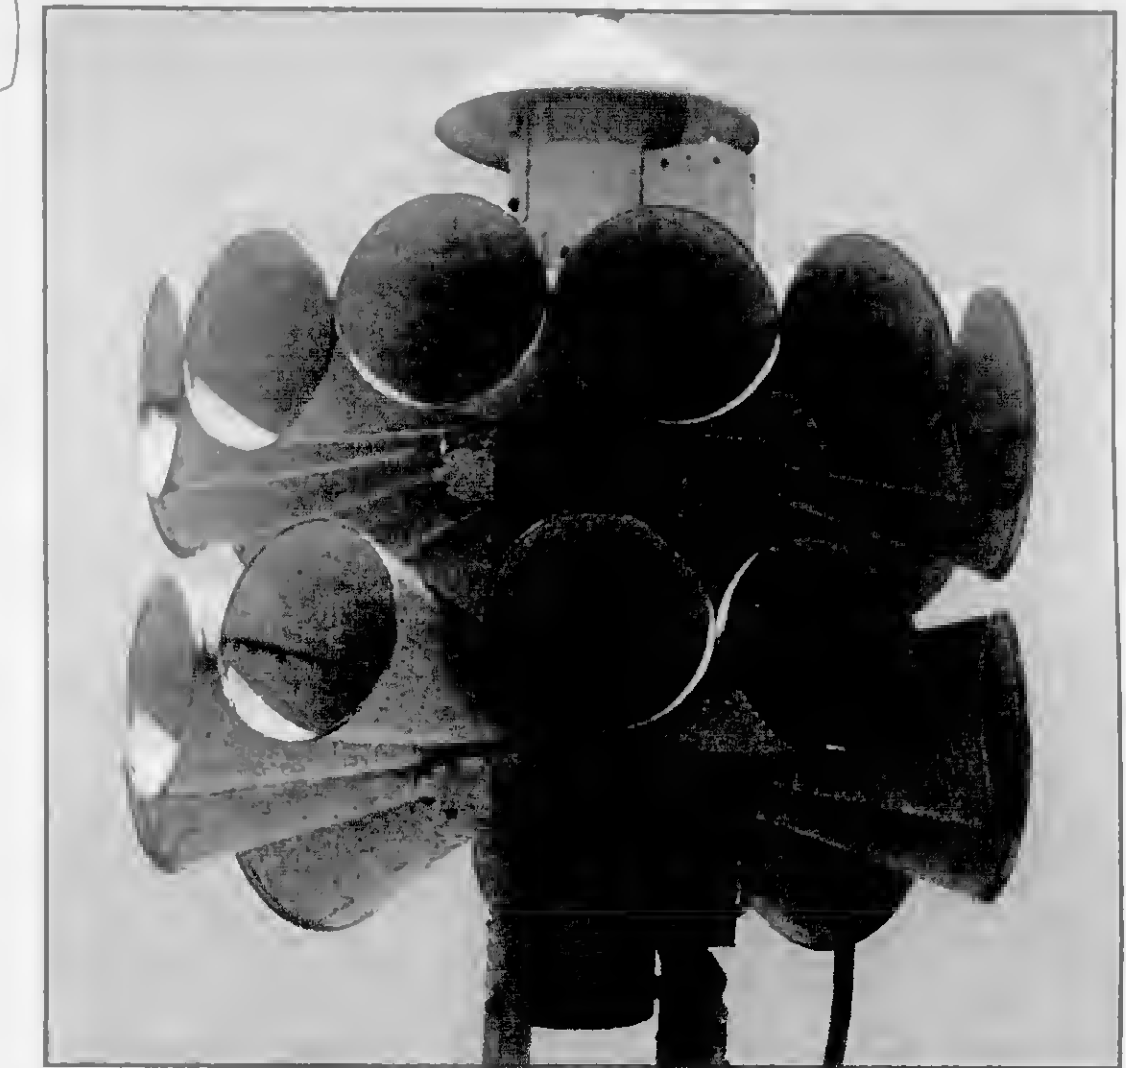

You may notice on Sundays you won't hear the whistle ever. Schwartzfisher said this is a courtesy measure for surrounding churches that may be in the midst of a service.

The 9:30 p.m. alarm is known around town as "the curfew alarm." This "curfew alarm" isn't consistently set off but when it is, local firefighter Lyle Gennett does the duty. However, according to city police chief Dennis Halverson, the "curfew" purpose is a local myth.

"Nine-thirty p.m. according to the ordinance doesn't apply to anyone," Halverson said.

The city ordinance does in fact have curfews, but none that fall at 9:30 p.m. Children 12 and under are supposed to be off the streets by 10 p.m., those between the age of 13 and 15 have to be in before 11 p.m. and 16-year-olds need to be inside by midnight.

So, the tradition and the mystery of the Charlevoix siren continue.

Why this siren on top of Charlevoix City Hall is blown at noon may be a mystery. (File photo) minus the explosions.

The group takes a 1 p.m. lunch break and train again from 2 to 5 p.m.

"We train in 100 degree temperatures with 80 percent humidity — we are sweating like nobody's business. There are heat casualties, heat stroke, heat cramps. Some guys get injured so bad they can't continue," Roberts explained.

Roberts said at one point he slipped a disc in his back, tore ligaments in his knee and dislocated his shoulder while propping down the side of a 54 foot tower.

Because of his injuries Roberts was unable to fulfill the final airborne Ranger test.

However, Roberts became the Army poster child.

When Roberts left he stood 6 feet, 4 inches and weighed in at a meager 173 pounds. Now his tall but his thin figure has been filled out with an extra 40 pounds of muscle.

Roberts is an Uncommitted Ranger on his way to becoming an official Army Ranger.

He is currently stationed in Ft. Riley, Kansas.

Roberts explained the Rangers are like G.I. Joe, the guys on the ground, in the thick of the madness during ground combat. He referred to himself as a "super grunt."

"There is a brotherhood bond in the infantry that you won't find anywhere else. We do the jobs no one else wants to do. Those guys would catch a bullet for me and I would for them. It's a whole different set of rules," he said.

He also said it takes a special kind of person to do the job, you don't just join the infantry or the Ranger Corps and assume you'll be able to squeak by, because you just won't make it.

His training has been physical and mental. The group also participates in military history classes. Roberts said he has learned about the military and civilian reality during Vietnam and Desert Storm.

In fact, in five months, Roberts' orders will send him to Saudi Arabia.

He said he isn't scared for the move now but he's sure he will when he gets over there.

"I'll deal with that set of emotions then. In the Army you are taught how to turn yourself off, to keep focused on logic and tactics and to do what you have to do to get the job done," he said.

Treasure hunt results, as well as race results

The Charlevoix Yacht Club Fantastic On-the-Water Treasure Hunt given Aug. 26, saw privateers, buccaners, pillagers, pirates and corsairs cruising the waters of Lake Charlevoix and Round Lake. Along the way, Saint Joseph's Raiders were stopped by the United States Coast Guard for a courtesy inspection and took advantage of the opportunity to get free help on an international signal flag clue.

Meanwhile, Teach's Class of 02 was observed vastly exceeding the speed limit imposed by the Letters of Marque and was penalized a bunch of doubloons for such disregard for proper pirate practices.

When it was over, some 60 scurvy scallaws gathered at the club to see Team Bumblebee (captain Mark Snyder), with only 260 penalty points, not only receive the Perpetual Pirate's Hoard Trophy but also gain the coveted honor of being the hosts of next year's FOWTH. Next, at 262 points, were the Swashbucklin' Fochers (captain Terry Hiser). Third Place went to the Pine Lake Pillagers (captain John Ochs) with 268.

The rest of the top seven were back a bit: Balter/Barnes Buccaneers (captain Josh Barnes) 288, Rumrunners (co-captains Mark Pirie and John Gordon 296, Saint Joseph's Raiders (captain Dick Joseph) 493 and Teach's Class of 02 (captain Richard Hodgson II) 613.

What a ball was had by all! Charlevoix Yacht Club Summer Series, Aug. 22: August races are often either Gust or Aw (as in aw heck); this one turned into the latter as the breeze evaporated as the evening progressed.

My self-calculated, very unofficial results: Spinnaker I: HOOTIE, WINDRUNNER, HOI POLLOI, GOTCHA, MINT JULEP and SLAPSHOT. Spinnaker II: BABE (only finisher). P-26: CYGNUS, TIRELESS, LOST VERMONT, TER, ARTEMIS and ORIGINAL SIN. JAM: FLASH, CHEEMAUN, APOTHECARY and ORION. There is a protest pending against APOTHECARY. J-22: SWINE FLEW, HUSSY, II RECKLESS, PALEFACE LITE, ROCK STEADY, FIRST DATE, SUPERFLUOUS. CRAZY HORSE, THUNDERSTRUCK, EAU DE VIE and HOG-TIDE.

Since these finishes are estimated, we have no standings available. The final race of the Summer Series will be a make-up on Sept 5.

Charlevoix Yacht Club Aug. 31: Charlevoix Yacht Club Triangle, late afternoon on this end of Lake Charlevoix. Call Mark Snyder with questions at 547-2122.

Red Fox Regatta, Sept. 1 and 2: The biggest annual sail racing event held in Northwest Lower Michigan wraps up the 2001 major regatta season. Watch as about 100 sail yachts leave Charlevoix for Boyne City on a far less than direct course Saturday, striving to be the first to the cookout and party. On Sunday, they head back here on a more direct course and finish in this end of Lake Charlevoix.

Party and awards are at the club after the race.

Sunfish Finals: After a fun Summer Sunday Sunfish Series that saw two cancellations due to adverse weather, Don and Tom have decided on a sail off to determine the 2001 Sunfish Championship!

All Charlevoix Yacht Club members are eligible, just be out by the "B" buoy at 1 p.m. on Sept. 23 for the start of a fast five race series. The winner will have the lowest point total for the best four of five races. Ties will first be broken by including the result of the dropped race, then by first, then seconds. Any ties that remain will stay tied.

Always wanted to be a writer? The Charlevoix Yacht Club is in need of one or two good publicity people. The Binnacle seeks a new editor and A. Nony Mouse needs A. Nother Mouse to help with this weekly (when the water's liquid) column. Interested? Call Val Snyder at 547-2122.

Yachting Notes is submitted each week during the summer months by the Charlevoix Yacht Club. To contact the club, see its website at www.charlevoixyachtclub.org or call 547-9170.

Braun finishes 100 holes for junior golf

Steve Braun has played a lot of golf in his many years as a teaching professional in Flint and most recently at Charlevoix's Belvedere Golf Club.

He's had some great rounds and satisfying wins both as an amateur and as a professional but, on his own admission, his enjoyment after playing 100 holes for pledges that benefit the local Junior golf program provide him with as much satisfaction as any golf victory he's had.

Starting at dawn and playing straight through until nearly 7 p.m., the 56-year-old pro played some very good golf. His first 18 holes produced a 77. He followed with rounds of 71, 81, 76, 75 and finished with a 38, then parred the one hundredth hole to finish in a flurry.

The 100 hole marathon was his fourth such fund-raiser for the Charlevoix County Junior Golf program. The program has drawn raves from the National Junior Golf Association as they identified it as being one of the top 15 programs in the United States.

This year, the program's sixth, they had 200 registered golfers from the Charlevoix Area.

Braun was pleased with the public's response. To date, there have been $9,000 in pledges.

"We've used the funds to help send worthy young people to the Ferris State University week-long golf camp and to reward a graduating senior, who has been an outstanding role model for our younger golfers, with a college textbook scholarship," he said.

Braun's journey was made smoother as adult mentors from Junior golf aided as cart drivers, caddies, and helpers. Volunteer adults that aided in the project included: Rosemary Corradi, Richard Doty, George Lochner, Fritz Puffpaf, Lill Left, Mary Jo McFalls, Charley Kohs, and Mary Bradley. 100-year-old Belvedere member Houston Witherspoon drove the one-hundredth hole to put a capstone on the event.

Dean Davenport, who organized and directs the Charlevoix County Junior Golf program, praised Braun.

"Steve has been a tremendous asset to our program. His love for golf and getting youngsters involved goes back a long way. We're fortunate to have him instructing and believing in our program. Charlevoix is fortunate to have him."

It's still not too late to support Braun's effort. Contributions can be mailed to his attention to the Belvedere Club, P.O. Box 218, Charlevoix, MI 49720.

Football team starts season with 12-0 loss to St. Ignace

By JEREMY MCBAIN
Editor

The Charlevoix Rayders varsity football team opened the season with a loss to St. Ignace Aug. 24, 12-0.

While St. Ignace is known as a very tough team — they made the state playoffs last year — coach Todd Klinger said the Rayders' loss was also the result of some poor offensive playing.

"Offensively, we had some missed assignments and some penalties that took us out of scoring position," Klinger said. "We need to work on our mental mistakes."

For example, a 62 yard touchdown run by Ryan Rafacz was called back on a Rayders' clipping penalty.

Total yardage lost to penalties was 115 yards.

While the offense struggled, Klinger said the high point was the Rayder defense, who kept St. Ignace to one touchdown. St. Ignace's other touchdown was the result of an intercepted pass.

"Nick Schwein, Rob Boss and Donovan Swanson (on the defense) played real strong ball games," Klinger said.

The leading rusher for the game was Rafacz, with six carries for 56 yards. Jeff Urban was the second leading rusher with 16 carries for 50 yards and Matthew Kilkenny was third with one carry for 47 yards.

Quarterback Nate Teuscher completed six passes out of 18 for 92 yards.

On the defense, the most tackles were chalked up by Schwein with 13. Swanson was second with 10. Dennis Avery had one interception and Chris Loper had one fumble recovery.

"We had a tough test. We know what we need to work on and the kids will be back ready to play against a good Benzie Central team (this Friday)," Klinger said.

The Rayders will be at home Friday.

Golf team gets first win of season

The Charlevoix golf team opened its season with a win Aug. 21 at the Loehenheath Golf Club in Traverse City.

The Charlevoix varsity team beat Traverse City St. Francis 160-165.

Individual scores were: David

Shearer with a 37, Jordan Nystrom with a 39, Nick Cole with a 42, Allen Brooks with a 42, York Smith with a 42 and Kreg Wager with a 55.

While the varsity team got the win, the junior varsity team was not so lucky and lost 220 to 212 to Traverse City St. Francis' junior varsity team.

Individual scores were: Jake Burns with 48, Allen Couture with 49, Mathew Nitchman with 63, Ryan DeYoung with 67, Adam Wager with 60 and Gene Foley with 72.

For over 25 years, one hospital in northern Michigan has been leading the way in cardiac care.

Now we need your help to keep it beating strong.

In 1973, Northern Michigan Hospital in Petoskey established the first open heart surgery program in northern Michigan. Since that time, Northern Michigan Hospital has stayed on the leading edge of heart disease prevention, diagnosis and treatment. Now, we need your help. In order to expand and modernize our facilities and equipment, including renovating and upgrading our Cardiac Catheterization Laboratory, Northern Michigan Hospital is mounting its first major capital campaign in nearly 25 years. Otter resigns, investigation comes to end ters with Otter.

Other claims came from Charlevoix resident Mary Beth Zimmerman who said Otter typically used threats and intimidation in coaching.

Ward agreed and said, "You don't break Jason Otter's rules because there are repercussions."

Other concerns stemmed from name calling and angry outbursts that Ward said resulted in a loss of confidence, self-esteem and interest in the game of basketball for her daughter.

"I think Jason Otter closed the door for basketball for her," Ward said.

But, Otter was also defended at the meeting, most notably by the very varsity girls' basketball team parents had accused him of being abusive to.

But school board member Scott Boss asked the players to return to practice soon after the meeting started.

Superintendent of Charlevoix Public Schools John Sturrock assured the players that they would have the opportunity to speak on behalf of Otter.

"If you are trying to help coach, the best place to be is not here tonight. The board will spend the necessary time to do an investigation," he said.

Assistant basketball coach Parrish also spoke in defense of Otter.

"She may fear the Charlevoix program, but what does she want out of the program," he asked.

Linda Prescott said, "They have to be so devoted and so strong. There are probably some girls who don't want to live 24 hours, seven day a week, basketball."

"Some pretty serious words are being thrown out, let's get behind those and figure out what is going on. He is our coach. I don't think anyone should feel there is a big ax falling on Jason. The bigger deal is where are we going in the future," Telgenhof said at the meeting.

Telgenhof said the committee wanted to hear from those in attendance about their concerns. He then said the committee would talk to the girls' basketball team and hear their impressions.

Later, Parrish said he thought the whole situation just got exaggerated.

"I think he (Jason Otter) was backed into a corner. He didn't have many options," he said about Otter's resignation. "I thought he was an excellent coach. He was demanding of the things he wanted, but he wanted the right things."

ENTERTAINMENT

Area events

First garden meeting

The Charlevoix Evening Garden Club will have its first meeting of the fall from 7 to 9 p.m. on Sept. 11 at the Charlevoix Area Hospital. The program features Dan Poux of See North with the discussion "Bees Are Beneficial."

Old-fashioned ice cream social

At 7 p.m. on Sept. 4, at the historic Charlevoix Depot at the end of East Dixon Avenue, the Charlevoix Historical Society will have its annual old-fashioned ice cream social to honor the year's volunteers. The public is invited and new members are always welcome.

Call the Charlevoix Historical Society at 547-0373 for more information.

Fall, winter Harsha hours

Fall and winter hours at the Harsha House Historical Museum, located at 103 State Street, are from 1-4 p.m., Tuesday - Saturday and 5-9 p.m., Thursday. Meetings of the Charlevoix Historical Society are usually at 7 p.m. the first Tuesday of the month and board meetings are at 4 p.m. the second Tuesday of the month.

Call the Charlevoix Historical Society at 547-0373 for more information.

Hunter education clinic

A Hunter Education Clinic will be given Sept. 8, at the Charlevoix Rod and Gun Club, located north of Charlevoix on US-31. Registration will begin at 8:45 a.m., in the clubhouse. There will be a lunch break and registrants are asked to bring a sack lunch. The days activities will conclude at 4:30 p.m.

This clinic is open to all area residents 12 years of age and up or who will be 12 prior to purchasing a 2001-2002 hunting license.

A testing session, for those who complete the Sept. 8 clinic, will be in Boyne City and Charlevoix, with the time and dates to be announced at the Sept. 9 clinic.

Attendance is mandatory at both sessions (clinic and testing) to receive the Hunter Education Certificate.

For additional information call Jim Mansen at 547-6862 or Don Lockman at 582-7127.

This clinic is free and conducted with the help of the DNR, members of the Charlevoix Rod and Gun Club and volunteer instructors from the area.

Ranger to speak

The Friends of the Charlevoix Public Library will feature Pat Ranger speaking about "The Life and Times of William Ratigan" at 7 p.m. on Sept. 13 at the library. Ranger, daughter of the late William Ratigan, will talk about her father's writing and read excerpts from his published works. She will also share some newly discovered poems found in the attic of his home in Charlevoix. The late Ratigan was a Great Lakes historian, writer/author, professor and owner of the Dockside Press. Above, Pat Ranger views the collection of books authored by her late father, William Ratigan. The collection is housed in the Charlevoix Public Library's Michigan Room. (Courtesy photo)

Housing a problem in Charlevoix

HOUSING

"Do we have an affordable housing problem for families with kids? Yeah, I think we do," he said.

Plus in housing coalition documentation received from the federal government, Charlevoix County fair market rents for homes and apartments are as follows: No bedroom (studio) — $357 a month; one bedroom — $361 a month; two bedroom — $457 a month; three bedroom — $621 a month and four bedroom — $643 a month.

And according to at least two business owners in the area — who also own rental property in Charlevoix — many homes that are currently selling or renting for "affordable" rates are nothing to be proud of.

"It is very hard to find a decent house under $150,000. There are plenty of houses out there, but they are an arm-and-a-leg," said Robin Moffat, co-owner of the Hillcrest Club, an apartment building on Huribut Street.

Terry Left, owner of the Villager Pub and Terry's Place — as well as 10 rental houses — agreed. He said there is such a need for lower income housing in the area that some landlords are just buying up homes and not fixing them up, but they can still find people to rent them.

What it means to the area Sid Smith, of Smith Equities in Mount Pleasant — who has tried to build housing developments in the area — said this is a problem that also affects the economy.

"Employees are spending their paychecks elsewhere. The idea is you want them to put it in the local banks and grocery stores. You try to recycle the money," he said.

Charlevoix City Manager Mike Wiesner agrees.

"It (a lack of affordable housing) causes workers now and in the future to live in more remote areas and to have to commute. As a result of that commuting, these people might be more apt to shop in another area rather than here," he said.

But, at least one real estate agent believes the problem is only a shortage of homes for summer workers.

"It is not a major problem year-round. Year-round employees are more likely to find a place locally," said Richard Lobenherz, president of Vacation Properties Network in Charlevoix.

However, many others believe this is a year-round problem.

Jacqueline Merta, director of the Charlevoix Chamber of Commerce, said it is hard for workers to live in Charlevoix.

"I definitely know there is a shortage of housing year-round. I do know that some business people have problems getting people here. They hire people, but they can't find housing, so they can't employ them," she said.

Charlevoix business owner Left also agreed.

"We have to pay people so much more to live here," he said.

What can be done?

According to Amick, since the problem is caused by a higher demand for homes than the supply, one solution would be to increase the supply.

"If there is an increase in supply and it meets demand or exceeds it, we will see prices stabilize. It is that simple," he said.

But in order to increase supply, there needs to be more homes or more development. But, this has its problems.

"People don't want it around them," Amick said.

Both Morgan and Smith said basically people need to change their thinking on affordable housing. Too often, people associate affordable housing with crime and other undesirable aspects.

Smith said affordable housing allows people to stay in the community.

"The idea is for them to have an affordable place to live so they can save money and buy a home in town. You basically rent until you can afford a house. We provide them with a start," he said.

Housing $

Amick added it is up to the local politicians to realize that affordable housing is needed and to do something about it.

"They run the city and townships. They need to listen to the people, but do the right thing," he said.

Amick suggested to alleviate some of the public's fears, we should focus on allowing more developments built by local developers and to build more multi-family developments that take up less room.

But Morgan said there may not be enough local interest.

"We tend to be very cautious, careful and wary of out-of-town developers, but we don't have developers locally that want to develop affordable housing," she said.

However, according to Wiesner, it may not be as simple as just allowing more developments.

"I don't think there is a magical solution to it. I think there are a lot of desirable resort areas going through this," he said.

The future

While a solution to this problem is debated, the cost of housing will continue to rise.

According to Vogelheim, appreciation values on homes in Charlevoix are so high that a home that sold for about $150,000 last year would sell for $165,000. He estimated the average appreciation value on Charlevoix homes to be 8.6 percent from 2000 to 2001.

Amick pointed out past reports in the Charlevoix Courier detailing a 3.9 percent loss in population in the city of Charlevoix in the past ten years. This loss of population resulted in the loss of some state funding.

However, the census reported Charlevoix Township had 67 percent growth. Regardless, some see the worker growth coming to a halt.

Amick foresees a future when the people who work in Charlevoix, do not live in the area. This includes workers who are in support services like police officers and other government workers.

"We are not going to have full time residents here. It's all up to conjecture with what happens when our workers leave," he said. "I think the problem is solvable, but it is a pretty dangerous situation."

Lawsuit's end may be near Lawyers request Sept. 14 hearing on sewer

By JEREMY MCBAIN
Editor

The lawsuit against the Charlevoix School District over a proposed sewer line to its new high school site on Marion Center Road may soon come to an end.

Last week, attorneys for the school district submitted a motion asking that the case be dismissed in a hearing on Sept. 14. Lawyers for the plaintiffs — Kenneth Staley, Kenneth Tunison, Robert Mossman, Paul Richards and Joseph Seidel — also submitted a motion to have the case heard on Sept. 14 by Charlevoix County Circuit Court judge Richard Pajtas without a trial.

According to documentation, the school's lawyers argue that this case is mainly a challenge against the special bond election given in November 1999 that provided funding for the school project. They argue that the plaintiffs filed their lawsuit on Oct. 11, 2000, but the statute of limitations on this type of lawsuit is only 30 days after the election.

However, in documentation filed by the plaintiffs' attorneys, they claim the lawsuit is not over the ballot language. But, the documentation claims the school did not notify the public before the November 1999 election that part of the bond was going to be used to pay for a sewer extension to the school site.

Furthermore, the plaintiffs argue that the sewer extension that will be constructed to the school site is "grossly oversized" and will be used to benefit private developments in the area, such as a business park that would be created by the city of Charlevoix.

However, the city of Charlevoix has not publicly stated it is planning on building a business park in the Marion Center Road area, but it has been reported that officials from Marion Township and the city have looked at land in this area for just such a project.

In regard to the size of the sewer line that would be constructed to the school site, court documentation submitted by the district states the school has no power in the matter. Documentation states the sewer will be designed and constructed by the city of Charlevoix and the school will only be a customer of the city.

The school district will pay for a portion of the sewer construction, but will receive money from any tap in fees collected by the city for the sewer. According to court documentation, the school would receive money for up to 10 years or until it is fully reimbursed the money it paid, or whichever comes first.

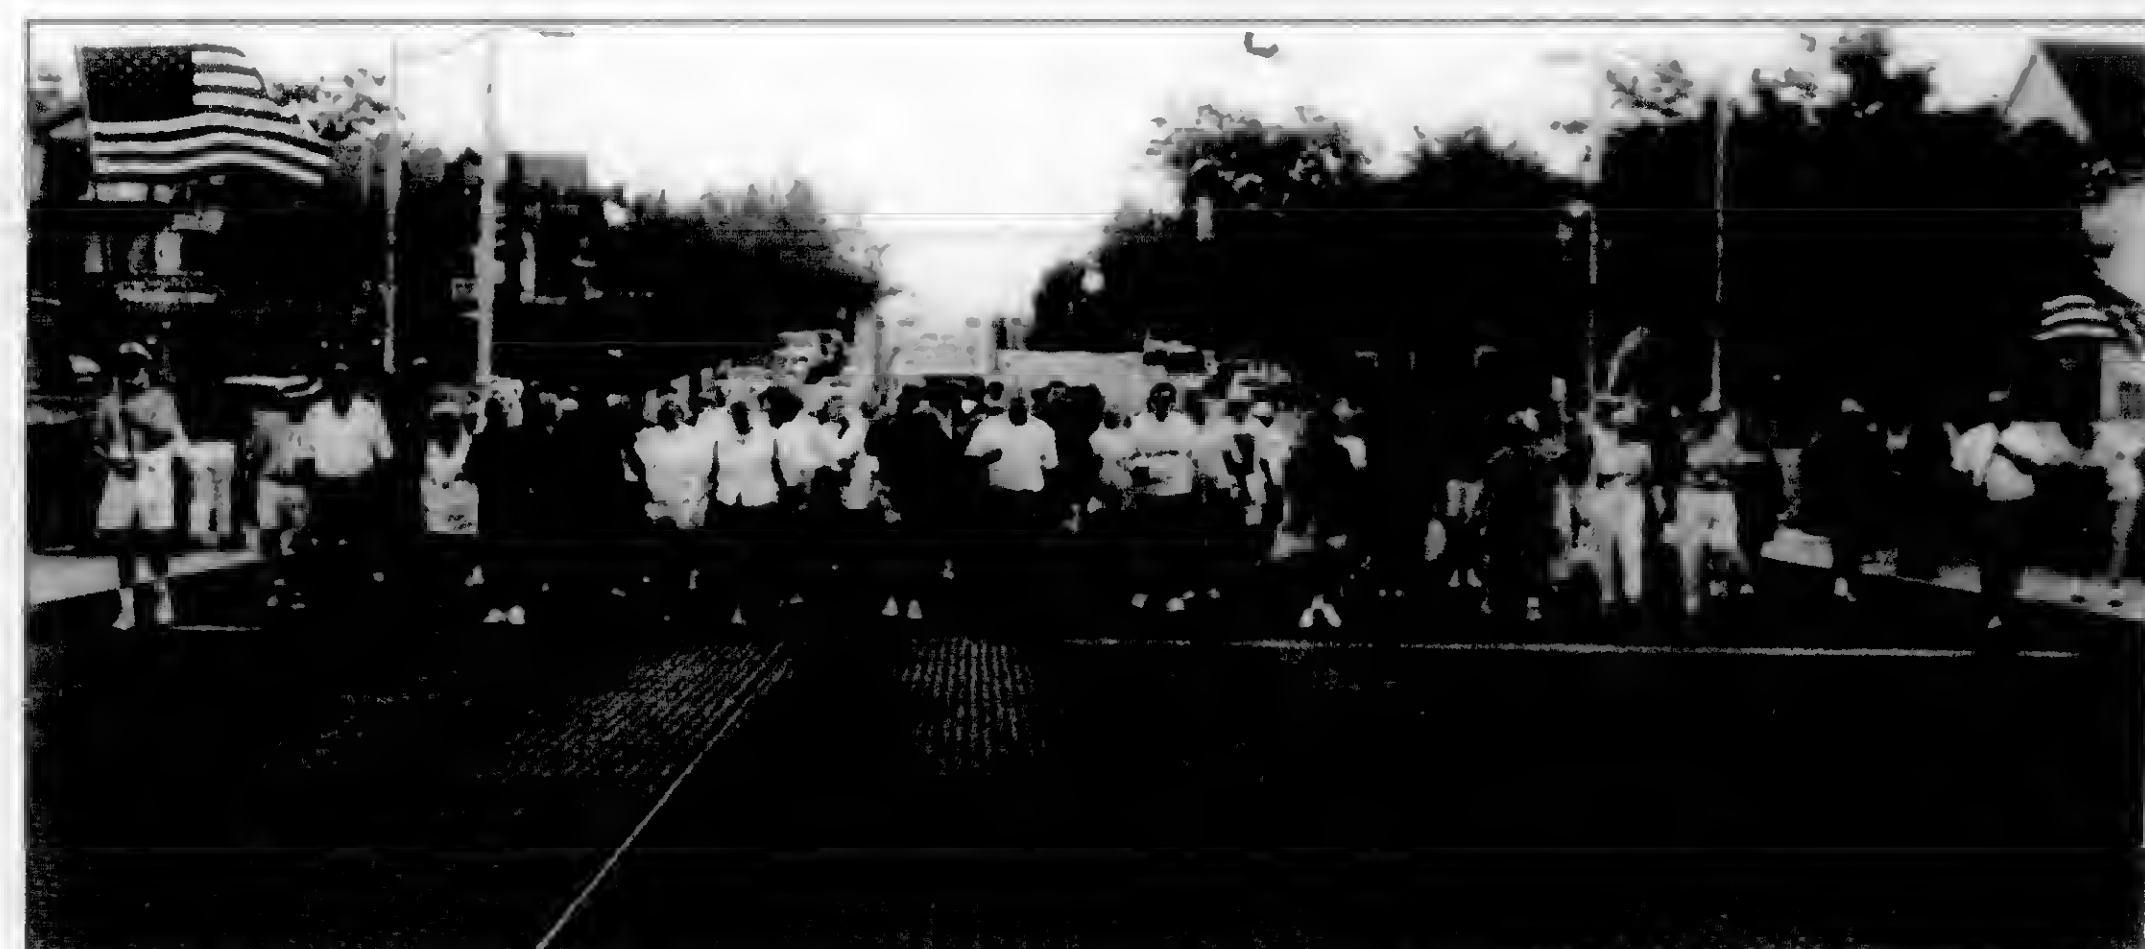

And, according to Charlevoix City Manager Mike Weisner, the size of the sewer extension has not even been determined yet.

"The engineer is working on those plans," he said. "We are sizing the sewer line to serve the general area, if it needs it in the future."

The plaintiffs in the suit are requesting the school pay "allowable costs and attorney fees."

This amount of money is not known at this time.

Big Rock unveils container for dry fuel at open house

By JEREMY MCBAIN
Editor

Big Rock Point Nuclear Power Plant hosted several area residents Aug. 29 as it unveiled the first of its eight dry fuel storage containers on the newly constructed cement pad.

"I am very happy with the turn-out. From a public affairs standpoint, you can talk-and-talk about (the containers), but seeing it is worth 1,000 words," said Tim Petrosky, public affairs director at Big Rock.

Those in attendance at the event received a rare chance to stand next to one of the containers, which did not contain the highly radioactive dry fuel currently in the nuclear plant. As Big Rock is dismantled, the dry fuel must be stored on site until the opening of the Yucca Mountain facility in Nevada by the federal government.

Therefore the fuel will spend the rest of its time housed in 8 large concrete containers that will sit on a cement platform on Big Rock property surrounding by security. Once it is all in place, the project will have used 167 tons of concrete to house the dry fuel.

The concrete pad the containers will sit on is about the size of a basketball court. The containers themselves are 19 feet high and 11.5 feet in diameter. The exterior layer of concrete on the containers — which surrounds a metal container with the dry fuel — is two-and-a-half feet thick.

Mike Bourassa, dry fuel storage project manager for Big Rock, said the containers are designed to withstand practically anything from floods to tornados. Plus, they will be monitored to make sure nothing happens to the fuel contained within them.

The process to put the fuel in the containers will be equally as safe, Bourassa said. All of the fuel will be loaded into the containers inside the nuclear power plant. The containers will then be slowly moved to the concrete pad on-site.

The vehicle that will be used to move the containers will be followed and surrounded by several safety personnel and it will travel at speeds of only 2 mph. Additionally, there will be a backup driver in the vehicle during the transport, in case something happens to the main driver.

"The safety precautions that we will have in place would boggle your mind," added Petrosky.

Your question of the month

The results are in from the latest "What do you think?" question.

The question was "What should be done about drugs in our schools?" No one responded to this question.

Perhaps this lack of response represents what the problem is — people do not want to address drugs in schools. In many cases we seem to think drugs could never be a problem in Charlevoix; we turn our heads at the reports and ignore the warning signs.

Well, there is a problem. Charlevoix is like many school districts throughout Michigan grappling with the issue of student drug use. Several times last year, that drug use took place during school hours. This issue needs to be addressed.

Perhaps the first way that this issue can be addressed is by the community admitting the problem is here.

Now onto this month's "What do you think?" question.

Currently there is a push in the state legislature to replace the robin as the official state bird. Some people think the chickadee would make a better state bird because it stays in Michigan throughout the winter, unlike the robin that migrates south.

What do you think?

Still, others think both of these birds are not fitting for the state and point out Michigan is the only place in the United States that the Kirtland warbler nests.

And still others do not even see the need for a state bird.

So, what do you think Charlevoix? Should we change the state bird?

Keep your answers to about 250 words and remember to sign them. The deadline for answers is 5 p.m., Sept. 28. All answers will be published in the Oct. 3 edition of the Charlevoix Courier.

Gilbert shares tales of her trip to Beaver Island

Edith Gilbert

'Behind the news'

Yes, you can turn back the clock! If you've never been to Beaver Island, treat yourself for an overnight visit and marvel at the way things were 50 years ago.

Instead of the 20 minute plane ride from Charlevoix, we chose to take the two hour boat ride. Beaver Island is all of 6 miles wide and 13 miles long, it has a winter population less than 400, there is no jail, and the speed limit on the King's Highway is 25 miles an hour.

Our first stop was the Shamrock — a local pub that I jokingly refer to as the "Island's YMCA." It was reassuring that nothing had changed since I was there last! On the right is the same long bar where mothers with toddlers chat with the bar maid, while waiting for carry-out orders. Straight ahead is the juke box, two pool tables and a dance floor frequented by teen-agers. Seated on the left are construction workers having beer. The decor is vintage '50's.

We heard the food was good at the Shamrock, now owned by my friend, Eric Hodgson, so we decided to go there for dinner. A waitress brought us the menu and my grandchildren, Victoria and Bob, ordered native whitefish while I ordered lamb chops. We all agreed — delicious! For dessert, a fresh peach pie with vanilla ice cream was the finest. Eric arranged for a rented car to be brought to us at the Shamrock so we could cruise the island the next day.

We had tried to book rooms at the Beaver Island Lodge, but they were full, so we took a $100 suite at the newly remodeled, two story, Emerald Isle Hotel. Here time truly stands still. Our upstairs rooms, no elevator, no phones or air conditioning, were clean and spacious with a TV.

The next morning, after a good night's sleep, we had a tasty breakfast at Dalwhinnie's, which means "meeting place" in Irish. For the rest of the day we toured the island with stops at the Harbor Light House where many outdoor weddings are performed. We visited the Marine Museum, Print Shop Museum and the Toy Museum — where I bought all my Halloween hand-outs for this year. With much friendly hand-waving, we cruised around the island on narrow roads under a canopy of green trees. We took pictures at Whiskey Point. We stopped for a delicious lunch at a plain red barn called Stoney Acre Grill. In the afternoon we took a swim at a gorgeous, sandy beach called Iron Ore Bay. Here property values have caught up with the times and lots are selling for $200,000!

But this is only the beginning of what's in store for the island in the foreseeable future. The legislature in Lansing passed a bill unanimously allocating $4.5 million in funding to build new year-round medical facilities on both Beaver and Mackinac islands, but Governor Engler vetoed the Beaver Island proposed new medical center, saying he would consider funding for the fiscal year 2003 budget. Here's hoping!

For those who are not familiar with the island's fascinating history it pays to read up on it. Originally inhabited by Native Americans, it was settled by Irish fishermen in the early 1800s. In the middle 1850s Mormons, under the leadership of self-proclaimed King James Jesse Strang, briefly populated the island. When he was shot, his followers fled the island. Early fishing and logging has been replaced today with construction and tourism which means you could be greeted with a hearty Gaelic "cead mil failte" or "one hundred thousand welcomes!"

Letters to the editor

Thank you

Editor:
The intent of this letter is to thank everyone involved in the first annual Helen Open golf outing that took place Aug. 19. It was a great success, raising over $10,000 to benefit the American Cancer Society and Charlevoix County Hospice.

Without our generous donors, tireless volunteers and endless support of the Weislik family, this event would have never occurred. The vision for this outing began over a year ago. Through the pain and sadness of Helen Weislik's passing, we continued the planning. We believe she would have approved of her day and would want us to continue with this new Charlevoix tradition, inspired by her.

Again, a heartfelt thank you to all who were involved or supported this cause in any way. You are too numerous to list individually, but each of you were instrumental to the success of the Helen Open.

Great camp

Editor:
Many out-of-towners had a great camp experience. The head of the camp, Amy Pott, did a marvelous job running the camp. The counselors were also exceptionally great. If there is a way to acknowledge this group of Camp McSaubia staff in the Courier I would appreciate it.

Column response

Editor:
I'm writing this in response to Edith Gilbert's column in the Aug. 22, 2001 Courier, "The dog days of summer bring a hairy new visitor."

I enjoyed reading her column immensely because I am a great dog lover and have a wonderful golden retriever named Samson. I must, however, take exception about her comment that, "the only motel that accepts pets is The Lodge." The Charlevoix Sleep Inn does also accept dogs and cats and they were extremely hospitable to us when we used to arrive with two golden retrievers.

Before we purchased our place in Charlevoix, we were contented guests at the Sleep Inn numerous times! I think they deserve some recognition, too. Thanks Edith for introducing me to a new breed of dog, the Dogue de Bordeaux. I wish that I'd had a chance to meet her "grand-dog!"

CROP Walk set goal of raising $18,000

The 18th Annual Charlevoix County CROP Walk has been scheduled for Sept. 29.

Local coordinators from Charlevoix, Boyne City and East Jordan met with Johanna Balzer, associate director of Michigan Church World Service/CROP, to set goals for the 2001 Walk. The goal was set at getting 138 walkers out and earning $18,000 for the cause.

Special award pins will be given to walkers who raise $150 or more.

CROP Walks are interfaith community events that are affiliated with the Church World Service. The service works with disaster relief, development and refugee resettlement.

Walkers are urged to ask family, friends and co-workers to sponsor them for this event. Sponsor envelopes are available from local churches.

Though most of the funds will be used by Church World Service in overseas relief and development work, 25 percent is returned to the communities in Charlevoix County to be used by the local food pantries.

In the 2000 walk, 139 walkers earned a best-ever $19,050. The food pantries in Boyne City, East Jordan and Charlevoix received $1,586.87 to use in combating hunger.

Charlevoix walkers start from the high school on May Street, Boyne City walkers start from Whiting Park for the approximately six mile hike to Ironton where they will meet with East Jordan walkers who start from Elm Point. All walkers will begin the journey at 9 a.m. following the 8:30 a.m. registration.

Charlevoix Kiwanis takes its turn this year serving a snack of hot dogs and soft drinks or coffee to the walkers before they are transported back to their starting points.

"We walk because they walk," is the CROP Walk motto which refers to the millions of people around the world who must walk for food, for shelter, for water and for survival.

For further information on volunteering to walk or to sponsor a walker call Diana Walls in Boyne City at 582-6485, Marge Teske in East Jordan at 536-3128 or Kay Smith in Charlevoix at 547-2920.

Homelessness a problem in area

By JEREMY MCBAIN
Editor

(Editor's note: This is the second in a series examining housing in the area.)

According to the Charlevoix Emmet Housing Coalition, there are about 50 families in the Charlevoix area that are currently homeless.

"There is a homeless problem in this area," said Craig Swanson, housing crisis intervention specialist of the coalition. While most of the homeless in the area are living with family or friends, some of them spend their summers camping in the woods.

The reasons for homelessness in this area are many.

"A lot of times it is inconsistent work, seasonal work, inadequate income and housing rental prices too high," he said.

But there are places homeless in the area can turn to for temporary help. In Charlevoix, there is the Ezra House located on Mason Street and in Petoskey, there is the Nehemiah House on Bridge Street.

According to Tim Boyko of the Ezra House, people have been staying in the house almost weekly. Those taking advantage of the service have been anyone from couples to families.

Boyko said the Ezra House is just an emergency shelter for people.

ple. Usually after staying with them, those needing housing move into temporary housing.

"There is a demand for emergency shelters and recently we have seen an increase in calls," he said.

While he said most of the people making use of the Ezra House are those who are trying to stabilize themselves in the economic system.

But, while the Ezra House is experiencing an increase in calls the Nehemiah House has reported a decrease in use.

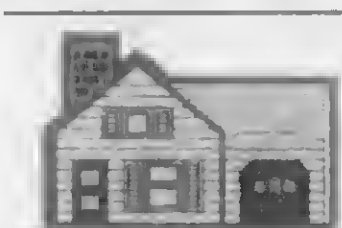

According to the Rev. Ward Potts, director/chaplain of the house, the service usually experiences an increase in the summer. However, this August saw less people in the house than in the past.

"I am not sure how to explain it," he said.

The house generally serves about 2,500 to 2,600 people a year and serves meals twice a day.

Potts also said there are many reasons for homelessness in this area. Some of it is caused by alcohol and drug abuse, another factor in an increasing number of mental patients and some people travel throughout the country from shelter-to-shelter.

Lastly, he said, a growing cause is people who hear about all the jobs the area has to offer and they come, only to find out the housing prices are very high.

Potts said in order for people to get into a rental home in this area, they generally must have anywhere between $800 to $1,000.

"That does not happen in a week or two. That is where a shelter is great help," he said.

Both Potts and Swanson said an added problem for lower income families is the importance of credit in getting a rental.

While there are lower-income apartment complexes in Charlevoix, many times people have to have good credit to get into them, something many of the poor do not have.

According to Heidi Lowell, resident manager of Pine Cove Apartments — a lower income apartment complex in Charlevoix — credit is used very often.

If a person has "borderline" bad credit, she said they are often given the opportunity to have a co-signer on their lease. An example of "borderline" bad credit would be someone with no credit history.

If a person has several judgments against them on their credit report, especially from a former landlord, they will probably not be approved, Lowell said. All of these decisions are made in Lansing by Pine Cove's main office, Lansing Management.

Of the 94 units in Pine Cove, currently 91 of them are filled, Lowell said. The process to get an apartment in the complex takes about two weeks.

While the causes of homelessness are many, the ways to solve it are complex.

According to Potts, solving homelessness would involve asking very uncomfortable questions of ourselves and our community.

"That is painful. People have to be willing to face change," Potts said. And too often our culture hurts this effort by allowing people to not learn to be self-sufficient or self-motivating.

But, the good news, according to Potts, is he has seen many more successes than failures.

For more information on the Nehemiah House or to tour the house call Potts at his pager at (231) 516-1851. The house is open from 5 p.m. to 8 a.m. daily.

For more information on the Ezra House, call Boyko at 237-0000.

Where Is It?

Tell us where in the Charlevoix Area you think this is.

In an effort to add a little more fun to our lives and yours, the Charlevoix Courier is working on creating interactive areas of the newspaper for our readers. In the spirit of this, we are announcing the creation of a new contest called, "Where Is It?"

Each week, the Charlevoix Courier will publish a picture of some item on a local landmark or building. We invite our readers to send in their guesses on where this picture was taken.

Since every winning guess will be placed in the box, the more times you enter correct answers to "Where Is It?" your chances of winning increase.

AKtion Club chartered by local Kiwanis

By JULIE WITTHOEFT
Staff Writer

The motto of the AKtion Club is, "where development has no disability."

And no one knows what that means better than Betty Pridnia, 51, vice president of the AKtion Club.

Pridnia made a big thank-you banner for executive director of the Bergmann Center, Suzanne Muma that she presented to her at the weekly club meeting that took place at the Charlevoix Senior Center in early August.

Muma's eyes welled up with tears. "Tears of happiness," she said.

The AKtion Club, that Muma has played a role in organizing, started two years ago and on Aug. 7 it became an official part of the international Kiwanis organization.

AKtion Club district administrator, Ed Buday said his goal is to get as many AKtion Clubs started as possible. He said the thrust of the club is to, "Give adult people with disabilities the opportunity to serve the community."

In that service, Muma has seen the members grow emotionally. She said it has not only been a positive experience for AKtion club members but also for the community.

"People get to see their abilities versus their disabilities," she explained.

Pridnia said the club has taught her so many things. "To learn how to function in the real world. I learned that I can say speeches and I don't have anxiety near as much as I used to," Pridnia explained.

"This club kind of brought me out of my shell," she added. Buday said the Charlevoix chapter is the first chartered AKtion Club in Michigan and the sixth in the United States.

"I observed AKtion Clubs at international conventions, came back and felt we had a group of people who were challenged at the Bergmann Center and for years had done community service. This was an opportunity to get them some recognition," Buday said.

Projects the club has been a part of include; bell ringing for the Salvation Army, packing and delivering fruit baskets for seniors, delivering commodities for the Commission on Aging, and Meals on Wheels for the Senior Center. Muma said the club averages 30 man hours of volunteer work every month. The group currently has 15 chartered members.

Convention center may be in future

By JEREMY MCBAIN
Editor

The city may be getting a convention center in the near future.

At the Aug. 27 Charlevoix Downtown Development Authority meeting, Jacqueline Merta, president of the Charlevoix Chamber of Commerce, asked that the city share the cost of doing a feasibility study on a convention center in downtown Charlevoix, to be located at the southwest corner of Dixon and Michigan avenues.

The city would share the cost of this study with the chamber and the Charlevoix Convention and Visitors Bureau, Merta wrote in a letter to the city. The authority was cautious about the project and has instructed city staff to determine how much such a study would cost.

According to Mike Wiesner,

Charlevoix city manager, a convention center would help bring more people to Charlevoix during the off-season months to shop at local businesses and eat in local restaurants.

Wiesner said the city will propose to get a grant for the study. If the project is approved, he said there are probably grants available to build the convention center.

The property being looked at is located at 113 Michigan Avenue and is currently occupied by a bed and breakfast inn.

Registration time for preschool

It's registration time at Charlevoix Children's House. Its goal is to meet the overall developmental needs of each individual child, in partnership with its families.

A 2-and-a-half to 6-year-old will have the full benefits of the three-year sequence designed to provide a foundation in language and pre-arithmetic skills.

It offers several programs, including morning and/or afternoon mixed-age enrollment and kindergarten extended session. For the before and after-school needs of our families, we are open from 7:30 a.m. to 5:30 p.m. every school day.

It accepts children through third grade for after-school care. Bus service is provided from the local elementary school. Also, a scholarship program is available. Call 547-5599 for more information.

Business seminar to be given

SCORE (Counselors to America's Small Business) and NLEA (Northern Lakes Economic Alliance) are offering a seminar entitled "How to Start and Manage Your Own Business."

The two-part seminar will take place from 7 to 10 p.m. on consecutive Wednesdays, Sept. 26 and Oct. 3, at North Central Michigan College. Check-in will begin at 6:30 p.m. on Sept. 26.

SCORE and NLEA members say the seminar is for new entrepreneurs as well as established business owners. Local business professionals will discuss topics to include: the business plan; protecting your idea and structuring your business; conducting market research; marketing and sales tools and techniques; financial concepts and money management; financing; and internet marketing.

The cost of the two-night seminar is $40 per person. Advance registration is required by calling the Petoskey Regional Chamber of Commerce at 347-4150.

Award ceremony to be presented by art center

In recognition of eddi Offield's personal and positive impact on the quality of life afforded to the people of Emmet and Charlevoix counties, the Crooked Tree Arts Center is presenting the first of what is expected to become the annual eddi Awards.

Over 100 nominations, representing many talented individuals and organizations were received for the first eddi Awards. The committee chairmen, Jane Millar of Petoskey and Steven Palmer of Harbor Springs are organizing this inaugural event.

"The caliber of the nominations made us realize the incredible talent were surrounded with in Northern Michigan," said Millar.

The selection committee recently met to determine the award recipients. The award winners will be announced at the first eddi Awards celebration on Sept. 21. The panel of judges included Mary Adams, Charlevoix; Bill Aten, Boyne Falls; Jim Gillespie, Harbor Springs; Joe Hickey, Harbor Springs; Martha Landis, Boyne City; Peggy Midener, East Jordan; Meredith Richter, Petoskey; Rod Slocum, Bay View and Steve Spencer, Harbor Springs.

"How wonderful to be a part of the process of providing recognition to tremendously deserving people and organizations," said Aten regarding his responsibility as a member of the selection committee.

Fellow committee member, Mary Adams, said, "The selection process was difficult. All nominees have made great contributions to the arts and culture."

The categories for the awards are as follows: Visual Artist Award, Performing Artist Award, Arts and Cultural Organization Award, Arts in Education Award, Arts and Cultural Leadership Award, Individual Patron Award, Benefactor Award and Lifetime Achievement Award.

The Bay View Inn will be the location of the first eddi Awards celebration. The awards dinner is scheduled at 7 p.m., Sept. 21. Champagne and hors d'oeuvres will kick off the night, followed by dinner and dessert and the awards presentation.

Individual tickets are priced at $75 per person.

Obituaries

Beryl Livingston: May 10, 1916 - Sept. 1, 2001

Mrs. Beryl Livingston, 85, of Rockford went to be with her Lord on Sept. 1, 2001 after living courageously with cancer for over a year.

Beryl was born May 10, 1916 in Petoskey where she met and married David Livingston of Charlevoix, her husband of nearly 63 years. They moved to Rockford in 1942.

Beryl was a devoted wife and mother. She was a loving hostess and encouraging person to the many friends and family members who came to her home.

She was a faithful follower of Jesus Christ and an active member of First Congregational Church of Rockford. She was also a member of the OES, a volunteer at North Kent Service Center and worked in the credit department of Wolverine World Wide for 22 years.

Beryl was preceded in death by her son, Richard, formerly of Grand Rapids, her sister and brother-in-law, Elva and Martin Bartholomy, formerly of Rockford, her brother Dan and sister-in-law, Elizabeth Herrington, formerly of San Jose, Calif.; her sister and brother-in-law, Thelma and Carroll Watts, formerly of Thomasville, Ga.; her sister and brother-in-law, Hilda Gay and Clifton Mallory, formerly of Belleville; her sister and brother-in-law, Avis and Jim Beals, formerly of Advance; and brother-in-law, Wiley Vought, formerly of Boyne City; a sister-in-law, Janet Livingston, formerly of Charlevoix and Archie Livingston of Florida.

Surviving Beryl are her husband, David Livingston; daughter, Margery Livingston of Rockford; sister Merla Vought of Boyne City, David's sister and brother-in-law, Estelle and Ralph Hahn of Sun City West, Ariz.; sister-in-law Esther Livingston of Zephyrhills, Fla.; sister-in-law, Leone Mick of Bellaire; nieces, nephews and their families.

The service for Beryl is at 10:30 a.m. today at the Pederson Funeral Home in Rockford. The service will be officiated by Pastor Laurel TenHave-Chapman. Interment will follow at Blytheville Memory Gardens.

Those wishing to make a memorial contribution are asked to consider the First Congregational Church of Rockford designated for the Roofing Project or the Mission Project of Beryl's daughter at BMC International, 237 Fairfield Avenue, Upper Darby, Pa. 19082 (specify Congo Literature Fund, which provides Bible lessons for African children.)

Larry James Swanson: June 17, 1936 - Aug. 30, 2001

Larry James Swanson, 65, of Charlevoix, died Aug. 30, 2001 at his home from complications related to ALS (Lou Gehrig's Disease) following a three-year illness.

The funeral was at 3 p.m., Sept. 2 at Charlevoix Community Church of God. Pastor Neil Turner officiated and burial followed at Barnard Cemetery.

Larry was born June 17, 1936, to Lawrence O. "Stub" and Alma (Hartwell) Swanson in Charlevoix. He attended Charlevoix Public Schools, graduating in 1955.

On May 17, 1958 he married Verna Williams at United Missionary Church in East Jordan.

He served in the U.S. Army from 1959-1962. After his service with the Army, he and his wife, returned to Charlevoix, where they made their home.

Larry was employed with the family business, Swanson Construction, for many years. He also worked at Freeman Aircraft, Kloooster Equipment and retired from Medusa/Southdown Cement Company. He was an accomplished driver and operator of heavy equipment. He also owned and operated his own lawn care business.

He enjoyed hunting, camping, woodworking, his family (particularly his grandchildren) and his friends who fondly referred to him by his nickname "Speedy."

He was a member of Charlevoix Community Church of God. He was a charter member of the Charlevoix Township Fire Department and also served with the Charlevoix City Fire Department for many years.

In addition to his wife, Verna, he is survived by three sons, L. Scott (Kathy) Swanson of Indian River, Gregg (Janice) Swanson of East Jordan, Nick (Melissa) Swanson of Charlevoix; mother, Alma Swanson, of Charlevoix; sister, Nancy Burdick of Ypsilanti; three brothers, Tom (Joan) Swanson of Tucson, Ariz., Kevin (Barb) Swanson of Charlevoix; five grandchildren; and many nieces and nephews.

Memorial contributions may be made to Charlevoix Community Church of God or to ALS of Michigan, Inc. Envelopes are available at Winchester Funeral Home in Charlevoix.

Football team looking for another success

By JEREMY MCBAIN
Editor

The Charlevoix varsity football team may be the ones to beat this year.

After a successful season last year that ended with the Rayders winning the league championship, Charlevoix coach Todd Klingler said many of the other teams in the Lake Michigan Conference will be gunning for them this year.

"We have a target on our backs this year," he said.

But the Rayders will have a great set of players to keep those other teams frustrated. According to Klingler, one of their greatest advantages is the size and strength of the defensive and offensive lines.

On the offensive line is Rob Boss, Nick Schwein, Chris Loper, Landon Brown, Marshall Bakker, Nick Potter and Matt Kochanny. Boss, Brown, Bakker, Potter, Loper and Kochanny are also on the defensive line. They are joined by Gordie Lake, who will be playing defensive end.

Adding to the power of the lines will be the experienced offensive catching of Ryan Rafacz — he was named all state honorable mention last year — and Keith Daly at tight end. They are joined by Nate Teuscher as quarterback — Nate's brother, Jeremiah, was the Rayder's quarterback last year — Nick Pizzurro as fullback and Jeff Urban as tailback. Other backfield players will be Patrick Gowell and Todd Carey. Linebackers will be Donovan Swanson, Kyle Dobrowolski, Pizzurro and Schwein. The defensive secondary will be made up of Rafacz, Daly, Gowell, Carey, Dennis Avery and Matt Kilkenny.

While Klingler is fielding some very experienced and strong players on the line, he said his biggest weakness is an inexperienced backfield.

"We have had concerns all pre-season. We feel this group has potential, but we are hoping they can minimize their mistakes early," he said.

And Klingler will need these players to get their mistakes out of the way quickly, because he feels he will face the strongest competitors during the first two games of the season: St. Ignace on Aug. 24 and Benzie Central on Aug. 31.

"These could be the best teams we face all year," he said. Both teams have a strong nucleus of returning players.

The last senior is Kathryn Ricks, who Parrish calls his "long range bomber." Ricks is expected to improve throughout the season to be a complete player with well developed skills.

In addition to the team's seniors, is junior Candace Boss. Boss is new to the team, but Parrish says she is a "good student of the game."

Another season of excitement expected

By JEREMY MCBAIN
Editor

Rayder fans may have another season of excitement with the Charlevoix High School girls' basketball team.

The team, which ended its season last year with an impressive run in the tournaments, is looking to relive those moments this year. With several key players from last year still on the team, fans may have déjà vu.

"We are looking really good. We are going to stay in the old frame as last year as a running team, pressing team and full court team," interim head coach Jim Parrish said.

Helping the team along are a core group of seniors.

"Our seniors are the girls that will make this year a success, because they have put in all the time, effort and dedication that has been asked of each player to make this system as successful as it has been," Parrish said.

Leading the team will be Jennifer McClellan, a returning senior who Parrish calls "the general."

Another leader will be Krista Swenor, also a returning senior. Parrish said Swenor is more like a player/coach for the team.

The last senior is Kathryn Ricks, who Parrish calls his "long range bomber." Ricks is expected to improve throughout the season to be a complete player with well developed skills.

In addition to the team's seniors, is junior Candace Boss. Boss is new to the team, but Parrish says she is a "good student of the game."

The Rayders will also have two sophomores on the team this year, Rachel Wyniawskij and Alyssia McDonough.

Parrish said Wyniawskij is a good shooter that will "help shape the future of this program."

McDonough is the team's "most valuable swing player," Parrish said. This is because she can play every position on the court and she knows every play, he said.

Rounding out this year's girls' basketball team is freshman Grace Farrell. Parrish said she came to the team with some very good basketball skills that have enabled him to change around the offense more.

But, the team has had some difficulties that its players must overcome. First was a season ending injury to a top player then the resignation of their coach, Jason Otter, before the season began.

The injured player was Danielle Vogelheim, who was expected to accomplish a lot of things for the team this year.

"She is probably one of the school's best girl athletes. It hurts not having her," Parrish said.

As for the coaching situation, Parrish was Otter's assistant coach and is not new to girls' basketball. Parrish was responsible for starting the freshman girls' basketball program at Charlevoix High School.

And backing him up will be former middle school principal, now teacher, Dick Swenor. Swenor has a good deal of experience with basketball coaching.

On top all this is the team's weaknesses in size and strength, as compared to other teams they will face.

The Rayders will need to put these problems behind them though as they take on a very beefed up schedule that will include some very tough teams.

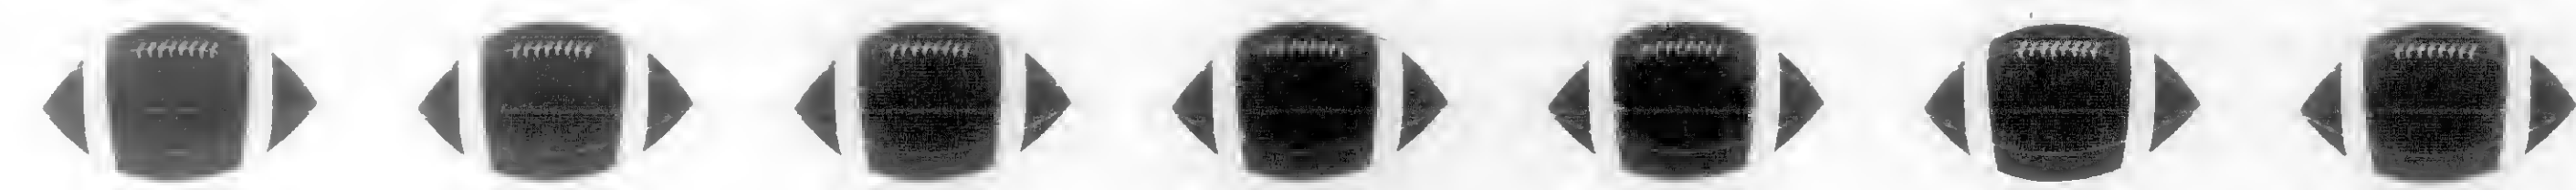

This schedule includes teams like St. Ignace, who are two-time state champions and Glen Lake, who has a player that was named one of the top 20 in the nation.

CROSS COUNTRY

Teams have many skills to call on this year

By JEREMY MCBAIN
Editor

The boys' and girls' cross country team's coaches say they are strong and ready to make a run to state this year.

According to coach Ken Plude, the boys' cross country team has five of its seven varsity runners returning to the field this year. They are: Tim Daining, Peter Gorkiewicz, Gordie Selph, Josh Popenhagen and Zach Bajos.

The rest of the runners will come from the other 23 boys who have come out for the cross country team this year, he said.

"We are an experienced team now," Ken added.

Added to this, he said the team is very easy to coach.

"They have goals, which makes it a lot easier when they are prepared," Ken said. The team was very close to making state last year, which only added to their desire for this year.

"They are going for it all," he said.

Some of the rising stars on the team include Elijah Pace, Abraham Dhaseleer, Grant Woods, Cody McCary, Jason Westernbroek, Tom Aepelbacher and Brian Christiansen.

But, Plude is going to have to call on his experienced runners as the team faces strong competition from East Jordan and Harbor Springs. Last year, East Jordan was the division state champions.

Girls' coach Mary Plude said her team also has a lot more depth this year.

"We have eight girls that are faster than our number three girl last year," she said. Added to this, Liz Ulrich and Katie Swenor are back; both went to state last year.

According to Mary, up-and-coming runners are: Brenna Bergmann, Jayme Murray, Michelle Rowe, Liz Madison, Taryn Drost, Betsy Tebeau, Sonya Plude and Brittney Simon-ti.

"They are all vying for the seven varsity positions," she said.

Like the boys' team, the girls' team will also face tough competition.

Mary said in the conference, the big teams will be East Jordan and Boyne City. Three of the teams that qualified for state last year are in the same conference that Charlevoix is in. For the regional, the teams to beat will be Elk Rapids, Suttons Bay and Boyne City.

"We want to mix it up and be one of them," she said.

But, they already have a great base for Mary to work with in order to get them ready.

"They are excellent," she said.

Soccer team looking forward to season

By JEREMY MCBAIN
Editor

While coach Josh Block may have only four returning players on the boys' varsity soccer team this year, he is excited about the fact he has 30 boys who have come out for the team this year.

"That is the most we have ever had," he said. This gives Charlevoix a chance to really build a soccer program for the future.

But, with so many inexperienced players, Block cautioned, "It may take us several weeks to get to the point of playing great soccer. A lot of the other teams have a jump on us."

Regardless, Block said this year's offense looks very good.

"It is the most coachable offense I have ever had. I don't have much speed, but everyone has pretty good ball handling skills," he said.

And the defensive portion of the team is fantastic, he added, especially the goalie Kyle Tilley. Other defensive players include John DiMartino, Ezra Bakker, Bryce Daly and Colin Seguin.

"They are just a great bunch of athletes," Block said. "Between the defense and the goalie, we are real solid."

Block will need these strong soccer skills as the team takes on a season in a bigger and tougher division.

"I think someone from our division will make it all the way this year," he said.

As for the teams they will face, Block said Harbor Springs is one group Charlevoix loves to beat. Other strong teams will be Roscommon and Houghton Lake.

"Those will probably be the top three teams," he said.

Charlevoix's hopes are to make it to the conference championship this year and walk away with the title. And Block thinks this is not just a pipe dream for the team.

"If those guys stick to it, they are going to be there. I am very excited about this year," he said.

Depth may help team meet goals

By JEREMY MCBAIN
Editor

With two seniors, two juniors and two sophomores making up the starting six on the Charlevoix varsity golf team, Coach Jim Glynn feels the team is solid enough to take the championship this year.

"We are spread out pretty good. They give good balance," he said.

Currently, the starting six are: David Shearer in the first spot, Jordan Nystrom in second, a toss up between Nick Cole and Nate Brooks in third, York Smith in fourth and Craig Wager fifth.

The sixth spot is the focal point of a real battle between many junior varsity golf team members. Leading the charge for this coveted spot on the varsity team is Jake Burns and Allen Couture.

"There is a lot of competition (for the varsity spots)," Glynn said. But, competition for these spots creates some great players and an all around solid team, he added.

The team captain this year is Shearer. Shearer was named all state last year and is expected to take that title this year.

Glynn said he is very happy with the quality of players that he has to choose from. One of the reasons for this, he said, is the Charlevoix Junior Golf program.

"The Junior Golf program is exemplary. I am getting so many kids coming out. There are just so many people in town building a golf program," Glynn said.

As for a weakness, Glynn said only time will tell exactly what that is.

Whatever it is, the team will have to overcome it as they make their run for the state championships. Last year, Charlevoix came in third for the state and wants to take the top spot this year.

But, to get there, the Rayders will have to go through a tough and solid Harbor Springs golf team.

"They are the team to beat," Glynn said. "I think we can win the championship, but we have to beat Harbor. We have a good enough team that we can win."

Red Fox Regatta brings in sailors across the globe

They come from far and wide to sail in the Charlevoix Yacht Club Red Fox Regatta but, this year, the far was a bit further than usual as Matt Struble brought the Formula 18 Catamaran STRUBLIZED all the way from England to participate in Red Fox.

We became even more impressed after watching her take first-to-finish honors on both days! Her actual elapsed time Sunday (Boyne City to Charlevoix plus a couple cross-lake legs) was only 1:32:33!

Total actual elapsed time: 3:39:09. The 98 entries range throughout 12 racing classes, from the small multi-hulls of Division 10 (with one or two on board) to the Big Boats of Division 9 (such as KOKOMO with teeming multitudes aboard).

After drifting through Saturday's morning calm start, the fastest (not a good word for that day) had only reached the second mark, off Hemmingway Point by mid-afternoon. The Race Committee shortened the no-breeze torture at that mark and the fleet joined into only two classes for the remaining 8 miles to Boyne City — those towing and those being towed.

Class winners for Saturday were: JAM1, CAPRICCIO (Baier); JAM2, FLASH (Gordon); PHRF1, AFFINITY (Love); J-22, SWINE FLEW (Strawbridge); PHRF2, PHASE DANCE; PHRF3, DOG BITE (Hunt); PHRF4, MERENGUE (Dau/Graham); Melges 24, MICHAEL JACKSON (Trippe); PHRF5, SURPRISE (Irish); Open MH, STRUBLIZED; Nacra 5.8, CZAR (Cook); Inter 20, COCHRAN (Biggers).

After the race, nearly 500 sailors, family members and friends enjoyed the chicken roast and beverage sampling at Boyne City's Waterfront Park.

Sunday's nice breeze was a welcome change and resulted in a fast trip back to the CYC. Class winners were: JAM1, CAPRICCIO; JAM2, BRAMBLE (Rohrer); PHRF1, STALWORTH (Cary); J-22, SWINE FLEW; PHRF2, SPAR WARS II (Hubble); PHRF3, PARK BENCH (Hollerboch); PHRF4, GOTCHA! (Dow/Mueller); Melges 24, FLYING TOASTER (Dow); PHRF5, WHITE KNUCKLES (Hare); Open MH, STRUBLIZED; Nacra 5.8, KAIZAN (Hilk); Inter 20, COURSER (Roberts). Back at the Host CYC; pizza, beverages and eaves trough racing, supervised by Sponsor Mount Gay, entertained all of us while waiting for final results.

The Overall Winner was DOG BITE, an Ultimate 20, with a total corrected time of 5:12:41. Top three in each Class were: JAM1, CAPRICCIO, RAMPANT &

PLUM CRAZY; JAM2, FLASH, BIG RED and ECLIPSE; PHRF1, STALWORTH, LAST VERMONT and AFFINITY; J-22, SWINE FLEW, AMBUSH and HS MOISTURE MISSILE; PHRF2, PHASE DANCE, RUNAWAY and SPAR WARS II; PHRF3, DOG BITE, JACK RUSSEL and SLAPSHOT; PHRF4, MERENGUE, GOTCHA!

and LOTUS BLOSSOM; Melges 24, MICHAEL JACKSON, FLYING TOASTER and KILROY; PHRF5, WIPLASH, SURPRISE and WHITE KNUCKLES; Open MH, STRUBLIZED, KRUTTY & TANGENT; Nacra 5.8, CZAR, KAIZAN & THIS SIDE UP; Inter 20, COCHRAN, BACHELOR and COURSER (Roberts).

Rayders lose 56-54

By JULIE WITTHOEF
Staff Writer

After a slow first quarter against Cheboygan on their turf on Aug. 30, the Charlevoix varsity girls' basketball team cranked up the intensity but in the end couldn't crawl out of a first quarter deficit.

Interim coach Jim Parrish said a Cheboygan player came out in the first quarter and sank three long shots from behind the three point line.

By the end of the first quarter the Charlevoix girls had only put nine points on the board, 19 points behind the Cheboygan team.

Coach Parrish said one thing his team does well is outlasting their opponents. Even though they were missing a force on the court, junior Candace Boss, who may be suffering a stress fracture, their conditioning shined in the second quarter. Stamina and perseverance helped them put 22 points on the board outscoring their opponents by three points.

Not many points went up from either side in the third quarter when Charlevoix tallied seven and Cheboygan rallied for nine.

The fourth quarter was all Charlevoix. They outscored Cheboygan 18 to six. But the 12 point gain wasn't enough. They fell to Cheboygan 56 to 54.

Rayder high scorers were Jennifer McClellan and Grace Farrell who each came through with 14 points and Kati Swenor who scored nine.

Farrell not only showed she knew her way around the basket but also dominated underneath, ripping down 15 rebounds.

Golf teams beat Boyne

The Charlevoix golf team picked up another win Aug. 30 against Boyne City.

The Rayders scored 165 to Boyne City's 177. The top scorer for the team was David Shearer with a 36.

Other scores were: Jordan Nystrom with a 45, York Smith with a 44, Nick Cole with a 41, Allen Brooks with a 44 and Kreg Wager with a 55.

Additionally, the junior varsity team also picked up a win, beating Boyne City's junior varsity team 200-249.

Ryan DeYoung had the lowest score with a 50.

Other scores were: Allen Couture with a 52, Jake Burns with a 53, Chris Golski with a 61, Adam Wager with a 51 and Travis Lowney with a 57.

The Charlevoix Yacht Club to Mackinac Island is Saturday and Sunday. Power or sail, come on along! Call Diana at 547-7777 for details. (The island marina does take reservations.)

The final race of the Summer Series will be tonight. Many of the class standings are so close that this make-up race will be the deciding factor.

Charlevoix Yacht Club Summer Series, results of Aug. 29: Spinnaker I: GOTCHA!, HOOTIE, SLAPSHOT, HOI POLLOI, WINDRUNNER and MINT JULEP. Spinnaker II: SAFFRON, BALD EAGLE and BABE. P-26: LOST VERMONT, TIRELESS, CYGNUS and ARTEMIS. ORIGINAL SIN will be assigned her average finish position, as she had to scratch to fill in for the race committee.

JAM: FLASH, APOTHECARY and CHEEMAUN. J-22: II RECKLESS, SUPERFLUOUS, HUSSY, SWINE FLEW, PALEFACE LITE, HIGH MAINTENANCE, FIRST DATE, ROCK STEADY, EAU DE VIE, HS MOISTURE MISSILE, CRAZY HORSE and HOG-TIDE.

Summer Series standings: (The following assume the two permitted drops have been taken.) Spinnaker I: SLAPSHOT 7, GOTCHA! 9, HOI POLLOI 12, HOOTIE 13, WINDRUNNER 24 and MINT JULEP 25. Spinnaker II: BALD EAGLE 7, BABE 7, SAFFRON 12 and J HAWK 21.

HEALTH

What your chiropractor can do for you

Brian Oliver, D.C.

'Your health'

The topic of today's health section is one that needs to be explained rather thoroughly because there is a lot of confusion as to exactly what a chiropractor does.

I have heard every synonym for a chiropractor from "bone-crusher" to "back-breaker" and much more. Although taken light-heartedly, I do not mind.

When a person seeks the services of a chiropractor, they usually are seeking relief of a symptom such as an ache, pain or other discomfort of some sort. The most common of which are lower back pain, neck pain, headaches, numbness or tingling in the arms and to the hands, or down the legs to the feet, allergies, sinus troubles and a variety of other conditions.

The traditional treatment for these conditions are usually some form of medication to alleviate the ache or pain associated with the condition. Often times, the treatment is designed only to manage the symptoms without really finding out the cause of the problem. Although this form of treatment may be effective in managing the symptom it does not get to the cause.

A chiropractor, although concerned about your symptoms, is really trained to detect and correct one condition. It is called a Vertebral Subluxation. A vertebral subluxation is described as one or more misalignments of the bones in the spine. This leads to abnormal spinal motion and eventually causes irritation to the spinal nerves that extend from the spinal cord. The spinal nerves are unprotected and can become damaged. These spinal nerves are part of the nervous system that controls and coordinates every function in your body. The chiropractor's job is to correct the misalignments, thus improving spinal motion and removing the nerve irritation.

Think of it this way: Picture a safety pin. The top of the safety pin represents your brain. The bottom of the safety pin represents your body and the wires are the nerves between your brain and your body. Under normal circumstances your body works essentially like this — Your brain, protected by the skull, produces nerve impulses that travel down your spinal cord through the spinal nerves to the body and its various organs. From there a feedback of nerve impulses go back up the spinal cord to the brain and there the brain monitors your body's specific needs.

Like an opened safety pin, if there is a misalignment somewhere along your spine and nerve interference is present, there is a disruption of the normal connection between your brain and the rest of the body. This ultimately will reduce your health if left uncorrected.

Although, initially no pain or other symptoms may be felt, eventually enough damage occurs over time that pain or numbness or other symptoms do surface. Ultimately spinal degeneration occurs and permanent damage sets in.

Depending on where along your spine the misalignments are located will often determine a typical symptomatic condition. For example, misalignments in the middle part of your back can cause improper nerve supply to the stomach. Will this affect digestion? Absolutely!

So it is important to have your spine checked for subluxations? Definitely! Because the spinal column and nervous system are one of the most important organs that you have and without its full function disease takes over.

When a person has their spine examined by a chiropractor and one or more vertebral subluxations are found, often times that person has been subluxated for years, but, because he or she had no pain, it was assumed there wasn't a problem. So does it take time to reverse the damage? Absolutely.

We have been taught by the media and other sources that when we have pain we are unhealthy and when we do not have pain that we are healthy. We have been misinformed. For example, the person that we all have heard about that died of a massive heart attack. Let me ask you this question? Was this person's heart healthy the day before he had the heart attack, when he was out on the golf course enjoying his day without pain? No. Pain is a very poor indication of health because it is usually your last alarm of a major problem.

Therefore, pain management is not a reliable way of maintaining good health. Now, if that person had taken the opportunity to prevent his heart attack, wouldn't it have made more sense to do the things necessary to keep his heart healthy? That is what chiropractic is about, preventing your spine and nervous system from becoming unhealthy before it is too late.

One of the statements I hear so often is, "Once you go to a chiropractor you always have to go." The answer is, "Absolutely not." However, through the many stresses, injuries and traumas we sustain on a daily basis the longer we wait to have our spines checked the more damage is allowed to accumulate.

The question really becomes, "How healthy do I want to be?" Because, it is proof that the more things we do that are healthy, the more healthier we become. I ask you, because exercise is something we all must do to maintain health, should you only exercise for a short period of time in your life or should you exercise routinely for the rest of your life? The same with good nutrition. Does it make any sense at all to eat good foods only 10 years of your life? No. So the true answer to the above question is: As long as you want a healthy spine.

These building blocks to health are really a lifestyle to regaining you health, not a treatment of diseases and conditions. We need to change our thinking on health, it is not just

Soccer team beats Suttons

The Charlevoix boys soccer team beat Suttons Bay last Thursday, 4-1.

The team's record is now 2-2. They travel to East Jordan on Sept. 6.

Expansion of the Charlevoix City Marina

QUESTIONS TO CONSIDER

During council meetings about the expansion of the Charlevoix City Marina on Round Lake, has our City Council and City Manager considered what an absolute jewel of a natural resource we look out upon each and every day?

At WATCH inc, we have. The following are just a few questions we would like the citizens of Charlevoix and surrounding areas to consider as you look out on Round Lake over the next few weeks:

- Do we want to restrict our view with a floating docks that extends out 400 feet? Surveys indicate that the highest use by local residents was "viewing" not boating or other marine based activities. (Source: Lake Charlevoix Association)
- Do we really want to look out on more empty docks 9 months out of the year?
- Is this another case of politicians spending public money unwisely, simply because they don't want to turn it down or send the dollars back?
- How would any revenues be used? Who decides?
- Do we really want to despoil the biggest natural asset in Charlevoix?
- Do we want or need to triple the size of the existing marina? And if so, who benefits? The current proposal extends the dockage 400 feet into Round Lake. Presently it is 75 feet.
- Will fishing in Round Lake be affected?
- Who really supports this proposal? Are they local taxpayers or local businesses?
- Public comment should be received as soon as possible and before any final design decisions are made. How will the public be notified of any public meeting? Will the meeting be scheduled when ALL property owners and residents can be heard?

At WATCH, inc we have a different point of view. And we would like to hear yours. Please write us at PO Box 615, or call and fax us at (231) 547-5530 to voice your opinion. The Charlevoix City Marina on Round Lake will be built with your tax dollars. Available data indicates 10 to 1 against the proposed expansion as it is now designed. We realize there are many points of view. The main point being: we like the view just the way it is.

We also encourage you to write the following city and state agents to express your view:

Football team loses to Benzie in close game

By ALLEN TELGENHOF
Sports writer

The Charlevoix Rayders opened their home schedule with a 35-27 loss last Friday to the Benzie Central Huskies.

Sophomore Jeff Urban was superb, rushing for 134 yards on 12 carries in his first varsity contest at Kipke Field, but the Huskie ground game was too much for the Rayders. Benzie rushed for over 300 yards, coming back from a first quarter 14-0 deficit for the victory.

Charlevoix opened the scoring on a Urban one yard run less than two minutes into the game. The key play in the drive was a 52 yard run by Urban in a third and four situation.

The Rayder defense held and a botched fake punt by Benzie gave Charlevoix excellent field position at the Huskie 45. Junior quarterback Nate Teuscher made the play of the game on fourth and goal at the Benzie five as he rolled to his left, evading two Huskie rushers. And just before being sacked, he flipped the ball underhanded to a waiting Ryan Rafacz in the end zone for a touchdown.

On the extra point attempt, Rafacz grabbed a Teuscher pass and escaped three Benzie would-be tacklers for the two-point conversion, putting the Rayders up 14-0 with 2:08 left in the first quarter.

Benzie answered with a drive of its own and scored on a 25 yard run on the first play of the second quarter. The extra point attempt was no good and Charlevoix clung to a 14-6 lead.

The Rayders failed to move the ball on their next possession and punted but Benzie turned it over on downs at the Charlevoix 30.

Urban took a handoff from Teuscher and bolted 70 yards for another score. Teuscher's extra point kick made it 21-6 Rayders with 6:50 left in the half.

The Huskies wouldn't go away though and punched in an answering TD just four minutes later, cutting the Charlevoix lead to 21-12.

The first of two costly Rayder turnovers occurred with just 2:12 left in the first half when Benzie recovered a fumble at the Charlevoix 35. Despite a valiant stand by Charlevoix, led by two big stops by senior lineman Rob Boss, Benzie scored on a fourth and one from the Rayder six. The Huskies converted on the two-point conversion to shave the Rayders' halftime lead to only one at 21-20.

The third quarter was scoreless, but Benzie scored on the first play of the fourth quarter and converted the extra point to take their first lead of the game at 28-21 with 11:53 left to play.

Rafacz returned the kickoff to the Charlevoix 48 to give the Rayders excellent field position once again.

Another turnover would be the story, however, as Benzie intercepted a Teuscher pass at the Huskie 15 yard line to turn away the Rayder drive. With just over 8 minutes left in the game, a 47 yard TD run for Benzie virtually salted the game away.

The Rayders wouldn't die though. On the ensuing drive, Matt Kilkenny kept the drive alive with a 10 yard carry on a fourth and four on the Benzie 45. Teuscher hit Keith Daly with a 32 yard pass taking Charlevoix to the Benzie one where Urban punched it in three plays later to cut the lead to 35-27.

Charlevoix's inside kick attempt failed, however, and Benzie ran out the clock for the win. Teuscher was 6 for 9 passing for 62 yards. Nick Schwein and Kilkenny led the defense with 22 and 11 tackles respectively.

"Urban has a real big ballgame for us," Coach Todd Klinger said. "The defense was keying on Rafacz and we were able to take advantage on a few key plays."

On the defensive side, Klinger said the Rayders were "caught trying to find the football instead of following our keys. With their misdirection offense, you have to just tackle everyone."

Charlevoix opens league play at East Jordan (1-1) this Friday.

the mere absence of disease. If the current traditional models of healthcare are really working, why are we as a country living longer lives but not living better lives?

In today's society we want things now, even our health. However, our health is a process by which we must maintain. One day in my office I asked my patients, "Is health earned or do you deserve it?" The best answer I received was this: "By virtue of birth you deserve health, however, throughout life you must earn it."

Health just doesn't come to you in a day, it is a process throughout life to maintain it. The best example I can think of is this: John Doe decides after 15 years of being 30 pounds overweight, that he is going to lose 40 pounds. So he eats healthy for a week and goes to the gym to exercise for 1 hour three times that week. At the end of that week he is going to weigh himself and he is going to have lost all 30 pounds. Definitely a high expectation, but is it realistic? When you lose your health it is much harder to regain it and it takes time. Chiropractic takes time in regaining your spinal health and, therefore, it too is a process that needs to be thought of as a lifestyle.

I believe chiropractic is an adjunctive building block to good health along with good nutrition, plenty of rest, reduced stress, positive mental attitude, proper exercise. All this will, in my opinion, insure a happier, healthier life.

Dr. Brian Oliver can be contacted at Gilling Chiropractic Center, located at 119 Antrim Street, by calling 547-3483.

New teachers to be at Charlevoix High School

By JULIE WITTHOEFT
Staff Writer

This year, Charlevoix High School's English and science departments have hired two new, young recruits with experience in and out of the classroom.

Thomas Schultz, 25, formerly of Lake Orion and now of Charlevoix stated in his resume that he's looking "to cultivate a fresh and new atmosphere to teaching science."

He explained his approach when he said, "I love teaching and getting kids excited about science. My goal is to help kids become scientifically literate. When they walk outside I want them to know why they see green when they look at the grass."

Schultz will be teaching Physical Science and Earth Science at the ninth grade level. He taught Chemistry at Lake Orion High School, was the supervising science educator/program presenter at the Cranbrook Institute of Science in Bloomfield Hills and was a teaching assistant in Gross Human Anatomy at Oakland University's Biology Department.

Schultz graduated from Oakland University in Rochester with a bachelor of arts in biology and a minor in chemistry.

Schultz is looking forward to further enhancing his teaching skills from fellow high school science teachers Tim Volovsek and Roger Gowell. He's also helping out the cross country team.

Also joining the high school teaching squad for his first full-time high school teaching position is former journalist Richard Bachus, 36.

The English selection committee, made up of: Pat Conway, Kris Shaperkotter, Theda Williams, Mary Seaman, Karen Peterson and Gary Grundman gave Bachus glowing reviews.

The position opened as a result of expanded student enrollment.

Bachus will teach basic English, also known as integrated language arts, to students in grades nine, 10 and 12. Bachus will also teach Modern Speech Communications and Speech and the Mass Media.

He brings with him 10 years of journalism experience as a former staff writer for the Traverse City Record Eagle, Newsweek and the Christian Science Monitor.

Bachus' wife, Carol Johnston is teaching in Boyne City.

He recently received his Master's degree in education from the University of Michigan.

Like Schultz, Bachus is looking forward to interacting with other teachers in the English department.

Richard Bachus

Seminars to be offered by local business groups

SCORE (Counselors to America's Small Business) and NLEA (Northern Lakes Economic Alliance) are offering a seminar entitled "How to Start and Manage Your Own Business."

The two-part seminar will take place from 7 to 10 p.m. on consecutive Wednesdays, Sept. 26 and Oct. 3, at North Central Michigan College. Check-in will begin at 6:30 p.m. on Sept. 26.

SCORE and NLEA members say the seminar is for new entrepreneurs as well as established business owners. Local business professionals will discuss topics to include: the business plan; protecting your idea and structuring your business; conducting market research; marketing and sales tools and techniques; financial concepts and money management; financing; and internet marketing.

The cost of the two-night seminar is $40 per person. Advance registration is required by calling the Potoskey Regional Chamber of Commerce at 347-4150.

City to buy Wharfside

By JULIE WITTHOEFT
Staff Writer

Phase one in the city's two-phase plan for the Wharfside building, located at the intersection of Bridge and Mason streets on the shore of Round Lake, was set in motion at the city council meeting Sept. 4.

The city plans to first acquire and then demolish the building as part of their renovation plans for East Park.

City Manager Mike Wiesner said the acquisition and demolition

"A ton of people in my ward are against it and are against the marina expansion that's coming up. I'm sure that will pass too."

Gabe Campbell,
Charlevoix city council member tion of the Wharfside will, "give the community more opportunities."

He explained "more opportunities" in park renovation terms. Wiesner thinks that as the city embarks on a major park renovation the demolition of the Wharfside will open up the view corridor and give "more options to plan the park."

At the meeting, council voted four to one in favor of entering into a purchasing agreement with Wharfside owners Rex and Ineke McCarthy who bought the building in 1994.

First ward councilman Norman "Boogie" Carlson abstained because of a vocational conflict of interest and second ward councilman Gabe Campbell voted against the agreement.

Campbell said second ward constituents he has spoken with are against the city's plans for the Wharfside and he thinks the financial cost to the city is too high.

Charlevoix Township voters and administrators are taking a local dispute over a revision to the township zoning ordinance to the voting booths.

Votes will be cast Sept. 18 at the Charlevoix Township building located on the corner of Old Orchard and Waller roads to answer the question: "Shall the new zoning ordinance adopted by the Charlevoix Township Board, (ordinance no. 1.65) at the March 12, 2001 meeting be adopted by Charlevoix Township?"

Members of the Charlevoix Township Board and planning commission claim this ordinance is sound and offers residents a clear tool to use when they are ready to develop. The ordinance was approved by Charlevoix Township planners, the township board and the Charlevoix County Planning Commission.

Charlevoix Township Planning Commission Chairman and township board trustee, Nancy Rajewski said, "It (the zoning ordinance) fits the township; it's the best it could be right now. Zoning ordinances are always a work in progress."

But, Rajewski's vision of the ordinance is not shared with all of the township's residents.

Chuck Scherping, a Charlevoix resident of 45 years and a former member of both the city and township zoning boards for 18 years collectively, circulated a petition that spurred this referendum.

Homeless family shares the trials of living in Charlevoix

By JEREMY MCBAIN
Editor

Newton Sage is happy he and his wife have a roof over their heads, even if it is temporary.

The 23-year-old former Boyne Falls resident and his 21-year-old wife, Maria, have been homeless since Aug. 2 of this year. In addition to spending some time at the Ezra House on Mason Street, the couple have hopped between hotel rooms and have even slept in the band shell in East Park and on the beach. Now they are living in a small room at the Lincoln Log Motel.

"It beats being on the streets," Sage said about his current living arrangements.

When he was on the street, Sage said the couple would search for secluded spots away from people and police. He said many times people would just look at him with a shocked expression on their faces and police would make the couple keep moving.

"They don't want to see people on the street, but it is not their problem," Sage said.

Sage, currently unemployed, came to Charlevoix to be with his wife who has a job in the area. But, soon after arriving, the couple became homeless.

Therefore, in addition to searching for a job while his wife is at work, Sage has been searching for a place to live. But, this task is daunting for someone with very little cash, no job and some black marks on his credit record.

"Most of them have never been under $550 a month," Sage said about apartments and housing in Charlevoix. "We can afford something in the area of $400 because we have other bills to pay."

But, of the lower income apartment complexes, such as Pine Cove Apartments, he said the problem is their practice of using

Corrections

Some corrections need to be made to last week's edition of the Charlevoix Courier.

On the front page, in a story about the school lawsuit, Charlevoix city manager Mike Wiesner's name was misspelled.

On page 13, in the headline for a story on the girls' basketball team, it should have read, "Rayders lose 56-64."

And lastly, in the special section story on the girls' basketball team, it should have said assistant coach Dick Swenor is the Charlevoix Elementary School principal.

We apologize for these errors.

Programs available for those in need of help

By JEREMY MCBAIN

(Editor's note: These stories are the third part of a series on housing issues in Charlevoix.)

Housing $

People needing low income housing or help with housing costs have many programs available through the Charlevoix Emmet Housing Coalition.

According to Vicki Morgan, director of the coalition, most of the programs require the user to pay back money or supply a portion of the cost. This is to teach people that housing is not free, she said.

"It costs money to live in a house. We thought it was irresponsible on our part to set people up into the thinking that they can get things for free out there," she said.

Of the coalition's programs, Morgan said the most used is the Homeless Prevention program. This program is used to keep people from becoming homeless — for example, someone facing eviction — by using a variety of techniques.

Morgan said this may include a list of local landlords, a copy of landlord/tenant laws and the eviction process and an application to subsidy programs. While there is some cash assistance available for this program, Morgan said cash is not always given.

The longest term program, and most unique to northern Michigan, is the coalition's Transitional Housing program. In this, a family is placed in one of the homes leased or owned by the coalition throughout the area for a period of six to 24 months.

The family must pay rent on the unit and is responsible for all of the utilities. In addition, they receive support in the form of advice on raising children, managing money, getting a high school diploma and car repair.

Morgan said the family is also required to set up an "individual See PROGRAMS, page 19

Ordinance hurts housing efforts

Next week, Charlevoix Township residents will be going to the polls to vote on a new zoning ordinance.

While this ordinance has many changes in it, we are going to focus on just one with this editorial.

For the last few weeks you have been reading about a problem facing Charlevoix in affordable housing. Without affordable housing, we push the workers out and that could spell very bad things for the economic future of the area.

Well, this ordinance adds more trouble to that future.

Among the changes in the Charlevoix Township ordinance to be voted on, includes a reduction in density of multiple family housing from 15 to 8.7.

Why is this bad? Well in order to build an affordable housing development, you need higher density rates to keep the cost of each unit down. By lowering the number of units, you thereby increase the cost of the housing.

Basically, this section of the ordinance makes it harder to build affordable housing in Charlevoix Township. While the rest of northern Michigan is looking for ways to fix the affordable housing problem, Charlevoix Township is going backwards and creating a bigger problem.

This is an especially strange thing to do considering the township experienced 65 percent growth in the last ten years. This means more people are looking for housing in the township.

The township's rationall is that every time someone would come to them with a multiple family development, there was "a big fight." Basically, people didn't want it in their backyards.

So, instead of being the leaders for the community, the township officials caved to the silly and unjustified not-in-my-backyard argument.

By voting for this ordinance, Charlevoix Township will only hurt itself in the future.

We urge township voters to vote no on this backwards ordinance.

Charlevoix is the perfect place to face a big change

Julie Witthoef
Staff writer

On my way home from my sister's house recently I followed the Lake Michigan shoreline out to Hayes Township. The sun was setting over the water and even Picasso couldn't have created the color show nature was putting on.

I turned onto Burgess Road and stepped on my brakes to let a family of turkeys make their way across the road.

I breathed deeply as I watched the adult female lead her young. Even the turkeys seem to know Charlevoix is a perfect place to start a family.

Just two days before my turkey encounter I had returned from my honeymoon in South America and even though the water in Aruba was crystal clear, the weather was flawless and the endless beaches were filled with soft, white sand, my husband and I weren't sad to leave.

Vacation destinations are vacation destinations, but there really is no place like home.

We chose to make our home in Charlevoix for several reasons but the number one reason is, our families, the Witthoefs and the Musileks, who are both here.

As I watched the turkeys safely scamper into the tall grass I thought about how blessed we are to be surrounded by a big, loving family.

Slowly stepping on the gas and traveling into the heart of Charlevoix's beautiful countryside I couldn't imagine life without early morning walks with my mom, or giggle fits about bubble bath beads with my nephew and sister, hearing my dad's sarcastic tone on the other end of the phone line or having weekend cookouts with the Witthoefs.

These are the things I value in life and the happenings that for my husband and me shape the definition of family.

So, at 3:55 p.m., Aug. 25, just before I took my dad's arm and we started down the aisle, my bridesmaids looked at me amazed at how calm I was. My answer was simple, "What do I have to be afraid of?" I was just about to make a commitment to start a family with a person I chose years ago in the presence of people we love.

The day was made magical by the energy of the people who attended. I never even noticed the torrential downpour that greened things up around town.

The rain had stopped just long enough to finish up the outdoor ceremony and photos. Then as the drops started to fall again, guests, family and the wedding party took their seats for a wonderful meal prepared by Mahogany's chef Garrett Scanlan at the Charlevoix Country Club.

The wedding reminiscing faded as I pulled into my driveway and I looked in my back seat to grab my planner. I saw an empty space and thought I can't wait for the day when there is a car seat back there and I can show our child how the female turkey leads her young.

So, the point to all this turkey rambling is to inform readers who may have wondered who in the world the Courier's new staff writer, Julie Witthoef is. I'm actually the former Ms. Julie Musilek, same writer, different last name.

Julie Witthoef is a staff writer for the Charlevoix Courier. She can be contacted by calling 547-6558 or e-mailing charlevoixcourier@charlevoixcourier.com

Convention Center a 'bonehead idea'

Editor:

In your issue of Sept. 6, you ran an article with regard to a convention center for our fair town. This is a bonehead idea whose time has (hopefully) not come to pass.

Whether we like to admit it or not we are a resort town with a very limited season. The high point of the season runs from the Fourth of July to Labor Day. While we now get a substantial number of visitors up through Apple Fest, the number of tourists in town after mid-October falls off substantially. We are now lead to believe that a convention center is going to turn this trend around? This notion assumes that all the stores and dining establishments stays open during the winter so that this vast horde of visitors has some place to shop and eat while doing what?

Face it folks, this is a great town, but it will never be a tourist destination in the middle of winter. At best, we get the overflow from the ski trade from the surrounding resorts. While this seems to increase each year, the notion that we are somehow going to bring people by the hundreds to our town due to having a convention center is a joke. What this idea really highlights is the fact that there is too much grant money around for someone to even suggest that a study should be funded.

The noon siren is just that — noon whistle — nothing more, nothing less to date. Dogs in the valley near city hall still howl.

The 9:30 p.m. siren as far back as I can remember was/is the city curfew for kids under 14. We were raised under this rule, we raised our children under this rule in the 1970s, 1980s.

It used to be if a kid under 14 was caught by the city police breaking curfew, the officer took the kid, even the youngster's bike to his home where the officer talked with the youngster's parents. If the kid was caught a second time, the parents and the kid had to meet with the chief of police. This was enforced in the 1950s. The curfew was important growing up in Charlevoix.

As far as the valley is concerned, when I was growing up in Charlevoix the valley did not include the business district. The business district was known simply as downtown.

The valley went from below Hooker's Hill, Dodge's Hill, State Street, Antrim Street, up to the end of Antrim, back down Clinton Street on the outside, both sides of State Street and included the street in between. Park Avenue was Park Avenue.

It's really irritating by one of the past articles written for the Courier that the business district is now referred to by newcomers and "out-of-towners" as the Valley, "going to the Valley to shop." If a person was going to the valley to shop by my Neff Brothers free delivery training, they would be going to Staley's grocery. Hoop Skirt Alley was Clinton Street.

You may add my name to your list of Charlevoixans to verify information for your articles. I think enforcing the old curfew rule was best. Thanks for your time.
C. Marilyn (Neff) Gibbons
Charlevoix

(Editor's note: According to the Charlevoix City Police Chief the curfew for children is not 9:30 p.m. Children 12 and under have to be off the streets by 10 p.m. Those between 13-15 must be in before 11 p.m. and 16-year-olds have to be off the streets by midnight.)

Vote yes

Editor:
Charlevoix Township Zoning Ordinance is coming up for a vote on Sept. 18. I encourage all voters to review the new ordinance before they vote and would be happy to answer any questions about the or-derance.

The township has spent much time and effort and money to give us a workable zoning ordinance. The last time our ordinance was updated was 1987.

The township hired a professional planner who owns property in Charlevoix Township to help us bring the ordinance up to current standards. The township also had the ordinance reviewed by a local attorney.

We've addressed sections on Telecommunications Towers and Sexually Oriented Businesses. The purpose of these changes is to protect your rights, your interests and your safety.

My job in Charlevoix Township is as trustee and chairperson of the planning commission.

I urge you to vote yes on Sept. 18.

Minister Phil Schairbaum and his wife Ginie will be leaving Charlevoix. (Photo by Julie Musilek)

Church minister leaving for Chicago congregation

By JULIE MUSILEK
Staff Writer

For the first time in 18 years, Charlevoix's First Congregational Church, located at 101 State Street, is searching for a new minister.

Current minister Phil Schairbaum has decided to be the "shepherd of a new flock" in a western suburb of Chicago, Ill. called Downers Grove. He will deliver his final sermon to his local parish on Oct. 7.

"I have another decade of ministry to fulfill. I'm ready to take advantage of new challenges and adventures," Schairbaum said.

A committee made up of members of the congregation have found four candidates to fill an interim position with the church. The chosen candidate will make their debut at the pulpit Oct. 14.

Phil and his wife Virginia, "Ginie," moved to Charlevoix 18 years ago from Cincinnati, Ohio where they both taught school during the tumultuous 1960s. Phil said it was the social "stirrings" of the era that drew him to the seminary.

"I sought insight and strength in my own life and was lead to deeper places of the spirit. Out of difficult times comes a deepening of faith," he explained.

Before coming to Charlevoix, the Schairbaum family was stationed in two urban settings where Phil was associate on staff of two large churches, one of which was located in Fort Wayne, Ind. and one in Minneapolis, Minn. He soon found the demands of the job kept him at work long hours and he began searching for "the balanced life."

"I was ready to spread my wings a little, ready to take on new challenges. We looked around and found Charlevoix was a natural launch for us," he said.

Ginie said the real selling point for her was Charlevoix's small size and its natural beauty. She thought their three children would have more opportunities to excel in a smaller community and a smaller school system.

Charlevoix to host Russian journalists

Russian journalists will be invading Charlevoix this November.

The Charlevoix Rotary Club is bringing a delegation of about 12 Russian journalists to the area to learn about the American publishing industry from Nov. 10-18.

The delegates are publishers, editors and directors of various Russian media outlets.

They are being brought to Charlevoix through the San Francisco based organization, Center for Citizen Initiatives. This organization is dedicated to economic reform in Russia.

Each member of the delegation must pass a rigorous screening process to take part in the program.

They will be visiting numerous publishing organizations throughout the area during the week — including the Charlevoix Courier and the Petoskey News-Review — and speaking with several business leaders.

Additionally, the delegation will be given tours of northern Michigan and Charlevoix.

In order to give the Russians a true taste of American life, the Charlevoix Rotary Club is looking for area residents willing to open their homes to the visitors. The Russians will be staying in groups of two at the homes in order to team a strong-English speaking member of the delegation with a weaker one.

For more information on home hosting a Russian delegate, please call Jim Berlage at 347-6563 or 547-0360. For more information on the program, call Jeremy McBain at 547-6558.

Be aware of Nigerian bank scam asking for money

Over the past ten years it is estimated that between $100 million and $1 billion have been lost to a bank scam originating out of Nigeria, Africa.

The scam, commonly known as "4-1-9" plays on the greed of its victims and basically works as follows:

- The potential victim (target) receives a letter, fax or e-mail from a Nigerian "official" offering participation in a money laundering or other illegal proposal.

- An offer is made to transfer millions of dollars in "over invoiced contract" funds to the target's bank account.

- The target is asked to provide bank account numbers, telephone numbers and other identifying information.

- Numerous documents are sent to the target with official looking seals, stamps and others, testifying to the authenticity of the proposal.

- The target is eventually asked to provide bank account numbers, telephone numbers and other identifying information.

- Numerous documents are sent to the target with official looking seals, stamps, etc. testifying to the authenticity of the proposal.

- The target is eventually asked to provide up-front fees to cover taxes, attorney fees, among other items.

- The target is often, but not always, encouraged to travel overseas to complete the transaction. A US citizen was murdered in Lagos, Nigeria when he attempted to pursue payment of his money.

The scam has become such a problem that the U.S. Secret Service has become involved.

Victims of this scam are encouraged to forward all relevant documentation to the United States Secret Service, Financial Crimes Division, 950 H Street, NW, Washington, DC. Victims can also reach the Secret Service by telephone at 202/406-5850, or by e-mail at www.treas.gov/uss or contact your local sheriff's department.

Obituaries

Tadeusz Dobrowolski: Dec. 8, 1914 - Sept. 7, 2001

Tadeusz Dobrowolski, 86, of Newnan, Ga., died Sept. 7. He was preceded in death by his wife, Christina Simpson Oliver. There will be a private family service at a later date.

Edna Bell Drost: May 11, 1913 - Sept. 8, 2001

Edna Bell Drost, 89, of Charlevoix went to be with the Lord on Sept. 8 at the home of her daughter Arlene Korthase.

Friends visited the family on Sept. 11 at the Winchester Funeral Home in Charlevoix and a graveside service followed in Brookside Cemetery.

Edna was born May 11, 1913 in Petoskey. In 1931 she married and was the loving wife of Ben E. Drost for 54 years. He preceded her in death on Dec. 19, 1985.

She will be missed by everyone whose lives she touched, but most of all by her children, Arlene Korthase and her husband Ed of Walloon Lake, Naomi Capelin and her husband Gordon of Horton Bay, Eugene and his wife Margaret of Charlevoix, Nancy Spence and her husband Denny of Charlevoix, Dale Drost and his wife Patt of Elko, Nev. and Ben Drost and his wife Connie of Central Lake.

She is survived by 19 grandchildren, 16 great grandchildren. One grandson, Steven Spence, preceded her in death.

Edna enjoyed sewing, crocheting and spending time with her family. She will be remembered for her years of dedication to her family. Edna always set an example of honesty, hard work and devotion and there was always room for one more at her table.

Edna was a member of the Charlevoix Assembly of God Church. Those wishing to make contributions may do so in her memory to Northern Michigan Hospice of Little Traverse Bay.

Arrangements were handled by the Winchester Funeral Home in Charlevoix.

James Arthur Johnson: Aug. 23, 1939 - Sept. 8, 2001

Mr. James Arthur Johnson, 62, of Charlevoix joined his Lord on Sept. 8 at his home.

He was born Aug. 23, 1939 at Wahpeton, N.D., the son of Arthur William and Mable Emilia (Ehrens) Johnson and was educated in Wahpeton High School graduating in 1957. Jim served in the United States Air Force from 1957 until 1969 leaving the service with the rank of S/Sgt.

Jim came to Charlevoix in 1969 with employment at Big Rock Point Nuclear Power Plant in 1969 and served in many capacities until retirement in 1988.

Jim and Madelon Sue Troutwine were united in marriage on April 10, 1970 at Bethany Lutheran Church in Charlevoix and she survives.

He was a member of the V.F.W. in Wahpeton, N.D., the American Legion in Charlevoix, the Elks Lodge in Gaylord and Zephyrhills, Fla.

Surviving, besides his wife Sue, are three children; Cynthia (John) Whitley of Charlevoix, Curtis (Paula) Murdock and Donald S. Story; loving grandchildren; brothers and sisters, Gerald (Shirley) Johnson of North Dakota, Phyllis (Tom) Kohnour of North Dakota and Lois (Alden) Thiel of Minn. He was preceded in death by his parents.

Funeral services took place at 1 p.m., Sept. 11 at Winchester Funeral Home. The Rev. David Behling officiated and interment followed at Brookside Cemetery.

Memorial contributions may be made to Hospice of Little Traverse Bay or the choice of the donor.

Dennis John Madigan: Dec. 8, 1939 - Sept. 4, 2001

Dennis John Madigan, 61, of Beaver Island and formerly of Chicago, Ill., died Sept. 4 at his home on Beaver Island.

Mass of the Resurrection took place Sept. 7 at Holy Cross Catholic Church on Beaver Island. The Rev. Pat Cawley officiated. Burial followed at Holy Cross Cemetery.

Dennis was born on Dec. 8, 1939 in Chicago, Ill., the son of John and Jessica Madigan. He was raised in the Chicago area. He was in the U.S. Army for two years where he served as an M.P. in Germany.

Dennis worked for the Chicago

Police Department from 1960 to 1971. When Dennis left the force he moved to Oswego, Ill. where he worked as a manufacturing representative, which he did up until his retirement in 1988.

In 1994 he married Jacquelyn Deneau of Chicago aboard his boat the "Gun Runner." The couple moved to Beaver Island following his retirement. Dennis owned "Dirty Denney's Dogs" on the island. He was also an excellent chef and storyteller.

Dennis loved people and knew how to have a good time, but is probably most noted for his collecting and wearing of outrageous hats. He was a member of the American Veteran's Post on Beaver Island.

Survivors include; his wife, Jacquelyn; one daughter, Eron Madigan; two sons, Kelly of Atlanta, Ga. and Sean of Oswego, Ill.; two loving step-children, Michael (Rebecca) Nilles of Big Rock, Ill. and Melinda (Mike) Baker of West Over, Md.; one granddaughter, Anne Nilles.

Arrangements were handled by the Winchester Funeral Home in Charlevoix.

Sally J. McDonald: Oct. 1, 1941 - Sept. 8, 2001

Sally J. McDonald, 59, of Wildwood Drive, Greenville and Charlevoix died suddenly on Sept. 8 at Spectrum Health Butterworth Campus, Grand Rapids.

She was born in Owosso on Oct. 1, 1941, the daughter of Harry J. and Thelma I. Howell Lux. Her parents have preceded her in death.

Sally graduated from Chesaning High School in 1959 and then graduated from Ferris State College. She was an optometric assistant with Doctors Hansen and Martin in Greenville. She was a member of St. Paul Episcopal Church and loved gardening, knitting, reading, walks — especially those on the beach — and watching sunsets while up at their Charlevoix home. Most especially she loved being with her family and spending time with her two grandchildren.

She was married in Chesaning on Aug. 25, 1962 to Charles K. McDonald. He survives her along with their son and daughter-in-law, Scott and Karen McDonald of Greenville and their granddaughter Nicole and grandson Mitchell.

She is also survived by a sister-in-law, Virginia McDonald of Atlanta, Ga.

Funeral services for Sally are at 11 a.m. today at the Hurst Funeral Home in Greenville with the Rev. John Kirkman of St. Paul Episcopal Church officiating.

Burial will be in Oak Hill Cemetery, Owosso. Memorial contributions are suggested to the Flat River Community Library or St. Paul Episcopal Church. Messages of condolence may be sent via e-mail at www.HurstFuneralHome.com.

Council agrees to purchase Wharfside

City manager Mike Wiesner said the acquisition phase comes at a total cost of $1,260,000. This figure includes incidentals, the relocation fee and the cost of the building.

Wiesner said the bulk of the cost, $1,016,200 will be paid for through grants and the remaining $240,000 is the local cost.

The city budgeted $1,100,000 for the purchase of the waterfront building and in the purchase agreement reached a consensus with the McCarthys for $1,150,000.

The city also agreed to an additional $85,000 "relocation cost" to be used by the businesses currently located in the building including: Kilwin's and two McCarthy businesses, North Seas Gallery and North Seas Furniture.

Wiesner said the McCarthy's plan is to purchase the "old bank building" where the Bridge Street Bazaar is currently located, on the corner of Clinton and Bridge streets, as a new place to open up shop.

Rex said, as of now, the plan is to relocate Kilwin's and his art and antique gallery to the Bridge Street Bazaar, but he isn't positive the furniture store will also be moved to that location.

Wiesner said the city has no set timeline for phase two — demolition — and doesn't know how much it will cost.

But Campbell said the city can't get grants for the demolition phase and it will most likely be an additional $60,000 or $70,000.

"It's (the Wharfside project) going to cost the city taxpayers $279,000. I think that's a little much. A ton of people in my ward are against it and are against the marina expansion that's coming up. I'm sure that will pass too," he said.

Rex said he's sad to see the Wharfside go and is "relatively" pleased with the agreement he and his wife reached with the city.

Wiesner said the city plans to close on the purchase agreement by Jan. 10, 2002.

Kiwanis honors Mitchell for community work

Caitlin Mitchell, an 11-year-old Charlevoix student, received two prestigious honors at a statewide Kiwanis convention held August 23-26 in Ypsilanti.

Mitchell, the daughter of Pat and Lori Mitchell was awarded the Kiwanis International Foundation K-Kids Leadership Award for her outstanding leadership within the K-Kids program at the Charlevoix Elementary School during this past year.

In making the award, Ben Probert, Michigan's Kiwanis Governor stated, "On behalf of K-Kids members throughout the world, The Kiwanis International Foundation and the Michigan District of Kiwanis, please welcome and congratulate the 2001 recipient of the K-Kids Leadership Award, Caitlin Mitchell, of the Charlevoix Elementary K-Kids Club."

Probert went on to outline Mitchell's activities including participation in the cancer walk, planting petunias, assisting seniors at Boulder Park, working on the Guatemala food project and being a conflict resolution manager on the playground.

All told, she worked more than 115 hours providing service to her community while serving as president of K-Kids is an international organization of third, fourth and fifth grade students who strive to make a difference in their community by contributing time and effort to various projects. The local club is sponsored by the Charlevoix Kiwanis Club and currently has 35 members.

The club also received an award for "Best Scrapbook."

Mitchell also received the President's Student Service Award, personally signed by President George W. Bush. This award recognizes all students from kindergarten through college for outstanding community service with over 100 hours of service within a 12-month period.

Belvedere Club awards scholarships to students

Four Charlevoix High School graduates have received college scholarships for their dedicated work at their summer jobs.

Lindsey Carland, Shannon Nystrom, Abby Schaperkötter and Jessica VanGuilder were recently awarded Belvedere Scholarships from the Belvedere Scholarship Fund held at the Charlevoix County Community Foundation.

Carland has worked in the Belvedere Clubhouse and Casino for three years and will use her $2,600 scholarship award to attend Michigan State University in East Lansing where she will be a sophomore this fall.

Nystrom has been a member of the senior wait staff in the Clubhouse and Casino and she received a $4,000 scholarship to study music and business at Belmont University in Nashville, Tennessee.

Schaperkötter, who has worked as a Casino staff person and a Gang Leader for children's activities, will attend Grand Valley State University where she will use her $3,000 scholarship to study Health Sciences.

VanGuilder, Belvedere's Children's Activities Director and Gang Leader, will use her $2,400 award to continue to work on her Elementary Education degree at Calvin College in Grand Rapids.

They join two other Belvedere employees who are currently receiving scholarships. Keith Grunch, a junior at Aquinas College, has worked at the Golf Club Pro Shop for the past six years, and Jeff Popenhagen, Jr., a junior at Olivet Nazarene College, has worked for the past five years on the Grounds Maintenance Crew.

Other area students who are still receiving Belvedere Scholarships from their past employment at the club are Christopher Meredith, Jeremy Rafacz and Todd Schaperkötter. Under the Scholarship Fund guidelines, the students will continue to receive assistance with educational costs until they complete their undergraduate degrees, depending on the availability of funds.

This is the fifth year the Belvedere Club has awarded scholarships.

Members of the club established a scholarship fund through the Charlevoix County Community Foundation in 1995 to benefit employees and children of employees. Since its inception, the Belvedere Scholarship Fund has awarded $67,000 in scholarships — $30,200 this year alone.

The Belvedere Scholarship Fund is one of 118 separate funds managed by the Charlevoix County Community Foundation. About one-fourth of the funds are designated for scholarships; others are earmarked to support certain areas of interest such as health improvement or the environment. Certain nonprofit organizations that serve the county or specific towns within the county.

The Community Foundation was established in 1992 by a group of local citizens as a way to build a permanent reserve of charitable capital to meet this area's needs for years to come. Since it began, the foundation's assets have grown to more than $7 million, and grants totaling more than $2.5 million have been distributed to help a number of local initiatives.

For more information about the Community Foundation or any of its funds and grant-making activities, please call the foundation office, (231)536-2440.

Zoning dispute to go to the voters on Sept. 18

Scherping and others, including Charlevoix Township resident Dale Boss, claim the ordinance is restrictive and violates the rights of private property owners.

"As it is now, the zoning ordinance infringes on personal property rights and is way too restrictive. I went through and found 40 to 50 items that need to be thrown out. I am bound and determined to get it defeated," Scherping said.

Some of these areas of the ordinance Scherping is opposed to include: regulations for hedge and fencing, regulations for home-based businesses and the right of the zoning administrator to search township property at any time for violations.

As the voting day gets closer, Scherping's main concern is that most people haven't read the 97 page document.

On the other end of the battlefield lies a group that calls themselves "The Charlevoix Township Citizens for Good Zoning," and they are backing the township's decision to adopt the zoning ordinance.

A member of this group, Ron Williams, said the township spent a lot of time tweaking this ordinance to make it effective and it is up to standard.

Rajewski said the township began revising the "outdated" zoning ordinance two years ago; it had last been updated in 1987 and needed to be brought up to today's standards.

Nancy's husband, township zoning administrator Bob Rajewski, said the changes deal mainly with language updates and "making the ordinance more readable, so people can understand it better," but its content hasn't really seen much of a change.

"This ordinance has basically the same content. We tried to add more teeth to make it easier to enforce when we have a complaint," Nancy explained.

She added no major zoning has been changed, "commercial districts are still commercial" but, they did away with commercial designations one, two and three, and lumped the three into one section.

She said some other changes include a reduction in density of multiple family housing from 15 to 8.7.

"Every time we had someone come to us with a proposal for a multiple family development it was a big fight. We didn't want any part of that," she explained.

Other changes she highlighted include the addition of a telecommunications tower section and a sexually oriented businesses section.

The definitions section was also expanded, to include five more pages.

On Sept. 18, popular vote will decide the ordinance's fate.

CRYSTAL SKULL

Crystal Skull

Native legends speak of crystal skulls, said to talk & sing. They were considered as an inheritance from an ancient time, carrying messages of the origins & purpose of Humanity -- and what may be discovered, when we lose our fear of death. Whatever the origins, there's no doubt this is fascinating. Hailed as a marvel by those who have examined it, this genuine, life-sized artifact will be in an upcoming book on unexplained mysteries. Here's your chance to see this amazing and mysterious object for yourself.

A day on the Coast Guard ship Acacia

Recently, several members of the community were invited to tag along with the U.S. Coast Guard on the Acacia as they practiced in Lake Charlevoix. Above, the Acacia passed through the channel into the lake. Right, after simulating a man overboard with a dummy, the crew works to bring in the "victim." (Photos by Jeremy McBain)

Above, after pulling the dummy from the water, a live crew member acted like the victim so the crew could practice their first aid techniques. Many of the crew members of the Acacia are trained in various duties of the ship's operation. The 150 foot Acacia has a crew of 50. Newer Coast Guard ships have fewer crew members due to military budget cutbacks. Right, a life ring floats in the water where the fake crew member fell in.

Above, during the trip, the crew of the Acacia practiced setting and removing buoys from the lake. The Acacia monitors buoys from the southern tip of Lake Michigan to Lake Huron, just south of Alpena. Most of the buoys are located near the Mackinac Straits.

Above, after every trip on the lakes, the crew of the Acacia gather on the deck for "quarters." This is a formal proceeding that is used to pass information from officers to crew.

Congregational Church looking for new minister

CHURCH

The couple's children have all since moved away from Charlevoix's "nest;" Anne, 26, Mark, 24, and Laura, 20.

The Schairbaum's made the move to Charlevoix on Aug. 1, 1983 and will be leaving on Oct. 15.

Since 1983, they have become closely connected to the Charlevoix community. Phil said that there is a very strong sense of belonging amongst both members of his congregation and members of the community.

Ginnie has also found her niche locally, as both coordinator of a welcome service and for the past two years, as director of the Charlevoix Senior Center.

"When I leave they (center users) will find out that I don't do that much. They do all the work — it's the spirit of the place. They help each other, they belong to that center and are willing to give of their skills and try new things," she said.

Fostering the sense of family that Phil described has come out of numerous successful outreach programs the church has been involved in.

"I very much appreciate this churches readiness to reach out to the community and beyond," he said.

These projects include; the local food pantry, youth work, social services like CHIPS and the Ezra House, community lunches, the Rainbow Shoppe and donations to world missions.

He said the move to Chicago may give them time to see the direction they want to move in.

"We are very engaged in Charlevoix life at so many levels. This will give us the opportunity to shift or reposition our priorities," Phil said.

The two said their time in Fort Wayne and Minneapolis has prepared them for urban living.

"We are looking forward to being in a city again," Ginnie said.

Phil will be the pastor at a sister church of Charlevoix's First Congregational. First Congregational is of the Church of Christ denomination, as is St. Paul's United Church of Christ in Downer's Grove, Ill. where Phil will start his new ministry.

They will be living in a home that is set on church owned property so they hope to be able to keep their Charlevoix home too.

Phil and Ginnie have nieces and nephews living in Chicago and numerous other family members in Indiana and Ohio. They also hope to do a little more traveling.

They know some of these travels will bring them back to Charlevoix.

"We have 18 years of history here, that's one third of my life, so Charlevoix will always be a part of me," Phil said.

Future captain

Coryn Richey, 7, of Charlevoix, took the captain's chair during a recent trip on the U.S. Coast Guard ship Acacia. Recently, several crew members were allowed to bring their families along for a trip. (Photo by Jeremy McBain)

Close the gaps in your medical history.

In these days of self-advocacy and personal health care responsibility, medical record ownership is very important. Having a complete record of your medical history, and your family's medical history, provides awareness, knowledge, confidence and control to you the patient, and it helps your physicians and other health care providers do a better job.

Beginning April 2nd, patients of the former Burns Clinic in Petoskey, during the years 1993 to 1999, will be able to get and keep original copies of their medical records. Distribution of these important files will continue for one year, after which all remaining records will be destroyed. So if you were a patient, or if you are the parent of a minor patient of the Petoskey office of the Burns Clinic between 1993 and 1999, go to the first floor of the former Burns Clinic Building in Petoskey where you will fill out a release form and pick up your medical records.

Photo I.D. is required and all records must be picked up in person. Release forms are also available on the Web at www.northernhealth.org and there is no charge for this service.

Charlevoix Middle School greets two new teachers

By JULIE WITTHOEFT
Staff Writer

Pam Swenor, 49, of Charlevoix and Sarah Muladore, 23, of Ellsworth are the latest additions to the Charlevoix Middle School English and social studies departments.

Pam Swenor

Swenor was brought in to replace longtime Charlevoix School District English educator, James Kanine who taught at the school for 14 years and is now assistant principal and athletic director at Charlevoix High School.

Sarah Muladore

Swenor brings with her Kanine's veteran status in the classroom. She has taught for 15 years in both public and parochial schools. She said she decided to join the Charlevoix district because she thinks it's "a quality system."

When she and her husband, Charlevoix Elementary School principal Dick Swenor, married, she started out teaching various subjects at Adrian High School for three years. The family made the move north in 1977, and Swenor taught at both St. Ignace middle and high schools for seven years.

Over the last five years she has taught sixth, seventh and eighth grades at Ebenezer Christian School.

"My goal is to help kids become lifelong learners — to enjoy learning. I want to push them to their potential but not push them beyond what they are capable of; I don't want to frustrate them," she explained.

Members of the hiring committee included: Amy Pott, Kathy Howell, Mark Drenth, Tori Fisher, Pat Conway, Barb Yenglin and Keith Haske.

In a recommendation letter written by Haske to the school board he stated, "She (Swenor) brings excellent experience as a teacher and a parent. Pam is also an excellent role model for our students."

Swenor will be joined at the middle school by a first time, full-time teacher, Muladore, a native of Ellsworth.

Muladore will be teaching sixth grade social studies. She said the Charlevoix School District was her number one pick. And, according to the selection committee that recommended the school board hire Muladore, she was a top pick for them too.

When the selection committee checked Muladore's references they found past employers thought highly of her skills in the classroom.

"Sarah is a natural and was born to be a master teacher," a comment presented to the board stated.

Muladore said she is looking forward to integrating subjects and explained integrating as bringing music and technology into lessons to enhance the students' cultural perspective.

She also hopes to get involved in sports and music at the middle school. She said she's also willing to take part in after school tutoring.

Muladore is happy to have been warmly welcomed by other members of the middle school teaching staff who have helped her transition into the position.

Muladore is a graduate of Grand Valley State University in Allendale and her husband Matt is a police officer in Bellaire.

'I don't want my wife to be stuck out in the cold'

HOMELESS

credit checks.

"For someone who doesn't have a whole lot of money to pay bills on time, credit checks make it hard to find a place to live," he said. Sage added he and his wife are paying their bills the best they can.

For help with this problem, Sage said he went to the Charlevoix Emmet Housing Coalition, but they do not have funding available at this time.

He received some help from the Family Independence Agency for a down payment on an apartment, but he couldn't come up with the rest of the money he needed. He said, generally landlords in this area require a down payment of at least $925 — this includes security and first and last month's rent.

And his search for a job is not going great either, he said. Sage, who does not have a high school degree, has found a market with few jobs in Charlevoix.

"There is mostly housekeeping and maintenance jobs. Other than that, there doesn't look like too much, maybe restaurant jobs," he said. But even with these jobs on the market and his previous experience — he has been a cook, dry-walled homes and cleaned dishes among many other jobs — Sage has not even had an interview.

So why does Sage stay?

"I have thought about leaving Charlevoix many times. But, my wife doesn't want to leave because she has her job secure here. It means a lot for her to be working," he said.

While he spends his days looking for work and a permanent home, Sage said his mind goes back to the period he and his wife spent sleeping outside, especially as winter looms on the horizon.

"We have to find a place before then," he said. "I don't want to be stuck out in the cold. I don't want my wife to be stuck out in the cold. It weighs a lot on my mind."

THE 23RD SUPE' CLASSIC GOLF INVITATIONAL

This year benefited: Charlevoix County Junior Golf and our funds helped by:

1. Enabling 200 area Juniors (8-17 years old) to play at 5 fantastic courses: Dunmaglas, Antrim Dells Charlevoix Country Club, Belvedere & Charlevoix Golf Club

2. Providing a pizza party and two tournaments so golfers get a taste of competition.

3. Awards for skill test winners so juniors learn their strengths and weaknesses.

4. 6 full week scholarships for juniors to attend Ferris State University's golf academy.

5. A graduating senior was awarded a full book scholarship for being an outstanding citizen and role model for younger golfers.

6. Funding a cookout with a motivational speaker regarding the dangers of drugs and alcohol.

7. Allowing for purchase of clubs and carts to lend for those who needed them.

Woman injured in car accident

A 76-year-old Hudson Township woman received minor injuries in a traffic crash around 11 p.m. on Sept. 6 on McGregor Road near Coash Road in Hudson Township.

The woman was injured when she lost control of the 1997 Mazda she was driving. The car slid off the roadway on a curve and rolled over in a heavily wooded area. She was temporarily trapped upside down in the car.

Alcohol was believed to be a factor and her name is being withheld pending possible criminal action.

The Sheriff's Department was assisted by the Hudson Township First Responders and Fire Department and the Boyne City Ambulance Service.

Soccer team fell to Roscommon last week

Despite outplaying most of their opponents this season, the Charlevoix soccer team saw their record fall to 2-4 after another 1 goal loss to perennial conference power Roscommon, Sept. 4.

After a scoreless first half, Roscommon got on the board about halfway through the second half. Roscoe Serrels then knotted the score with a header off of a throw in from Spencer Bryan.

The celebration didn't last long. It took only 5 seconds for Roscommon to catch the young Rayder team napping to score and take the lead for good.

Charlevoix had several opportunities down the stretch to tie the game but couldn't convert.

Keil Tilly continues to play strong in goal and the defense was once again lead by Colin Shuster. Serrels and Travis Smith are playing well in the midfield position.

Coach Josh Block said that he is proud of his young team and noted that out of his squad's four defeats, three of the teams are undefeated and the other has but one loss.

Charlevoix hosts Bellaire on Tuesday (score was not available at press time) before traveling to McBain to take on Northern Michigan Christian.

Girls' basketball team beats Petoskey, 63-58

By JEREMY MCBAIN
Editor

The Charlevoix girls' varsity basketball team picked up a big win Sept. 4 over Petoskey on their home court.

The final score of the game was 63-58. The Rayders came from behind at the half, 26-35, to win the game.

"They just never gave up," said Jim Parrish, interim head coach. "It was a fun win for everybody."

Parrish was particularly happy with the work Alyssia McDonough put in near the end of the game. After each of his post players fouled out, McDonough was called from the bench and ended up taking 9 points.

Added to this was Kathryn Ricks' ability to get a three point basket in every quarter.

Ricks ended the game as the high point scorer with 18. The second highest was Grace Farrell with 10 points.

Other points were collected by Kati Swenor with 8, Jennifer McClellan with 8, Rachel Wyniawskij with 4 and Krista Swenor with 6.

In the fourth quarter, when the Rayders were down 40-43, they scored 23 points to win the game.

"That was our best quarter so far," Parrish said.

But, Parrish said the team does have some problems it needs to work on, most notable its foul trouble. The Rayders lost Krista Swenor and Farrell to fouls and McDonough had four fouls against her by the end of game. All of them were in the post position against a tall Petoskey player.

Charlevoix faced East Jordan last night. The results of that game were not available before press time.

Rotary Club golf outing

The Charlevoix Rotary Club will be having its annual "Porker Golf Classic" Sept. 20 at the Charlevoix Municipal Golf Course.

There will be a shotgun start at 4:30 p.m. for the four-person teams in the tournament. The event is limited to the first 80 golfers.

There will be contest holes of skill and luck. Registration is $35 per person and includes: Tournament entry, a porker dinner and a chance at a multitude of prizes.

The dinner will be at 6:30 p.m. at Giuseppe's Restaurant.

All proceeds benefit charitable projects supported by the Charlevoix Rotary Club.

For more information, contact Gary Grundman at the Charlevoix High School by calling 547-3222.

Golf team loses to Petoskey

By JEREMY MCBAIN
Editor

The Charlevoix varsity and junior varsity golf teams both lost Sept. 5 in a close match with Petoskey at the Belvedere Club.

The final score was 172-170 in the varsity match and 201-190 in the junior varsity match.

Charlevoix Coach Jim Glynn said his team simply did not shoot very well that day. He added the Petoskey team also had a bad day.

"It was just one of those days," he said.

Varsity golfer David Shearer was the medalist for the match with a score of 40. Other Charlevoix scores were: Jordan Nystrom with 43, Nick Cole with 44, York Smith with 55, Allen Brooks with 45 and Allen Couture with 50.

Scores for the junior varsity team were: Kreg Wager with 48, Jake Burns with 50, Ryan DeYoung with 49, Sparky Nitchman with 56, Adam Wager with 54 and Gene Foley with 65.

Glynn said there has been some improvement on the junior varsity team. He added a real battle has formed for the sixth spot on the varsity team between Couture, Wager and DeYoung.

He said the real test for the team will come Sept. 18 when they face tough competition from Harbor Springs at Harbor Springs.

"That is the key to playing...we will see what we can do," Glynn said.

Charlevoix hospital awards scholarships

The Scholarship Committee of the hospital Guild announced the recipients of the annual scholarships totaling $1,500.

Three $500 scholarships were awarded to three medical students from Charlevoix County. Presentation of the scholarships was made at the Guild's Aug. 13 meeting.

The scholarship winners were: Patricia Kelly, who will study nursing at the University of Michigan; Michael Czerkes, who will attend Michigan State University and Nancy Johncheck, an employee of Charlevoix Area Hospital's lab — where she is a certified phlebotomist — who will further her education at North Central Michigan College.

Each year the Guild gives medical scholarships for a maximum of four years.

The scholarship is open on a competitive basis to anyone holding a high school diploma who has been accepted into an approved school for a course of study leading directly into a health care profession.

CITY OF CHARLEVOIX TAX EXEMPTION ORDINANCE
Ordinance No. 668 of 2001

AN ORDINANCE TO PROVIDE FOR A SERVICE CHARGE IN LIEU OF PROPERTY TAXES FOR A PROPOSED MULTIPLE FAMILY DWELLING PROJECT FOR PERSONS OF LOW INCOME TO BE FINANCED OR ASSISTED PURSUANT TO THE PROVISIONS OF THE STATE HOUSING DEVELOPMENT AUTHORITY ACT OF 1966, AS AMENDED.

THE CITY OF CHARLEVOIX ORDAINS:

Section 1. Title.
This Ordinance shall be known and cited as the "City Tax Exemption Ordinance."

Section 2. Preamble.
It is acknowledged that it is a proper public purpose of the State of Michigan and its political subdivisions to provide housing for its citizens of low income and to encourage the development of such housing by providing for a service charge in lieu of property taxes in accordance with the State Housing Development Authority Act of 1966 (Act 346 of the Public Acts of 1966, as amended, MCLA 125.1401, et seq., MSA 116.114(1), et seq.). The City is authorized by this Act to establish or change the service charge to be paid in lieu of taxes by any or all classes of housing exempt from taxation under the Act at any amount it chooses, not to exceed the taxes that would be paid but for the Act. It is further acknowledged that such housing for persons of low income is a public necessity, and as the City will be benefitted and improved by such housing, the encouragement of the same by providing certain real estate tax exemption for such housing is a valid public purpose. In addition, the continuance of the provisions of this Ordinance for tax exemption and the service charge in lieu of taxes during the period contemplated in this Ordinance are essential to the determination of economic feasibility of housing developments which are constructed and financed in reliance on such tax exemption.

The City acknowledges that MERCER STREET LIMITED PARTNERSHIP, or their assigns (the "Sponsor") has offered, subject to receipt of a Mortgage Loan from the Michigan State Housing Development Authority, to erect, own and operate a housing development identified as May Street Apartments on certain property located at 1007 May Street, in the City of Charlevoix, to serve persons of low income, and that the Sponsor has offered to pay the City on account of this housing development an annual service charge for public services in lieu of all taxes.

Section 3. Definitions. As used in this Ordinance,
(a) "Authority" means the Michigan State Housing Development Authority.

(b) "Act" means the State Housing Development Authority Act, being Act 346 of the Public Acts of 1966, as amended.

(c) "Annual Shelter Rent" means the total collections during a calendar year from all occupants of a housing development representing rent or occupancy charges, exclusive of charges for gas, electricity, heat or other utilities furnished to the occupants.

(d) "Housing Development" means a development which contains a significant element of housing for persons of low income and such elements of other housing, commercial, recreational, industrial, communal, and educational facilities as the Authority determines improve the quality of the development as it relates to housing for persons of low income.

(e) "Mortgage Loan" means a loan to be made by the Authority to the Sponsor for the construction and/or permanent financing of the Housing Development.

(f) "Utilities" means fuel, water, sanitary sewer service and /or electrical service which are paid by the Housing Development.

(g) "Sponsor" means person(s) or entities which have applies to the Authority for a Mortgage Loan to finance a Housing Development.

Section 4. Class of Housing Developments.
It is determined that the class of Housing Developments to which the tax exemption shall apply and for which a service charge shall be paid in lieu of such taxes must be multi-family residential developments that are financed or assisted pursuant to the Act. It is further determined that the housing development identified as "May Street Apartments" is of this class.

Section 5. Establishment of Annual Service Charge.
The Housing Development identified as May Street Apartments and the property on which it shall be constructed shall be exempt from all property taxes from and after the commencement of construction. The City acknowledges that the Sponsor and the Authority have established the economic feasibility of the Housing Development in reliance upon the enactment and continuing effect of this Ordinance and the qualification of the Housing Development for exemption from all property taxes and payment in lieu of taxes as established in this Ordinance, and in consideration of the Sponsor's offer, subject to receipt of a Mortgage Loan from the Authority, to construct, own and operate the Housing Development, agrees to accept payment of an annual service charge for public services in lieu of all property taxes. The annual service charge shall be equal to 4.5% of the Annual Shelter Rents actually collected.

Section 6. Limitation on the Payment of Annual Service Charge.
Notwithstanding Section 5, the service charge to be paid each year in lieu of taxes for the part of the Housing Development which is tax exempt and which is occupied by other than low income persons or families shall be equal to the full amount of the taxes which would be paid on that portion of the Housing Development if the Housing Development were not tax exempt.

The term "low income persons or families" as used herein shall be the same meaning as found in Section 15(a)(7) of the Act, as amended.

Section 7. Contractual Effect of Ordinance.
Notwithstanding the provisions of Section 15(a)(5), of the Act, as amended, to the contrary, a contract between the City and the Sponsor, with the Authority as third party beneficiary under the contract, to provide tax exemption and accept payments in lieu of taxes, as previously described, is effectuated by enactment of this Ordinance.

Section 8. Payment of Service Charge.
The annual service charge in lieu of taxes as determined under this Ordinance shall be payable in the same manner as general property taxes are payable to the City, except that the annual payment shall be paid on or before February 28 of each year on the Annual Shelter Rent collected in the preceding year.

Section 9. Duration.
This Ordinance shall remain in effect and shall not terminate so long as the Mortgage Loan remains outstanding and unpaid or the Authority has any interest in the property, provided that construction of the Housing Development commences within one year from the effective date of this Ordinance.

Section 10. Severability.
The various sections and provisions of this Ordinance shall be deemed to be severable, and should any section or provision of this Ordinance be declared by any court of competent jurisdiction to be unconstitutional or invalid, the same shall not affect the validity of the Ordinance as a whole or any section or provision of this Ordinance other than the section or provision so declared to be unconstitutional or invalid.

Section 11. Effective Date.
This Ordinance shall become effective thirty (30) days after enactment.

Motion by Councilman Campbell and seconded by Councilman Chamberlain to adopt Ordinance No. 668 at the September 4, 2001 Regular Council Meeting.
Yeas: Councilmen Bellows, Campbell, Carlson, Chamberlain, Haggard and Witthoeff.
Nays: None.

Crooked Tree center to have several classes

It's back to school time at the Crooked Tree Arts Center!

Autumn is the time for learning and enrollment is being accepted at the arts center for the Community School of the Arts Fall 2001 session. Many new classes are offered in addition to perennial favorites.

Home school families are encouraged to enroll students for a variety of classes, including fine art and music. Schedules, with class times and fees are available at the arts center.

Dance classes, beginning with age 3 and up, including adult classes are offered on Saturdays. Instructor, Tanya Renkiewicz is offering pre-ballet, ballet, jazz, tap, and hip hop.

She has just returned from Chicago and is eager to share her experience with area dancers.

"I believe there can never be enough dance opportunities, no matter what age," said Renkiewicz, who grew up in northern Michigan and has training in ballet, jazz, modern, hip-hop and swing.

Renkiewicz will be using the facilities at Concord Academy for her classes. Dance classes begin Sept. 15 and run through December.

Sandra Cook is a new instructor at the arts center. As the kindergarten teacher at Cranbrook Educational Community, Cook garnered many honors, including Award of Excellence in Teaching and the Miro Faculty Excellence Award for her guidance and inspiration of students.

She will share her enthusiasm for the arts with a class she calls "Drip, Dip, Drop & Drag It!" for ages 5-9.

In this class, students will create art through experimentation and exploration, using a variety of tools and objects.

Drawing and design for students in grades 6-8 is offered by Mary Jill Lemieur. Young artists will sharpen basic drawing skills for realistic and detailed still lifes, figures, faces and nature. This class will be conducted in a studio atmosphere with individualized projects.

Students will be introduced to design process to learn from their own ideas from the sketching stage to final piece. Lemieur, is a trained graphic design artist that has turned toward the fine arts. She exhibits her work in many galleries and outdoor shows, as well as accepting commissioned work.

Traditional favorites for kids include children's art, beginner or advanced pottery. A new children's class includes a hands-on pottery class for parents and pre-school children offered by Tom Castiglione. Kindermusik introduces you and your child to the world of music and movement. Classes are offered to children as young as one month and up to age 7 on Tuesdays and Wednesdays.

Adult classes include Catherine Carey's popular watercolor class and a drawing class. Acrylic and oil painting on canvas with instructor Manna McGrew is available for ages 17 and up. Two instructors, Mark Ward and Tom Castiglione will offer pottery for adults and young adults. Jake Jakab brings back his photography class on Wednesdays. A list of required materials is available at the arts center for all classes.

Chad Pastotnik will offer workshops in printmaking and bookbinding. Pastotnik established Deep Weed Press on the Cedar River in northern Michigan where he publishes limited editions, hand bound, fine press books, the text of which are hand set in lead types and printed via letterpress.

Pastotnik has shown his print and book work in such venues as the Art Institute of Chicago and the Metropolitan Museum of Art. Students in the printmaking workshop will learn the basics of the intaglio printing processes of drypoint and engraving.

Those with some experience will be able to review more advanced processes of mezzotint and roulette. Students will also learn of the evolution of printing and the various processes the media has evolved with throughout the past 700 years to contemporary means of production. Drawing skills are a must. The fine craft of bookbinding will be taught over viewing the history and contemporary evolution of the form in both eastern and western cultures. Students will design and make at least five original books during this course that can be used for poetry, photographs, gifts or journals.

Music students can audition for the Crooked Tree Youth Orchestra on Sept. 13 and rehearsals will be on every Thursday. Treble Choir (formerly Crooked Tree Youth Choir) with Kathy Trumble is offered Wednesday afternoons.

A one day, Breath Support Workshop will be held on Friday October 26 from 4 p.m. to 6 p.m. with Fran Tollas. Private music instruction is available throughout the year at the Crooked Tree Arts Center. Piano, voice, guitar, woodwinds and string instruments are all offered by professional instructors. A new music teacher, Christopher Ames, offers instruction in percussion instruments. Please call John Van Patten at the arts center for more information.

Most classes begin the week of Sept. 24, although some start sooner.

Scholarships are available to assist those who request financial assistance, including the new Nancy S. Drew/Perry Hotel Scholarship Fund for Children's Art Classes.

Please call the arts center with any questions. The Crooked Tree Arts Center is located in downtown Petoskey at 461 E. Mitchell Street. The phone number is (231) 347-4337.

OBSERVE ANNIVERSARY CHICAGO CLUB

PROGRAM FRIDAY EVENING WILL DEDICATE 50TH YEAR OF ITS EXISTANCE—FOUNDED
 NOVEMBER 1880

Brayton Saltonstall, One of Founders, a Resident of Charlevoix—Four Generations Represented in Families of Present Members—Old Customs Have Been Preserved

A half century ago in August 1880, Caleb F. Gates, Silas M. Moore and Rev. E. O. Goodwin, prominent Chicagoans, came to northern Michigan on a fishing trip and, incidentally, seeking a summer resort site. At the same time another Chicagoan, Brayton Saltonstall, was in the north on a similar mission.

A spot at Charlevoix attracted their fancy, and in November of the same year, the group of three and the individual mentioned combined their dreams, and at the West Monroe Street residence of Mr. Moore in Chicago, the Chicago Summer Resort Company was formed. A 30 acre tract was purchased from John Dixon, one of Charlevoix's first pioneers. Others were interested in the project and it soon became a reality.

Through 50 years this club has lived and progressed, and on Friday evening, Sept. 4, its 50th anniversary will be observed by members of what is now known as the Chicago Club of Charlevoix.

One of the founders was Melville E. Stone, late owner and publisher of the Chicago Daily News and for many years general manager of the Associated Press of the United States. In 1880, Mr. Stone wrote in the old Chicago News the following article concerning the Chicago Summer Resort Company:

"During the past summer a company of Chicago gentlemen, desirous of taking a breathing spell during the hot July and August days, took a trip up in the region of the 'fishing line.' They visited Mackinac, Petoskey and Charlevoix. At the latter place they stayed several days, charmed by its surroundings, its cool nights, the pleasant breezy days, the pure air, the absence of dust and heat of the city, all of which combined to make their stay very pleasant. One of the gentlemen, liking the place so well, secured a piece of land intending it for a summer residence lot. The three gentlemen meeting some time after and comparing notes and opinions regarding Charlevoix, agreed to purchase a large tract of land and set it apart for a summer resort. This has been done, and a stock company formed, a charter obtained and enrolled under our state laws as the 'Chicago Summer Resort Company.' Their capital stock has been placed at $10,000 in shares of $100 each, subject to call. The land has been paid for and title secured. As soon as spring opens the place will be improved and made as beautiful as its situation demands. It is the intention of the company to spare no pains or expense to make the place every attractive to summer visitors. They have a fine location, high and dry, between two lakes, fronting on both. This will give fishing and fine boating grounds; besides this the resort is but a few miles from three of the best trout streams in the State of Michigan. Charlevoix is naturally adapted for a quiet, healthy summer resort.

"The officers of the company consist of the following well-known gentlemen: Caleb F. Gates, president; Silas M. Moore, vice-president; Harvey Dean, secretary; Brayton Saltonstall, treasurer; directors, Jas. M. Scoville, Robert M. Cherrie, Jas. H. Moore, Caleb F. Gates, Silas Moore, Cuthbert Sprong, J. K. Harmon, T. M. Avery, Rev. J. W. Dinsmore."

Since the above article was written the resort has grown to its present status and many men prominent in national affairs have been members. Among them was Adlia Stevenson, vice-president of the United States under Grover C. Cleveland; Judson Harmon, former governor of Ohio; Edwin F. Uhl of Grand Rapids, former ambassador to Germany and many others.

In several instances the fourth and others the third generation of families identified with the resort's early history are members of the summer colony. The Uhl family built 50 years ago one of the first cottages and it is still occupied by their son-in-law and their daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Earl D. Babst of New York whose grandchildren are of the fourth generation. The Edward G. Shumway family of Chicago, are also represented in the fourth generation by the grandchildren of Mr. and Mrs. John Stuart, both of Chicago, whose grandchildren also are of the fourth generation through the Robert Stuarts of Chicago, also early members of the club. The Judson Harmon family are represented by a fourth generation in the child of Mr. and Mrs. E. H. Wright of Cincinnati, Ohio.

"The officers of the company consist of the following well-known gentlemen: Caleb F. Gates, presi-

The late John P. Wilson, prominent Chicago attorney, joined the resort in 1883, and three generations of his family have been identified with Charlevoix summer life ever since. Mr. Wilson was the president for many years and under his guidance, the club progressed notably. One of his successful undertakings in association with the late Edward C. Waller of Chicago, was founding of the Charlevoix Golf Club in 1896, identifying it as one of the earliest in the United States. Originally the course was nine holes, but since has been enlarged to 18. John Stuart is now president of the Golf Club. Mr. Wilson was succeeded as president by William B. McIlvaine who became a member in 1885. Three generations of McIlvaines as well as of the John B. Lord family, both of Chicago, have all been active in the club life for many years.

Many old customs have been preserved. Sunday evenings the members gather to sing hymns as they did 50 years ago. Mrs. Edwin F. Uhl was for many years organist at these services. Her place has been taken by her daughter, Mrs. Earl D. Babst, who as a child was present at the opening of the resort.

Sports have always featured activities at the resort. In early days, before the railroad and motor era, rowing was popular and fishing. In keeping with the times, the resort now has an 18 hole golf course, a battery of four tennis courts and the largest fleet of six meter sailboats on the fresh water. This summer there are 10 such craft, all nationally and internationally famous, and a smaller group in the Manchester class.

THANK YOU...

To all those of you who purchased a ticket or tickets for this year's car raffle. We would especially like to thank the Beaver Island Boat Company and the crew of the Emerald Isle. Many thanks are also due to Roger Nesburg, who chaired the raffle, and his crew from Charlevoix Screenmasters, along with Judy and Jerry Corley for all their help, both in preparing the event and during the shipboard activities. We also want to thank Pat McKeown, of Pat McKeown Ford/Lincoln/Mercury, and Pat Henige of Village Inn Pizza, whose efforts made the raffle possible.

The real winners of the raffle are the members of the chamber of commerce and the Charlevoix community. Your support makes it possible to continue to update our equipment, and therefore serve YOU more efficiently. We take seriously that portion of our mission statement that says, "our goal is to unite all individuals, retail, and industrial types of business for the promotion of commerce and the betterment of the community."

As we now begin to make our plans for the coming year's activities and events, we welcome your input as to how we might serve you better. The more we can promote your business, the more all of Charlevoix will prosper.

AND THE WINNER IS...

Congratulations to the winners in the Chamber of Commerce Car Raffle. First Prize, a 2001 Ford F-150 XLT Super Cab 4x4, won by Richard Hodgson, of Charlevoix with ticket #226.

Cash Prize of $500 won by Ed Whitley of Charlevoix, with ticket #069.

Cash Prize of $250 won by Dick Traub, of Lansing, Michigan with ticket #093.

Cash Prize of $250 won by Robert James, of Ann Arbor, Michigan with ticket #272.

Golf Outing a Great Success!

Jim Kanary, Chairman of this year's golf outing couldn't have requested a more perfect day than August 29 for the 6th Annual Chamber Golf and Dinner Extravaganza, which was held at Dunmaglas Golf Club.

We want to thank Jim Kanary, from Citizens Bank for his outstanding organizational skills, and our volunteers: Derek Chowen, Jacqueline Krusch, and Jerry & Judy Corley for their efforts in making this membership program a success.

A special thank you to the following business sponsors for making it possible to have such an outstanding event: Ace Hardware, Big Rock Restoration Project, Blue Cross/Blue Shield of Michigan, CEMEX, Inc., Charlevoix Country Club, Charlevoix Screenmasters, Charlevoix State Bank, Citizens Bank, Crown Motors, Designer Installation Services, Inc./Michigan Officeways, Dry Harbour Motor Sports, East Jordan Iron Works, Ferguson & Chamberlain Associates, Grey Gables Restaurant, Joseph, Corcoran, Telgenhof, and Snyder, PC, North Central Michigan College, Pat McKeown Ford/Lincoln/Mercury, Preferred Title Company, South Point Collision, Stafford's Weathervane Restaurant, Top Rank Disposal, Victories Casino, Window Butler, and Wojan Window and Door Corporation. Please remember these community-minded businesses when you are in need of a product or service.

We also owe a great deal of thanks for the success of this membership outing to the outstanding efforts of the Dunmaglas Golf Club and its staff, especially Mike Granger, Lynn Descamp, and Joan Waha.

Congratulations to Michael Shemin, who was recently promoted to Commander, USCG Cutter Acacia

So Long,

Phil & Ginny Schairbaum

Phil and Ginny have been with us in Charlevoix since August 1, 1983. As pastor of the First Congregational, United Church of Christ in Charlevoix, Phil has been instrumental in the spiritual growth of many of our citizens. Phil and Ginny were also an integral part of the Food Pantry and Homeless Shelter. Ginny worked in an organization that was formerly called "Welcome Wagon", but later became her business called "Welcome Services". She has welcomed many of us to the Charlevoix Area with her pleasant smile, and her willingness to help wherever possible. Ginny is also the Director of the Charlevoix Senior Center, where she organizes another segment of our community. In the eighteen years they have been with us, they have raised three children, and feel that Charlevoix was a great place for their children to grow up. They leave us in October for Downers Grove, Illinois, where Phil will be the pastor of St. Paul's United Church of Christ. Phil and Ginny, you have been a wonderful asset to Charlevoix, and you leave with our very best wishes. Charlevoix is a better place because of you!

Security increases in wake of attacks

By JULIE WITTHOFT
Staff Writer

In the morning hours of Sept. 11 America was attacked by terrorists. Shortly after the incident in Charlevoix, local reaction came in the form of solemn faces and heightened security.

"Once we heard of the attack, plant management and security made the decision to go to a heightened state of security," Tim Petrosky, director of public affairs at Big Rock Point said.

He added that shortly after the nuclear power plant staff made the decision to step up security measures at the plant, located off US-31 North, the United States Nuclear Regulatory Commission ordered all nuclear power plants across the country to increase safety measures.

Although Big Rock was shut down four years ago and has since been in the decommissioning process, plant management and security personnel aren't taking any chances.

"We have a number of additional actions we have implemented and we will stay in this condition as long as necessary," Petrosky assured.

He was unable to elaborate on all measures being taken at Big Rock so as not to compromise the security.

But, Petrosky did say that passersby will notice increased security along access roads into the plant. Readers may have noticed security vehicles stationed along US-31 North that aren't otherwise there.

"All vehicles entering and exiting the plant are being stopped and looked at," Petrosky said.

Employees, or those escorted by employees, are the only people allowed access to the site.

Summer resident finds life in New York not the same

By JEREMY MCBAIN
Editor

Read about Jocey Florence's experiences first-hand in her column on page 4.

Life will never be the same for Charlevoix Courier summer intern Jocey Florence and her neighbors following Sept. 11.

The high school senior, who summers in Charlevoix, lives about 20 miles outside of New York City and will always remember the day the skyline changed forever. It was on the morning of Sept. 11 that Florence discovered that hijacked planes had crashed into the World Trade Center in New York City and the Pentagon in Washington D.C.

"I was in total disbelief. Then it dawned on me that my dad works in the city. So, I called my mom and found out he was ok," she said. Florence also found out all of her friends, who also have family who work in

New York City, were all safe.

"We have just been so incredibly lucky," she said.

But, that didn't end the shock for her and her community.

Florence said for the rest of that beautiful September day, classes and after-school activities were canceled and the skies were filled with fighter jets.

"It was very strange as the day progressed," she said.

Another shock came when Florence and her friends visited the beach near her home.

Low income housing a fight for developers

By JULIE WITTHOFT
Staff Writer

Needed low income housing for the city of Charlevoix was almost turned away by city officials.

But on Aug. 9, 33rd Circuit Court Judge Richard Pajtas signed a consent order that settled the case between the city and low income housing developers.

Scott Dietze of Boyne City said he and his partner Robert Brooks want to develop low income housing in Charlevoix, a vision that has taken them 10 years to make a reality. And in 1991, Charlevoix's City Council admitted to a need for local low income housing and made a zoning change to pave the way for it, but in 1999 they denied the development application at the rezoned site which proposed a government subsidized apartment complex.

"We felt the zoning ordinance should be adhered to. Until it is proven wrong, it should be followed," first ward councilman in 1999, Bob Timms, said.

"I suppose if the constituents were for it we would have been able to say we'll let it go."

Almost three weeks after council's Oct. 4, 1999 development application denial, developers Robert Brooks and Scott Dietze of Boyne City, filed suit against the city. The two claimed the "automatic reversion" section in Article IV of the city zoning ordinance, which council cited as their basis for denial, was "invalid, unconstitutional and unenforceable."

Housing $

And, 33rd Circuit Court Judge Richard Pajtas agreed.

The section of the ordinance, according to city planner Gerry Harsch, is still part of the city zoning ordinance, but is "inoperative." It stipulates that if construction of approved buildings and improvements don't begin within 12 months of the city rezoning to R-4 or within such additional times as may be authorized then the area which has been zoned R-4 by the city shall lose that status and revert to and be rezoned to its former zoning classification.

Last year, Pajtas ruled the section of the city's zoning ordinance that blocked the pathway for the development was unconstitutional and couldn't be used by the city as a basis to deny the plaintiffs' development plan.

Suit ruled in school's favor

By JULIE WITTHOFT
Staff Writer

It may not have been spelled out on the ballot for the school bond election Oct. 11, 1999 but 33rd Circuit Court Judge Richard Pajtas said providing some form of sewage disposal was implied.

On Sept. 15 Pajtas said utilities such as electricity and sanitation services at the new high school site on Marion Center Road are included by necessity and granted summary disposition to the school.

The school is now free to use bond proceeds to fund a sewer extension to the site of the new Charlevoix High School that will be owned and operated by the city of Charlevoix.

"The question was whether or not we could use bond proceeds to pay for a sewer and we absolutely can, which we felt we could all along," Superintendent of Charlevoix Public Schools John Sturock said.

This "necessity" referred to in Pajtas' ruling is precisely the line of defense attorney for the school, Bill Ewald of Braun, Kendrick and Finkbeiner in Bay City argued.

"It's common sense. The sewer system is necessary for appropriate running of the school building. It's the best method," Ewald said in his opening statement.

Ewald claimed the plaintiffs, six private citizens living in Marion Township, were using the court to "create further problems for the school system."

Attorney for the plaintiffs, Jim Olson of Olson and Bzdok in Traverse City, followed Ewald by saying that the plaintiffs are not trying to stop construction of the school at the Marion Center site, nor are they attacking the ballot language, deference or zoning.

The deeds show we are a strong nation

EDITORIAL

Words cannot amply describe the horror of Sept. 11, 2001.

Words cannot end the pain the families of the dead and missing are experiencing. Words cannot describe the anger we feel. Words cannot describe the fear we now have. Words cannot turn back the clock.

It is times like this when words fail us. But, there are the deeds that we can talk about.

We can talk about the heroic firemen and police officers who rushed into the World Trade Center to save the injured just before the buildings collapsed on them. We can talk about the passengers on the airplane that crashed in Pennsylvania, who voted to attack the hijackers and may have saved many lives in the process. We can talk about the many people who have given their blood and/or donated money or time to help those in need.

And we can talk about how our nation has become truly united. All our disagreements, political and personal, have been set aside for now. Now we stand together as a country, ready to help and ready to fight.

In a time of great tragedy, we stood tall as a nation. We pulled together and continue to pull together. We showed the world that we will not be beaten down by any enemy, known or unknown.

America is truly a great country. It was proven last week.

As for those responsible for the horror, we know they will be punished. We know time is running out for them and they will be found.

And these terrorists will find out all they have done is anger the American people. Any of our past enemies will tell you that angering the American people is the quickest way to ending your cause.

As Admiral Yamamoto, commander of the Japanese Forces that attacked Pearl Harbor during World War I, said after the assault: "I fear all we have done is to awaken a sleeping giant and filled him with a terrible resolve."

This giant may not be wordy, but its deeds speak for themselves.

Attack changes life in writer's New York town

Jocey Florence

Guest column

Last Tuesday morning, I pulled my car into the senior parking lot of Mamaroneck High School, located in a town on the Long Island Sound and 17 miles outside of New York City.

My mind was troubled by the math homework that I hadn't completed and the stack of college applications sitting on my desk that I had left untouched. It was not until an hour later, on my way to the dreaded math class, that these concerns were replaced by thoughts and emotions of a far greater magnitude.

At around 9:30 a.m., as I walked toward math, a friend grabbed my arm as he rushed out of the assistant principal's office. "A plane crashed into the World Trade Center," he told me.

"Oh no, that's so sad," I replied distractedly. I envisioned a six person private jet that had somehow flown off course and accidentally hit one of the towers.

When I arrived at math, I realized how incredibly wrong I had been. My teacher had turned on the television and the entire class was watching the footage of the flaming building with horror and disbelief. All 23 students watched the picture silently, most with their mouths open and unblinking eyes. I was completely immersed in the screen.

My next thought was one that the shock of the event had caused me to haphazardly push to the back of my mind: Mamaroneck is a suburb of New York City, and each morning, the train platform is clogged with men and women commuting to their jobs in Manhattan. My dad works in the city, and my friends' parents work in the city, some in the very building that we were watching on the screen.

I suddenly realized that we were watching something that was taking place 25 minutes away, not halfway across the world to nameless citizens.

Every student in the classroom knew somebody who was in the city.

I called my dad quickly and found that he was safe and had been nowhere near the financial district when the plane had hit. Although I was relieved to hear that my dad was ok, my relief was overshadowed by the worried faces of my peers and teachers as they struggled to get in touch with parents, siblings, cousins and spouses.

All of the students continued to drift through their day in a state of bewilderment and shock. The administration canceled classes, but did not let students return home for fear that many would be returning to an empty house.

We talked in quiet groups at lunch, but our conversations were interrupted by the deafening roar of a fighter jet flying over our parking lot. There were countless stories of fathers who worked on the 98th floor, but had been at meetings on the seventh floor and had thus been able to escape or moms who had missed their usual train that morning, only to arrive at work to see their building replaced by a pile of rubble.

There were also the stories of students who had not yet been able to contact their parents, or of the father who worked on the 101st floor that had called his wife to say good-bye soon after the first plane had hit.

Many teachers realized that they would not be able to return to their homes in the city that night and began to call relatives and friends in search of a place to stay. The next day, my European history teacher recounted his story of how he had run into many displaced MHS teachers at the drug store the night before as they bought toothbrushes and contact lens solution.

After school on Tuesday, I walked to a park on the Long Island Sound. On a beautiful clear day, as it was on Tuesday, the towers of the World Trade Center were visible from the park. All that I could see that afternoon was the ominous cloud of black smoke that had erupted over the city.

The towers had been a definite part of my memory. I used to stop during jogs through the park to look at the towers. My family always pointed them out to visitors when we sailed on the Long Island Sound. Flying home from vacations, the towers were always visible from the air. Seeing them meant that I was home, and had always filled me with the sense of complacency and affection for my hometown.

All New Yorkers shared different memories of the World Trade Center and what it meant to them. However, our last memories of the buildings are ones that we now all share.

On my way home, I watched ragged commuters disembark from the train with a dazed look of disbelief on their faces, their minds full of the scenes of destruction that many of them had witnessed earlier on in the day. Many commuters found alternate rides home from the city that night — some hitchhiked, some went by boat, I even know of a father who bought a bike from someone on the street and rode it home.

The next day, relief drives sprung into action. People waited in lines at blood drives for hours. Almost every house and car in my town now displays American flags in their windows. We held a school-wide assembly to address the tragedy that had the largest turnout of any school event in history. All high school athletic events were canceled for the rest of the week, as well as countless other events and meetings. Teachers tossed aside their lesson plans and TVs in the school were left on all day.

If the terrorists' intentions had been to halt our lives, they certainly succeeded. Like the rest of my town, my life was also halted. In my 17 years, I have never been so affected by a national event or action. I feel indescribably less naïve than I did on last Monday and my perspective has been irreversibly broadened. The applications on my desk remain untouched and my math homework was never finished.

Somehow, they just don't seem as important anymore.

Letters to the editor

Response to attack

Editor:
I am listening to the news, as I have for more than 36 hours. I live in Oakland and work in San Francisco. My mother woke me yesterday at 6:30 a.m. She was crying. It took me almost all day to understand those feelings. Others have expressed the shock and disbelief and yet I am compelled to express it again.

I lived in New York City for 9 years, having moved here only two years ago. My sister and her husband are safe. I spoke to my friend who has the job I used to have at Pace University. Pace is 6 or 7 long blocks from the Towers. It was turned into an emergency triage center. He said the first explosion brought him out of the building and then they watched as the second plane flew into the other Tower. I cannot fathom this.

I spoke to another friend who had not slept well the night before and had decided to go to work a little late. As she walked to the subway she saw it unfold. She works next to the World Trade Center.

There are others that I know but have no idea about. The thousands that are injured, trapped and dead.

I work for the International Diplomacy Council, an organization that works directly with the international community. Our goal is to foster diplomacy, personal, human connections, between the people of the Bay Area and our counterparts in the world.

I feel now more than ever that this is important, maybe the most important thing we can do on an individual basis. In this tragedy we must not jump to conclusions. We must show restraint in our anger or rage at this atrocity. Those who have committed this cannot go unpunished. Yet we must not blame an entire religion or region as a friend of mine has. We would not bomb the Midwest in response to Timothy McVeigh and his militia associations.

The Middle East is a complicated complex mix of views and interpretations of religions. Not all Jews share the beliefs of the various governments that have run Israel, just as not all of Islam is united in the directions of how the Palestinians should go about dealing with Israel. The differences between the sects and parties of the Jews of Israel, the PLO, the Taliban, the Hamas, the Shiites, and the many lesser known groups, are striking.

Be patient America

Editor:
I sit looking out this morning at my beautiful home, fall is approaching, the leaves are turning, there's a nip in the air, but God knows I am not alone.

I grieve for those lost, who will never see this glorious kaleidoscope, or watch the birds and the deer as they prepare for winter's white hope. This hope brings spring, and a new rebirth of promise and tough spirit, that we as Americans will save our earth.

It is said that this will be a Holy war, as have been in past times, but our gracious God who loves each soul, will grant us peace in His own time. Be patient America, be wise and giving, so that with His help our great democracy will go on living.

Not good planning for Charlevoix

Editor:
My husband and I were first attracted to Charlevoix some ten years ago. We have loved our very special area of Michigan and the town bordering on Round Lake. We have also loved the Wharfside, with its unique northern Michigan architecture, home of Kilwin's great ice cream shop and the beautiful North Sea Gallery. Now we are spending $1,260,000 to buy and destroy this building, plus an $85,000 relocation cost, and "incidental" (which supposedly covers anything else that comes into these fertile minds of our town leaders) so we may better see the planned addition of many new boat slips.

What happens to our beautiful Round Lake with boat slips extending so far out, decreasing the natural beauty of the lake and adding to the congestion of traffic which is a continuing problem with bridge rising for boats entering and returning from Lake Michigan?
We foresee our future years as being more congested and frustrating and resent the exorbitant amount of money being spent in achieving this end. This may very well encourage us to go north to Petoskey for our shopping, which still to this day is an example of forward planning of their town and adjoining waters.
Let us not fool ourselves into thinking this is good forward planning for our community.

Don't destroy Charlevoix

Editor:
Have all of you who insist on the "great marina plan" lost your collective minds? You want to remove the Wharfside building to provide a better view of Round Lake and then you want to add longer docks for bigger boats and obstruct the only good view of Round Lake left?

Does this mean we will have to build a stadium so we can view the Venetian Boat Parade or are you planning on incorporating the boats into the street parade? Did it ever occur to you that many people come here for the view of Round Lake and surrounding environs?

Don't destroy what we treasure. Wake up and think about the ramifications!

Memories of aunt

Editor:
As they say, Aunt Jo "passed on." She was Charlevoix native Josephine Stevens Bergmann Wood and I am feeling such a poignant sense of loss.

She personified all my cherished memories of growing up in Charlevoix in the 1940s and 1950s. It was a much less complicated time. The two drugstores in town had soda fountains and served the best malted milkshakes I've ever had. There were no fast-food chains, no stoplights and no condominiums. There were no dial phones, no touch-tone phones and no cell phones. An operator (Marie Rabach) said "Number please" and I said "372-J" which was Aunt Jo's phone number.

Fourteen cents of my quarter allowance got me into the Palace Theater, 10 cents paid for a bag of popcorn and I had a penny left over for candy. We had no televisions and the movie theater was open only in the summer months.

Teachers could discipline without fear of reprisal and a stern look from any adult was enough to keep kids in line. Doctors Grate and Saltonstall made house calls, and the boys' basketball team wore Converse athletic shoes. It was the best time and the best place to grow up.

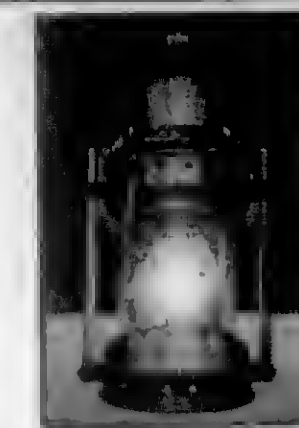

The winds of change have blown and I am struck by the changes in my hometown each time I visit. However, Aunt Jo remained the same: warm, loving and kind. She was always eager to hear news of her "other kids," me and my brother Dave (Schuchard).

She and my mom (Lillian Bergmann) were best friends and Aunt Jo filled a parenting role for me and Dave after mom died in 1999. I'll be ever grateful for her love, support and understanding during our time of grief.

Aunt Jo "passed on," but she, and my treasured memories of Charlevoix in my youth, will live in my heart forever.

Where Is It?

Tell us where in the Charlevoix Area you think this is.

In an effort to add a little more fun to our lives and yours, the Charlevoix Courier is working on creating interactive areas of the newspaper for our readers. In the spirit of this, we are announcing the creation of a new contest called "Where is it?"

Each week, the Charlevoix Courier will publish a picture of some item on a local landmark or building. We invite our readers to send in their guesses on where this picture was taken.

The names of each week's correct guesses will be entered into a drawing for "1000" that will take place on December 31, 2001.

Answer to the 9/5 Where is it?

COMMUNITY

Senior Center programs

The Charlevoix Senior Center has announced its fall schedule of activities and services.

Please call the center at 547-5361 to sign up or ask questions about the center's schedule.

Five programs have been enhanced by the Fine Arts for All grant received from the Charlevoix County Community Foundation. All these activities are free to participants because of volunteer instructors and the grant money that provides supplies.

The wood carving class meets at noon on Mondays under the instruction of Chris Scuto. The craft group continues to meet at 10 a.m. on Tuesdays focusing on a variety of interesting projects. On Oct. 9 Barb Bowly will assist the craft group with paper embossing.

At 10 a.m. on Thursday mornings Betty Potter teaches calligraphy.

Beginning Oct. 5, artists Sharon Davis and Marilyn Kur will begin a two-month acrylic painting class. This class will involve the basic brush strokes so beginners are encouraged to sign up.

Music will begin again on Fridays with volunteers Bonnie Goss, Lori Henderson, Catherine Hynes and Fran Tollas accompanying the sing-alongs at lunch time and/or teaching piano lessons afterward.

Seniors should be reminded that the computer labs are fully staffed by center volunteers — Dick Mayhew, George Pollak, Richard Tunison, Louis Warner and Bob Westfall. Lab hours are from 10 a.m. to noon on Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday and from 7 p.m. to 9 p.m. Tuesday evening. Specific computer courses can be scheduled at other times by contacting George Pollak.

The center will also have the elevator fully functional by Oct. 1. The elevator will make the lower area of the building accessible to everyone. Many grant sources, as well as individual donations and fundraisers, have made this addition possible.

Contact Earl Muma or Bette Coen with any questions about other proposed renovations/remodeling projects planned for the center.

Other programs and services available at the Charlevoix Senior Center include: Monday night line dancing, noon Wednesday speakers, hot lunches delivered or served every weekday at the center, monthly hearing and foot clinics and more.

Work starts

Construction work on Belvedere Avenue started recently. While businesses along the street are still open, customers must take an alternate route to get to them. (Photo by Jeremy McBain)

Wedding

Boss — Wyglendowski

Melissa Ann Boss of Charlevoix and F. Jason Wyglendowski, of Erie, Pa. were married June 30 at the Community Reformed Church in Charlevoix in front of 175 guests.

Boss is the daughter of Dwight and Joyce Boss of Charlevoix. Wyglendowski is the son of Claire and Dale DeCecco of Erie, Pa. and Frank Wyglendowski of Stevenson, Mt.

The Rev. Larry Grooters performed the double-ring rites.

The bride was escorted down the aisle by her father. She wore a sleeveless diamond white satin full length gown with a scoop neckline and a bodice accented with hand-applied beadwork. She also had a waist length veil that was attached to a circlet of rhinestones and pearls. She carried a bouquet of white roses and calla lilies accented with ivy and periwinkle larkspur.

Music was provided at the ceremony by Margaret Thompson and Dean Miller.

The maid of honor was Jennifer Kolinke, a friend of the bride.

Bridesmaids at the wedding were Stacy Field, Camisha Dickinson and Chantelle Wyglendowski. They wore two-piece taffeta periwinkle dresses that had tops with floral embroidered overlays and full length a-line skirts that ended in a short train.

The flower girl was Sherry Boss, a cousin of the bride. The ring-bearer was Beau Boss, a cousin of the bride.

The best man was Dal DeCecco. Groomsmen were Robert Birdsall, Michael Killkenney and Jeffrey Boss. Ushers were Matthew Burt and Chris Lewis.

A reception was given at the Mt. McSaubia Ski Lodge.

The couple took a seven day wedding trip to a resort in Girdwood, Alaska near Anchorage.

The bride is an insurance processor at Madigan-Pingatore Insurance in Sault Ste. Marie. The groom is a BM-11 on the USCG cutter Buckthorn in Sault Ste. Marie. The couple plan on making Sault Ste. Marie their home.

COMMUNITY

AARP, sheriff to have driver safety program

Charlevoix County Sheriff George T. Lasater will sponsor the American Association of Retired Persons (AARP) 55 ALIVE/Driver Safety Program.

AARP developed the eight hour classroom refresher course to help drivers 50 years of age and older to improve their driving skills and become better defensive drivers. It is designed to meet the specific needs of the older driver and covers age related physical changes, rules of the road and local driving problems.

A local volunteer instructor trained by AARP, Bud Kohler, will conduct the course.

Classes will convene at Charlevoix County Sheriff's Office training room, located at 1000 Grant Street. The first session will meet 10 a.m. to 3 p.m., Sept. 25 and the second and final session during the same hours on Sept. 26.

The fee for the course is $10, payable by check to AARP and collected by the sponsor.

Those interested in attending should contact Deb Storm from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m., Monday through Friday at 547-4461 to enroll.

Storm will collect the checks and maximum attendance is 25.

How To Kill A BUSINESS ... in ten easy steps

1. Don't Advertise
Just pretend everybody knows what you have to offer.
2. Don't Advertise
Tell yourself you just don't have time to spend thinking about promoting your business.
3. Don't Advertise
Just assume everybody knows what you sell.
4. Don't Advertise
Convince yourself that you've been in business so long customers will automatically come to you.
5. Don't Advertise
Forget that there are new potential customers who would do business with you if they were reminded.
6. Don't Advertise
Forget that you have competition trying to attract your customers away from you.
7. Don't Advertise
Tell yourself it costs too much to advertise and that you don't get enough out of it.
8. Don't Advertise
Overlook the fact that advertising is an investment in selling ... not an expense.
9. Don't Advertise
Be sure not to provide an adequate advertising budget for your business.
10. Don't Advertise
Forget that you have to keep reminding your established customers that you appreciate their business.

Beacons of Blessings in the midst of chaos

By FR. JIM GUNN
Rector, Christ Episcopal Church

Beacons of Blessing

It seems impossible to write anything without speaking of the horrendous and demonic attacks on the United States just a few days ago. As I said to my wife, it will be a long time — if ever — before I can put out of my mind the image of that second airliner crashing into the World Trade Center, knowing that the pilot was aiming it there. I have no trouble calling these attacks demonic because I am convinced that such acts of unprovoked hatred and murder could only be prompted and driven by Satan himself. Such wanton disregard for innocent human life can only originate in the depths of hell. It is difficult to assess the range of emotions that have been generated by these acts of war. Disbelief, shock, anger, outrage, compassion, sympathy — all swirling around in our heads and our hearts while, for most of us, feeling a deep sense of helplessness. Many would probably say, "All I could do was pray," but in reality that is the first and most powerful thing that a believer can do. This column is entitled "Beacons of Blessings," but what beacons of blessings can be found in the midst of the World Trade Center, the shootings at schools or natural disasters. This is unprecedented to me and I hope and pray that a good that may come out of this is people turning to God; people recognizing the shortness and uncertainty of life and looking to the Source of Life for direction. May we all continue to pray for our nation. May we especially pray for all those who were injured or killed in this tragedy. May we ask God to give comfort and strength to the families of those who lost their lives. May we also pray for peace to descend on the hearts and minds of all of us who have been horrified by the images with which we have been bombarded for the last few days.

Also, while our government looks at military options in response to these acts of aggression, may we raise our prayers in spiritual warfare against the evil that has been unleashed. I will close with the familiar words of Philippians 4:6-7: "Do not be anxious about anything, but in everything, by prayer and petition, with thanksgiving, present your requests to God. And the peace of God, which transcends all understanding, will guard your hearts and your minds in Christ Jesus."

First of all is the outpouring of love, concern and selfless acts that have been manifested by so many people. I just heard on the day I am writing this that so many people have given blood that the Red Cross has had to ask for a temporary halt to the gathering of blood. There are all the ordinary citizens who have risked their health and even their life to aid in the ongoing rescue attempts. With very few exceptions, the public's response has been one of offering themselves in whatever way possible to aid in the recovery from this tragedy.

Second, is the noticeable statements, both in frequency and intensity, of people turning to God. There have been calls for prayer. There have been thanks given to God for people being spared. In my opinion and memory, I cannot recall such a recognition of God in response to anything else — not earlier tragedies, like the bombing

Volunteer of the year

Dave Garland of Dixon Avenue in Charlevoix has been named the 2001 Charlevoix Historical Society Volunteer of the Year.

In addition to serving as treasurer of the organization, he has spent hundreds of hours working on the Harsha House Museum's renovation and on planting and caring for the Ronald William Haggard Memorial Rose Garden at 103 State Street.

A retired fifth grade teacher from the Ypsilanti district, Garland has lived in Charlevoix for four years. In the 1980s he was chosen DAR History Teacher of the Year for the State of Michigan. At the time he was the only elementary teacher to ever receive the award.

The Charlevoix Historical Society usually meets the first Tuesday of the month at 7 p.m. New members are always welcome.

Call the Charlevoix Historical Society at 231-547-0373 for more information.

Christopher Jay Anthony Henkel: Died Sept. 12, 2001

Christopher Henkel

Christopher Jay Anthony Henkel, 40, died in Washington, D.C., on Sept. 12, 2001, of heart failure after complications from surgery. Chris is survived by his children, Rudy II and Leilani; his parents, Helen and Rudy Henkel of Charlevoix; sisters Pam Taunt, Mary Henkel, Cheryl Lawton, Kathryn Krug and Deborah Halasz; also, numerous nieces, nephews, aunts, uncles and cousins. Chris graduated from Charlevoix High School in 1979. He was Governor of Boy's State in 1978. He was on the Red Raider football team and was a member of the band.

He graduated from the U.S. Naval Academy in 1983 and served as a lieutenant on the nuclear submarine Kamechamcha. Since leaving the Navy he had been a systems engineer. He was a long-time resident of Montgomery Village, MD. A funeral Mass will be celebrated at St. Francis Solanus Church in Bay Shore. In lieu of flowers, donations should be made to the American Heart Association.

Area agencies beef up security measures

SECURITY

The dry fuel storage container overpack that was recently unveiled at an open house is empty at this time. Petrosky said the container which will eventually hold spent fuel was designed to withstand extreme conditions but, "a direct plane crash into it would be a challenge."

According to Chief John McLean of Coast Guard Station Charlevoix, similar security measures as those described by Petrosky are being taken by the local Coast Guard station.

McLean explained that he and his men have not received orders from the government and he doesn't foresee them being called to duty. At this point he said they are needed in Charlevoix.

However, the station has increased security. All cars entering or exiting the station must pass through security, stationed in a guard shack, and show identification, 24 hours a day.

An armed guard was also welcoming anyone who came into the Charlevoix County Building, on State Street Sept. 11 and 12.

The sheriff's department had all doors locked, with the exception of the main entrance off of State Street.

"You have to have only one entrance if you are going to have security," said Earl Muma, who has been with the county department for 21 years and was guarding the building Sept. 12.

"I'm looking for someone I don't know, carrying something suspicious, a suitcase or a backpack. I've also got a metal scanner on my belt I use at random," he added.

Whether or not people think the county building is vulnerable to attack, Muma said he had numerous building employees tell him his security efforts helped make them feel safe.

Muma said the last time he stood guard was in 1962 at the United States Air Force Base in Las Vegas, Nev.

"We were armed with full combat weapons, ready to deploy to stop the Russians at Kennedy's order. It was heated then, the only difference was the loss of lives in the United States," Muma said.

No armed guards were stationed at the Charlevoix airport but, on Sept. 11, no one was at the airport.

The Federal Aviation Administration (FAA) grounded all commercial flights, which meant locals and visitors would have to travel to Beaver Island by boat or not at all.

Airport manager Karyn Brooks said the last flight went to the island early in the morning Sept. 11 and all subsequent flights to Beaver Island were canceled.

"After that, (the last flight Sept. 11) if you were on the island, you were on the island and if you were over here (Charlevoix) you were over here," she said of the transportation squeeze.

However, the island relies on air travel for transporting emergency and non-emergency patients in need of medical attention to the mainland. Around 11 a.m. Sept. 12 a Coast Guard helicopter, the local authority, transported a non-emergency patient to Charlevoix airport as planes were still grounded.

According to Rachel Teague, general manager for Island Airways, the planes were grounded for a "solid 48 hours." The first plane was back in the sky at 11 a.m. on Sept. 13.

Brooks added that the airport is back to full travel at this point.

And, from what Teague said, regular Island Airways customers probably won't notice a change.

"Nothing has changed as far as our check in policy. The only change is in our in-flight procedure," she said. Teague explained that the planes are tracked more closely.

The Beaver Island Boat Company has also received information from federal regulators pertaining to standard procedures and safety measures to be taken if they receive threats or in the case of hijacking.

Margo Marks, general manager for the Beaver Island Boat Company said, "We are keeping our eyes open and following the direction of the Coast Guard."

How to help out the victims of the Sept. 11 attack

Many of us want to do something to support those directly impacted by the terrorist attack on Sept. 11. Here are some suggestions from the American Red Cross:

- Support your local blood drive: The burn patients from the attack will require months of recovery and will use countless blood products. Make sure your local blood drives over the next two months are strong; roll up your sleeve and donate. Call 800-691-6059 for blood drive dates and times.

- Give a financial contribution: The relief efforts are costly. Give what you can by one of these ways: American Red Cross, Northern Michigan Chapter, 1349 S Otsego Avenue, Suite 9, Gaylord, MI 49735; www.redcross.org (Accepts credit cards); (800) HELP NOW (800-435-7669).

Those wishing to help are strongly encouraged to make financial donations instead of donating goods.

- Take a disaster class to become a disaster volunteer. This will allow you to be considered for a national assignment in the event of a man-made or natural disaster in the future. Call (800) 691-6059 to register for a class.

- Show your pride as an American. Fly the flag proudly.

Florence says community still in shock, disbelief

On a clear day, she said you can see the New York skyline and the towers of the World Trade Center, but not that day.

"All you could see was smoke. A black cloud was over the city," she said. "Living in New York, you get used to seeing the World Trade Center. Now a symbol of the city is completely gone."

Since that day, Florence said her community has really come together. The school has been offering students plenty of counseling and she has never seen so many American flags decorating her town.

Mostly, she said, people have been getting their thoughts out by talking about the attack.

"Most of the school is in disbelief. It is hard for a lot of us to understand," Florence said.

One thing Florence does understand is that the world will never be the same for her and her community.

"I grew up more in that one day than in all four years of high school combined," she said.

Rumors cause long lines at local gasoline stations

GAS

"Hoarding is not the answer," he said. "I was stopping people from filling gas cans (on Sept. 11) just to be fair to everyone."

However, the Shell station on Bridge Street in Charlevoix did raise its prices over $2 a gallon briefly on Sept. 11.

According to a written statement by Jere D. Johnson of the Alpena Oil Company, which owns the Charlevoix Shell station, the company briefly raised the price of its gasoline to slow buying down. He stated their gasoline supplier placed a daily allocation on the company making Alpena Oil fear it would run out of gas if it didn't slow the gas run down.

Johnson added the extra profit from this price rise — $18,500 — will be donated to the American Red Cross.

But, according to some customers, this is not much of an excuse for Alpena Oil.

Charlevoix resident Jack Russell, who was buying gas at the local Shell station when it raised its prices, said the company was just adding to the public's fears.

"By the price going up, it pushes people to go out and get it," he said.

Russell added he was told that if he had a receipt he could get a refund from the company and whatever money wasn't refunded would go to the American Red Cross.

"I just let them have it," he said.

Patriotism in full force as nation grapples with terror

By JEREMY MCBAIN
Editor

Patriotism is in full force in Charlevoix and the rest of America as we grapple with the terror of last week.

Throughout Charlevoix, flags can be seen flying at half-mast, many vehicles have small American flags attached to their antennas and people are proudly wearing red, white and blue. Even the city of Charlevoix — as the result of a suggestion by a citizen — has lined Bridge Street with flags.

"It is support. Support for the president, the people killed and support for their families. It says we are together," said Charlie Butcher, commander of the American Legion and senior vice-commander of the Veterans of Foreign Wars post in Charlevoix, about the many flags around town.

Butcher said this was an attack on all of us and an "act of war."

"The country will come together, just like in World War II. The American people are pretty patient, but when it comes to disasters like this, we aren't. It is like a take no prisoner attitude," he said.

This surge of patriotism has also made it hard for anyone who doesn't already own an American flag to find one. Many area businesses that sell them have already run out.

"The flags are long gone," said Mark Greyerbiehl, owner of Ace Hardware in Charlevoix. "Everything that we had that is patriotic is gone. Everything that has the U.S. on it is out the door."

Greyerbiehl said he has even run out of flag poles and has been custom making them in the basement of his store to meet demand. He said he has sold more flags and patriotic symbols than before a holiday.

"I think I would rather sell from for another holiday, than this case here (the terrorist attack)," he added.

Start of Fall Series debated last week

A. Nony Mouse
'Yachting notes'

The Charlevoix Yacht Club Fall Series, First Race, Sept. 12 felt the effects of the mood of the nation as the Race Committee debated whether to sail or cancel.

Their decision was to respect the wishes of the individual skippers and their crews. Some felt that getting back to normal was important, others preferred not to sail under the circumstances. Twelve contested on the shortened course with one more (H S MOISTURE MIS-SILE) to be scored its average position over the balance of the series as Tom Barnes filled in for the Race Committee.

Spinnaker 1: HOI POLLOI, HOOTIE, WINDRUNNER, J HAWK and BLASEN IV, P-26: CYGNUS and ORIGINAL SIN, JAM: CRAZY HORSE, J-22: HUSSY, SWINE FLEW, FIRST DATE and BANZAI.

There is a Charlevoix Yacht Club Work Party from 8:30 a.m. to 12:30 p.m. on Sept. 22. Call Ron Plocki, 547-3965 or e-mail rplocki@freeway.net.

Charlevoix Yacht Club Sunfish Championship: Five short races to determine the 2001 Sunfish Championship will be this Sunday. If you have not been out for any of the summer Sunday races, please call Don Bowerman (536-7975) to register. You must be a Charlevoix Yacht Club member to be eligible.

Sail out to ARTEMIS (near the "B" buoy, off Pine Point) before 1 p.m. Your best four of the five races will determine your score and final position in the Sunfish Fleet.

Sailors and spectators are invited to join us on the beach at the Barnes residence from 12:30 p.m. on. (BYOB.) It's northwest of the

"B" buoy - with a white dock near a Christmas Tree. By land, when you're at the end of C&O Club Drive, you're there!

The Charlevoix Yacht Club will have its Annual Mini-Vegas Night starting at 7 p.m. at the club on Sept. 29.

Nautical Trivia: As we go to press only three responses, none have the first part correct. Repeating the challenge: Two different ship profiles have been reproduced hundreds of thousands of times. One is of the first great merchant ship (300 tons) built in the Americas. For one point, what is this ship's name? For two more points where did you see it? (Yes, you have!). The other was also built in the Americas, originally for fishing but better known for her speed. For yet another point, what is this schooner's name? For two more points; where is it seen? E-mail answers to joshb@chartermi.net or leave word at (231) 547-2000; be sure to include your name. This is for the 2001 Trivial Trophy, to be awarded Nov. 3.

Answers next week. Now two hints: Ancient Seasoning; What you did when you had sniffles.

Yachting Notes is submitted each week during the "warm" months by the Charlevoix Yacht Club. To contact the club, see its web site at www.charlevoixyachtclub.org or call 547-9170.

Several on cross-country teams place in meet

The boys' and girls' cross country teams had a nice showing at the recent Ludington Invitational Sept. 15.

The Charlevoix boys' team finished first in the meet with a score of 35. There were 10 schools that took part.

Individual final standings for the boys' were: Tim Daining in first,

Peter Gorkiewicz in third, Gordie Selph in fourth, Josh Popenhagen in seventh, Zach Bajos in twentieth, Abe Dhaseleer in twenty-sixth and Tom Aepelbacher in thirty-eighth.

The girls' team was tenth out of 20 teams with 265 points. In the Division III standings they were fifth with 105 points.

Individually, Liz Ulrich was sixth place overall and first in Division III and Kati Swenor was tenth overall and fourth in Division III.

Other places for Charlevoix in Division III were: Brenna Bergmann in thirty-first, Michelle

Rowe in thirty-fourth, Natasha Kleiber in thirty-fifth, Elizabeth Madison in thirty-ninth and Jayme Murray in forty-first.

Rayders win in overtime against Harbor Springs

By ALLEN TELGENHOF
Sports writer

The Charlevoix Rayders stayed unbeaten in the Lake Michigan Conference in dramatic fashion with a 26-25 overtime, come from behind win at Harbor Springs.

The Rayders appeared to have their backs broken by a Charlevoix fumble on the Ram one-yard line. Charlevoix appeared poised to go in for a score that would have given it the lead. Instead the fumble was followed by a 99-yard Harbor Springs drive that put the Rams ahead 19-7 with just over 8 minutes remaining in the game.

"After the fumble, we were disappointed, but thought our defense would hold them and we'd get the ball right back," Rayder Coach Todd Klinger said. "But that drive put us in a huge hold."

The Rayders responded with a quick drive of their own, scoring in just over a minute on a Nick Pizzurro five-yard run to cut the Ram lead to 19-13. The extra point attempt was no good. The key play in the drive was a screen pass from Nate Teuscher to Keith Daly that went for 28 yards.

"It gave us some life and helped us pick up some momentum," Klinger observed. "I felt like the kids were down and we needed something to pick up our spirits."

Charlevoix spirits continued to rise as the Rayders quickly forced the Rams to punt, taking possession with just under 6 minutes to go on the Charlevoix 23 yard line.

Teuscher fought off more adversity for the Rayders, hitting Daly for a first down on a fourth and 11, but the play was called back due to clipping by Charlevoix. Undaunted, on the fourth and 14 that followed, Teuscher hit Rafacz for a first down.

Todd Carey capped the drive with a seven-yard TD run. Teuscher's extra point kick, narrowly missed, and the game was knotted at 19-all.

Girls' basketball team wins

The Charlevoix varsity girls' basketball team beat Boyne City Sept. 13, 72-43.

This win leaves the Rayders at 3-1 overall and 1-0 in the league. According to reports, Grace Farrell scored 19 points and Katherine Ricks scored 12.

Charlevoix faced Elk Rapids at home last night. The results of that game were not available before press time.

The Charlevoix High School varsity golf team beat East Jordan Sept. 11, 160-180.

Coach Jim Glynn said this was a good match for the team. As of this win, the Rayders are 4-0 in the conference.

David Shearer was the individual medalist for the team. He shot a 36. Other individual scores were: Jordan Nystrom, 42; Allen Brooks, 40; Nick Cole, 42; York Smith, 45 and Kreg Wager, 46.

Charlevoix faced a tough Harbor Springs last night. Results of that match were not available before press time.

Bomb threat

In what may have been a response to the terrorist attack on the World Trade Center, Sept. 11, someone called into a Michigan State Police post and said they were going to bomb all of the 7-eleven's in the state on Sept. 12. Charlevoix police checked out the 7-eleven on Bridge Street around 1:30 p.m. on Sept. 12, but did not find any explosive devices. At left, a city police officer and fire officer inspect an area near the business as they search for bombs. (Photo by Jeremy McBain)

New Northwest teachers

By JULIE WITTHOFT
Staff Writer

Charlevoix's charter school, Northwest Academy, is known for its musically talented student body and this year the school has developed its fine arts program to further cater to student's interests.

Cindy Romero has taught piano and voice in town for the past two years.

Last year he expanded his client list after receiving a call from Northwest principal Steve Bennett. Londgren was asked to work with five students who were interested in developing vocal skills.

Londgren has a degree in music and was a voice major. He has been studying music for 36 years.

Londgren's work at the school last year was so successful that this year he was asked to start a choral program which meets for one hour, five days each week. He currently has 10 students enrolled in the class and foresees two more joining after back-to-school madness settles down.

His goal is to create singing ensembles, successful soloists and duet groups. Londgren said he can see a school musical on the horizon too.

East Jordan resident Cindy Romero, 42, is joining Londgren in the fight to further fine arts at Northwest.

Romero is a mother of four who substitute taught last year at Northwest and taught Spanish for some time at Harbor Springs. She said she got a call from Bennett who asked her to head up a solid foreign language program at the school.

She accepted and is thrilled to be working closer to home. Romero is instructing Spanish at the high school level, art one and two to all students at Northwest and is also filling in as seventh and eighth grade science teacher.

She is well versed in the Spanish language and lived in Mexico for four years. While in Mexico she studied at the University of Americas.

After returning to Michigan she earned her associate's degree from North Central Michigan College in Petoskey and her bachelor of arts and teaching certificate from Grand Valley State University.

"I hope to build a solid program and to get the kids to where they can understand and speak Spanish," Romero said.

The third addition to the fine arts team is Joyce Wardwell who has reunited with Northwest after a brief sabbatical. Wardwell is a 43-year-old Petoskey resident and a mother of four. She said she's thrilled to be back to head up the drama program.

Her plans for the drama program include starting a debate team and putting on a Christmas show. During the Christmas holiday, the students will perform a 1920s Prohibition Era rendition of Shakespeare's Twelfth Night.

Wardwell is working with the original language and shortening the play some.

She's encouraging the band program to join in the performance and her hope is that the two will work together as a unit to put on the production.

She is also helping the students develop the audio-visual component of a drama program in terms of creating and editing video. She foresees this helping the students create video resumes.

Wardwell attended New York University's School of Arts. After completing school she worked in off Broadway Playhouses and worked with Joe Papp in Shakespeare in the Park.

She said she stopped performing to have children but it's good to be back. She's working with students from fifth grade through high school.

Northern Lights celebration

St. Mary School will have the Sixth Annual Northern Lights Celebration — Dinner, Auction and Dance fundraiser. This year, the event will take place at 6 p.m. on Oct. 20.

The theme for this year's celebration is "Sounds of Yesterday." The event will take place at St. Mary's Family Center, 1003 Bridge Street. Musical entertainment will be provided by Class Act Productions lead by conductor Scott MacKenzie. The performance will follow the live auction.

Up for bid this year will be the famous "Loeb Farm Dinner" hosted by Dick and Gina Lepman; a beautiful quilt made by St. Mary's students; a Marantz stereo receiver and CD player with Boston compact speakers; and numerous golf packages and service items. Donations are being accepted at this time. Contact the school at (231) 547-9441 for more information.

Also featured will be items from the "Children's Art Gallery," a collection of unique artwork created by St. Mary students, under the direction of Mel Morrison, Danielle Baier and Sharon Peters.

In conjunction with the dinner, auction and dancing, St. Mary's is also sponsoring three raffles. You need not be present to win. The raffle items include "The Key Club," which includes two round-trip airline tickets to Anaheim, Calif., a four-day, three-night stay at the Castle Inn and two Disneyland flex passes. "The Crystal Corner" includes four round-trip tickets from Windsor or Port Huron to Toronto, Canada with accommodations at the Sheridan Center. "The Men's Corner" includes numerous items including a two-person hammock, igloo set, volleyball set, horseshoe set, two Travelmate deluxe chairs, a Holland grill and picnic supplies. Tickets for the raffles are now on sale. For more information, contact the school.

The Northern Lights Celebration is the largest fundraising event for the school. Auction expenses are kept at a minimum with all proceeds going directly to the school.

Tickets for the event are $55 per person for the evening. Tickets for the auction and dancing are $30 per person. The event is open to the public. Call the school to make reservations.

A preview night will take place from 6:30 p.m. to 8 p.m. Oct. 19. This is open to the public and is free of charge. Bids will be accepted on silent auction items during this time and raffle tickets will be available. Sealed bids will be accepted this year for the first time.

Area events

Banks Township Bazaar

The Ellsworth Lioness Club will be sponsoring the 21st Annual Banks Township Bazaar on Nov. 17. The event runs from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. at the Community Hall in downtown Ellsworth. For more information or to obtain booth space please call: Joni Wieland at 231-544-6348 or e-mail at wieland@torchlake.com.

Harbor Light fundraiser

Harbor Light Christian School is hosting a fundraiser at 6 p.m. on Oct. 13. They hope to raise money for their operating fund. James Muffett, founder of the Foundation for Traditional Values and the Student Statesmanship Institute of Lansing, is the featured speaker.

Cost is $20 per person which includes a gourmet meal, entertainment and the speaker. A free-will offering will be taken at the end of the evening for the school. Call (231) 347-7859 for reservations or further information.

Sale for moms

There will be a "Mom-to-Mom" sale from 10 a.m. to 1 p.m. on Sept. 22 at the Charlevoix High School gym. Over 20 women will be selling used infants, children's and big kids clothing, toys, books and furniture. There will also be a booth of clothing just for women.

There is a $3 admission charge and a portion of the proceeds will be donated to the Charlevoix Historical Society. For more information, contact Beth Martin at 547-12768.

SCRAPBOOK

The loss of the Champlain

Marilyn Boss

'Days gone by'

I was looking through a copy of the April, 1983 issue of Traverse, the magazine, and came across the story I wrote for them about the tragedy of the steamer Champlain, which burned off Fisherman's Island, with great loss of life. The entire story is documented in Bob Miles book, "Bob Miles Charlevoix," which he took verbatim from the Charlevoix Journal, the local newspaper.

The tragedy took place at midnight, June 23, 1887, as the steamer was chugging its way from Norwood to Charlevoix. At the time, there were 23 propeller ships which sailed the great lakes, and were owned by the Northern Transit Company. The Champlain was built in 1870 and was valued at $30,000. It was very seaworthy, having been rebuilt in recent years. The captain of the ship was Edward Casey. The passengers were numbered at 27, and the crew at 29. There are many accounts by survivors, and I shall write their stories as they were told to the Charlevoix Journal.

The passengers were sleeping peacefully, knowing that they would soon reach Charlevoix, their destination. The second fireman, Charles A. LaComb, awoke when he heard the loud oil lamp on the wall fall to the floor. The corner of his room was instantly ablaze, and the fire quickly raged out of control. He frantically awakened the second engineer, Triffly Morin, and sounded the alarm. The first engineer, John McCaffrey, opened the door of LaComb's room, and the flames shot out and caught his clothes afire. Mary Wakefield of Charlevoix, awoke to screams shattering the darkness. She jerked open her cabin door, as McCaffrey, engulfed in flames, rushed up the ladder to the hurricane deck and jumped into a water tank to extinguish the flames which covered his body. Mary quickly called to cabin mates, Mrs. Michael Kehoe, and Mrs. Kehoe's little daughter, Mabel, to alarm them.

The whistle of the ship began to blow ceaselessly, drowning the frantic screaming. A crewman had placed a prop under the lever to keep it blowing. The governors on the steamer's engine, which normally held the Champlain at a steady pace, became stuck, and no one could reach the throttle. The ship raced out of control, and this fanned the roaring fire, and made it difficult to jump overboard.

Mary Wakefield and Mrs. Kehoe could not reach their life preservers, so they had to go on deck without them. According to testimonies from survivors, the lifeboats did not have their plugs in the bottom, and thus hung useless as terrified passengers dove into the water. One group of crew members launched a boat which promptly filled with water, and sank with them aboard. The rest of the boats could not be launched because the ship was speeding so fast.

The ship ran aground on a sand bar as it approached Fisherman's Island. The captain ripped fenders and doors from the ship, and threw them overboard to help the struggling passengers in the water. He then let down ropes so that Mary Wakefield, Mrs. Kehoe, and little Mabel could drop into the water. The captain gave Mrs. Kehoe a cabin door to hang on to, but she was unable to grasp it after going under the water, and she drowned.

Little Mabel sank under the waves. Miss Wakefield then grabbed her, and placed her clothing between her teeth to keep the child's head out of the water. She managed to reach Fisherman's Island, by clinging to a fender. After helping several passengers off the boat, Captain Casey swam the mile to shore to Smithson Camp. The camp was located at the mouth of Inwood Creek, which is inside the present Fisherman's Island State Park. The captain then rowed a boat back to help others reach the mainland.

Another passenger, W.B. Albright of Chicago, said that he and Captain Charles H. Russell of Jackson, Michigan were on the deck together, waiting for the last moment before they would have to jump. As the fire crowded the bow, Mr. Albright pulled the jack staff out and they jumped. They struck away from the boat to get out of the heat, which was so intense they had to put their heads under several times to escape it. The smoke and fire were sweeping down over the water. In every direction, people were struggling for life and crying out for help. Albright and Russell headed for shore, clinging to the jack staff. Captain Russell became very chilled in the biting cold water and said that he was perishing and was going back to the ship. In spite of Mr. Albright's pleading, the captain left him and that was the last he saw of him until daybreak when his body washed up on the sand.

There were many more first hand accounts of the fire, and I will continue the story in my next column, with a list of the passengers and crew, and a map of the location.

Sewer extension can be built to new school site

SCHOOL

Olson said the case was about preventing the use of bond proceeds for unauthorized uses.

"An important fact here, is that prior to the ballot hearing, the question of the sewer and all that will go along with it was not disseminated to the voters and was not made known," Olson said.

Olson said the plaintiffs were in court to make sure proceeds were not misapplied. He argued that the ballot language made no mention of an off-site sewer extension.

"There is this question of these voters in the community: what did they vote on, a new sewer or a new high school," Olson argued.

He said money raised through the bond should not be diverted to purposes that are not for the school.

"$200,000 could be used for good things besides being spent on the extension of the city sewer," Olson said.

This was the third lawsuit filed against Charlevoix Public Schools since the start of the new high school building project.

Sturock said the school is still negotiating with the city as to the specifics of the line. It has not yet signed an agreement.

As of now, the building project is right on schedule and will be open for classes in the fall of 2002. The plumbing in the building can be completed without the sewer line in.

Charlevoix police thwart possible armed robbery

Charlevoix police may have thwarted an armed robbery attempt around 9:30 a.m. on Saturday at Nanny's Restaurant, located at 219 Ferry Avenue, when they arrested an 18-year-old East Jordan man.

The restaurant was broken into twice last week and an undisclosed amount of money was taken. Police believe the man arrested on Saturday is connected with the break-ins.

Charlevoix Police Chief Dennis Halverson said officers received a tip that the man was going to hold-up the restaurant on Saturday morning. In response, city officers with the assistance of the Charlevoix County Sheriff's Office, went to the restaurant and waited.

When the suspect drove in the restaurant's parking lot, officers approached him and found a pellet pistol and hunting mask in his possession.

The man is lodged in the Charlevoix County Jail.

Cost to purchase building criticized

By JULIE WITTHOEFT

At the Charlevoix City Council meeting Sept. 17 Charlevoix residents stood up and spoke in opposition of the city's plans to acquire and demolish the Wharfside building, only to find out they were too late.

After hearing the concerns of former first ward councilman Bob Timms and D.J. Way, who is running against councilman Bill Bellows for the second ward slot in the November election, third ward councilman A.J. Witthoef asked city manager Mike Wiesner if it would be possible to table the grant agreement they were about to vote on. This would give council time to discuss plans for the Wharfside.

But city attorney Jim Young informed council that they were already too far along in the process to turn back.

Wiesner told Witthoef "the numbers haven't changed since the last council meeting."

Wiesner was referring to the Sept. 3 meeting when the city of Charlevoix entered into a purchase agreement with Charlevoix residents Rex and Ineke McCarthy to acquire the waterfront property, "the Wharfside," for $1,235,000. This figure includes a $1,150,000 purchase price, an $80,000 relocation fee for busi-

Township zoning ordinance loses

By JULIE WITTHOEFT
Staff Writer

Charlevoix Township voters defeated the revised township zoning ordinance by a vote of 223 to 114 sending township administrators, who spent almost two years making the revisions, back to the drawing board.

"We probably won't do anything for a while, hopefully we'll go back to the drawing board and tweak the ordinance to be something people can live with. It was a good ordinance. It's too bad it went down," Nancy Rajewski, Charlevoix Township Planning Commission Chairman and township board trustee said.

Charlevoix Township resident Chuck Scherping, a staunch advocate for defeating the revised ordinance, said the revisions made the ordinance too restrictive and he would be willing to work with the township on making changes to the ordinance.

"I think people got a hold of the ordinance and read it and decided it wasn't in the best interest of Charlevoix Township," Scherping said.

However, Rajewski thinks that people didn't read it and that is why it was defeated. She said from the feedback she received people didn't understand the ordinance.

Rajewski said that during the zoning ordinance revision process, people came to the meetings. She said most township residents attended public hearings that took place toward the end of the process.

She said those meetings were productive and the revised ordinance that voters shot down on Sept. 18 incorporated "most of those suggestions."

Staff Writer experiences life in a wheelchair

Julie Witthoef
Staff Writer

I've never broken a bone, I had a blood infection once when I was only three, or so my parents tell me, but all in all my health has been good and I'm thankful for that.

I remember when my sister was pregnant with my nephew, we kept wondering how cute he would be and what color hair he would have, but my dad just kept saying I hope he's healthy.

Our health is something that we easily take for granted in our daily routine. I get up out of bed, stretch my arms and legs, step into a warm shower and hit the road for another day at work.

But, during the day as I frantically run from interview to photo shoot I'll pass people confined to wheelchairs or otherwise disabled and I'll wonder what it's like to be them. What challenges do they face in this fast paced world?

So, last Friday, I tried to see life from the eyes of Pati Lunsford, a 50-year-old diabetic woman from East Jordan who lost the use of her right leg in 1995 after a gangrene infection.

I didn't talk to her right away. Instead, I started by going over to the Charlevoix Area Hospital where she volunteers and I picked up a wheelchair they agreed to let me borrow.

I dragged the heavy, awkward apparatus out to the parking lot, wedged it into my car and brought it into the Courier office. After fully inspecting things and working on my turns within the confines of the office, I was ready. Around 2 p.m. Sept. 21, I took to the streets of Charlevoix.

I only experimented for one hour, but I quickly learned that Lunsford has more to overcome than the lack of movement in her leg.

My wheels got stuck in cracks in the sidewalks and road leaving me stranded. I occasionally picked up too much speed, scaring myself and those around me. And I often came upon inclines that were too steep for my arms to carry me up.

A note to those feeding the ducks in East Park; I also found that anything on the street, including duck poop, got stuck to the wheels that I used with my hands to push forward — totally gross.

Then, there were counters I couldn't see over and shelves I couldn't reach.

Just 20 minutes into my investigation my arms were rubbery and tired from pushing the wheels and my hands were blistered from the friction. I thought that if this weren't an experiment there would probably be few days that I would leave the house.

Aside from my tired arms and unsanitary hands, I was very surprised at the reaction from people. Some asked what happened and were relieved to find out it was just an experiment while others pretended they didn't see me.

Then there were the middle school students coming back from class who don't know it's rude to stare. But, after a while I didn't know if it made me feel more awkward to be stared at or totally ignored.

I got back from the excursion with a taste of what Lunsford's life might be like and was ready to hear from her.

She talked openly about her experiences over the past six years. She said, like I had discovered, for disabled people there are many bumps in the road that can't be crossed and inclines that can't be climbed by wheelchairs and people who won't look you in the eye.

Life for Lunsford is anything but easy.

"Emotionally, I feel like I'm not normal anymore. I grew up being normal and now I'm not," she said.

Normal seems like such a relative word, but think for a moment how it relates to you. Normal — waking up and walking to the bathroom, driving to work, being independent. Imagine if it was all taken away, would you still feel "normal?"

When Lunsford volunteers at the hospital she relies on Charlevoix County Transit to pick her up and bring her home. Getting out isn't easy, so she's learned to shift her daily conception of normal, time she used to spend on long walks she now spends learning. She searches the Internet and takes classes "to keep her mind busy."

A few thoughts from the head of an editor

Jeremy McBain

'Just a thought'

I have just too many thoughts on a variety of subjects lately for just this little column.

So, like other times, I have compacted them into one to give you little tidbits of the ramblings stored up in my head.

City spending

Sometimes local government just makes me shake my head in utter disbelief, especially when it comes to spending taxpayer money.

Take for example the city of Charlevoix's recent plan to purchase the Wharfside building on Bridge Street. I have written about my opposition to this before.

The city is going to buy this building, which is on less than an acre of waterfront, for $1.15 million. Of this money, $240,000 must be paid by the city out of its budget. This building will then be demolished to make way for more park space. No one is sure what kind of park space, because the city wants to get public input — wow — before it draws up some plans.

Where does the money in the city budget come from? The taxpayers.

This means city residents will be paying for the purchase of a building that will be demolished. The businesses in that building must move, thus adding to urban sprawl and the taxes generated in the city coffers from that building will no longer be there.

Plus, the city is not even sure what it will do exactly with the space this building is on yet. And the decision to enter into purchase agreement, and spend $1.15 million, came before the city received final approval on the grants that will be used to help purchase it.

This means, if the city does not get all of the grants it requested, that $240,000 that will come out of the taxpayers' pockets may get higher.

Am I missing something here? This still does not make any sense.

Housing series

Sometimes the reactions people give on stories astound me. Take for example the series we have been writing on the lack of affordable housing in the Charlevoix area, as well as northern Michigan.

According to my reporter, some people are telling her that I should stop writing about this topic because it is, "making them mad."

Hmmm.....so I should stop reporting about a problem that could negatively impact the economy of the area because some people don't like it?

I know some people would rather I only report on the good news out there, and we do to a large extent. In fact, most of the news in the Charlevoix Courier is positive about the community.

But a journalist's job is to report both the good and bad in a community.

We want to give our readers as much of the information that we can to enable them to make informed decisions in their daily lives. This is information from both sides of the fence.

With the housing story, we just want to show you the problem the community is facing and give you some possible solutions. It is up to our readers to decide, in the end, what must be done.

I am not going to stop writing about something because it is forcing some of our readers to look at their local community through anything other than rose-colored glasses.

As you may have noticed, we do not have an story for the housing series this week. This is because I felt this week's story needed a little more work before publication. Look for it in next week's edition of the Courier.

Effects of terrorism

Last week's terrorist attacks on the United States had me, like the rest of the country, experiencing a multitude of emotions.

There was the sadness of the deaths and pain that the attacks created, anger at the attackers and pride in how the American spirit has been shining so brightly. Like everyone else, I want to see the terrorist behind this brought to justice. But, I will stop short of giving my idea of a way to give out that justice.

Lately, I have been hearing a lot of talk about "bombing Afghanistan to the stone age...." or some other war-like phrase. But, let's look at reality.

Afghanistan is already a very poor country after decades of war. Simply put, they are already in the stone age and there is really nothing to bomb.

So, some people say, "Send in the troops." Well, that may be just what the terrorists want. By sending in the troops, they can call a jihad — holy war — which may tick off other Muslim countries and we will find ourselves in one heck of a messy situation.

So, what do we do? That I do not know.

One thing is certain, the attackers will be brought to justice.

All I ask is that as we figure out how to bring them to justice, we use calm and rational thinking.

Housing development had many obstacles

By JULIE WITTHOEFT
Staff Writer

A density battle brought on-by Charlevoix Township residents and officials, may have lowered the number of units developers will construct on the 11 acre site behind Charlevoix's Kmart, but it also bumped up the per unit price significantly.

Co-owner of Charlevoix Real Estate One, Dennis Martin, along with John Watson of Bay Harbor are developing the property. Martin said, had the development been able to follow the 15 units per acre allowed by the township zoning ordinance in the R-4 district, each would be between $10,000 and $20,000 cheaper.

The units are currently listed between $124,900 and $142,000.

"It's a really good value. We tried to keep it as affordable as we could," Martin said.

At public hearings that took place in the winter of 2000, prior to the Charlevoix Township Board rezoning the land, from C-3, commercial, to R-4, multiple family residential, residents said 15 units per acre is too much.

But, according to Watson, the property's fate was condos or 12 boat storage buildings 12,000 square feet each.

If 15 units per acre was permitted at the site it would have allowed for 165 units to be placed there. Martin said the current capacity is now 104 condominium units.

The developers also faced opposition from environmental groups, including Friends of Stover Creek and the Tip of the Mitt Watershed Council who weren't concerned about per unit cost but were worried about the safety of Stover Creek. The long-range development plan shows 50 units will be placed along the north edge of Stover Creek.

Martin and Watson said they worked closely with the groups. The layout now includes a double row silt fence that runs around the perimeter of the property, three retention ponds and an agreement that the developer will consult the friends if they cut any trees in the proximity of the creek.

But Jo Anne Beemon, Charlevoix County Drain Commissioner and a member of the Friends of Stover Creek, still isn't satisfied.

"The development is built in the creek bed, it's re-contoured the banks. Building condominium units so close to a creek and clearing so much highland with trees falling is all really negative for a creek," Beemon explained.

She later added that they have re-contoured the site so stormwater runs away from the creek and repacked dirt around exposed tree roots.

Martin said 15 units have already been sold in phase one which will ultimately consist of 32 units. Construction was started on phase one in the spring of 2001 and he expects it to be completed between mid-October and the end of the year.

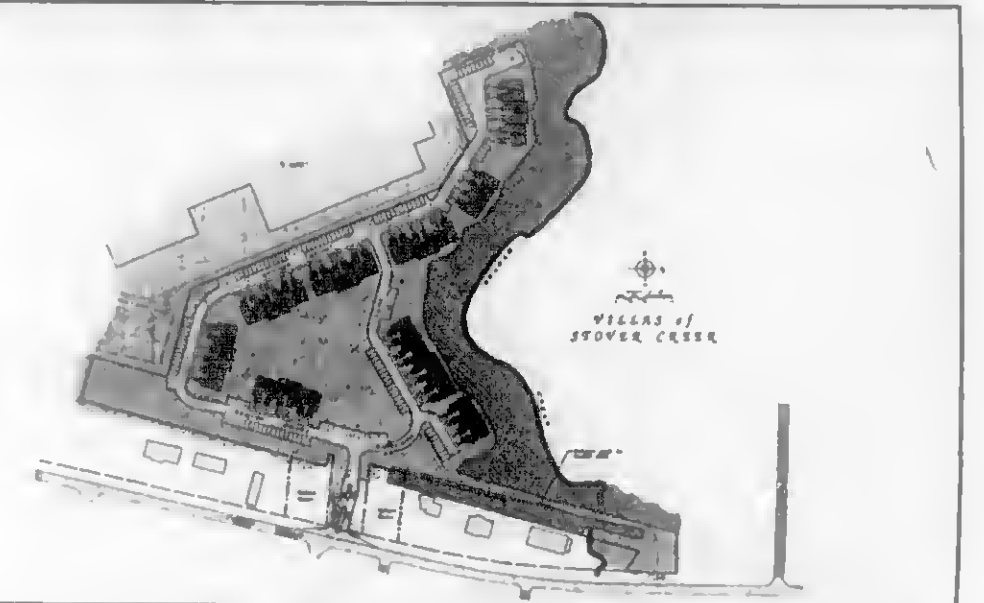

He said most of the people who have bought the units are retirees, boaters, younger people and resorters who were previously priced out of the market.

Martin described the design as two story, single level units ranging from 950-1,050 square feet, each of which will include; two-bedrooms, two full baths and a full kitchen.

He added that one of the benefits of the development's location is the owner's or renter's ability to walk to Kmart, the post office, Glen's Market, Rite-Aid and Blockbuster.

Summer rates for rented units will run between $800 and $1,000 weekly. They are unsure about long-term renter pricing.

While some will be enjoying the convenience of the development's location and Martin and Watson may enjoy a profit, Beemon believes the creek will ultimately suffer.

"There's a trade off when you maximize profit on a piece of land. What is good for profit is bad for the creek," she said.

Watson said that he and Martin received a letter commending their environmentally sensitive efforts from the Friends of Stover Creek.

Letters to the editor

Consider this

Editor:
Terrible as events were Sept. 11, 2001, consider what might have happened had the U.S. Air Force been successful in shooting down those three unarmed passenger planes before they struck the World Trade Center Towers and the Pentagon, thus saving untold thousands of lives.

Thank you

Editor:
On behalf of the Bay City Wolves AAU fifth and sixth grade basketball team we would like to extend our overwhelming gratitude to those responsible for making our visit on Aug. 17 and 18 so wonderful. Shawn McDonough and his fellow coaches put together a very well organized tournament in your very beautiful high school gymnasium. Their help in making this a great tournament must not go unrecognized.

After our competition we were hosted to a cookout in the pavilion at Ferry Beach. Parents of your players treated us to a feast along with fun activities for the children. The entire experience was a class act through and through. It is no surprise why Charlevoix consistently builds talented and competitive sports teams.

Again, thanks to all who made the experience so wonderful. Keep up the great work players, coaches and parents. Hope to see all of you again next year.

Anniversary

Ron and Wilma Sitzema

Ron & Wilma 1951

Ron & Wilma 2001

Ron and Wilma Sitzema, of Ellsworth, will be celebrating their fiftieth wedding anniversary on Oct. 6.

They were married in 1951 at the Church of God in Charlevoix. Ron and Wilma have four children: Ronald Jr., Gregory, Steven and Dawn.

They also have 13 grandchildren and 10 great-grandchildren. Ron worked at American Mold, now known as DME, for 34 years and Wilma worked at Hoskins Manufacturing for 27 years.

The family is inviting anyone who has worked with or known the couple to join them for a buffet dinner in their honor at 4 p.m., Oct. 6 at the Knights of Columbus Hall on Bells Bay Road in Charlevoix.

Writer thankful for health

WHEELCHAIR

Her body, like mine, doesn't like the inclines. Lunsford said after all these years there are still places her arms won't take her. To try and increase her mobility, she's in the market for a new electric chair, but they cost money.

And money doesn't come easily. She has not only faced physical barriers, but has also stared discrimination in the face. Volunteer work isn't Lunsford's trade because she's rolling in money. In fact, she rarely gets to do one of her favorite things, going to the movies, because she's low on cash.

She said employers won't hire her because she's in a wheelchair.

"They're afraid I am going to get hurt on the job so they don't hire me and I'm stuck volunteering at jobs," she said.

My experiment taught me sometimes we need to be reminded of how lucky we are for our health and how quickly our luck can run out.

So, next time you pass by someone who is disabled look them in the eyes and say hello. Their daily struggles are real and we all need support.

Wedding

Birr — Schnackenberg

Jessamyn Birrer and Matthew Schnackenberg were married in August at the Lawson Gardens in Pullman, Wash.

Jessamyn is the daughter of Terry and Eddy Birrer of Spokane, Wash. Matthew is the son of Leola and Dick Schnackenberg of Charlevoix.

The Rev. King Rockhill performed the double ring ceremony.

The bride wore an airy pink dress and carried a bouquet of pink gerbera daisies. The groom wore a silken yellow shirt and black cotton pants and had a sprig of ivy and herb on his chest.

The best woman was Doryjane Birrer, sister of the bride. The best man was Chris Nelson.

A reception was given at the American Legion cabin in Moscow, Idaho.

The couple traveled to Disney World in Florida for a honeymoon.

Local resident helps heal with the help of dolphins

By JULIE WITTHOFT
Staff Writer

"They don't care about anything in the world except that you are their friend."

Tonya Mann,
Charlevoix resident about those in her program dolphins and believes the interaction, coupled with other factors, may have healing power.

The power of the human/dolphin relationship is referred to by the institute as "biophilia," which they define as, "the intense emotion of love and connection to nature that dolphins generate in humans."

Throughout history dolphins have been said to share a unique and docile relationship with humans.

And, nobody believes in the power of this relationship more than Charlevoix resident Tonya Mann, 29, director of the Florida dolphin institute's child empowerment program. Mann has experienced first hand, the magical relationship between humans and

Her husband, Daniel Mann, who is a family practitioner at Pine River Medical in Charlevoix, visits and volunteers at the institute too.

During the program, the families snorkel, canoe, swim, cruise the ocean, encounter dolphins and undergo Watsu, expressive arts and massage therapies.

Mann said while at the institute families can really bond and see the changes in their children. The setting lends itself to relaxation and can be therapeutic.

Through a day-trip the institute calls "The Dolphin Odyssey" the general public is also invited to partake in a dolphin encounter.

Each year from mid-May to mid-August families come for three, seven or 14-day programs.

Obituaries

Betty Lockton: May 1, 1915 - Sept. 20, 2001

Betty (Cull) Lockton, 86, of Monee, Ill. and Beaver Island and formerly of Dolton, Ill. passed away Sept. 20 in Frankfort, Ill.

A funeral mass will be at 11:30 a.m., Sept. 29 at the Holy Cross Catholic Church on Beaver Island. The Rev. Patrick Cawley will officiate and burial will be in Holy Cross Cemetery on Beaver Island.

Betty was born May 1, 1915 on Beaver Island, the daughter of Mike and Mabel Cull. She was a registered nurse and served in the US Army during World War II, she retired from the Illinois Central Gulf Railroad Hospital after over 30 years of service.

She is survived by her children, Tom (Monica) Lockton, Susie (Ted) Kocol, Pattie (Pat) Crawford and Alice (Andy) Klees; grandchildren, Tammy (John) Pointkowsky, Mary Lockton, Mark Kocol, Joe (Amy) Kocol, Tom Crawford, Dan Klees and Sarah Klees; great-grandchildren, Ben, Ashley, Megan and Kaitlyn; brother, Roland (Shirley) Cull; sister, Sally Hammermeister; sisters-in-law, Nancy Cull and Claire Cull; many nieces and nephews.

She was preceded in death by her brothers, Jack, Ray and Larry Cull.

Visitation took place Sept. 23 at the Schroeder-Lauer Funeral Home in Lansing, Ill. A wake will take place from 4 p.m. to 9 p.m., Sept. 28 at her home on Beaver Island.

Contributions made in Betty's memory may be directed to Camp Quality Illinois, P.O. Box 641, Lansing, Ill. 60438.

The family is being served locally by Winchester Funeral Home, Charlevoix.

David J. Dick: Sept. 19, 1914 - Sept. 16, 2001

David J. Dick — husband, father, grandfather, educator and friend — passed away on Sept. 16 at the age of 86.

He was preceded in death by his parents, Jason and Gertrude; his sister, Helen Frink and his beloved wife, Alyce.

He is survived by his children: Robert (Margaret) Dick of Cincinnati, Ohio, John (Nancy) Dick of Naples, Fla. and Marilyn (Eric) Walline of Saline; eight grandchildren, Michael, Kevin, Anthony, Andrew, Laura and James Dick and Brian and David Walline.

David was born Sept. 19, 1914 in Freesoil. He graduated from Charlevoix High School in 1932 and later earned his bachelor of science degree in chemistry from Michigan Normal College (EMU) and his masters in Education from the University of Michigan.

He married Alyce Usher in 1940, they were married for 56 years before her death in 1996. He was an educator at the Tecumseh Public Schools for over 30 years having been a teacher, coach and junior high principal.

After retirement, he and Alyce spent many winters in Florida and summers in Tecumseh and Charlevoix. Their favorite pastime was golf which he enjoyed well into his 80s. He was an avid reader, gardener, photographer and mentor to his many grandchildren.

A celebration of his life took place at 2 p.m., Sept. 19 at the Purse Funeral Home in Tecumseh.

Kathryn N. Wahl: June 7, 1919 - Sept. 18, 2001

Kathryn N. Wahl, 82, of Charlevoix and formerly of Morton Pa., died Sept. 18 at Charlevoix Area Hospital in Charlevoix.

Kathryn was born June 7, 1919 in Philadelphia, Pa., the daughter of John and Edith Mae (Anderson) Wahl.

She was raised in Philadelphia and worked for General Electric for 15 years before leaving to raise her son.

Kathryn was a graduate of the Philadelphia College of Art and was known for her painting of China art, jewelry art and knitting talents.

On Jan. 26, 1953 she married George Wahl in Red Bank, N.J. The couple resided in Morton, Pa. for 47 years before moving to Charlevoix in May. He survives.

No services are scheduled. Arrangements were handled by the Winchester Funeral Home in Charlevoix.

Charlevoix resident heads up Florida dolphin program

A feature of the program is all the dolphins are wild, none of those that participate are in captivity. Mann said they used to feed the dolphins at the location where they base the program, but feeding has been banned and she thinks the dolphins continue to return for the interaction.

Mann earned her bachelor's degree from the University of Connecticut in art therapy and her master's from the University of Wisconsin.

Her involvement with the institute started in her final year at Wisconsin when she needed to get practicum hours in to write a thesis. In her topic search she ran across the dolphin institute on the Internet.

When she got there, they were without a director for this program and she went for it. The following year she was asked to be the new permanent director and the rest is history.

Mann said that the groups that come year after year have become a whole new set of best friends.

"They don't care about anything in the world except that you are their friend," she explained.

Where Is It?

Tell us where in the Charlevoix Area you think this is.

In an effort to add a little more fun to our lives and yours, the Charlevoix Courier is working on creating interactive areas of the newspaper for our readers. In the spirit of this, we are announcing the creation of a new contest called, "Where is it?"

Each week, the Charlevoix Courier will publish a picture of some item on a local landmark or building. We invite our readers to send in their guesses on where this picture was taken.

The names of each week's correct guesses will be entered into a drawing for "100" that will take place on December 31, 2001.

Answer to the 9/12 Where is it? On the mailbox at the Aleno Club, Mason St.

Correct answer for 9/12 Where is it? provided by:

Robert D'Alcorn, Charlevoix

Yes, there is something similar on the fence at the Treasure Chest on Park Ave.

Call or send your answers along with your name, address and phone number to:

Failed ordinance to get some 'tweaking' ORDINANCE

"It's a good ordinance, a well-written ordinance, easy to understand. We'll try and tweak it," Rajewski said.

She said one of the major complaints she received and an area that may need "tweaking" concerns the requirement for residents to get a permit for fencing.

Rajewski explained that the revised ordinance is less stringent in regards to fencing than what is currently in effect. But the permit process is not required in the existing ordinance, and that is one part of the revised ordinance that may be tweaked and taken out.

She explained that until the tweaking can be done, the township will operate under the old ordinance.

Rajewski estimated that the ordinance costs to the township, including: paying the planner, drafting the ordinance, paying for the special election and lawyers' fees rose to around $20,000.

"It is a lot. We didn't go into it lightheartedly," Rajewski said of the cost.

She hopes to not have to call in the professionals again, but rather be able to make the changes on the township level.

"We have a great ordinance, we can tweak it, reword some parts or take parts out, like the permit requirement for fences. That upset people; I had no idea people would get that upset over having to get a permit," she said.

The township will begin the whole process over, in terms of public hearings and meetings but they won't write the entire ordinance over.

Rajewski said a timeline for the rewrite is up to the planning commission and the township board but she doesn't foresee it happening right away.

Balzer to join this year's CROP walk on Sept. 29

Johanna Balzer, associate director of Michigan Church World Service/CROP, has announced her plans to walk with the Charlevoix County CROP walkers on Sept. 29.

She will start with the Charlevoix walkers and meet with the East Jordan and Boyne City groups as they arrive at the Ironton Congregational Church walk destination.

Balzer meets with local coordinators each year to help plan and set goals. This is the first time she has participated in the local walk.

Come rain or come shine the 2001 walk will start in all three cities at 9 a.m., but it's suggested that those planning to walk come early to register and obtain an orange vest (necessary for all walkers).

There will be a rest stop along the way, if necessary and a driver in a marked CROP car will pick up any person who feels he or she cannot complete the walk. The distance is approximately six miles for each of the communities.

Transportation will be provided back to the starting point in each city.

As the name indicates, this is a walk, so bicycles, skateboard and in-line skates are not allowed. Children may be pushed in strollers or pulled in wagons and wheelchairs are allowed.

To obtain a sponsor form contact Marge Teske in East Jordan at 536-3128, Diana Walls in Boyne City at 582-6485 or in Charlevoix Kay Smith at 547-2920.

Environmental consultant named to board

By JULIE WITTHOEFT
Staff Writer

The Charlevoix County Stormwater Board has invited an environmental consultant to join their team of stormwater ordinance revisionists.

Steven Voice, 44, of Boyne City's Voice & Associates brings with him years of experience in the field.

Voice has specialized in land and water management services since 1983 and founded Voice & Associates in 1986. He said his work is closely related to the work he will do with the board.

"This is what I do for a living. I help people understand how to use their property in an environmentally or ecologically sensitive manner," Voice said.

He added that there is also the matter of what is reasonable. He said he thinks a balance between being ecologically sensitive and the contents of a stormwater ordinance needs to exist.

"I don't think the idea of a stormwater ordinance is a bad idea, it just needs to be done in a reasonable fashion," he said.

He added that his specialty is wetland mitigation services.

Voice attended his first stormwater board meeting, Aug. 31. Also in attendance at the meeting was an alternate from the conservation district, Marion Township resident, Tim Matchett. Matchett will vote when another member of the board cannot attend.

Chairman of the board, Shirley Roloff said at the meeting the group reviewed civil infractions with county prosecutor John Jerema. At the next meeting, which will take place at 9 a.m., Sept. 28, the board plans to look at the relationship between zoning and the ordinance with county planner Larry Sullivan. Roloff added that the controversial "buffer" language will also be discussed with Sullivan.

"Other than that we're pretty much there," Roloff said. She explained that the primary changes that were made to the ordinance were wording related such as "may" converted to "shall." In this instance, Roloff explained the ordinance was made easier to enforce.

High school searching for new teacher

By JULIE WITTHOEFT
Staff Writer

The resignation of former Charlevoix High School coach and teacher Jason Otter left the girls' basketball team and a special education classroom in a bind.

The fact that Otter resigned Aug. 22, just 13 days before Charlevoix High School opened its doors for the first day of school, left administrators searching for his replacement.

The basketball position was quickly filled, temporarily, by former assistant coach Jim Parrish. Charlevoix Elementary School principal Dick Swenor was brought on to assist Parrish.

However, the untimely resignation had a greater impact in the classroom as most teachers had already signed contracts with other school districts and were preparing their classrooms for the school year.

"This is a tough position to find, but a critical position because of the type of work they do. It's a real important hire," Gary Grundman, Charlevoix High School principal said at the September school board meeting.

However, this important hire won't come easily. Grundman said he has spoken with experienced candidates from southern lower Michigan who are interested in moving to Charlevoix but they have contracts with other districts they wish to honor first.

Other options Grundman highlighted at the meeting include looking at student teachers and graduating classes in December.

Currently, the position is being filled by Charlevoix native Kim Keller. Keller is a certified teacher who will fill Otter's position for the rest of the semester.

Grundman said Keller will fill the position while school administrators expand their search for a qualified special education teacher.

Varsity soccer team is on a roll with fourth win

The Rayder soccer team won its fourth game in a row and is playing their best soccer of the year going into this week's game against conference rival Harbor Springs.

The Rams are 9-1 and rated third in the state. On Sept. 18, the Rayders beat a pesky NMCA Burt Lake 3-1 behind the scoring of Spencer Bryan, Jason Hass and Roscoe Serrels.

Bryan started the scoring with a first half header on a nice cross from Serrels. NMCA tied the score on a penalty kick on a soft takedown in the box. Charlevoix took the lead midway through the second half when Jason Hass took a pass from Trevor Kline and blasted a shot from the 18 to beat the Eagles goalie.

They broke the game open a few minutes later when Serrels scored unassisted.

Coach Josh Block said, "Hass has been playing on a bum knee. He really came in and gave us a lift emotionally by playing aggressive."

Defensively, Bryce Daly held Spencer Chatfield scoreless.

"We've had this date marked on the calendar, even before the end of last year."

Greg Bryan,

Assistant soccer coach about playing Houghton Lake

Chatfield is arguably the best player in northern Michigan. Colin Sequin once again took care of the sweeper position and Kiel Tilley had some nice saves in goal.

In Thursday's match up against Houghton Lake, motivation was not a problem. Last year, the Bobcats embarrassed the Rayders 10-0.

Assistant coach Greg Bryan said, "We've had this date marked on the calendar, even before the end of last year."

After falling behind in the first half, Charlevoix tied the score when Serrels popped the ball in from in front of the net assisted by Kline.

Later in the half, Charlevoix got the winner on a perfect direct kick by Colin Sequin from 40 yards out. Tilley had several saves to seal the victory. Block credited Travis Smith, Bryan, John DeMartino, and Kline for stepping it up and his whole team for playing team defense and is looking forward to a rematch with Harbor.

The Rayders raised their record to 6-4 overall and 4-3 within their conference.

Attention lapse causes accident at bridge

By DAVID L. MILES
 Charlevoix Historical Society

After the Olney/Ross disaster of 1919, nothing drastic happened to Elmer Johnson for about nine years. The very model of a bridge tender and civic employee, he was at his post night and day, still faithfully keeping watch over his charge even in the few winter closing months.

But around 1928, a lapse in attention almost spelled calamity when he closed the bridge on one of the most beautiful yachts on the great lakes, the Sylvia IV, owned by Logan Thomson of the Belvedere.

Thomson was a millionaire paper manufacturer in Hamilton, Ohio, north of Cincinnati, and one of the most prominent members of the Belvedere resort. His series of Sylvias was named after his wife, starting with small motorboats and racing vessels, culminating in 1926 with the magnificent number four built at the Defoe Boat & Motor Works in Bay City. One hundred and thirty-three feet in overall length, she required her own boathouse, which Thomson proceeded to construct on the south shore of Round Lake, the prominent barn-like building in which the Harbour Club condominiums are now located next to Cross Fisheries. The vessel was considered to be the last word in design and technology of the time, lacking nothing in equipment and the expenditures necessary to include them.

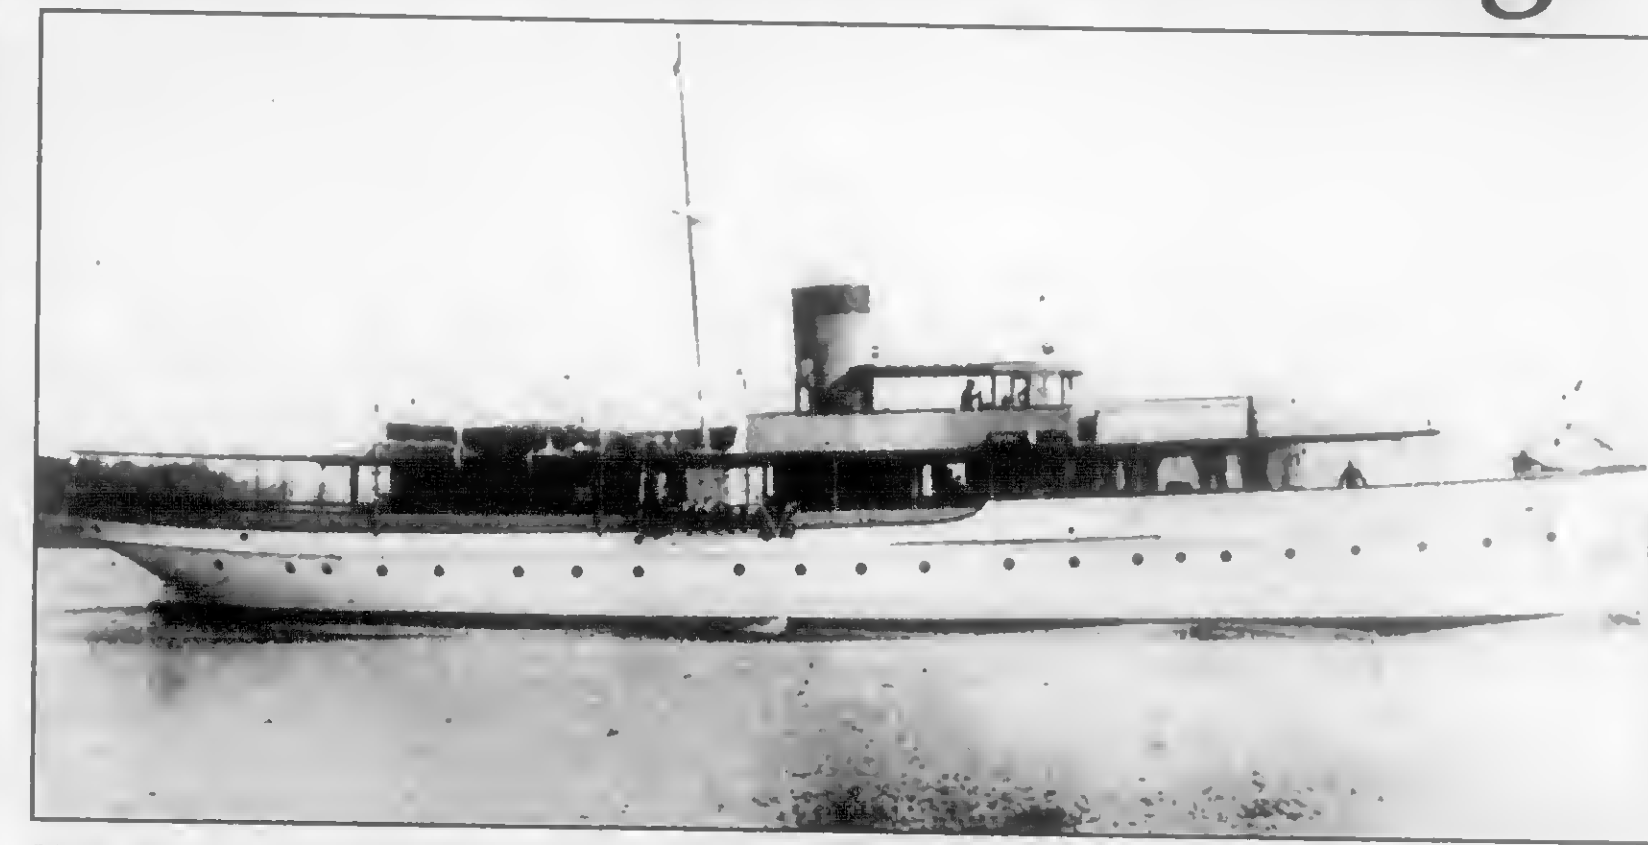

One dark evening, she entered the channel from Lake Michigan and signaled for the bridge to open. From the bridge-house, it was impossible to see all the way down the channel because of its bend to the right and the fact the Argo Milling Company building next door sliced off some of the view. Johnson had seen a small sailboat in the channel close by, assumed its signal was the one he heard, and opened the bridge. With his attention focused on the sail's entry into Round Lake, when it cleared the tip of the opened bridge he began to close it only to see to his horror the Sylvia IV entering the draw to his right under full power. It was too late for either to stop. The bridge raked over the deck of the yacht, snapped off the mast, caved in half of the pilothouse and sent windows crashing into the deckhouse.

People on Bridge Street could hear the women inside screaming for their lives. Wrenching sounds of the collision reverberated all over Charlevoix. There were those who swore they could hear the captain's oaths further away than that.

The momentum of the bridge's closing combined with the speed of the boat brought both to a dead halt. When the bridge could swing off the battered Sylvia IV, it revealed an unholy mess. But Thomson recognized it was an accident, pure and simple, and was grateful that no one was hurt. Elmer Johnson's self-esteem took as great a battering as the boat, the worst moment of his career for which he was responsible.

Thomson sent the vessel, still able to operate under its own power, back to Bay City for repairs, and by 1930 he had his eye on one of the five spec vessels built at the Bath Iron Works Corporation in Bath, Maine. He purchased what would be the last of the Sylvias (with no V), and sold the repaired boat to Ransom E. Olds, founder of Oldsmobile and for many years one of Charlevoix's most prominent summer residents, along with the boathouse (at 191 feet the glorious new boat wouldn't fit by a long shot.)

Olds named his as the latest in a series, his pride and joy, the Reomar IV. For just over a decade the two palatial yachts graced our waters, but the outbreak of World War II saw them confiscated and in 1942 both boats left for war duty, never to pass the bridge again.

Around 1930, an unusual circumstance kept Bridge Street traffic at a standstill several times.

A man named Robert Mitchell, in the sand and gravel cartage business, used two sorrel horses to transport his loads. Both horses shied at the narrow cracks at either end of the bridge where planks met highway, and refused to cross onto or off the bridge.

So Mitchell carried a 10 foot board that he used to cover the crack and the horses stepped readily over it onto the span. He had to repeat the procedure at the other end to get them off and on their way. Even the planks played hob with the animals, when he pointed out caulk of their horse-shoes became wedged in between them and the shoes pulled out of their hooves, causing a stop at a blacksmith for repairs.

Bridge had many stories from the Depression era

BRIDGE

But the usual 10 to 30 inconvenienced drivers endured the delays with smiles and few complaints, the only times in our history when the bridge caused gridlock when it was closed.

During the early years of the Depression, when diving off the bridge was not forbidden, a destitute man appeared in town and offered to dive from the top of the structure for a fee, paid by the city, as part of the July 4 festivities. But he broke his neck in the attempt and died at the hospital three days later. His fee was used to bury him properly here since he had no known kin or friends who could be notified.

And for all the years that Elmer Johnson devoted his entire life to the second swing bridge, the local youth loved nothing better than to try to sneak, undetected down onto the timber framework island and up into the undercarriage to hitch a thrilling ride while the passenger vessels paraded in.

Once Johnson's attention was focused on an opening, that was the time to move, since once in motion the bridge alone occupied its tender's every thought and moment. Passenger liners caused the longest opening which allowed time for bravado dangling and horseplay, catcalls and raspberries to onlookers on either shore and those on the lower parts of a passing ship. If he caught them, Johnson gave them a good lecture and bawling out. It was said that he just as often turned the other eye when he detected surreptitious movement from one of his eight bridge-house aerie windows.

Toward the end of his tenure, he was given an assistant who took over on days while he took the less strenuous night shift, but he was on duty at any time whenever one of the larger vessels came into port.

It had been a remarkable career by the time he retired in 1932 after over three decades of service. Elmer Johnson's eyes, from their vantage point high over the crossing of channel and highway, probably witnessed more history passing through Charlevoix than any other resident before or since.

Eventually, bridge number four had to face the reality of age and changing times. But the Depression was upon us and there was no money. Plans were actually drawn up and submitted to the state, but couldn't be acted upon so they were stored away and eventually ended up in the basement of the new city hall after 1939.

Then came the war, and all critical materials went to the war effort. So old number four had to suffice well beyond its intended life-span for a total of 46 years, antiquated but serviceable and still part of the memories of many residents. They can recall even today the coal still being delivered to fuel the bridge-tender's stove in cold weather, arriving by truck to be hoisted up in canvas bags, just as they did when horses brought a load of coal onto the bridge.

But all that was soon about to change.

Wharfside's price tag faces criticism at council meeting

nesses located in the building and what Wiesner calls "incidentals."

"This is three times the amount the city paid for the Parkside. I think the property owner sees a cash cow," Way said.

Council then voted to approve the Michigan Department of Natural Resources grant agreement by a vote of 5-1. Second ward councilman Gabe Campbell voted against it.

The grant will fund 40 percent of the purchase price, $1,150,000, which is $460,000.

Jim Wood, manager of the resource section of the grant administration division of the Michigan Department of Natural Resources said he wasn't surprised by the big ticket price of the Wharfside building.

"There are a lot of extremely expensive per acre property acquisitions done by the trust-fund," he said.

Even though the city was seeking grant assistance to fund the acquisition costs, Timms and Way were still upset about the use of money.

"This is money someone had to work for. The people of Charlevoix really deserve something more than this for their dollars," Timms said to council.

"Don't dump taxpayers money into an over-priced piece of property to turn it into a piece of grass."

Timms said that he hadn't spoken out against the project at the previous meeting when the city entered into the purchase agreement, but he said the city "knows how he feels."

He said he spoke out this time because of the terrorist attacks that took place Sept. 11 and the subsequent possibility of the declaration of war by the United States. He thinks that the city should be saving their money. At the meeting, Timms added that the city is paying almost $300,000 to acquire and demolish the Wharfside, taking the building off the tax role and turning it into a piece of grass.

In a previous interview, city manager Mike Wiesner said the local cost to complete the acquisition is $240,000, the additional cost referred to by Timms is his estimate of what it will cost the city to demolish the building.

The city's funding coupled with the grant, brings the total the city has secured thus far to $700,000 leaving $535,000 unaccounted for.

The city has applied for grants that they are counting on picking up the remaining cost. Granting agencies include the Frey Foundation, the Charlevoix County Community Foundation and the Waterways Commission.

Mayor Alvin "Butch" Russell said the unsecured funding sources don't make him nervous.

Park costs over estimate

Council may have to make cuts in projects

By JULIE WITTHOEFT
Staff Writer

The City of Charlevoix may have to scale back the extent of their renovation plans for Michigan and Depot Beaches as cost estimates are $200,000 more than they had anticipated.

Project engineer Jim Malewitz of Charlevoix's Performance Engineering said that the grant requests were gauged "way back when." He added that as the city continued to reapply, their request increased by a percentage, rather than through a site reevaluation.

Malewitz said when the performance crew did the evaluation and added in site corrections that needed to be made, but weren't estimated before, their number exceeded that of the grant by over $200,000.

The Michigan Beach project has $425,000 in grant funding available and the project estimates exceed the available funding by $160,440.63. The construction estimate came in at $522,986.28 and the engineering estimate came in at $62,454.35.

Possible deduction items that were brought before city council at their regular meeting Sept. 17 included subtracting a picnic shelter along with the sidewalk and free standing wall that were supposed to border the shelter. The subtraction of the shelter and its accompaniments would save the project, $60,782.25.

Malewitz explained that the beach won't be without a picnic shelter; the picnic area marked for deletion is one of two that are planned.

Other deductions include the proposed basketball court and the retaining wall that would go with it. The erasure of the court from the plan would save $44,520.

"I'm hoping we can put the basketball court in and the only deduction we'll have to make is the picnic shelter," Malewitz said.

But, the Park Avenue section of the park, also known as the old water tower site, made the list of possible deductions too. Improvements at this site were estimated to cost an additional $66,873.28.

Rather than allowing the water tower project to fall to the side council decided to request that the Downtown Development Authority (DDA) consider funding the park improvements. The city property is located within their development district.

On Sept. 24 the DDA voted unanimously to give financial assistance to "Water Tower Park" for an amount not to exceed $81,273.28. Malewitz said the additional $14,400 will pay for engineering and site inspection.

The site where the park will take shape is located across from the First Congregational Church's Park Avenue entrance. Plans include construction of a mulch trail from Park Avenue up the hill and down to the channel.

Who will be named to royalty?

By JULIE WITTHOEFT
Staff Writer

A pre-game glimpse into the accomplishments of 12 senior Charlevoix High School students who make up this year's homecoming court royalty reveal their athleticism, humor and academic strengths.

The king and queen for 2001 will be crowned at half time of the homecoming game Oct. 5 when the Rayders face Elk Rapids. The game starts at 7:30 p.m.

After reading through information provided by the students on the court it seems their preferred out of school pastime is spending time with Patrick Gowell's dog Ginger — 10 of the 12 listed time with Ginger as one of the things they like to do most.

The first candidate for queen to take the field will be Chelsea Newcomb, 17. Chelsea is the daughter of Dr. Edward Newcomb and Pamela Newcomb.

During high school she has become a member of the National Honor So-

Fire chief dismissed in fireworks lawsuits

By JULIE WITTHOEFT
Staff Writer

"It was tragic, I'm glad it's over."

Doug Carver.
Charlevoix fire chief about 1997 fireworks accident

Fire Chief Doug Carver is the last City of Charlevoix employee to be dismissed from the lawsuits that followed the 1997 Venetian Festival fireworks explosion.

"It (the accident) was tragic. I'm glad it's over," Carver said.

The incident leading to the nine original lawsuits occurred in July 1997 when a fireworks shell prematurely exploded in its mortar causing shrapnel to be launched into the crowd of spectators.

Doug Carver

The explosion killed Charlevoix resident Mark Yager and injured at least 15 others. Fireworks litigation attorney for the city, Gretchen Olsen of Plunkett and Cooney in Petoskey, said that following the tragedy the plaintiffs named those persons principally involved in the permit process and those who had any potential oversight of the fireworks. Many of those, the plaintiffs claimed, were city officials.

She said case law that was ruled on by the Michigan Supreme Court in July of 2000, Robinson v. City of Detroit, 462 Mich. 439, defines the proximate cause as the most direct, immediate and efficient cause.

In text submitted by Olsen to the court on behalf of Carver, she states that "absent evidence on plaintiffs part that Doug Carver was 'the' cause of plaintiffs' injuries as opposed to one of the causes" and further states that because he is not "the" cause summary disposition, or dismissal is "appropriately entered by Pajtas on behalf of Carver."

Now, the case may be closed for the city, but multiple defendants in the nine cases that were originally filed remain.

Remaining defendants include: Fireworks North, a non-profit group hired to transport and shoot the fireworks the night of the accident and Richard Davis who, according to testimony by mechanical engineer Roger Schneider, was the operator of the display who worked for Fireworks North. Schneider, who was an expert witness brought in by the plaintiffs, also testified that it was Davis who chose the site for the display and chose the separation distance at the site.

Other defendants include Second Chance which is a bullet proof vest manufacturing company, Wolverine Fireworks and Sunny International.

Man injured in US-31 accident

A 34-year-old Boyne City man was injured in an accident around 12 a.m., Oct. 1 on US-31 near 9 Mile Point in Hayes Township.

Michael Edwin Nelson of Boyne City was injured when he tried to avoid hitting a deer and swerved into the guardrail at the railroad viaduct.

The 1997 Honda he was driving left the roadway, traveled across the small field and then down a steep embankment.

Nelson was unconscious for about one hour. When he awoke, he called 911 from his cell phone and rescue personnel were able to locate him after a brief search. Nelson was transported to Northern Michigan Hospital.

According to Sheriff George T. Lasater, Nelson escaped more serious injuries by wearing his seat belt.

The results of last month's question

The results of last month's question, "What do you think should be the state bird?" are in.

We received three responses, one of which was unsigned. All three agreed that the robin should remain the state bird.

Margenite Mason, of Charlevoix, wrote, "This is what I think. Let's keep our robin. It is a beauty of a bird. If we have the Chickadee, it will be a big mistake. We have had the robin for years, so keep it. Everyone is used to it by now, it will be a shame to change."

Alene and Jim Anderson, of Charlevoix, wrote, "Robin, robin with the red chest." We will not give the third response because it was unsigned.

While three responses may not be a lot, remember our question for August, "What should be done about drugs in school?" received no responses.

On to this month's question... In keeping with our latest theme of affordable housing in Charlevoix, this month's topic will deal with this issue.

A lot of ink has been put down about the issue of affordable housing. Charlevoix, along with much of northern Michigan, is facing an affordable housing crunch which could spell out economic trouble in the future.

What do you think?

Basically, if no one can afford to live here year-round, who is going to keep the businesses open? It is a nasty cycle.

Many solutions have been given, such as having the city build affordable housing or giving developers special perks to build affordable housing. But, we want to hear about your solutions to this issue.

Therefore, this month's question is: "What should be done about affordable housing in Charlevoix?"

As usual, keep your answers under 250 words and remember to sign them. Send your responses to the Charlevoix Courier at P.O. Box 117, Charlevoix, MI 49720; fax them to (231) 547-4992; e-mail them to charlevoixcourier@charlevoixcourier.com or drop them off at our office located at 112 Mason Street.

The deadline is 5 p.m., Oct. 26.

Answers can be e-mailed to charlevoixcourier@charlevoixcourier.com. Please keep your answers under 250 words and turn them in by 5 p.m., Oct. 26. Remember to sign your opinion.

Cornish singers delight the crowd

Edith Gilbert

'Behind the news'

was among those fortunate to have six delightful guests in my home.

They relished my pecan rolls and promised to send me the recipe for their Cornish specialty, Saffron cake! Now I, too, have a Cornish connection, since they invited me to visit them in return!

Singing in Cornwall started back in the mist of time with miners and fishermen. The miners in particular had the opportunity to sing in large underground caverns with fine acoustics, that, combined with Celtic and Methodist Chapel backgrounds, was enough to set them singing.

I learned this and more from the beautiful, colorful books my guests gave me as a departing gift. Cornwall is a peninsula, with a rocky coast, and many coves and harbors.

Here, it is said, King Arthur was born. His castle, Tintagel, was built in the Twelfth Century, and one of the oldest known post offices built in the Fourteenth Century of stone is located nearby. Like Charlevoix, Cornwall is also a popular tourist resort with fine beaches, numerous old fishing villages, which are a Mecca for artists.

Consequently, our Cornish guests felt quite at home in northern Michigan, although one remarked, "I have never seen so many trees!"

Charlevoix County hosted 24 members and their families and I

Series response

Editor:

In regards to your housing series: When my husband and I decided to purchase a home in this area we were flabbergasted that the going prices were so high. After living in four different states (including downstate), I couldn't believe that the going rates for housing in the Charlevoix area is 15-25 percent more than the other markets we looked into.

In your Sept. 26 column, you mention the housing series. You also stated that people are telling your staff to stop writing about the topic because it is "making them mad." I'm so relieved that you have continued writing about the unavailability of affordable housing in our area, no matter what some of the seemingly "better off" residents think. They must be making a lot more money than some of us if this issue doesn't affect them in some way!

It seems that some of the locals have taken a snobby stance on this issue. Why? "They don't want affordable housing in their area."

"They don't want to hear about it." Not only is this an ignorant stance, but it will continue to drive the working people who can't afford housing out of town. Anyone with common sense knows that this is not good for the economy in Charlevoix!

It's truly a shame that this problem is actually continuing. Kudos to you for keeping this important issue in the forefront.

Thank you

Editor:
Thank you for the article in the Sept. 19 edition of the Courier outlining the many activities and services available at the Charlevoix Senior Center.

I have been especially pleased to be the director at the center since September of 1999. I have met so many hard working seniors who are extremely generous with their time, energy and financial support. Those mentioned in the article last week only included volunteers with major responsibility for teaching classes and administering activities. Not recognized are the volunteers who deliver meals, help in the dining room and kitchen, edit, write and collate the newsletter, fill out reports, answer the phone and others too numerous to name in this short letter.

One person left out of the article does need special mention, Rosalyn Goldstick. At "eighty-something" she tires me out watching her.

Rosalyn along with other board members, Earl Muma, Richard Tunison, Bette Coen and George Pollack as well as the other over 200 Charlevoix Senior Center members deserve the community's continued support for the wonderful facility that provides many services for the entire Charlevoix area.

Thank you Charlevoix senior citizens, I have enjoyed working for you!!

Stop racial profiling

Editor:

The country is dealing with a tragedy of unimaginable magnitude. The President is weighing advice from experts of all backgrounds. The situation is complex and decisions difficult.

A specific hot issue is racial profiling: whether it would be appropriate to single out individuals of Middle Eastern/Arabic appearance for special scrutiny at airport and other security check points. That some TV pundits would support such action is stunning.

Racial profiling is not just abhorrent, it will not work and its consequences could be terrible.

Obviously not all Arabs are terrorists. Equally obvious, not all terrorists are Arabs. If Al Qaeda has a network that encompasses 60 plus countries, obviously not all its operatives will fit the profile of the hijackers of Sept. 11. Not even all people of Arabic descent fit that profile. And what about women? Will we search them as well?

Then consider Abu Sayyaf - the Al Qaeda linked group of Basilan Island in the Philippines. Must we add Filipinos to our list? But that probably means all Southeast Asians. How about the potential threat from Al Qaeda links in Indonesia? What about the Sudan? Then the profile broadens to all people with dark skin.

Isn't this the scene of West versus the rest of the world for which the likes of Osama bin Laden dream?

Finally, think of the groups who may not be linked with Al Qaeda but who might see profit in further stirring up this dreadful situation. Consider home grown all American boy fanatics - a la Terry Nichols and Timothy McVeigh.

No. Racial profiling is a waste of time. It is unethical and it violates all our principles. And, it plays into the terrorists' motives.

If security depends on hand searches, we must all be searched.

Anniversary

Roger and Elaine Westenbroek

Roger Westenbroek and Elaine (Bussies) Westenbroek celebrated their fiftieth wedding anniversary July 19.

An anniversary party was given on July 21 at the home of Mike and Denise Westenbroek. It was attended by all of the children of the couple.

Roger and Elaine were married on July 19, 1951 in Holland by the Rev. Schipper, an uncle of Roger's.

The couple have lived in the Charlevoix area for 37 years, where Roger is an electrical consultant and Elaine was a homemaker.

They have five children: Mike (Denise) Westenbroek, the late Mark (Ruth) Westenbroek, Sherry (Dan) Hawthorne, Susan (Joe) Kaufman and Sally (Serge) Weiss.

The couple also has 13 grandchildren.

Sheriff investigates rollover

The Charlevoix County Sheriff's Office is currently investigating a one vehicle rollover crash that occurred on Behling Road near Dutchmans Bay Road at approximately 2:50 p.m. on Sept. 30.

The driver, a 17-year-old female from East Jordan was driving a Ford Ranger pickup eastbound when she lost control, left the roadway and rolled over.

The driver and her two teenage passengers, also from East Jordan, were extracted from the vehicle by the East Jordan Fire Department Rescue Unit and transported to Charlevoix Area Hospital via the East Jordan Ambulance.

All three occupants of the vehicle were wearing their safety belts.

The crash remains under investigation.

Engagements

Chardoul — Johnson

Susanne Chardoul and Ted Johnson, both of Vail, Colo., were recently engaged to be married.

Susanne is the daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Eugene Chardoul of Charlevoix. Ted is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Donald Johnson of Vail, Colo.

A wedding is being planned for July 6, 2002 at the Lake Creek residence of the groom's parents.

The bride-to-be is a graduate of Michigan State University and is currently employed by Chatfield Corners Development Corporation in Vail, Colo.

The groom-to-be is a graduate of Montana State University and is currently the owner/operator of Edwards Excavating with his father.

Ewald — Dill

Anne Ewald, of Iowa City, Iowa, and Adam Dill, of Chicago, Ill., were recently engaged to be married.

Anne is the daughter of Barbara Yared, of Charlevoix. Adam is the son of Michael and Sharon Dill of Champaign, Ill.

A wedding is being planned for the fall of 2002 in Grand Rapids.

The bride-to-be is a 1995 graduate of East Grand Rapids High School and a 1999 graduate of DePauw University. She is currently employed at KGAN-TV in Cedar Rapids, Iowa.

The groom-to-be is a 1995 graduate of Champaign Centennial High School and a 1999 graduate of DePauw University. He is currently enrolled in law school at DePauw University.

Consumers Foundation gives out employee grants

The Consumers Energy Foundation has awarded $2,500 in grants to three area organizations to recognize the volunteer efforts of three Big Rock Point Restoration Project employees.

Herman Madison, corrective action administrator, performed 100 hours of volunteer work for the Charlevoix 4-H Soccer in the past 12 months. He was a head referee for games in Charlevoix and at other area fields. The $1,000 Volunteer Investment Program (VIP) grant will help pay for equipment and offset fees for the youth involved in the soccer program.

Charles Barsy, senior technician, performed 100 hours of volunteer work for the Boyne Area Hockey Association in the past year. He served as a head coach, and assisted with ice maintenance and fund-raisers. The $800 VIP grant will be used to provide equipment, maintain the ice and help pay player fees.

David McIntosh, senior engineer, performed 110 hours of volunteer work for the Char-Em Hockey Association in the past 12 months. He served as an assistant hockey coach for 11- and 12-year-olds. The $700 VIP grant will help pay ice, referee and team tournament fees for the Bantam A travel team.

The grants were doubled as a result of the Consumers Energy Foundation's CEEPSACER Program. CEEPSACER (Consumers Energy Employees Providing Service Around Children's Essential Resources).

The mission is to provide children and young people in need with the right combination of resources for them to develop into healthy, responsible, productive and happy adults.

The Consumers Energy Foundation sponsors the Volunteer Investment Program to recognize employees and retirees who donate personal time to nonprofit groups.

Watch for deer on the road

When people get ready to walk across a public road, they usually look both ways first to see if any motor vehicles are coming. Unfortunately, this isn't the case with animals, including certain large ones.

Too often, the result is a motorist's nightmare: a collision with a deer, moose or elk. The animal usually comes out second best in this type of close encounter, but the toll on vehicles and their occupants can also be substantial.

The National Safety Council said that each year, about 100 people die and another 9,000 are injured in animal-vehicle collisions. And the Insurance Information Institute estimates that about 500,000 such crashes cause $1 billion in damage annually.

While animal-vehicle collisions can happen any time of year, fall is the peak season for deer-car crashes.

No foolproof way has been found to keep deer, moose and elk off highways and away from vehicles. Deer whistles have their advocates, but the Insurance Institute for Highway Safety says there's no scientific evidence to support claims that they work as intended. Some studies suggest roadside reflectors designed to reflect light from the vehicle headlamps and cause deer to "freeze" rather than cross the road-reduce crash frequency to some extent.

State Farm Insurance Companies, the largest insurers of automobiles in the United States offers these tips:

- Be aware of your surroundings.
- Pay attention to "deer crossing" signs.
- Look well down the road and far off to each side. At night, use your high beams if possible to illuminate the road's edges. Be especially watchful in areas near woods and water. If you see one deer, there may be several others nearby.

• Be particularly alert at dusk and dawn, when these animals venture out to feed.

• If you see a deer, moose or elk on or near the roadway and think you have time to avoid hitting it, reduce your speed, tap your breaks to warn other drivers and sound your horn. Deer tend to fixate on headlights, so flashing them may cause the animal to move. If there is no vehicle close behind you brake hard.

• If a collision seems inevitable, don't swerve to avoid the animal; your risk of injury may be greater if you do. Hit it, but control the vehicle. Report the crash to the police.

• Always obey the speed limit and wear safety belts.

Obituaries

Dr. Robert L. Vedder: April 24, 1928 - Sept. 28, 2001

Robert L. Vedder, D.D.S., 73, of Royal Oak died Sept. 28 at Mercy Hospital in Grayling.

Robert was born April 24, 1928 in Royal Oak. In 1946 he graduated from Royal Oak High School. He then graduated from the University of Michigan Dental and earned his master's degree in Orthodontics.

Robert then went off to fight for the U.S. Army in World War II and was stationed in the South Pacific. He served as a technical sergeant from 1946-1948.

His knowledge of dentistry lead him home and into a dental practice, a field in which he worked for 35 years.

He was even the past president of the Oakland County Dental Society. Robert has offices in Huntington Woods, Charlevoix and Pellston.

Later on in his career his focus was set on children. He was a member of the craniofacial team at the Children's Hospital in Detroit and for the past 10 years devoted his practice to caring for children with special dental needs.

He was the past president of the Greater Royal Oak Chamber of Commerce and was a member and past president of the Royal Oak Kiwanis Club. Robert was also a board member of Royal Oak Boys and Girls Club and served on the Royal Oak Prevention Coalition.

He was also involved politically as a member of the city of Royal Oak Planning Commission.

Robert was a member of the St. James Episcopal Church in Birmingham.

Survivors include his wife; Barbara H. (Henson) Vedder and his children; Lynn (Gary) Wong of Honolulu Hawaii, Michael (Gail) Vedder of Minneapolis, Minn., Kurt (Shari) Vedder of Cincinnati, Ohio, Jill (Scott) Howell of Royal Oak and Lee Vedder of Pasadena, Calif.; his sisters and brothers, Glenn H. Vedder of Denedin, Fla. and Marilyn Finn of Traverse City; and ten grandchildren.

Visitation was from 2 p.m. to 5 p.m. and again from 6 p.m. to 9 p.m., Oct. 2 at the William Sullivan & Son Funeral Home in Royal Oak.

Services will take place at 11 a.m. today at St. James Episcopal Church of Birmingham. Cremation followed at Evergreen Cemetery in Detroit.

In lieu of flowers the family asks contributions be made to the Children's Hospital-Attention: Marie Carl; Dept. Communications Disorder Center-3901 Beaubien Boulevard, Detroit, MI 48201.

Former editor remembers his father

L. Scott Swanson
'Guest column'

When my brothers and I were young and Dad came home from work, we used to pounce on him. Gregg and I would each grab an arm while Nick, who was a few years younger, latched on to an ankle. All three of us hung on while Dad laughed and wrestled us around until he eventually had all three of us stacked in a pile and ready to surrender. The four of us thought this was great fun, but Mom took a dim view of it.

"One of you is going to get hurt," she would shout over the fray. "You're going to break the furniture."

We never broke any furniture. And we only had one injury. When Nick was about nine years old, he accidentally caught Dad with an elbow and knocked out a tooth.

Mom was at the store at the time. When she got home, Dad gave her a big smile.

"What did you...you were roughhousing with those kids again weren't you," she said accusingly.

Dad just chuckled and the next day had the dentist fix the tooth.

Three years ago, my Dad went to the Mayo Clinic in Minnesota and was diagnosed with ALS, which is also known as Lou Gehrig's Disease. The Mayo Clinic is the finest hospital in the world. Although they didn't happen to meet, King Hussein of Jordan was there at about the same time as my Dad.

At the Mayo Clinic they have huge buildings, millions and millions of dollars worth of high tech equipment and hundreds of the smartest doctors in the world. Yet there wasn't anything they could do for Dad.

So Dad came home to northern Michigan where he had a pole barn, a family who loved him and many wonderful friends.

I don't know if the king had these things. Pity the king.

My brothers and I and our friends from the neighborhood played basketball in our driveway. With Dad being in the family construction business and paving driveways for a living, we had a nice big blacktop driveway. A lot of evenings when Dad pulled into the driveway, he found a hot game in progress and had to park his truck in the grass off to the side.

He gave up the driveway without complaint and often joined in the game. Dad wore heavy work boots, blue work pants and a work shirt. One of his pants pockets contained a handkerchief, fingernail clippers and a ring with keys to half a dozen buildings, several vehicles and a variety of heavy equipment. The other pants pocket held a wallet, jack knife and a measuring tape. His shirt pocket was home to a small note pad, two ink pens, a pen light and a couple of toothpicks. Dad shot the ball left-handed from the chest. He jingled when he played basketball and couldn't jump very high.

As diseases go, Lou Gehrig's Disease ranks among the most evil. It slowly shuts down the body's voluntary muscles, one-by-one. The disease doesn't touch the mind. A person with Lou Gehrig's Disease can remember everything he could do yesterday and envision all the things he won't be able to do tomorrow. For someone with Lou Gehrig's Disease the future is as clear as clear can be. Medical science doesn't even really know the cause, let alone the cure.

When Dad was first diagnosed with Lou Gehrig's Disease, the news blew a big hole in life. There were times during those first few days when I would be in the house and suddenly stand up and walk quickly to the garage because I did n't want my wife and daughters to see me in tears.

I told my Dad I loved him. I told him he had always been a great Dad.

I reached my own terms with Lou Gehrig's Disease. I knew it was going to take my Dad and I couldn't stop it. But I decided not to let it take anything more than I had to. I wouldn't let it take a week, day or even a moment of my life and make it miserable. I resolved that to the degree possible I would just go about my life and continue being happy. I didn't see this as denial. Defiance maybe, but not denial.

My Dad was firm when it came to discipline. He had no tolerance for disobedience or stupidity in his sons. But he was fair and had a sense of humor about discipline.

When I was about 16 years old, my grandfather became ill and Mom and Dad and Nick would go stay with my grandparents every other weekend. This left Gregg, who was about 13, and me home alone.

Gregg and I were well behaved, but for some reason, one Friday evening before they left, Mom wanted Dad to warn us of repercussions should we go astray.

Dad happened to be sitting at the dining room table and Gregg and I were in the room when Mom announced, "Now before we leave, your Dad's going to have a word with you two."

Gregg and I were taken by surprise and Dad was just as curious about this development as we were.

"Huh?" I said.
"Larry, I want you to talk to these two and lay down the law. Now go ahead," she prompted.

Dad looked puzzled for a second, then with a stern face looked at Gregg and me and gravely decreed, "All beer cans WILL be picked up."

"Larry!" Mom exclaimed as Gregg and I burst out laughing.

"All women WILL be out of the house by morning," Dad continued.

Seeing she was outnumbered, rogues on all sides, Mom salvaged what she could of the situation and said, "You two had just better behave this weekend."

And we didn't get into any trouble. We knew better.

About eight years ago, Dad built a pole barn beside the house. He had a wood stove for heat. He had woodworking equipment and tools to fix his lawn tractor or whatever else needed fixing. Dad was pretty handy.

Supposedly when some people are diagnosed with a terminal illness, their friends come over once or twice and then don't come to see them any more. They're just not comfortable.

During the past three years, my Dad had more than 200 people, an average of six to 12 people every day, come and see him. Some of these were people Dad had been friends with for years. Others just started stopping in and became friends.

Dad's pole barn became a community gathering place. He and his friends sat in that pole barn and told stories by the hour. Dad loved being around people. In the pole barn, swapping stories, people could forget that Dad was sick and so could he.

Had my Dad sat home alone for three years waiting to die, it would have been a living Hell. As it was, things were tough. But the friendship and kindness shown by the people who came to the pole barn made it bearable.

I've tried to go through life with my eyes open. Over the years I've seen and written about some rough things. But after witnessing the compassion shown by the many people who came to that pole barn, you will never convince me that there is not enough good in people to more than offset the bad.

About three weeks ago Dad suffered a heart attack and had to be taken to the hospital. By this time, he had been wheelchair bound for more than a year. He could move the index finger on his left hand about enough to operate the joystick on his electric wheelchair. That was essentially all the movement he had. If his eyebrow itched, he couldn't scratch it.

When you placed his right hand down, you had to carefully stretch the fingers out flat, because if they were curled, they cramped and he couldn't straighten them.

My Mom, brave soul, tended to his every need with such strength.

HEALTH

Remember to get a flu shot

Dennis M. Joy, M.D.

'Your health'

Fall is here and with the coming of colder weather also comes increased crowding and opportunity for exposure to communicable diseases. One of the most important and prevalent is influenza. Influenza is not the three day illness accompanied by vomiting and diarrhea that is often misnamed "flu." It is a very contagious illness characterized usually by high fever, headache, muscle aches, sore throat and cough which takes often 1 to 2 weeks for recovery. In an average year more than 20,000 deaths nationwide and more than 100,000 hospitalizations occur because of this illness. Complications occur most frequently in the elderly and in those with chronic medical problems.

Epidemic influenza is caused by a virus named either type A or B. Every year a new vaccine is produced to combat the "new" virus as the influenza virus is constantly changing to maintain its ability to infect humans. In some years the change is greater than in others. When great change occurs, worldwide severe epidemics with greater mortality and morbidity follow; witness the 1918-1919 "Spanish flu" with 20 million deaths worldwide, the "Asian flu" 1957-58 with 70,000 deaths in the United States and the "Hong Kong flu" of 1968-69 which claimed 34,000 lives in the U.S.

Influenza can be prevented with vaccine; its effectiveness ranging from 70-90 percent. In those in which the vaccine is less effective the severity of the illness is modified. This occurs even when the virus changes greatly. Studies have shown the vaccine can reduce hospitalization by about 70 percent and death by 85 percent among the elderly.

Some people are not vaccinated because of misconceptions about the vaccine. The vaccine will not cause influenza nor will it prevent the numerous other viral illnesses that occur such as the common cold. Vaccine side effects are limited to mild soreness at the injection site which lasts for up to 2 days. In some children who have not been exposed to influenza in the past, a mild fever and body aches may occur for 1 to 2 days. Serious reactions to the vaccine are limited to 1-2 cases per million persons vaccinated.

Last year there was vaccine shortage and many persons, who usually do so, did not get vaccinated. We might predict that the reservoir of susceptible persons will be greater this year and we may expect a more severe epidemic. This year there have been delays in manufacturing the vaccine. However, there is not expected to be a shortage.

Vaccination is recommended for persons over age 50, for those who are residents of chronic care facilities, those who have chronic pulmonary or cardiovascular conditions including asthma, renal disease, diabetes, immunosuppression, women in the 2nd or 3rd trimester of pregnancy, and those children who take long term aspirin therapy. Persons who provide "essential" services such as police, firemen, and health care workers should also be immunized. The vaccine can be administered to anyone in the general population who wishes to reduce the likelihood of becoming ill with influenza including children as young as 6 months. Children who are vaccinated for the first time will require two injections, four weeks apart, with the second dose given before December if possible.

The vaccine is now available in many locations. You are urged to arrange for your "flu shot" before the expected epidemic usually in December of January.

Counseling center gets accredited

CHIP Counseling Center with offices located in Bellaire, Charlevoix, Cheboygan and Petoskey has achieved accreditation from the Joint Commission of Accreditation of Healthcare Organizations.

Founded in 1951, the Joint Commission is dedicated to continuously improving the safety and quality of the nation's health care through voluntary accreditation. The Joint Commission's on-site survey of CHIP Counseling Center occurred in August.

Scott Hickman, executive director says that accreditation shows that "we make a significant investment in quality on a day-to-day basis from the top down. We seek accreditation for our organization because we want to be the best and we view obtaining Joint Commission accreditation as another step toward excellence."

He added the accreditation is attainable only throughout the cooperation and communication among staff members.

Charlevoix 7-Eleven store stops going 24 hours

By JULIE WITTHOEFT
Staff Writer

Charlevoix residents and visitors who count on making late night runs to 7-Eleven for munchies, slurpies and whatever else they may need will have to change their destination this winter.

The local 7-Eleven store that is commonly known for its 24 hour service will close its doors every night at 10 p.m.

The Charlevoix store which is now owned by the 7-Eleven corporation started their new hours just before the Sept. 11 terrorist attack. They are now open from 6 a.m. and call it a day at 10 p.m.

"The main reason is we only have three employees. With three shifts every day everyone would have to be here every day. You can't run a store like that," Charlevoix store manager Charles Fallon, 27, of Petoskey said.

Fallon was transferred to the Charlevoix store from the Petoskey 7-Eleven at the beginning of the summer to help supplement the employee shortage.

He said the store tends to get more help in the summer and in the winter business drops off significantly so the store can't afford to pay employees overtime.

He said so far the change has been relatively well received by the patrons.

"I've seen a couple people give me strange looks when I tell them about the new hours. I'm sure a few people who need their cigarettes late at night will be a little put out. But, it's not like there's not a place to go. That place just isn't here anymore," Fallon said.

Fallon said Charlevoix is the only store he knows of that has changed their hours for the winter.

He added that the store has interviews set up for Sept. 28 with prospective new clerks that may result in a change of policy.

Keep an eye out for the bicyclists

Charlevoix County Sheriff George T. Lasater wishes to remind Charlevoix County residents of the probability of a large number of bicyclists using area roads this coming weekend, Oct. 5-7.

Approximately 1,000 bicyclists will be participating in the annual "Biketoberfest" in the Boyne Falls area. Some of them are expected to take daily rides, which will take them around Lake Charlevoix and back to Boyne Falls.

Motorists are reminded that bicyclists are allowed to ride as near as practicable to the right side of the roadway and no more than two abreast. Bicyclists are required to obey all traffic laws, the same as any other driver.

Lasater plans to monitor known problem areas with marked, semi-marked and un-marked patrol units.

Violators will be issued traffic citations for any offenses observed by deputies.

Business offers rental help

By JEREMY MCBAIN
Editor

People looking for rentals, both short term and long term, and those looking for someone to manage their rental homes have a new source of help, Vacation Home Services.

The company, owned by Judy Winter, will manage your resort or rental property and provide information to those looking for rentals in the area. This includes properties that are rented by the week to by the year.

In addition, Vacation Home Services provides clients with contractual cleaning and maintenance and a Winter Watch program. In the Winter Watch program, a Vacation Home Services employee will inspect your summer home throughout the winter for any problems.

According to Winter, the difference between Vacation Home Services and other property management companies is her company specializes in year-round and commercial rentals, while the others concentrate on resort rentals.

"This type of service is not normally seen in small towns," she said.

Winter started Vacation Home Services in May 2001. She said she has been involved in local real estate for the last five years. During this time in real estate, she said she received many calls from people looking for rentals or looking for someone to manage their rental, but the real estate office she worked for was too busy with sales to handle them.

This gave Winter the idea that eventually created Vacation Home Services.

The company, located on M-66 in Ironton, is open from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. on Monday, Tuesday, Thursday and Friday. It is also open on Saturday by appointment.

For more information on this business, contact Winter at (231) 547-3561.

Swanson remembers his father in column

SWANSON

Dad knew the end was near. He had made his peace with God and was ready to move on. Despite the devastating toll the disease had taken on his body, his sense of humor remained.

In the emergency room, a nurse asked him how he felt about being resuscitated were he to have another heart attack. Dad knew he was dying and figured dying once would be often enough.

"If your heart stops, what do you want me to do Larry?" the nurse asked.

"Go have a cup of coffee and come back in 15 or 20 minutes," Dad replied.

Dad made it out of the hospital and spent the last two weeks of his life at home. Last Thursday (Aug. 30), although he couldn't talk above a faint whisper, he spent the afternoon in the pole barn with his friends. He came back into the house at 5 p.m. and a short time later drifted off to sleep and died.

We had the funeral Sunday. More than 360 people attended. My brothers and I spoke. We told people what our father had meant to us. We offered our gratitude to those who had done so much during the three years of his illness. We told stories of my Dad's sense of humor and the way he made people laugh and smile.

My Dad lived a good life. Even when a disease made life incredibly difficult, he faced life with a sparkle in his eye and made people around him comfortable and happy. I refuse to remember my Dad with sadness. That would be a disservice to him. He lived life with joy and expected me to do the same.

I'll miss him, but it was time.

Four arrested for high school destruction

By JEREMY MCBAIN
Editor

Four Charlevoix youths were recently arrested for a Sept. 4 destruction of property at Charlevoix High School.

Doug Reick, a former Charlevoix High School student; Thomas Scubel Moore Jr., currently a senior at the school; Michael Allen Cornett, currently a senior at the school and Patrick Mailloux, also a senior at the school, were arrested recently and charged with entering without permission and malicious destruction of property.

The entering without permission charge is a 90 day misdemeanor and the malicious destruction of property charge is a one year misdemeanor. Cornett and Mailloux both pled not guilty in their arraignments Sept. 25 in the 90th District Court. A pre-trial date has been set for Oct. 16.

Reick and Moore were arraigned at 10 a.m. today in the district court.

According to police, the youths allegedly entered the high school on Sept. 4 and poured cooking oil on the floors. The damage is estimated at $2,168.80.

In addition to facing trial, the school has also handed out punishments to three current students charged with these two crimes.

According to Charlevoix High School vice-principal Jini Kanine, all were suspended from school, had to write a letter of apology and make restitution for the alleged damage. Those who were on sports teams, were removed from those activities.

One of the students, Mailloux, is also on the school's homecoming court. Kanine said neither the school handbook or precedent lists this as an extracurricular school activity or sport, therefore he will remain on the court.

SPORTS

Charlevoix golf gets two more wins

The Rayder golf team has had some great recent wins under their belts as they entered the conference championships last night in Harbor Springs.

The results of the championships were not available before press time.

According to coach Jim Glynn, of all the conference teams, Harbor Springs was the team to beat.

"They are a solid and fine team. The Rayders have it within them to pull out a victory. It should be fun and very competitive," he said before the match.

On Sept. 24, the Charlevoix team beat Kalkaska at the Belvedere

Club, 178 to 197.

According to Glynn, the cold and rainy conditions of the day caused the team to post some higher than normal scores.

"But, this was a good win to finish out the conference play," Glynn said.

David Shearer was the top golfer with a 38. Individual varsity scores were: Nick Cole with a 44, Jordan Nystrom with a 48, Allen Brooks with a 48, York Smith with a 48 and Jake Burns with a 55.

Individual junior varsity scores were: Allen Couture with 49, Kreg Wager with a 50, Adam Wager with 54, Sparky Nitchman with 61. Ryan DeYoung with 65 and Chris Golski with 66.

On Sept. 27, the Rayders also beat the non-conference team Inland Lakes, 172-184.

Shearer was, once again, the top scorer with a 39.

Individual scores were: Nick Cole with 42, York Smith with 44, Jordan Nystrom with 47, Allen Brooks with 47 and Allen Couture with 57.

Individual junior varsity scores were: Kreg Wager with a 47, Jake Burns with a 47 and Adam Wager with 52.

Before last night, the varsity team was 7-3 overall and 5-1 in the conference.

Charlevoix wins

The Charlevoix girls' basketball team topped East Jordan Sept. 27, 46-39. Kathryn Ricks had six three-pointers in the game and finished the game with 20 points. (Above) A Rayder goes up for a shot in the show-down with the Red Devils. (Photo by Jeremy McBain)

Soccer team has tough week

The boy's soccer team had a rough week, losing all three games and dropping their record to 6-7.

In last Tuesday's game against Harbor Springs, the Rayders battled the monsoon like rain and a very good Ram team to a 0-4 loss.

Charlevoix never got into the flow after giving up two first half goals. It appeared that the Rayders got back into the game midway through the second half with an apparent goal that was later nullified.

The visibility was so bad that neither the linesman or center referee saw the ball go to the back of the net. That seemed to take the fight out of the young Rayders.

On Friday, Charlevoix traveled to Suttons Bay for a rematch with the Norsemans.

Playing without a key player in the midfield, who was injured on a red card foul against Harbor Springs, the Rayders had shot after shot on the Suttons Bay goal but could not convert. They lost the match 1-2.

Coach Josh Block credited Spencer Bryan, Trevor Kline, Travis Smith, John DeMartino and Jason Hass for playing tough on offense. The defense was anchored by Colin Segean, with support from Esera Baker, Bryce Daly.

Charlevoix returned to action on Monday against a physical Pine River team.

Kyle Tilly was stellar in goal and Alex Callahan had perhaps his best game of his young career in the 0-1 loss. Craig Stockman gave Block quality minutes off the bench.

Despite his team's recent 3 game

Rayders win at Kalkaska in tough away game

By ALLEN TELGENHOF
Sports writer

Success in fourth down situations told the story last Friday night as the Lake Michigan Conference leading Charlevoix Rayders disappointed a homecoming crowd in Kalkaska by beating the Blazers, 22-16.

The Rayders failed to convert on three fourth down chances inside Kalkaska territory in the first half as they trailed 16-6. Charlevoix rebounded by going four for four on fourth down in the second half and turning Kalkaska away twice in similar situations.

The Blazers sent a message early by marching 44 yards for a touchdown following a short Rayder punt. The two-point conversion gave them an early 8-0 lead.

Charlevoix responded with a drive of its own, however, and a Jeff Urban four-yard run cut the lead to 8-6. The Rayder extra point attempt failed.

The first key fourth down situation came on Charlevoix's next possession. Ryan Rafacz intercepted a Kalkaska pass and returned it to the Blazer 37 giving the Rayders great field possession. Charlevoix couldn't move the ball and found itself with a fourth and one of the Kalkaska 28 moments later.

A run up the middle failed to pick up the needed yard and Kalkaska took over on downs.

After a three-and-out by the Blazers, the Rayders again had great field possession but couldn't convert on a fourth-and three in Kalkaska territory, handing the ball back over.

Conversely, Kalkaska drove to the Rayder 12 yard line on its next drive where the drive stalled and they faced a fourth and two. The Blazers went for it and were successful, scoring on a 12-yard run. The two-point conversion gave Kalkaska a 16-6 cushion.

Charlevoix again drove deep in Blazer territory, to the 11. With 39 seconds left on the clock, on a fourth and five situation, an incomplete pass killed another Rayder drive.

In the second half, however, things changed immediately. The Rayders took the opening kickoff and marched the length of the field, chewing up nine minutes off the clock.

Urban carried twice on successful fourth down runs, gaining seven yards on fourth and one at the Kalkaska 29 and getting two more on fourth and one at the Kalkaska 13.

Fittingly, it was on a fourth and four that Nate Teuscher hit tight end Keith Daly with a touchdown pass over the middle. It was Teuscher to Daly again on the extra point that cut the deficit to 16-14, Kalkaska.

On its ensuing drive, the Blazers were stopped on a fourth and one on their own 45-yard line, giving the surging Rayders possession once again.

Charlevoix wasted no time punching the ball into the end zone on what else? A 4th and 1 TD run by Urban, covering six yards. Teuscher hit Todd Carey with a pass for the successful two-point conversion, completing the comeback and putting the Rayders up to stay, 22-16.

The Blazers weren't about to give up without a fight, however. The Kalkaska signal caller gained 39 yards on a scramble all the way down to the Charlevoix 11 midway through the fourth quarter. Minutes later, Kalkaska seemingly scored on a game-tying touchdown but the play was called back to holding.

Two plays later, Rafacz picked off a Blazer pass in the end zone on a fourth and eight to turn Kalkaska away. After a Rayder punt, Kalkaska drove deep into Rayder territory again but this time an interception by Daly sealed the win.

Teuscher finished 10 for 17 passing for 76 yards. Daly led the receivers with five catches for 42 yards. Urban led the ball carriers with 67 yards on 26 carries.

Chris Loper, Rob Boss and Kyle Dobrowski keyed the defense with seven tackles apiece.

Charlevoix (4-0, 4-2) hosts Elk Rapids (0-4, 1-5) this Friday.

Home hosts needed for Russian delegation

The Charlevoix Rotary Club is bringing a delegation of about 12 Russian journalists to the area to learn about the American publishing industry from Nov. 10-18.

The delegates are publishers, editors and directors of various Russian media outlets.

They are being brought to Charlevoix through the San Francisco based organization, Center for Citizen Initiatives. This organization is dedicated to economic reform in Russia.

Each member of the delegation must pass a rigorous screening process to take part in the program.

They will be visiting numerous publishing organizations throughout the area during the week — including the Charlevoix Courier and the Petoskey News-Review — and speaking with several business leaders.

Additionally, the delegation will be given tours of northern Michigan and Charlevoix.

In order to give the Russians a true taste of American life, the Charlevoix Rotary Club is looking for area residents willing to open their homes to the visitors. The Russians will be staying in groups of two at the homes in order to team a strong-English speaking member of the delegation with a weaker one.

For more information on home hosting a Russian delegate, please call Jim Berlage at 347-6563 or 547-0360. For more information on the program, call Jeremy McBain at 547-6558.

Brazilian solo guitarist to perform at Crooked Tree

David Burgess will perform Brazilian solo guitar music at 8 p.m. Oct. 6 in the Ross Stokes Theater of the Crooked Tree Arts Center.

He has been praised by critics for a polished technique and flamboyant style and has performed throughout North and South America, Europe and the Far East. He was formerly a student of Andres Segovia and has won prizes in international guitar competitions in New York, Mexico City, Toronto and Munich.

Over the past 10 years, Burgess has taken numerous trips to Brazil, rediscovering guitar music from Brazil's past, as well as finding many progressive contemporary Brazilian works.

The program will include music by some of the finest Brazilian composers of all time: Ernesto Nazareth (1863-1934), who transformed the tango into a fascinating style of Brazilian ragtime; Joao Pernambuco (1883-1947), who never completed elementary school, could not read or write, but composed some of the best loved Brazilian music from the 1920s and 30s; Pixinguinha (1898-1973), the legendary band leader who performed throughout Brazil for more than 50 years; Radames Gnattali (1906-1988), who brilliantly combined classical, jazz and popular styles in his compositions; and of course, Luiz Bonfá (b.1922) and Antonio Carlos Jobim (1927-1994), the two best known composers of Bossa Nova.

Currently residing in New York City, Burgess has performed in Town Hall, Carnegie Recital Hall and at Lincoln Center. He has recorded for Musical Heritage Society, Athena and Camerata Records as well as having recorded Rodrigo's "Concierto de Aranjuez" with the Philharmonia Virtuosi of New York on the CBS Masterworks label.

For an opportunity to meet David Burgess, a guitar workshop will be given at 2 p.m. on Oct. 6 at Ray's Guitar in Boyne City. Ray's Guitar is located at 113 Water Street in downtown Boyne City. The telephone number is (231) 582-3599.

Ticket prices for the concert are $15 for adults and $8 for students. The fee for the workshop is $25 per person.

A special package price is being offered for both the workshop and evening concert at $35 for adults and $28 for students. Please call the Crooked Tree Arts Center for more information at (231) 347-4337.

The Crooked Tree Arts Center is located in downtown Petoskey at 461 E. Mitchell Street.

eddi Award recipients named at Sept. 21 event

The winners of the first "eddi Awards" were announced on Sept. 21 by the Crooked Tree Arts Council.

At a celebration at Stafford's Bay View Inn, the arts council honored eight recipients recognizing leadership and talent in the visual and performing arts in northern Michigan.

Categories in which eddi Awards were given by the arts council and those who received the awards include:

- The Visual Artist Award, presented to Douglas Melvin. Melvin, an art instructor at North Central Michigan College, was selected for the award in recognition of his work in media such as painting and sculpture and his role in helping expand art education offerings at the college.

- The Performing Artist Award, presented to Betsy and Larry Willis. The Willises have been involved extensively with the Little Traverse Civic Theatre for more than 20 years, handling tasks such as directing, acting, producing and serving as stage crew.

- The Arts and Cultural Organization Award, presented to the Bay View Association in recognition of its offerings of music, voice and theatrical performances, arts education and other cultural activities to northern Michigan residents each summer.

- The Arts in Education Award, presented to Patricia Stedman. Stedman, who teaches in Harbor Springs Public Schools, created the high-school drama department there and has been active in artistic organizations and activities such as the Association for Harbor Arts and the recent development of a cultural plan for Emmet and Charlevoix counties.

- The Arts and Cultural Leadership Award, presented to Jack Perry, one of the founders of Crooked Tree Arts Center, in honor of his steady work in supporting the arts for several decades.

- The Individual Patron Award, presented to Sally and Jack Clark in recognition of efforts to support the arts locally in a variety of ways over many years.

- The Benefactor Award, presented to The Frey Foundation for its financial support of artistic endeavors and other enhancements to the quality of life in northern Michigan.

- The Lifetime Achievement Award, presented to Edith Gilbert, another Crooked Tree Arts Center founder, in recognition of her long-time advocacy of the arts.

The awards are named in honor of the late eddi Offield, an accomplished artist in her own right and a benefactor and advocate for the arts in northern Michigan. eddi Offield was a much loved and admired patron of arts and culture in northern Michigan, especially of the Crooked Tree Arts Center where she spent so much of her personal time and energy as a volunteer in support of the Center's programming. She was a co-founder of the Crooked Tree organization.

DDA helps city cover the cost of park project

PARKS

Also proposed are several seating areas along the trail with low level lighting along the walkway.

The existing parking lot that sits at the bottom of the hill would be removed and a small park, similar to Hoffman Park, will be created. Historic plaques depicting the old water tower and its significance will be set at the site.

Plans for improvements at Depot Beach also took a major hit. The total project cost exceeded the total grant amount available by $72,158.80.

Deductions include the loss of six inch PVC conduit at the site, a stone trail and plantings. These three would save $33,905.80, almost half of the project deficit.

The other half of the possible losses to the project are a volleyball court and sitting wall and bathroom deductions. The loss of these two items would save an additional, $38,153.

Malewitz said that he thinks the estimates for the bathroom improvements at Depot Beach came in much higher than was estimated and the volleyball court plans ended up more elaborate than anyone had envisioned.

But, the city won't know for sure what will stay and go until the bids are returned.

Bids went out for advertisement on Sept. 29 and will be advertised until Oct. 11. Council is scheduled to consider bids on Oct. 15.

If council approves the bids at their Oct. 15 meeting, the contractors will be authorized to proceed with work Oct. 16. The construction phase will run from Oct. 22 until May 24, 2002.

Disaster relief

Chefs from Mahogany's at the Charlevoix Country Club, Whitney's, Terry's Place and Grey Gables are teaming up for a four-course, five star meal Oct. 10 with all proceeds going to the American Red Cross' Sept. 11 fund.

The event will take place at Mahogany's.

The evening will begin at 6 p.m. with hors d'oeuvres and a cash bar. Dinner will be served at 7 p.m. The minimum donation is $75 and all food, labor and tips are being donated. Checks should be made payable to the American Red Cross, with Disaster Relief in the memo line.

Entertainment will be provided by Chris Ventske and Chris Martin.

Discuss Sept. 11

The Friends of the Charlevoix Public Library invite you and your friends to a round table discussion in the Charlevoix Public Library basement on Oct. 9 at 7 p.m. to discuss two infamous dates — Dec. 7, 1941 and Sept. 11, 2001. The meeting will be chaired by Charlevoix resident and World War II veteran Klingbeil. Charlevoix Courier editor Jeremy McBain and Dick Lepman have agreed to help moderate the discussion. An excellent web site is aldaily.com/ (arts and letters daily) to keep up on the latest-world wide info.

Submarine veterans meeting

The Michigan Chapter of U.S. Submarine Veterans W.W.II will have its fall meeting Oct. 5 and 6 at the Weathervane Terrace Inn. Business meetings will be at 2 p.m. on Saturday followed by a memorial service at 4 p.m. at the Submarine Memorial in East Park. For more information call 547-9955.

Farewell to the Schairbaums

The public is invited to The First Congregational U.C.C. at 101 State Street on Oct. 7. The church will wish farewell to Pastor Phil Schairbaum and his wife, Ginnie, as they take on a new position in Downers Grove, Ill. All are welcome to the 4 p.m. concert of The Charlevoix Area Men's Chorus (with Phil accompanying) and/or a reception at 5 p.m. with refreshments in honor of the Schairbaums.

Homecoming

All Charlevoix alumni and community members are invited to the homecoming activities at Charlevoix High School on Oct. 5. The homecoming parade will be a 5:30 p.m. traveling from Charlevoix Middle School up State Street to the football field. Game kick-off is at 7:30 p.m. with the crowning ceremony at half-time and a bonfire/pizza party immediately following the game.

The homecoming dance is at the Elementary School Gym on from 8:30 - 11:30 p.m., Oct. 6. For more information, see any student council member or call Gail Cherry, student council advisor, at 547-3165 or the high school at 547-3222.

Cantata rehearsals

The Community Choir Christmas Cantata rehearsals begin at 7 p.m. on Oct. 7 at the Community Reformed Church of Charlevoix, located at the corner of Meech and Oak Street. The presentation of the Cantata, "Sing We all Noel," is scheduled for 7 p.m., Dec. 15, and 6 p.m., Dec. 16. Any questions may be directed to Cindy Mansen, 547-6862.

Horace returns to house

The Charlevoix Historical Society recently announced that Horace Harsha has come home.

A portrait of the 1880's Charlevoix businessman who was the first owner of 103 State Street has been donated by Ann Margaret Harsha and delivered from Maryland by Jennifer Harsha Carroll, his great granddaughters.

Harsha was involved in the early development of the real estate, insurance and banking businesses of Charlevoix and served as City Clerk, Justice of the Peace and Bank Vice President.

His portrait will hang in the front parlor of the Harsha House Museum.

Fall and winter hours at the Harsha House Historical Museum, located at 103 State Street, Charlevoix, are from 1-4 p.m., Tuesday - Saturday and 5-9 p.m., Thursday. Meetings of the Charlevoix Historical Society are usually at 7 p.m. the first Tuesday of the month. New members are always welcome.

Call the Charlevoix Historical Society at 547-0373 for more information.

How To Kill A BUSINESS ... in ten easy steps

1. Don't Advertise
Just pretend everybody knows what you have to offer.
2. Don't Advertise
Tell yourself you just don't have time to spend thinking about promoting your business.
3. Don't Advertise
Just assume everybody knows what you sell.
4. Don't Advertise
Convince yourself that you've been in business so long customers will automatically come to you.
5. Don't Advertise
Forget that there are new potential customers who would do business with you if they were reminded.
6. Don't Advertise
Forget that you have competition trying to attract your customers away from you.
7. Don't Advertise
Tell yourself it costs too much to advertise and that you don't get enough out of it.
8. Don't Advertise
Overlook the fact that advertising is an investment in selling ... not an expense.
9. Don't Advertise
Be sure not to provide an adequate advertising budget for your business.
10. Don't Advertise
Forget that you have to keep reminding your established customers that you appreciate their business.

SCRAPBOOK

Norwood's DeVries has ties to the Titanic

If Seblo DeVries' parents had not missed the boat on their first trip to America he would not be here to tell the story of his family history in the Atwood area.

Sometimes we are inconvenienced by airline flights that are overbooked but the phenomenon is not an entirely new thing. In 1912, DeVries' parents were scheduled to travel on an entirely new, high tech ship on its maiden voyage across the Atlantic but were "bumped" to a later date because the trip was overbooked. That ship was the Titanic, which we all now know met a tragic fate somewhere in an ice field.

DeVries' parents did make that trip from the Netherlands on another ship in 1912. The couple married in New York, traveled to Michigan and settled in the Atwood area where they began raising crops and a family of four children.

Farming was hard work and their main power was a team of horses. The potatoes harvested on the farm had to be hauled by horse-drawn wagon loads from Atwood to the farmer's CO-OP in Ellsworth. The seven mile trip took an entire day.

DeVries bought his first car at 18 for $13, a Ford Model T Touring sedan. It was a faithful car that ran well but occasionally needed assistance getting over some of the steeper hills on local roads.

The DeVries family attended church at the Atwood Christian Reformed Church and traveled there by wagon. The church is still open in Atwood. The schoolhouse the children attended is still there but has been remodeled into a beautiful home.

Electricity was another luxury the family lived without until 1944. Lanterns and candles were enough to get by. The parents lived out their lives farming on the same homestead south of Atwood.

DeVries, now 85, lived at home a few years into adulthood helping with the farm work. When he married in 1953 his new family lived in Atwood for seven years until moving to Ellsworth and remains at the same residence today. His sister, Pearl Alward, 86, still lives in the area and brother, Rink, 83, lives near Traverse City. His sister, Grace Vanderslick, 84, lives in the Grand Rapids area.

The DeVries family has had an exciting past. DeVries worked for Hodgkiss and Douma on a road construction crew building many of the highways we travel on today. His next career began with door-to-door sales work, first in World Book encyclopedias and later Electrolux vacuum cleaners. DeVries worked for Electrolux for 20 years. While attending a sales convention in Grand Rapids, DeVries won a door prize consisting of an all expense paid trip-for-two to Disney World in Florida.

DeVries met and married Faye Strange of Atwood in 1953 and they shared their lives for 47 years taking many trips together and planning for retirement. Faye began working for Glen's Market in Charlevoix and was determined to work for 10 years before retiring.

Sadly, she fell ill with cancer and just made her goal before retiring due to receding health. Faye died in April of 1999. DeVries misses her greatly and thinks of all the plans they had made for retirement.

DeVries has had surgery to replace both hips and now gets around fairly well. His remaining daughter and friends in the area help out at his home, where he still lives on his own today.

How to get news-worthy items into the Courier

If you have a news item you think would be perfect for the Charlevoix Courier, feel free to call 547-6558, e-mail charlevoix-courier@charlevoixcourier.com or visit the Courier office located at 112 Mason Street in downtown Charlevoix.

News items include events sponsored by non-profit organizations. Please inform us of your event at least two weeks in advance.

Our coverage area is the city of Charlevoix and its immediately surrounding areas, including Beaver Island.

Because of space limitations in the newspaper, we generally try to avoid publishing "check-handing" pictures or "ribbon-cutting" pictures. However, we will work with your organization to get a picture that reflects the event and is visually interesting to our readers.

It should be noted, each story and picture is dealt with on its individual merits. Any policies outlined above may be suspended by the editor or publisher of the Charlevoix Courier if necessary.

House fire

A fire damaged a room and destroyed a couch at 230 Antrim Street around 9:45 p.m. Sept. 26.

The Charlevoix Fire Department responded to the call with three trucks and 20 firefighters.

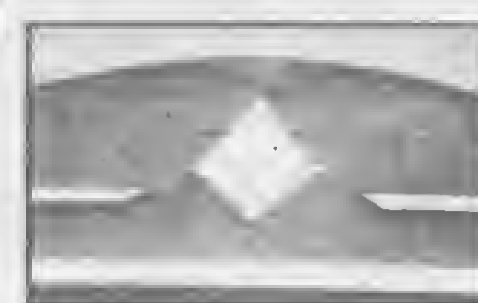

The cause of the fire is believed to be a cigarette that was accidentally dropped on the couch that was in the room.

While the couch was destroyed, other damage was limited to the one room where the fire started.

(Left) A resident of the home, Emily Chulick, watches in the pouring rain as firefighters put out the blaze. She is holding her dog, Samantha, to keep it warm and dry.

Where Is It?

Tell us where in the Charlevoix Area you think this is.

In an effort to add a little more fun to our lives and yours, the Charlevoix Courier is working on creating interactive areas of the newspaper for our readers. In the spirit of this, we are announcing the creation of a new contest called, "Where is it?"

Each week, the Charlevoix Courier will publish a picture of some item on a local landmark or building. We invite our readers to send in their guesses on where this picture was taken.

The names of each week's correct guesses will be entered into a drawing for $100 that will take place on December 31, 2001.

School case appealed

By JULIE WITTHOEFT
Staff Writer

Charlevoix residents are again taking their grievances against the Charlevoix Public School District to the Michigan State Court of Appeals in Lansing.

One of the plaintiffs, Kenneth Richard Tunison, explained what he and the four other Charlevoix residents are claiming.

"What is being questioned is whether or not money appropriated for education can be used for public infrastructure," he said.

The plaintiffs' claim that the

"I'm not against the school; they should have a sewer, but do it the right way."

Kenneth Richard Tunison,
Plaintiff against the school district on his lawsuit sewer extension being funded by the school district to service the new high school, being built off Marion Center Road, is a misappropriation of school funds.

Superintendent of Charlevoix Public Schools, Dr. John Sturrock, a defendant in the case, said Tunison's argument has been refuted by schools across the state and the district is in the right.

"We are contracting with the city to build the sewer," he explained. "If it were unlawful, why has it been allowed to happen in school districts across the state?"

Judge (Richard) Pajtas agreed with us.

On Sept. 14, in the 33rd Circuit Court for the County of Charlevoix, Pajtas ruled to dismiss the school from the plaintiffs' claim that the school's use of bond proceeds to construct a sewer did not meet the state statute.

Pajtas said while the sewer extension wasn't spelled out on the ballot, which was approved by voters in 1999, the need for the district to provide sewer service was implied.

Projects overbudget cause city fund shuffle

By JULIE WITTHOEFT
Staff Writer

Charlevoix City Manager Mike Wiesner said heavy duty infrastructure work this year in the city means light work will be done next year.

This year numerous infrastructure projects fell in the laps of Charlevoix's city administration all at once requiring them to shuffle money from multiple unrelated funding sources.

Wiesner said all the borrowed money will be paid back next year with as much interest as the money would have generated for the fund.

"This is an unusual year. I've never had a busier year and I've been here for 17 years. It's just timing," Wiesner added.

However next year's infrastructure budget is a slim $81,000 as opposed to this year's budgeted $1,473,800 leaving the city with little room for more "timing" problems.

Brandi said all the borrowing coupled with the hefty infrastructure load may have ramifications.

"You are betting on the future some," he said.

If there is a local disaster the city will look to the general fund to pay for the needed improvements.

When this year's shortages and unexpected projects were realized, money was borrowed from the electric and perpetual care funds.

OPINIONS

Sleep, a wonderful nighttime activity

Jeremy McBain
'Just a thought'

Sleep....what a wonderful and mysterious activity.

Each night, our bodies lie down and rejuvenate. We close our eyes and enter a personal world that can delight us or frighten us, it all depends on the images our mind gives us.

When the morning light comes — or the alarm clock jolts your eyes open — we get up, stretch, scratch and prepare for a new day. And this new day ends in another session of this magical activity called sleep.

But, lately, I have been thinking I am excluded from this activity.

Thanks to a combination of a raging cough and high stress both personally and professionally, I experienced what some would call a bout of "insomnia." I would call it a bout of pure mental torture for three straight nights.

Thankfully, I have been sleeping just fine since then.

This first night of the insomnia was kind of fun. I got up and tried some home remedies: warm milk, reading a book, trying to meditate. When I realized that none of it was working, I thought, "Hey, this could be interesting at work tomorrow. It will kind of be like college again."

In the office the next day I was pretty much a zombie, one wired on five cups of coffee, but the walking dead none-the-less. I tried to avoid making decisions that day and even managed to keep myself out of trouble.

Then came the next night. Lying down in my bed, I knew right away this was going to be a bad experience. I was still wired and sleep was still an unreachable state.

Before trying the home remedies I lay in bed fighting with my mind and trying to force it to sleep. A couple of times I came very close to winning, but was hampered in my fight by a loving wife sleeping next to me with a stuffed nose.

There is nothing quite as jarring as being on the edge of sleep, with your loved one softly cuddled with her head on your shoulder, and then having her let out a loud, "SNORK" in your ear. After about three of these I felt it was best to get up and go to the living room rather than attempt to plug up all noise making parts of her nose and mouth with tissue paper.

Once again, I tried the home remedies. Nothing worked.

So, I sat there staring at the darkness in my home, cursing the stupidity of sleep.

Once again, another morning broke and there I sat, wide awake. At the office that day, visions of pillows danced in my head as I edited stories on my computer. I was determined to sleep the next night.

When night came, I was ready. I had a nice cup of Kava Kava tea and took a sleeping pill with some milk. I was ready to enter a coma.

But, as soon as I hit the bed, my eyes popped open and mind started racing. All of my preparation for sleep left me wired, awake and heavily drugged. Not a good combination for rational thought.

I began to make plans for a life of no sleep. I figured I could get a superhero outfit and roam the nights fighting crime in Charlevoix.

Of course, the only gangs of thugs in this area are those nasty raccoons that team up to figure out how to get into garbage. My arch-enemy would be called, "Furry face."

So, I thought on. Instead of fighting crime I would fight stupidity in public writing. I would roam the night as Editor Man, fighting against made up words, useless sayings and poor spelling for all humanity. I would spend my evenings copy-editing signs in Charlevoix with my big red marker.

My first stop would be that wonderful sign near the intersection of Bridge Street and Belvedere Avenue telling drivers which route to take to get to the businesses on Belvedere. If you haven't caught it yet, there is a wonderful spelling of the word "restaurant" that should not be missed.

But, as exciting as this plan was, I decided it would be best to avoid it. Heck, I make enough grammar and spelling errors in my own writing.

So, once again I sat in the darkness, listening to my wife make sounds strangely like a dying bear as she dreamed. When morning came, I visited the Courier office just briefly, to tell the crew I would — wisely — not be in.

After spending the day relaxing and trying not to think of sleep — which is not hard when you haven't done it for three days — I discovered that my body was now ready to rest. What a joy it was to finally dream.

Sleep, what a wonderful thing. I should do it more often.

Roger Knutson
'Ear to the ground'

Cancer, as a word or as a disease, strikes fear into the hearts of most of us.

The important question to be answered is how fearful should we be? There are enough uncontrollable things in the world that we might legitimately fear. Does cancer need to be one of them?

What travels under the single word "cancer" is in reality many things. There are dozens of kinds of cancer, each with its own development, causes and outcomes.

Cancer is many different diseases that have in common only the rapid and uncontrolled growth of some kind of cells in the victim's body.

The causes of cancers are at least as many as the kinds of cancers. We all know by now of the connection of some lung cancers to smoking. Some stomach cancers are associated with the long term presence of certain bacteria living in that organ. Much of the current concern about cancers relates to the possibility of environmental or food related causes. Should I move because there have been a number of cancers found in people who live in my community or on my block? Should I eat fish from Lake Michigan or food products that may have been sprayed with pesticides? There are thousands of chemicals that have been shown to cause cancers at some concentration, under some conditions or in some circumstances. Is there any way I can avoid contact with all of these chemicals? The short answer to this question is "no."

It is possible to isolate, from high quality organically grown food products, many different chemicals that can in one case inhibit cancer and in another can promote its development. Short of eating nothing at all, it is impossible to avoid substances that may in some unusual circumstances promote cancer or inhibit its development. Most such substances have an effect only in concentrations thousands of times higher than we will ever encounter from eating the foods containing them. You should most probably not worry about the latest reports of cancer promoting substances found in tomatoes, lettuce or parsnips.

Letters to the editor

Article response

Editor:
In your issue of Sept. 12, you ran an article about a staff writer, Julie Witthoft, experiencing life in a wheelchair. My mom lives with me and is confined to a wheelchair at times. I can relate to the issues Julie encountered.

A wheelchair is a heavy, awkward apparatus that picks up and flings down whenever possible. I live down by Michigan Beach where seagull dung is as prevalent as duck dung is to East Park. I hose down my complete sidewalk every week because of small pebbles, beach sand, fishing hooks, dung or anything that could flick onto the rider. I take that opportunity to hose down beach spiders by the front door also! Other people in wheelchairs use my sidewalk to get to the fishing channel. I also understand their concerns.

Another experience Julie encountered was inclines. John Martin (Charlevoix Street Superintendent) has allowed the sidewalk and curb in front of my home to be wheelchair friendly. I'm also getting help from the city in making my lot and house compatible for mom. This city has eurbed many potential obstacles.

Thank you Charlevoix and thank you Julie for caring about wheelchair concerns. And thank you mom for always being there for me.

Marina response

Editor:
We are writing to express our concern and opposition to the proposed expansion to the Charlevoix city marina in Round Lake.

While we agree that the existing facilities are in need of improvement/updates, the two plans (which either doubles or triples the number of berths) that are available for the public to view are of a scope that is not compatible with the location.

As you undoubtedly know, Charlevoix is influenced by seasonal residents and visitors who swell the population ten-fold between Memorial Day and Labor Day, usually arriving by automobile and in boats. This dramatic increase is generally appreciated by local retailers who typically have to make their year in this three-month tourism period. For local residents this period is a nightmare.

Charlevoix's Bridge Street (also US-31) is the only north/south road through town and literally all traffic traveling the western most side of the state must pass through downtown Charlevoix. This choked down route is further complicated by the bridge which opens each half hour to allow boat traffic to enter or leave Round Lake. Additional openings occur when the Beaver Island ferry, the Coast Guard and commercial vessels arrive or depart at off times. The result of this unfortunate situation is colossal traffic back ups sometimes extending for miles in both directions. Needless to say, expanding berthing capacity equates to more boats whose passage into/out of Round Lake will cause the bridge to remain open for even longer periods of time.

Perhaps a more important issue is the effect a large marina will have on Charlevoix's single most precious natural asset, tiny Round Lake itself. Its value to residents and visitors alike is incalculable. The natural beauty is the very thing that attracts most people to Charlevoix. To exploit this jewel flies in the face of good judgment. The potential for pollution from bilge and fuel spills increases proportionally with increased berthing opportunities. Further, the nine month off season creates the equivalent of "visual" urban blight for residents and visitors who, instead of viewing a charming scene will look at empty floating docks covered with bird droppings.

There are many other practical and environmental issues which need discussion and we urge you to review this project. We think you will conclude that there is a large degree of overkill in the proposal.

Finally, our city council and city manager do not communicate well with the community and frequently, citizens are not informed sufficiently or timely on matters of importance to the community as a whole.

The worry over cancer clusters

Most of the public concern about cancer causing materials in our environment comes from the examination of what are called "cancer clusters"; numbers of cases of cancers found in a small population of people. Should we worry about the health of our environment if six, 10 or 12 people have developed cancer within two blocks of where we live? Here too, the short answer is no. Hundreds of such neighborhood cancer clusters have been investigated most thoroughly by public health officials, and in no case has it been possible to identify an environmental cause.

Such cancer clusters are almost certainly the product of chance operating, not the product of some environmental contamination. Six cases of cancer on your block or in your neighborhood are most likely not the same kind of cancer, and most likely do not have the same cause. With a population as mobile as ours in America, it is unlikely that most of the people affected in such a case have even lived in the neighborhood for a long time. A cancer cluster in a neighborhood almost surely means nothing about the contamination of the neighborhood with anything.

Worry if you must about the state of the stock market, or the impact of international terrorism, but don't put any excess worry into the occurrence of some number of cases of cancer in your neighborhood or in your community.

Charlevoix Courier wins eight state press awards

The Charlevoix Courier recently was awarded eight state news awards from the Michigan Press Association for its class of weekly newspapers.

"It's always nice to see such a hardworking staff as the Charlevoix Courier receive recognition. I am really pleased for them and the community. The paper is a reflection of the community," said Ken Winter, publisher of the Courier.

Courier editor Jeremy McBain added, "It is an honor for the Courier staff to be recognized by their peers for the hard work put into this publication week after week."

The newspaper won awards for general excellence, spot news, design, enterprise features, editorial writing, local columns and feature pictures.

The break-down is:
• Honorable mention to the staff for general excellence. The judges stated the Courier has a "nice modular layout and organization of stories."

• Honorable mention for spot news. This was awarded to editor Jeremy McBain for his story on the Beaver Island airplane crash last winter.

• Honorable mention to the staff for design.

• Second place for enterprise feature to McBain and staff writer Julie Witthoef. This was for a package of stories last winter on the ramifications of drunk driving that included a drinking test. The judges stated, "I enjoyed this timely, extremely informative piece. Have a couple of beers and drive? No way after reading this."

• Third place for enterprise feature to Witthoef. This was for a story on how to contact council members.

• Honorable mention for editorial writing awarded to McBain.

• First place in local columns awarded to Witthoef for her series, "Stepping out." The judges stated, "Your style and flow kept me very interested while reading your columns. The approach was very real and fresh and gave me the facts and opinions in a readable format."

• First place for feature picture awarded to McBain.

Wedding

Wheat — Lawrason

Lisa Lynne Wheat of Charlevoix and Jared Daniel Lawrason of Petoskey were married at 3 p.m. June 23 at the Charlevoix United Methodist Church.

The bride and groom reside in Murray, Ky. where Lisa attends Murray State University. She will graduate in December with a degree in journalism and political science. Jared has worked for six years at Huff Excavating in Gaylord and is a graduate of North Central Michigan College.

The bride is the daughter of Vicki and Jerry Wheat of Charlevoix. The groom is the son of Sherry and Dennis Lawrason of Petoskey.

Pastor Jerry Troyer of Eastport Baptist Church officiated at the ceremony. The bride's father provided a horse-drawn carriage ride for the couple after the wedding and the reception was at the Charlevoix Knights of Columbus Hall.

The bride wore her grandmother's diamond necklace and her grandmother-in-law's diamond earrings. She carried a bouquet of yellow roses and daisies which matched the flowers in her headpiece. Her ivory dress was lined with pastel beaded designs.

The bride's sister, Jessie Ernst of Lapeer was matron of honor and stood with five other bridesmaids/matrons: Laurie Hauswirth of Rock; Mandi Meggison of Lansing; Sarah Lawrason of Petoskey; Kristin Hammerberg of Lansing and Melissa Smith of Mount Pleasant.

Flower girls were the bride's nieces, Hannah Ernst, 5, and Katie Ernst, 2, of Lapeer.

The groom's cousin, Jason Simon, of Lima, Ohio was best man and stood with five other groomsmen: Jeff Brecheisen of Petoskey, John Billington of Charlevoix, Matt Moser of Alanson, Tom Skinner of Alanson and Adam Schrage of Petoskey.

Ring bearers were Nathan Ernst of Lapeer, nephew of the bride and Jacob Fleming of Petoskey, nephew of the groom.

Ushers for the ceremony were Jeff Ernst of Lapeer, Jeremy Hauswirth of Rock, Billie Morey of Gaylord and Cody Wheat of Charlevoix.

The bride and groom spent their honeymoon at a cabin on Lake Michigan in Cross Village.

New Head Start program opens

By JULIE WITTHOEFT
Staff Writer

A new Head Start full-day, full-year preschool opened its doors at the Early Education Building located in Charlevoix Township Oct. 9.

"I'm really excited about this program. It's going to be great. We have a great team here and I'm excited about them," program coordinator Phylliss Hess said.

Federal funding for the school came from the Department of Health and Human Services in July. Since then Hess, a Charlevoix resident who has worked with the Head Start program for 15 years, has labored feverishly to prepare the facility for its fall opening.

The program serves families who fall under designated poverty guidelines. Where the students live isn't a factor. The site will serve any eligible families from Charlevoix, Antrim and Emmet counties who are able to provide transportation to the site. Hess said this new school is the only program of its kind north of Traverse City.

The Ironton Head Start program in Charlevoix County which has 30 students enrolled, has been in place for some time and will remain open. At the Ironton school classes meet three days each week for a half day.

The new program is five full days — the school is open from 6:30 a.m. to 6 p.m. Currently, there are six children enrolled in the full-day class, but the capacity is 15.

Eligibility requirements include: students must be at the school a minimum of six hours each day, students have to be between 3 and 5 years old and students immunizations must be up to date.

The program does accept special needs children. For those families that can't afford medical or dental care for their child, the grant has funding available for those services too.

During the day the school provides the students with breakfast, lunch, two full snacks and nap time. Hess has also planned weekly family fun nights.

They use the hands-on, creative curriculum which incorporates individualization. Hess said the curriculum is gradual so the children continue "climbing up the ladder as they develop."

She said the staff also works diligently to help students develop their language, self-help and social skills and added that kindergarten teachers who have Head Start kids in their classes have given the teachers positive feedback.

"Schools have been positive about Kindergarten readiness and the skills that the students have developed," she said.

Hess explained that teachers have commended Head Start students' listening and conflict resolution skills.

The lead instructor at the new school is Ambre Flynn, 24, of Petoskey. Flynn, who has received her bachelor's degree from Central Michigan University in child development and has worked in other Head Start programs, said she's looking forward to working with the children. She will be assisted by Charlevoix resident Sharon Parrish, 51, who Hess said has extensive experience in the classroom.

Sandi DiSante, 44, who lives between Charlevoix and Petoskey, will assist Flynn and Parrish. DiSante received her bachelor's degree from Eastern Michigan University in art.

A fourth classroom aid, Susan Lalonde, 54, of Charlevoix will also work with the children. Lalonde moved to Charlevoix from Ithaca, N.Y., where she worked in preschools.

Sarah Rose is the school's family service worker who will work with enrollment. Rose will also help families with social services by training parents and providing referrals to counselors as needed.

The group is currently looking to fill the cook's position. An Open House for the new Head Start Preschool will take place from 4 to 7 p.m., Nov. 1 at the school.

For more information about the school or to enroll a student contact Rose of the Northwest Michigan Human Services Agency at (231) 547-1141.

Gilbert given lifetime achievement award

By JULIE WITTHOEFT
Staff Writer

Charlevoix resident Edith Gilbert was recently given the lifetime achievement award for her many years of dedication to the Crooked Tree Arts Center.

Thirty years ago Gilbert traveled snow covered roads to the Carnegie Library in Petoskey where she and five other Emmet and Charlevoix county residents gathered in the basement to discuss the arts.

The seventh participant that stormy night was a man from Detroit who showed the group a film in an effort to promote the arts in northern Michigan.

The low turnout and the nasty weather left Gilbert feeling a little hopeless.

She said with a playful giggle, "I came home and said to my husband, well that was a waste of time."

The smile on Gilbert's face as she reminisced wasn't because she had wasted time in the winter. It was because she had no idea that what started that winter night in the library basement would grow to be the Crooked Tree Arts Center.

"Thirty years later we have a gorgeous building and programs in music, dance, drama and painting that covers a two county area," Gilbert proudly said.

After the infamous library basement meeting where the center's roots first took hold, the small group met at each others homes and discussed their vision. Gilbert said they were even given a tiny, windowless room at North Central Michigan College where they occasionally met.

Then, in 1982 the Methodist Church in Petoskey came up for sale.

"We didn't have five cents but we put in an option to buy in February and said that if we got the money by September we would buy the building," Gilbert explained.

Sure enough, come September the group that had braved that winter storm had beaten the odds and raised $120,000 to purchase the church.

So now, they had their building but they had a long way to go; Gilbert said they didn't even have a nickel for a janitor.

"But our philosophy was ask and you shall receive and that's how we've grown," she said grinning ear to ear.

Growth came easily because the interest existed in the community. She explained that "people are constantly willing to jump aboard and help out."

Gilbert said her decision to "jump aboard" came long before the center. In fact, she's an artist herself having studied sculpture under the late Walter Midener at the Center for Creative Studies in Detroit. She was also one of the early founders of the Charlevoix Waterfront Art Fair.

Gilbert's role in planting the Crooked Tree Arts Center and then working diligently to nourish it were recognized by the center Sept. 21 at their eddi Awards ceremony that took place at the Bay View Inn.

That night she was presented the lifetime achievement award by Northern Michigan Hospital representative Lyn Jenks.

Prior to presenting the award Jenks said that arts is a very important part of the health of a community.

And that is precisely why Gilbert said she has dedicated herself to the center.

"I have been actively involved in the arts center from the beginning and that's 30 years. That's why I got the lifetime achievement award," she said.

While working with the center Gilbert has been on and off the board, serving as board president for two years. She also helped coordinate fund-raising efforts and events.

"They can't get rid of me, I'm still on the board," she sarcastically whispered.

"It has been challenging. But I feel I'm making an important contribution to the children of the area," she added.

Her latest task is working on the center's capital campaign. She said they have outgrown the facility, they need more staff, more space and a temperature controlled gallery so they can attract more exhibits.

"The demand is there but we have no space," Gilbert said.

She is also looking forward to expanding outreach programs. The center currently sends a violin teacher to Beaver Island once a week but she would like to increase their presence in Boyne City, East Jordan and Charlevoix.

The goal of the capital campaign which has been going on for a year is to raise $4 million and they have raised $3 million. Most of the financing has been brought in by foundations, corporations and private gifts.

"There is a lot to look forward to. If we grow as much in the next 30 years as we have in the last 30 years there's no telling where we'll be," she said.

Planners say zoning is available for housing

By JEREMY MCBAIN
Editor

This is the latest edition of our series on affordable housing in the area. There will be two more stories on this topic.

According to local community planners, the problems with getting affordable housing in the Charlevoix area are trying to get developers to build them and finding room for the developments.

Charlevoix County planner Larry Sullivan said the city of Charlevoix is pretty much developed out and the market price is favorable for higher priced homes. Thus, developers do not see much incentive in building affordable or low income housing.

"The market is just going to drive the price up," he said. Even in areas of the community with "affordable housing," the price of these units are much higher than what the average worker in the county can afford.

Sullivan said even in the local mobile home parks, residents are paying for the home and a monthly rental cost on the lot. Many times that adds up to an amount higher than what they can afford.

"What would be affordable housing? Five hundred dollars a month? I don't think you could get into a mobile home for that," he said.

Added to this problem is the factor of second home owners. Sullivan said in many cases when affordable housing is constructed, many units are bought by second home owners who previously couldn't afford to buy in Charlevoix.

Plus, as in the case of the city of Charlevoix, Sullivan said many of the homes are no longer owned by year-round residents.

"It hurts us because that is housing that has traditionally been available," he said.

But, there are very few solutions to this problem.

Charlevoix city planner Gary Harsch said "There is an affordable housing problem everywhere....I don't think there is a whole lot that can be done."

Sullivan said the basics that a community could provide for affordable developments is a well-built infrastructure; this includes good roads, sewer lines and water lines.

He added, Charlevoix Township has done the most in providing the necessary elements for affordable housing by paving roads, making other necessary infrastructure improvements and allowing for higher density areas.

Housing $

"Charlevoix Township is very progressive. It has fantastic recreation, fire department, water system and water towers," he said.

Both Harsch and Sullivan said there is local zoning on the books that could help bring in affordable housing throughout higher density and multiple developments. But, it is very hard to get any land that is available for that rezoned to this due to public backlash.

"I see a lot of people that don't even propose them," Sullivan said.

Since the private developers are not even proposing affordable housing developments, Sullivan said the local governments have some options.

Local government can offer tax incentives to developers to build affordable housing, mandate affordable housing be part of a development or build affordable housing itself.

Sullivan added if the local government were to build affordable housing, it would immediately be criticized as "being in competition with the private developers."

Harsch said he thinks affordable housing is a problem that needs to be addressed on more of a regional basis.

"In any of the successful resort areas in the US, there is a problem with a balance between service industry jobs and affordable housing. I don't think Charlevoix is any different," he said.

But, Sullivan added, until something is done, he foresees a bleak future for the area. Businesses that are looking at the area to relocate to or businesses already here, could realize that they can pay their employees less for the same quality of life in other towns.

"We will see businesses leave the area," he said.

Two injured in accident on Oct. 7 on Townline

Two people were injured in a two vehicle accident that occurred at approximately 3 p.m., Oct. 7 on US-31 near Townline Road in Hayes Township.

Maclyn Heise, 26, of Charlevoix was traveling east bound on US-31 when she approached the Bayshore Food Market. As she passed the store, a vehicle traveling west bound driven by Michael O'Connor, 17, of Petoskey made a left turn into her path.

Heise was unable to avoid the crash and struck the O'Connor vehicle head on. The O'Connor vehicle spun around and crashed into the canopy of the Bayshore Food Market next to a gas pump.

O'Connor was driving a 1992 Pontiac four door and Heise was driving a 1995 Dodge van.

Heise was transported to Northern Michigan Hospital by the Charlevoix Emergency Medical Service to be treated for injuries. A passenger in the O'Connor vehicle, Angela Richards, 19, was also transported to Northern Michigan Hospital for her injuries.

O'Connor and his 4-year-old daughter were uninjured in the crash.

The Charlevoix Township Fire Department was called to the scene due to a possible fuel leak from the vehicle and the gas pumps.

The crash is still under investigation by the Charlevoix County Sheriff at this time. All occupants were wearing their seat belts and the 4-year-old girl was in a child restraint seat which greatly reduced injury.

The Emmet County Sheriff's Department, Petoskey Public Safety Officers and members of the Great Lakes Energy Co. who were working on the Bayshore Food Market when the crash occurred assisted the Charlevoix County Sheriff's Office at the scene.

Sheriff's seminar gives child safety seat tips

The following safety seat check up was distributed at a seminar that took place at the Charlevoix County Sheriff's Office Oct. 3.

The presentation was made by the Michigan Department of Community Health.

Does your child ride in the back seat?

- The back seat is generally the safest place in a crash.
- If your vehicle has a passenger air bag, it is essential for children 12 and under to ride in back.

Does your child face the right way?

- Infants should ride in rear facing restraints, preferably in the back seat, until about age one and at least 20-22 pounds. Infants who weigh 20 pounds before one year of age should ride in a restraint approved for higher rear facing weights. Always read your child restraint owner manual for instructions on properly using the restraint.

- Children over age one and at least 20 pounds may ride facing forward.

Does the safety belt hold the seat tightly in place?

- Put the seat belt through the right slot. If your safety seat can be used facing either way, use the correct belt slots for each direction.

The safety belt must stay tight when securing the safety seat. Check the vehicle owner's manual for tips on using the safety belts.

Is the harness buckled snugly?

- Keep the straps over your child's shoulder. The harness should be adjusted so you can slip only one finger underneath the straps at your child's chest. Place the chest clip at armpit level.

Which kind of harness is best?

There are three kinds. The basic five point harness has shoulder, hip and crotch straps. The T-shield or tray shield takes the place of hip straps to hold the lower body in the seat. Most seats come with a plastic harness retainer clip that holds the two shoulder straps together. Keep it at armpit level on your child to hold the harness straps on the shoulders.

Special features of harnesses:

5-Point Harness

A 5-Point harness is preferred by many safety experts because the lap part of the harness fits over the child's strong hip bones. This kind of harness can be adjusted to fit snugly on both very small infants and larger children. However, the straps may twist and tangle. Keep the straps flat for maximum protection.

T-shield

A T-shield harness is one where the shoulder straps are attached to a flat pad. The shield reduces twisting of shoulder straps. It can be buckled quickly with one hand. Some have straps that adjust automatically to fit properly.

Tray-Shield

The Tray-Shield is a system whereby the shoulder straps are attached to a wide padded shield that swings up. Some trays may not fit over the child's head unless the straps are adjusted each time.

Does your child over 40 pounds have the best protection possible?

- Keep your child in a safety seat as long as possible, at least until 40 pounds. Then use a belt positioning booster seat which helps the adult lap and shoulder belt fit better.

- A belt positioning booster seat is preferred for children between 40-80 pounds. It is used with the adult lap and shoulder belt. Check on special products for heavy children too active to sit still in a booster.

How should a safety belt fit an older child?

- The child must be tall enough to sit without slouching, with knees bent at the edge of the seat, with feet on the floor. The lap belt must fit low and tight across the upper thighs. The shoulder belt should rest over the shoulder and across the chest. Never put the shoulder belt under the arm or behind the child's back. The adult lap and shoulder belt system alone will not fit most children until they are at least 4 feet 9 inches tall and weigh about 80 pounds.

1/2 C orange juice

• Combine first three ingredients; set aside. In a large mixing bowl, beat eggs and sugar.
• Combine oil and orange juice, and add alternately with dry ingredients to egg/sugar mixture.
• Mix until smooth; add vanilla and beat well.
• Pour half of the batter into a greased and floured tube pan. Arrange half of the apples over the batter. Combine cinnamon and sugar and sprinkle half over the apples. Top with remaining batter, apples and cinnamon/sugar. Bake at 350 degrees for 1 hour and 10 minutes or until cake tests done. Allow cake to cool 1 hour before removing from baking pan. Cool, apple side up, on a wire rack. Sprinkle top with confectioners' sugar if desired.
Yields: 12-16 servings.

Trees being harvested off of Martin Road

By JULIE WITTHOEFT
Staff Writer

Rumors are flying as to why a 50 acre piece of property in Charlevoix Township is being harvested.

The property that sits between Martin and Waller roads in Charlevoix Township looks as though it's being prepped for a big development. But, co-owner of the property, Elizabeth Hoffmann said she's harvesting the land and selling the wood.

Hoffmann added that all the trees will not be removed.

Elizabeth said the large vacant property originally belonged to Native American Charlevoixan, Andrew Aish-Ke-Bug who sold it to Anne Martin after a year of ownership.

Anne deeded the property to her son John in 1889. John cleared and began farming the triangularly shaped parcel until 1938 when he lost the property as a result of mortgage default.

It was sold at public auction to Willis "Doc" Kerns, a former Charlevoix druggist.

In 1955 Kerns sold the property to Elizabeth and her late husband Walter Hoffmann. Walter planted spruces and pines across the 50 acres to start a Christmas tree farm.

"The trees were supposed to be harvested when they were Christmas tree size," Elizabeth explained.

But after finding out about the costs and time involved in raising the trees, Walter abandoned the tree farm business venture.

She said because of its past, as the Martin farm prior to her family owning the property, the oaks and maples currently being cut are a maximum of 60 years old.

In the early 1970s Walter started out a second business venture involving the property. He and partner, the late Clayton Scott, had the site rezoned from its original agricultural designation to planned urban development. But the project didn't go through and the property reverted back to agricultural.

In his will Scott left his half of the property to his wife, Daisy Scott of Birmingham and the other half Walter left to Elizabeth.

In 1998 Elizabeth offered to donate her half of the property to the school district to be used as the site of the new high school. But, the school district declined her offer, citing the amount of wetland as making the property too small for what it was looking to build on.

Elizabeth said that a creek used to run through the property but it was dammed when US-31 was built but the land is still about 50 percent wetland.

Since the Christmas tree farm days, some of the trees that the Hoffmanns planted have grown to full maturity, some have been stolen and Elizabeth said the area has been used as a local littering ground.

She said the site is already beginning to become a lush forest.

"Look where they have already cut you'll find new ash, red maple and oak trees. This will let the sun in and let the little ones grow. There are 10 inch oaks on the forest floor that are trying to grow, but they need sun," she said.

Elizabeth added that many local residents have called her about the work going on at the site inquiring about the deer.

She said by thinning the property out, the deer will be there "more than ever."

Charlevoix Township Zoning Administrator Bob Rajewski said the land is currently zoned commercial. According to the Charlevoix County building department, no permits for projects have been applied for, indicating that no developments are planned.

Candidates Forum to be Oct. 18 at city hall

Candidates for Charlevoix City Council seats have been invited to appear at a Candidates Forum Oct. 18 sponsored by members of the League of Women Voters.

The forum begins at 7 p.m. in Charlevoix City Hall.

Invited are Norman Carlson, First Ward; William Bellows and Douglas Way Jr., Second Ward; Shirley Gibson and Tom Rankl, Third Ward; and city clerk Elizabeth Gooch.

Five questions on current local issues have been sent to the candidates who also will be asked to respond to written questions from the audience. Mona Bergcon will act as moderator.

The non-partisan election is scheduled for Nov. 6.

County fire departments have drill

On Sept. 30, Charlevoix County fire departments had a joint "tanker drill," to practice their water hauling skills.

In areas that do not have fire hydrants, (a large portion of the county), the only way to provide the amount of water needed to fight a large fire, is for the fire departments to haul it in by their "tanker" trucks.

The drill consisted of teams of firefighters filling the "tankers" as fast as possible at the Boyne City boat launch, and then the water being dumped into portable tanks at the Boyne City municipal park, where a fire department "pumper," shot the water into Lake Charlevoix.

Participating fire departments were Boyne City, Boyne Falls, Charlevoix, Charlevoix Township, East Jordan, Hudson, and Melrose.

Red Cross fund-raiser

Chefs from area restaurants are teaming up for a four-course, five star meal Oct. 10 with all proceeds going to the American Red Cross's Sept. 11 fund.

The event will take place at Mahogany's.

The evening will begin at 6 p.m. with hors d'oeuvres and a cash bar. Dinner will be served at 7 p.m. The minimum donation is $75 and all food, labor and tips are being donated. Checks should be made payable to the American Red Cross, with Disaster Relief in the memo line.

Hospice to provide grief services to community

The Hospice Team from Northwest Michigan Community Health Agency (working in partnership with Charlevoix County Hospice) invites the community to come and participate in an hour of support and information on helping yourself and others during this difficult time.

The meeting will be from 12 to 1 p.m. on Oct. 16 at the Health Agency office at 220 Garfield Avenue. Counselors and free materials will be available.

For those unable to attend we are also offering the Handling the Holidays seminar at 7 p.m. on Nov. 1 at Charlevoix Hospital. The Hospice Annual Memorial Service will be at 4 p.m. on Nov. 4 at the Charlevoix Methodist Church for anyone in the community that would like to join them in remembering someone who has died in the past year.

For more information call Margaret Lasater at 536-2842.

The entire country experienced sudden, violent loss through the tragedies in New York, Washington and Pennsylvania and many people are feeling a sense of loss, fear, anger and insecurity. These are normal expressions of grief.

Most people are resilient and over time, with the proper support, they will heal. Young people and children experience this grief also and in addition, question the security of the people who care for them. They too will heal, given the appropriate honest information and loving support. Most people learn to cope in a healthy way following a sudden loss, but support from a compassionate listener, a friend, family member or counselor can help this process.

Enrichment classes to be offered at school

The Charlevoix Elementary School's enrichment programs are beginning.

Classes that are available include: the instruments of the string family for students age 8 and up, dance and yoga for ages four and up and the foreign language program for grades one through five. Parents with students who are interested in participating can pick up registration forms at the front desk of the elementary school located at 13513 Division Street in Charlevoix.

City borrows from self to pay for projects

Charlevoix Courier Wednesday, October 10, 2001 - PAGE 27

BUDGET

A large transfer was required for completion of the Garfield Avenue sewer extension project. Council originally approved sewer construction along Garfield and then later agreed to extend a water line too. Originally there wasn't funding available to do both, but Wiesner said as more infrastructure projects were added to the list and bid packages grew the cost decreased.

The addition of the unexpected water line cost the city's perpetual care fund $104,400.

A bill of $10,000 was also paid by perpetual care following a second timing issue on Garfield. A Garfield Avenue resident wanted to build an addition on his home, but the proposed addition would run over a city easement that houses a storm sewer pipe.

Wiesner said it isn't a good practice to build over the pipes so if the addition on the house was to be built the sewer line would need to be relocated. Wiesner added that in order to plan for the future, the pipe size needed to be enlarged from 18 inches to 42 inches.

Because this part of the land is an easement from the city, the landowner will pay the cost of rerouting an 18 inch pipe and the city will pick up the remaining cost of the upgrade, $10,000.

Landscaping and re-contouring work along the berm lining the entrance to the Charlevoix Municipal Airport was also not originally budgeted for but timing required the project to get underway.

The city received a grant for the trees along the berm, but was counting on a project time extension for planting. However, the granting agency made their funding contingent upon the project being underway by Sept. 30. Wiesner said that in order for the city to utilize the grant the city had to borrow $140,000 from the electric fund.

However, the sizable sum didn't leave the electric fund in jeopardy. In fact, Wiesner said the electric fund has been saving money for five years and currently has almost $1 million that is not designated.

He added that he doesn't think the electric fund surplus is a reflection that user rates are too high. He said rates have not been raised in six years.

Another project that required more money was the Lake Michigan Beach project. Wiesner said the cost analysis showed the project would cost the city $160,440.63 more than they had conceptualized.

Charlevoix's Downtown Development Authority (DDA) has since agreed to fund $81,273.28 which will pay for changes to the Park Avenue water tower park area. City treasurer Rick Brandt said the DDA has over $300,000 in project funds from which to draw.

Parts of the park project were scratched from the plans in order to account for the remaining shortage of $79,167.35.

Another major infrastructure project in the city this year is the acquisition of the Wharfside building. Wiesner said it has been a city goal to purchase the lakelront property between Mason and Clinton streets since 1896 when everything was privately owned.

"We would have solid buildings between Bridge Street and Round Lake. What would Charlevoix be if the city didn't buy any of that property? It makes the park that much nicer," Wiesner said of Round Lake waterfront land acquisitions.

In 1998 the city reached an $800,000 purchase agreement with Rex and Ineke McCarthy who own the Wharfside property. But, the purchase agreement fell through.

Wiesner said Rex took the position that the city approached him and he was happy with the building.

"We couldn't dent the armor," he explained.

The purchase agreement that the city recently reached with McCarthy was $70,000 over what was budgeted. The extra cost was paid for using money from the general fund. This money will not be reimbursed next year.

Also included in the budget period was the relocation cost of Marion Center Road. The $250,000 price tag on the project included the purchase of property. Wiesner said the city felt the Harbor Industries expansion project "hinged on the road relocation."

He said conditions at the intersection of US-31 and Marion Center Road have since improved as is evidenced by the drop off of the accident rate at the site. He added that the city still owns an unused corner of the property that they hope to sell and get back the $250,000 relocation cost.

Wiesner said that all the transfers mean the city will not be reconstructing Chicago and Mercer avenues and running a water main as was planned. He added that this project will most likely be on a one year delay but he expects it will still be on the top of the list once the city is ready to undertake more infrastructure projects.

Plaintiffs take their case to the Appeals Court

Sturock echoed Pajtas' ruling when he said that the extension is part of what the district has to do to service the site of the new high school.

But, Tunison disagrees with both Sturock and Pajtas. He said he's a plaintiff in the case because he likes to see things done right and just because other schools have done it that way doesn't make it right.

"I'm not against the school (the new high school on Marion Center Road); they should have a sewer but do it the right way," he said.

Tunison added that the right way to put a sewer into the township is not for a school to fund it. Rather, it's to create a sewer authority and then bring it to public discussion, he said. The two groups will then come together and decide how to manage the sewer into the future.

He said the township's master plan shows a sewer running up M-66 and then going to the school property.

Tunison believes by bringing the case to the appellate court, other school districts facing similar problems will have a voice.

The appeal was entered with the Lansing Court of Appeals by attorney for the plaintiffs, Jim Olson of Olson and Bzdok in Traverse City. Olson filed the claim of appeal on Sept. 27, just 13 days after Pajtas dismissed the school.

Plaintiffs in this case include: Tunison, Kenneth Stacey, Robert G. Mossman, Paul Richards and Joseph Seidel.

Defendants in the case are Sturock, the Charlevoix Board of Education, Charlevoix Public Schools and the Charlevoix Public School District.

Basketball team on top

By JEREMY MCBAIN
Editor

The Charlevoix varsity girls' basketball team is alone at the top of the Lake Michigan Conference following its 64-61 win over Kalkaska Oct. 4.

"I have been nervous all year about playing Kalkaska," said interim coach Jim Parrish. "I always expect them to be tough."

And a tough game it was for the Rayders, as the game was back-and-forth but ending in a fourth quarter drive that finally put them on top.

"We try and do well in the fourth. They did it again," Parrish said.

The top scorer was Jennifer McClellan with 17 points. Katie Swenor was next with 13, followed by Grace Farrell with 11, Krista Swenor with nine and Kathryn Ricks with nine. Katie Swenor also had 10 rebounds and Farrell had nine rebounds. In assists, McClellan had seven while Ricks had four.

Both Charlevoix and Kalkaska were undefeated going into this match-up Oct. 4 and both play similar types of ball. But, this win leaves Charlevoix in first place of the Lake Michigan Conference.

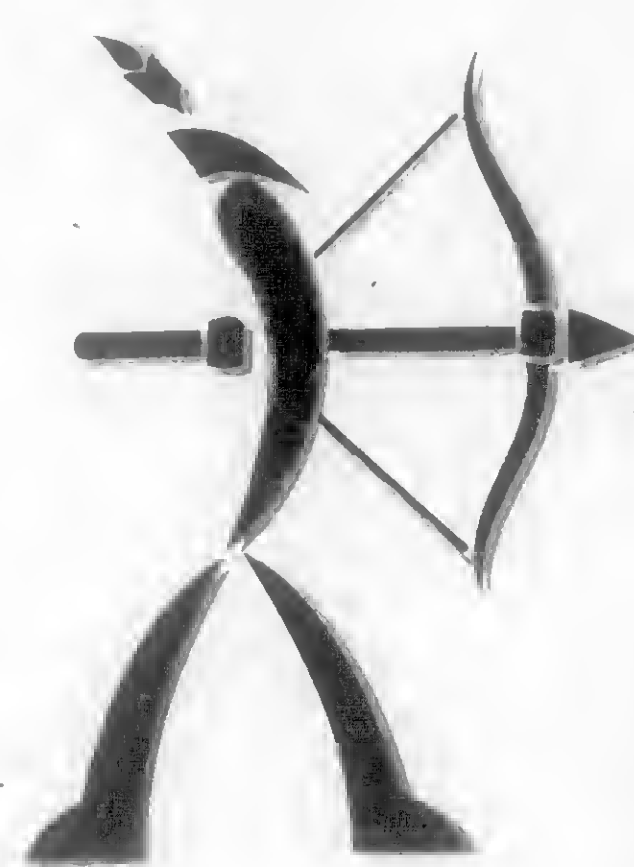

The Kalkaska win came after a win against Traverse City St. Francis on Oct. 2, 53-46.

The high scorer for this game was Farrell with 25, followed by Ricks with 10 and Katie and Krista Swenor both with nine. Farrell also had 13 rebounds and Katie Swenor had nine rebounds.

According to Parrish, this was another game where the Rayders were down at the half, but came back in the fourth to win it. However, he said it was probably the best game the team has had this year, as far as getting the ball inside and letting Farrell do the work.

Parrish added Kati Swenor did a great job playing defense.

As of these two games, the basketball team is 8-2 overall and 6-0 in the conference.

Golf team on a winning streak

By JEREMY MCBAIN
Editor

The Charlevoix golf team continues to shine on the course.

On Oct. 5, the varsity team came in fifth place out of 14 schools at the Traverse City Invitational.

According to coach Jim Glynn, this is a strong tournament that brings in most of the state ranked schools.

"This was a good showing and a good tune-up for the regional at Grayling, (Oct. 12-19)," he said.

Of the Charlevoix team, David Shearer was the top scorer with 74. Other scores were: Allen Brooks with 87, Nick Cole with 86, York Smith with 90 and Jordan Nystrom with 93.

This match came during the same week as the Rayders first place victory Oct. 2 in their last Lake Michigan Conference match. With a score of 328, the Rayders beat out Traverse City St. Francis, Harbor Springs, Elk Rapids, Kalkaska, Boyne City and East Jordan.

Shearer was the top scorer for the day with 70. This also put him on the 2001 All Conference team. This score was also two under the school record.

Other scores were: Brooks with 85, Nystrom with 86, Smith with 87, Kreg Wager with 91 and Cole with 92.

Brooks and Nystrom were both named honorable mention on the 2001 All Conference team.

"It was a super team effort," Glynn said. "They were ready and they had a nice round."

Rayders win homecoming game

Ryan Rafacz did his part to set up a showdown this week in the Lake Michigan Conference, scoring three touchdowns and netting 217 yards from scrimmage to lead Charlevoix to a 32-18 win over Elk Rapids.

The Rayders host fellow conference unbeaten Boyne City this Friday in a game that will likely decide the league crown.

"He (Rafacz) just has a knack to get the ball when it's in the air," Charlevoix coach Todd Klinger said. "Whether it's high or low or he has to get into another gear, he just goes and gets it."

For the second straight week, though, the Rayders were forced to come from behind. They fell behind the Elks early 6-0. Charlevoix's Kyle Dobrowolski blocked the extra point.

Following a Dennis Avery interception, Rafacz scored on a 10-yard run to knot the game at six-all. The Elks took a 12-6 lead later in the quarter but junior signal-caller Nate Teuscher responded by hitting Rafacz with a 19-yard scoring strike. Teuscher's extra point kick gave Charlevoix the halftime lead at 13-12.

Following the homecoming festivities at the half, a fired up Rayder squad was buoyed by a Matt Kochanny punt block giving Charlevoix possession at the Elk 42. Two plays later, Teuscher hooked up again with Rafacz, this time for 41 yards and a score.

Jeff Urban and Todd Carey each ran for touchdowns as well, as the Rayders upped their lead to 20 points before a late Elk Rapids score made the final 32-18.

"I felt that coming on with it being homecoming, it'd be tough to have a real crisp game with all the distractions," Klinger said. "Overall, I thought we played better in the second half. I felt all along that we were in control of the game."

Rafacz caught seven passes for 155 yards and rushed for 62 yards on only four carries. Urban ran 19 times for 81 yards. Teuscher was 9 for 17 for 171 yards.

Nick Schwein led the defense with eight tackles and a fumble recovery. Carey had seven tackles, including two sacks. Avery had two interceptions in the game.

Boyne City (7-0 overall, 4-0 in the league) visits Kipke Field Friday night to face the Rayders (5-2, 5-0) in a matchup of two high-scoring offenses.

Klinger gave a brief scouting report on the Ramblers.

"Boyne City has an excellent football team. Their offense is big play oriented," he said. "They run out of a spread, one back offense. They run wide with a lot of sweeps. They throw to the flat and let their guys run with it."

Boyne will be looking for revenge as the Rayders clinched the conference crown last year at Brotherton Field. Charlevoix will have not only their league championship to defend, but also a win will clinch a Rayder playoff berth for the second straight year.

Rayders' soccer team splits week

Cheboyan, the Elk Rapids squad thought they were going to march into Kipke field and destroy the young Rayder Team.

After going up 1-0 early it appeared that the Elks were on their way. Tilley then got into a groove, making stop after stop. He also had some massive punts and goal kicks which enabled the Rayders to get the ball out of their end.

This allowed Charlevoix's offense to get going. Charlevoix's best opportunity came midway through the second half when Serrels took a drop pass from Bryan, beat a pair of defenders and ripped a shot at the Elks net from the 18.

The Elks All-State goalie nicknamed "The Wall" made a great save to preserve the shutout. Elk Rapids added a late goal to finish the scoring in this closer than expected contest.

Coach Josh Block credited his entire team for what he called the best loss he has ever had and feels that his team is starting to show signs of taking their game to the next level.

Charlevoix hosts Forest Area on Wednesday before traveling to Traverse City Christian to take on Leland on Saturday.

More accounts of the Champlain

Marilyn Boss

'Days gone by'

Less than two hours after the Courier edition of Sept. 19 came out with my article about the Champlain disaster of 1887, I received a call from Mary Dixon Moore.

She is a friend of mine who told me her great grandfather, Antoine Sharrow, was a passenger on the ship. Her mother, Elizabeth Sharrow Dixon, his granddaughter, had a piece of the mast from the ship which he clung to, making it to shore.

Antoine Sharrow was listed on the passenger roster as printed in the account of the tragedy in the Charlevoix Journal. He built the family home at 605 Norwood Road, located directly across the road from the Swanson Contracting business. Antoine would have been 45 years old at the time. His wife was Lydia Sharrow who died in 1934. Antoine died Nov. 3, 1909.

Mary Moore and her brothers Raymond, Thomas, Louie, Maurice and her sister Louise Dixon Wells have given this piece of the ship, which has been in the family attic for 114 years to the Charlevoix Historical Society.

Upon checking with old photographs at the historical society, David Miles discovered that the artifact we have is the oil lamp, which is mounted on a 15 foot mast at the very most forward position on the bow. The mast probably had a hinge on it so that it could be taken down to be refilled with oil. It is a generous gift and the society is very appreciative to have this artifact in the museum.

There is so much interesting information about the stories told by some of those who survived that I am going to continue writing many of these details.

The passenger list consisted of George W. Miller, Mrs. Harrison Bedford, Mrs. Ella Smith, Ms. Mary Wakefield, Robert Wilks, George W. Wrisley, Fred Wrisley, Antoine Sharrow and William Stevens, all of Charlevoix.

Also aboard were, Mrs. Jackson Ingalls and Ms. Ella Wilson and the captain, Edward Casey all from Petoskey; J.J. Rogers and his seven-year-old son from Fort Mackinac; Mrs. Michael Kehoe, Ms. Mable Kehoe, W.H. Albright, Mrs. Martin Beau, Ms. Aggie Beau and Ms. Ella Beau all of Chicago; Mrs. Mary Fall, Ms. Lulu Willard and Erastus Fall from Bear Lake; Captain Charles H. Russell from Jackson; R. Whitman from Milwaukee; William J. Samson from Streator, Ill.; and Casper Schaub from Spring Prairie, Wis.

The dead from Charlevoix were: Mrs. Ella Cooper Smith, Robert Wilks and George Wrisley.

As the books of the boat were lost, and the clerk did not survive, it was never known just how many people were on board at the time, but the survivors gave the list of those they knew.

There were also passengers from other localities and a crew of 18, plus one white deck hand and 10 Indian deck hands who were unidentified. There is a plaque on a stone in the cemetery where the Indians are buried and I will elaborate on that later.

As written in the Charlevoix Journal of the time:

The following is an excerpt from the account of W.B. Albright, one of the survivors is especially poignant: "We all passed a very pleasant day and evening. Just before midnight, while Mr. Russell, Mrs. Smith and her sister and myself were in the cabin, we heard the most unearthly shrieks. I afterward learned it was the poor engineer, who rushed up to the upper deck with his clothes all on fire, I returned to the cabin and told the ladies we would have to go out on the bow and get life jackets. An attempt was made to lower the boats, but we (the ship) were running so fast it could not be done. The flames kept crowding us more and more upon the bow. In less time than you can imagine, the fire came so close we had to jump into the water. George Miller was the first to jump and others followed his example.

I said to Mr. Russell, "When you get ready to go, tell me and I will follow you." I pulled the jack staff out and he said, "I'm all ready. It's too hot for me here," and he jumped. We struck away from the boat to get out of the heat which was so intense, I had to put my head under two or three times. It was an awful site to see the steamer wrapped in flames with the smoke and fire rolling up and sweeping down over the water. In every direction people were struggling for life and crying out for help. My life preserver worked up so high on my back that I could hardly keep my head out of water. Mr. Russell and myself struck out for shore as well as we could, clinging to the jack staff. He became chilled though and in spite of all I could say, he became quite discouraged. Finally, he said he should perish with the cold if he did not get back to the wreck where it was warmer and he started back. That was the last time I saw him until I saw his corpse on the sand at daybreak."

Captain Edward Casey of Petoskey, after jumping into the water, pulled off his shoes and swam ashore, then got into a small boat and went back to rescue the floaters. There are many more accounts which I will write about in my next article.

You don't have to go it alone.

Do you wish you felt more loved and supported—and not quite so all alone?

Christ Jesus promised, "Where two or three are gathered together in my name, there am I in the midst of them." So it's no coincidence when you walk into a Christian Science Reading Room and feel an unmistakable love bolstering and surrounding you. You're coming together with others who are seeking and finding God. It's a powerful way to feel supported.

You don't have to go it alone—you are always welcome at a Christian Science Reading Room.

Welcome Aboard!

Ensign Jeremy Hall recently arrived to serve on the USCG Cutter Acacia. Ensign Hall is a recent graduate of the Coast Guard Academy at New London Connecticut.

Timothy Bruce,

a long time area insurance agent, has opened his new office in Charlevoix. Northern Michigan Benefits & Insurance Services, Inc. is a full service Employee Benefits Firm which caters to local businesses. Services include Group, Health, Dental, and Vision programs as well as Group Life and Disability Plans. They also sell and service individual life and disability insurance programs through over 50 quality insurance companies.

My Sister's Closet, located at 1207 Bridge Street, was recently purchased by Patricia Dillon, a lifelong resident of Charlevoix. Pat invites everyone to stop by and see what she has to offer.

Jay Bingham

and the entire staff of Bingham Insurance Services, is pleased to announce they are now a locally owned and operated Independent Insurance Agency. The same staff, Donna DiMartino, Jeanne Way, Donnell Jones, and Shirley Ried-Daunter are excited to remain part of the team. Jay recently purchased the Charlevoix office of Fifth-Third Insurance. This agency has been serving the local community for over 25 years, and Jay stated he looks forward to many more.

No Ghost Ship

Based on heightened security measures throughout the US Military, the crew of the US Coast Guard Cutter Acacia regrets that it will be unable to host a "Ghost Ship" this year. We sincerely hope that we will be able, once again in 2002, to bring our haunted ship to the children of Charlevoix.

Business After Hours

The Charlevoix, East Jordan, and Bayne City Chambers of Commerce together will host a Countywide Business After Hours, Thursday, October 25th, from 5:30-7:30pm at Nanny's of Charlevoix. The event is sponsored by Raven Hill Discovery Center, Cellular One, Northern Michigan Title Company, The Learning Center of Northern Michigan, The Business & Professional Committee of Charlevoix Area Hospital, Nanny's and the Ironon Cave Landings. Don't miss this great opportunity to network with fellow businessmen and women from throughout the county.

First Friday Business Breakfast

The next First Friday Business Breakfast will be on Friday, November 2nd, 7:30am at Grey Gables restaurant. The featured speaker will be John Tharp, from North Bay Crisis Response Team.

Retail Committee

The next meeting of the Charlevoix Retail Committee will be Thursday, October 18, 2001, 9am at Stafford's Weathervane Restaurant.

Charlevoix High School Students are a Big Help!

THANK YOU to all the students of Charlevoix High School, and teachers who helped us cut cornstalks to decorate the downtown area for Fall - Danny Hedrick, Valerie Reiter, Jared Martin, Delos Lanterman, Jordan Plumm, Patrick Wilson, Will Potter, Devin Shottmiller, Joey VanLoo. We especially thank Eric Meier, Chad Johnson, and Anthony Diaz for not only cutting the cornstalks but also working to tie them to the trees downtown. In addition, our special thanks to teachers Mary Lieberman and Dawn Hovie, who came out with the students to help the community. The Charlevoix Chamber also greatly appreciates the generosity of Ardeth and Tom Wieland who donated all the cornstalks to decorate our town. Thank You!

Rain, rain, go away

Weather causes problems at festival

By JEREMY MCBAIN
Editor

Bad weather hampered this year's apple festival, causing damage to some crafters' tents and canceling the musical entertainment.

Crafters coming to Charlevoix for the festival were greeted on Friday with a steady rainfall. But, the rain let up Saturday morning and the streets of the downtown area became crowded with festival-goers.

However, the rain came back in the early afternoon and lasted the rest of the day. Many of the crafters in East Park packed up early and left as the crowds ran for cover.

The rain also shut down any hope of musical entertainment in Bridge Park on Saturday. Due to the water, crews could not turn on the electrical equipment and had to pack up.

By night, the rain mixed with a high wind that also caused problems. Several

Retail could be coming to Hayes

By JULIE WITTHOEFT

A large piece of land in Hayes Township could become the site of commercial retail stores.

The Hayes Township Planning Commission came up with a split decision on a rezoning request made by Lange Limited LLC.

Lange requested that part of a 50 acre parcel of land in Hayes Township, on US-31, west of the Vidosh nursery, be rezoned R-4, residential and the remaining land be rezoned C-1, resort commercial. The property is currently zoned A-1, agricultural.

The planning commission voted to recommend to the Charlevoix County Planning Commission and the Hayes Township Board that the commercial designation be approved but voted against an endorsement of the residential request.

According to Hayes Township zoning administrator Ethel Knepp, Lange has since reapplied for all of the 50 acres to be rezoned commercial.

The property in question is located along US-31 north past Boyne City/Charlevoix Road. The parcel is owned by Country Club Park LLC which was founded by Charlevoix resident Rik Lobenherz.

Lobenherz said the rezoning request was made by a company interested in purchasing the land from Country Club Park LLC, Lange Limited LLC.

Lange, who Lobenherz said is not a Charlevoix resident, originally requested the property be rezoned resort commercial and multiple family residential.

Knepp said Lange originally applied for the portion of the 50 acre parcel that abuts the Vidosh property and is close to the Rod and Gun Club to be zoned C-1, commercial. The application also asked that the balance of the property be zoned R-4, residential.

Students make threats

By JULIE WITTHOEFT
Staff Writer

Charlevoix City Police and Charlevoix High School administrators responded early last week to written threats of violence that were discovered by the school's counseling office.

City police chief Dennis Halverson said that three freshmen students had written graphic, threatening letters about other high school students.

An investigation into the threats was conducted by the city police in conjunction with county prosecutor Mary Beth Kur. The two departments discovered that no violation of the law had occurred.

Therefore it was the responsibility of the school administration to handle the students who authored the letters.

"The school picked up the ball and followed through by meeting with the parents and doled out the punishment," Halverson said.

In response to the punishment, high school principal Gary Grundman said, "This is a disciplinary situation that has been handled according to board policy."

Halverson said that the school's fast, firm reaction was wise, as they have now set the tone for how similar situations will be handled in the future.

Get lost this Halloween

Julie Witthoeft
'Stepping out'

When I first heard the Bolt Farm in Charlevoix was featuring a new corn field maze, I immediately thought of scary movies like The Shining and Children of the Corn.

But after taking a trek around I found this maze was much more Casper friendly than the bizarre story told in the two movies I had seen.

When I got into the thick of it I heard the giggles of Linda Moore's second grade students from St. Mary School in Charlevoix. They had excitedly ran ahead of the group and were winding their way toward what they thought was a way out.

I peeked through the stiff, but pliable, green leaves of the cornstalks only to see a flash of color from a bright pink hat attached to the round head of a young girl, who sprinted by and quickly made a left turn up another corridor carved out of the corn.

Even though we were cruising through the thick of the maze with Bolt Farm co-owner Cindy Bolt we were lost as lost could be. But the cool fall air and the crisp, colorful leaves on the trees made being lost great.

After the group agreed that we were in fact hopelessly lost and totally zonked from running up and down rows of corn, we made our way back to the farm. As we walked, Cindy announced that before the group headed home there would be one more stop.

So, we trudged up a grass covered hill to one of the Bolt pumpkin patches. Kids quickly went to work scampering around to find the biggest pumpkin their little hands could hold.

Hauling the map from the maze, the pumpkin from the patch and an ear of Indian corn from the field they made their way back to minivans and on to home where I'm sure they took a long nap.

They were there to learn a lesson in the creation and consumption of products. A start to what will eventually evolve into the complex concept of capitalism.

For Cindy and her husband, Russ, production has been a way of life for over a decade. Cindy said they have been farming for 14 years.

Tucked away inside the family farm you'll find all the goodies that are their fall product. They carry sweet corn, wholesale pumpkins, a variety of peppers, apples, squash galore, decorative and useful gourds, pears, leeks, shallots, basil and fresh cut flowers.

If all those veggies aren't enough to convince readers that an afternoon outing to the Bolt Farm isn't a great idea, then I'll casually mention the clincher, what I like to call the frosting on the cake — the maze.

Everyone is bound to get lost in the corn maze. It may seem endless from the inside, but it's carved out of 10 acres of corn, which is a small chunk of the 220 acres of land the Bolt's own. From an aerial view, the maze, which was crafted by Brett Herbst of Utah, reveals a carved pumpkin and the words "Get Lost at Bolt

Cai Pan Merrill shows off colorful Indian corn she picked at Bolt Farm on Oct. 5 while touring the maze and picking out her Halloween pumpkin. (Photo by Julie Witthoeft)

Farms." They have contracted with Herbst to do the maze for at least the next three years.

Fresh produce and a mind bending maze aren't the only products at Bolt Farm. They also run a meat operation. Cindy said over a decade ago when she and Russ married, they only had four cows but the herd has grown to over 150 cows, calves and bulls.

Is commercial really the answer in Hayes?

Call us concerned. Recently, moves have been made to rezone a portion of Hayes Township along US-31 into a commercial development right next to the Charlevoix Rod and Gun Club. Currently the land is zoned agricultural.

The property was previously brought to the township planning commission for a rezoning to multiple residential zoning and resort commercial zoning. The residential rezoning was turned down, because — among others — the commission was not comfortable with having a residential area near the Charlevoix Rod and Gun Club.

But, there are indications that a rezoning to straight commercial would be looked on as favorable by the commission because it abides by the township's master plan.

While we agree it is best for a planning body to follow its master plan, the creation of a commercial development in that area is concerning to us.

Sure, it may be beneficial to the people who live north of the bridge, but at what cost? First, there is the inevitable sprawl that it will create, then there is the issue of the gun club being right next door.

Why would it be better for a commercial area to be a problem next to the club, but not a residential area? This is confusing. A commercial development brings several more people to the area than a residential one and is generally louder than a residential one. So, how is this better than a residential zoning or even its present agricultural zoning?

In the aspect of sprawl, this rezoning could lead to some clustered commercial. This could mean a strip mall on the north side. Is this something the citizens of Hayes Township really want?

Maybe others will be concerned too.

Benefit for the Red Cross called a success

Edith Gilbert

'Behind the news'

The spirit in the room was almost one of defiance when 200 patriotic Charlevoixians stood proudly and sang "God Bless America."

Their voices rang to the rafters at the Charlevoix Country Club. Here, four local restaurants joined forces last Wednesday to serve a five course meal at $75 a person with 100 percent of the proceeds going to the Disaster Relief Fund of the Red Cross, after the World Trade Towers disaster.

Acting as Mahogany's host, John Winn introduced restaurant owners Terry Left, of Terry's Place/Village Pub; Gary Anderson, of the Grey Gables and Chuck and Gina Whitney of Whitneys. Their original plan was to sell 160 tickets, but the demand was so great that 200 tickets were sold in 48 hours! After that, many people had to be turned away.

Lucky ticket holders were not disappointed when they entered the colorful dining room. Tables were decorated with large centerpieces of red, white and blue flowers, accented with American flags. As favors, guests received tiny American flag lapel pins. In addition there were two tall red, white and blue star studded candle cylinders on each table. As Chris Ventzke and Chris Martin alternated playing patriotic tunes on the piano, diners sang "America, the Beautiful." Impulsively they lifted the glowing cylinders high up in the air and sang with fervor, "And crown thy good with brotherhood from sea to shining sea!"

Such dramatic moments were accompanied with the sumptuous five course meal that was entirely cooked in Mahogany's kitchen. Beginning with hors d'oeuvres by Chef de Cuisine, Bill Baten of Whitneys, that included Oysters Rockefeller, the first seated course was presented by Chef de Cuisine Paul Bradley of Terry's Place, a crab-crusted whitefish with lobster mashed potato. This was followed by a spiced pear sorbet, courtesy of Mahogany's. Executive chef, Garrett Scanlon presented the entree, tenderloin of beef with wild mushroom hash and a cabernet reduction. Finally, Darren and Kelly Romano offered their Rose Cottage specialty, a white chocolate coconut cream tart, that Kelly accented with a 3 inch hand piped chocolate American flag.

Many of the guests wore red jackets and colorful head gear including attractive Lindy Smith, who caused much delight as she proudly displayed her red white and blue, star studded Statue of Liberty head-dress.

Both police chief Dennis Halverson and fire chief Doug Carver were introduced and accepted standing ovations. Thanks to the help of the contributors the grand total sum raised for this evening was $18,472!

At the close of the evening, Winn invited all the chefs and wait staff to receive a hearty round of applause for contributing their time and talents to this momentous occasion. Winn chose just the right words to conclude by saying, "I hope this evening never needs to be repeated!"

Letters to the editor

No playground

Editor: Depot Beach is a lovely, quiet place with a pavilion in keeping with our historic depot; a Victorian garden is being planned at the depot. Now comes the news that a playground is planned next to the pavilion. In my opinion a playground structure will destroy the ambience of this area. The pavilion is used for reunions, parties, family picnics, even weddings; a playground next to this would be disruptive to those events.

There are people who enjoy a swim in Lake Charlevoix and then a relaxing time on the beach reading a book or chatting with friends. As we are an aging population I would suggest that the character of Depot Beach remain as it is so there will be a place for those of us who appreciate its quiet charm. Children are certainly welcome and swings are there for them; they can play Frisbee and other games.

Presently we have three beaches of different character to appeal to different segments of the population; that is part of Charlevoix's charm and I feel it should remain so. Anne Marie Barnes Charlevoix

Thank you

Editor: It has truly been an honor to be able to serve the American Red Cross in a small capacity by coordinating the community blood drives in Charlevoix.

Since the tragic events of Sept. 11, I have seen and felt the Charlevoix area unite for the common cause of meeting the needs of others.

I want to thank the exceptional young Charlevoix High School students who organized fund-raisers for the Red Cross and made appointments to donate blood and work at the blood-mobile Sept. 17.

The American Red Cross staff, who had already worked two 90 hour weeks since Sept. 11, arrived at the Community Reformed Church in Charlevoix on Sept. 27 in good spirits. They processed the maximum number of donors during the six hour period, collecting 122 pints of blood from 135 donors, 17 of which were first time donors.

In this difficult time, it has been heartwarming to witness the generosity, patience and kindness exhibited by all volunteers, donors, businesses and organizations who came forward to participate in the success of this blood-mobile.

I want to thank all of you, in advance, for considering the next Charlevoix community blood drive which is scheduled for Jan. 17, 2002. Your help will be needed by the sick and injured.

In the meantime, stay safe and warm. Ellen Schuiling Charlevoix Coordinator

Event was a success

Editor: Patriotism was the coin of the realm.

On Wednesday evening, Oct. 10, a patriotic "Disaster Relief Fund Dinner" was given at the Charlevoix Country Club.

One hundred percent of the proceeds went to the Red Cross Disaster Relief Fund for the families of the fallen firemen and police officers killed during the terrorist attacks on the World Trade Center.

Imagine the heroism demonstrated by the firemen and police officers. As every one was trying to run out of the trade center towers, these heroes were going in, running up the steps to save people. How lucky we are to have such dedicated professionals looking out for our well-being.

The planners and participants of this wonderful event were the owners, chefs and personnel from four of Charlevoix's fine restaurants.

Hosting and serving were Terry Left, owner of Terry's Place, his chef, Paul Bradley, and their personnel; Chef Garrett Scanlon of the Charlevoix Country Club and his personnel; Darren and Kelly Romano, owners and chefs of the Grey Gables and their personnel; and Chef Bill Baten of Whitneys and his personnel. Over 50 people worked on the project, donating their time and effort to the dinner.

Several Charlevoix business leaders also donated goods and services along with citizens giving anonymous financial support.

Honored guests included Sheriff George Lasater of Charlevoix County, police chief Dennis Halverson, Charlevoix City fire chief William (Doug) Carver and Charlevoix Township fire chief Curtis Thompson. These local heroes were given a standing ovation at the gathering.

Every table setting had a picture of an American Eagle with a tear in his eye, looking down at the burning towers of the World Trade Center. Across the bottom it read, "To Honor the Fallen." Over 200 tickets were sold and over $18,000 was raised, which will be sent to the Red Cross Relief Fund.

According to Charlevoix Country Club past president Robert Beaumont, people came from all over the state to be a part of this patriotic fund-raiser.

After the five-course dinner, patriotic songs such as Battle Hymn of the Republic, My Country 'Tis of Thee and America the Beautiful were sung. During the singing of God Bless America, a guest from Detroit lifted a red, white and blue candle over her head. Soon there were 40 other candles raised. With candlelight bouncing off the ceiling, everyone sang with their whole heart, shedding tears of pride. The room was bursting with patriotism and love for our homeland, America.

It was a clear message to the terrorists from this small community that has a heart. The message is that America and its citizens are united in support of their nation during this time of need and tragedy. God bless America and God bless the participants of this patriotic fundraiser.

Bill Schuiling Charlevoix

Where Is It?

Tell us where in the Charlevoix Area you think this is.

In an effort to add a little more fun to our lives and yours, the Charlevoix Courier is working on creating interactive areas of the newspaper for our readers. In the spirit of this, we are announcing the creation of a new contest called, "Where is it?"

Each week, the Charlevoix Courier will publish a picture of some item on a local landmark or building. We invite our readers to send in their guesses on where this picture was taken.

The names of each week's correct guesses will be entered into a drawing for "100" that will take place on December 31, 2001.

Wedding

Balch — Gallant

Stephanie Ann Balch and Richard Alan Gallant Jr. were wed on Sept. 15.

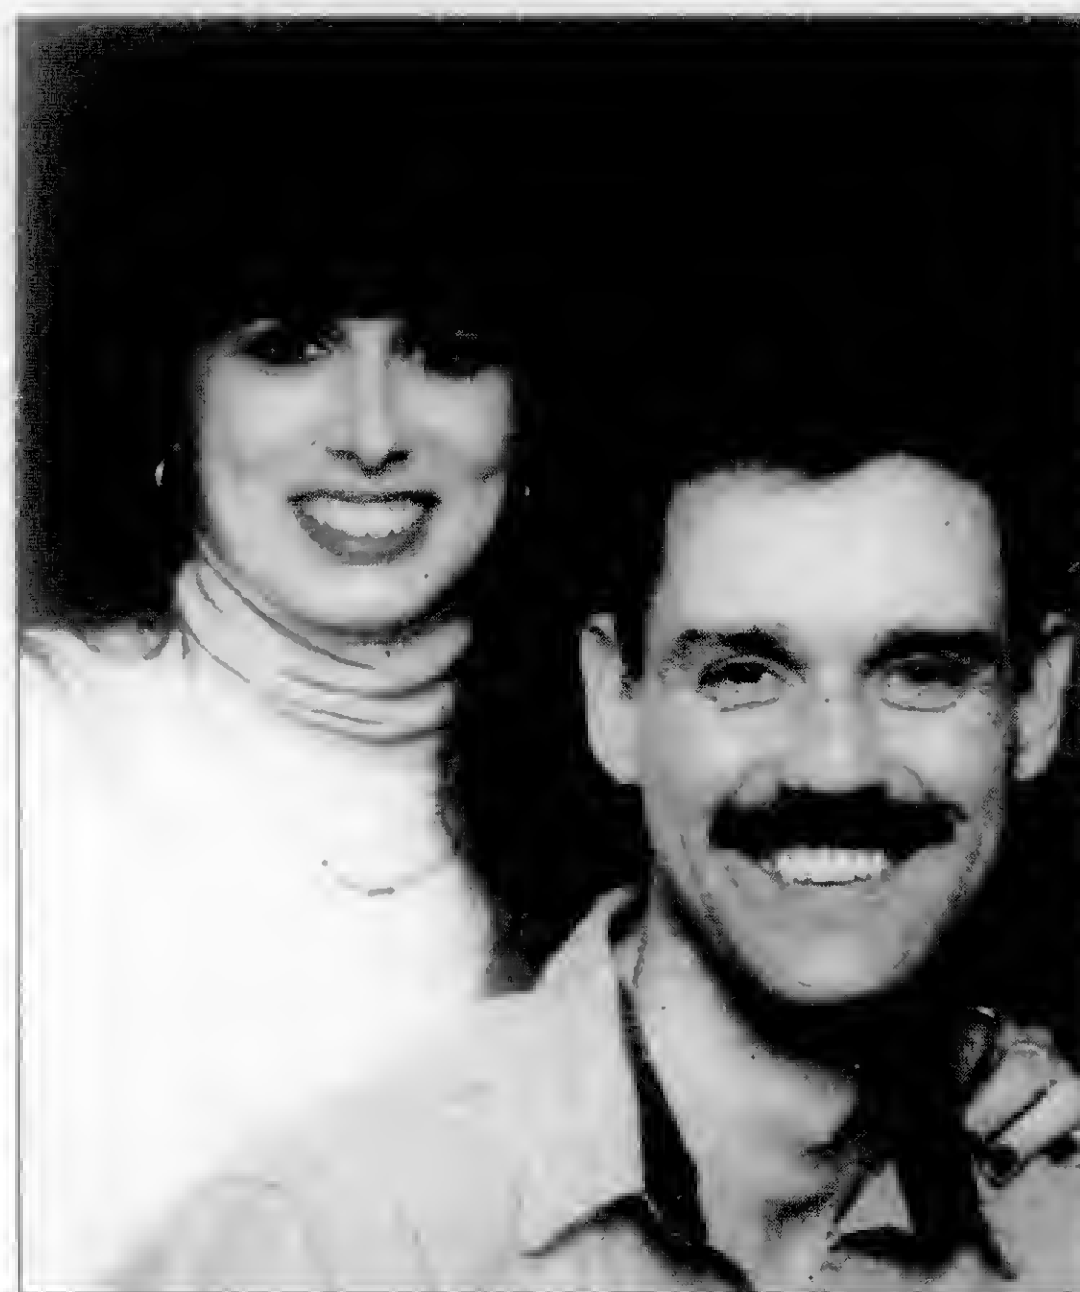

Stephanie is the daughter of Ronald "Bud" and Deanne Balch of Charlevoix. Richard is the son of Dick and Barbara Gallant of Charlevoix.

The ceremony took place at the UCC Congregational Church of Ironton. The Rev. Rex Kihler of the First Christian Church of Petoskey officiated the double ring ceremony. Louise Cole provided musical accompaniment.

Bambi Balch, sister of the bride, served as maid of honor. Dick Gallant, father of the groom, served as best man.

Following the ceremony, family and friends dined with the bride and groom at the Argonne Supper Club in Charlevoix.

The couple is currently making their home in Cape Cod, Mass., where Rick is currently stationed with the United States Coast Guard as an Aviation Electronic Tech First Class and H-60 Flight Mechanic. Stephanie is currently employed as an administrative assistant for an optometrist's office in Cape Cod.

Housing needed for Russian delegation

The Charlevoix Rotary Club is bringing a delegation of about 12 Russian journalists to the area to learn about the American publishing industry from Nov. 10-18 and needs home hosts for them.

The delegates are publishers, editors and directors of various Russian media outlets.

They are being brought to Charlevoix through the San Francisco based organization, Center for Citizen Initiatives. This organization is dedicated to economic reform in Russia.

Each member of the delegation must pass a rigorous screening process to take part in the program.

They will be visiting numerous publishing organizations throughout the area during the week — including the Charlevoix Courier and the Petoskey News-Review — and speaking with several business leaders.

In order to give the Russians a true taste of American life, the Charlevoix Rotary Club is looking for area residents willing to open their homes to the visitors.

For more information on home hosting a Russian delegate, please call Jim Berlage at 347-6563 or 347-0360.

Wedding

Randall — Jarema

Molly Randall, of Ellsworth, and Tim Jarema, of Traverse City, were married on June 16 at St. Rita in Maple City.

Molly is the daughter of Bill and Betsy Randall of Ellsworth. Tim is the son of Chet and Judy Jarema of Sterling Heights.

The Father Chad Zielinski performed the double ring rites. Readers were Chris Randall of Ellsworth, Erich Randall of Fort Benning, Ga. and Jill Hebein of Ishpeming.

The bride wore a Dulciana and Italian satin gown with a natural neckline. She also had a simple back headpiece and an elbow length veil trimmed in satin ribbon. She carried stem-held, multi-colored Gerbera daisies.

The matron of honor was Kristin Podolinski, of Plymouth, a friend of the bride. Bridesmaids were: Nikki Louiselle, of Charlevoix; Kristi Graham, of Petoskey; Krista Jarema, of Charlevoix and Cynthia Jarema of Sterling Heights.

The best man was Don Malin, of Chicago. Groomsmen were: Tom Jarema, of Brighton; Matt Randall, of Ellsworth; John Jarema, of Charlevoix and Steve Hawn, of Traverse City.

Ushers were: Don LaFaive of Traverse City and Steve Jarema of Boyne City.

A reception was given at the Park Place Hotel in Traverse City.

The couple went on a wedding trip to the Keweenaw Peninsula and the Porcupine Mountains.

They are making Traverse City their home.

The bride is a graduate of Ellsworth High School and Hillsdale College. She taught for five years at Charlevoix Elementary School and is currently teaching at Crystal Lake Elementary School in Benzonia.

The groom is a graduate of Michigan State University and is currently working as the northern Michigan regional manager for Gulfmark Energy out of Houston, Texas.

Be careful out on the water this fall

The Coast Guard is warning boaters and sportsmen of the dangers of cold water.

While the traditional boating season is over, many outdoor recreational sports, such as duck hunting, are just beginning. Every year, fishermen and duck hunters become victims of cold water's greatest danger — hypothermia.

Although the air temperature may average above 50 degrees, the danger lies in water temperature.

Hypothermia becomes the biggest danger after a person enters the water. It begins to set in quickly as the body's core temperature drops below 95 degrees.

One of the keys to increasing your chance of survival is wearing a personal flotation device such as a life jacket or a survival suit. In addition, file a float plan with your local marina or family member, stating where you are going and how long you will be gone.

If you find yourself in the water, your first concern is to get out as fast as possible. If there is no way of exiting the water, then try to get as much of your body out of the water, by climbing on to any debris of floating objects. Get help as soon as possible.

Boat smart from the start. Items that should be taken when boating on cold waters:

- Cold-weather survival suit
- Marine band radio (carried in a waterproof, zip-style bag)
- Whistle
- Strobe/or chemical light
- Signaling device

Grandvue honors its past volunteers

A ceremony took place at Grandvue Medical Care Facility Sept. 26 to dedicate a special plaque honoring its volunteers who have passed away over the last five years.

Many family members, staff members, residents and friends were present for the 12 volunteers being honored.

Cheryl Sothard, activity director, shared that when long-time volunteer Bill Gaunt passed away this last spring and there was such an outpouring of grief among residents and staff, that became the impetus for the special plaque.

This memorial will now honor all such volunteers whose service has so positively impacted the lives of the residents and staff who live and work at Grandvue.

The inscription on the plaque reads, "In Loving Memory and Tribute to the volunteers who have been such an important part of our team at Grandvue. These people have shared their time, patience, understanding, compassion, talents, good humor and positive attitude — all for the benefit of our residents. The volunteer spirit of these wonderful friends will live on forever in our hearts and continue to provide us with hope and inspiration."

Volunteers who were honored include: from Boyne City, Jim Genc, Alice Cooper and Jim McNeal, from East Jordan, Helen King, Bertha Groesser, Al Crowell and Bill Gaunt; from Ellsworth, Ken Peebles and Lynn Carpenter; from Central Lake, Lloyd Burns and from Charlevoix, Bob Nowakowski and Mary Margaret Geiken.

Use your candy money to help the Sept. 11 victims

By FR. JIM GUNN
Christ Episcopal Church
Charlevoix

At the end of this month we will encounter one of the more controversial observances commonly kept during the year - Halloween.

The other name for this is All Hallows Eve, which anchors it in the Christian liturgical calendar. It is the evening before All Saints Day, which is the feast of remembrance of all Christian saints, known and unknown.

However, down through the years this observance has pretty well been separated from its Christian roots and in fact has been discouraged by many Christian leaders. This is true because, in secular society, it has focused on things like ghosts, goblins, witches, vampires and the like. However playfully some people have meant these characterizations, they are still depictions of beings that are meant to inspire fear and, in many cases, are originally portrayed as agents of evil.

There is also the whole concept of "Trick or Treat;" the idea is, of course, if you do not give a treat to those who come, then they may play a trick on you. Again, this is meant playfully by most people, but some have taken the opportunity (with or without treats) to play tricks that are harmful and sometimes vicious. With the terrorist attacks of Sept. 11 and the subsequent events, such as the cases of anthrax, (whether related or not), it seems to me that we have seen enough depictions of naked evil for a long time. In addition, this observance could be perverted by terrorists or other sick minds, to be a disaster for the young people of our country.

Let me issue a challenge to take a different approach to Halloween. Why not take the money you would have spent on candy or other treats and give it to the relief efforts? Perhaps a gathering of friends to celebrate the lives of the saints who have gone before us could be an alternative to going out. In any case, my suggestion is to downplay the portrayal of evil and remove the trick or treat ("Give me something or I'll do something to you") and remember those who have died and celebrate the many heroes who have been involved in the recovery.

Many people have said it and it is true that life in the United States will never be the same. The tragic events of Sept. 11 have brought about a death of innocence — a destruction of confidence. It has also led many people to examine their lives and look to God for strength and direction and comfort. Let us celebrate the selfless giving that has so characterized the relief efforts instead of focusing on the satisfaction of our own desires.

Obituaries

Dr. Dennis Vincent Adams: March 12, 1949 - Oct. 11, 2001

Dr. Dennis Vincent Adams, 52, of Charlevoix and previously of Grosse Pointe Farms died in Lupton, Ariz.

A funeral mass took place at 9:30 a.m., Oct. 19 at St. Paul Church in Grosse Pointe Farms.

Dr. Adams was born March 12, 1949 in Detroit the son of Dr. Vincent Boucher and Irene Sharon (Tyll) Adams. He graduated from Austin Catholic Prep School, the University of Dayton and Wayne State University Medical School. He did research and his residency at the Heart Hospital in London, Hospital project right on schedule

By JULIE WITTHOFT
Staff Writer

The largest expansion project in the history of Charlevoix Area Hospital is beginning to take shape — the changes will add 46,000 square feet to the facility.

The project includes major changes in three departments: the emergency department, the Intensive Coronary Care Unit (ICCU) and the Obstetrics Department and Family Birthing Center.

Clark Construction Company project manager Kip Linklater, who is in charge of construction at the hospital, said that the entire project may be completed as soon as December 2002.

Linklater is steering a construction crew of 16. The group is working diligently to finish the major excavating and footing work. This week they expect to pour the floors in an attempt to keep a step ahead of the unruly winter weather.

They hope to have the renovation area closed in before winter so they can work on the interior.

The hospital's public relations coordinator Tamara Stevens said the first order of business is the Emergency Room expansion, because the emergency department is significantly busier than it used to be.

A study conducted by the hospital in order to develop their expansion plan, states the emergency department had a 7.8 percent increase in traffic in the fiscal year 2001 (March 31, 2000 to April 1, 2001) as compared to the fiscal year 2000 (March 31, 1999 to April 1, 2000).

Stevens said the expansion of this service is the main driver for the project.

The new emergency room will be double the size of the current facility. The current emergency room will become the hospital's billing office. Once the new ER is complete they can move in without experiencing a lag in service.

Kip said walls in the new emergency wing will go up this week and it should be open in mid-July of 2002.

The project's second order of business is the expansion of the labor and delivery facility. Linklater said that the birthing center should be completed by the end of July 2002.

The expansion will double the number of Labor, Delivery, Recovery and Post-partum (LDRP) rooms to eight.

The ICCU will not be expanded in terms of the number of patient beds available, but will be upgraded to increase the quality of the service to a level Stevens said is "state-of-the-art."

The project planning study showed that heart related services like the EKG were in greater demand in 2001. In the fiscal year 2001 inpatient EKG numbers rose by 5.1 percent and outpatient numbers increased by 8.5 percent.

Kathy Johnson, the hospital's director of fund development and the volunteer coordinator, said expansion projects at the hospital have occurred every 10 years. They moved to their current location from a building on West Hurlbut Street in 1954 and most recently renovated in 1991.

The hospital's project in 1991 cost $3 million and made possible an obstetrical unit and surgical services. That project was completed in 1994.

The hospital announced their most recent expansion and fund-raising project in May of 2000.

After one year of fund-raising the hospital is $900,000 away from meeting their $6.5 million expansion goal.

"It looks like we will have it all by the end of the year," Stevens said.

The hospital's next big fund-raiser is Holly Daze, a holiday auction/celebration at the Charlevoix Country Club. The event is scheduled to take place from Nov. 23-Dec. 1. The live auction at the country club's Mahogany's Restaurant.

Hospital expansion will serve community

HOSPITAL

hogany's Restaurant will be Nov. 27.

Ground breaking to pursue this goal of excellent community care took place in April of 2001 and construction began in June.

Stevens said based on a facility needs study, the latest renovation venture is expected to meet the hospital's needs over the next 20 years.

But Johnson added that the 20 year window may change.

"The next renovation is dependent on growth in the community. Since 1991 there has been a 25 percent growth in the population in our service area," Johnson said.

"If we see that same growth over the next 10 years, who knows what that means," she added.

Johnson said that the expansion won't make the local hospital more competitive with Northern Michigan Hospital in Petoskey or Traverse City's Munson Medical Center. Instead she said the big change will expand the hospital's available range of services and will allow the staff to do what they do "very well," that is "serving the needs of the community."

Clustered housing may be an answer

By JEREMY MCBAIN

Editor

(Editor's note: This is the second to the last story in a series on housing in Charlevoix)

Higher density housing in or near the city that is kind to the environment is one possible solution to the affordable housing crunch in Charlevoix, according to one environmentalist.

"What we have done traditionally with zoning is it used to be a cookie-cutter approach. Every piece was 10 acres," said Jo Anne Beemon. "But, it just scattered development across the county."

Beemon is the Charlevoix County drain commissioner, a Green Party member and a known environmentalist.

She said a better approach to development of housing is planned "cluster" housing with higher density that makes better use of the land.

"If we are going to develop the community, we have to change the way we think," she said.

However, Beemon said all development should be mindful of the natural environment.

"We have the opportunity to protect water quality, protect streams and rivers so we don't have beach closings. It means you are going to have to be willing to make strong and fair ordinances and we will have to enforce these," she said.

It is also important for this housing to be near the city. This will allow those living there easy access to libraries, grocery stores, retail stores and community activities, without the need for automotive transportation.

Housing

As far as locations, Beemon said we could convert some industrial sites that are no longer in use into housing sites.

However, she said bringing in affordable housing will be hard, because there is no incentive for developers.

"The land values are astronomical in Charlevoix. If there is no incentive (to build affordable housing) people are going to build housing that generates more of a profit," she said.

It is vital for the community to get interested in affordable housing, because it is needed desperately in this area, Beemon added.

"You are going to have to subsidize housing or give developers perks," she said. "I don't see anything in that direction right now."

If that isn't working, Beemon said we may have to pay workers in Charlevoix more money.

"If we don't do that, we are saying they have to live somewhere else. But, people that can't afford housing, a lot of times they can't afford dependable transportation. I contend that you are going to have to pay to get your workers to work," she said.

Beemon also said the city may need to explore building its own affordable housing.

"If we can afford a new marina, then we certainly can afford housing," she said.

Rain dampened the fun at Apple Festival tents used to protect crafter's merchandise in East Park caved in or were blown away.

On Sunday morning, East Park was filled with damaged tents and water. Luckily the rain had stopped and some of the crowds came back.

One of the tents that was torn off the ground by the wind belonged to the Xi Epsilon Gamma sorority. According to sorority member Dianna Phillips, of Charlevoix, the group managed to repair the tent and get it standing again on Sunday morning.

Liz Kantzer, of Rocky Top Farms in Ellsworth, discovered her tent's roof had caved in on one side. She said most of the merchandise in the tent had been put in the middle, thus saving it from getting too wet.

Kantzer added sales were pretty good on Saturday before the rain, but slowed down greatly by Sunday.

Susan Simington, of J&S Silversmiths in Mancelona, also reported brisk sales on Saturday before the rain and slow sales on Sunday. She added she anticipated the weather on Saturday afternoon and took all of her merchandise out of the tent before she had left that night.

Shirley Gibson, Third Ward
Why do you think you are the best choice for Charlevoix's City Council?

Because I'm an environmentalist and I care about the community and what's happening to it.

Shirley Gibson

I think we have to be careful now about maintaining the uniqueness of Charlevoix and why people come here. And if we start destroying those reasons we're not going to have a viable downtown and people aren't going to come here anymore. We can't be everything; in other words we can't be a huge industrial center, we cannot be a huge convention center. We can't have a huge marina with more boats. That would be an environmental disaster with the water and air pollution involved in that situation.

What is your position on the city expanding the marina?

I'm totally against it. I can understand some repair work down there; I'm sure that that's needed. But, an expansion would be an environmental disaster.

What do you see as the biggest challenge facing the city of Charlevoix?

To keep things in perspective which goes back to what I just said. They can't be everything they can't. They have to decide what they want to be and I don't want to lose the sense of community that Charlevoix has and I think there needs to be more individuals in the area involved in our government and how things work and have a say in what happens.

Some have argued council is out of touch with the wants, needs and opinions of their constituents. How could you bridge this gap?

I will always be available for phone calls or to meet with them if they wanted me to. I think I have a feel through the voters I've talked to already; I think I have a feel for how voter feel in Charlevoix.

Bolt Farm has what you need for Oct. 31 WITTHOEFT

The cows are hard work, but Cindy said the 15,000 tons of pumpkins they harvest every year keep them hopping.

Seeds for the crop are planted in early June. Those who are given the daunting task of scooping pumpkin seeds may have a hard time believing the little buggers are hard to come by. But Cindy said they can't be used to make new pumpkins, the seeds are patented.

Over the years she and Russ have found the seeds that grow best on their land and in this climate — hardy seeds. She wouldn't divulge the exact name of the seed they use because that is the Bolt secret to success.

It may seem easy to sow the seeds and pick the pumpkins, but pumpkin farms are a little more complex than that.

First they are expensive to grow. Cindy said they have to pay for fertilizer, insecticide, hoeing, harvesting, getting the pumpkins to market, marketing and advertising.

As they ripen, they start to look really attractive to the Bolt family animal enemies: deer and squirrel. Deer and squirrel are pumpkin predators who burrow into the pumpkin and eat its seeds causing thousands of dollars worth of damage a year.

Once markets buy them from Bolt's they are consumed by the purchaser and secondary buyers. Bolt pumpkins are consumed in Charlevoix and across the country from Texas to Illinois to Indiana.

Pumpkins range anywhere from $1 to $10 depending on size. Cindy said their prices are so reasonable because they harvest so many.

So that's the principal of production and consumption alive and well in Charlevoix. Get a first hand look for yourself by visiting or organizing a group outing. To get there take US-31 South and turn left on Atwood Road which is 200 yards past the Friske Market.

Groups of 50 are the maximum the Bolt Farm can accommodate.

Julie Witthoeft is the staff writer for the Charlevoix Courier. She can be contacted by calling 547-6558 or e-mailing charlevoix-courier@charlevoixcourier.com.

Charlevoix officer called to duty

By JULIE WITTHOFT
Staff Writer

Many local servicemen have been called to duty following the attacks on America that occurred Sept. 11 including two Charlevoix city policemen.

Jim Schlappi

"I didn't hear anyone complaining down there (at Camp Grayling.) In my section, we are from throughout the state. Everyone showed up and jumped into what their job was," city policeman and National Guardsman Jim Schlappi, 35, said.

On the morning of Sept. 11, Schlappi was starting up his computer to check his e-mail before he went to work.

He passed through Yahoo's home page and caught a blurb on the banner that said a plane had crashed through one of the World Trade Center's twin towers in New York City.

After hearing the news Schlappi made his way to the station, located on the main floor of Charlevoix's city hall. When he arrived at work the TV was on and he watched as the second plane slammed into the second tower at the World Trade Center.

As the day progressed and talk of terrorism filled every home and business in the nation Schlappi knew he would be called to duty.

He said he was planning on getting a haircut that afternoon so he headed for the barber.

"I told the barber to cut it short because I knew I would be activated," Schlappi said.

Around 8:30 p.m. that night Schlappi's phone rang and he was told that he had been officially activated by the State of Michigan. He was instructed to report to Camp Grayling by 8 a.m. the next morning.

He contacted a friend to take care

"This is just part of the job."

Officer Jim Schlappi, on his call-up to the National Guard of his dog and to check in on his house, packed up about a week of clean clothes, jumped in his truck and headed south.

Schlappi said the last minute notice was inconvenient, but he didn't mind.

"This is just part of the job," he said.

This wasn't the first time he had been called to duty. Schlappi was on active duty with the Army from 1986 to 1990. In 1986 when Libya was bombed, he was completing basic training. Then, in 1991 he was called from the inactive reserve for Desert Storm.

In January of this year he re-enlisted in the National Guard, a one year commitment. Schlappi said he planned to re-enlist during last weekend's drill sessions at Camp Grayling.

He was able to return to Charlevoix Sept. 30.

Schlappi said he couldn't divulge information related to the orders he was given.

WATCH to have hearing on marina expansion

By JULIE WITTHOFT
Staff Writer

Members of Water and Air Team Charlevoix (WATCH) are hosting a community forum to discuss marina renovations at 7 p.m. Oct. 29 in Charlevoix city council's chambers at city hall.

Former WATCH president Jerry Puhl addressed council at their Oct. 15 meeting about the environmental organization's concerns.

Before Puhl addressed council, mayor Alvin "Butch" Russell stressed to those in attendance that the city currently has no set plans for the marina project.

Puhl said that WATCH and other environmental organizations are concerned about the environmental impact if the marina is extended 400 feet into Round Lake.

He also mentioned concerns about the disruption of the serenity and beauty of Round Lake.

Puhl explained that in a Lake Charlevoix study conducted by WATCH, over 400 people were surveyed, the majority of whom said that they most often used the local lakes for viewing.

"A marina of this size (the size shown in blueprints available at city hall) will decimate what people come here for. We (WATCH) hope when this does come before council you vote to scale it down from the proposed size," he said.

Puhl was followed by vice president of WATCH, Nancy Ferguson.

Ferguson said that there were many areas of the current proposal that the city and WATCH agree on. These include: straightening the break wall, installing floating docks, upgrading showers and lavatories, updating the pump out station and adding shopper's docks.

But like Puhl, Ferguson does not support a large expansion.

Ferguson said, "It's important that we don't pave paradise with boat slips and put up a boat parking lot."

She suggested that the city invite representatives from city council, from the Michigan Department of Environmental Quality, from the Army Corps of Engineers and from United Design Associates, the company that laid out the marina layout, to the forum Oct. 29.

No members of council confirmed that they would attend.

Russell said that he would probably not attend, but that the concerns WATCH brought to the meeting were the same concerns all members of council have been hearing "from everybody."

"Council will be the determining factor of what is put down there. My position is to replace what is there with floating docks and I don't have a problem at all with a small extension," Russell said.

City manager Mike Wiesner said he too will most likely not attend the forum.

"I still see the city holding a public meeting at a later date. The information WATCH gathers in the meantime will be factored into that meeting. I think they have a positive approach," Wiesner said.

HEALTH

What to do when a loved one has hearing loss

Marlene Bevan, Ph.D.

'Your health'

As an audiologist specializing in hearing aid fitting, often, I work with couples whose relationship is under stress due to the friction caused by untreated hearing loss.

Hearing loss affects communication and poor communication is at the root of many relationship problems. It can be helpful to understand what happens when someone you love begins to lose his or her hearing.

ANGER: People with hearing loss may feel angry. Hearing only part of what is said, they are often left out of discussions with family members and friends. They rely on their spouse to "interpret" what is being said and if that is not successful, they withdraw in isolation. Your loved one may direct that anger at you because of an untreated hearing loss that excludes them from the conversation.

When you are interpreting for someone with hearing loss, rephrase what is being said. Although there is a natural tendency to speak louder, hearing loss may make loud voices sound uncomfortable and distorted.

WITHDRAWAL: When repeatedly frustrated in social settings, your loved one may withdraw from gatherings of family and friends. The bonds of friendship supporting your relationship may be rejected if your loved one is embarrassed by the inability to follow conversation. Untreated hearing loss may force an individual to withdraw from social settings.

Honesty with friends and family members may help get you through the tough time before you find help.

Acknowledge the hearing problem and ask people to speak directly and slow the conversation down by asking questions to clarify what you hear.

BAD TEMPER: A patient's wife recently summed this point up best when she said, "He's simply becoming an old crab!" It's no fun to spend the evening alone while watching, not hearing your friends and family enjoy one another's company. This becomes a constant reminder of the effects of untreated hearing loss.

GET HELP AND FACE THE PROBLEM TOGETHER: Don't just watch while your loved one retreats into the invisible huddle of hearing loss. Start a dialogue about how you can help. Improve your communication skills and help the one you love to improve their listening abilities.

LEARN ABOUT HEARING LOSS: Make an appointment to have your hearing evaluated by an audiologist. The reasons for the communication problems you experience are found by understanding your hearing problem and working to overcome its effects.

Bring a partner, spouse, sibling or your adult child to this appointment. Hearing loss is not only about getting the right message; it's about getting the right message through! Both of you should be at this appointment to understand the problem and explore the solutions together.

LEARN SPECIAL SPEECH TECHNIQUES: The speaker can improve the situation, when they follow certain guidelines for successful communication.

1) Attract the listener's attention. Often if you alert your loved one to a message, the chances they will understand it are dramatically improved. And by getting eye contact they can benefit from speech reading cues to clarify what they hear.

2) Speak slowly not loudly. The individual with a hearing loss often loses the ability to process rapidly, but extra volume only distorts the message and makes it more difficult to understand.

3) Seek a quiet place to communicate. Even with normal hearing, we may have trouble understanding in noise. At a restaurant find a table away from the noise to help create an environment favorable for conversation.

GET THE APPROPRIATE HELP: Often people with hearing loss convince themselves that, "I can get by." But recent studies by the National Council on Aging (NCOA) point to a significant loss of life quality reported by those with untreated hearing loss.

Although hearing loss due to nerve damage cannot be corrected, in most cases, hearing aids can improve your ability to stay involved in group conversation, participate in a family get together and enjoy, once more, the time you spend with loved ones. And most importantly, hearing aids tell those you love that you are taking positive action to overcome the effects of hearing loss.

HEARING LOSS IS ONLY ONE OF A LIFETIME OF CHALLENGES. Let those you love know that you will seek the help you need.

1) Get a hearing test.
2) If appropriate, seek medical assistance for the treatment of reversible hearing loss.

3) If hearing loss is permanent, evaluate the benefit of hearing aids on your ability to stay in touch with those you love and those who love you!

Commission expected to approve the new zoning HAYES

"They are really looking for assisted living buffered by commercial uses," Knepp explained.

Knepp said Lange is looking to cluster commercial stores that are not currently found on the north side of the bridge. She mentioned a drug store and storage units specifically. These stores would have buffered the assisted living complex.

Hayes Township Supervisor, Tim Boyko, said the change to commercial made sense and the planning commission recommended it be approved. But, the high density residential request violated the township's master plan which prompted the commission to reject the request.

The minutes from the planning commission meeting that took place Sept. 18 explained, "Hayes Township has indicated that this property may be best zoned commercial because it isn't an appropriate area for residential because of the gun club located to the east."

Other reasons the minutes list for not recommending the R-4 residential designation be approved include: the change would have created spot zoning, granting Lange a special privilege that is not available to others, and the change is not consistent with the purposes for which zoning is adopted.

Knepp said that housing could still be located at the site. If Lange is granted a special use permit he could apply for single family housing use.

Knepp said it was discussed at the Sept. 18 planning commission meeting when votes were cast that Lange would reapply for all the property to be commercial. She added that this application has since been submitted.

The Hayes Township Planning Commission Master Plan has been revised over the last couple of years. Boyko referred to the plan as "a real fresh document."

He said the plan reflects the desires of the community and a readable document that outlines the results of many meetings, surveys and public input sessions.

Rayders lose to Boyne

By ALLEN TELGENHOF
Sports writer

Four turnovers may have cost Charlevoix a chance at its second straight Lake Michigan Conference championship before a packed house at Kipke Field. Three Rayder fumbles and an interception helped Boyne City to a 27-8 win last Friday night.

"The big difference in the game were the big plays," Charlevoix coach Todd Klinger said. "When we needed the big play, we didn't do it. Whether it was the turnovers or not making key tackles in a situation, we didn't make the big plays and they did."

The victory gave the Ramblers a 5-0 conference mark with one game left to play against Traverse City St. Francis who is 4-1 in the league. Charlevoix completed its conference schedule with a 5-1 mark. The loss snapped a five-game winning streak.

Early on it looked like it might be the Rayders' night as they took the opening kickoff and marched all the way down to the Boyne City five-yard line before a fumble spoiled their first scoring chance.

The defense forced a three-and-out from Boyne. The ensuing punt gave the Rayders great field position at the 50-yard line. On the next play though, a Rambler interception spoiled another Charlevoix opportunity.

Boyne then marched 55 yards, capped by a one yard run to a touchdown with 5:39 left in the first quarter. The extra point attempt was good and the Ramblers led 7-0.

Charlevoix responded with a drive of its own, punching the ball in on a 34-yard run by Jeff Urban. The Rayders' extra point kick failed and the lead was 7-6 Boyne.

Early in the second quarter, another Rayder drive was stopped at the Rambler 21-yard line by yet another Charlevoix fumble.

Boyne City drove to midfield where a sack by Kyle Dobrolowski forced a fumble, which was recovered by Charlevoix's Matt Kilkenny. The Rayders were unable to convert, however, and the teams exchanged punts as the first half ended.

The three first half turnovers left Charlevoix trailing only 7-6, but three drives inside Boyne City's 30-yard line netted only six points.

The Ramblers took a page from the Charlevoix play book, leading off the first half with a drive to the Rayder 25 where they turned the ball over on

Golf team finishes fifth in regional

The Charlevoix Rayders golf team ended its year with a fifth place finish at the Division III regional last week in Grayling.

However, David Shearer and Jordan Nystrom both scored well enough to send them to the state finals in individual competition. Shearer scored an 80 and Nystrom scored an 81.

They were both also named to the All Regional Team.

"Nystrom had his best day of the year," coach Jim Glynn said. Glynn added the team's overall fifth place finish was disappointing, especially for seniors Allen Brooks and Nick Cole. He added they had a fine career in golf at Charlevoix High School.

Charlevoix scored a 343 overall. Grayling finished first with a 336.

Other individual scores were: Brooks with a 91, Cole with a 91 and York Smith with a 98.

The state finals will be Oct. 19 and 20 at the Eldorado Golf Club in Lansing.

Strong winds, threatening skies cut the fleet

'Yachting
notes'

The Charlevoix Yacht Club Fall Series, Fifth Race, Oct. 10, was sailed on yet another of this year's unusually dismal Wednesday evenings.

A strong wind accompanied by threatening skies cut the starting fleet to only 10 contestants. At 7:03:30 the J-22 HUSSY was, once again, first across the finish line with SWINE FLEW just three seconds back. SUPERFLUOUS and HOG-TIDE followed.

In Spinnaker 1, GOTCHA trailed WINDRUNNER across the line by 31 seconds but took the honors by nearly 5 minutes on corrected time. A bit later ORIGINAL SIN led the P-26 Fleet across the line, only 2 seconds ahead of CYGNUS. Crossing about one minute later was ARTEMIS. In JAM RED HOT was first, last and only!

As we go into the Final Race of the Fall Series, the standings, net of the one drop allowed in this Series: Spinnaker 1: HOI POLLOI 6, WINDRUNNER 13, GOTCHA 16, HOOTIE 19, SLAPSHOT 22 and LOCO MOTION 24.

P-26: CYGNUS 5, ORIGINAL SIN 8 and ARTEMIS 9. JAM: RED HOT 8, CRAZY HORSE 10 and BLASEN IV 11. J-22: HUSSY 5, H S MOISTURE MISSILE 6.67, SWINE FLEW 10, SUPERFLU-OUS 11, HOG-TIDE 21, EAU DE VIE 27, FIRST DATE 30 and BANZAI 31.

Charlevoix Yacht Club Couples' Race on Round Lake at 1 p.m., Sunday, Oct. 21. Some extra J-22's may be available. Call Pam Barnes, 547-5137.

Charlevoix Yacht Club Ladies' Race on Round Lake at 1 p.m., Sunday, Oct. 28. Some extra J-22's may be available. Call Valerie Snyder, 547-2122.

Nautical Trivia 1: Ancient Greek sailors, like us before sonar depth sounders, used a line (weighted, of course) to determine depth. They are credited with the measurement "fathom" - what established it as being about six feet?

Silly Trivia 2: We all know that pirates wore earrings but do you know how much it cost a pirate to have his ears pierced? E-mail your best guess on either or both to joshb@chartermi.net.

Yachting Notes is submitted each week during the "warm" months by the Charlevoix Yacht Club. To contact the club, see its website at www.charlevoixyachtclub.org or call 547-9170.

Rayders' soccer team beats Forest Area

With the Conference Finals and the districts around the corner, the Rayder Soccer team continued to improve with a 6-0 win against Forest Area Wednesday night at Kipke Field bringing their record to 8-8.

John DiMartino got things going early on an assist off of Roscoe Serrels chest. DiMartino then made it 2-0 on a nice cross from Serrels. Scott Friske got on the board with a header from Travis Smith to round out the first half scoring.

In the second half, the Rayders continued to pressure the Forest Area defense, by picking up goals from Spencer Bryan, Shawn McDonough and Smith, with assists coming from Friske, McDonough and Bryan. Colin Seguin led the defense along with Ezra Bakker, Bryce Daly and Mike Dupuis. Kyle Tilly had another shutout in goal.

The Rayders traveled Tuesday to Houghton Lake for their Conference (results not available at press time) and play Boyne City on Wednesday.

They open district play on next Tuesday against Elk Rapids at 7 p.m. at Kipke Field

Cross country team takes first

The girls' cross country team placed first in Division III and IV Oct. 13 at the Reese Invitational.

The team scored 45 points. According to coach Mary Plude, the team is dropping their times overall.

"Nataschia Klieber and Theresa Martin ran exceptionally well," she said. "Liz Ulrich really stepped up her racing. She ran almost the entire race alone."

Individually, first place was taken by Katie Kelly, who is ranked eighth in the state.

Other individual finishes were: Ulrich in second, Katie Swenor in third, Brenna Bergmann in eleventh, Klieber in thirteenth, Martin in sixteenth, Michelle Rowe in twenty-sixth and Elisabeth Madison in twenty-seventh.

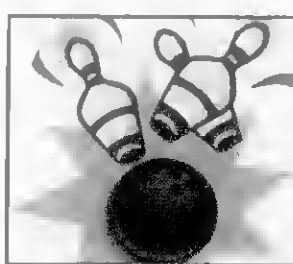

Individual results of the junior varsity team were: Sonya Plude in thirteenth, Betsy Tebeau in twenty-fifth, Taryn Drost in twenty-sixth, Jayne Murray in twenty-seventh, Britni Simonti in thirtieth, Lauren Silberhoen in thirty-seventh, Annakate Trublowicz in forty-fifth, Kelly Way in forty-ninth, Steph Dickinson in fiftieth, Sammy Jo Keie in fifty-fifth, Anne Strawbridge in fifty-sixth, Gaby Dhaseeler in fifty-eighth, Mallory Mahoney in sixty-first and Brittany Simonti in sixty-second.

LEGAL NOTICE 210

NOTICE OF MORTGAGE SALE

Default having been made in the conditions of a certain Mortgage made by LORNA J. HORN, whose address is 925 Second Street, Boyne City, Michigan 49712 to THE UNITED STATES OF AMERICA, acting through the United States Department of Agriculture, Rural Development, with its District Office being located at 1501 Cass Street, Suite A, Traverse City, Michigan 49684, the Mortgagee, such Mortgage being dated February 23, 1990 and recorded in the office of the Register of Deeds for the County of Charlevoix and State of Michigan on February 26, 1990 in Liber 215 of Charlevoix County Records on Pages 437 through 440, inclusive, and by reason of such default the Mortgagee elects to declare the entire unpaid amount of such Mortgage due and payable forthwith, on which Mortgage there is claimed to be due at the date of this notice, for principal and interest, the sum of SIXTY-THREE THOUSAND TWO HUNDRED FOUR AND 32/100 ($68,204.32) DOLLARS, and no proceedings having been instituted to recover the debt now remaining secured by said Mortgage, or any part thereof, whereby the power of sale contained in said Mortgage has become operative;

Now Therefore, Notice is Hereby Given that by virtue of the power of sale contained in said Mortgage and in pursuance of the statute in such case made and provided, said Mortgage will be foreclosed by a sale of the premises therein described or so much thereof as may be necessary, at public auction, to the highest bidder, at the front lobby of the Charlevoix County Building located at 301 State Street in the City of Charlevoix and County of Charlevoix, Michigan, that being the place of holding the Circuit Court in and for said County, on Thursday November 15, 2001 at 11:00 o'clock local time, in the forenoon of said day, and said premises will be sold to pay the amount so as foreclosed then due on said Mortgage together with 8.75 percent interest on such Mortgage, legal costs, attorneys' fees and also any taxes and insurance that said Mortgagee does pay on or prior to the date of said sale; which said premises are described in said Mortgage as follows, to wit:

Lands and premises situated in the City of Boyne City, County of Charlevoix, and State of Michigan: Lots 71 and 74 of CALBERT'S ADDITION to the Village of South Boyne, now City of Boyne City, according to the recorded plat thereof. (Also commonly known as 925 Second Street, Boyne City, Michigan 49712; Tax Code Nos. 15-51-479-071-00 and 15-51-479-074-00.)

The redemption period shall be six (6) months from the date of sale unless the property is abandoned in which case the redemption period shall be thirty (30) days from the date of sale. This is an attempt to collect a debt. Any information obtained will be used for that purpose.

For further information with regard to this foreclosure contact the Community Development Manager at the local office of Rural Development, 7192 E. 34 Road, Cadillac, Michigan 49601, telephone (231)775-7681.

CAPTURES BOOZE RUNNERS

SHERIFF WEAVER SCORES A BULLS EYE

Tools of Toledo Hooch Ring Working Resorts Arrested Last Week

Clever cooperation between the sheriff and one of his deputies resulted in the capture last week of a gang of boot-leggers who, developments show, have been operating in this territory for some length of time.

Late Tuesday afternoon, Sheriff Weaver was advised over the telephone by Deputy Henry Cook of East Jordan, that a Studebaker car with four passengers had just left East Jordan headed towards Charlevoix and that these people had been tipped off to him as members of the bootlegging fraternity. The sheriff thus warned went at once to the Belvedere station and took up his position where the car must pass entering town. Shortly, along came a Studebaker touring car with a man and three women answering to the description given by Deputy Sheriff Cook. Mr. Weaver let them pass and getting into his own car trailed them down onto Bridge Street. Crossing the bridge, the strangers were hitting a pretty fast clip and this, later, gave the sheriff the excuse he needed for "roping" them in.

The suspected party pulled up to the curb on Bridge Street and the man got out and walked up the length of the street and came back again, said something to one of the women, who took the wheel started the car and under the sheriff's watchful eye drove up Park Avenue to State Street. Right here is where the sheriff lost track of the man in the case. He couldn't watch both the car with the women and the evidence and the man at the same time. So he followed the car and when it turned off State onto Mason he stopped it in front of the Ed Ward home and told the occupants that they were under arrest for speeding. The sheriff took advantage of their momentary surprise to lay hold of a suspicious looking suitcase and found 13 quarts of booze with Canadian labels, which afterwards proved to be just ordinary moonshine sailing under false colors.

After he has locked the women up, the sheriff hurried back to Bridge Street with a forlorn hope that he might find the man in the case, but the latter had disappeared. His escape was regrettable but the sheriff really "had nothing on" the party until the discovery of the contraband liquor. At any rate, he had corralled the evidence and most of the culprits.

Returning to the jail, the sheriff questioned the women and found that his unwilling boarders were Mrs. Charlette Dorkey, 47, with 10 children living at River Rouge; Miss Madeline Dillibaugh of Cleveland, Ohio, 20, who had accompanied the party from Detroit as an accomplice and Miss Mary J. Foltz, of Columbus, Wis., 22.

Miss Foltz, it developed, was the innocent victim of circumstances. She had been working at the hotel in Harbor Springs where the party had stopped and upon the closing of the hotel for the season had been invited by Mrs. Dorkey and her federates to take a little trip with them; an invitation which she unsuspectingly accepted, knowing nothing of their character or business. The sheriff, of course, was constrained to hold her as a witness awaiting the arrival of the federal authorities.

The man who got away, according to Mrs. Dorkey's confession, was Ernest Feeblekorn of Detroit better known as "Dutch." He and Mrs. Dorkey it appears, had been peddling "hooch" for four months throughout the resort region, using Detroit as a base of supplies and making Harbor Springs, Mackinac Island, Charlevoix and other northern Michigan points on regular runs. When arrested the women had given Harbor Springs as their place of residence.

The car that the party was driving, a seven passenger Studebaker, was found on examination to have a false bottom, seven inches deep that extended the entire length of the body, under the floor. Nothing was found in this secret compartment, however, except some paper and other rubbish. A car, similarly equipped was picked up in Grand Rapids some time ago and it looks as though the boot-legging profession were trying to introduce a new model of business car which might be styled the "Bootleggers' Special."

Sheriff Weaver looked up the license number of the car and found that it had been applied for by one, Oscar Sidebotham of Toledo who further investigation and questioning of the party disclosed is an illicit liquor trafficker in a large scale, and the employer of Mrs. Dorkey, Miss Dillibaugh and "Dutch" Feeblekorn, who operated under his instructions. The license on the car the records show was issued for a Ford car, not a Studebaker.

The prisoners were held until Friday morning when US Marshall Andrew Dow and Fred Cronenwett, head of the western Michigan prohibition organization, arrived and drove the "moonshine" car, prisoners, booze and all through to Grand Rapids, where they will be brought before the federal authorities. Sidebotham, it is likely, will be involved and possibly convicted on the confession of his agents and it is now up to the government sleuths to locate Feeblekorn who it is thought made his way back to Detroit.

a fumble. But two plays later, Charlevoix fumbled the ball right back to Boyne.

Minutes later, a touchdown on a quarterback keeper and extra point kick put the Ramblers up 14-6.

The Rayders wouldn't quit though and answered with a drive of their own. A 12 play drive was keyed by a 29-yard pass from Nate Teuscher to Keith Daly to the Boyne 15. But Charlevoix couldn't convert a first and goal from the five-yard line. Teuscher's fourth and two pass fell incomplete in the end zone and Boyne took over on downs.

Linebacker Chris Loper plowed over a Boyne City player in the end zone on the next play though for a safety which cut the lead to 14-8.

Charlevoix couldn't get anything going after the Rambler free kick, though, and shanked a punt to Boyne at its own 42-yard line late in the third quarter.

Boyne drove systematically once again deep into Charlevoix territory. A long run took the Ramblers to the Rayder five where Boyne City fumbled. Briefly it looked like the Rayders might get the ball back for a chance at a game tying drive, but Boyne recovered its own miscue.

On the next play the Ramblers scored again and converted the extra point to open up a 21-8 advantage with 11:35 to go.

The Rayders were stopped on their next drive when a fake punt on fourth down came up just short when Teuscher passed for seven yards to Ryan Rafacz on fourth and nine.

Boyne's subsequent drive ended in another touchdown for the final 27-8 count.

As he's done all season long, sophomore Urban led the Rayder rushing attack with 100 yards on 23 carries. Teuscher was 13 for 21 in the air for 160 yards. Keith Daly caught four passes for 68 yards and Rafacz caught six for 37.

Defensively, Nick Schwein and Rob Boss each had eight tackles.

The Rayders close their season on the road against Suttons Bay (6-2)

Officials find written threats made by students

THREATS

"The bottom line is no one ignores it. The school is acting appropriately with regards to those involved," Halverson said. "It (violence and threats of violence) interferes with the education environment. You have to let students know this is not appropriate behavior."

Halverson also said that the behavior is not that unusual in the school setting.

"It doesn't happen every day, but it isn't an unheard of chain of events," he explained.

Halverson said the school reacts to violence and threats of violence in many ways including — proactive programs, meetings with the students, parents and meetings with the students themselves.

"We can't afford to ignore this. There have to be steps taken to make sure their (the students') environment is free of violence and threats of violence," he said.

Court costs over $160,000

By JULIE WITTHOFT
Staff Writer

Three lawsuits that followed the Charlevoix School District's new Charlevoix High School building project in Marion Township have cost the district over $160,000.

"No one wants to whisk away $160,000. I think that's a lot of money and it could have been used in other areas in the district," Superintendent of Charlevoix Public Schools, Dr. John Strock said.

Two of the three lawsuits were brought against the district by the Charlevoix Area Natural Resources

"The financial loss to the school is their own doing, they should have been smart in the beginning and they would have saved themselves the cost."

Kenneth Richard Tunison,
On the school's lawsuit costs

Preservation Association (CANRPA) and the third was issued by five private Marion Township residents. All three were in some way opposed to the district's new high school building project.

The school's insurance agency has picked up a great deal of the costs associated with the three lawsuit's, but the $160,000 is the remaining amount that has come out of the school's general fund.

Strock explained that the general fund is where all tax revenue goes and it is used to pay for the operation of the school district. He said district operation includes needs in the buildings, buses, teachers' salaries and "all the things that we do."

He said that legal expertise that costs $160,000 is not something the district generally budgets for and there were places where cuts had to be made to accommodate for the unforeseen cost.

The district does, however, budget around $10,000 for legal costs generally used for something like preparing ballot language for school board elections.

City candidates discuss issues

By JULIE WITTHOFT
Staff Writer

A "meet the candidates" question and answer session at Charlevoix's city hall last week proved the race for first, second and third ward city council seats is in full stride.

Voters in each of the city's three wards have 13 days to choose which candidate they feel will best serve Charlevoix for the next two years. The election will take place from 7 a.m. to 8 p.m., Nov. 6 at city hall.

Candidates responded to questions about tough issues at the recent public forum sponsored by the League of Women Voters which may help make your choice clear. Issues that were addressed at the forum include: The expansion of the municipal marina, traffic problems, the city snowmobile ordinance, downtown businesses and the possibility of a convention center coming to town.

A look into the race for the first ward seat reveals incumbent Norman "Boogie" Carlson currently running alone. Those interested in competing for the seat should speak with city clerk Liz Gooch before 4 p.m. Oct. 26 at city hall.

Park/marina meeting schedule presented

By JULIE WITTHOFT
Staff Writer

The first step in the planning process for renovations to the city of Charlevoix's East Park is right around the corner.

At a special joint meeting Monday, Charlevoix's City Council and the Downtown Development Authority (DDA) accepted a proposed timeline for how renovations of both the park and marina will progress.

The planning process for renovations to the park and the municipal marina will be broken into three phases: phase one for the shore side, phase two for the water and phase three will integrate the two into one plan.

All the members of both council and the DDA, with the exception of second ward councilman Gabe Campbell, supported the progression plan.

Campbell wanted phase two, "the marina planning process" to be eliminated entirely.

City buying special manhole covers

By JULIE WITTHOEFT
Staff Writer

New manhole covers featuring the local motto, "Charlevoix the Beautiful," a scene of the Michigan Beach pier and a sailboat cruising through the Pine River Channel, will soon decorate city streets.

City of Charlevoix Street Superintendent John Martin said that this is just another touch that makes Charlevoix unique.

"The old covers have been there for years and years. We'll stock those which we replace in case the old covers break. We can't get the old covers anymore so we'll recycle these, they get busted from time to time," Martin said.

Martin explained that manhole covers cap sewer and storm sewer systems to ensure passerby's aren't injured.

The covers will be installed as construction efforts in the city progress. Belvedere, Dixon and Michigan avenues will be the first streets to get the new covers.

Martin said manhole covers are put in as the streets are resurfaced. After the base coat of asphalt is applied the plate is installed. Then as the resurfacing is completed the cover is adjusted and the rings and fasteners are put.

However, the new covers won't be revealed until just prior to the finishing coat of asphalt is spread.

He added that the East Jordan Iron Works approached the city with the idea of personalized covers some time ago. The company then came up with the design of what Martin referred to as the classic cover.

The Iron Works has produced similar classic covers for East Jordan, Boyne City and Battle Creek.

Martin said they are the same cost as the old covers. But the city had to pay a plate charge for the new covers to be made from.

Neither Martin or Rick Brandt, Charlevoix City Treasurer, could not find what the plate charge was.

Nate Jason, public relations of East Jordan Iron Works, would not divulge the plate charge. He said the cost was confidential between the company and the city.

Martin said the city pays in the neighborhood of $115 for each cover, not counting the plate charge, whether it is the new classic or standard.

The contractors working the street resurfacing jobs are in charge of installing the new covers.

A great idea for a Halloween costume

Jeremy McBain

'Just a thought'

I love this time of the year. It is a time when we get to enjoy the harvest and dress up like spooky characters for Halloween, one of my favorite holidays. Halloween is an ancient Celtic holiday with Irish roots before Christianity. Traditionally, this is the time of the year when the veil between the living and the dead is at its thinnest. Ancient Celts would celebrate this, but in order to keep themselves from being possessed by the ghouls of the night, they would dress up like them. The ghouls, not knowing who the real living was, would leave the Celts alone, according to legend. This tradition has been passed down from generation to generation to create the holiday we all know today as Halloween, a day when we wear costumes in the name of fun. Keeping this in mind, I carefully try to select my Halloween costume each year. If there is one thing I do not want, it is to be possessed by some scary spirit. So, the question every year is: What scares me the most this year? Vampire? Beec done. Werewolf? Too hairy. Frankenstein monster? Too campy. Zombie? Reminds me of myself without coffee. So, what could it be this year? I pondered this thought well into early this week, that is until I had an idea given to me by my reporter Julie Witthoef. She was talking with me about how the city needs more money to help pay for the many capital projects taking place right now. On top of that, the Downtown Development Authority — and the chamber of commerce — are spending up to $30,000 on a study to determine if we need a convention center in Charlevoix. Added to this, the city is spending countless dollars on neat little manhole covers that have an engraving of the lighthouse and the words "Charlevoix the Beautiful." I guess normal manhole covers are not enough for our city. I shuddered at the thought of all this taxpayer money being spent. I mean, here they are spending tons of money on basically frosting for the city of Charlevoix. Do we really need our own special manhole covers? It made me mad to think of how much the city has spent this year and how it has had to borrow from its own funds to pay for projects which have gone over budget. Sure, borrowing from a city fund is better than getting a bond, but still, do we really want to be doing this? And sure, all these capital projects just kind of hit at the same time, but did we get a little over our heads here?

In the meantime, I found myself writing a story about how the city does not have a property maintenance code or fire code, but it does have a nuisance code to keep the lawns looking nice. Let's keep that frosting looking good, even if the cake is dangerous. In this story, we discover that the city fire department cannot afford to hire another full time person to handle all the inspections that they would have to do with a fire code. However, in this same edition, we tell our readers how $30,000 is going to be spent on a study. Let me say that again: "...$30,000 is going to be spent on a study." Scary to think that this is where our local government's priorities are. That was the point when I realized I had found out what scares me this year: Government spending on frosting. Maybe a costume like this could keep those spending demons from possessing my body and turning me into a grant-loving tax-spending politician.

But, how do I represent that in a Halloween costume? Perhaps a big dollar sign with frosting on it? Maybe a costume that looks like the city budget? Or even better, a giant manhole cover! Whatever the costume looks like, I am sure it will send shivers down the spines of every taxpayer I run into on Halloween. *Jeremy McBain is the editor of the Charlevoix Courier. Trash may have a life of its own

Trash would appear to have a life of its own that we are not familiar with. The dark corners of the garage are involved in harboring more than spiders; they are the habitat for a set of trash creatures yet to be discovered and investigated by the biological researchers of the Twenty-first century. I have not yet been able to watch for a single whole night, but I am pretty sure there is more stuff in the garage each morning than there was in it the night before.

It would appear that the trash creatures reproducing in all the corners of our world are no danger to us individually. They just go about their business of making more of themselves. I suspect that they are a danger to us collectively, since we may finally be overwhelmed by the amount of stuff that has to be discarded. And I am more than a little worried about what they may be doing in the landfills where it is dark and resources are abundant. I hope I am wrong, but how else can we explain the superabundant trash that requires ever larger places for its care and keeping?

Article response

Editor: This is in response to Fr. Jim Gunn's Beacons of Blessings article in last week's paper regarding Halloween. I am aware that "many Christian leaders" have "discouraged" Halloween over the years and have listened with emotions varying from confusion, dismay, to outright disgust on the reasons for banning this holiday. In this case my feelings would be confusion. How does Halloween directly correlate with the Sept. 11 attacks on our nation? Will making our children forgo an evening of fun and fantasy change what happened to the victims of the terrorist attack? It seems the opposite to me: If we all stay home and refuse to celebrate holidays (secular or religious), living in a state of fear as to what might be, then the terrorists have won. They have succeeded.

Fr. Gunn suggests an "alternative" Halloween. A Halloween without trick-or-treating, candy or going out. Instead, we — and our children — should stay indoors and spend the evening remembering Saints and the heroes who have been involved with the recovery efforts. This sounds more like a memorial.

There is an event scheduled that will allow our children their childhood (fun) and still recognize and help the recovery and relief efforts in New York. On Oct. 31 the Spenceley's are having their annual Haunted House on May Street in Charlevoix. Along with Halloween fun, they will also be collecting donations for the relief funds.

As for the "evil" mentioned in celebrating Halloween, I believe that "naked evil" does not need a particular day to work with. The evil that killed so many innocent people here did not fall on any particular day, just a normal September workday morning. Why look for evil where it does not exist? Why add unnecessary fear?

Our president has asked us to continue on with our lives, to not let these terrorists thwart our way of living. If before Sept. 11 you were opposed to trick or treating, fine. Don't turn on your porch light and find whatever alternative works for you and your family. However, if you and your family have traditionally participated in dressing up and trick or treating, please continue to do so! Stop by Spenceley's Haunted House and make a donation.

I do not understand how not enjoying this evening will change the horrific events of Sept. 11. As an aside: Fr. Gunn states that Halloween has "pretty well been separated from its Christian roots." Halloween's roots are pre-Christian. Anne Russell Charlevoix

The question of affordable housing

Editor: My question is, "What makes you think the current city council wants to do anything at all about the current shortage of affordable housing?" As it is, Charlevoix is in a win/win situation. If I am not mistaken, summer time residential homes that are not primary residences pay more in property taxes than do homes owned by the locals. If the city council can continue to provide the conditions needed to drive up the prices on homes beyond what the locals can afford, then only people from out of town can purchase them.

That means more money for the city. Why would the esteemed City Council want to change anything? Heck, they need the extra money to pay for their own special agendas. Why do you think they want to build more docks for more boats? If they can get more tourists here to look at their town, get them to fall in love with Charlevoix and purchase a second home here, that means less wear and tear on the sewer, power and water systems and means more money to the city in taxes.

The solution is simple: Eject Mike Weisner and his lackeys off of the city council and build low income apartments that only local people can purchase. Not rent. That's the problem. If you have people with lower incomes purchase apartments that go for $50,000 to $80,000, 10 years down the road they will have enough money in equity to put a down payment on a $120,000 house. And don't tell me it can't be done because if the city council is willing to spend $1,000,000-plus to destroy a building, they have the money to do this.

I ask you now, do you think that the city will do this for the "undesirables?" I think not. Kyle Sitzema Ellsworth

Close lunch

Editor: I would like to know if the Charlevoix School Board is planning to have the new Charlevoix High School campus "closed." When the students come in the morning, will they stay at the school site until their classes are dismissed at the end of the day? I am very concerned about the traffic on Marion Center Road and with the time the students will have for lunch and the distance "running their cars into town for lunch" seems to be a very dangerous situation.

Please consider this request as you make policies for the student body for the new school. I also think it would be a great idea if the middle school had the same policy.

Audrey Lehman Charlevoix (Editor's note: While the school board has not officially discussed this matter, Charlevoix High School principal Gary Grundman said he would recommend closing the campus at lunch.)

Where Is It?

Tell us where in the Charlevoix Area you think this is.

In an effort to add a little more fun to our lives and yours, the Charlevoix Courier is working on creating interactive areas of the newspaper for our readers. In the spirit of this, we are announcing the creation of a new contest called, "Where is it?"

Each week, the Charlevoix Courier will publish a picture of some item on a local landmark or building. We invite our readers to send in their guesses on where this picture was taken.

The names of each week's correct guesses will be entered into a drawing for $100⁰⁰ that will take place on December 31, 2001.

Where does trash come from?

Roger Knutson

'Ear to the ground'

On my daily morning walk to pick up a newspaper, Tuesdays are more interesting than other days. On Tuesday morning the streets of Charlevoix are lined with all the discards of the previous week. Colorful plastic trash bags are only the beginning. Piles of stuff that people no longer want or need accompany what might be called traditional garbage. The amount of stuff we discard each week is enormous. Some small part of it is informally recycled. If I leave anything potentially useful by the side of the street on Monday, chances are it will have disappeared before the usual collection truck appears Tuesday. And, of course, it is possible and certainly worthwhile to formally recycle paper, glass and plastic. The amount to be hauled to the landfill each week is still immense. Some years ago I read a short story in which an intrepid investigator was able to finally explain why drawers seemed to be regularly filled with paper clips, closets with wire hangers and corners of vacant lots with rusted bicycle frames. His investigation revealed that paper clips in the dark, closed drawers of desks were spontaneously generated from dust and their own energy and that when enough paper clips had developed, they inched their way out of the desk drawers and across the floors. We have seen them partway in their journey, laying on the floor where we know we haven't put them. Arriving in the dark corners of closets, the paper clips pulled themselves together, much like some sorts of primitive organisms do and formed wire coat hangers. The investigator was able to verify that both paper clips and wire coat hangers shared the same metallic substances. The coat hangers escaped out of doors (we have all occasionally seen them out there,) and when they gathered in the back corners of vacant lots, they generated bicycle frames. The investigation in the story ended with the bicycle frames, because the teller of the tale was the owner of a bicycle shop and used the end products for his business. I believe now that more than paper clips, hangers and bicycle frames are participating in this biological generation process. I know that we personally discard more each week than we bring into the house and I would suspect the same is true for most others. Where is this extra stuff coming from? The only sensible answer is that it is generating and reproducing itself like the coat hangers in the story.

Charlevoix library to have many fall, winter activities

By JULIE WITTHOFT
Staff Writer

Charlevoix Public Library is offering families some engaging new craft and reading programs this fall.

"We are promoting lifelong reading. The way to get kids to enjoy reading is to start young and introduce them to the library as a fun place where they are welcome. Hopefully as they get older they will continue to come back because they are comfortable here," Charlevoix Public Library Director Valerie Meyerson explained.

Parents who are stuck in the house on a cold fall Tuesday or Wednesday morning with their three to five-year-old can now head over to the library for pre-school story time.

Meyerson has coordinated the two day story hour to include both books and crafts. The program is from 10:30 to 11:15 a.m.

"This program is designed for the independent listener," Meyerson explained. However, parents and guardians are asked to remain in the building during the hour.

The story line-up for Oct. 23 and 24 is called "Val's Favorites," and Meyerson plans to pick books she and the kids can enjoy together.

Then, on Oct. 30 and 31, dress the kids up in costumes or come as you are. Either way bring them to the library for "Halloween Happening" which will include story hour and crafts.

Nov. 6 and 7 is "Happy Birthday," Nov. 13 and 14 is "Fabulous Folk Tales" and Nov. 20 and 21 will be a Thanksgiving celebration called "Turkey Time."

If mornings are too busy at your house, parents with children ages two through six are invited to drop-in for evening family story-time.

Meyerson said pajamas are acceptable attire and comfortable blankets and teddy bears are welcome. She has scheduled a story hour titled "Teddy Bears" from 7 to 7:45 p.m. Nov. 20 and "Night, Night" from 7 to 7:45 p.m. Dec. 18.

The whole family can come together to round out the fall program line-up at the family holiday program. Musician/storyteller Patty Clark will present "Winter Celebration" from 10:30 to 11:30 a.m. Dec. 15.

All of the aforementioned programs will take place in the library basement. In order to continue offering quality programs in the basement the library needs to replace the carpet. Meyerson has requested that any local business willing to donate a remnant call her at the library, 547-2651.

Since she started in September Meyerson has worked on expanding the adult reading section. Two weeks ago she placed a 100 book order of adult fiction, non-fiction, best-sellers and new biographies.

Other attractions bringing many local residents to the library include Internet facilities and 15 new books on CD. Meyerson said they have some "really great" titles for the listening entertainment of adults and teens. She is really looking forward to getting the Harry Potter books on CD.

She said that as programs and the library progress she will need community input in order to get a feel for what the wants and needs of locals are.

The library is open from 10 a.m. to 8 p.m. Monday through Thursday, from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. on Friday and from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m. on Saturday.

Wedding

Chamberlain — Creanga

Rebecca Chamberlain, of Charlevoix, and Ovidiu Creanga, of Oradea, Romania, were married Sept. 8 at the Evangelical Church of Good News in Osijek, Croatia in front of 60 guests.

Rebecca is the daughter of Connie Chamberlain of Redford and Sherman Chamberlain, Jr. of Charlevoix. Ovidiu is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Gheorghe Creanga of Oradea, Romania.

The Rev. Steven Kurtz officiated the double ring rites.

The bride wore an ivory strapless dress with fitted bodice, filled with champagne embroidered flowers falling into a basque waist. She also had a fly-away veil and carried a long-stem bouquet of ivory calla lilies and deep wine roses.

The maid of honor was Christina Chun, of Cambridge, Mass. Bridesmaids were Lisa Hoadley of Kalamazoo and Regina Lighthall of Walnut Creek, Calif.

The flower girl was Anamaria Constantineanu. The ring bearer was Nathan Kurtz.

The best man was Calin Valean. Groomsmen were Daniel Copil and Adrian Creanga.

A reception was given at the Bijelo Plavi restaurant in Osijek, Croatia. An eclectic Croatian barbecue was served by friends as a rehearsal dinner.

The couple went to Dubrovnik, Croatia, on the Adriatic Sea, followed by a few days in the Slovene Alps as a wedding trip.

They are making London,

England their home.

The bride is a masters student at the University College London's School of Slavonic and East European Studies for the next two years. The groom is a recent graduate of the University of Leeds graduate program in Old Testament theology.

Use this time to show depth of compassion

By CARA B. HOCHHALTER
Christian Education Director
First Congregational UCC

At a time like this...

Our country has been shaken by an attack, by loss of many lives, by the prospect and reality of retaliation of war and now the threat of germ warfare.

As people of faith, many of us seek more than ever to find comfort and answers, guidance and wisdom from our faith traditions.

First and foremost is prayer. Prayer offers us a vehicle to extend our love to all who suffer in our country as well as in Afghanistan and other parts of the world. We can pray for transforming peace and justice. Through prayer, God intervenes in ways beyond our understanding.

We can pray for our leaders that truth, wisdom and integrity prevail.

Beacons of Blessing

We can pray for a time when all nations can work together for the good of all people. We can pray for soldiers everywhere and their families.

In our church, we have a weekly Bible study that looks at the lectionary scripture readings which are used by many denominations and are predetermined for a three-year cycle. We have been looking at Jeremiah and as so often happens, the messages seem relevant to the world situation right now.

In spite of war, exile and disease, the prophet, Jeremiah, who began his ministry about 600 B.C. reminded his people of Jerusalem to remain faithful to God and persistent in their hope of the compassion of God's law to be realized. He says that he will "write God's word on their hearts."

For us too, more than ever it is important for us to hear God's word, seek to be faith-filled and pray for the peace that passes all understanding.

We may feel like much of the world is out of our control, yet we can be "instruments of peace" wherever we live and work. We can seek to demonstrate the compassion of God by our own lives. We can dispel fear with hope, being persistent in our faith.

Looking to the example of Christ, we hear overwhelmingly his message to "forgive those who persecute you, pray for your enemies and love your neighbor as yourself." Amazingly, these words can give us great hope...at a time like this.

Property maintenance not in ordinances

By JEREMY MCBAIN
Editor

(Editor's note: This is the last in a series on housing in Charlevoix)

While a landlord can receive a citation for not cutting the lawn of his or her rental in Charlevoix, they cannot receive one for not having a fire extinguisher in the home or apartment.

The reason for this is Charlevoix, like most of the county, does not have a property maintenance code or a fire code. Currently, the only city in the county with this ordinance is East Jordan. However, Charlevoix, like many other cities, does have a nuisance ordinance which regulates the amount of weeds in your lawn and other visual unsightliness.

In fact, the only recourses residents have to get unsafe conditions in their homes fixed is reporting them to the Charlevoix County Building department and going through the courts. The building department or fire departments cannot inspect a home without a complaint and this means someone will have to pay for the inspection.

"Our hands are tied," Ken Doty,

Charlevoix County Building Department supervisor said.

Charlevoix County Commissioner Shirley Roloff said she has no idea why the county does not have a property maintenance code. "But it is something I would like to find out myself."

"It has aggravated me for years," she said. "We really need something bad...this isn't fair to young people or old people."

For example, Roloff said she works with senior citizens a lot and picks them up at their homes. She said she is astonished at the condition of some of the homes they live in.

"They live in dumps they can't even afford," she said.

In a property maintenance code and fire code property owners would have to keep their dwellings safe and up to code. In many cities with these codes, such as Ann Arbor, the building inspector or fire marshal inspects rentals every time they are rented out.

Many fire codes only apply to non-residential buildings. However, some cities have created amendments to the code that give them jurisdiction over residential dwellings.

Housing $

are not around," Doty said. This includes homes that are remade into apartments or apartments created in basements.

"If we find out work was done, we can shut them down," he said.

While a property maintenance ordinance or even a simple fire code would help in enforcing safe living areas, it would create some problems for local governments who have to enforce the rules.

According to the City of Charlevoix Fire Chief Doug Carver, he does not have the manpower or money available for this.

"We would have to put another full time person on. Basically, they would have to be here from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. to talk to people and we would have to send them to school for several months. It is an expense that is very hard to justify," Carver said.

Carver added the fire department can enforce life safety rules, based on residential complaints. This includes creating a fire exit for a dwelling, having smoke detectors or fixing wiring problems.

He said generally landlords are very good at fixing these problems when the fire department informs them of it.

The building department can be contacted by calling 347-7236.

CRYSTAL SKULL

Crystal Skull

Native legends speak of crystal skulls, said to "talk & sing." They were considered as an inheritance from an ancient time, carrying messages of the origins & purpose of Humanity -- and what may be discovered, when we lose our fear of death.

Whatever the origins, there's no doubt this is fascinating. Hailed as a marvel by those who have examined it, this genuine, life-sized artifact will be in an upcoming book on unexplained mysteries. Here's your chance to see this amazing and mysterious object for yourself.

BUSINESS

Vintage style at Shabby Girls

By JEREMY MCBAIN
Editor

The Shabby Girls salon gives its customers fine pampering, but also a vintage atmosphere to enjoy.

The salon/studio, located at 11501 US-31 North — across from Vidosh landscaping, created its look based on the book "Shabby Chic," by Rachel Ashwell. This is one of simple elegance in all areas of life.

While enjoying the surroundings at Shabby Girls, customers can receive a facial, body-waxing, natural nails, full hair care, pedicures, a variety of massages and even buy some slip cover furniture from Country House Fabrics.

The business also carries White Truffles shampoo and Rusk styling aids and shampoos.

Shabby Girls opened in July 2001 and celebrated its grand opening on Oct. 13 with a Truffles and Tea party. Charlevoix second grader Jane Balaze won a White Truffles shampoo pack at this opening.

In the business' desire to pamper its customers, it is taking it one step further — pampering strangers in the community.

According to Glenda Wilhelm, in December, the ladies of Shabby Girls will be picking one person from the community who will receive a special day at the salon.

"This will be someone who has a need and who we want to pamper," Wilhelm said. The business will continue to give out gifts such as this throughout the year.

Shabby Girls is open year-round. The ladies who make up the business can be contacted at anytime on their personal phones.

Wilhelm can be contacted by calling 645-4475; Charity Closson can be contacted by calling 620-2442; Lois Becker, the massage therapist, can be contacted by calling 632-6597 and Kathy Loeffler can be contacted by calling 313-5878.

Park and marina issue to get public input

MEETINGS

City manager Mike Wiesner explained to Campbell that the product of the phase two meetings could be a number of things, including no changes at all. Other possibilities Wiesner described were straightening of the jagged bulk head and/or the installation of floating docks.

Wiesner said he has not heard strong community support in favor of a large expansion, as was depicted in the first layout.

"I don't see anybody advocating maximizing the marina layout," Wiesner said.

He added that the Waterways Commission offered funding support for an expansion, so the engineer showed the commission docks.

Wiesner stressed that phase two does not mean plans for an expansion, it simply will be a time for the community to discuss what, if anything, should be done to the marina.

The first public meeting concerning the future of East Park is scheduled to take place at 7 p.m. Dec. 6 at a location to be determined in the future. According to an agenda for that meeting, its purpose is to "involve the community in a dialogue leading to decisions about changes in East Park."

Here community members will tell city administrators and the park planner what they want from a park including amenities like band shells, ice rinks, festival space and lake viewing sites.

The city staff has scheduled 90 minutes for audience comments.

The city staff has already formulated a few recommendations for renovations at the site. These recommendations are the addition of public bathrooms, a marina/shore side facility with office space, showers and bathrooms to service boaters, a Chamber of Commerce literature distribution area near the public bathroom facility and a Submariner's Memorial.

"Because of the condition of the sidewalk/steps and marina/bathroom/chamber building, doing nothing is not an alternative," the Dec. 6 meeting agenda states.

Following the December meeting, the city will get to work preparing and approving a list of design goals based on the public input. Design options will then be developed from the goal list.

There will be another public input meeting in early June 2002 to comment on the design options for the park plan. The DDA and council will then review the design options and input from the public.

The city council will make the ultimate decision on the park plan. Council and members of the DDA will act as observers at the meetings offering no input during the public forums.

In late June of 2002, phase two will kick off when the public meets for the first city sponsored input meeting on the marina.

"The purpose of the meeting is to involve the community in a dialogue leading to decisions about renovations/changes to the city marina," the agenda states.

This meeting will follow the upcoming public forum hosted by local environmental group, WATCH, which will take place at 7 p.m., Oct. 29 in council chambers at city hall.

From the public meetings, goals will be established and then design options will be submitted for the DDA and council to review. Council will select the best option.

The two will then be integrated and council will select the best integrated plan.

Wiesner projected that this integrated plan may be ready in the early months of 2003. He said if that were the case, permits could be applied for in late 2003 or early 2004.

"We'll see where the funding is at that time. This certainly isn't a quick process," he added.

Official Notice

PUBLIC NOTICE CITY OF CHARLEVOIX - ORDINANCE NO. 669 OF 2001 TAX EXEMPTION ORDINANCE

AN ORDINANCE TO PROVIDE FOR A SERVICE CHARGE IN LIEU OF PROPERTY TAXES FOR A PROPOSED MULTIPLE FAMILY DWELLING PROJECT FOR PERSONS OF LOW INCOME TO BE FINANCED OR ASSISTED PURSUANT TO THE PROVISIONS OF THE STATE HOUSING DEVELOPMENT AUTHORITY ACT OF 1966, AS AMENDED AND TO REPEAL ORDINANCE 668 OF 2001.

THE CITY OF CHARLEVOIX ORDAINS:

- SECTION 1. Title.
This Ordinance shall be known and cited as the "City Tax Exemption Ordinance."
- SECTION 2. Preamble.
It is acknowledged that it is a proper public purpose of the State of Michigan and its political subdivisions to provide housing for its citizens of low income and to encourage the development of such housing by providing for a service charge in lieu of property taxes in accordance with the State Housing Development Authority Act of 1966 (Act 346 of the Public Acts of 1966, as amended, MCL 125.1401, et seq, MSA 116.114(1), et seq). The City is authorized by this Act to establish or change the service charge to be paid in lieu of taxes by any or all classes of housing exempt from taxation under the Act at any amount it chooses, not to exceed the taxes that would be paid but for the Act. It is further acknowledged that such housing for persons of low income is a public necessity, and as the City will be benefitted and improved by such housing, the encouragement of the same by providing certain real estate tax exemption for such housing is a valid public purpose. In addition, the continuance of the provisions of this Ordinance for tax exemption and the service charge in lieu of taxes during the period contemplated in this Ordinance are essential to the determination of economic feasibility of housing developments which are constructed and financed in reliance on such tax exemption.
- The City acknowledges that MERCER STREET LIMITED PARTNERSHIP, or its assigns (the "Sponsor") has offered, subject to receipt of a Mortgage Loan from the Michigan State Housing Development Authority, to erect, own and operate a housing development identified as May Street Apartments on certain property located at 1007 May Street, in the City of Charlevoix, to serve persons of low income, and that the Sponsor has offered to pay the City on account of this housing development an annual service charge for public services in lieu of all taxes.
- SECTION 3. Definitions. As used in this Ordinance.
- A. "Authority" means the Michigan State Housing Development Authority.
- B. "Act" means the Michigan State Housing Development Authority Act, being Act 346 of the Public Acts of 1966, as amended.
- C. "Annual Shelter Rent" means the total collections during a calendar year from all occupants of a housing development representing rent or occupancy charges, exclusive of charges for gas, electricity, heat, or other utilities furnished to the occupants.
- D. "Housing Development" means a development which contains a significant element of housing for persons of low income and such elements of other housing, commercial recreational, industrial, communal, and educational facilities as the Authority determines improve the quality of the development as it relates to housing for persons of low income.
- E. "Mortgage Loan" means a loan to be made by the Authority to the Sponsor for the construction and/or permanent financing of the Housing Development.
- F. "Utilities" means fuel, water, sanitary sewer service and/or electrical service which are paid by the Housing Development.
- G. "Sponsor" means person(s) or entities which have applied to the Authority for a Mortgage loan to finance a Housing Development.
- SECTION 4. Class of Housing Developments.
It is determined that the class of Housing Developments to which the tax exemption shall apply and for which a service charge shall be paid in lieu of such taxes must be multi-family residential developments that are financed or assisted pursuant to the Act. It is further determined that the housing development identified as "May Street Apartments" is of this class.
- SECTION 5. Establishment of Annual Service Charge.
The Housing Development identified as May Street Apartments and the property on which it shall be constructed shall be exempt from all property taxes from and after the commencement of construction. The City acknowledges that the Sponsor and the Authority have established the economic feasibility of the Housing Development in reliance upon the enactment and continuing effect of this Ordinance and the qualification of the Housing Development for exemption from all property taxes and a payment in lieu of taxes as established in this Ordinance, and in consideration of the Sponsor's offer, subject to receipt of a Mortgage Loan from the Authority, to construct, own and operate the Housing Development, agrees to accept payment of an annual service charge for public services in lieu of all property taxes. The annual service charge shall be equal to 4.5% of the Annual Shelter Rents actually collected.
- SECTION 6. Limitation on the Payment of Annual Service Charge.
Notwithstanding Section 5, the service charge to be paid each year in lieu of taxes for the part of the Housing Development which is tax exempt and which is occupied by other than low income persons or families shall be equal to the full amount of the taxes which would be paid on that portion of the Housing Development if the Housing Development were not tax exempt.
- The term "low income persons or families" as used herein shall be the same meaning as found in Section 15(a)(7) of the Act, as amended.
- SECTION 7. Contractual Effect of Ordinance.
Notwithstanding the provisions of section 15(a)(5) of the Act, as amended, to the contrary, a contract between the City and the Sponsor, with the Authority as third party beneficiary under the contract, to provide tax exemption and accept payments in lieu of taxes, as previously described, is effectuated by enactment of this Ordinance.
- SECTION 8. Payment of Service Charge.
The annual service charge in lieu of taxes as determined under this Ordinance shall be payable in the same manner as general property taxes are payable to the City, except that the annual payment shall be paid on or before February 28 of each year on the Annual Shelter Rent collected in the preceding year.
- SECTION 9. Duration.
This Ordinance shall remain in effect and shall not terminate so long as the Mortgage Loan remains outstanding and unpaid or the Authority has any interest in the property, provided that construction of the Housing Development commences within one year of funding by the Authority.
- SECTION 10. Severability.
The various sections and provisions of this Ordinance shall be deemed to be severable, and should any section or provision of this Ordinance be declared by any court of competent jurisdiction to be unconstitutional or invalid the same shall not affect the validity of the Ordinance as a whole or any section or provision of this Ordinance other than the section or provision so declared to be unconstitutional or invalid.
- SECTION 11. Conflicts.
All ordinances or parts of ordinances in conflict with this Ordinance are repealed to the extent of such conflict and ordinance 668 of 2001 is repealed in its entirety.
- SECTION 12. Effective Date.
This Ordinance shall become effective thirty (30) days after enactment.

Motion by Councilman Haggard and seconded by Councilmen Carison to adopt Tax Exempt Ordinance No. 669 at the October 15, 2001 Regular Council Meeting.

Yeas: Councilmen Bellows, Campbell, Carison, Chamberlain, Haggard and Witthoef.
Nays: None.
Absent: None.

Elizabeth A. Gooch, City Clerk

City council candidates debate the issues

COUNCIL

In the second ward, incumbent Bill Bellows faces a new person in Charlevoix's political arena. D.J. Way.

And in the third ward Shirley Gibson and Tom Rankl showed up on opposite ends of the ring when it came to the big issues.

Most of the candidates were on the same page about Charlevoix's economic status and the need to increase year-round business opportunities. Their ideas on ways to accomplish this goal varied.

Bellows and Carlson said that in order to keep businesses open year-round the city needs to find ways to increase the number of people coming to Charlevoix.

Gibson suggested that the Downtown Development Authority and the Chamber of Commerce perform a study to pinpoint ways to attract year-round businesses.

Rankl said that perhaps there is some way for the city to give businesses a tax abatement like that which was recently granted to Harbor Industries. This savings to the property owner could then be passed along to the renter, making it more economically feasible to stay open year-round.

Way agreed with Rankl's response.

Carlson and Rankl also support the proposal of locating a convention center in the city.

Carlson said such a center would be "a good opportunity for the citizens of Charlevoix." He added we already have golf, restaurants, hotels and all the businesses who cater to such a center.

Rankl agreed and referred to himself as "a pro-growth person." He said he has some reservations as to whether or not we can support a convention center and called for more information on whether the support was here or not.

Gibson butted heads with Carlson and Rankl again on the question of the convention center.

Gibson said Charlevoix doesn't need a convention center. She said that the auditorium at the new high school will hold 750 people and it could service possible conventions. She also suggested using the middle school for convention related services once the students are moved to the old high school.

Gibson's point hinged on her opinion that Charlevoix isn't a winter destination and there are convention centers in other area towns that are winter destinations.

Bellows said he doesn't know whether such a center would thrive in town, but he expressed interest in seeing the results of a feasibility study. However, like Gibson, Bellows pointed to many local facilities that could serve the purpose of a convention center that are currently under-used. Way agreed with Bellows and with Rankl on the need for further study.

Conventions could mean traffic and traffic has become a sore spot for some Charlevoix residents and visitors.

Carlson posed some interesting solutions for improving local traffic flow. He said there isn't a lot the city can do as Bridge Street is part of US-31, a state owned highway. But he said keeping the bridge closed during the lunch hour, from 11:30 a.m. to 12:30 p.m. may help.

Carlson also mentioned only opening the bridge on the hour as opposed to on the half hour and hour and leaving it open for a shorter period of time.

Gibson's answer for traffic problems was to install signs indicating that small boats with big antennas should put their antennas down. She also suggested that when traveling to the south side of town from the north that the law should mandate those in the right lane must turn right on Park Avenue.

Way agreed with Gibson's right turn only idea.

She also mentioned the possibility of making Bridge Street a one way street and eliminating parking on Bridge Street.

Rankl and Gibson started seeing eye to eye when it came to solving traffic problems. Rankl also suggested eliminating parking on Bridge Street and limiting bridge openings during peak travel times.

Bellows suggested opening the bridge on the quarter and three quarters of an hour because people tend to schedule appointments and need to be at work on the hour and half hour. He said that the four lanes going north that merge to two lanes are almost as much at fault for traffic issues as the bridge is.

One other use for city roads over the last couple of years has been snowmobiling and council candidates came up divided again.

Carlson said the city is currently working on a solution to the issues with snowmobiles in the city.

Rankl said that he is in favor of the trail into town because it assists merchants and restaurants. He said that we have to continue to try and get a hold of the violators and deal with them.

Way, an avid snowmobiler and a former member of the Charlevoix Snowmobile Council, said he met with city officials Oct. 17 to develop a trail around Harbor Industries. He said he doesn't foresee the Belvedere route continuing.

"If I lived there I wouldn't want it. The people who are violating the local ordinance are not local people," he added.

But Gibson is only interested in banning them from the city.

Bellows said he has checked with other cities including Petoskey where snowmobiles aren't allowed and they are still facing problems with the machines. He said if the ordinance was followed there wouldn't be a problem.

JV team has a week of success

BASKETBALL

On Thursday, the team will be playing East Jordan in East Jordan.

The junior varsity team had a little more success last week, beating Elk Rapids on Oct. 16, 46-29 and also beating St. Ignace on Oct. 18, 53-29.

In the Elk Rapids game, the top scorer was Brooke Blanchard with 12. She was followed by Jessica Pettis with eight, Katie Way with eight and Sarah Cross with eight. Cross also had 15 rebounds and Blanchard had 10.

Rebecca Kanine added six steals and five assists to the statistics, while Shayna Drost had six assists.

In the St. Ignace game, the leading scorer was Jaime Pettis with 20. She was followed by Cross with nine.

Cross had 16 rebounds, Kari Way had 13 and Blanchard had 11. Jaime Pettis and Drost added eight steals each.

The junior varsity team's season record is 10-4. Its conference record is 6-1.

Alcohol, speed, factors in accident

A 24-year-old West Bloomfield man was injured around 2 a.m., Oct. 20 in a one-vehicle rollover accident that occurred on M-32 in Wilson Township.

The investigation found that the driver, the 24-year-old, had been east bound on M-32 at a high rate of speed when he lost control on a curve. The vehicle skidded off the roadway, struck a ditch and rolled over on its top. The driver was transported to Charlevoix Area Hospital for treatment and was later released.

A 17-year-old male from Charlevoix, a passenger in the vehicle, was not injured.

According to the Charlevoix County Sheriff's Office, high speed and alcohol were factors in the accident. It is currently under further investigation. The driver was arrested for outstanding criminal warrants and is under investigation for drunk driving.

The passenger was also arrested for a minor in possession of alcohol and a criminal arrest warrant. Both subjects were lodged at the county jail pending issuance of additional warrants.

One Afternoon ... Ten Russian Journalists

You are invited to share in a unique opportunity to meet with ten visiting Russian journalists during a round-table discussion on ethics and current issues in journalism, moderated by Jeremy McBain, editor of the Charlevoix Courier.

Where: North Central Michigan College

When: Tuesday, November 13, 2001

Public discussion from 3 to 5 p.m. - free of charge.

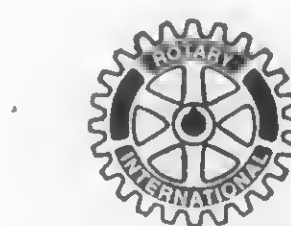

Informal dinner at 5:30 p.m. - at NCMC Conference Center pre-registration required and payment of $10 in advance.

The Russian delegation will be visiting media businesses in northern Michigan the week of November 13-17 as a part of a program through the Center for Citizen Initiatives, a San Francisco based group dedicated to economic reform in Russia.

The delegation is composed of Russian newspaper and magazine editors, publishers and public relations directors. The Charlevoix Rotary Club, Charlevoix Courier and Petoskey News-Review are sponsoring their stay in the area.

The November 13 event is co-hosted by North Central Michigan College and the Michigan Press Association.

If you would like to attend this special event, please make a reservation by contacting the Petoskey News-Review at (231) 347-2544, by Thursday, November 8.

The fifth bridge — A snail was faster than it

By DAVID L. MILES
Charlevoix Historical Society
(Eighth in a series)

Once World War II came to an end, the post-war boom wrote "The End" to what was now a seriously outmoded swing bridge, our second one, in service for almost five decades. Vehicular traffic was up enormously and not about to subside. Critical materials could now revert to civilian use. Bridge number four, as much as the town loved it, had to face the reality of age and a changing era. It was time to retire. A new bridge would be a local symbol of the self-confidence and faith in the future, that was sweeping the country in the wake of a victorious war. So, the plans drawn up in the 1930s and shelved due to the Depression were retrieved from the City Hall basement, dusted off and sent downstate to an agreeable welcome. The Michigan State Highway Commission decreed a stately new span and it became a pet project of Commissioner Charles M. Ziegler. An initial bond issue of $349,000 got it started.

In May of 1947, a "temporary float" swing bridge began to take shape for three months across the neck of the channel, 200 feet to the east of the bridge crossing. It opened on August 26, and from then until June 27, 1949, Charlevoix endured this fascinating inconvenience as it watched the greatest construction project in its history, the million dollar Memorial Bridge, span the Bridge Street gap over the next two years.

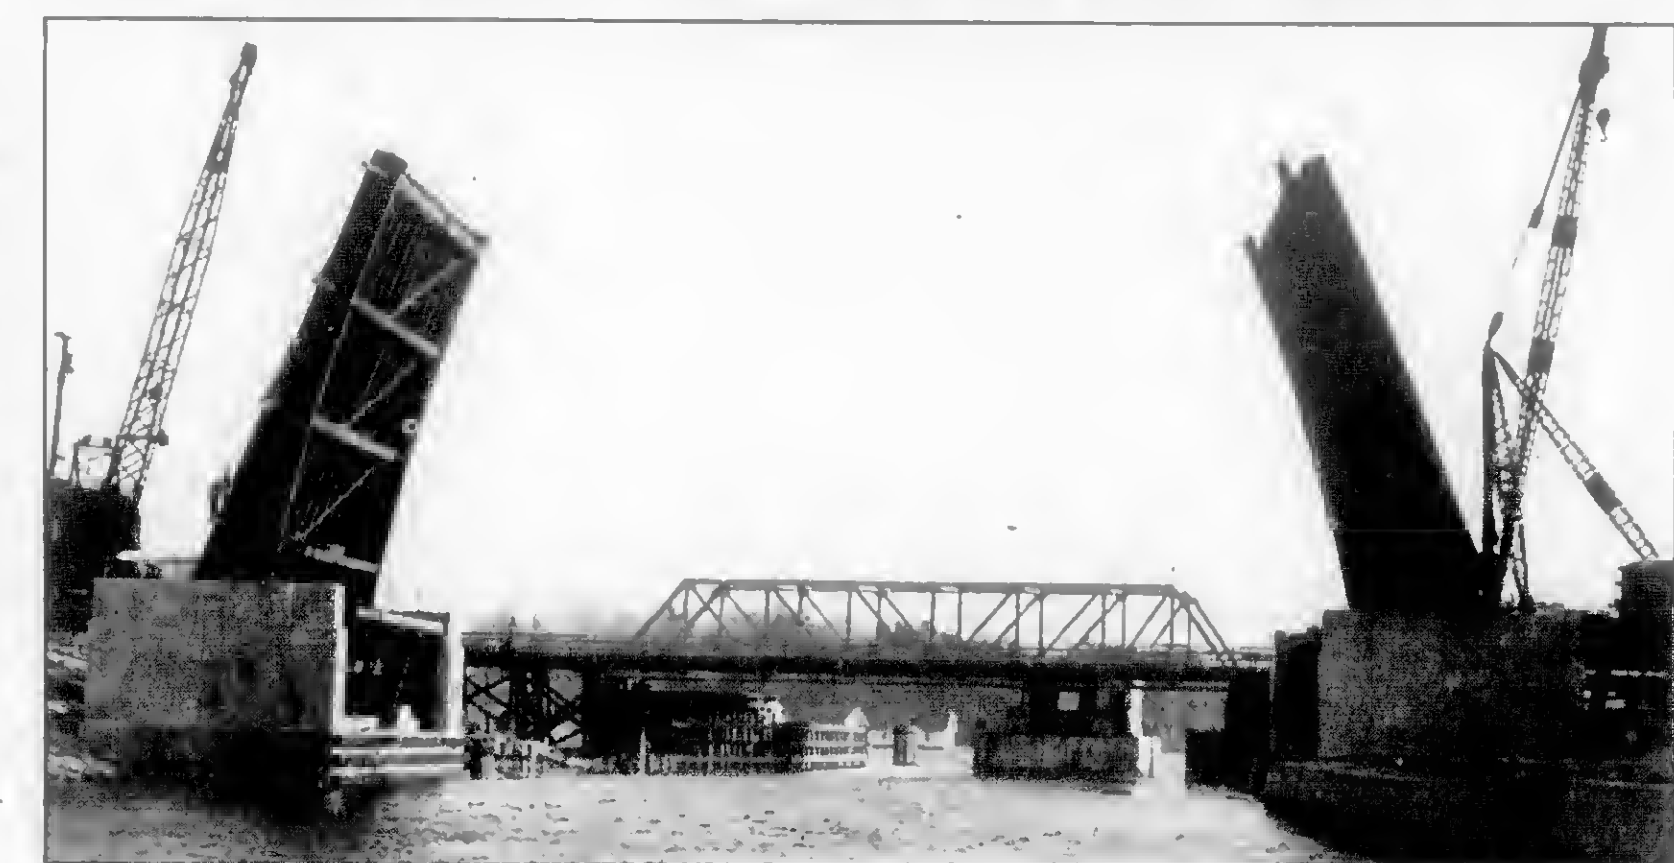

The block where Bridge Street Park is now located was once covered with buildings, the Old Town of Charlevoix, as it were, where the first commercial structures had gone up in the late 1800s. These had faded over the years and after East Park was developed in the mid-1930s, the city had planned to make all of the east side of Bridge Street into one long park. In the early 1940s, the northern third of the stretch was razed, but those businesses in the middle refused to budge, and they are there to this day. The Palace Theater, right in the center of the block, burned in 1945, but rather than sell, the Moon family of Petoskey rebuilt. Had they sold, the rest might have followed suit and Bridge Street's character immediately would have been altered.

The oldest buildings would have had to come out anyhow, because in 1947 access to the temporary bridge was needed. It came via a sharp right turn over what is now Bridge Park, extended across what is now the roof of the Beaver Island Boat Company on an elevated roadway, and crossed the bridge onto another roadway, raised over the Charlevoix Lumber Company yard (east end of the Edgewater Hotel), then snaked up the hill and exited onto little two-block Nichols Street, which for 22 months became temporary US-31 onto the main highway (Petoskey Avenue).

The roadway intersected Dixon Avenue right next door to the home of Robert Bridge, president of the Charlevoix County State Bank, and the most influential man in town. He was furious that this temporary highway would pass within a few yards of his residence with all the concomitant noise, dust and traffic fumes. But the property between him and his neighbor had belonged to the lumber company for years, which gave permission, and there was also the factor of eminent domain. Besides, there was nowhere else for the highway to go.

The worst inconvenience of this temporary bridge was the amount of time needed to open and close it. In terms of speed, this was a retrogression to the age of the dinosaurs. The 8 minute turning cycle of bridge three with the old key was a jackrabbit compared to the sloth of number five. The huge float on which it rested sat awkwardly in the channel (see picture), thus the entire structure was hinged at the northeast corner, and all was guided by a small wheeled undercarriage that followed a curved track set atop a framework of pilings on the north side. Ever so slowly the big float lumbered away like a huge snail to point the bridge east, then laboriously returned back again. Kids walking to or from school had an easy excuse for tardiness. The joke of drivers at the time was, if caught at the bridge, just turn off the ignition, lay down on the seat, and have yourself a good snooze. Some openings took almost a half an hour. To think in terms of today's road and water traffic is to think in terms of one's worst nightmare.

Once bridge number five was in position, $30,000 was expended to take out our much loved number four. For many in Charlevoix it was a tremendously emotional, wrenching time for them, because, like many of those who experienced the removal of number three in 1901, it had been the only bridge they had ever known. Gone forever were the days when the local boys could sneak up into the undercarriage to hitch a ride and people were welcome to cross the catwalk onto the piling foundation island to watch the boats go by or dangle their legs to catch a few fish on a lazy day. As the old girders came down one by one, it was not unusual for clumps of spectators to gather on the closed-off street south of the bridge and have themselves a good cry.

But the tears were soon replaced by wide-eyed fascination once the barges and steam shovels and cranes got down to serious business to create what has become both the most loved and loathed object in town. (To be continued...)

Costs from school lawsuits starting to take their toll

highlighted include time administrators have spent in personal meetings with the plaintiffs' attorneys, time involved in answering freedom of information act requests and time spent meeting with the district's own attorneys to plan their defense.

Kenneth Richard Tunison, one of the five private citizens included in the list of plaintiffs in the third case said he sees no reason to justify the financial loss to the school system. He said the district brought the loss on themselves.

"The financial loss to the school is their own doing, they should have been smart in the beginning and they would have saved themselves the cost," Tunison said.

Tunison said that had the sewer extension been routed up M-66 as is outlined in the Marion Township Master Plan, as opposed to traveling up Marion Center Road and had the city funded the sewer extension as opposed to the school funding it the district wouldn't have endured the third suit.

Tunison said he didn't know what the combined figures were for the loss to the plaintiffs.

Sturock said, with the exception of the injunction granted during the second lawsuit which cost the district one week of construction time, none of the lawsuits have held them up.

The plaintiffs in the third suit, including Tunison, recently filed an appeal Sept. 27 following the Sept. 14 ruling of 33rd Circuit Court Judge Richard Pajtas in favor of the district.

Sturock explained that the plaintiffs had 20 days following Pajtas' decision in which their appeal could be filed. They then have 28 days after Sept. 27 in which to come up with a basis for that appeal which Sturock said they are in the process of doing right now.

He added that after the rationale behind the appeal has been established the plaintiffs have 50 days to develop a brief and the school is given a set time in which to file a brief in response.

Sturock estimated that if all goes well the case will be on the appellate docket a year from now.

"It could be even longer before it's heard," he said.

The school is being represented by the appellate division of Braun, Kendrick and Finkbeiner. Their former attorney Bill Ewald will be replaced by Scott Straddard.

Sturock said he plans to ask the district's insurance carrier, SET-SEG of Lansing if the district can re-claim some of the funds that have been lost, but "no one knows what will happen."

District's lawsuit history

April 20, 2000 The first lawsuit regarding the new high school was filed against the Charlevoix Public School District by the Charlevoix Area Natural Resources Preservation Association (CANRPA), an environmental organization headed by Marion Township resident Robert Mossman. The suit claimed the school did not comply with the township zoning ordinance in planning to put a school in the township's agricultural zone. The group claimed to be concerned about the rural character of the Charlevoix area.

June 29, 2000 The first lawsuit was dismissed in the 33rd Circuit Court for the County of Charlevoix.

July 31, 2000 A second lawsuit was filed by the environmental group against the school. This suit was filed after the school refused a settlement offered by the plaintiffs. The settlement had five conditions the school would have to comply with.

The lawsuit sought to reverse the approvals made by the township board and the township planning commission and claimed the township ordinance lacked proper standards. This suit also mentioned the threat of sprawl from sewer hook-ups.

Aug. 21, 2000 33rd Circuit Court Judge Richard Pajtas granted the plaintiffs a temporary restraining order. This was also the day the school was to break ground at the site of the new high school. The ceremony was canceled so as not to violate the court order.

Aug. 29, 2000 Pajtas denied the preliminary injunction request made by the environmental group.

Sept. 7, 2000 The state court of appeals denied the environmental group's injunction appeal and their request for a temporary restraining order.

Oct. 12, 2000 Third suit filed against the school district. This suit was filed on behalf of Richard Tunison, Kenneth Stanley, Robert G. Mossman, Paul Richards and Joseph Seidel. These Marion Township residents filed their claim based on co-mingling of funds — using public tax dollars generated through the bond election to fund a sewer that will serve private interests. They also claim that the bond wording did not spell out that the funds would be used to construct a sewer.

Sept. 14, 2001 Pajtas dismissed the third lawsuit filed against the school district.

Sept. 27, 2001 An appeal was filed with the State of Michigan Court of Appeals in Lansing on behalf of the private citizens who are part of this third lawsuit against the Charlevoix School District.

Uncommon Valor was a Common Virtue

In February and March of 1945, my late father was heavily involved in one of the most savage battles in American history. On the island of Iwo Jima, Americans sustained a number of casualties remarkably similar to the number of people killed and wounded on September 11, 2001.

The US Marines and Navy personnel involved in the battle for Iwo Jima never had any doubts as to the final outcome. There was never any wavering from their dedication to the ultimate victory, regardless of their own personal risk. After the battle was over, the 3rd Marine Division went back to Guam to prepare for the final invasion — which never came.

My father C. E. Davis, (past Vice President, Second Chance) was temporarily assigned to a headquarters company. His tent-mate, who was also heavily involved in the battle, was assigned the task of writing a routine speech for Admiral Nimitz, who was coming to Guam briefly to thank the men of the 3rd Division for taking Iwo. The speech he wrote contained the line "Uncommon Valor was a Common Virtue". Nimitz liked it and so did the attending reporters. Now it's in marble on the Iwo Jima Flag Raising statue in Washington, D.C.

The law enforcement officers and firefighters who responded to the World Trade Center attack never faltered or considered their own personal safety. It will never be known for sure how many lives were saved by their unwavering dedication and willingness to accept personal risk.

What is known is that having suffered this hell on earth, they are assured entry into heaven.

God Bless Our Public Safety Officers,

R. C. Davis

Projects' costs too high

City forced to make cuts to meet budget

By JULIE WITTHOFT

Bids for large-scale renovations at Michigan and Depot beaches came in higher than expected forcing Charlevoix city administrators to downsize both projects.

The bid was awarded to H & D of Bay Shore for $650,891.34, almost $100,000 less than the bid entered by Manthei Development. Although H & D bid lower than Manthei, the project was still more than the city expected.

The city deducted proposed amenities to Michigan Beach including: the larger of two picnic shelters, the basketball court and associated retaining wall, replacement of the wall and ground cover behind the current concession stand and the reconstruction of the concession/bathroom building.

The deducted items saved the city $243,192.55 and the bathroom facility will be re-bid.

H & D said they would construct the building for $101,390, but Jim Malewitz of Performance Engineering thinks if the project is bid separately they may be able to get the building completed for $86,181.50.

City manager Mike Wiesner said the city has the funding to pay for construction of the bathroom facility.

The estimated total cost of the Michigan Beach project is $517,275.54. The city has collected $522,182 from sources including: the city's Lake Michigan fund, the Department of Natural Resources Trust Fund Grant agreement, the Coastal Zone grant agreement and the Downtown Development Authority. That leaves $4,906.46 for unforeseen items.

Malewitz said this contingency cash isn't enough to be totally on the safe side. He would like to have 10 percent allocated toward contingency items.

Wiesner said with the help of other funds, the contingency is currently at around 6 percent. He added, the additional 4 percent will be taken out of next year's budget.

Haunted horror on May

By JEREMY MCBAIN
Editor

The Spencleys are hoping to give you a fright tonight.

The Charlevoix family will be having their annual haunted house from 6 to 9 p.m. tonight, Oct. 31, at 504 May Street.

According to Dean Spencley, this will be the fifth year the haunted house has created some scares on Halloween night and the attraction has only gotten better with each year.

When the family started, it took only about two hours and eight people to set up. Now, about 30 people take part in setting up and performing in the haunted house all for the fun of giving people a jolt of excitement.

The haunted house has also seen a steady increase in visitors each year too.

Stay denied, sewer line ok

The school successfully dodged another bullet last week in Charlevoix County Circuit Court.

On Oct. 26, 33rd Circuit Court Judge Richard Pajtas denied a motion to stay pending appeal made by five private Marion Township residents involved in a lawsuit against the Charlevoix Public School District.

Pajtas explained, "If enjoined the plaintiffs would have won by default. Because in order to maintain the current construction, the school would have had to construct an on-site sewer before the appeal was decided."

He added that the construction contracts call for the school to open for business in September of 2002.

Winter gives a warning

By JEREMY MCBAIN
Editor

A blast of cold weather hit Charlevoix last week, sending temperatures into the 30s and taking out trees with high winds.

According to meteorologist John Boris, with the National Weather Service, Oct. 25 and 26's wet, windy and wintry weather was the result of a very strong storm system that developed over the plains and Great Lakes.

Boris said this type of weather near the end of October happens in northern Michigan every couple of years.

Along with a mix of rain and snow, the system also brought winds with gusts up to 50-60 mph. It was these gusts which caused most of the problems for residents as it knocked out power throughout northern Michigan.

However, city electric superintendent Ed Whitley said there were only about a dozen power outages reported in the city of Charlevoix.

"We got lucky, I guess. We had big trees come down. But where they came down, they missed our lines," he said.

Those who did lose power had it restored by the morning of Oct. 26.

City election to be Nov. 6

Charlevoix voters will be placing their votes for city council and the city clerk on Nov. 6.

The polls will open at 7 a.m. and close at 8 p.m. at the Charlevoix City Hall, located near the intersection of State and Mason streets.

To vote in this election, residents must have been registered by Oct. 9. Charlevoix city clerk Liz Gooch is running unopposed for reelection. Those hoping to be elected to council seats are: Norman Carlson running unopposed for first ward; Bill Bellows and DJ Way running for second ward; and Shirley Gibson and Tom Rankl running for the third ward seat.

Workers at the polling site will be able to help residents determine which ward they live in.

There are about 2,489 registered voters in the city of Charlevoix. The first ward has the most with 894, followed by third ward with 822 and second ward with 773.

A blast of cold weather hit Charlevoix

Editor's picks for city council

Choices....we all must make them every day.

However, next week we must make some choices which will affect the future of the community — choices of which leaders we feel have our best interest in mind. But, like all choices, not everyone agrees.

What you will read here are the editor's choices for Charlevoix City Council. They are just his picks, not yours. Feel free to agree with them or say they are wrong, it is the American way.

Starting out the picks we have Norman Carlson running alone for the first ward seat. The editor has disagreed with this man many times in the past on issues such as the buying of the Wharfside and snowmobiles in town.

But, since he is running alone, he is the editor's pick for this seat. The decision would be a little different if someone were to run against Carlson though.

For the second ward seat there is a choice between incumbent Bill Bellows and D.J. Way. Bellows has served the community for many years and has done a pretty good job. He should be commended for what he has given to Charlevoix.

However, it is time for a change on council. We need some new ideas. For example, when asked why he favored buying the Wharfside in a meeting with the editor, Bellows said it was because that is what a council in the 1800s wanted to do.

We need someone with ideas from the 2000s, not the 1800s. Therefore, the editor supports D.J. Way for the second council seat.

In the running for the third ward seat are Tom Rankl and Shirley Gibson. (Note: Gibson is an employee of the company that owns this newspaper.) Both are new to the game and both seem to have an enthusiasm to serve.

But, the pick goes to Shirley Gibson. Gibson has a spunk which is needed on the council. Her first thoughts are what is best for the year-round residents.

Currently, the focus on council is what is best for the downtown businesses, not the residents. Therefore, a voice like Gibson's is needed to even out the score. The residents deserve a voice on council; the editor doesn't think they have been getting it. But, Gibson will make sure they do.

These picks may help you make a choice, but ultimately it is up to you. But, remember, the only way you can truly make your feelings heard is by voting on Nov. 6.

Michigan Avenue work creates a few challenges

Edith Gilbert

'Behind the news'

People who live on Michigan Avenue have been calling each other quite regularly for the past two months.

"Do you have any water?"
"Is your telephone working?"
"May I park my car behind your house?"

"Is it O.K. to have my newspaper delivered to your house for a week? We can't use our driveway!"

In case you haven't already heard, the city decided to install new sewers, pave the street, add new street lights, a sidewalk and new curbs on Michigan Avenue. Work started before Labor Day and was supposed to be finished by Halloween, but there have been unforeseen delays on the $650,000 project.

When I asked one of the workmen if he had ever worked on this type of a project before, he answered, "In my worst nightmare!"

First, it seems the six man team had to get rid of unexpected clay, reaching down five feet, to be replaced with sand hauled from the beach. It took us awhile to get used to the noise of an excavator with a bucket, several dump trucks, a loader, a bulldozer and a vibrating roller compactor charging up and down the street with the "beep-beep-beep" going from dawn to dusk like at Ground Zero.

From sunrise to sunset, that's the crew's time schedule. Workers from Alpena are hired at $22 an hour with overtime, plus $35 per diem. These hard tops are pleasant fellows. They ring your doorbell and announce politely, "There won't be any water for a couple of hours, I hope you don't mind! We've run into a slight problem down the block."

When a person's car gets stuck in the mud, they hop to it and help push.

A worker stands in the massive pit on Michigan Avenue created by the construction work. The asphalt may be placed by the end of this fall. (Courtesy photo)

The Charlevoix Street Department leaves weekly construction schedules tucked in the front door. It's never good news!

"The constant truck traffic will continue until the undercut is completed, hopefully by the end of next week." It isn't.

"When the curb is poured across a drive entrance, it cannot be driven over for three days with a car and five days with trucks."

Their notes always end with, "Thank you for your patience during this construction."

Boy, have I got patience! I have patience when they accidentally cut my telephone line and I had no phone and couldn't use the computer for two days. I have patience when looking down a 10 foot deep ditch, reaching down from where my curb used to be, all the way across the street!

Secretly, I am fascinated by the monstrous equipment that places 36 inch diameter concrete storm sewers, like tidily winks, into the ground all along the half mile that leads from one end of Michigan Avenue to the other. I admire the apple green, 8 inch diameter, sanitary sewer pipes, plus the shiny copper tubing that provides drinking water to each house and the 8 inch black ductile iron pipes that hook up to the water main.

In talking with project engineer, Don Swen, of Performance Engineers, Inc., he hopes that the asphalt paving will be done this fall — depending on weather and our usual seasonal conflict, the opening of deer season on Nov. 15!

"Don't worry," he says. "One never knows. If H&D doesn't get it done this fall, they will finish the job in spring. Then we will repair the cracked sidewalks and plant a good quality grass between the curb and the sidewalk."

It's been a rough ride, but when done, what a great time to celebrate with an old fashioned block party!

Letters to the editor

Justice not served

Editor:
Justice was not served on 14 September 2001. There is only one reason that more than $50,000 has been spent for a gas line. There is only one reason that a sewer 16 times the necessary capacity is projected for the "proposed" school site.

I must commend the person that thought enough to march a block of public school students into the courtroom gallery. It did indeed give a perception of public support. However, I give a great deal more praise to the perception and common sense of the students; who got up and left when their class dismissal time arrived.

To my knowledge nothing has been made public concerning any potential soil contamination at the building site. Considering the amount of attention other building sites are receiving, I find this very difficult to understand. It would seem that serving the public interests by openly publishing the results of soil contamination studies would put this matter to rest.

Nor has there been any decision concerning potential security considerations. It is to be assumed that since a sewer is being foisted upon Marion Township that the Township Constable will be providing law enforcement to the school?

Since you have begun a series of articles on the matters of public concern, may I suggest, Mr. Editor, that you offer your services as a "honest broker" in this matter? Certainly the school would have no objection in releasing information to you concerning these matters? I would certainly think that the health and physical safety of the community's children would be in the public interest.

I also wonder why the night lights have been extinguished at the construction site. Is the school setting the example by doing a voluntary "blackout" because of our national crisis or did the gas line cost too much?

Joseph F. Seidel
Marion Township

Editor's note: According to John Sturock, Charlevoix schools superintendent, an environmental study was done before the school bought property and no contamination was found.

City should be careful with errors

Editor:
Does the city of Charlevoix need to brush up on telling time? Well, probably not, but Charlevoix City Council does.

Let me explain. I am an eighth grade student who attends Charlevoix Middle School. Today, when I was in social studies, we received a handout on the Charlevoix Curfew Law direct from the Charlevoix City Code.

I read through it a couple times and found an error. In section 9.93 it says that no minor under the age of 17 can be outside, unattended on public property from "12 p.m. through 6 a.m."

If this were true, people under the age of 17 would have to spend 18 hours inside. This is clearly a mistake. I would have overlooked the problem, but I thought it would be a great opportunity to find ways of changing the law.

Since it is a minor mistake I'm not going to protest. But I will be contacting City Hall to find out how this can be corrected. In the meantime, always watch what you type. A small error could mean something totally different.

Help fund program

Editor:
To my dismay, I have just found out that the wonderful service I had received these past years of having my leaves raked by some fine courteous, young men from the county jail, will not be available this fall. I was told to call in early October. This is due to the lack of financial funding.

While I know that the Rainbow Shoppe and other organizations contribute to many needful causes, I thought that the Charlevoix jail program would be one of them, as not only does it keep these young people occupied — rather than being confined and bored — but it offers a useful service to the elderly and widows as myself.

I made the suggestion that I would be willing to pay for their help. Are there any others in the community that feel likewise?

This might be the answer to saving this worth-while program.

Where Is It?

Tell us where in the Charlevoix Area you think this is.

In an effort to add a little more fun to our lives and yours, the Charlevoix Courier is working on creating interactive areas of the newspaper for our readers. In the spirit of this, we are announcing the creation of a new contest called, "Where is it?"

Each week, the Charlevoix Courier will publish a picture of some item on a local landmark or building. We invite our readers to send in their guesses on where this picture was taken.

The names of each week's correct guesses will be entered into a drawing for $100⁰⁰ that will take place on December 31, 2001.

Photo exhibition to be at Crooked Tree Arts Center

The Crooked Tree Arts Center has announced the schedule for the 21st Annual Juried Photography Exhibition.

All Michigan photographers 18 years or older are eligible. Entries will be accepted from 11 a.m. to 4 p.m., Nov. 10 and from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m., Nov. 12 and Nov. 15 in the gallery of the Arts Center, located at 461 E. Mitchell Street in Petoskey.

Following his exhibit in October at the arts center, D. James Galbraith will serve as juror for the photography show. Galbraith's extensive career in photojournalism has garnered him awards and accolades.

He was born into a small Michigan family in 1930 and his work reflects his upbringing; respect for the past, significance of honest labor and close ties of family and community. Galbraith and his wife, Susan, reside in the Jordan River Valley.

Photographs must be 5 by 7 or larger. They must be matted and framed or mounted on double weight mount board and ready for hanging. Any photographic process is acceptable and a photographer may submit up to two entries. A non-refundable fee of $30 per photographer or $15 for Crooked Tree Arts Center members is required.

Awards and cash prizes will be given for first, second and third place. The exhibit dates are Nov. 20 through Jan. 4, 2002.

There will be an opening reception from 5 to 7 p.m. on Nov. 20. Please call the Crooked Tree Arts Center at (231) 347-4337 for more detailed information regarding the entry procedure or with questions you may have regarding the exhibit.

Release party to be given for student CD

The Crooked Tree Arts Center invites you to join the students from Beaver Island, East Jordan, Pellston, Charlevoix and Petoskey as they sing together on stage debuting their very own musical creations.

Singer/songwriter Dan Hall visited these schools in March 2001 and helped the students compose songs. Hall returned to the schools in June to record the songs with the children to create the CD, "Children from the Land of the Crooked Tree."

The original songs on the CD include "The Beaver Island Blues" written by the Beaver Island School and the Beaver Island Lighthouse School; "Three Fires" written by Charlevoix Elementary; "Pellston" by Pellston Elementary; "Mark the Alien" written by East Jordan Elementary School and "Rosie the Robin" composed by Petoskey Ottawa Elementary School.

The lyrics for each song, along with the names of all the students that participated are listed in the CD liner notes. The CD cover art, which depicts a crooked tree, was created by local artist Vivi Woodcock.

Hall, with accompaniment by local musicians, will back up the young voices.

The concert and CD release party is at 4 p.m., Nov. 4 at the Petoskey Middle School. Admission is $3 for adults and children are admitted for no charge.

The CD, Children from the Land of the Crooked Tree, will be released that day and available for purchase for the first time at a special price. Tickets for the concert are on sale now at the Crooked Tree Arts Center.

This collaborative effort was orchestrated by Mary Wiklanski, community cultural coordinator for Charlevoix and Emmet counties. The Crooked Tree Arts Center has received a mini-grant from the Cheboygan Area Arts Council, a regional granting agency for the Michigan Council for Arts and Cultural Affairs for this project.

The Crooked Tree Arts Center is located at 461 E. Mitchell Street in downtown Petoskey. Please call the arts center for more information at (231) 347-4337.

How to get news items into the newspaper

If you have a news item you think would be perfect for the Charlevoix Courier, feel free to call 547-6558, e-mail charlevoixcourier@charlevoixcourier.com or visit the Courier office located at 112 Mason Street in downtown Charlevoix.

News items include events sponsored by non-profit organizations. Please inform us of your event at least two weeks in advance.

Our coverage area is the city of Charlevoix and its immediately surrounding areas, including Beaver Island.

Because of space limitations in the newspaper, we generally try to avoid publishing "check-handing" pictures or "ribbon-cutting" pictures. However, we will work with your organization to get a picture that reflects the event and is visually interesting to our readers.

It should be noted, each story and picture is dealt with on its individual merits. Any policies outlined above may be suspended by the editor or publisher of the Charlevoix Courier if necessary.

Obituaries

Erwin C. Belfy: Nov. 16, 1913 - Oct. 25, 2001

Erwin C. (Sonny) Belfy, 87, of Charlevoix, died Oct. 25, at Emmet County Medical Care Facility in Harbor Springs.

A Mass of the Resurrection was celebrated at 10 a.m., Oct. 27 at St. Mary's Catholic Church in Charlevoix. The Rev. Thomas Neis officiated. Interment was in St. Mary's Cemetery in Charlevoix.

Mr. Belfy was born Nov. 16, 1913 in St. James, Beaver Island, the son of Erwin E. and Lenore (Allers) Belfy. He was raised and attended schools in St. James, Escanaba and Garden.

In December 1939, he married

Dorothy Morcher in Chicago and she preceded him in death on June 30, 1953.

Mr. Belfy sailed on the Great Lakes as a wheelsman for many years. He worked as a commercial fisherman and was then employed at Maxbauer's Dairy in Charlevoix before retiring in 1976. He was a member of St. Mary's Catholic Church in Charlevoix.

In later years he enjoyed playing cribbage with his brother, son and friends at his Upright Street home and was often seen pedaling his bicycle on the streets of Charlevoix.

Survivors include a daughter,

Patricia K. (Richard) Moore of Los Fresnos, Tex.; a son Michael E. (Judith) Belfy of Conway; grandchildren, Suzanne Hall, Gary Faltling, Donna Olvera, Erica Urbina, Shannon Moore, Michael Belfy, Marc Belfy, Dorothy Whitecomb and John Belfy; 15 great-grandchildren. He was preceded in death by his brothers, Chester and Robert Belfy, and his sister Musette La Freniere.

Memorial contributions may be made to the Emmet County Medical Care Facility in Harbor Springs, or to Saint Mary's Church of Charlevoix.

Esther Kay Deltufo: Dec. 20, 1915 - Oct. 4, 2001

Esther Kay Deltufo, 85, Port Charlotte, Fla. died Oct. 4.

She was born Dec. 20, 1915 in Battle Creek and moved to Port Charlotte, Fla. in 1983 from Pitman, N.J.

She worked for a New York City advertising agency and spent many years with an oil company in South America. She was an assistant radiologist in the Women's Army Corps during World War II.

She also lived in Charlevoix oc-asionally with her sister and brother-in-law, the Rev. G. Donald and Lillian Swinton.

In Charlevoix she worked in Dr. Saltonstall's office and enjoyed singing in a trio with Doris Oakes and "Cat" McCall.

Survivors include her husband of 53 years, Anthony; a daughter, Melinda Ramsdell of Port Charlotte, Fla.; sons, Peter of Cincinnati, Ohio and Michael of Pitman, N.J.; and 10 grandchildren.

Also surviving are nephews Jim Kay of Las Vegas, Nev. and Bob Kay of Ann Arbor and niece Sally Bales of Charlevoix.

A family celebration of life will be later. The National Cremation Society, Port Charlotte, Fla., is in charge.

In lieu of flowers memorial donations may be made to Charlotte Regional Medical Center, 809 East Marion Avenue, Punta Gorda, Fla. 33950.

Julia Dominguez Hooper: July 30, 1944 - Oct. 8, 2001

Julia Dominguez Hooper, 57, of Sebastian, Fla., died Oct. 8, 2001 at her residence after a prolonged illness.

Julia was born July 30, 1944 in Salvatierras de Mino, Pontevedra, Spain. She moved with her family to Buenos Aires, Argentina, in 1951.

Mrs. Hooper was a certified pharmacy technician. She was of the Catholic faith.

Julia married Jim Hooper on Oct. 16, 1975 in Buenos Aires, Argentina.

Surviving are her husband of 26 years, Jim Hooper, of Sebastian, Fla.; son, Eric Dominguez Hooper, of Palo Alto, Calif.; daughter, Marisela Hooper of Del Ray Beach, Fla.; mother, Leonisa Dominguez of Buenos Aires, Argentina and sisters, Marines Dominguez de Loscalzo and Elidia Dominguez de Buenos Aires, Argentina.

A memorial service was given on Oct. 11, 2001 in Sebastian, Fla.

The family suggests that memorials may be made to the American Cancer Society in memory of Julia Hooper.

Jim and Julia met and began their married life together in Charlevoix, with their two children being born at Charlevoix Area Hospital.

They shared many friendships and looked back on their time in Charlevoix with many fond memories.

Jacqueline M. Phelps: March 15, 1924 - Oct. 23, 2001

Jacqueline M. Phelps, 77, of Charlevoix died Oct. 23 at Charlevoix Area Hospital.

Jackie was born in Bay City on March 15, 1924, the daughter of Abraham and Corrine (Yon) Blumlo.

She was raised in Bay City where she later married Hudson "Mac" Phelps on Aug. 29, 1942. He preceded her in death on Jan. 24, 1999.

The couple moved to Charlevoix in 1962, where Jackie served as a secretary/bookkeeper for Charlevoix Public Schools, Electra and Northern Michigan Mental Health Board.

Jackie was a member of the First Congregational Church of Charlevoix. She loved to play bridge, cross-stitch and spend time with her three beloved cats. She will be best remembered for her fine sense of humor and her indomitable spirit.

Survivors include her daughter, Susan (John) Dixon, Joey Phelps and Terry Sotuyo, all of Charlevoix; Diann (Mark) Gaylord of Petoskey; three grandchildren, Matthew (Suzanne) Dixon of Ann Arbor, Benjamin (Stacey) Spencer of Petoskey and Nathaniel Sotuyo of Charlevoix; one great-granddaughter, Carly Spencer of Petoskey.

A memorial service was at 1 p.m., Oct. 29 at the First Congregational Church in Charlevoix. The Rev. Nancy Rohde officiated.

Memorial contributions may be made to Charlevoix County Hospice. Envelopes are available at the church.

Arrangements were handled by Winchester Funeral Home in Charlevoix.

Merchants want a downtown ice rink

By JULIE WITTHOEFT
Staff Writer

Some local merchants would like to see an ice rink in Charlevoix's East Park this winter.

One merchant, Linda Mason of the retail division of the Chamber of Commerce spoke on behalf of those interested in the prospect of a rink at a joint meeting of Charlevoix's Downtown Development Authority and city council.

"We are always trying to make the downtown area attractive and charming in the winter. I feel it would be a picturesque thing to have," Mason said.

Mason added she thought the rink would create a nice atmosphere and would attract people to Charlevoix's downtown during the off season.

Mason said the city does have a liner for the rink, so making this happen is just a matter of installing the rink and maintaining it.

However, city manager Mike Wiesner said he doesn't know what shape that liner is in.

As of 12:30 p.m., Oct. 26, Wiesner had not checked with city street superintendent John Martin on the status of the liner. But, he did say he thought it was "all

At the meeting, Mason said she was told by the city the rink would cost between $16,000 and $18,000.

Merchants are getting together to raise money and asked the Downtown Development Authority for their help. However Wiesner told DDA members that their funding is to be allocated to projects that are less operational and more bricks and mortar.

"We are looking for support and we encourage the DDA to give it your consideration," Mason said to DDA members.

The merchants are looking to bring more people downtown, but comments made by city manager Mike Wiesner indicate that the rink won't be possible for this year. He specifically pointed to high costs coupled with the limited time until winter is here.

"I think it's pretty late, but we'll look into it," Wiesner said of the project's potential for this winter.

One cost would include the construction of a warming hut.

Mason said perhaps they could not build a warming hut for the first year and instead they could line the area along the shore of Round Lake with Christmas trees and put lights on them to buffer the breeze off the lake.

She also suggested getting volunteer workers from local service clubs to staff the rink.

Mason also said this could be a trial to help plan what the community wants done with the park during the renovation process.

Wiesner said there was a rink in East Park 12 years ago and it didn't work out well.

He explained that the irrigation at the site was not appropriate for this type of use and the ground not being level was also an obstacle. He said for some reason it is difficult to make ice at that location.

Norwood Township approves cellular tower

By JULIE WITTHOEFT
Staff Writer

In spite of opposition from residents the Norwood Township Board unanimously voted to allow a cellular tower to be constructed in the township.

Norwood Township Zoning administrator Lynn Smolenyak said that the board took into account the concerns of the residents who spoke at a public hearing about the towers.

She added that attorneys for the tower company and the township have gone back to the drawing board to make sure many of these concerns are incorporated in the lease agreement.

The board voted to enter into a lease with American Tower Corporation at its Oct. 23 meeting. American Tower is leasing less than two acres of township property off Whitnere Road.

The land where it will be located is designated in the township zoning ordinance as a site where a company can come in and erect a tower without a special use permit. The public hearings were to make sure the lease reflects the wants of the community.

American Tower was formed in 1995 and has since added over 14,000 tower sites to its portfolio. One of its tower sites is located in Atwood.

Norwood Township resident Mark Pirie spoke out at the public hearing Oct. 23. Pirie said that since this is the same tower company that owns the Atwood tower the board should be aware that they are two years behind on payments to Banks Township.

Smolenyak said the Norwood Township board is re-negotiating their share of American's revenues from 10 percent to 25 percent, the same percentage Banks Township is receiving.

She added, to her knowledge, their debt to Banks Township has been paid and Norwood Township plans to include a clause in the lease that the township is paid their percentage monthly.

Other concerns voiced by those who attended the meeting included: lighting, safety and health related issues and effects on property values.

American responds to safety concerns on their website, www.american-tower.com, stating that residents should not be concerned that the tower will fall and damage nearby property. They claim the towers are designed using good engineering practices.

They also claim that as of August of 2000 there were no adverse health effects associated with towers and antennas.

"To date (August 2000), no research exists that can substantiate claims that radio frequency (RF) fields cause any adverse health effects," the site states.

The lease between the township and the tower company stipulates that the maximum height of the tower is 190 feet. Smolenyak said the township would like the tower painted, but that painting of the tower isn't something American is interested in. If unpainted the tower will be steel.

The lease stipulates that American is in charge of maintaining the tower and tearing it down when it is no longer of use.

Another specific stipulation to be added deals with the tower construction time. If after the lease between the two is signed, 24 months passes, the lease is no longer in effect.

Smolenyak said if American doesn't find companies to locate on the tower and don't construct because it has no users, the township doesn't want to have unused leases in effect.

Kevin Dey attended the township board meeting to represent the tower company. Dey said AT&T has already indicated interest in locating on the tower.

Smolenyak said that assuming the lease ends up the way it is now, the property will be leased to American for a five year term after which time the township and the company will have the option of renewing this five year period, five times.

Smolenyak said if you ask American, the tower will be up by the end of the year, but she doesn't think it is likely. She said the tower can't be constructed until the specifics of the lease are nailed down.

Elementary school gets renovations

By JULIE WITTHOEFT
Staff Writer

Excited students filtered into the new media center at Charlevoix Elementary School Monday.

Diane Priess' kindergarten student Autumn Stupca said, "It was so big; almost as big as my house."

Elementary school principal Richard Swenor said the new wing has opened up a world of possibilities. The school was built in 1969 and with the exception of new carpet, the initial building project was the last major change at the school.

Swenor said they needed that space for more books and this was a natural place to add on to the building. There are now two wings on either side and the library connects in between the two at the rear of the new library.

The art and music rooms now have better access to outside for projects and recess.

And then there's the library. Swenor said the library is in many ways the hub of a school.

"With the new facility we will be able to house more information, books and technology," he said.

Computing possibilities at the school have been expanded. Where the library once was is now the Integrated Learning System Computer Lab complete with 10 computer work stations.

Girls' basketball impressive, despite loss

By JEREMY MCBAIN
Editor

While the Charlevoix girls' basketball team may have lost to Gaylord Saturday, 47-68, they are still on top of the league.

According to interim coach Jim Parrish, Gaylord got away from Charlevoix in the early part of the game and the Rayders just couldn't catch up.

"(Gaylord) was making all their shots. They were taking a lot of shots that you would think wouldn't go in that did," he said.

Grace Farrell led in points with 19. She was followed by Krista Swenor with 10 and Alyssia McDonough with 6. Krista Swenor also had 12 rebounds, Farrell had nine and Jennifer McClellan had nine assists.

In the junior varsity game, Charlevoix lost to Gaylord 53-56. Sara Cross led points with 14. Cross also had nine rebounds. Shayna Drost had six steals, Rebecca Kanine had six assists, Brooke Blanchard had eight rebounds and Kari Way also had eight.

This loss came after a Charlevoix

"They were taking a lot of shots that you wouldn't think would go in that did."

Jim Parrish,

Charlevoix girls' interim basketball coach win, in overtime, at East Jordan on Oct. 25, 86-78.

Parrish said the Rayders had a decent lead into the fourth quarter, but East Jordan started fouling, thus slowing down the clock and taking Charlevoix off its game.

But, Parrish said in the overtime Kathryn Ricks and McClellan came through. Ricks was five for six with free-throws and hit a three pointer. McClellan was three for four in free-throws.

McClellan led the total points with 21. She was followed by Farrell with 13 and Krista Swenor with 11.

In the junior varsity game against East Jordan, Charlevoix won 76-37.

Jessica Pettis led the scoring with 19, followed by Cross with 18, Way with 14 and Kanine with 10.

Cross also had 22 rebounds, Blanchard had 12 and Pettis had nine.

As of Monday, the Rayders were undefeated in the conference.

But, Parrish stressed the big games are coming up. On Thursday, Charlevoix will face Kalkaska in Kalkaska.

"It is always a great place to play. If they knock us off, that is their chance to get back at us," he said.

Charlevoix beat Kalkaska last year in the tournaments.

Charlevoix residents have good day at finals

Cross country state bound

By JEREMY MCBAIN
Editor

The boys' cross country team is the regional champions and two members of the girls' team are heading to state finals.

The boys' team received their honors last weekend at the regional championships in Boyne Falls.

According to coach Ken Plude, this is something his team has been working towards for many years.

"They wanted to bring back a tradition to Charlevoix. That has been their goal, to win the conference championship and regional. Now they want to see what they can do at state," Ken said.

Currently the boys' team is ranked sixth in the state. But, Plude is not concerned about that.

"It is going to come down to who has the best day," he said.

The state finals are this weekend in Brooklyn.

At the regional competition, Gordie Selph took first, Tim Daining took third, Peter Gorkiewicz took fifth, Josh Popenhagen took fourteenth, Zack Bajos took nineteenth, Abraham Dhaseler took twenty-sixth and Eli Pace took thirty-third. Everyone in the top 14 spots were also named "All Regional."

On the girls' team, Liz Ulrich and Katie Swenor are heading to the state meet to compete individually.

Ulrich was also named the regional champion. This is the first time in Charlevoix's history that there has been a girls' champion from the school.

Both Swenor and Ulrich competed at the state finals last year.

Their coach, Mary Plude, is not nervous about their skills.

"They have the experience and it is the same course as last year. They are actually quite confident," Mary said.

She added both her runners are looking really good and mentally ready for the meet.

The placements of the other runners on the girls' team at regional were: Brenna Bergmann in nineteenth, Natasha Klieber in twenty-second, Teresa Martin in thirty-fourth, Michelle Rowe in thirty-seventh and Elizabeth Madison in forty-fifth.

Mary said they all ran their best times of the season at this meet.

Soccer team takes two wins

The Charlevoix soccer team continued its march towards a district showdown with Elk Rapids by capturing a pair of victories over Houghton Lake and Boyne City Oct. 16 and 18, raising their record to 10-8.

In the match up at Houghton Lake, the Bobcats got on the board early in the first half. Charlevoix tied the match a few minutes later on a header by Scott Friske on a tremendous pass from Spencer Bryn.

After Houghton Lake took a 2-1 lead in the second half, Friske answered again on another header to knot the match, this time on a corner kick from Travis Smith.

With the game tied 2-2 with 10 minutes remaining, Roscoe Serrels received a throw in and beat a pair of defenders to score what proved to be the winning goal. Coach Josh Block said the winning goal was one of the proudest he has seen in soccer.

The defense of Colin Seguin, Bryce Daly, Ezra Bakker and Mike Dupuis was once again outstanding. Kyle Tilly made some key saves to preserve the win.

In the game against Boyne City, the Rayders overpowered the inexperienced Ramblers for a 10-0 win.

Spencer Bryn provided most of the offense by tying a school record with five goals. Kyle Tilly picked up his third shutout of the season.

Centennial farm

Farming has been a tradition for a number of Michigan families for generations. Jim Hisey and his family have toughed it out for more than 100 years and were recently recognized for their efforts in agriculture by the Michigan Historical Commission. The commission granted the Hisey family the first Centennial Farm designation in Marlon Township.

Hisey joins 18 other Centennial Farms located in Charlevoix County. Pictured at left is a view of the Hisey family barn from the family corn fields that are currently being farmed by Marlon Township resident Tom Wieland. (Photos by Julie Witthoef)

Renovations needed, but more docks questioned

MEETING

WATCH member Michelle Biddick sat on the panel and read letters from community members with alternate ideas. Some alternatives include a new marina in the Depot Beach area, a new marina at Ferry Beach, permanent moorings in the Round Lake harbor and a Lake Michigan docking area.

However, these alternatives raised eyebrows too. Boulder Park resident Bill Sherman said the Lake Michigan stretch his home fronts already feels pinched by Cemex and the hospital expansion.

"A marina is the last thing we want in that area," Sherman said. Winn said that spending time on a plan for Lake Michigan would be a waste, as the project is cost prohibitive. He said it would be three times the cost of renovating the municipal marina and most likely would not be used.

However, heavy use of Round Lake is the reason Fuller from Tip of the Mitt was on the panel.

Fuller prefaced his statements by saying Tip of the Mitt has no position on the marina at this time. However, the organization is interested in minimizing the impact on water resources.

He spoke of water quality issues that may come up if an expansion were to occur.

These include: oil and gas emissions, bacteria and other pathogens from holding tanks, heavy metals, treated lumber, erosion, a decrease in water clarity, an impact on aquatic plants, wildlife impacts, the spread of more exotic organisms, noise pollution, litter and an aesthetic impact.

Two Round Lake residents, Diane and Bill Jerome, said the pollution and litter is already a major issue. Diane said pollution on the shoreline has killed numerous animals including birds, squirrels and even dogs.

A third resident, Chuck Unbehaun, who has 150 feet of beach on Round Lake, said he takes the beach at least twice a day to clear it of litter and debris.

Don Ward, co-owner of Ward Brothers marine facility on Round Lake said the pollution isn't the fault of boats. He said the biggest source of Round Lake pollution is the city's storm water runoff that drains directly into the lake.

As the two hour meeting came to a close, those who attended, including Mike Buttigieg of East Jordan, urged residents to stay involved.

"Claims that the marina is at the beginning stages are wrong — if there is this much concern it's well on its way. People have been bamboozled on what's going on with the development of this area," he said.

Blossom said that no concerned residents should let down their guard. He urged residents to keep in touch with their city council members.

If I experience jaw pain, clicking or have difficulty chewing, should I ask my dentist for a referral to see a Physical Therapist?

"Absolutely! The jaw takes a lot of abuse day to day with clenching, grinding and even normal chewing. Excess joint strain can show up as clicking or pain.

Physical therapy is quite effective in reducing those symptoms just as it is with ankle sprains or sore shoulders." Chuck Smith, P.T.

Women's center to have fund-raiser

The Women's Resource Center will have a Harvest Food and Supply Drive to benefit Safe Home.

Family violence is a major issue in our society. One out of every four American women report they have been physically abused by their partner at some point in their lives.

The Women's Resource Center provides critical emergency services to domestic abuse and sexual assault victims in Antrim, Charlevoix, Cheboygan, Emmet and Otsego counties. Safety, security, and help are available at the Safe Home, a shelter specifically for families in crisis.

In the past year, 80 women and 103 children took refuge at Safe Home to escape the peril of emotional, verbal and/or physical abuse. This means, 3,299 nights of housing were provided; averaging 9 persons per day, 365 days a year.

During the past year, food and supply costs exceeded $20,000, of which over $15,000 was donated by groups and individual supporters.

The Harvest Food and Supply Drive is an appeal to the northern Michigan community to assist Safe Home in providing food, household goods and personal items to the families who reside there. Non-perishable foods such as canned goods, boxed meals and soups are a major need.

The Safe Home is also faced with raising over $100,000 each year to physically maintain the facility, to staff and operate the home 24 hours per day and to provide its special services. Cash donations are needed and appreciated.

"This year's drive, like any other, is critical in order to meet the fiscal demands that housing women and children places on the domestic abuse and sexual assault program. In the wake of our national disaster this drive may appear as less of a priority for giving. Yet, the tragedy of family violence cannot be minimized as it is as insidious, destructive and potentially life threatening as any other form of violence. We need the community to help," Janet Mancinelli, executive director, said.

To drop off a donation, receive a copy of the Safe Home needs list or for more information, please call the Women's Resource Center: Petoskey (231) 347-1572, Cheboygan (231) 627-2380, Mancelona (231) 587-8891 or Gaylord (989) 731-0918.

Stay of sewer construction denied by court

SEWER

Last week, Superintendent of Charlevoix Public Schools John Strock said if all goes smoothly the school case would be on the appellate docket a year from now, which would be October of 2002, one month after the school's doors are scheduled to open. So, to open on time and not violate the stay, the school would have no other choice but to construct an on-site septic field.

A brief in support of the motion was filed with the court Oct. 12 on behalf of the five plaintiffs: Kenneth Richard Tunison, Paul Richards, Kenneth Staley, Joseph Seidel and Robert G. Mossman.

In the brief they claim, "Without a stay of proceedings the subject matter and remedies of plaintiff/appellants' appeal could be defeated moot because the bond proceeds will be expended for unlawful and unapproved purposes — the sewer infrastructure extension. Irreparably altering the status quo and the sewer will be constructed with public money from the school, oversized to further private development, making it physically impossible to grant appellant any meaningful relief on its statutory and constitutional claims."

However, when the motion day arrived, Pajtas ultimately disagreed with the plaintiffs' claim and denied their motion for stay of proceedings pending their appeal.

However, the brief in opposition to the motion that was filed by Bill Ewald of Braun Kendrick and Finkbeiner of Bay City said the motion was the plaintiffs' attempt to meet the goal of the lawsuit again.

"Plaintiffs' stay motion is a blatant attempt to acquire the very relief their lawsuit seeks and it, like their lawsuit, should be rejected out of hand," Ewald stated.

The case in question was filed on Oct. 12, 2000 and was decided by Pajtas on Sept. 14, 2001 when he dismissed the school. The plaintiffs subsequently filed an appeal on Sept. 27, 2001 and filed this motion for a stay pending the appeal on Oct. 12, 2001.

The plaintiffs believe bond money is being misappropriated by the school. The district plans to pay for a sewer extension from the City of Charlevoix out to the site of the new high school. School officials claim the expense will be reimbursed by fees paid by those who hook into the line.

Other claims by the plaintiffs state that the line is 66 times the size needed to serve the site and the school is using public tax dollars to service private developments.

No court date has been set in the Lansing appeals court.

There are four standards in Michigan state law that must be met in order to grant a stay as was requested by the appellants. These standards include: harm to the public interest if an injunction is not issued, whether harm to the applicant in the absence of temporary relief outweighs the harm to the opposing party if relief is granted, the strength of the applicant's demonstration that the applicant is likely to prevail on the merits and the applicant demonstrates they will suffer irreparable injury if the relief is not granted.

Pajtas felt the four standards were not met by the five plaintiffs.

The school is free to continue with plans to extend the sewer line up Marion Center Road.

Expanded media center, front office updated

SCHOOL

A room that served as a temporary library while renovations were underway is a larger computer lab which will service full classes.

Swenor said the small size of the old computer room could only accommodate half a class and was full all the time. The new facility will allow more time scheduling for classes.

In the fall of 2002 the fifth grade class at the elementary school will join the middle school students at the old high school.

The renovation coupled with the loss of the fifth grade students will allow the district to get rid of the portables that currently serve as classrooms. One classroom will be gained inside the building and a science lab will open for use by all teachers.

Two special education classrooms were divided by bookcases before and are now autonomous classrooms divided by temporary walls.

Another feature parents, students, staff and visitors have raved about is the new parking and drop-off system. The loop that used to be functional is now only for buses. A second loop, north of the original, is now used for drop-off and visitor parking. Parking to the south of the original loop is for staff.

The front reception office also got a major facelift including child friendly counters.

Family to have annual haunted house

HAUNTED

Dean said people are so surprised at some of the things they see in the house, they bring their friends who eventually bring their friends.

This year, visitors will find a mini-morgue, a ghostly bagpiper in the graveyard, a mad scientist, a coffin complete with mourners, a few witches and many other ghouls of the night.

Escorts will take people in groups of four through the house. Coffee and cider will also be provided.

Donations will be accepted at the door that will be given to the Red Cross.

Dean said he got into creating this haunted house with his family simply out of his love for Halloween and being scared.

He said when he was a kid, he loved the feeling he got when he was scared by a haunted house or horror movie. He describes it as a rush of excitement followed by laughter when you realize how scared you were.

"I know what the little kid goes through," he said.

However, sometimes Dean's love of giving frights gives him some bumps and bruises. He likes to tell the story of a child that was walking through one of his haunted houses, who he snuck up behind.

When the child turned around, Dean said, "Boo!" The child was so startled by Dean, that he whopped him in the face with his candy bag, sending Dean backwards.

"The kid just looked at me and said, 'Back off,'" Dean laughs. "I just knew his heart was racing."

Of all the visitors that Dean and his family and friends enjoy scaring, he said their favorite is teenagers.

Especially the ones with an attitude, he said.

But, everyone visiting the Spenceley's haunted house tonight are sure to experience a fright or two.

"That is what Halloween is all about, to get scared," Dean said.

Parts of beach projects cut to save money

BEACH

The DDA increased their donation to the Park Avenue Water Tower Park portion of the Michigan Beach project to $95,300 from $81,273.28. However, this does not include the steel handrail that the city included in its original estimates and project description.

They estimated the handrail would cost $2,500 and H & D bid the rail at $17,539.

Wiesner said he didn't think the rail was a major loss and it wasn't a code item. Malewitz and Wiesner said the handrail could easily be added later.

The projects' biggest supporter, the Michigan Department of Natural Resources, awarded both Michigan and Depot beach projects over $400,000. But that grant was awarded when the other uses that have now been deducted were part of the plan.

On Oct. 26 Wiesner was drafting a letter to the department to get approval for the new plan.

When Wiesner was asked whether or not the department would still contribute $400,000, he said, "That's certainly our goal. From what I understand, that (keeping the funding) isn't that big of a hurdle."

Renovations at Michigan Beach will still include the removal of the existing beach wall and building its replacement, the construction of a picnic shelter, 28 feet by 34 feet, building a boulder barrier along the road.

The city also plans to use its construction crew to build a grass volleyball court, a foot wash patio and a table/drinking fountain.

Wiesner said he expects all of these items to be in by the end of summer 2002. The work being done by H & D is expected to be completed by June 15, 2002.

The city projected the entire project would cost $726,591.94.

Items deducted from the Depot Beach project include: landscaping, a new sprinkler system, installation of wood chip trails, miscellaneous railing and curbing and the elaborate sand volleyball court. The Depot Beach deletions saved the city $76,885.65.

Like the Michigan Beach project, construction of a bathroom facility at Depot Beach will be re-bid in hopes of getting a better price.

H & D will be working on various projects at Depot Beach which include: construction of sidewalk and handicap ramps, building of a picket fence, installation of children's play equipment and construction of a field stone wall.

To save money, city crews will install a grass volleyball court, a foot wash and drinking fountain, park benches and will perform miscellaneous removals at the site.

Wiesner said H & D changes to Depot Beach will be completed by Sept. 1, 2002.

Lake Keeper program
Everyone with questions about the ecology of Lake Charlevoix is invited to call the Lake Keeper of the Lake Charlevoix Association. The Keeper will get back to you with the answer or a way to get the answer. 231-547-4003.

The Lake Keeper program, in addition to being a source of information for the public, has an on the water presence in the boating season. From their boats, the keeper volunteers collect data about water quality and shoreline land management practices which affect the ecology of Lake Charlevoix. A data base is being built which will inform individual and governmental decisions. The Keeper and assistants have reference materials and are backed up in finding answers by the Tip of the Mitt watershed council staff.

Furnace blamed for building fire

By JEREMY MCBAIN
Editor

Fire destroyed a millwork shop and residence owned by Al Wojan around 9:30 p.m., Oct. 24 on US-31 south, behind the Flight Deck bar and bowling alley.

According to Charlevoix Township Fire Chief Curt Thompson, the department received a call from Wojan around 9:30 p.m. and firefighters were on the scene within 5 minutes. But, by the time the firefighters got there, flames were already through the roof.

"Once it gets started like that, trying to put it out is like trying to put out a box of matches," Thompson said.

The firefighters stayed on scene until 5 a.m., Oct. 25.

Wood and other flammable material that was stored in the shop only added to the problem. According to reports, the orange glow from the blaze could be seen from Big Rock Point on north US-31.

"He (Wojan) pretty well lost everything he had," Thompson said.

He added Wojan did have insurance.

The fire is being blamed on a wood furnace located outside of the building. Thompson said the furnace was connected to the shop by a duct and was used to dry material.

He said workers at the shop reportedly were having problems with the furnace that day, but thought they had fixed it and left around 6:30 p.m.

Thompson said Wojan — who also has a residence in the building — discovered the back corner of the building on fire later that night. He was the only person in the building at the time.

There were no injuries as a result of the blaze.

Personnel from the Charlevoix City Fire Department, Charlevoix County Sheriff's office and Charlevoix City Police Department assisted at the scene. Workers from Judy's Restaurant and the Charlevoix City Ambulance crew brought the firefighters refreshments throughout the night.

This is the second fire to hit Wojan's business. According to Thompson, Wojan lost another building to a fire in the early 1980s near Ferry Avenue and Stover Road.

The cause of this fire was undetermined at the time and Wojan did not have insurance, Thompson said.

Firefighters could only stand helplessly by as this building on US-31 South burned to the ground last week. The fire was blamed on a furnace. Below left, crews continued to spray water on the blaze. (Photos by Jeremy McBain)

City election turnout low

By JEREMY MCBAIN
Editor and
By JULIE WITTHOEFT
Staff writer

Sixteen percent of Charlevoix's registered voters cast their ballots Tuesday to choose who would be on three city council seats and the city clerk.

Charlevoix voters re-elected Bill Bellows and Norman Carlson to their council seats and voted Shirley Gibson into office Tuesday. Charlevoix city clerk Liz Gooch was also re-elected to office.

A total of 398 voters cast ballots in this election. There are currently about 2,522 registered voters in the city of Charlevoix.

Bellows, second ward council member, said he was glad the vote went in his favor, but he also complimented his opponent D. J. Way.

"He (Way) ran well against me," he said. Bellows beat Way with 114 votes to 34. A total of 150 votes were cast out of 822 registered voters in this ward.

With this, his fourth term on council, Bellows said he wants to continue the infrastructure improvements being done by the city and "work along the same lines that we have been."

Way said he may run again, but to ask him in two years.

"Good for Bill (Bellows). The people must be happy with him. I gave the people my best shot," he added.

Gibson, now a council member for the third ward, said she thinks the voters have "sent a message." Gibson beat her opponent, Tom Rankl, by a vote of 98 to 78. A total of 178 votes were cast out of 800 registered voters in this ward.

Airport closes to private planes

By JEREMY MCBAIN
Editor

The Charlevoix Municipal Airport closed its skies to private pilots from 5 p.m. Nov. 1 to midnight Nov. 7 under orders from the Federal Aviation Administration.

According to Elizabeth Ishamcory, private pilots were forbidden from that airspace because it was within 10 miles of the decommissioned Big Rock Point Nuclear Power Plant. Small airports near nuclear power plants throughout the country also had this ban.

Ishamcory said this was in direct response to recent warnings of a terrorist attack somewhere in the United States. The date of the airspace closing was chosen by the FAA and other federal government organizations, she added.

Karyn Brooks, manager of the Charlevoix airport, said the FAA order did not apply to commercial airlines, such as Beaver Island Airways. She did not know any further details on the order.

"I don't know what the magic number is on that date. The FAA doesn't make a lot of sense to me on why they do what they do," she said. Pilots at the municipal airport with planes stored in hangars were given the opportunity to move them on the afternoon of Nov. 1.

Playful party

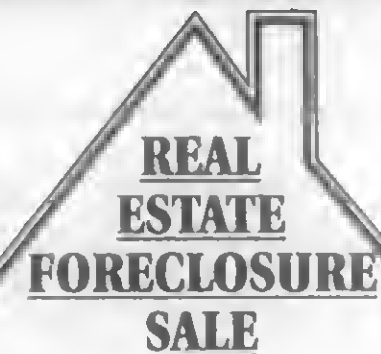

Charlevoix St. Mary's students celebrated the opening of their new playground on Oct. 31 with a blessing as they held hands around it. After the blessing, children were a blur on the new equipment as they excitedly tried it out. For more, see page 7. (Photos by Julie Witthoeft)

Police giving away gun locks Nov. 10

By JULIE WITTHOEF
Staff Writer

The Charlevoix City Police Department is promoting safe handling of firearms by giving away multi-purpose cable locks for guns.

"Any type of device that prevents an unauthorized user from accessing the weapon makes the weapon safer," Scott Hankins, city police officer and organizer of the lock, said.

The State of Michigan made the Master locks available to the Charlevoix Police Department through a grant package at no cost to the department. Police officers have over 500 of the locks to give away.

The giveaway will take place from 10 a.m. to 1 p.m., Nov. 10 at the Holiday Station on the south side of Bridge Street in Charlevoix.

Tim Kochanny, an officer with the Department of Natural Resources, will be available to answer questions about hunting rules and regulations.

Hankins said the department chose Holiday Station because they sell hunting licenses, ammunition and have a steady flow of local residents coming through.

The date for the event was chosen in lieu of Nov. 15 being opening day for rifle deer hunting season.

At first glance, the cable lock

"This is one step in making this a more difficult item to access."

Scott Hankins,
Charlevoix police officer on the gun locks looks like a typical bike lock. These cable locks are essentially padlocks with an eight to 10 inch flexible cable made of plastic sheathed steel cable in place of the solid metal shackle most padlocks are made of.

The Americans for Gun Safety Foundation (AGS Foundation) web site states, "When properly installed, a cable lock can render a firearm inoperable and unloadable."

Hankins explained when the cable lock is used on a semi-automatic pistol, the action of the gun has to be open and the slide locked to the rear making it impossible to fire. With revolvers, the cylinder is opened and there is no way the gun could be loaded or the action could be closed so there would be a round in the chamber.

Hankins said cable locks can be used with both handguns and semiautomatic shotguns.

However, the article authored by the AGS Foundation also says that cable locks have one inherent weakness — the ease of cutting the cable. They suggest avoiding inexpensive locks that can be defeated with little effort.

Hankins said the Master locks the police department is giving away are not easily defeated.

"I don't care what type of lock you put on a gun, it can be defeated in some way. This is one step in making this a more difficult item to access," he said.

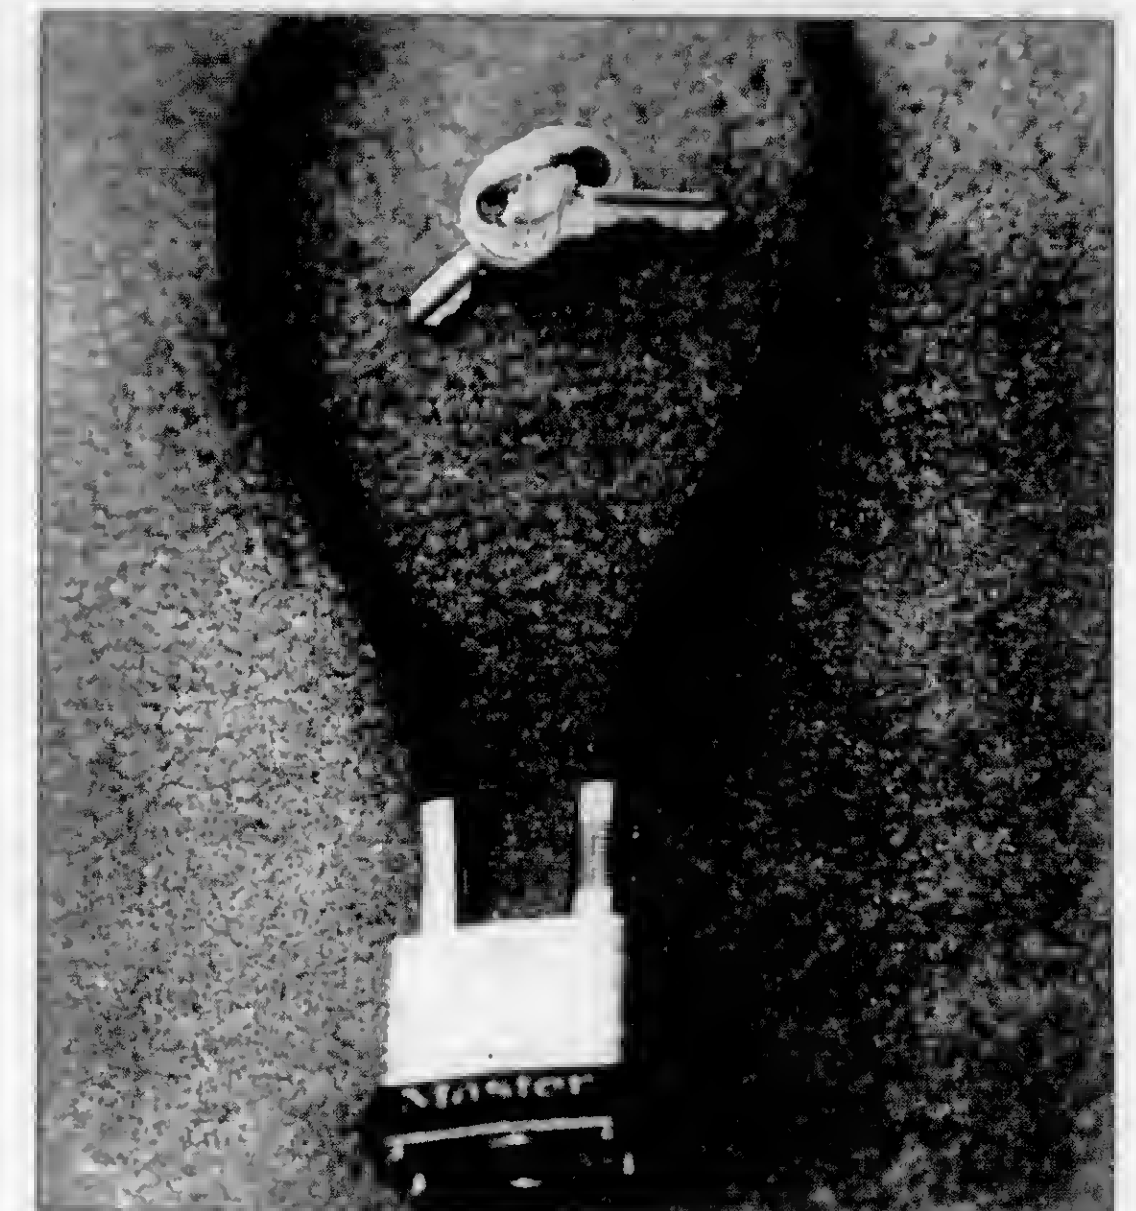

Hankins added that the cable in question is a "pretty stout piece of equipment."

"To cut the cable would take an adult with a good set of cable cutters. It would not be easily defeated by a juvenile," he explained.

However, he said as is true with most gun locks, if a child has access to the keys it could be defeated easily.

Hankins said there are no specific laws in the State of Michigan he's aware of requiring gun owners to store their weapon/s in a special manner.

However, he added common sense needs to be exercised by gun owners when handling guns. With the first priority being to keep the weapon out of the hands of children and untrained and unauthorized users.

What should be done with school?

The results are in — sort of — from last month's "What do you think?" question.

The question was: What should be done about affordable housing?

Besides the one answer we received by Kyle Sitzema and used as an example in the Oct. 24 edition of the Charlevoix Courier, no one else responded. Therefore there are no responses in this week's edition.

Affordable housing is a problem facing the Charlevoix area. It will shape the future of this community. It is up to the current residents, business owners and politicians to address it now before it is too late.

This is an issue we hope the community will take up in the near future.

Since several people — including one late one — responded to our question last month on what should be the state bird, we decided to make this month's question light-hearted as well. Light-hearted questions for this feature seem to be more popular.

Currently the Charlevoix school district is involved in some major building projects. Existing school buildings and grounds are being renovated and a new high school is being built on Marion Center Road.

What do you think?

In the midst of all this, we still have not heard of any definite plans for the current Charlevoix Middle School. This building is a wonderful representation of Charlevoix's history and is the source of many memories for many residents.

So, we are wondering what your ideas are for the future of this building. Therefore, this month's question is: What should be done with the Charlevoix Middle School building?

Keep your responses to about 250 words. They will be due by 5 p.m. on Nov. 30. Please remember to sign your response.

Send them to the Charlevoix Courier at P.O. Box 117, Charlevoix, MI 49720; fax them to (231) 547-4992; e-mail them to charlevoixcourier@charlevoixcourier.com or drop them off at 112 Mason Street.

The meaning of liberal, conservative and radical

Roger Knutson
'Ear to the ground'

Listening to many of what pass for political commentators it would not be difficult to conclude the American political world is neatly divided into "liberals" and "conservatives."

For some, that translates directly into Democrats and Republicans or Leftists and Rightists. It certainly is a neat way of simplifying the world, but it's not very useful in solving problems. And I can make the case, the terms have come to carry little meaning as anything but a name to call someone on the playground.

How is it that religious fundamentalists are "radical"? It is not exactly the same as "liberal," but if we are going to call someone a name, it is close. Regardless of which terms we use they serve to divide us into two incompatible camps. It is almost equally possible to suggest the American fundamentalists are "radicals" who tout the necessity of social change and the Muslim fundamentalists in Afghanistan are "conservatives," who want to keep things the way they believe they have always been. Maybe we should have a moratorium on the use of "liberal" and "conservative" and "radical" until they can be useful as anything but an insult.

The world is always more complicated than "this or that, choose one," or "us and them" or "liberal or conservative, which are you?" It is not necessary to examine the biological world for long without coming to the unavoidable conclusion it is a complicated place. There are few either/or's, but almost always a remarkable gradation from success to failure for any organism. What ever else we may be we are preeminently organisms living in that world and all its complications apply at least as much to us as they do to elephants, sea lions or ants.

Ideologies as we understand them, as a set of ideas that cannot change and are right by definition, do not exist outside the human realm. Any organism in the natural world that decided to strictly apply a set of ideas regardless of the circumstances would be on the road to extinction as soon as circumstances changed. Natural selection is based on trying out a large number of potential solutions and allowing circumstances to determine which of them enhances survival. There are ways in which that process of natural selection seems somewhat like our democratic ideals of openness and self-correction.

Among us humans, strict ideologies like "liberal" or "conservative" provide a fine basis for discussion and debate, but are poor indeed when it comes to deciding about action. At our worst we choose sides and defend our personal ideology to the death.

Action might better be based on a widespread and open discussion of alternatives, followed by the selection of what might most enhance our survival. At our best we can do that. It works for all the other organisms and it has for half a billion years.

The taxpayers have had enough

Editor:

I would like to take issue with Richard Tunison's position (page 1, Oct. 24) about the lawsuits that have been filed against the high school project. He maintains that the money that the school board has had to spend to defend against those suits "...is their own doing. They should have been smart in the beginning..." As I see it, the school board has been smart from the beginning — voters passed the bond election, voters rejected the school board recall attempt, two incumbent candidates kept their seats in the June 2000 election, the judge dismissed the first lawsuit, the board position prevailed in the second lawsuit up through the court of appeals and the judge dismissed the third lawsuit. A wonderful new high school is being built on Marion Center Road. The school project is meeting schedule and budget targets and should open next fall. Tunison and the group of people that he represents have battled the schools on all of these fronts and have lost every time. One has to ask, are the actions of Tunison simply petty vindictiveness?

I am amazed that the issue now on the table is routing of the sewer line. For a large part of this series of complaints, the issue was building the school on the site in Marion Township, then it evolved into a fight about zoning, first against the schools then against Marion Township. Now it has come down to the sewer line. I was truly surprised when, during the oral arguments in the last court hearing, their lawyer stated that their group is not against the school being built on the Marion Center Road site! That certainly wasn't their position before. If they are not against the school why have they spent more than $150,000 to fight in the courts?

See LETTERS, page 5

LETTERS

I don't know who is paying their bills, but I wonder how principled Tunison would be if the money stopped coming in?

It is really a shame that frivolous lawsuits continue to waste an incredible amount of money, more than $300,000 to date. This money could certainly be put to better use in Charlevoix, in the schools, in the churches or in the community instead of trying to impose the will of five individuals on the school district.

Roughly half of the money is coming out of the pockets of the taxpayers of the Charlevoix School District. I am one taxpayer who is sick of it. Following the recall election, community leaders and the school district called out for healing to begin in our community. It appears that most everyone is willing to do so except for Tunison, Dr. Robert Mossman and the rest of their group. They apparently feel that there are no consequences for their actions.

Is it time for the taxpayers to show them we are tired of them wasting our money? I think so! Bill Trubilowicz

Article response

Editor:

I am responding to the Sept. 26 article, "Housing development had many obstacles," for which I would have appreciated being interviewed. My focus, as the head of Friends of Stover Creek, was to try to get the developer to be sensitive to the fragile south banks. I wrote to (the project's developer) John Watson in the fall of 2000 and asked him to consider leaving a buffer zone between the edge of the bank and construction.

I never received a reply. As a result of scraping the earth up to the edge of the bluff, vegetation, which helped to stabilize the bank, was removed. Consequently, the tendency for the sandy soil to descend into the creek increases. Silt fences are supposed to prevent this, but I pointed out the lack of soil containment in several places in June to our County Soil Erosion Officer.

A representative from Tip of the Mitt Watershed Council and I met with Watson in July 2001. Watson did address our concerns and in this sense was "environmentally sensitive." I did write him a note of appreciation. But damage, such as the uprooting of trees, was done, which could have been avoided if a buffer zone had been left. We have a township ordinance regarding development and respect for natural areas. In addition, I observed from the north bank in Sept. 2001 that earth had slid under the silt fences in some places and that trees were lying across a silt fence in one place.

The developer never "faced opposition" from Friends of Stover Creek. I had no discussion with the developer about per unit cost or housing density and no input into the public hearings that took place in the winter of 2000.

The statement that "50 units will be placed along the north edge of Stover Creek" is incorrect. Mildred Withers owns that property.

The objective of Friends of Stover Creek is to protect and improve Stover Creek and its banks. The section of the creek between M-66 and Ferry Avenue has taken an environmental beating for many years, but with some attention this part of the creek and the surrounding forest can be saved as one of the few natural areas in this part of Charlevoix County.

I have completed a bank assessment study which is being studied by Tip of the Mitt. I hope that Watson will help us realize some bank restoration efforts next summer, as he has expressed an interest in the preservation of the creek and its banks.

I ask your readers to think about where they stand on balancing preservation of a fragile natural area with development. Construction and respect for the environment need not be mutually exclusive, if care is taken by all parties.

Where Is It?

Tell us where in the Charlevoix Area you think this is.

In an effort to add a little more fun to our lives and yours, the Charlevoix Courier is working on creating interactive areas of the newspaper for our readers. In the spirit of this, we are announcing the creation of a new contest called, "Where is it?"

Each week, the Charlevoix Courier will publish a picture of some item on a local landmark or building. We invite our readers to send in their guesses on where this picture was taken.

The names of each week's correct guesses will be entered into a drawing for "1000" that will take place on December 31, 2001.

Wedding

Wujcik — Dixon

Waja Wujeik and Brian Dixon, both of Charlevoix, were married on July 7 at Elm Point in front of 350 guests.

Waja is the daughter of Evelyn and the late Walter Wujeik of Charlevoix. Brian is the son of Rosemary and Maurice Dixon of Charlevoix.

The Rev. Ruth Clausen, of Petoskey, performed the double ring rites. The bride was escorted down the aisle by her brother, Wally Wujcik, and given away by her mother.

The bride wore an A-line satin dress with spaghetti straps and trimmed with a pattern of crystal pearls. She carried a bouquet of eala lilies.

The maid of honor was Heather Powell. The bridesmaids were Nicki Argetsinger, Suzanne Dixon, Anne Petrie, Lisa Herriman and the junior bridesmaid was Jordan Dixon. Each of them wore a different style of satin dress.

The flower girl was Jaey Herriman and the ring bearer was Collin Petrie.

The best man was Chris Cohn. The groomsmen were Scott Peebles, Scott Dixon, Jim Dixon and Scott Kehrer. Ushers were Zach Kehrer and Greg Shepherd.

A reception was given at Dunnaglas Golf Course. Entertainment was provided by the Maximum Effect band and a Polish polka band.

The couple went on a wedding trip to the Caesar's Palace Resort in the Pocono Mountains. They are building a home in Charlevoix.

The groom works for J. Arnold Painting. The bride will graduate from Spring Arbor University with a degree in teaching in the fall.

St. Mary opens new playground to students

By JULIE WITTHOEFT
Staff Writer

St. Mary students — dressed as Batman, Superman and princesses — shifted their feet anxiously while they waited for the ribbon around their new playground to be cut on the morning of Oct. 31.

Halloween and the dedication of the new community playground at the school coincided. The excitement of the holiday and the new play facility was like electricity running through their veins.

The playground was dedicated to a late St. Mary parishioner, Roger Pischner and Kyle Borths, a former St. Mary student that passed away while attending the school.

Kyle's parents Cookie and Bob Borths were on hand to do the honors.

As the scissors separated the ribbon, cheers from parents, students and observers filled the air. Then, it was every student for himself and herself as they took to the new play equipment.

The morning dedication was a planned blessing of the playground after almost two years of planning.

Two years ago when the school was renovated and a new parish center was added, the playground was torn up and hauled off to a dumpster. Dale Troppman, one of the major contributors to the project, and husband of St. Mary School principal Janet Troppman,

"Participation from parents and parishioners is what makes a parish a school."

Dale Troppman,
Contributor to the project said the facility did not meet state requirements for playground equipment.

"We realized there was nothing for the children to play on," Dale said.

So, they improvised for two years, doing everything from playing on mounds of snow, playing every ball related game possible, jumping rope and drawing with sidewalk chalk.

Then, about a year ago, St. Mary administrators started meeting with playground engineers and plans for a new playground took root.

Dale said once they started planning he was stunned, he didn't realize how much space was needed around playground equipment.

Another surprise came when they found out the project would cost $30,000. But Dale said the money came quickly from grants, donations and memorials including the Pischner memorial and a donation from the Oleson Foundation.

Major donations also came from Charlevoix Site Planning who donated landscaping and prep work and Charlevoix resident Dave Bean who works with Landscape Structures, a playground planning company stationed in southern Michigan. Bean donated all his time in helping to construct the playground.

Other people who served on the board for the new playground include: Vicki Daman, Rebecca Jeakle, Jan Merrill, Marie Volovsek.

All the planning came to fruition Oct. 27. Dale said it was a little cool in the morning but it turned out to be a beautiful day for building a playground. He said there were 45 to 50 helpers on site.

"Participation from parents and parishioners is what makes a parish a school," Dale said.

Nov. 1 Dale stopped by the school. He said the play-scape was filled with students.

The new play-scape serves the needs of kids 5-12. The day of the dedication swings still needed to be hung as the concrete had not yet set.

Dale said they would be hung the night of Nov. 4.

Reduce irritants to control asthma

Asthma, a chronic inflammatory disease of the lungs, is the leading cause of long-term illness in children.

It can be triggered by irritants that are under our control such as household dust or by conditions less under our control, including weather or coming down with a common cold.

Parents are learning that old-fashioned "elbow grease" or concentrated housework, is one way to reduce the triggers causing their children's asthma. Common sense is another tool in reducing a child's exposure to asthma triggers.

For Angela Lee, whose 10-year-old son Darius has asthma, the disease is part of their everyday life.

"It's not horrible to the point that it scares me, but it's a part of our lives, and I deal with it as it comes," she said.

According to Toby Lewis, M.D., M.P.H., a pediatric pulmonologist at the University of Michigan Health System and lecturer, U-M Department of Pediatrics and Communicable Disease, the number of children with asthma has been increasing over the last 10 years.

"Even children who have mild asthma can have very severe attacks. It's important to know that people do die from asthma, although it isn't very common," Lewis said.

Lewis and others in the University of Michigan Medical School and School of Public Health have joined members of the Detroit community to implement a project that teaches families to make changes in their homes to reduce the triggers causing asthma in children.

"In this project members of the community and the University recruited individuals with outreach experience, but not necessarily with asthma, and gave them intensive training about asthma and its triggers," Lewis said.

Parents learn about changes that are in their power to make, such as controlling dust mites, pet dander and mold.

Lewis points out that people with asthma often are allergic to the things that trigger their asthma, such as pets, dust or feathers. Other triggers include chemicals with strong smells, such as bleach, ammonia or cosmetics. Smoke is an extremely common trigger.

"The first thing I say is to reduce children's exposure to second-hand tobacco smoke. The smoke also settles on clothing, furniture and rugs, so even if adults only smoke when the child isn't there, the smoke particles can still be breathed in later by the child," Lewis said.

According to Lewis, these simple methods can make a huge difference. A child experiencing constant symptoms can improve significantly from these adjustments to the home.

Common asthma triggers and what to do about them:

- Tobacco smoke — Choose not to smoke in your home or car, and do not allow others to do so.

- Animal dander — Consider keeping your pets outside, or at least keep them out of the bedroom and other sleeping areas.

- Molds — Clean up the areas where molds can grow, such as near leaking pipes, in the drip pans of air conditioners, refrigerators and dehumidifiers, and keep them clean and dry.

- Strong odors and sprays — Avoid perfumed hairspray, cleaning solutions, incense, potpourri and perfumed candles.

- House dust mites — Dust twice a week, wash sheets and blankets in hot water weekly; remove carpets or rugs from bedrooms or vacuum at least weekly.

- Household pests — Do not leave food or garbage out; store food in airtight containers.

- Feathers and Kapok stuffing in pillows and furniture — Put mattresses and pillows in hypoallergenic covers.

- Colds and infections — Keep your child as healthy as possible, encouraging nourishing foods and liquids, getting plenty of sleep and exercise. Encourage hand washing and get your child's annual flu shot early.

- Exercise — Talk to your health care professional about medicine your child can take before exercising.

- Weather — When it's cold outside, have your child breathe through his/her nose rather than mouth and wear a scarf that covers nose and mouth.

Muma named new director of senior center

By JULIE WITTHOEFT
Staff Writer

Charlevoix's Senior Center is known to many Charlevoix area residents as a place to get hot, homemade lunches, a place to pursue hobbies and a place where laughs are shared.

The atmosphere and character at the center has kept its new director, Earl Muma, 68, involved. Muma has been a part of the center for over six years.

The Senior Center Board of Directors appointed Muma as the new director Oct. 15, the day after former director and Charlevoix resident Ginie Schairbaum left to start a life in a suburb outside Chicago, Ill.

Muma is busy as the bailiff and transporting officer with the Charlevoix County Sheriff's Department, but he said when the board asked him to fill the position he couldn't say no.

"Everyone who knows Earl (Muma) knows why he does it. The board and I work together to meet a common goal, creating a better place for seniors in Charlevoix," Muma said.

Muma explained he believes the center fills an important role in the community — it gives seniors a central place where they can come and continue their relationships.

Muma's plans for the next year include expanding the kitchen so the center will be able to handle bigger jobs. He said the current kitchen area is too small. He already has an expansion underway where refrigerators and freezers will be housed.

Other plans include covering the front porch and the walkway to the road to shelter the walkway during the cold, snowy winter months. The center also plans to canvas the sides of the entry if the money comes in to do it.

The center recently completed the long awaited elevator project. Center visitors who could not access the lower level where computer, craft and dance lessons take place will now be able to participate.

The project cost the center over $35,000. The elevator was funded through donations raised over the past year.

The changes and the people at the center have Muma excited.

"I enjoy this place, I really do. There is always that reward when you see people happy. That's the way I feel about it," he said.

The Charlevoix Senior Center is open from 8 a.m. to 1 p.m. It serves lunch from 11:30 a.m. to 12:30 p.m. Monday through Friday.

The center is located at 06906 Norwood Road. For more information contact Muma at 547-5361.

Obituaries

Erik Joseph Arvilla: Feb. 7, 1979 - Oct. 24, 2001

Erik Joseph Arvilla died Oct. 24, 2001.

Erik Arvilla

Erik was born in Mt. Pleasant on Feb. 7, 1979, the son of Lavonne Riley Arvilla and Erik Fralley Arvilla.

He came to live with his grandmother, Lyla Arvilla, in Charlevoix when he was 3 years old. He attended the Charlevoix Public Schools until 1994 when he went to live with Dana Ellen MacMillan M.D. and MaryRose MacMillan in Beverly Hills.

There he attended Roepers School, where he excelled in science and mathematics. He had a great love of music and while at Roepers, he sang tenor in their choir for three years.

In the fall of 1997, he entered Wayne State University. During his undergraduate years he worked at Midwest Laboratory in their research department. He graduated with honors in 2001.

At the time of his death Erik was a student in the doctoral program at Wayne State University's School of Pharmacy.

He was an avid reader and had an insatiable thirst for knowledge. He had traveled extensively throughout the U.S. and Canada.

Erik loved life; flowers, wind, water and waves. He loved fishing, skiing and swimming. He loved music, whether playing his guitar or listening to Mozart's Requiem.

His life touched many people with happiness.

James A. O'Brien: March 21, 1923 - Nov. 1, 2001

James A. O'Brien, Jr., 78, died Nov. 1, 2001 at Spectrum Health Butterworth Campus in Grand Rapids.

He was born March 21, 1923 in Charlevoix and was the son of James A. and Mamie (Pratt) O'Brien, Sr. On June 18, 1954 in Elk Rapids, he married the former Peggy McConnell, who preceded him in death in 1993.

Mr. O'Brien was a lifelong resident of Traverse City and a long-time winter resident in San Benito, Texas. He had been employed as a truck driver for several trucking companies in the area.

Mr. O'Brien served his country honorably with the United States

Army during World War II, transporting troops ammunition and supplies. He was a member of the VFW Cherryland Post 2780; the Elks Lodge in Harlingen, Texas and the Eagles Aerie 383 in Traverse City.

An avid Detroit Tigers fan and musician, Mr. O'Brien played the banjo and had performed with many groups. He also loved all animals and enjoyed boating.

He is survived by his three daughters, Darlene (Robert) Wener of Haslett, Judith (Dennis) Conant of Traverse City, Debra (Scott) Jeffrey of Taylor; sister, Rose Waffle of Charlevoix; four grandchildren, Brian, Carol, Jennifer and Lindsey; two great-grandchildren, Elizabeth and Allison; and many nieces and nephews.

Along with his wife, Peggy, Mr. O'Brien was preceded in death by his parents; three brothers, Ernest, Edward, and infant, Albert.

Visitation was at the Reynolds-Jonkhoff Funeral Home in Traverse City on Nov. 4.

Funeral services were at the funeral home on Nov. 5. The Rev. Dr. David Gabel officiated.

Burial was in Brookside Cemetery in Charlevoix.

In lieu of flowers, memorial contributions may be directed to the Cherryland Humane Society.

HEALTH

The many misconceptions about acne

Edward Newcomb, M.D.

'Your health'

Zits, pimples, pizza face, are just a few affectionate terms to describe the very popular acne. The scourge of teens, as well as many adults, is not only a treatable condition but also one which a lot of misinformation has been presented by the advertising industry.

Acne is caused by the interaction of four factors. One is hormone induced sebum production that peaks in puberty, which explains why acne starts in the early teen years. Another factor is proliferation of the bacteria Propionibacterium on the skin. A third factor is plugging of hair follicles with too many "sticky" skin cells. The fourth factor is a hypersensitivity to the P. acnes bacteria which results in the inflammation (redness and swelling) that characterizes a full blown acne lesion.

Both boys and girls get acne, but boys tend to get more severe cases because of the higher level of androgen hormones that stimulate oil (sebum) production. Heredity plays a role as does the immune system. Some people are extra sensitive to the bacteria that get trapped in the hair follicles.

Because of these variables there is a wide spectrum of acne vulgaris severity. A whitehead results when a follicle is plugged with sebum and skin cells. If this plug reaches the surface of the skin and air touches, it turns black and is called a blackhead. If the wall of the plugged follicle breaks, the area swells and turns into a red bump. If the follicle breaks near the surface of the skin, the bump usually becomes a pimple. If the wall breaks deeper beneath the skin, the bump usually becomes a pimple. If the wall breaks deeper beneath the skin, acne cysts can form. This cystic form is the type that most likely leads to scars. There are several misconceptions about acne. For one, it is not a "dirty" problem or due to lack of cleanliness. Blackheads are not dirt, but rather due to sebum coming into contact with air. Merely washing your face cannot prevent acne, in fact too vigorous scrubbing of the skin can cause more irritation and worsen acne. It is recommended to limit washing your face to twice daily using a mild non-drying soap.

Another myth is that one can "zap a zit" by applying a topical agent. There is nothing you can put on an acne lesion to make it go away, it will resolve on its own and later in this article we will discuss how treatment is aimed at preventing new acne lesions.

Diet does not seem to be a factor in acne. Greasy or fried foods, chocolate and other foods do not cause any increase in the amount of skin oil production. There are many good reasons to avoid greasy, fatty foods but acne prevention is not one of them.

There are a variety of treatment strategies for acne. There common feature is that they are used to prevent new acne from forming. They can be grouped into two major categories, topical and systemic (taken by mouth).

City hall renovations to get underway in 2002

By JULIE WITTHOEFT
Staff writer

Over the next year-and-a-half, Charlevoix's current city hall, which was built in the late 1930s, will be gutted and renovated.

"It will be a really nice building. The current building has lasted 60 plus years. I would like to think the new renovation will have an equal run," Charlevoix City Manager Mike Wiesner said.

Jim Nichols, a representative of Rhodes Engineering Corporation of Harbor Springs attended a special city council meeting Monday to explain the upcoming changes.

The $2.3 million renovation will spruce up Charlevoix City Police and Fire departments including the addition of shower facilities, a fire department training room and a work out room.

The three space parking area that sits on the Mason Street side of the building will be where an addition is constructed. This addition will house the new city council chambers. The new area will allow the police department to grow.

Acne not caused by dirt, food

agents is Benzoyl Peroxide which is the active ingredient in most over the counter acne preparations such as Clearasil, Stridex and Oxy-10. It is important to use these products daily on freshly washed skin, applying it to the acne prone areas of your skin, not just on the acne lesions present. Benzoyl peroxide can be irritating to the skin and cause some redness and dryness.

Other topical agents available by prescription include Vitamin A derivatives, topical antibiotics and prescription strength Benzoyl Peroxide.

Whatever program one uses, it may take 4-8 weeks to see improvement, so be patient. If topical treatments are not effective, prescription oral medicines such as antibiotics or Accutane may be used. Often these products are used in combination with topical products.

Which medication is most appropriate for you will need to be decided by you and your physician.

Finally some "Do's and Don'ts" when it comes to acne management.

- Don't squeeze or pick at acne lesions since that might make the bacteria penetrate deeper into the skin.

- Do remember that any treatment plan takes 1-2 months to see results.

- Do try to avoid oil based makeup, hair gels and sprays that may contribute to plugging hair follicles.

- Don't make fun of people with acne, it isn't their fault.

- Do speak to your physician about what acne management plan is best for you.

Use questions surround sewer line

By JULIE WITTHOEFT
Staff Writer

City council has set the wheels in motion to extend the city sewer to the site of the new high school being built in Marion Township.

At its Monday meeting, council voted in favor of the city entering into an agreement with both Charlevoix and Marion townships and Charlevoix Public Schools.

City Manager Mike Wiesner said the line will be constructed by late May. The line will go in 30 days after the Charlevoix County Road Commission lifts frost laws. Bids for the extension will be received Friday.

Wiesner said the city will benefit as more customers are added — the city's fixed cost remains constant, user fees will be lower.

Kenneth Richard Tunison, a Charlevoix resident and a plaintiff in the case opposing the sewer pending in the Michigan Court of Appeals pointed out another way the city could benefit.

Tunison said, "This is a smart move for the city: $633,000 of someone else's money will build them a sewer to their hoped for industrial site."

In a recent interview, Charlevoix City Manager Mike Wiesner was asked about costs associated with locating an industrial site in Charlevoix as property values continue to climb.

He said, "Rising property values will certainly effect the process, but the acquisition cost isn't the only cost we have to consider."

Wiesner explained the other possible cost is related to utility extensions to the site. He said that the city hasn't found a site that meets their needs yet.

When Wiesner was asked if the sewer extension makes Marion Center Road a more attractive option for the industrial site he said, "Any place that sewer gets close to is going to help in the overall cost."

Wiesner said that they have no set acreage amount that they are looking for.

Last winter the city approached Marion Township resident Joe Martinechek with an offer to buy his land located off Marion Center Road, but Martinechek declined the offer.

Martinechek said, "We haven't talked with the city in a long time. They wanted to buy it but for what they were willing to offer, we weren't interested."

He said the city wanted to get a per acre price similar to that which the school district paid when they bought land off Marion Center Road in Marion Township for the new high school.

Martinechek did say he would be willing to sell the property to the city but only at the market price. He said he doesn't object to the city's planned industrial use of the site.

In fact, in reaction to his feelings about an industrial park being placed in the township, he said growth is inevitable.

"I don't really care about it (the industrial use.) I never expected to see a school out here either. The township is growing and eventually land is not going to be farmed out here because you can't make a living farming," he explained.

Martinechek has farmed his land since 1942 and used to rent and farm the Anderson land where the new high school is currently being built. He said this year, his crops took a beating from the extreme, variable precipitation.

The Martinechek family owns 240 acres along Marion Center Road and 160 acres off Black Road. He said the parcel the city inquired about is 100 acres of land at the Marion Center Road site.

The sewer extension agreement council unanimously accepted specifies the terms under which the city will construct the sewer system, including the obligations of the city, the townships and the school.

So far, the city has constructed a lift station, known as pump station number three, at the northwest corner of the intersection of US-31 and Marion Center Road. The estimated local share of this pump station is $42,841. The school is required to pay this amount to the city.

The city has also incurred costs to construct a sanitary sewer known as "Initial Marion Center" across US-31 and under Marion Center Road. The estimated cost of this extension is $85,000. The school is required to pay this $85,000 to the city.

The city agreed to construct a sanitary sewer system extending out from Marion Center Road to the south, to a point opposite the high school site. The cost of this extension is estimated at $282,823. The city has also incurred $9,200 in engineering costs to provide estimates of cost to construct the sewer.

The city has already been reimbursed for engineering fees for the design of the "Primary Marion Center Construction" which the school has reimbursed it for.

The city also agreed to construct a sanitary sewer system, including a force main and lift station on the high school site to initially serve the high school sites only. The city agreed to maintain the sewers and the lift stations and those on the high school site as a public sewer system.

This force main and lift system will cost the school $93,345.

The school will pay for engineering costs and will provide the city with an easement to the high school site to allow for construction and maintenance of the sewer force main and lift station at the school site. The school will be in charge of paying for electricity to operate the lift station.

One way the district will be able to recoup the money they are allocating to this extension is through tap-in fees from future users. The school will receive money over the next 20 years from tap-ins.

When Wiesner was asked whether the school would be able to get back their $633,000 investment over 20 years he said, "I don't know, if growth takes place they can. If growth doesn't take place they can't."

The city will handle all applications for tap-ins, billing, collection, and other matters related to sewer usage by residents of the two townships.

The agreement says the city will own and maintain all sewer lines constructed on Marion Center Road and the lift station and force main at the high school site. The school will own and maintain all sewer lines flowing into the lift station on the school site.

The new sewer line will be used for the new Charlevoix High School on Marion Center Road. (File Photo)

Crystal Skull

Native legends speak of crystal skulls, said to "talk & sing." They were considered as an inheritance from an ancient time, carrying messages of the origins & purpose of Humanity -- and what may be discovered, when we lose our fear of death. Whatever the origins, there's no doubt this is fascinating. Hailed as a marvel by those who have examined it, this genuine, life-sized artifact will be in an upcoming book on unexplained mysteries. Cause of 1997 Whitney fire debated in court

By JULIE WITTHOFT
Staff Writer

A restaurant fire that happened over four years ago in the city of Charlevoix is still being debated.

Last week, in Charlevoix County Circuit Court a seven person jury unanimously ruled Charlevoix resident and owner of Whitney's Oyster Bar, Charles Whitney, was at fault for the fire that consumed the restaurant Sept. 4, 1997.

"We knew it was a tough case. I'm surprised, but I'll accept the jury's decision," Sheila Walsh, representing Citizens Insurance and Charles Whitney said.

Whitney's insurer at the time of the fire, Howell-based Citizens Insurance, was the plaintiff in the case. Citizens asked the jury to rule in their favor claiming $500,000 in damages.

They looked to recoup this loss from defendants Bob Muneio, 42, a Charlevoix resident and owner of Superior Mechanical and Duane Archambo, 40, owner of Northern Fire and Safety of Traverse City.

Citizens claimed that work Muneio completed during the 1997 restaurant renovation caused the fire damage to be more extensive. And it further claimed Northern Fire and Safety installed equipment in the restaurant's fire suppression system that delayed its activation.

Charlevoix City Fire Chief Doug Carver testified he didn't approve of the 1997 renovations at Whitney's because the changes created a building over a building. Carver said if there were a fire, firefighters would have a problem accessing the attic area.

However, in March of 1997, the city of Charlevoix approved the building permit.

Whitney testified the 1997 building changes created a three foot gap between the existing walls — the "building within a building" concept Carver alluded to.

Final 4-H Charlevoix soccer standings

Recently over 450 children between the ages of 4 to 12 participated in the Charlevoix 4-H soccer tournament.

All of the tournament games were very close and many went into sudden death overtime.

The final standings are:

• Under 6 — Pat McKeown in first; a three way tie for second between the Rapids, Wizards and Fusion; Burn in third and Fire in fourth.

• Under 8 — Fifth Third Insurance in first; Top Rank in second; Three Guys Painting in third; Subway in fourth; Penfold AFC in fifth; a two way tie for sixth between Lyons Marine and Ace Hardware and Markettech in seventh; Rush Equipment in eighth; Shindorf Builders in ninth; Pine River Medical in tenth and Daman Electric in eleventh.

• Under 10 — Lions Club in first; Kiwanis in second; Russells in third; Currier in fourth; Northwest Heating in fifth; Frisbey in sixth and Charlevoix State Bank in seventh.

• Under 12 — Remax in first; Eye Health in second; Ace Hardware in third; Pet Club in fourth and Radio Shack in fifth.

The annual meeting for 4-H soccer is scheduled for Nov. 13 at Charlevoix High School. For more information, call Mark at 547-4841.

Boys' cross country takes third in state

By JEREMY MCBAIN
Editor

The Charlevoix boys' cross country team finished third in the state tournament last weekend.

Coach Ken Plude said while the team was overall happy with being third out of over 150 schools, they were a little disappointed.

"The guys wanted to get first for four years. But they had a good effort," Ken said.

Many of the senior runners on the team said they wanted to be state champions when they joined as freshmen. These runners have been working toward this goal for the last four years, only to finish in third place by one point behind Benzie Central.

"They came very close," Ken said.

Girls' basketball team conference champions

By JEREMY MCBAIN
Editor

The Charlevoix girls' basketball team seems to be unstoppable as it prepares for the start of tournament play next week.

The team is coming off of two wins last week, a 64-55 win against Traverse City St. Francis on Oct. 30 and a 51-50 win at the buzzer against Kalkaska on Nov. 1. The win against Kalkaska gave the Rayders the conference championship.

In the Kalkaska game, the Rayders kept the fans on the edge of their seats as they fought for the championship. The game came down to the final second when Krista Swenor hit a three point shot at the buzzer, putting the Rayders on top.

"It was great. I had more fun watching (assistant basketball coach) Dick Swenor. He jumped up about 4 feet in the air," interim coach Jim Parrish said.

Leading scorers for the game were Grace Farrell and Krista Swenor both with 13 points. Kathryn Ricks had nine points, three of which were three pointers. Katie Swenor and Jennifer McClellan both had six points.

Farrell also had nine rebounds and two blocks. Krista Swenor, McClellan and Katie Swenor had six rebounds each.

In the Traverse City St. Francis game, Farrell led the scoring again with 22 points. McClellan had 15 points and Katie and Krista Swenor both had 10 points.

Farrell added 14 rebounds to her statistics.

Parrish said what makes his team great this year is their sense of teamwork.

"If you talk to people that scout the team, they will tell you we really don't have a big scorer," Parrish said. Instead, the team counts on each other to take advantage of opportunities that come up.

For instance, if their opponent is giving the Rayders more outside shots, Charlevoix has the arsenal to take advantage of that. But if an opponent has shut down the outside and "It was great. I had more fun watching (assistant coach) Dick Swenor. He jumped up about 4 feet in the air."

Jim Parrish,
Interim girls' basketball coach left the inside alone, Charlevoix can easily change tactics and gives the ball to its inside shooters.

"These girls work for all their offenses," Parrish added.

As for their conference championship, Parrish said it is nice, but the team is really striving to be undefeated in the conference and, as of Monday, they still had Boyne City to get through.

The results of the Boyne City game were not known before press time.

Next week, the Rayders will be taking part in tournament play. The team will have its first game at 6 p.m. in Boyne City on Nov. 14.

Charlevoix will play either East Jordan or Elk Rapids. The winner of this game will advance to the finals at 7 p.m. on Oct. 16.

Runners make great showing

STATE

Hemlock took the state title.

The seniors on the team are Gordie Selph, Josh Popenhagen, Eli Pace and Abe Dhaseler.

Those on the team who won medals were Selph in tenth, Peter Gorkiewicz in twentieth and Tim Daining in twenty-sixth. These three boys were also named all state. Gorkiewicz will also likely be named to the academic all state team.

Going into the meet, Charlevoix was ranked fifth. In getting the third place victory, the Rayders beat the number one ranked team, Williamston.

"It was a good season, a really good season," Ken said.

In addition to the strong finish by the boys' team, two members of the girls' team also had a good showing as individuals at the state meet.

Liz Ulrich finished ninth and Katie Swenor finished twenty-ninth.

According to coach Mary Plude, the race was very muddy and the times of every runner were slower than usual. However, these two Charlevoix runners still ran 15 seconds faster than they have all year.

"They just ran great races," Mary said. Both were named to the all state team.

This is the second year Swenor has been named to the all state team. This makes her the first female runner to be named to the team twice in the state.

Renovations to city hall to start in spring 2002

There will be a platform lift in this expansion area to allow the public to access the fire department training area.

New council chambers will be equipped with additional seating and state of the art technology including audio visual components. The current main level council chambers will be the office of the building department, the electric department and the city clerk.

Elevators will also be added to the building on the main floor.

While the changes are being made, administrative officials working for the city will be moved to the old post office on Mason Street. Changes to the post office will cost the city $60,000. The price includes rewiring the building, re-carpeting, repainting and bathroom changes.

Nichols said the changes will increase the value of the building and make it more marketable if the city decides to sell it after the renovation.

The post office renovation will take place from Feb. 23, 2002 to April 27, 2002. The city administration will make the move to the newly renovated building during the first week of May.

Remodeling of the current city hall will get in gear May 18, 2002 and is scheduled to be completed and ready for occupancy on Dec. 7, 2002.

After the administration is moved back into the new building, the city fire and police departments will make the move to the post office. This is tentatively scheduled for Dec. 21, 2002.

The remodeling of the two departments will start Jan. 3, 2003 and is scheduled to be completed by Feb. 28, 2003. The two departments will work on moving back into the new facility March 1, 2003 through March 29, 2003.

Overall, Nichols said the changes will help the building be better suited for the public.

The building will retain its sandstone structure with limestone trim. The addition will also match the existing exterior.

Funding for the project will come from $1.4 million set aside in the 2001-2002 budget period. The project will also use $240,000 from the 2002-2003 budget period. To complete the project the city will borrow $678,000 from the electric fund which will be paid back with 4 percent interest by the budget period ending in 2007.

Former Coast Guard Commander Jim Shall will act as the city's liaison during the renovation process to ensure city administration is on the same page with all the contractors.

One Afternoon ... Ten Russian Journalists

You are invited to share in a unique opportunity to meet with ten visiting Russian journalists during a round-table discussion on ethics and current issues in journalism, moderated by Jeremy McBain, editor of the Charlevoix Courier.

Where: North Central Michigan College

When: Tuesday, November 13, 2001

Public discussion from 3 to 5 p.m. - free of charge.

Informal dinner at 5:30 p.m. - pre-registration required and payment of $10 in advance.
at NCMC Conference Center

The Russian delegation will be visiting media businesses in northern Michigan the week of November 13-17 as a part of a program through the Center for Citizen Initiatives, a San Francisco based group dedicated to economic reform in Russia.

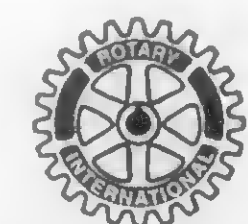

The delegation is composed of Russian newspaper and magazine editors, publishers and public relations directors. The Charlevoix Rotary Club, Charlevoix Courier and Petoskey News-Review are sponsoring their stay in the area.

The November 13 event is co-hosted by North Central Michigan College and the Michigan Press Association.

If you would like to attend this special event, please make a reservation by contacting the Petoskey News-Review at (231) 347-2544, by Thursday, November 8.

Jury rules contractor was not at fault for fire

FIRE

During the renovation process, Whitney contracted with Muncio who installed a new hood in the kitchen and an exhaust fan and extended duct work to the roof of the building.

In her closing argument Walsh claimed, "The extension made it (the duct work) hotter and that's why the fire happened and that's why the building burned down."

However, Muncio testified he informed Whitney the duct work was too close to combustibles and for an extra charge he could fire wrap the area. Muncio's lawyer Bill Ewald of Braun, Kendrick and Finkbeiner of Bay City said his client's only responsibility was to inform the owner of the unsafe clearance to combustibles and he did.

Whitney decided to leave the duct work as it was. But, Walsh claimed Muncio should have walked off the job rather than installing the duct work or refused to install the addition if Whitney was unwilling to take the safety precaution.

"It's not reasonably prudent to recognize a fire risk and not do anything about it," she said.

The remodeling took one year to complete and the fully renovated restaurant reopened July 4, 1997. The night of Sept. 4, 1997 the question of a safe distance between the duct work and combustibles was put to the test and a fully involved structure fire resulted.

That night a line chef at Whitney's was preparing a special order called a Pittsburgh steak, charred on the outside and rare on the inside.

The substance used to create the steak caused a grease fire on the open flame grill that night and sent a fire ball into the duct work and vent above the grill area.

Whitney explained when preparing a Pittsburgh steak, "There is quite a substantial instant flame that goes out quickly."

However, this flame reached the grease filters. Carver testified the grease in the duct work and in the filters was fuel for the fire.

Carver explained, as he had expected, the fire was difficult to fight because of the renovation. "We thought we had it out. It was burning within the building in a concealed space between the kitchen ceiling and the second floor," he said.

Carver further testified that the alarm came in at 8:16 p.m. and the fire was extinguished at midnight. He said the fire could have been put out a lot faster if it hadn't been in the concealed area.

After four days of testimony and an hour of deliberation the jury found Muncio's work was not the proximate cause of the fire.

Muncio said, "I'm extremely happy. How couldn't I be? This could have meant a loss of business when I know I wasn't negligent."

Citizens' claims against Northern Fire and Safety question work the company did to the dry Ansul system above the grill area in October of 1996. When activated the system should spray a fire extinguishing substance. Prior to the night of Sept. 4, 1997 the system had never been activated.

The Ansul system did go off that night and put the fire on the grill out but it spread by conduction and radiation.

The question came down to temperature and the links that detect high temperature. In October of 1996 a service employee from Northern Fire and Safety changed the links melting temperature from the lowest, 360 degrees, to the highest, 500 degrees.

Archambo explained, "360 degrees could have lead to a false discharge and that's messy."

Citizens claimed this link change may have caused a one minute time lapse allowing the fire to spread further.

Archambo said there was heavy grease build-up on the link that could have postponed its activation.

As was the case with Muncio, the jury ultimately decided that Northern Fire and Safety was not at fault.

Muncio was contracted to do work at the rebuilt Whitney's Oyster Bar located at 307 Bridge Street in Charlevoix which was constructed following the fire.

Northern Fire and Safety installed three wet Ansul systems on each of the new building's three floors and retained its contract to perform bi-annual inspections of those systems.

NOTICE OF MORTGAGE SALE

Default having been made in the conditions of a certain Mortgage made by LORNA J. HORN, whose address is 925 Second Street, Boyne City, Michigan 49712 to THE UNITED STATES OF AMERICA, acting through the United States Department of Agriculture, Rural Development, with its District Office being located at 1501 Cass Street, Suite A, Traverse City, Michigan 49684, the Mortgagee, such Mortgage being dated February 23, 1990 and recorded in the office of the Register of Deeds for the County of Charlevoix and State of Michigan on February 26, 1990 in Liber 215 of Charlevoix County Records on Pages 437 through 440, inclusive, and by reason of such default the Mortgagee elects to declare the entire unpaid amount of such Mortgage due and payable forthwith, on which Mortgage there is claimed to be due at the date of this notice, for principal and interest, the sum of SIXTY-THREE THOUSAND
TWO HUNDRED FOUR AND 32/100
($68,204.32) DOLLARS, and no proceedings having been instituted to recover the debt now remaining secured by said Mortgage, or any part thereof, whereby the power of sale contained in said Mortgage has become operative;

Now Therefore, Notice is Hereby Given that by virtue of the power of sale contained in said Mortgage and in pursuance of the statute in such case made and provided, said Mortgage will be foreclosed by a sale of the premises therein described or so much thereof as may be necessary, at public auction, to the highest bidder, at the front lobby of the Charlevoix
County Building located at 301 State Street in the City of Charlevoix and place of holding the Circuit Court in and for said County, on Thursday November 15, 2001 at 11:00 o'clock local time, in the forenoon of said day, and said premises will be sold to pay the amount so as foresaid then due on said Mortgage together with 8.75 percent interest on such Mortgage, legal costs, attorneys' fees and also any taxes and insurance that said Mortgagee does pay on or prior to the date of said sale; which said premises are described in said Mortgage as follows, to wit:

Lands and premises situated in the City of Boyne City, County of Charlevoix, and State of Michigan:

Lots 71 and 74 of CALBERT'S
ADDITION to the Village of South

A rural school

Courier reader Mary Warner submitted this photo of a 1920s Charlevoix Country rural school class recently. She is wondering if any other readers know the students in this picture. Send in your answers to the Courier by mailing them to P.O. Box 117, Charlevoix, MI 49720 or by dropping them off at our office located at 112 Mason Street. Please write down your answers before visiting the office.

How to get in the newspaper

If you have a news item you think would be perfect for the Charlevoix Courier, feel free to call 547-6558, e-mail charlevoixcourier@charlevoix-courier.com or visit the Courier office located at 112 Mason Street in downtown Charlevoix.

News items include events sponsored by non-profit organizations. Please inform us of your event at least two weeks in advance.

Our coverage area is the city of Charlevoix and its immediately surrounding areas, including Beaver Island.

Because of space limitations in the newspaper, we generally try to avoid publishing "check-handing" pictures or "ribbon-cutting" pictures. However, we will work with your organization to get a picture that reflects the event and is visually interesting to our readers.

It should be noted, each story and picture is dealt with on its individual merits. Any policies outlined above may be suspended by the editor or publisher of the Charlevoix Courier if necessary.

Carlson, Bellows, Gibson picked for council seats

ELECTION

"I think the voters of the third ward trust my ideas and how I am going to take care of them and Charlevoix," she said. "I am going to protect Charlevoix from overdevelopment and losing the small town atmosphere we love."

Gibson added she is also going to work toward maintaining the beauty of Charlevoix and its surrounding natural resources.

"This is so we can all live here in a small town atmosphere without any unneeded outside influence," she said.

Rankl said he may run again, but is not sure at this time.

"Shirley (Gibson) will do a good job. We had two different opinions and the voters made the decision. That's democracy," he said.

Gibson was previously on the Charlevoix planning commission, but was not reappointed by Charlevoix mayor Alvin "Butch" Russell in 2000.

Carlson, who ran unopposed for the re-election to the first ward seat, simply said he is pleased to serve his ward again. He received a total of 63 votes out of the 70 votes cast in the first ward. There are 900 registered voters in this ward.

Gooch won re-election to her position as city clerk by a total of 334 seats. She also ran unopposed.

She said she has a lot of new projects in the works for her next two year term. Among these is a plan to reconcile the city's voter registration records with the state qualified voter file.

Gooch said she will also help make the transition to in-house codification of the city code and will be looking into document storage options.

On the Ways and Means...and Wastes... of an Oversized, $500,000 School Sewer

We have taken our lawsuit against the Charlevoix School District to the Michigan Court of Appeals. The merits of our arguments dictate that we argue before that Court on your behalf, as taxpayers in the School district.

Judge Pajtas, on October 26th, at the Circuit Court in Charlevoix, said there were no rulings existing from the Court of Appeals to help him address our issues of complaint. He unequivocally ruled that our arguments were in every way in the public's interest.

It is important to remember the heavy school tax obligations we have because of the School bond proposal of 1999. We are obligated for 20 years to pay for $30 million school indebtedness because of the school bonds issued in October, 1999, to the Charlevoix School District.

What the State said to the School, when the school bonds were issued in 1999, is that such special State credit given to the School demands specific things in return. The State said the following:

1. The School, according to state statutes governing such State credit, cannot extend that credit to any non-school private interests.
2. It cannot use that large credit for purposes other than those specifically authorized by the exacting language of the bond proposal.

What we specifically charge in our lawsuit is that the School is committing over $500,000 of school bond proceeds to provide up-front money for the construction of a sewer line that is 66 times larger in capacity than what the School waste disposal needs will be.

What we specifically charge is that private commercial and residential development interests are the ultimate beneficiaries of such overly large sewer capacity, sewer capacity paid for by the School in improper fashion. That large sewer capacity is unnecessary and exceeds in every way the School's actual needs.

What we specifically charge is that the School in its undisclosed planning with the City is circumventing the ways by which sewer districting is ordinarily obtained.

If a sewer district were established in Marion Township to serve the area proposed for the oversized sewer, the taxpayers-citizens of our township would have the right to hearings which would establish if a need exists for such a sewer in that part of Marion Township.

What those hearings provide is protection to the taxpayers-citizens from unnecessary and unwanted further taxation without their approval. Such imposed taxation would be additional property tax valuation assessments.

These protective hearings involved in establishing sewer districts have been deliberately denied our Marion Township taxpayers by the School in its undisclosed planning.

Over the past two years, ever since the School Board meetings of the fall of 1999, the School Board and Superintendent have demonstrated an enduring unwillingness to communicate meaningfully with concerned citizens about School planning. We, in turn, have been concerned far beyond School fiscal policy and School planning.

Concerned Citizens for School Fiscal Responsibility

Robert Mossman & Joe Seidel - 14197 Veenstra Rd. • Charlevoix, MI 49720

We have been greatly alarmed about what the Board and Superintendent are demonstrating to our students in their civic conduct. The Board and Superintendent must by every measure of civic responsibility remain open and answerable to our citizens. They are obligated by those same standards of civic conduct to answer frankly and honestly every inquiry citizens and taxpayers may bring to them. To do otherwise, as they have done over the past two years, is to turn their backs and deaf ears in disinterested fashion to the citizens of this community.

We would like to offer to our students some words of Thomas Jefferson, written long ago, which stand behind the reasons we continue to challenge the Board and Superintendent.

Jefferson wrote, "I know no safe depository of the ultimate powers of the society but the people themselves, and if we think them not enlightened enough to exercise that control with a wholesome discretion, the remedy is not to take it from them, but to inform their discretion."

In contrast to those words describing our basic rights as citizens stand the words written by Dr. Sturrock that we have found unacceptable to us as citizens of this School District. The Superintendent wrote in 1999 in his "Vision for Our Schools" that the use of community surveys from the citizens of the District imposed too much risk on the School Board and its selection committees. He went on to say that educating us, the public, on the issues of selecting a site for the building of a new high school was essentially impossible.

We have found, during these long two years past, that your interests as taxpayers are to be defended vigorously against improper uses of School bond proceeds by the School. We have found that to commingle private commercial and residential interests with the dispensing of School bond proceeds, meant only for school needs, is improper.

And finally, we have found that the undisclosed proposed extension of the State school credit to private interests violates the basic rights that we hold most important to us as taxpayers.

We, as property owners, are the citizens who are responsible for the paying of school property taxes. We cannot escape or turn from those responsibilities. But we can argue vigorously against the School and before the Courts that we have the right to know how School monies raised through taxation are to be used. We have the right to know and to argue that School credit from the State and School bond monies are to be used for School needs only.

That is our continuing purpose and our constant pledge to you, the taxpayers of the Charlevoix School District.

DME cleanup to begin soon

By JULIE WITTHOEFT
Staff Writer

The treatment system that will clean up tetrachloroethylene (PCE) ground water contamination in and around the site of Charlevoix's DME Company will soon be fully operational.

The bulk of the system is situated on the property of DME, located at 06342 Ferry Road in Charlevoix and this portion has been installed.

Bob Wagner, environmental manager with the Gaylord post of the Michigan Department of Environmental Quality said the department expects to receive access to private property on Matthews Lane by the end of the week. Wagner said they hope to have the rest of the system installed at the private sites in the next two to three weeks.

From there the cleanup will take three to five years to be completed. Wagner said it could be even longer.

"Every situation is different in how groundwater and contamination respond," he said.

DME started using a degreasing solvent containing PCE in 1955 as a degreaser to remove oil and other debris from steel ejector pins they manufacture.

The company disposed of the used solvent improperly and contaminated the site and the lake. The company continues to use the toxic substance, but disposes of it more carefully by bottling it and sending it away to be recycled or incinerated.

In a previous interview, Elaine Pelc, an environmental analyst with the Gaylord post of the Michigan Department of Environmental Quality, explained the contaminated aquifer plume runs under the plant site's old landfill and then

Camp closing to have impact on Charlevoix

By JULIE WITTHOEFT
Staff Writer

State budget cuts are causing cheap labor dilemmas for Charlevoix.

Last week the state of Michigan cut funding for the Michigan Department of Corrections — including closing Camp Pellston, located north of Potoskey.

"The state had looked at this place (Camp Pellston) a couple months ago and decided they would close it or bulldoze the old building (from the 1950s) and build a new, more efficient facility," Carl Mumma, a supervisor at Camp Pellston, said.

"This will remove labor from communities that rely on very cheap labor. It's all going to have an impact."

Locally, the Charlevoix County Road Commission and the city of Charlevoix use prisoners from Camp Pellston to perform multiple tasks in and around Charlevoix. The prison laborers once cost the county and city only $5 a worker per day, $2.50 to the prisoner and $2.50 to the state for transportation, but will no longer be available.

Charlevoix water and wastewater treatment plant superintendent Sam Creswell also coordinates the local public works program. He said the prisoners were usually in Charlevoix five days a week and did a lot of projects around the city including: hanging Christmas lights, laying brick, working around the municipal golf course and the airport, brush and tree trimming and painting buildings.

City manager Mike Wiesner said city administration will have to reevaluate what needs to be done and figure out another way of doing it. He added it will be more of a challenge.

One possible alternative for the city is the use of Charlevoix County Jail labor. Wiesner said the city has used the county inmates before, but he hasn't talked to county sheriff George Lasater to see if that is a possibility.

Russian media delegation visits area

By JULIE WITTHOEF
Staff Writer

Members of the Charlevoix community have opened their homes and businesses to Russian media delegates.

A group of 11 Russian media delegates accepted the invitation of the local Rotary Club and are currently visiting Charlevoix to see first hand the way various aspects of commerce in the United States function.

"This event will help improve the economies of both our countries. By talking to business professionals in the area and seeing our businesses, the Russian delegation can learn from us and we can learn from them," Jeremy McBain, local facilitator for the Charlevoix Rotary Club and editor of the Charlevoix Courier said. "I think this is a great way for Charlevoix to be known internationally."

The journalists have come a long way to meet and work with their American colleagues in Michigan. The group spent their first week in Battle Creek and then moved on to Holland for a second week of study. They arrived in Charlevoix at 3 p.m., Nov. 10 and are scheduled to depart Nov. 18.

Konstantin V. Astafiev, 31, director of Ural-Press in Russia said he has enjoyed visiting Charlevoix and its local businesses. The question Astafiev has been asked most is about Freedom of Speech in the press. He said from what he has experienced so far, Russian and American journalists face the same constraint — dependency.

"We are dependent on money, we are dependent on people and we are dependent on the government. We can't be independent by principle," he said.

The Center for Citizen Initiatives in San Francisco, Calif., the company that organized the Michigan visit, has run programs between the United States and the former USSR since 1983.

The center has hailed the Productivity Enhancement Program which the Russian delegates are a part of as "a terrific opportunity to influence Russia's historic transition without ever leaving" Charlevoix.

Business training is the primary goal of the program. The training is provided by local businesses and professionals who host the group.

The night they arrived some of the delegates and their home hosts attended a complimentary jazz concert at the Crooked Tree Arts Center and then headed over to Petoskey's City Park Grill where they danced the night away to the local band Mojo and the Boogie-man.

The following day they relaxed at area homes after visiting Mackinaw City.

On Monday it was back to work. They started off the day with a marketing presentation from Chamber of Commerce director Jacqueline Merta followed by lunch at Charlevoix High School and Northwest Academy. While at the schools the group attended journalism classes.

After hours they took in a movie at Charlevoix Cinema where complimentary tickets were provided by owner Bill Supernaw.

Tuesday was a day of intensive study for the delegates. The morning started off with a tour of the Petoskey News-Review then it was off to lunch at the Perry Davis Hotel where they joined the Petoskey Kiwanis Club.

After lunch they attended a Round Table discussion hosted by the Petoskey News-Review and the Michigan Press Association at North Central Michigan College. The event was mediated by McBain.

Correction

In last week's edition of the Courier, a picture on page 7 was misidentified. The girl pictured was Haley Givens, not Sarah Robarge. Sarah Robarge was also dressed as a unicorn for Halloween, as she is seen here.

In last week's correction on page 2, we said an obituary wrongly identified "Pat" McCall, as "Cat" McCall. This was based on a call from a reader. However, another reader insists her name is actually "Tat."

Finally, in an article written last week by Julie Witthoef titled "Use questions surround sewer line" it was stated the school is investing $633,000 to extend the line, the cost to the district is $533,000.

OPINIONS

We hope our readers discuss housing issue

Jeremy McBain

'Just a thought'

Housing...it seems to be something we take for granted.

In our drive to make a community of the future, a community that we dream about, we seem to forget this aspect of planning. Sure, our government officials and concerned citizens are full of ideas about creating more jobs through bringing in more businesses or protecting the environment by controlling the amount of development or type. But, very rarely have we seen a strong effort to address housing.

Why is this? Why do communities turn their backs on this issue?

Is it because there are no easy answers?

When the issue is brought up and a plan brought forth, we have seen a disturbing trend...anger by the citizens. The citizens bring up environmental concerns, security concerns and many other reasons why such a development should not exist.

But, are these reasons true? Are they just excuses to try and keep "undesirables" out of the community?

If this is the case, what these citizens do not know is this type of housing is not for "undesirables." It is for families just starting out or those trying to better their lives. They need somewhere affordable to live, near their jobs, so they can have a good life like the rest of us.

But, it is not just the citizens; the local governments jump on board this way of thinking as well. Look at the actions of our city council in the last few months: everything they have done, it seems, deals with creating a new park and updating old ones, looking at a planning process for a new marina, studying ways to create a new industrial park and even buying fancy new manhole covers for our streets.

In this process, the local government has not flinched once about the taxpayer money it has spent on these projects. The government says these projects are needed, therefore the money has been used wisely.

Affordable housing is something that is needed to make a community complete. I have said this before and I think our series this fall proved that. Without affordable housing, our businesses are losing money, tax base is lost and our community dies.

I believe affordable housing in a community is more important than industrial parks, new marinas and new manhole covers. To me these are just frosting on the cake; housing is one of the main ingredients that makes the cake moist and delicious.

I believe if our local government can find money to study park improvements, marinas, industrial parks and buy manhole covers, it should be able to find money to look into the housing issue facing our community and northern Michigan. But, sadly, our government seems to be more concerned with making an attractive frosting.

If you will notice, not once in this opinion section have our readers been exposed to my ideas of a solution to the housing problem. That is because I do not have one. I am trying to find one.

That was the reason for the housing series this fall: to get the community thinking about this issue. Sure, readers may disagree with each other on how to solve housing, what is affordable or the type of developments needed; the point is that readers are encouraged to talk about it and think about it.

When that happens, we know the series was successful. When the local government decided to get some grant money to study this problem or — God forbid — use some taxpayer money to solve a problem directly affecting taxpayers, then we know the series was extremely successful.

We hope you enjoyed the housing series that ended three weeks ago. More importantly, we hope the series has created discussion in the community.

Letters to the editor

Ad response

Editor:
In reference to that expensive but irrational "oversized" full-page "mean" spirited advertisement on "sewer" "wastes," these comments:

Robert Mossman and Joe Seidel — you pompous nincompoops! You do not argue before that court (or any court) on my behalf or on behalf of very many taxpayers "in the school district." Rather, you again waste our school tax money defending against your ego driven arguments. "The merits of our arguments dictate..." no, they do not dictate anything but another waste of our kids' money!

Remember my challenge that the losers of the recall election donate the cost of the special election to the school system? I guess you didn't accept that challenge as you were too busy trying to be appealing. When I learned from the school administration that you losers donated nothing, I, on behalf of the winners (the taxpayers of the school district), donated half that cost and again challenged you to put up or shut up. Result: You were either too cheap or you were too busy looking in the mirror, admiring all that you were doing for us miserable peons!

It's time to think of our (taxpayer) money that you are about to, once again, force our schools to spend simply to feed your obsession to be in court. Then think of the facilities that could have been built if only you had worked with, rather than against, the vast majority of us (as proven by both the recall and subsequent election results). You should be ashamed!

Good Lord, save us from these who go to court on our behalf.
Josh and Gloria Barnes

Wants answers

Editor:

Thank you for the publication of my letter in the Oct. 31 issue of your paper. I think it should be known that we mutually agreed to delay the publication until a reasonable answer could be received from the school. Now, having said that, I and the rest of the citizens of Charlevoix are still waiting.

To the question of "is this land contaminated?" the response of "an environmental study was done before the school bought the property and no contamination was found" is about as ambiguous and murky as the pools of mud that now form on the southern perimeter of the high school construction site.

I think it is safe to say that the response I had hoped for, the actual documentation of soil surveys is not forthcoming. This gesture continues to raise doubts about many issues the school construction has brought to light. If the school is to be truly honest in its response, then let them provide your paper with the actual test results for publication. If the results are too voluminous, then print a summary and have the results available for the public record.

If and when such information does become available, I would still question its current value. A tremendous amount of earth has been moved and exposed during the construction. Various water tables and drainage fields have been disturbed, with rather dramatic effects along Veenstra Road. Unfortunately contamination levels need to be verified throughout a building process, not just at the beginning.

I see that Mrs. Audrey Lehmann has written to both yours and the Petoskey paper concerning the security of the new campus. I have raised this question on several occasions without response. Is my suggestion that the Marion Township constable be the responsible office going to be sufficient for a modern community of the twenty-first century?

We township residents do appreciate the fact that the lights have been turned off at the construction site — the glare was tremendous. It's too bad that the other problems won't be so easy to fix.

Joseph F. Seidel
Marion Township

Editor's note: The environmental study done by the school is open to public inspection through the Charlevoix superintendent's office as is outlined in the Michigan Freedom of Information Act. Also, the responding law enforcement at the new high school for any problems would be the Charlevoix County Sheriff's Office, not a township constable.

Help fund service

Editor:

To my dismay, I have just found out that the wonderful service I had received these past years of having my leaves raked by some fine courteous, young men from the county jail, will not be available this fall. I was told to call in early October. This is due to the lack of financial funding.

While I know that the Rainbow Shoppe and other organizations contribute to many needful causes, I thought that the Charlevoix jail program would be one of them, as not only does it keep these young people occupied — rather than being confined and bored — but it offers a useful service to the elderly and widows as myself.

I made the suggestion that I would be willing to pay for their help. Are there any others in the community that feel likewise?

This might be the answer to saving this worthwhile program.

Obituaries

Glenn S. Allen, Jr.: Jan. 8, 1914 - Nov. 6, 2001

Glenn S. Allen Jr., born Jan. 8, 1914 in Kalamazoo, died at home in DeWitt Nov. 6, ending a lifetime commitment to public service.

Glenn Allen Jr.

He was a retired State Court of Appeals judge, former mayor of Kalamazoo and staff member to two governors. Allen attended Amherst College, in Massachusetts and Kalamazoo College in Michigan.

He obtained his law degree at Columbia University in New York in 1939. Allen went to war as Assistant Judge Advocate of the 94th Division and legal advisor to General George Patton.

After the war he began a long career in local and state government. His term on the distance re-election bid was successful and he garnered enough votes to become vice-mayor.

He was subsequently elected mayor of Kalamazoo, serving four consecutive terms from 1951 to 1959.

During that time he became President of the Michigan Municipal League and was appointed by President Eisenhower to the Subcommittee on Local Government of the Intergovernmental Relations Commission.

His service as a delegate to the Michigan Constitutional Convention in 1962 was followed by his appointment to Governor George Romney's cabinet as Director of the Budget. He also served as Secretary of the State Administrative Board.

Governor William Milliken appointed Allen as his legal advisor in 1970. He served in that capacity until his appointment to the Michigan Court of Appeals in 1974. He was re-elected in 1980 and retired from the bench in 1986. He continued to hear cases as a retired judge for many years.

In 1999, the Kalamazoo Gazette recognized Allen's distinguished career in public service by naming him their Person of the Century in Government.

His irrepressible energy kept him involved in many civic and community organizations. He was active in the downtown Lansing Kiwanis Club, Lansing City Club and the Michigan Chapter of the Concord Coalition. He served as member and president of both the Michigan Retired Judges Association and the Friends of the Turner-Dodge House.

He played tennis his entire life and loved Mackinac Island where he spent summers at his cottage since 1966.

He was preceded in death by three wives: Virginia Allen (1974), Marion Turner Smith Allen (1983) and Marjorie Tracy Allen (2000).

He is survived by a brother, Jollie Allen of Kalamazoo and a sister, Rosemary Mueller of Charlevoix; two daughters, Holly Mull of Atlanta, Ga. and Susan Allen (Don Hinman) of Alexandria, Va.; two step-daughters, Sandra Haun (Kevin) of Laingsburg and Susanne Reinhardt (John) of West Bloomfield; three grandchildren, Glenn Allen of Seattle, Wash., Virginia Allen of Sheboygan, Wis., and Carter Mull of Brooklyn, N.Y.; one great-grandchild, Glenn Garrison Allen of Seattle; Five step-grandchildren, Justin, Lindsay and Jared Haun of Laingsburg; Jennifer Reinhardt of West Bloomfield; and Zachary Launier of Arizona. Contributions may be made to Friends of the Turner-Dodge House, People's Church of East Lansing or Trinity Episcopal Church of Mackinac Island.

The funeral service will take place at 3 p.m. Nov. 24 at St. Paul's Episcopal Church, 218 West Ottawa in Lansing. Visitation will take place from 2 p.m. to 5 p.m. and 7 p.m. to 9 p.m., Nov. 23 at the Gorsline Runckman East Chapel, 1730 Grand River Avenue.

maker and volunteer for her church.

Survivors include two children, Norman (Clare) Braune of Gaithersburg, Maryland and Norma (Charles) Randolph of Charlevoix; four grandchildren, Mark, John and Cynthia Braune and Robin Randolph and four great-grandchildren.

The family is being served by the Winchester Funeral Home in Charlevoix.

daughter, Nancy (Shawn) Mills; and her sister, Shirley Ashdon.

Memorial contributions may be made to the Charlevoix County Humane Society, 614 Beardsley Street, Boyne City, MI 49712.

Bud is survived by his wife Arciel "Archie" of Boyne City; children, Jan Wyatt Anderson of Howell, Debra Ann Wyatt of Royal Oak, Scott Alan (Diane M.) Wyatt of Southfield, and Keith D. (Mary) Wyatt of Mundelein, Ill.; grandchildren, Laura, Lisa, Jessica, Vanessa, Michael, David, Tashina, Megan and Steven; sisters, Norma Velich and Grace Taylor both of Minneapolis, Minn., and Rita (Bob) Elliott of La Jolla, Calif. and Boyne City.

City and county to find camp replacements

CAMP

At the county road commission the prisoners perform building maintenance and county upkeep including: sweeping the floors, washing windows and in the summer, mowing roadside parks. In the fall and the spring the prisoners helped with local beaver problems by cleaning brush out of culverts.

"The prisoners did a lot of odd jobs that would probably be tough getting done with our people," manager of the Charlevoix County Road Commission Pat Harmon said.

"If we've got a truck driver who we could have hauling gravel it's more cost efficient to have him hauling gravel than him working on cleaning the garage."

Harmon said he isn't sure how the commission will deal with the labor loss. Members of the road commission met with county commissioners at their Monday meeting to try and solve the problem the county is now facing.

"I don't know. I'm very disappointed. We'll have to make other arrangements if we can afford it. We'll do the best we can, but I think there will probably be a lot of little things that won't get done like they should be," Harmon said.

Mumma said discussion of expansion took place prior to the terrorist attacks of Sept. 11, 2001 and the attacks could indirectly be an impetus for the cut backs. He explained Michigan has realized a dip in state revenue following Sept. 11 which may have prompted cuts.

The camp's annual operating expenses are a little under $3 million.

Mumma said when considering the budget of the Michigan Department of Corrections, the Pellston facility is "a drop in the bucket" and many other cuts have been made around the state.

The shutdown will leave 36 employees out of work and 135 inmates moving to a new location.

Camps he mentioned that may be used during the relocation include a camp in the Ionia area, Camp Pugsley outside of Traverse City which expanded one year ago and Camp Lehman by Grayling.

Mumma said there are many other camps in the Michigan system and they won't be forced to send prisoners out of state.

The camp's 36 employees will have to change location. Mumma said many of the workers have established homes and families in the Pellston area.

"Their lives are being changed and they aren't very happy about it," Mumma said.

The state has promised to find the workers new jobs.

Mumma said he will most likely be moved to one of five facilities in Kinross which is in Michigan's Upper Peninsula.

Man adds to his family with find

Karl and Carol told Kris his birth mother was in high school when she was pregnant with him, she came from a big family and her parents

"I hemmed and hawed about whether or not I really wanted to do ...this," he said.

After talking with a social services worker in Petoskey, who had found her son she had put up for adoption, he knew he needed to try. An intermediary was appointed to handle the process.

All the files couldn't be accessed unless Kris and his birth mother Nelda Houston, 49, of California approved. He petitioned for this restricted "identifying information." The intermediary contacted Houston by phone and said that her son was seeking information.

"She was shocked and didn't want to sign the paperwork. So she called my dad and he said, 'You're crazy, this is the chance of a lifetime'." Kris explained.

Shortly after the intermediary made contact, Kris sent pictures of he and his family to Houston. He said she was excited to see the pictures.

Close the gaps in your medical history.

In these days of self-advocacy and personal health care responsibility, medical record ownership is very important. Having a complete record of your medical history, and your family's medical history, provides awareness, knowledge, confidence and control to you the patient, and it helps your physicians and other health care providers do a better job.

Beginning April 2nd, patients of the former Burns Clinic in Petoskey, during the years 1993 to 1999, will be able to get and keep original copies of their medical records. Distribution of these important files will continue for one year, after which all remaining records will be destroyed. So if you were a patient, or if you are the parent of a minor patient of the Petoskey office of the Burns Clinic between 1993 and 1999, go to the first floor of the former Burns Clinic Building in Petoskey where you will fill out a release form and pick up your medical records.

Photo I.D. is required and all records must be picked up in person. Release forms are also available on the Web at www.northernhealth.org and there is no charge for this service.

For more information, call (231) 487-7800

ADOPTION

Then, just before Christmas 2000, Houston called.

Kris decided not to tell his adopted parents about the search or that he had made contact with his mom. He was still afraid to hurt their feelings. He wanted to meet his biological parents before he told them about the situation.

During the next conversation Kris and Houston set in stone that they would meet face-to-face in California.

Before he left he told his family: brother, sisters, Karl, Carol, his wife Amy and his two children, Lauren, 7, and Kristopher, 12.

"They were all really excited and supportive. It was all very positive," he said.

Then he flew from Traverse City to California's LAX Airport by himself.

Houston was living in Lake Arrowhead, Calif. and she planned to meet him at the airport.

During the flight the pilot came over the speaker system and informed the passengers they would be landing in California in 15 minutes. Kris said his nerves kicked into high gear — in 15 minutes he would meet his biological parents for the first time.

Houston was snowed-in in the mountains, so his dad, Robert Bruner, who lives in Ventura Beach was there. He had described himself as somewhat of a beach bum.

Kris said there were a ton of people in the airport, but he found his father standing by an exit without trouble. Kris approached him, shook his hand and introduced himself. Then the two went back to Bruner's house where they talked and exchanged life stories.

"He had a rough life; he lost a brother, his parents are gone and he has one sister left," Kris said.

Bruner is a builder by trade and a volleyball player/surfer by hobby. He is married and has two children from a previous marriage.

After soaking in dad for two days, Houston came to Ventura Beach, from where she picked Kris up and took him to her home in the mountains.

The visit was magical and Houston has since come to Charlevoix five times and is building a home in the Charlevoix Country Club.

"When I met them, I felt like everything was complete. I am happy they are both healthy and are living wonderful lives out there. The great thing is my family is now three times bigger," Kris said.

Houston works with computer programming for a record company stationed in Nashville, Tenn.

Kris said Houston looks forward to spending more time with her grandchildren.

"She had a hysterectomy after she had me and was unable to have kids; this was really a blessing for her," he said.

"I guess I always knew there was something missing from seeing other families. The biggest influence was the relationship my wife has with her family."

Dinner followed the discussion. Today, they toured local manufacturing company, Harbor Industries. After that they headed further north to Petoskey's Bay View Inn where they joined the Petoskey Rotary Club for lunch and a tour of Bay Harbor.

On Thursday they will attend the Charlevoix Rotary Club's weekly

7:30 a.m. meeting at the Flap Jack Family Restaurant. After breakfast they'll head to Bellaire in Antrim County where they will tour Up North Publications.

After the tour of the publishing facility, the group will dine at the Charlevoix County Jail along with the inmates. Their final stop on this busy day will bring the delegates to Michigan Talk Radio in Charlevoix on Bridge Street.

Friday will be another intensive day of training including presentation by Frank Shepherd, a Charlevoix resident and owner of 21st Century Publications. This company owns the Oakland Press and Up North Publications.

By Saturday everyone will be ready for a day off and that is what is scheduled. Following a free afternoon, Rotary will host a concluding Russian Dinner at the Argonne Super Club off Boyne City-Charlevoix Road.

After a week of study peppered with some fun, the delegates will depart from Cherry Capital Airport at 10 a.m. Nov. 18.

go to the drive in theater on the Petoskey Road, they swam at Bell's Bay State Park and picnicked on Fisherman's Island. They played in the big waves on Michigan Beach and climbed Mt. McSaubia.

They loved to visit with Mr. Neff at Neff's grocery store. They had festive dinners at the Grey Gables and the Argonne.

Cameron's first summer job was at the Holiday gas station. Mary Ellen worked as a waitress at the Weatherlane during the summers of 1976-77.

The Camerons were married in 1978 and have two daughters; Georgie Lee, 20, and Chelsea, 18, and a son Chase, 14. The first thing the family does when they arrive north is to go to Juillerets, and have French Toast for breakfast.

While vacationing with his family in Charlevoix this summer, it's a good bet that Cameron will pick up more humorous tidbits to use in his forthcoming column and for his corporate public speaking engagements.

CRYSTAL SKULL

Crystal Skull

Native legends speak of crystal skulls, said to 'talk & sing.' They were considered as an inheritance from an ancient time, carrying messages of the origins & purpose of Humanity — and what may be discovered, when we lose our fear of death. Whatever the origins, there's no doubt this is fascinating. Hailed as a marvel by those who have examined it, this genuine, life-sized artifact will be in an upcoming book on unexplained mysteries. Here's your chance to see this amazing and mysterious object for yourself.

migrates under the cedar swamp area, under Matthews Lane and discharges into Lake Charlevoix.

At one time the department was concerned the PCE, which naturally degrades into vinyl chloride — a known carcinogen — may have seeped through cracks in the basements of nearby homes.

DME attorney Joe Quandt of Traverse City said no such residential contamination was found.

"We have disproven any indoor inhalation concerns. The investigation stages have confirmed the solvent has been stable and consistent," Quandt said.

Side effects of PCE contamination include: liver and kidney damage and chronic skin disorders.

Wagner said the system being installed has been designed, reviewed and approved by the department. Quandt said it addresses everything: TCE, PCE and vinyl chloride.

The system will pump contaminated ground water out of the ground, strip it of its contaminants and then re-inject it into the ground.

Wagner added the department is pleased with the cooperation they have gotten from DME.

Cleanup at this DME site will begin soon. Contamination has not been found in any of the surrounding homes. (Photo by Julie Witthoeft)

Get a flu shot if you have diabetes

Diabetes can make the immune system more vulnerable to severe cases of flu and pneumonia.

People with diabetes are three times more likely to die from complications of flu and pneumonia than those without diabetes.

It is strongly suggested by Northern Michigan's Diabetes Outreach Network that all persons with diabetes receive an annual flu vaccination and a current Pneumococcal vaccination. Pneumococcal vaccination is routinely given as a one time dose, however, re-vaccination is recommended five years after the first dose for people at high risk of fatal pneumococcal infection or if the first dose was given prior to the age of 65. Check with your physician.

You must get a flu shot once a year. Because flu viruses change from year to year, the shot you got last year won't protect you this year. The flu season generally runs from October through March. Pneumonia can strike at any time.

For most people the flu shot has no side effects. Some people may notice a little tenderness or redness where the shot was given. In rare cases, a person may notice a slight fever, chills or headache. However, symptoms usually pass quickly.

Talk to your physician before getting a flu shot if you are allergic to eggs or if you are pregnant.

During the flu season it is important to wash your hands. If flu germs get on your hands, you can infect yourself by touching your eyes, nose or mouth. Washing your hands frequently will help keep them free of the flu virus.

THE ONE YOU CAN RECOMMEND

Shearer named to all-state team

David Shearer, of Charlevoix, has been selected as the first team all-state in Division III for golf.

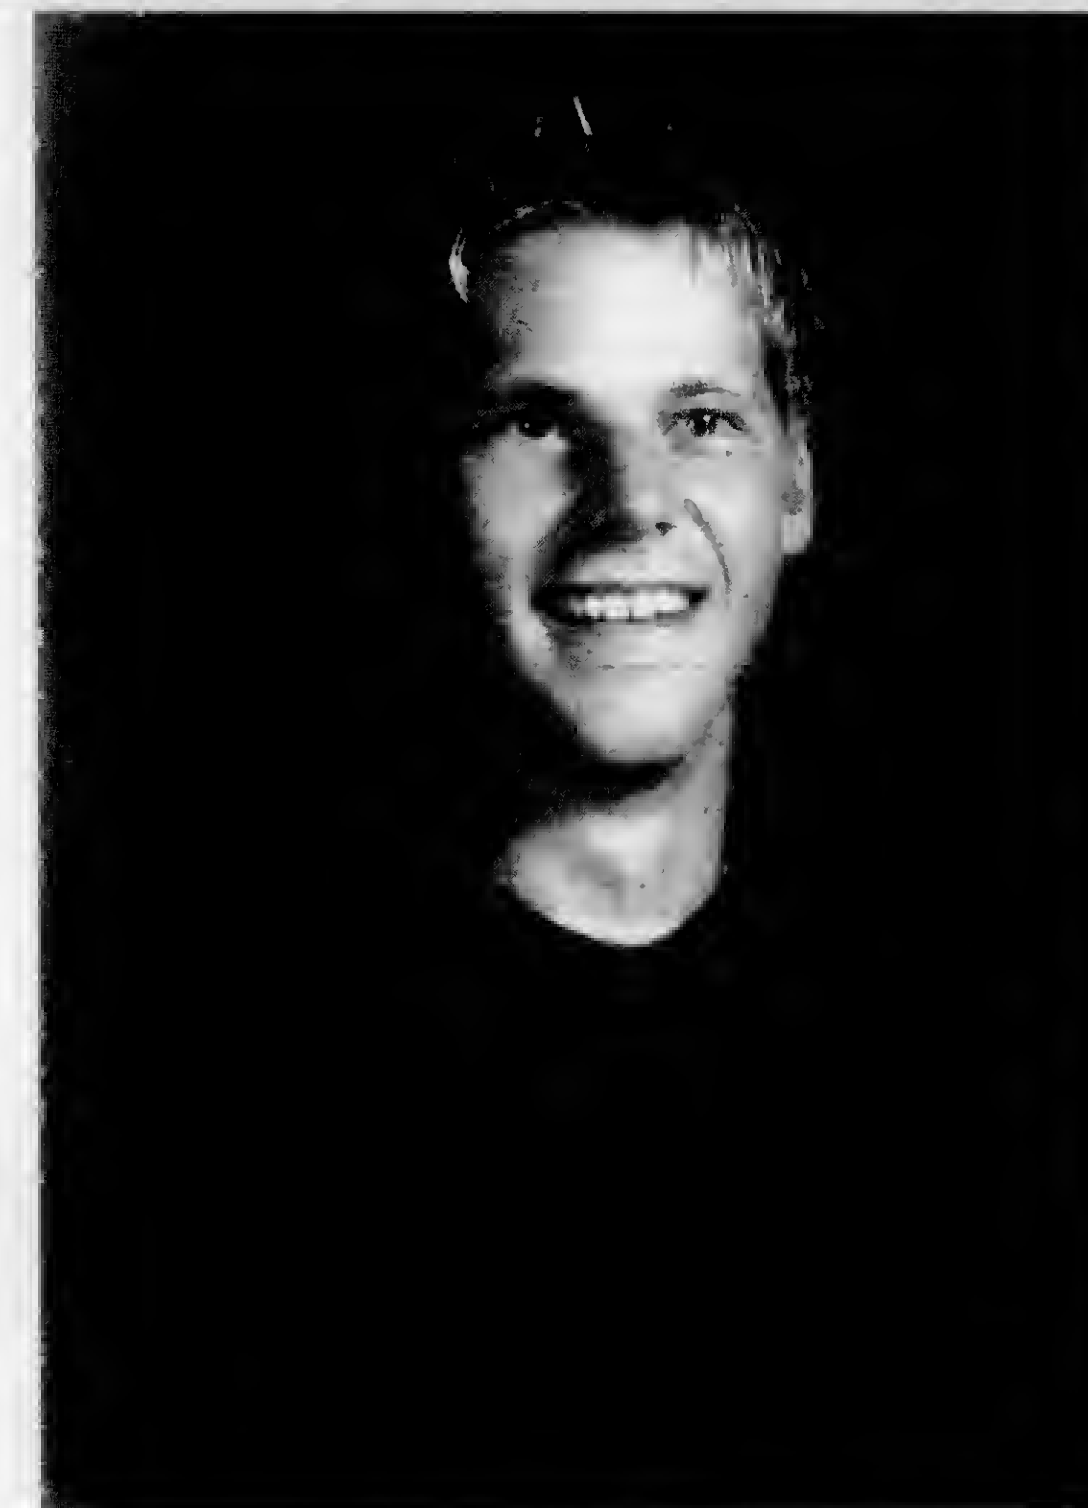

Shearer is a junior at Charlevoix High School. He was All-Tournament selection in eight of the nine tournaments he participated in with a jamboree average of 77.8 and a tournament average of 75.7.

During his season this year, he broke a school record for shooting at Boyne's Moor Course. The record was in place since 1985.

This is the second year in a row that he has been named to the team. The award ceremonies will be on Nov. 16 at Michigan State University.

According to coach Jim Glynn, this is a "super job by a great kid."

"I am very proud of David (Shearer) on being selected for this honor. He not only is a fine player with a good work ethic, more importantly, he is a gentleman with integrity, honor and fine sportsmanship," Glynn said.

Rayders 12-0 in conference

The Charlevoix Rayders girls' basketball team is going into the district tournament without a loss in the conference.

The Rayders finished off their last conference game Oct. 9 with a 75-34 win over Boyne City. This gives the team a 12-0 record in the conference and a 15-5 overall record.

In the Boyne City game, Krista Swenor led the scoring with 20 points. She also had 10 rebounds and four steals. Grace Farrell was next with 19 points.

The Rayders will play East Jordan at 6 p.m. tonight in Boyne City. If Charlevoix wins this game, they will advance to the finals at 7 p.m. on Friday.

Mediation program claims 75-80 percent success

By JULIE WITTHOEFT
Staff Writer

Court battles between two or more people can often be time consuming and expensive, but court isn't the only place where solutions to disputes can be found.

A local dispute resolution program, called Northern Community Mediation, is available to residents of both Charlevoix and Emmet counties.

"We average between 75 and 80 percent agreement rate. Evaluations are given at every mediation. Even those who do not reach an agreement say the process helped," Maartje Nolan, executive director of Northern Community Mediation said.

The mediation program is a voluntary process through which people meet in a neutral setting, like a church or city hall to discuss an issue.

Disputes that can be settled include: neighbor disputes, landlord/tenant issues, small claims cases, family disputes, school is-

"Even those who do not reach an agreement say the process helped."

Maartje Nolan, executive director on mediation

sues, juvenile issues, noise disturbances, consumer/merchant disputes, contract disputes, property disputes, trespassing issues, employment disputes, guardianship issues and community ordinance issues.

Some of the benefits of mediation include: cost savings, rapid settlements, mutually satisfactory outcomes, a greater degree of control and predictability of the outcome, personal empowerment and maintaining relationships.

To bring your dispute to a mediation setting call the local office at (231) 547-1771 or call toll free 800-873-7658.

A facilitator will speak with the initial caller, holding all comments made as confidential and then will call the other party involved in the dispute.

Then, if both people agree, you meet with two neutral mediators who facilitate a discussion. The mediation process is offered free of charge, but a $20 donation is suggested.

Holly Daze to feature work of local artists

What is lively, fun, and colorful? This year it's a combination of Holly Daze and work created by artists Sue and Russell Bolt.

When plans began early this year for the ninth annual Holly Daze fundraiser for the Charlevoix Area Hospital, the Holly Daze Committee wanted something bright and special from area artists Sue and Russell Bolt to include in the live and silent auctions. Development Council Chair Mary Adams and Holly Daze Chair Amy Lalewicz contracted with the Bolts to create a Holly Daze tile with hopes of making the sale of Bolt-designed Holly Daze tiles an annual event.

The involved process of creating the tile starts with the Bolt's purchase of high-quality, bisque-fired tiles from Stoke-on-Trent in England.

Sue creates an original drawing done in black and white and Russ develops a screen with tight registration so the tile is printed the same each time. Next he screens the underglaze, which is printed 4 - 6 times to reach the desired depth for the dark green color on the tile. Then Sue, daughter Lori Bolt and compatriot Marge Teske approach the tiles with squeeze bottles filled with red glaze for the holly berries to make them rich and dimensional. After letting the tiles dry they apply 2 coats of clear glaze, stack the kiln, bring the temperature up to 1820 over six hours and finally, cool down over 12-14 hours.

The output of this artistic production process is a collectible tile to be sold during Holly Daze.

Tiles will be available at the Silent Auction, a free admission event, in the Charlevoix Area Hospital Solarium Nov. 23 through Dec. 1.

The hours for the Silent Auction are 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. except Dec. 1 are 10 a.m. - 4 p.m.

In addition to the tile, the Silent Auction features a range of activities: a live Wreath-a-Day giveaway, an Angel Store with an array of purchasable gift items, a Friendship Tree, wreaths, gifts and gift certificates. The Holly Daze Raffle offers Christmas China.

Tickets at $5 each or 6 for $25 offer purchasers a chance to win a 5-piece place setting of Fitz and Floyd Winterberry China valued at $1,200. The Bolt tiles will also be sold during the Holly Daze Celebration Dinner with Live and Silent Auction at 6 p.m. on Nov. 27 at the Charlevoix Country Club. The $35 ticket for the evening includes dinner.

Bidding for the Designer Trees, wreaths, sleighs, ornaments and unique decorations will be lively this year with John Murray as auctioneer.

County hospice presents Christmas cards for 2001

With November being designated as National Hospice Month, the Charlevoix County Hospice, Inc. (soon to be known as Hospice of Northwest Michigan) is starting off the month by introducing its Christmas cards for 2001.

This year hospice has three cards to offer.

The first card was created by Chris Fall Knight, an artist in Boyne City. Her card depicts a decorated sled resting against white birch trees and the inside says, "Wishing you a Christmas brightened with laughter, warmed by good company and glowing with lasting memories."

The other two cards were created by Kay Gee, of Harper Woods. Her first card is a snowy woods scene, inside it says, "May your holidays be wrapped in warmth, touched by the beauty of nature and filled with peace and love."

The third card is the Beaver Islander coming through the channel into Charlevoix with the decorated lighthouse, inside it says, "May memories take you home again, may every prayer come true, and may you cherish all the love that this season brings you!"

The cards are available at The Clothing Company and Morning Glory in Charlevoix.

The cost of the cards has stayed the same as last year; a package of 20 is $12, and 10 for $6. The proceeds from the sale of the cards will help further the work of the Charlevoix County Hospice, Inc., in partnership with Northwest Michigan Community Health Agency to provide hospice care in Antrim, Charlevoix and Emmet Counties.

NOVEMBER 2001

SHOP CHARLEVOIX AND SUPPORT

CHARLEVOIX AREA HOSPITAL

In the true spirit of Thanksgiving, the Chamber's Retail Committee has devised a plan whereby area retailers in partnership with the Charlevoix Area Hospital will raise funds for the Hospital's expansion fund. Businesses participating in this program will donate a percentage of their profits from sales on the day after Thanksgiving, Friday, November 23, 2001.

This will be a FUN event with employees of fundraiser businesses wearing hospital scrubs for the day and prominently displaying decorated bedpans for shoppers to donate their spare change. Shop Charlevoix and support your community hospital at the same time!

Baby's death a murder

Live-in boyfriend charged for crime

By JULIE WITTHOFT
Staff Writer

Juan Antonio Barcenas, 23, of Charlevoix was recently charged with felony murder — a crime punishable in Michigan by life in prison.

The charge made against Barcenas followed the death of Carissa Nicole Kuzmik, an 18 pound, 8-month-old female. The infant and Barcenas lived at apartment 704 of the Pine Cove Apartments at 1001 May Street in the city of Charlevoix.

Barcenas was the live-in boyfriend of Kuzmik's mother. He was neither married or divorced and had no children of his own. There were three children living in apartment 704. Charlevoix City Police Chief Dennis Halverson said the other two children are between the ages of five and 10.

Halverson, who is investigating the case with the help of the Michigan State Police, said a 9-1-1 call was made by Barcenas' neighbor. The call came into Petoskey's central dispatch shortly after 10 a.m. Nov. 12.

"In a case like this, we drop everything we are doing and give the investigation our undivided effort," Halverson said.

The caller said a baby was not breathing and that it had possibly fallen down the stairs. The child's mother was not home at the time the incident occurred.

City police officer Gerard Doan and city emergency medical technicians responded.

Halverson said those on scene attempted to resuscitate the child. Kuzmik was then immediately transported to Charlevoix Area Hospital where she was later pronounced dead.

An autopsy was performed at Blodgett Hospital in Grand Rapids on Nov. 13. The autopsy showed the cause of the child's death to be blunt force trauma to her mid-section.

Late Nov. 13 Charlevoix County Prosecuting Attorney Mary Beth Kur authorized the charge of felony murder against Barcenas, marking the second homicide in the city of Charlevoix this year.

Halverson said Barcenas was at the police department when Kur's authorization was made.

Renovations at Castle underway

By JULIE WITTHOFT
Staff Writer

Six weeks ago a much needed transformation began at the local historic site "Castle Farms" in Charlevoix.

Jan. 4, 2001 "Castle Farms," commonly known as "The Castle," changed hands for the fifth time in its history. After 32 years of ownership by the Reibel family, Linda Mueller of Long Beach, Miss., closed on the 38 acre parcel located off M-66.

Larry Shaw, the general contractor for The Castle renovation project that is currently underway described Mueller's castle project as "I love the property... I love stone work, arches, turrets, it's just beautiful."

Linda Mueller.
New owner of Castle Farms amazing. "It's a gift to the community really. The community is very lucky it came under her ownership."

The castle was built in 1918 as a livestock farm for the well-known Loeb family. As time progressed the site's use for farming morphed into use as a concert space, then as a community site for antique and other shows and most recently was used as the site of a broasted chicken vendor.

However, it seems as though the motley cluster of uses has found its end.

Mueller has decided to pursue what she calls "a labor of love" — preservation and restoration of the buildings. The renovation isn't to allow the Mueller family farm to be built. In fact, Mueller said it's time for the community to use The Castle.

"I love the property. I've studied Gothic architecture for eight years now. I've seen 75 castles and almost that many cathedrals. I love stone work, arches, turrets, it's just beautiful," she said.

Linda's husband Richard Mueller has a long history in Charlevoix. Richard's mother, Rosemary Mueller, who currently owns a home in the Belvedere Club, had a grandfather by the name of Oscar Allen who built the well-known Blue Bell Cottage in the club and was one of the club's founding fathers.

While no specific dates have been nailed down, Halverson said he will travel to Utah in February 2003 and may be there for as long as a month. The winter Olympic games include such events as skiing, bobsledding and hockey.

Information distributed by the recruiting group said this volunteer group, that includes Halverson, will supplement the Utah law enforcement.

According to Olympic security coordinators the application process saw a "tremendous response." More than 1,200 applications filtered in and 500 law enforcement officials from around the nation were selected.

Utah Public Safety Commissioner Robert L. Flowers, commander of the Utah Olympic Public Safety Command said, "We are very pleased with the level of support we have felt from around the country. We couldn't do it without this involvement."

Each selected volunteer will be issued a winter uniform and an official Olympic police badge. They will also be provided housing, meals and training. Each volunteer will provide their own transportation to and from the games.

Halverson said one of the benefits the Olympic security program offers is training for major local events like the Venetian Festival.

"I assume that during the training process they will review things that have to do with special events with a large number of people that I can bring back here. I can learn how to deal with security at large events," he said.

In March 2003, Halverson, 46, will have been with the Charlevoix department for 15 years and has been an active police officer for 24 years.

Police chief to help guard winter Olympics

By JULIE WITTHOEFT
Staff Writer

The Utah Olympic Public Safety Command has selected the city of Charlevoix's Chief of Police, Dennis Halverson, to be a member of its Law Enforcement Volunteer program.

"I felt this was something I could do for the United States. I gave money to the Red Cross, but now I can give myself."

Halverson said.

Donation needed this holiday

Once again, the community will pitch in to help make Christmas brighter for about 130 families in Charlevoix in the Charlevoix Community Christmas Project.

To make this project a success, the organizers are asking members of the community to donate new clothing, toys and books for all ages, food and gifts for the elderly. To donate any of these call Cynthia Garland at 547-6707 or Kay Smith at 547-2920.

To volunteer, call Mary Helen Riggle at 547-9515.

To donate funds, send them to the Community Christmas Project at 1202 Matchett Road, Charlevoix, MI 49720.

The organizers will be using the old Charlevoix post office this year.

Since the organization has no overhead or paid staff, all donations will go directly for Christmas.

Convention Center deserves support

EDITORIAL

With economic hard times hitting the nation, it is nice to know the city is looking at ways to help businesses in Charlevoix, especially its efforts to increase the number of visitors during the slow winter months.

Two such ways are the council's efforts to bring snowmobiles to the downtown area and the decision to consider a convention center in Charlevoix. Yes, we have picked on them for the snowmobile issue many, many times in the past, but the big picture is the council was only trying to find ways to increase business in the downtown area during the winter. On its face, that is a good move.

Of these two ideas, the one that really deserves some solid support is the creation of a convention center in Charlevoix. This does not mean building a huge facility to try and bring in hundreds of convention-goers, this means small group gatherings.

Charlevoix is in need of a centralized location — meaning close to stores and hotels — for small trade group conventions, corporate off-site meetings, business training sessions for small groups, class reunions, receptions, craft shows and winter community events in need of in-

Knutson shares his 2001 northern garden report

Roger Knutson
'Ear to the ground'

The 2001 garden report has, as always, a few successes and few failures, along with an abundance of good fresh food, some of it new to me and unavailable in the local grocery.

I can say it was a great year for beets, and an outstanding one for Roma tomatoes. The zucchini produced in a controlled pattern I have not before experienced, and I got maybe ten pounds of sweet potatoes from one large plant after getting almost nothing a year ago. Maybe sweet potatoes in northern Michigan require two growing seasons to get anywhere. Okra does not do well in our climate, probably a good thing.

Following an early garden experience while in grade school, I have usually avoided eggplant — in the garden and on my plate. Those long-ago plants produced fruits that were extremely large, spongy and, I thought, almost totally without taste or character.

In this year's garden, one of those present day varieties, called oriental or Japanese eggplant produced in addition to attractive flowers, an abundance of small, elongated, firm, purple fruit that were good either raw in a salad or stir fried with almost anything. It is already on next year's garden list.

Sometimes a new kind of plant can be botanical success and a food failure. I had previously purchased the occasional fennel bulb at the grocery and had tried out a few recipes. This year I started a dozen plants in the greenhouse and set them out at just the right time. They grew rapidly and to magnificent size and I had the problem of what to do with nine fennel bulbs maturing at almost the same time.

The Italians make good use of fennel in a variety of recipes. Maybe I should have been suspicious when the Italian cookbook suggested fennel with pork liver and fennel with sardines. No matter what I did with it it still tasted like licorice nibs. Roasted licorice nibs, licorice nibs with tomato sauce, licorice nibs au gratin. Cut up in a green salad, it added a taste of licorice nibs to whatever else was there.

The year's only unqualified success, both botanically and in the kitchen was Salsify or Oyster Plant. Grown from seed in the garden, it produced an abundance of off-white, roughly carrot-shaped roots. Both raw and after boiling, they did have the definite odor of fresh oysters.

Not having much by way of oyster plant recipes, I looked up escaloped oysters and made a tasty casserole with the roots and without any oysters. It is even possible to make a passable hors d'oeuvre of oyster plant Rockefeller with no oysters or oyster shells and lots of Rockefeller.

The vegetable garden continues to inform and to feed both soul and body.

School could have been wiser

Editor:

I come from a long line of Indiana nincompoops. It is a heritage of which I am proud. It is the wellspring from which I have drawn for my opposition to the school's foolish policies and unlawful fiscal ways. I want to reassure finally after two years of hearing the loud, empty, certainly frantic works of the Barnes and Trubilowicz that in no way do I include them or speak for them in my written charges against the school. I apologize profusely if they have assumed that I would do so.

I know many, many people in Marion Township who have already been pushed to extremes by the property tax assessments which have resulted simply because the school chose so unwisely to place its new high school in that particular area of Marion Township. There were other wiser choices, even in the township, that were considered by many people, but not by the school. We agree fully that development may come over many years out into such a rural agrarian township, but most importantly that development must be guided and controlled by the Land Use Master Plan of the Township. To do otherwise, as the school determined to do, brings large personal township tax burdens, destruction to the township resources, deep township resentments and long-standing opposition to the policies of the school that flagrantly serve the interests of a few to the detriment of many.

Proverbs 16:22 is focused and sharp in its words of so long ago: "Understanding is a wellspring of life unto him that hath it; but the instruction of fools is folly."

Grounded planes were a rest

Editor:

I just want to say what a great peace it was to have small planes not flying, as where I live, they fly so low. One day it will happen in Charlevoix the Beautiful what the planes did to New York. The odds are great. They even touch the top of the trees across the street on this side from Glen's Market.

It was just great to have all small planes at rest. It is just too much to take weekend after weekend.

Congratulations to girls' basketball team

Editor:

I would like to personally congratulate the girls' varsity basketball team for a fabulous season.

Despite the loss Friday night, these girls played incredibly all season and with enough vengeance to get to districts.

I know to them, winning is everything, but it is also how you play the game. It was a pleasure to watch them play all season. So, congratulations to you all. You were awesome!

Thank you

Editor:

Our many, many thanks to everyone in the community for their help in promoting our Charlevoix Senior Center. We especially want to thank our wonderful volunteers for without them we could not continue. Thanks also to all of those who have attended our fund-raiser chicken, roast pork and roast beef dinners, raffles and others, which aid us for our operational expenses. In as much as we do not receive any county millage for operations, we are dependent on these items and we are very grateful to all of those who help support us and contribute in any way — the city of Charlevoix and the townships, the Rainbow Shoppe, grants and to all of the individuals and organizations who contribute in monetary ways, the donors of produce, crafts and others. Your support has helped us continue to operate and to furnish very low cost, daily lunches for walk-ins and "Meals on Wheels" to those who are ill and/or home-bound.

We offer many social and educational programs and classes in crafts, computer arts, calligraphy, wood-carving, exercise and health programs and others which are all open to the public. Members are encouraged to use our Internet connections for mail and research. We do not discriminate as to age. Our monthly newsletter lists all our activities and the menu for each month.

We would like to thank our board of directors for their many untold and untiring hours of dedicated work, to thank the many volunteers for training and conducting the classes and anyone who has contributed in any way to help us make this a happy and welcoming community center where all may come to enjoy friendship and a more rewarding life. Happy Thanksgiving. May God bless you all.

Public Meeting
Downtown Park
Round Lake Waterfront

Charlevoix's Downtown Park, your thoughts and ideas are important!

The City of Charlevoix will hold a Public Meeting on December 6, 2001, at 7:00 p.m. to gather input regarding the future of the City's Downtown Park, encompassing that area along Round Lake between Antrim and Clinton streets. This meeting, which is being sponsored by the Charlevoix City Council and the Charlevoix Downtown Development Authority, will be gathering information as a basis for the preparation of goals for a long-range plan for the park area. The park area plan will ultimately be prepared by the City's consultant, Peter Pollack of Ann Arbor, after design goals are established by the DDA and City Council following the public meeting.

This meeting will not address the expansion of docks within the City's marina. A similar public meeting to address expansion of docks will be held in the Summer of 2002.

The meeting will be held at the Charlevoix High School Study Hall, 108 E. Garfield Ave., at 7:00 PM. Persons not available to attend this meeting may direct written communications to Michael Wiesner, City Manager, P.O. Box 550, Charlevoix, MI 49720, fax (231)547-3617, e-mail to chxmgr@unnet.com, or may call (231)547-3270.

Man charged for death of eight-month-old baby

MURDER

The arrest warrant states that Barcnas, "did, while in the perpetration or attempted perpetration of child abuse in the first degree, murder one Carissa Nicole Kuzmik."

Barcnas is currently being held in Charlevoix County Jail.

Barcnas' prior record shows he was charged for driving under the influence of alcohol. Halverson said before Nov. 12, the city police department had never been called to the apartment.

On Nov. 15 Barcnas was arraigned on the charges. At the arraignment Charlevoix County 33rd Circuit Court Judge Richard Pajtas sat in for 90th District Court Judge Richard May.

Prior to ruling against allowing bond, Pajtas explained to Barcnas the court can withhold bond in a case of murder if proof of guilt is evident and or the presumption great.

Kur argued that previous violence in the home, which Kuzmik's mother attested to, and a high probability of conviction should influence a ruling against bond.

Pajtas found Barcnas indigent as he is unemployed, has no source of income, owns no property and has no money. Barcnas said he speaks, but can't read English. He was not a lease holder at Pine Cove Apartments, Kuzmik's mother is the sole lease holder.

Kur further said that based on the affidavit that claims Barcnas' indigence he probably wouldn't be able to post bail anyway.

Kur further said his ties to the community are limited narrowing the possibility of others posting bail on his behalf.

She further explained there is a likelihood he is a Mexican national who is possibly in the United States illegally. Kur said when Barcnas first arrived in the United States he went to Florida where he spent four to five years. He then traveled to Michigan and has been here approximately one year.

Kur added that while in the United States he has possibly used a false social security number. The number he purports to be his own was issued in the State of Washington in the 1950s and Barcnas was born in 1978.

Before ruling Barcnas would be held without bond Pajtas said, "This is serious, if not the most serious offense one could be charged with."

Barcnas accepted the court appointed attorney, Christopher Turkelson.

Turkelson will represent Barcnas in a not guilty plea. The preliminary examination will take place at 4 p.m., Nov. 27 in Charlevoix County District Court located in the county building in the city of Charlevoix.

During the preliminary examination Kur will attempt to prove to the district court judge that the prosecution's evidence is enough to hold Barcnas for trial.

The Castle is a 'labor of love' for Muellers

CASTLE

Linda was born in Sandusky and moved to Long Beach, Miss in 1981. She has been visiting Charlevoix with Richard since 1967.

Ever since Jan. 4 Linda's wheels have been spinning. She has been studying and searching for contractors capable of bringing the site back to its original architectural design.

Current construction is focused on the exterior of the buildings.

Major structural repairs that required immediate attention included water damage and roof disrepair.

Those who know the exterior of The Castle may believe the turrets, which look somewhat like a pointed hat sitting on top of the silos and roof tops, were originally wood. But Mueller has reviewed historic photos and design papers that reveal they were shingled and most of the shingles had broken away over time.

The new roof will feature similar shingles. The general contractor at the site, Larry Shawn of Petoskey, described the materials being used as "really high quality 30 year shingles."

Shawn said his roofers are excited to have the opportunity to work on the project. The workers make their way around the site armed not only with the knowledge of their trade but also with a picture of the castle from when it was fully intact.

Shawn said the scope of the project is large, and added right now, the biggest challenge, is the structure of the turrets. In order to restore them, scaffolding will be built on the inside of the silos and one of his crewmen will be on the outside platform.

Aside from the turrets, one of the most unstable structures was the horse stable. When facing the property from M-66, to the left there is a large stone structure which was once a horse stable.

Dave Ciolek, a specialist from Williamson who Linda met at a barn preservation meeting in East Lansing, was brought in to raise the roof. Ciolek has worked on over 600 barns in his 29 years in business. He said there has been very little work done on the building over the past 15 years.

"It took eight weeks to set up the equipment to raise it (the roof) and it took an hour to raise it. It will take another week to take everything down," Ciolek said of his "back breaking" experience.

New beams, posts and braces have been installed. Ciolek said, "It should stand another hundred years."

The rectangular building that extends back from the horse barn is the carriage house. Mueller said there was a fair amount of water damage in the carriage house. The new roof on the carriage house is almost complete.

When facing the castle from M-66, the center portion behind the stage is the old courtyard. In the center of the courtyard is a running artesian fountain that Linda has working again.

She explained, when the well isn't working, water runs elsewhere and has caused damage to the buildings. When working, the water flows to Loeb Creek.

Mueller plans to have the stage removed as soon as possible.

Shawn said crews will start removing the stage before the end of the year. He said the stage roof shouldn't be too much of a problem, but the cement slab below is another challenge.

One area that will have to wait for re-roofing is the old barn area that runs 300 feet behind the stage. Mueller said she believes this was once a cow and bull pen.

To the left of the stage is the old dairy where cheese, ice cream and milk were processed.

The appearance of the turrets on the silos will be similar to those that have been reconstructed at the old dairy. To maintain its original look they have soaked the wood used around the outside edging to bend it to match the original.

To the far right of the stage is the dormitory where workers were lodged. When Mueller bought the property there was five feet of standing water on the ground of the dormitory.

Inside the lower level of the dormitory late owner Art Reibel installed dressing rooms for bands that would perform at the site. The dry wall and ceilings in these rooms will be removed and more original yet modern accommodations will be installed.

Shawn said the interior changes shouldn't be that hard. He said the biggest challenge was fixing structural problems and making the buildings sound.

Linda Mueller and Larry Shawn, and his dog Meat, stand inside the courtyard Mueller hopes will someday be the site of many weddings and other community events. (Photo by Julie Witthoeft)

"Walls come out easily," he said.

Mueller foresees the site being used for weddings with the groom and his family in the upper rooms and the bride and her family on the lower so she wouldn't have to battle with the stairs in her dress.

The berm that once served as lawn seating for concerts is being excavated by Site Planning to return it to its original grading.

Shawn estimated by spring 2002 the turrets should be complete, the roofs restored and the interior in the dairy room and the dormer complete.

This is a major financial investment; Mueller said she will receive a tax credit if certain guidelines are followed, that is saving as much of the original material as is possible.

The Mueller family is expecting to visit Charlevoix for the Christmas holiday.

Several new coaches hired by school

By JULIE WITTHOFT
Staff Writer

Fresh, experienced coaches will be on the sidelines of Charlevoix High School athletic events this winter and spring.

During the winter sports season wrestlers, junior varsity cheerleaders, skiers and volleyball players will face new coaches.

The school is also currently looking to fill head coaching positions for junior varsity and varsity softball teams for the spring.

The cheerleaders were the first to kick off the winter sports season practicing Nov. 5. High school athletic director Jim Kanine said the cheering group endured a full week of tryouts for a spot on the team.

"In my mind, they probably go through the hardest athletic selection process," Kanine said.

Varsity cheerleading coach and cheerleading program head Erin Beemis, 25, of Charlevoix has been with the program two years.

Last year the junior varsity coach Carol Ward resigned after five years. Beemis recently recommended Kanine appoint Amy Diss to replace Ward.

The school board approved the appointment at their meeting Nov. 12.

Diss, 25, of Charlevoix has extensive former experience which sparked Beemis' recommendation.

Diss was a member of Cheer America from August 1997 through December 1999. While working with Cheer America, Diss was also the middle school cheerleading coach at Houghton Lake Community Schools. During the fall sports season in Charlevoix, she helped with the cheerleading program.

Kanine told the board of education, "Amy has a strong desire to be involved in cheerleading. She has made a commitment since 1997 to coach this sport. Amy will be a fine addition to our cheerleading program."

The school district had a comfortable time period in which to look for Ward's replacement, but faced a time crunch with the wrestling program.

The unexpected resignation of wrestling coach Gary Probert was submitted Nov. 6, less than a week before the first day of wrestling practice.

Probert has coached the team for two years, but in a letter he wrote to Kanine he said this was a position he could no longer fill.

"Due to circumstances beyond my control, I am unable to fulfill my obligations as wrestling coach for Charlevoix High School," Probert stated.

Probert recommended his assistant for the past two years, Jamie Breithaupt, 26, of Petoskey be appointed to the lead role. On Nov. 16, after interviewing Breithaupt and others, Kanine appointed Breithaupt head wrestling coach.

Only 13 potential wrestlers turned out for the team's first practice Nov. 12. Kanine said wrestling numbers are down all over the state and he's hoping the new wrestling facility at the new high school site will encourage a higher turnout.

As of Nov. 15 the team was made up of 15 wrestlers, including 14 boys and one girl.

Probert's daughter, Heather, formerly wrestled with the team, but is now attending high school in Chicago, Ill.

The volleyball program also gained momentum when a former successful Charlevoix High School athlete stepped into the head coaching seat.

This year Liz Grunch of Charlevoix agreed to head the varsity program. Grunch is also the physical education teacher at the high school.

When two head coaching positions opened up in the volleyball program Grunch got to work and found two accomplished, experienced candidates.

Wendy Viles, 29, of Petoskey will be leading the junior varsity team and Lyndsay Blechel, 21, of Charlevoix will head the freshman team.

Viles played while attending school and also assisted a Kalamazoo volleyball program. Blechel is a former Charlevoix High school volleyball player who also coached at the middle school level.

Out on the slopes, another experienced assistant coach will be guiding skiers.

George M. Peet was selected to assist long-time high school ski program head coach, Sue Miller. Peet has 16 years of ski coaching experience under his belt.

Kanine told the school board, the Saginaw Heritage High School athletic director said Peet's coaching from 1997-2001 saved the Saginaw program.

Miller was awarded state honors as one of the 2001 state coaches of the year for classes B, C and D by the Michigan High School Ski Coaches Association.

The successful coaching duo is looking forward to a year of success with the team.

"It's great to have him (Peet) aboard. He is excited to work with our athletes," Miller said.

The spring softball program lost its head varsity and junior varsity coaches, Phil Butler of Elk Rapids and his daughter Courtney Butler of Sault Ste. Marie respectively.

Phil wrote Kanine a letter of resignation that the school received Oct. 9.

Butler said resigning was not easy for him. In his three years as head coach Phil created a strong program and close ties with his student athletes.

"It (coaching) has been a wonderful, fulfilling experience for me. Because of my inflexible work schedule, and Courtney (Butler) playing at LSSU (Lake Superior State University) this spring, my energies need to be directed toward those activities," he explained.

Courtney's letter of resignation was also received by Kanine Oct. 9.

She stated, "I am attending LSSU for the remainder of my college experience and will be playing softball as a Laker."

"My experience with Charlevoix High School has been exceptional. I will treasure all the memories from attending my senior year there, playing softball and coaching," she added.

Courtney coached the junior varsity team for 1 year and assisted her father with the varsity team for one year.

Kanine said he has targeted two candidates who may fill the vacancies in the softball program.

Land dispute causes development troubles

By JEREMY MCBAIN
Editor

The sales of condominiums at the Villas of Stover Creek are in flux now, due to a property dispute between developer John Watson and a property owner to the north, Mildred Withers, 82, of Charlevoix.

Withers claims Watson is building a portion of one of his condos on land owned by her on the south side of Stover Creek. She states documentation shows that Watson has crossed over onto her land with his development.

Withers specifically points out inconsistencies between two surveys conducted by the late Nicholas DeYoung in the 1970s and 1980s and one survey conducted by Jim Evans of the Charlevoix based Advanced Geomatics just before Watson bought the property. In the DeYoung survey between Withers and Watson's property, Withers property extends several feet further to the south than the Evans survey.

According to the DeYoung survey, a portion of one of Watson's condominiums lies on Withers property.

However, Watson denies this. He has filed suit in the Charlevoix Circuit Court to resolve the dispute.

Watson claims DeYoung's survey only showed a "meander-line" between the two properties. He points out DeYoung was not contracted by Withers for this survey and the survey was to establish a utility easement for his property and the Kmart property to the west. Watson further states he has documentation to support the Evans' survey.

Watson added he did not know about the property dispute until after he started building his development in October.

"I am kind of wondering what took so long," he said.

Withers said she was told about the possible crossover onto her property by Jo Anne Beemon, a friend and the Charlevoix County Drain Commissioner, in July. Beemon said she wrote a letter to Advanced Geomatics telling the company about the dispute, but did not inform Watson until this fall.

During this time, Beemon said she contacted the group Water and Air Team Charlevoix (WATCH) to find out if they could help. WATCH then paid for a new survey to be conducted by Farrier Surveying of Bellaire. This new survey supports the DeYoung survey.

Bill Henne, president of WATCH, said the group got involved because it "has an interest in preserving (Stover) Creek."

"We are interested in seeking a buffer between the creek and the development," Henne said.

He added he has spoken with Withers on this matter a few times and WATCH agreed to pay for the new survey because Withers couldn't afford it.

Beemon said she did nothing wrong in trying to find help for Withers, even though she is the Charlevoix County Drain Commissioner.

The scheduling conference has been set for 9 a.m. on Nov. 21 in front of 33rd Circuit Court Judge Richard M. Pajtas for this case.

HEALTH

Whiter teeth may be easier than you think

John A. Merrill, D.D.S.

'Your health'

Nearly everyone wants a nice smile and although we are all created differently, there are many similar elements that make up a great-looking smile.

Studies prove that people are keeping their teeth for a lifetime. As we age, our teeth age too. Permanent teeth are naturally darker than baby teeth. Years of coffee, tea, cola, red wine, as well as smoking, can greatly age your smile and make you look older.

Nearly everyone we ask would like whiter teeth. A brighter smile conveys health, energy, sex appeal and youth. Today there are many options for someone to improve their smile.

Toothpastes that promise whiter teeth are formulated to remove surface-stains with more potent abrasives.

Over-the-counter home bleaching kits can help, but are not as potent or effective as those designed and dispensed by your dentist. They are also less accurate in applying the bleaching medicine only to the teeth so that often the gums and oral tissues become quite sore.

Professional laser, light or heat-assisted systems can certainly jumpstart a home whitening program. But its overall effectiveness after one completes a home program is usually minimal when compared to the additional costs.

The state-of-the-art whitening program provided by most dental offices today is a home-whitening program. Impressions of your upper and lower teeth are obtained and form-fitting "stents" are made. Depending on the strength of the bleaching gel — usually 10 to 30 percent stabilized peroxide, patients wear these appliances from several hours to only 20 minutes a day.

The improvement within one to three treatments is usually already quite noticeable. After 10 to 20 days, the treatment is completed. Improvement varies, but results can last years and even decades. Many options are available, so ask your dentist for what system might be best for you.

Be aware that if you are considering whitening your teeth that any tooth-colored restorations will not change. If the restorations match your present color they will definitely look too dark after you complete treatment.

Many patients we see consider professional whitening services one of the best values and investments in improving their smile. Ours, as well as many offices, even guarantee their effectiveness.

So, whether you are 18 or 80, if a younger, more confident smile sounds appealing, ask your dentist. A brighter smile may be easier than you think.

Dr. John A. Merrill can be contacted by calling 547-9141. His office is located at 06483 M-66 in Charlevoix.

Couple share the adoption experience

By JULIE WITTHOEF
Staff Writer

This is the second in a series on adoption.

Charlevoix residents Dr. John and Jan Merrill faced infertility and obstacles in adoption, but through perseverance, unconditional love and faith, were able to build a family of seven.

With parenting, either you're the parent or you're not, you're fully involved or you're not. There's not a big difference between my Chinese daughter and the daughter that is from my flesh. The connection between a parent and a child isn't in the genes," John said.

John, 45 and Jan, 47, have been married 23 years. The couple spent their first five years as man and wife trying to conceive. They frequented infertility clinics in Ann Arbor, Grand Rapids and Petoskey with no luck in diagnosis or conception.

"It is pretty tough on a relationship. Jan was willing to go anywhere with it — surgeries were involved with a 30 percent success rate. It almost destroyed our marriage," John explained.

"At that stage it's either family or no family, that's the toughest thing the first time. Every setback is death. We thought, 'We are never going to be parents; we're going to be a couple and never a family.'"

Then, Jan saw an ad in the Petoskey News-Review for an open adoption facility in Gaylord.

In 1986, the couple went through a home study questioning and interviewing.

One day they received a phone call from their case worker who John recalled saying, "You need to get ready, I think I have a mother that is going to pick you."

Shortly thereafter Jonathan came into their lives.

Jonathan's mother was a freshman college student at Lake Superior State University, John said she chose them because they enjoy bicycling, have solid college degrees and have established a Christian home.

Jonathan was born full-term, but went into respiratory failure after breathing in amniotic fluid. He was transported to a hospital in Sault Ste. Marie where he was in their neo-natal unit for six weeks.

Jan and John were by his side every Wednesday night and would return on Fridays and stay through Sunday.

Once they were able to bring him home, Jonathan stopped breathing and the Merrills rushed him to Northern Michigan Hospital where they were told he sustained brain damage.

Their case worker took the child away from them. John said they understood and accepted the decision but requested the child be transported to Ann Arbor for further treatment.

The couple called down to the Ann Arbor hospital three times a day and were told he was failing to thrive.

Jan refused to walk away. She went to Ann Arbor and stayed at the McDonald House for four hours a day and spent the rest of her time at the hospital holding Jonathan.

"He wouldn't take food, he was wasting away," John said.

After a couple weeks with Jan, he started taking food and gained weight. Six weeks later the couple brought Jonathan home.

"Jan pretty much saved Jonathan's life," John said admiringly.

After they brought the baby home they were in and out of the hospital almost 10 times in the first year. Jonathan underwent heart surgery and caught pneumonia.

"He was just not a healthy little boy. It was a pretty rough start to our first child. Those were such dark days," John quietly said.

Jonathan Merrill is now a 15-year-old healthy student at Charlevoix High School.

Then in 1991, David, their second adopted child, came into the Merrill home. John said the love and the anticipation gave Jonathan more peace with his own situation.

John said with David they were more relaxed, they knew the process and with one child there was less at risk.

David's mother picked the Merrills because John listed one of his favorite television shows as the Simpsons and Jan listed the same program on her black list. John said David's mother saw they didn't agree on everything and thought that was healthy.

Shortly after David arrived, Jan found out she was pregnant.

John said this filled a hole that would have otherwise been empty.

Christmas Tree Lighting

The annual Charlevoix Community Christmas Tree Lighting will take place on Nov. 23, the day after Thanksgiving, in downtown Charlevoix's East Park.

Families are encouraged to bring their handmade, weatherproof ornaments to the Community Christmas Tree in East Park for decorating between 2 and 6 p.m. A bucket truck will be provided so children can direct from the ground where they would like their ornament placed on the tree. Afterwards, warm up with a cup of complimentary hot chocolate. Santa Claus will light the Christmas Tree at 6 p.m. with songs of the season to add to the festivities.

The Charlevoix Ministerial Association is sponsoring the Live Nativity in East Park from 1 to 3 p.m. and from 6 to 8 p.m.

Children may visit with Santa Claus at The North Pole (Color Wear) and have their picture taken with him for free. Santa will be there between 4 and 7 p.m. The photos are courtesy of Charlevoix Camera and may be picked up there the following week.

In the spirit of Thanksgiving, participating Charlevoix merchants will be donating a percentage of their sales from Friday, November 23, to the Charlevoix Area Hospital.

These merchants can be identified by the hospital scrubs they will be wearing for the day. Decorated bed pans will be placed in their stores so shopper's can donate spare change.

For more information on the Charlevoix Community Christmas Tree Lighting, contact the Charlevoix Area Chamber of Commerce at 547-2101.

Christian Science service

The Christian Science Society of Charlevoix warmly invites the Community to its annual Thanksgiving Day Service at 11 a.m., Nov. 22. It is located at 205 Clinton Street. Childcare will be provided and no collection will be taken.

Christmas Cantata

You are invited to come and enjoy The Perfect Christmas Cantata performance at 3 p.m., Dec. 8 and 9 on Beaver Island at the Christian Church. There are 25 choir members and six instrumentalists planning to make this memorable.

Thanksgiving service

Ecumenical Thanksgiving Service: A Thanksgiving Worship Service sponsored by the East Jordan Ministerial Association will be at 7 p.m., Nov. 21 at the Community of Christ Church, 202 Jordan Street. Everyone is invited to attend.

Cookie walk and bazaar

No time for baking? Then go to the First Congregational Church's famous Cookie Walk and Bazaar from 9 to 11 a.m. on Dec. 1. Mr. and Mrs. Claus — better known as Santa — will be there to greet you. You will be able to choose from dozens of beautiful holiday cookies baked by the Women's Fellowship members, as you fill containers for $10, $12 or $15. Sip a cup of hot chocolate as you browse through the bazaar items. The church is located on the corner of State and Park streets. For more information, call 547-0340.

SCRAPBOOK

A history of the Charlevoix channel bridges

By DAVID L. MILES
Charlevoix Historical Society
(Ninth in a Series)

For 22 months Charlevoix endured the fifth "temporary float" bridge perched on its ugly pontoon, operated by a winch and cable system combined with a pump that forced water in and out of the hollow pontoon base.

With water out, the pontoon rose the few inches necessary for the south end of the bridge to float high enough off its piling support. Then the winch, mounted below the bridge pavement, pulled on a steel cable anchored to pilings in Round Lake, which pivoted the bridge to the east. To close, the winch pulled another cable, this one anchored to the shore west of the bridge. It then lumbered to closed position, water went back into the pontoon base, the bridge sank back onto its support pilings, and traffic resumed.

That is, if drivers on either side hadn't fallen asleep from the sheer tedium of waiting, waiting, waiting. Or they could glance off to the west and watch bridge number six take shape, a sidewalk superintendent's vision of paradise. It was a mesmerizing experience to behold the metal and concrete bits and pieces slowly build to connect the gap of the bridge draw.

The upper portion of old number four was put to the torch and sold for scrap. Its support I-beams were saved for use as temporary supports in the new construction. Once four was gone the protective piling island was ripped out, the turntable lifted off and the circular concrete support platform battered away. It put up a tremendous resistance, having been constructed with the strength of a Crusader castle.

Now the draw could be opened to its full width of 90 feet, to be spanned by a bascule bridge (from the French bascule, meaning teeter-totter, or the principle of counterbalancing weights), the same type as London's Tower Bridge. About a year then went into pounding cofferdams into position on each side and gouging out tons of earth. Behind them, huge timber mold frameworks went up, into which 95,000 cubic yards of reinforced concrete anchors and foundations were poured, about 48,000 on each side. What now shows are only the tips of two mountains of concrete.

Once the foundations settled, in July of 1948 the first steel sections were put in place, soon to total 396.4 tons, part of that tonnage the mammoth out of sight counterweights. A further 50 tons of mechanical fixtures were installed, including 30-horsepower motors, automatic and emergency brakes and hand cranks in case of power failure. Best of all the roadway was widened to over twice its previous dimensions, from 19 to 44 feet and four lanes. The minimum wage scale for ordinary laborers was 70 cents to $1.40 per hour; operating engineers, cement finishers, and carpenters received from $1.20 to $1.75. Total cost: $986,404 (What would the bridge lack were it not for that final $4?)

The two leaves, as they are called, came together girder by girder, pointing to the sky, then back down to road level, tested, balanced, raised again, one side up, the other down, until it seemed they'd never get the right combination figured out. Finally it all came together, and opened in June of 1949. Out came the temporary, to a sigh of relief, and traffic resumed its normal course.

On July 30, an unusually cold day, the parade and dedication took place before a very large crowd assembled on Bridge Street and the bridge, which was blocked off for the duration of the ceremonies.

James Whitley of Charlevoix had suggested that it be dedicated to the 21 area men who had given their lives in World War II, and the idea was accepted to name it the Memorial Bridge.

Michigan State Highway Commissioner Charles Ziegler read a moving tribute: "Transcending in importance the financial investment and the value of the beautiful bridge to the people of Charlevoix, the state, and visitors from other states, is the spirit of heartfelt appreciation of the patriotism displayed by those young men of Charlevoix and vicinity, who gave their lives for the country we love so much, and in whose memory the bridge is being dedicated today.

"It is with great humbleness that I voice the mingled feelings of sadness and pride which emanate from the hearts of all citizens of Charlevoix. This strong, useful creation of engineering skill will stand for generations to testify to the bravery and heroism of the stout-hearted boys of this community who went forth to answer their country's call to duty, and paid the supreme sacrifice for our great Republic.

"May God bring surcease to the souls of the loved ones who remain and take thoughts of future wars from the hearts of men."

A dedication plaque was mounted, and still exists, on the southwest cement railing: "Dedicated To Those Heroes of Charlevoix Who Made The Supreme Sacrifice In World War II."

Flowers were presented to Gold Star Families whose many sons had served, and some been lost, in the war; a wreath was placed before the memorial plaque, later tossed into the channel; Jewish, Protestant, and Catholic prayers were read; rifles cracked in salute; taps were played; the flag raised; a jubilant Ziegler, who had made the bridge a pet project, cut the ribbon with a huge pair of shears; and the high school band's "Star Spangled Banner" closed the occasion. That night, the officials and ceremony participants did what many people of Charlevoix do to celebrate. They all went to dinner at the Argonne.

Much of what we see today did not exist then. Except for the four huge support girders, the roadbed and its girders were all replaced over two bitter winters in the early 1990s, on half of each side disappearing after the fall tourist season, with traffic down to one lane. When all was finished, Charlevoix waited for the reinstallation of comparable railings to replace the ugly utilitarian ones put in place, assumedly temporary.

When it was announced that what you see is what you get, that the state was obligated to provide minimal protective devices and not esthetics, a grand and justified, furor erupted. Both local and resort citizens, under the determined and vigilant leadership of Charlevoix Courier columnist and local author

Edith Gilbert, lobbied and publicized relentlessly, and eventually shamed the state into providing caps over the ugliness after it was readily made obvious that the railings were indeed unsafe for pedestrians.

The lowest railing was high enough off the sidewalk for the easy slippage beneath of a small child or animal over and into the channel. The railing covers that exist today echo the Gothic pointed arch motif of the railings that be-decked bridge four, those originals now lining the edges of Hoffman Park around the corner from the bridge on park Avenue.

DDA to fund ice rink

By JULIE WITTHOFT
Staff Writer

An ice rink that brought skaters to Charlevoix's East Park in the mid-1980s will be back this year.

Charlevoix's Downtown Development Authority voted unanimously to finance an ice skating rink in East Park for this winter.

At the Monday meeting merchants, including Kirby Dipert, owner of multiple Charlevoix clothing stores and Linda Mason, owner of Charlevoix's Mason Interiors, spoke to the authority about the benefits of the rink.

They said this year could be an opportunity to try out the rink idea as the city moves to renovate the park.

"It would certainly be a good trial. Our town needs a boost in the winter," Mason said.

"It is a picturesque place to be, it's not off the beaten path. There would be activities for children and adults within the same vicinity."

City street superintendent John Martin said when the city operated the rink in the 1980s it was costly. A memo from city manager Mike Wiesner estimated the cost of a rink in East Park at $25,000.

Martin said other issues include having kids close to the lake, stuffing and the lack of a warming hut.

After weighing the benefits and the costs of the project, authority member Dr. Jeffrey Porter motioned for the authority to allocate $12,500 to the rink project this winter. However, fellow authority member Dan Barron questioned the possibility of merchants collecting $17,500 from other sources before the start of the season.

Hoskins has more problems facing it

By JULIE WITTHOFT
Staff Writer

The effects felt in Charlevoix as a result of the shutdown at Hoskins Manufacturing have extended beyond the local loss of over 200 jobs.

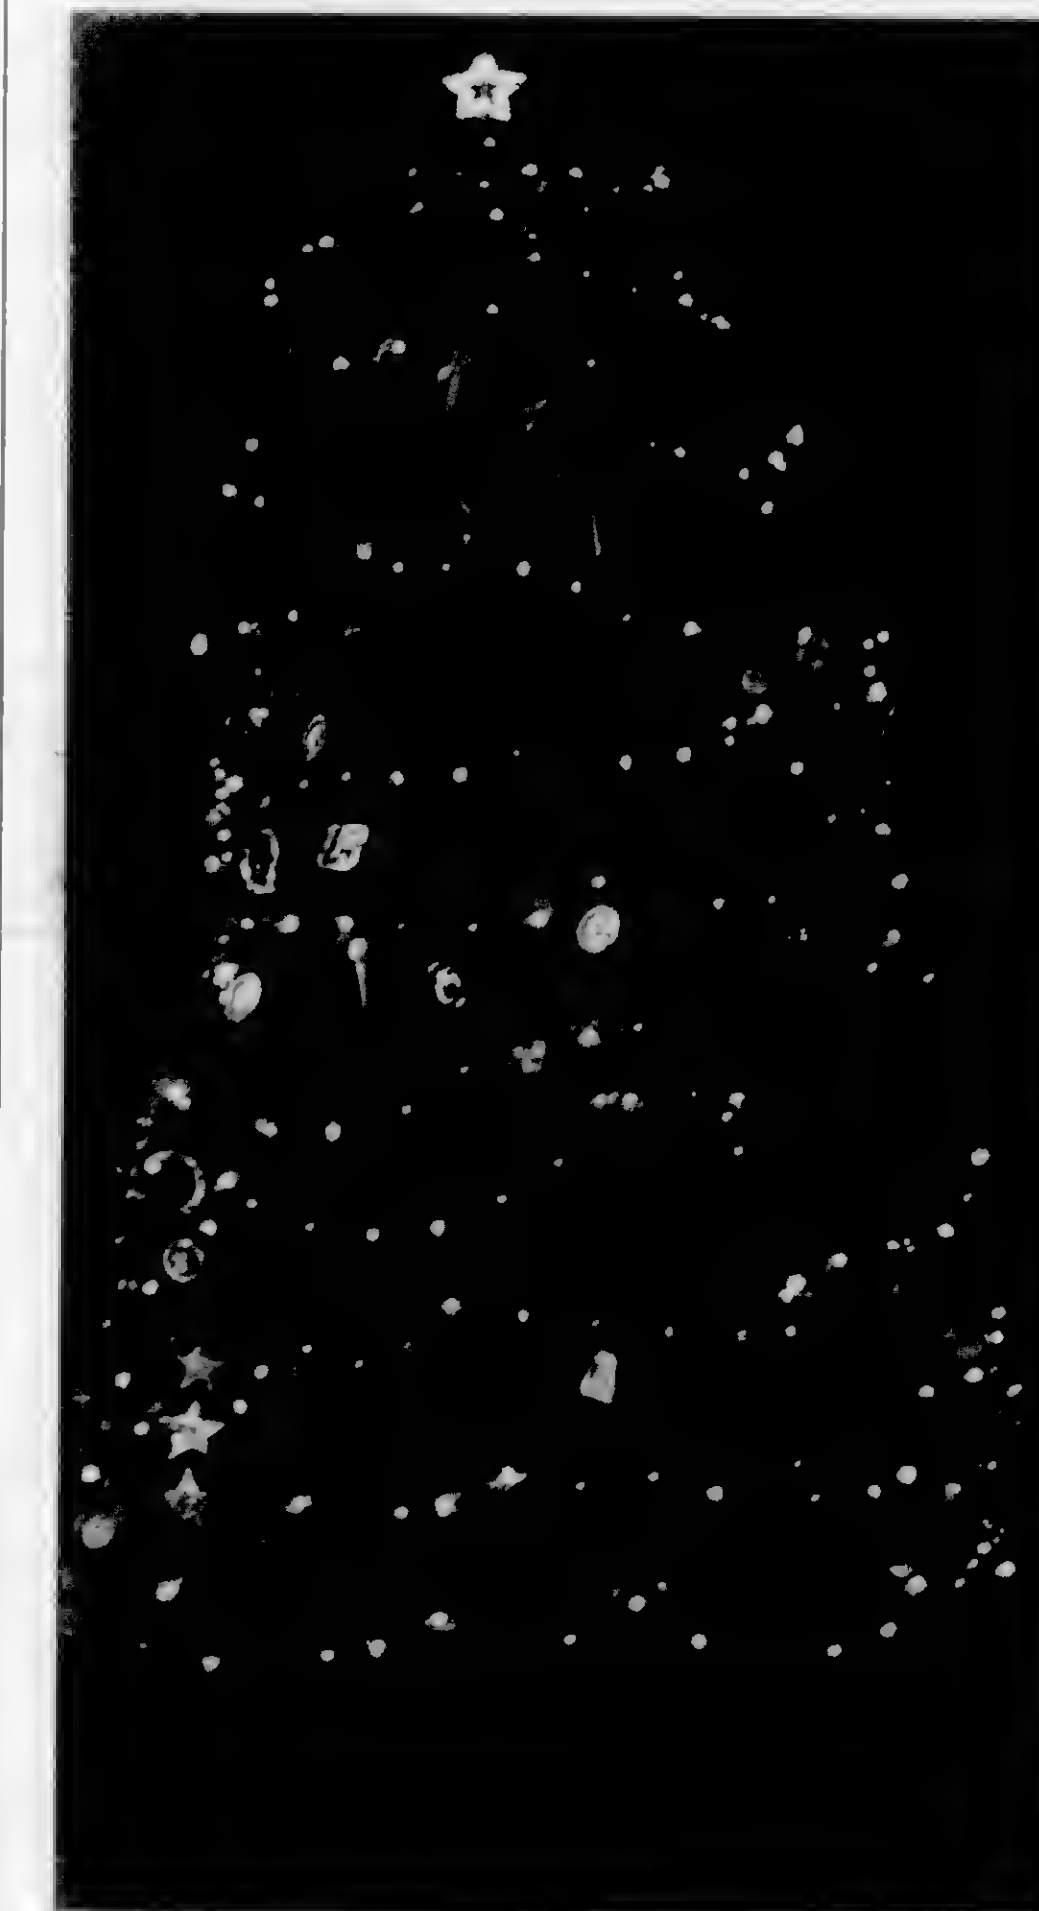

According to Jim Musser, CEO of Hoskins Manufacturing, as of Nov. 14 the company essentially ceased operations entirely. Hoskins has laid off all their employees, company wide.

They have four locations in Michigan. The plants in Mio, Lewiston and Hamburg were active up until last week and the plant in Charlevoix ceased operations in early September.

The site in Charlevoix where Hoskins once operated is located off M-66 in Marion Township. The township granted the manufacturer a tax abatement in 1997 that was void once it closed its doors. The abatement would have been good through 2009.

Currently, Marion Township is taking action against the company because Hoskins isn't paying taxes owed that the township claims are due. Charlevoix attorney Scott

Lasater collecting veterans' stories

By JULIE WITTHOEFT
Staff Writer

Charlevoix County Sheriff George T. Lasater has a gift for the community.

Sheriff
George Lasater

Lasater's gift is a literary documentary he has been working on since 1999. The pages chronicle the life experiences of World War II veterans across the county.

"There are so many heroes walking around the county and many don't even know they are heroes. Their stories need to be recorded for them, their families, for the community and for generations to come," Lasater explained.

Lasater shared some of the unique stories of Charlevoix residents who he said, without the project, he may have never had the opportunity to meet. However, anxious readers will have to wait for the book to be published in order to identify the veteran or family.

Most of the 147 interviews Lasater has conducted thus far are the stories of soldiers who were away at war for three to four years. Lasater said those who finally came home went to school, got jobs, raised families and paid taxes — "they got on with life."

The interviews include basic information about where the soldiers served, what awards they won and their rank.

He said county residents served in every World War II battle imaginable. Charlevoix County had 14 soldiers that fought at Normandy.

One of the book's stories of the battle at Normandy came out of Charlevoix's Hayes Township. Two brothers, one serving with the Army, one with the Navy, were both part of the first wave of invasions at Normandy.

Their mother knew both her boys were there and they would possibly not survive. She stayed glued to the radio and four days later died of a heart attack in Charlevoix, in a chair, in front of the radio.

During Lasater's interview one of the soldiers told him, "I survived Normandy, but my mother didn't."

Another chilling tale came from the Norwood area where a woman told the story of her brother, a young man who was drafted to serve in World War II. He went off to basic training in North Carolina and soon after, all leaves were canceled and the troops were preparing to go to England.

Lasater described the soldier as a local boy who was experiencing his first time away from home. The boy wanted to see his family, so he left camp and hitchhiked to Grand Rapids. Police officers picked him up in Grand Rapids and asked to see his papers.

He explained he wanted to be home. The officers took him to the county line, pointed north and said Charlevoix is that way, go home. After a brief visit, the soldier went to Traverse City, turned himself in and was shipped over in the first wave at Normandy where he was killed.

One humorous story came from a Charlevoix couple — he was just out of high school and was being shipped to Europe and she was attending Charlevoix High School.

The two wanted to get married and she vowed to wait for him. He was gone for over three years, she waited, he survived and they started their family together.

Sheriff said to her, it must have been true love that kept you waiting. The woman playfully responded, "Love had nothing to do with it, there were no boys left."

Other historical stories to be included tell of the joy of reuniting with family after war, survival in the face of peril and county patriotism.

Lasater plans to publish these and many more tales before his term ends. He has three years left to complete it.

This, Lasater's first book, will concentrate on World War II and he said he would like to work on documenting involvement by Charlevoix County soldiers of other wars later.

Profits will go to county American Legion and Veteran's of Foreign Wars posts.

Lasater said he finds the work uplifting, but has had some difficult interviews too where tears were shed and the sadness of the story stays with him.

Setup price for covers was $2,000

According to Charlevoix City documentation, the setup price for the new "Charlevoix the Beautiful" manhole covers was $2,000.

East Jordan Iron Works sent the city an invoice for the amount in March 2001. The setup fee is a one-time cost to the city to create the mold for the new covers.

Charlevoix is purchasing the new manhole covers, featuring the image of the Charlevoix lighthouse and channel, for about $115 each, not including the setup charge. The covers will replace old manhole covers on streets being improved in the city.

Belvedere, Dixon and Michigan avenues will be the first to get the new manhole covers.

Free movies to be shown on Saturday for children

Free movies at Charlevoix Cinema III will be part of the Merchants Open House on Saturday in Charlevoix.

The features will include, "Monsters, Inc." from Walt Disney for little kids, rated G, and "The Musketeer" for bigger kids, rated PG-13. The movies will start at 1 p.m. Charlevoix Cinema III is located on Antrim Street.

Children are asked to bring a can or box of food to help stock up the Charlevoix Food Pantry as they prepare for the Christmas season.

At noon on Saturday, the Charlevoix Fire Department will also be bringing Santa Claus to East Park.

OPINIONS

What should be done about traffic?

The responses are in from last month's "What do you think?" question.

The question was: What should be done with the current Charlevoix Middle School building?

We received some great ideas from readers on this question. Suggestions included turning the building into apartments, office space and small retail shops.

While we do have a limit of 250 words for these responses, and many went over that limit, we felt it would be all right to let the lengths slide a little on these ones because they were so good.

Furthermore, we hope these responses help the Charlevoix School District when it decides the fate of this building.

On to this month's question.

As the winter season begins in Charlevoix, the annual traffic difference can be noticed. For the next few months there will not be long lines of parked cars on Bridge Street waiting for the bridge to go down every half hour.

Sure, the break is nice sometimes when the bridge goes up; you can read a book in your vehicle, talk to your passengers, sing along to music or even get out and stretch. However, it seems that the wait and line up of vehicles has been getting longer each year.

What do you think?

There seems to be more vehicles traveling through Charlevoix and there is more boating traffic going under the bridge. This is creating more of a burden on the traffic situation in the city.

And with the recent discussions on expanding the size of the Charlevoix Municipal Marina, it seems as though there will be more boats, possibly keeping the bridge up longer and creating more traffic struggles.

Therefore, this month's question is: What can be done to alleviate the summer traffic situation in Charlevoix, especially when the bridge is up?

Please keep your responses to about 250 words and remember to sign them. Send your responses to the Charlevoix Courier at P.O. Last month's responses

In response to (Jeremy) McBain's urging that we discuss the housing issue in Charlevoix, I offer the following suggestion. We will, within the next year, have available a large building within a block or so of downtown. I refer to the old elementary, now middle school. Might it be possible to renovate parts or all of the building to produce apartments of various sizes that might help reduce the need for additional housing? I am not an architect, but it has been my observation that most architects are less interested in renovation than in building. From prior experience, I know there are architects in both Minnesota and Iowa that specialize in renovation. I suspect that there are such people in Michigan as well. A renovation specialist should be able to tell us the approximate costs and feasibility of successfully renovating the building. Renovation can be less expensive than demolishing and rebuilding, and it would retain a part of the community's history. Most everyone who grew up in Charlevoix spent some considerable time in the building and saving it in some useful form might be appealing.

In the Nov. 7, 2001 issue you pose a question: "What should be done with the Charlevoix Middle School?" The answer is simple; do as New Glarus and Jonesville, Wis. have done with their older schools: Turn them into apartment buildings. The same developer has done the conversion of both schools. Our grandson and his wife have lived in the one in New Glarus, it is beautiful. They are now moving to the one in Jonesville. You couldn't do better for the community.

Here is an idea for the Charlevoix Middle School: Charlevoix Community Center. This includes separate areas for: Food area with soda fountain and coffee shop; art classes, with morning and evening classes for adults and afternoon classes for children; gallery space for community center art; music lessons; dance classes; an after-school program for children; a gym for sports practice and games; tutoring with teens as teachers, especially for computers; meeting spaces for clubs and committees and a computer lab. How about getting a grant for something like this? There might even be space for a senior area and library.

The questions you posed in recent weeks which have basically gone unanswered prompted me to answer this one, with tongue in check for most part. Here goes: To what use should the Charlevoix Middle School be put? 1) Turn it into a winter home for robins, as a state bird should be a year-round resident. Ask any chickadee. 2) Convert it into condo-apartments, thus offering some affordable housing. 3) Use the larger areas as a technical school for food service, housekeeping, landscaping, building trades and convenience store clerk occupations. Check the classifieds, the need is evident. 4) In one small room, have a short course on "answering questions posed in the local paper." If you are forced to publish this answer, again the need is evident. 5) Lease it for $1 a year to those opposed to the Marion Center Road high school location, sewer, traffic or whatever. They would then have a school in town, with no sewer needs, no traffic difference and others and could start their own school if so desired. (Note: Remember the tongue location. I would not know one of these people. If I passed them on the street, nor do I have any opinion on the issues involved. No lawsuits, please.) 6) Convert it into a greenhouse so we can grow our own petunias. 7) Or (he said as tongue was removed from cheek) Frankenthum used their school as a craft and small shops mall. There is room for parking and space could be leased, which would allow new small businesses to get their feet wet while testing the waters without drowning in red ink if not successful.

Letters to the editor

Thank you

Editor:

The Charlevoix K-Kids, a young people's group of Kiwanis came to my home and spent after-school hours raking and cleaning up the large accumulation of fallen leaves. I can no longer do this myself and the enthusiastic group of young people did a wonderful job.

Mrs. Gail Gennett of Charlevoix Elementary School organized the project.

I am deeply grateful for their help; they demonstrate the willingness to help others which is a vital part of good citizenship. One young lady, Megghan even postponed her birthday celebration so that she could participate. The K-Kids are a wonderful group.

Patriots?

Editor:

Since Sept. 11 it has been encouraging to see many new American flags in front of homes and businesses, on vehicles and clothing and just about anywhere you want to look you see our flag being shown by our new patriotic citizens all over our great nation. But isn't it sad that the events that prompted this new patriotism had to be a catastrophe. Where were our new patriots Sept. 10 with their flags and slogans? I'll tell you where — they were going about their own mundane lives avoiding involvement, interested only in what directly affects their lives, not voting and being satisfied to let someone else carry the responsibility of protecting their way of life, their rights and their freedoms.

And where were the true patriots? They were all around you, in every town, in every state and wherever our military was deployed all over the world. That's where you can find the true patriot. They are our veterans who have served and are now serving their country to protect our way of life, our freedoms and liberties. They are those citizens who take an interest in their communities and nation and are willing to give their all, even their lives for freedom and their country rather than be enslaved by some dictator or new world order. These are the patriots whose patriotism comes from the heart. They have been here and they are here now as they always have been since our country was formed over 225 years ago.

Where does your patriotism originate? Is it a part of your being and radiating from your heart? Or is it only awakened by a Sept. 11 catastrophe, fueled by anger or indignation and worn on your sleeve? Would you be willing to give your life for your country and freedom? I would.

The final figures are in on the 2001 Charlevoix County CROP Walk and once again participants have surpassed their goal.

The total money earned amounted to $20,713.34. Boyne City walkers collected $6,407.03, Charlevoix tallied $8,929 and East Jordan brought in $5,377.31. A special thank you to all of those who came out that sunny, crisp Saturday (after a week of wind and rain) to walk, thereby helping to feed the hungry, not only in our own communities but in the world!

A special thank you to the Charlevoix Kiwanis for the lunch served at the Ironton Congregational Church. Thanks to the sheriff's department who patrolled the roads and ensured the safety of the walkers, and to those drivers who picked up tired hikers and others who transported walkers back to their towns after the walk ended.

Thanks to all who worked on various committees to make sure the walk went smoothly. We look forward to working with you again in the 2002 CROP Walk.

Public Meeting Downtown Park Round Lake Waterfront

Charlevoix's Downtown Park, your thoughts and ideas are important!

The City of Charlevoix will hold a Public Meeting on December 6, 2001, at 7:00 p.m. to gather input regarding the future of the City's Downtown Park, encompassing that area along Round Lake between Antrim and Clinton streets. This meeting, which is being sponsored by the Charlevoix City Council and the Charlevoix Downtown Development Authority, will be gathering information as a basis for the preparation of goals for a long-range plan for the park area. The park area plan will ultimately be prepared by the City's consultant, Peter Pollack of Ann Arbor, after design goals are established by the DDA and City Council following the public meeting.

This meeting will not address the expansion of docks within the City's marina. A similar public meeting to address expansion of docks will be held in the Summer of 2002.

The meeting will be held at the Charlevoix High School Study Hall, 108 E. Garfield Ave., at 7:00 PM. Persons not available to attend this meeting may direct written communications to Michael Wiesner, City Manager, P.O. Box 550, Charlevoix, MI 49720, fax (231)547-3617, e-mail to chxmgr@unnet.com, or may call (231)547-3270.

by and the driver carefully watching her. Maybe he wanted to hire her to wash his windows? The van backed up, drove forward, backed up three times. Finally he turned and asked Kay, "Do you live here?"

"No, I'm Steve's mother," Kay replies. "He teaches at the school."

"Oh," the driver said. "I better get back to the school and tell them that the police don't need to come here. I thought you were breaking in!"

With that he drove off.

At this point two men in suits with "walkie talkies" whizz around the corner and ask Kay, "What are you doing here?"

Kay again explained to the two men what she was doing. They turned out to be the police from the Bureau of Indian Affairs.

"So sorry," they apologized and drove off.

In the meantime the principal of the school went to Steve's room to alert him of the situation and said, "Steve, I've called the police because someone is breaking into your apartment."

"Oh, no!" Steve cried out. "My mother is in there!"

"If you think your mother is in danger, I will stay with your class and you can leave now."

But before Steve dashed off, the driver in the van, who turned out to be a campus security guard, radioed back to headquarters. "All's well, the burglar turns out to be Steve's mother washing windows!"

I don't know what Steve thinks about his mother's visit, but Kay says she is no longer worried about her son's safety.

Wedding

Captain — Holm

Tina Captain, of Gobles, and Tim Holm, of Battle Creek, were married on June 30, 2001 at Barnard United Methodist Church.

Tina is the daughter of Don Captain and the late Elisabeth Captain of Gobles. Tim is the son of Ed and Mary Jo Holm of Charlevoix.

The Rev. Eugene Baughan performed the double ring rites.

The bride wore a white wedding dress off the shoulder that was satin with a beaded design on the top of the dress. She carried a bouquet of satin daisies, lily-of-the-valley and a touch of purple lace.

The maid of honor was Christine Baldwin. Bridesmaids were Misty Gazi, Trish Tieppo and Tammy MacMaster. They wore dark purple long, form fitting, sleeveless dresses and carried a bouquet of long stem, satin, purple and white flowers.

Charity Baldwin and Rachel Baldwin were the flower girls.

Edward Holm was the best man. Groomsmen were Bob Gazi, Chad Low and Harold Holm. Ushers were Garth MacMaster and Scott Sedore.

A reception was given at the Holm's residence, with a pig roast and dancing in the family's pole barn.

The couple went to Gatlinburg, Tenn. for a wedding trip and stayed in a wood cabin.

They are making Battle Creek their home.

Tim is a sixth grade teacher at Athens Middle School and Tina is a secretary at Troxel Realty Company.

Center to have youth concert

The Crooked Tree Arts Center will have A Winter Concert, performed by The Crooked Tree Youth Orchestra.

This is the first concert of the year for the youth orchestra. The concert will be at 2 p.m. on Dec. 2 at the Crooked Tree Arts Center.

There is no admission charge.

Young musicians from Wolverine, Harbor Springs, Petoskey, Charlevoix, Boyne City, Beaver Island, Boyne Falls and Pellston have practiced together one night a week since September.

The Beginning Strings Program, offered to the schools in the Char-Em School District, has cultivated many new players for the youth orchestra.

The program includes many holiday favorites including Fantasia on Greenleaves, O' Little Town of Bethlehem, Away in a Manger and Wassail Song.

For more information regarding the concert, please call the Crooked Tree Arts Center at 347-4337.

The arts center is located downtown Petoskey at 461 E. Mitchell Street.

Donations needed for annual project

Once again, the community will pitch in to help make Christmas brighter for about 130 families in Charlevoix in the Charlevoix Community Christmas Project.

To make this project a success, the organizers are asking members of the community to donate new clothing, toys and books for all ages, food and gifts for the elderly. To donate any of these call Cynthia Garland at 547-6707 or Kay Smith at 547-2920.

To volunteer, call Mary Helen Riggle at 547-9515.

To donate funds, send them to the Community Christmas Project at 1202 Matchett Road, Charlevoix, MI 49720.

The organizers will be using the old Charlevoix post office this year. Since the organization has no overhead or paid staff, all donations will go directly for Christmas.

Crooked Tree Center to have holiday concert

Spend an evening listening to the sounds of the season and fill your heart with a warm holiday memory. Bring a friend to the Crooked Tree Arts Center's annual holiday concert featuring the Traverse Symphony Orchestra.

Accompanying the orchestra will be the Crooked Tree Treble Choir and soloist Kimberley Dolanski. This concert is a presentation in the 2001-2002 Virginia McCune Performing Arts Series. The concert will be at 7 p.m. on Dec. 9 at the Petoskey Middle School.

Leading the Traverse Symphony Orchestra will be guest conductor, Glenn Klassen. Canadian born Klassen has conducted in a broad range of venues.

He presently serves as assistant conductor of the Battle Creek Symphony Orchestra and earlier was both artistic director and conductor of the Mason Community Orchestra. At Michigan State, where he is pursuing graduate studies, he has conducted the Michigan State University Symphony Orchestra and the Chamber, Philharmonic and Campus Orchestras.

Klassen brought his family to Michigan from his native Manitoba in 1997.

Prior to that time, he served as conductor for the Mennonite Community Orchestra, the Manitoba Conservatory of Arts and Music Orchestra and the Winnipeg Chamber Orchestra. He returned to Canada in the summer of 2000 to act as assistant conductor for the National Academy Orchestra during the Boris Brott Music Festival held in Hamilton, Ontario.

More recent engagements include being invited back to guest conduct the Mennonite Community Orchestra, guest conduct the Rochester Symphony Orchestra and conduct Chimarosa's The Secret Marriage produced by the Opera Theater Department at Michigan State.

A multi-talented musician, Klassen stays active as a violinist, playing in the Michigan State University Symphony Orchestra and the Battle Creek Symphony Orchestra.

Parents have many choices

By JULIE WITTHOEFT

This is the final package of stories for our series on adoption

Families become families in different ways.

Some families just happen when babies arrive on schedule. Other families, like the Bartlings and the Merrills who were featured earlier in the month, turn to adoption to make their families complete.

Both families initially suffered from infertility and later the Merrills wanted to add to their biological family. But, both the Bartlings and the Merrills were motivated by the desire to give a child a loving home.

According to information compiled by www.family.com, a site monitored by Disney online, families with adoptive children make up 2.2 percent of the nation's households.

The site states, eligibility requirements are becoming less rigid for prospective adoptive parents who want to adopt infants. Requirements for those interested in adopting older or special-needs children are even more liberal.

However, just because prospective parents meet eligibility requirements does not automatically qualify them to adopt.

Michigan law requires a home study be conducted first.

According to Amy Brodhagen, the adoption/pregnancy supervisor of Child and Family Services of Northwestern Michigan in Traverse City, after a family contacts the agency, reviews the agency's packet and completes adoption preparation classes the home study begins.

The home study consists of four to five visits. An agency representative then meets with the husband and wife. The couple compiles a scrapbook with photos and information regarding their home life. The album becomes part of a pool of possible adoptive parents. Bro-hagen said from there it takes from eight months to one year to become parents. At Brodhagen's agency the birth mother chooses from a pool of about 12.

Brodhagen said since 1988 adoption has changed. In the past couples expected to be handed a healthy newborn. But now, abortion and infertility rates have increased and more young, unmarried mothers are choosing to keep their babies, fewer infants are available for adoption.

The family information web site states, this is especially true for Caucasian-American babies which are in the highest demand. Waiting lists for Caucasian infants usually range from two to five years; the wait for newborns of other races is about six to nine months.

Older children are always more readily available for adoption.

Brodhagen said the change over time from closed to open adoption which is used by her agency, has made the process more beneficial to the child, the birth mother and the adoptive family.

Open adoption gives birth mother home options

By JULIE WITTHOEFT
Staff Writer

Amy Brodhagen, the adoption/pregnancy supervisor of Child and Family Services of Northwestern Michigan in Traverse City believes in the benefits of open adoption.

"The process is healthier for the birth mom, the child and the adoptive family. A child can never have too many people love them," she said.

Open adoption is becoming very popular; Brodhagen believes its popularity is due to its long and short term successes felt by all the parties involved.

Open adoption allows the birth mother to choose the adoptive family. She may do this by reviewing pictures and profiles of the family or may interview them face-to-face.

Brodhagen said in open adoption, some contact between the baby and birth mother continues as the child grows up. This may be as basic as exchanging photos or as in-depth as maintaining an ongoing relationship. It is critical to note however that open adoption is not co-parenting; the boundaries are firmly drawn and respected.

Open adoption acknowledges the birth mother's loss and provides her with continuing assurance that her child is well cared for. It also provides the child with answers about his or her identity.

Agencies who handle open adoptions are careful to assure the birth mother that her wishes about the adoptive family will be respected. According to Brodhagen, birth mothers are counseled as to the merits of the prospective parents, and the birth mother may write letters to the new families and arrange to receive pictures of their children as they grow up.

In a closed adoption, the adoptive and birth parents never meet and all records are sealed after the adoption is finalized. If the adoption is a closed one, parents should obtain as much information about the birth mother and father as possible during the process. Accessing this information later may be difficult or even impossible.

Relevant medical information includes a history of physical and psychiatric diseases, learning disabilities and blood types. Social information such as the existence of other siblings and birth parents' physical and personality traits can become important to the adopted child as he or she grows older.

Many couples using an outside agency

By JULIE WITTHOEFT
Staff Writer

Locating a child for adoption can be a confusing and time-consuming process. Many prospective parents use an adoption agency for its expertise and networks, however, other options are available.

Adoptions through a private agency usually cost between $8,000 to $20,000. The fees cover such things as legal procedures, health care for the birth mother and staff salaries. Before signing with an agency parents should ask for an agency's references, success record and fee payment schedule.

According to Amy Brodhagen, the adoption/pregnancy supervisor of Child and Family Services of Northwestern Michigan in Traverse City has been working with infant adoption for six years. The agency has a satellite office in Petoskey that specializes in foster adoption and special needs adoption.

Brodhagen's agency helps Michigan families from 14 counties in open adoption. Brodhagen said the average cost of adoption is $6,000.

Foreign/interracial adoption are possible choices for couples

ADOPTION

Couples wanting to pursue this avenue should hire an experienced adoption attorney so that state adoption laws are not violated.

The process of locating a birth mother often begins with an adoption resume describing the prospective parents home, jobs, interests and reasons for wanting to adopt a child. The resume is sent anywhere contacts might be made.

Independent adoption costs vary widely and are comparable to those of private agencies. Adoptive parents generally pay for the birth mother's medical and legal expenses.

Another choice is interracial adoption. Adopting a child of another race can be a very viable option for many families.

Brodhagen said even though more non-Caucasian children are available, interracial adoption is not for every family. A couple must examine some personal and possibly prickly issues before adopting across race lines.

Parents must examine their own attitudes about racial diversity. Parents who adopt interracially must ensure that a child considers his birth heritage a valuable asset.

Foreign adoption is an increasingly popular choice — more than 11,000 foreign children were adopted by U.S.

families in 1996, with the majority coming from China, Russia and Korea. Adoption procedures vary from country to country and the foreign adoption process is usually complex.

Prospective parents need to realize that standards of care in many nations are below our own. Before adopting prospective parents should insist that the international agency provide specific details about the child's physical and emotional condition.

Sewer ordinances are needed in townships

By JULIE WITTHOEFT
Staff Writer

Sewer ordinances in Marion and Charlevoix townships are needed before residents or the new high school on Marion Center Road can use the line, but that may change.

Charlevoix City Manager Mike Wiesner recently suggested that city council hold off on awarding contracts for extending the city sewer line up Marion Center Road to the site of the new Charlevoix High School.

Council voted to wait, but Wiesner said it would have been ideal to be able to award the contracts last week.

Wiesner said he made the recommendation to council as issues have come up. He said the city is looking at applying to Marion Township for site plan review.

Both Charlevoix and Marion townships must enter into a franchise agreement with the city. Both this agreement and a sewer use ordinance must be in place before the line can be used.

The city approved the contract Nov. 5 and the Charlevoix School Board approved the contract Nov. 12. The two remaining signatures have to come from Charlevoix and Marion townships.

Wiesner said the sewer ordinance the contract currently requires of the townships allows the city to control what is put in the sewer.

However, he said Marion Township attorney Scott Beatty of Charlevoix is concerned with the "voluminous" sewer ordinance and asked the city if it has to be this complex.

Wiesner said he told Beatty, "We think so but are willing to look at other alternatives."

The city is currently considering alternatives to the ordinance.

Marion Township Supervisor Wilson "Bud" Boss said there are no immediate hold-ups to signing the contract that relate to negative feelings from the township and Beatty is reviewing the document and helping hash out what the township will do.

At the Nov. 20 Marion Township Board meeting, township residents Joseph Seidel and Robert Mossman, who are both involved in a lawsuit against the school district, asked the board for public hearings and presentations regarding the extension.

Mossman said, "This is a massive project. That sewer will result in massive changes that are irrevocable."

He asked for strict scrutiny from the township in reviewing the sewer contract.

Boss said the township is not required to have a public hearing for the contract between the city and the township. But any additional ordinance or ordinance changes do require public hearings.

Sounds of the holiday

Students from both Charlevoix High School and Northwest Academy and their instructors entertained the crowd Nov. 23 at the annual tree lighting. The two school bands combined for the night to play holiday music near the tree. (Photo by Julie Witthoeft)

Veterans Day

These Charlevoix veterans assembled in Charlevoix's newly renovated Veteran's Park at 11 a.m. on Nov. 12 to pay homage to the living and deceased who served the United States during wartime. They are (front, from left) Kenneth Staley, Chester Otmanowski, Gene Riedel, Charlie Butcher, Bud Come, Howard Horton, (back) Joe Seidel, Mitch Moran and Tom Pence. (Photo by Julie Witthoeft)

All Hoskins plants close

HOSKINS

Beatty is helping the township sort out what it's owed and how it is going to get the money.

Getting the money may not be so easy. Musser said the company's many sites closed because of financial difficulty.

"There are a number of payment issues with various creditors being addressed right now. And there are a number of unpaid bills we are addressing right now," Musser explained.

At a meeting of the Marion Township Board that took place Nov. 20, board treasurer Sonja Martin suggested putting a lien on the Hoskins property which is currently for sale.

Township supervisor Wilson "Bud" Boss said the township recently brought the tax abatement issue to the state tax commission in an attempt to get it revoked. Boss said this is within the township's rights as the plant is no longer operating and no longer employs Marion Township residents.

Hoskins may owe the township money, but the company also owes wages to the employees of the Charlevoix plant that were hurt on the job at Hoskins.

Musser said some of Hoskin's workers hurt on the job are not getting their workman's compensation pay. He added the issue being worked on along with other bills the company owes.

However, Musser offered no immediate solution for the families who were counting on getting their money on time.

"We have laid off all employees company-wide. We are doing whatever we can. Because of financial difficulties with the business, we had to shut down. It is uncertain what to do with the employees," Musser said.

SPORTS

Charlevoix grad tearing down area's hillsides

By JEREMY MCBAIN
Editor

In his drive to prepare for the skiing season, Charlevoix native Steve Pirie found a new sport to excel in.

Pirie, 19 and a 2000 Charlevoix High School graduate, has started competing in several mountain bike races throughout the area. He started mountain biking as a way to get some physical training for the ski season. Currently, Pirie is a student at Northern Michigan University.

"I like the challenge. I like the amount of work and effort you have to put into it in order to get be successful," he said.

But now, it is the mountain biking that is winning him awards. On Nov. 3, Pirie scored first in the Iceman Cometh Challenge near Traverse City in the beginner class for his weight. Additionally, Pirie placed first in the beginner class for his weight in the Michigan Cup State Finals in September at Boyne Mountain.

Pirie said he was very excited about his win in the Iceman Cometh Challenge. The Iceman is longer than most beginner races at 25 miles. Usually, the races are 10 miles.

"I hope I can do better next year and move up through the ranks," he said. Classifications in mountain bike racing are beginner, sport, expert and elite.

Pirie said the competition at the Iceman was fierce. "I didn't think it was going to be as hard as it was," he said.

For the first 20 miles of the race, Pirie said he was battling it out for first place with about four other racers. But, for the last five miles, he said he started "hammering" and he pulled away for the win.

Pirie ended up finishing three minutes ahead of the other racers.

Charlevoix High School graduate Steve Pirie has gone from skiing down the hillsides to speeding down them on a bike now that he is in college. The 19-year-old has been taking first place in several mountain biking events in the area this fall and is hoping to move up the ranks in this sport. (Courtesy photo)

College soccer

Steve Carland, a 1997 Charlevoix graduate, has been co-captain of the Saginaw Valley State University's soccer team this year. The team had a season of 2-2. (Courtesy photo)

Applications being taken for annual Zonta award

Charlevoix Area Zonta Club is currently accepting applications for its annual Young Women in Public Affairs award, which awards $500 to an outstanding young woman living in Charlevoix County and currently enrolled in a secondary school.

Applications are available at the counselor's office at all Charlevoix County High Schools or may be obtained by calling Maura A. Snabes at (231) 547-9969.

The deadline for receiving applications is Feb. 1, 2002 to the Charlevoix Area Zonta Club, c/o Maura A. Snabes, P.O. Box 175, Charlevoix, MI 49720. The winner will be announced at the Zonta meeting in February.

The recipient of the local award will also have her application forwarded to the district, which awards an additional $500 to the district winner.

Heather Jones, from East Jordan High School, was named the winner of last year's Charlevoix Area Zonta Young Women in Public Affairs Award.

The Zonta Young Women in Public Affairs Award competition is designed to encourage women to pursue decision-making positions in their communities in order to impact the policies that affect the lives of women locally and throughout the world. Applicants are asked to reflect on their lives, their commitment to the communities in which they live and the role models that have inspired them to become involved in the community or in a specific prospective career.

Zonta is a worldwide service organization of executives in business and the professions working together to advance the status of women. The Charlevoix Area Zonta Young Women in Public Affairs Award is one of the many programs for young women sponsored by Charlevoix Area Zonta.

Did you hear about the lady who bought a $10 purse for $62.50?
(She didn't shop at home.)

That's right — by the time she spent most of a day, figured her mileage, bought lunch, then added $10 for the purse, the total came to $62.50.

If she had tried shopping at home, part of every dollar spent would have helped pay her local tax bill, and for improvements in her community.

She also would have found that hometown merchants have the same merchandise at comparable prices. But, the worst part of the story is that the $62.50 purse was the wrong color. And, after going all the way back to the big city, she found it couldn't be exchanged because it had been on sale.

Shop at home — it makes sense.

Ice rink to be built in East Park this winter

RINK

Porter then crafted a second motion for the authority to donate $20,000 to the project, with merchants providing the warming hut.

Martin estimated the cost of the hut at $5,000. The warming hut currently in use at the high school rink is 12 feet by 16 feet.

Dipert said he doesn't see a problem coming up with the resources to provide the hut.

Martin said city staff members worked between 300 and 400 hours at the rink located at the Charlevoix High School.

"I don't think we want to draw kids down by the lake without staffing," Martin said.

Mason said maybe the cost could be reduced by using members of the Coast Guard to supervise the rink. She also suggested harbor master Hal Evans for the job.

Further discussion decided that a snow fence would barrier the lake side as a safety feature. To make the fence more aesthetically pleasing and to block wind the merchants suggested using old Christmas trees in front of the fence and lighting the trees.

Barron also suggested putting in temporary lighting and having music to set the ambience.

Alternatives to using East Park as the location for the downtown rink was the use of Bridge Park, located north of East Park.

Barron said Bridge Park's characteristics that make it well-suited for a rink include a walkway around the park, good visibility, a barrier fence and lighting.

However, Martin said a study would need to be conducted to see if the membrane below the grass layer which protects the roofs of buildings below would be strong enough to withstand the weight of the water. He also said the slope at Bridge Park was too great.

He said if a rink was going to be downtown, it would have to be in East Park, down by where the shuffleboard courts used to be located. Dipert paced off the section that will be used and approximated its size to be 40 feet wide and 60 feet long.

Shoppers could hit their price with bullseye

By JULIE WITTHOEFT
Staff Writer

If you see a red and green bullseye in area windows this holiday season don't load up your hunting rifle or run for your darts, this target is shopping related.

Stores that display the red and green "bullseye sign" on the windows are merchants who are participating in a promotion that could win shoppers one of 10 "gift buck" prizes.

So, starting Dec. 1, when you see the ringed bullseye sign, step inside and fill out a registration form which will enter you to win a $300 prize, a $200 prize, one of two $200 prizes or one of six $50 prizes.

"We have a lot of stores downtown that are not specifically resort directed. We would like for local people to realize those stores are here for them on a year-round basis, not just during the summer," Kirby Dipert, local merchant and Chairman of the Retail Promotions Committee said.

The promotions committee, a branch of the Charlevoix Chamber of Commerce, is sponsoring the bullseye giveaway.

This bullseye promotion has been a regular happening in Charlevoix off-and-on over the past 10 years. Dipert said the impetus for the promotion is to encourage people to shop Charlevoix.

"The underlying purpose is to generate money downtown. To get people to shop locally and to think Charlevoix first before spending money elsewhere. Money spent locally gets re-spent locally," Dipert explained.

The extra holiday cash can be used at any of the 25 stores in Charlevoix who are participating in this promotion. Dipert said these participants include stores that specialize in everything from home furnishings, clothing and gifts to drug stores, restaurants and grocers.

In order for stores to participate they pay a fee to the Retail Promotions Committee which funds promotion advertising and gift buck giveaways.

The promotion begins Dec. 1 and shopping winners will be drawn Dec. 3 at the Charlevoix Chamber of Commerce Office located at 408 Bridge Street.

This year, the promotion coincides with the Charlevoix Holiday Open House. Not only will shoppers have a chance to win gift bucks through the Bullseye Promotion, they will also have the opportunity to take advantage of

"The underlying purpose is to generate money downtown. To get people to shop locally and to think Charlevoix first before spending money elsewhere."

Kirby Dipert,
Charlevoix downtown business owner

Charlevoix's characteristic hospitality.

Most merchants will be offering refreshments from noon to 5 p.m. Dec. 1. But before stepping into stores to browse, buy and win, step onto Bridge Street for a glimpse of Santa Claus cruising through town on a city fire engine.

Parents are asked to bring cameras to capture the festive moment on film.

Other afternoon attractions will include live music and entertainers, who will perform throughout the day.

If at 2 p.m. all of the excitement of the afternoon hasn't tired out the kids then head over to Charlevoix's Cinema III. Charlevoix State Bank is sponsoring a free feature for area youngsters.

On Dec. 1, Charlevoix wants you to celebrate the holidays and go shopping northern Michigan style. Let area merchants pamper you with gift bucks, complimentary movies and refreshments.

For more information about the bullseye promotion or the Charlevoix Holiday Open House call the chamber at 547-2101.

A lot happening in area for the holidays

By JULIE WITTHOEFT
Staff Writer

The Christmas spirit is springing up all over Charlevoix. To take advantage of the holiday energy in full swing at local churches, schools and organizations this season you can attend a handful of the Charlevoix events listed below.

• The Charlevoix Middle School annual "Spirit of Christmas" food drive to benefit the local food pantry will begin Nov. 26. Students and staff at the school will be collecting nonperishable items to benefit this cause.

• From Nov. 23 through Dec. 1 Charlevoix Area Hospital has numerous trees on display at the Charlevoix Country Club for their Holly Daze celebration.

• Downtown Charlevoix businesses will sponsor their annual Christmas Open House beginning at noon Dec. 1. Moms and dads are asked to remember their cameras as Santa Claus will be making an appearance at noon; he'll be riding into town on the city fire truck. There will be musical entertainment provided throughout the day. Then, at 2 p.m. Charlevoix State Bank will sponsor a free movie at Charlevoix Cinema III located at 107 Antrim Street in Charlevoix. For more information contact the Chamber of Commerce at 547-2101.

• Christmas crafts made by local seniors will be sold from 9 a.m. to 1 p.m. Nov. 26 through Christmas at the center, located at 06906 Norwood Road in Charlevoix. The center is also offering frozen meals that will be delivered to those with special circumstances on Dec. 24. The director has asked that all such requests be made by Dec. 1. For more information about meals or crafts call 547-5361.

• The St. Mary Annual Craft Show will take place from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. Dec. 1 at the school, 1005 Bridge Street in Charlevoix. This year, Charlevoix Children's House will have a booth set up with multiple gift baskets including a Michigan State University basket and a Rayder basket.

• A Cookie Walk and Bazaar sponsored by the Women's Fellowship will take place from 9 a.m. to 1 p.m. Dec. 1 at the Congregational Church at the corner of State and Park streets. Dozens and dozens of beautiful holiday cookies baked by Women's Fellowship Members. Fill containers for $10, $12 or $15.

• "The Mighty Messenger," a children's musical, will take place at 6 p.m., Dec. 2 at the Community Reformed Church in Charlevoix located at 100 Oak Street. For more information call 547-9482.

• Dec. 3 through 8 is designated "Toys for Tots Week" in Charlevoix. Toy drop-off locations include: ACE Hardware, Don's 1GA, Glen's Market, Kmart, Oleson's Food Store, Pat McKeown Ford, Quality Farm and Country, Island Airways/Charlevoix Airport and Rite Aid.

• The Charlevoix Middle School seventh and eighth grade band concert will take place the evening of Dec. 6 in the school gymnasium located at 204 Grant Street in the city of Charlevoix. For more information contact the school 547-3206.

• Charlevoix's Community Reformed Church located at 100 Oak Street, is hosting an old fashioned caroling party, a night of singing carols, drinking hot cocoa and eating cake. For date and time information contact the church at 547-9482.

• Charlevoix's First Congregational Church is hosting a festival of lessons and carols for the community at 4 p.m., Dec. 9 at the church, 101 State Street in Charlevoix. For more information call the church, 547-9122.

• Charlevoix Middle School sixth grade band concert will take place the evening of Dec. 11 in the school gymnasium located at 204 Grant Street in the city of Charlevoix. For more information contact the school 547-3206.

• The Charlevoix Chamber of Commerce will judge window decorations of registered downtown businesses from 5 p.m. to 7 p.m. Dec. 13.

• Kids Corner Preschool will bring handmade gifts to the residents of Boulder Park at 1:30 p.m. Dec. 13. After passing out gifts they will congregate in the common room for a song and dance session.

• Concord Academy Dance Group, in conjunction with music students of Fran Tollas, combine to present community entertainment beginning at 7:30 p.m., Dec. 14 at First Congregational Church, 101 State Street in Charlevoix.

• A community Christmas musical, "Sing We All Noel" will begin at 7 p.m., Dec. 15 at the Community Reformed Church at 100

Hit the slopes in and around Charlevoix

The earliest snowfalls in history hit northern Michigan this fall and skiers hope that's a sign of good things to come as they head to the slopes to try out new equipment, runs and improvements reported by more than two-thirds of the state's 41 public ski areas, reports AAA Michigan.

The National Weather Service predicts this winter will be similar to last year, with normal or above normal snowfall. That's good news for downhill and cross country enthusiasts, who enjoyed one of the best snow seasons in years in the 2000-2001 season. Many ski resorts also reported great seasons at the cash register and this year 28 are responding with many improvements.

At Boyne Mountain completion of the new multi-million-dollar Mountain Grand Lodge has been pushed back two years to 2005, but it expects to have several new slope-side log cabin condos available to rent this season. The terrain park has been doubled in size and the tubing park relocated to a gentler slope, served by a tow rope. Boyne also has increased snowmaking.

Sister resort Boyne Highlands, near Harbor Springs, is offering new trail-side condos for rent plus guided cross-country and snowshoe tours customized to experience levels, with lunch included. Nordic trails are now groomed for classic and skate skiing.

Nub's Nob, near Harbor Springs, added a double-black-diamond, glazed run that's the resort's steepest, along with one beginner trail. Additional snowmaking, another groomer and all new high-performance demo skis were added to rentals along with women-specific boots and step-in snowboards.

Charlevoix also offers affordable skiing with favorable conditions at the municipal facility, Mt. McSaubia located at the corner of Pleasant Street and McSaubia Road.

Mt. McSaubia was established in 1956 and was recently rated one of the top three small ski areas by Ski Magazine.

McSaubia is a great place to take beginner and intermediate skiers to ski its five runs. The facility offers lit, downhill skiing, snowboarding, lessons for groups or individuals, rentals and spectacular views of lakes Michigan and Charlevoix.

If you enjoy the "silent sport" of cross-country skiing in Michigan during the winter McSaubia also has an extensive trail system. The site offers nordic skiers use of 2K lit, groomed cross country trails, free of charge. McSaubia also has 80 acres of ungroomed trails available for the adventurer.

For more information about McSaubia call (231) 547-3267. The site is open from 5 p.m. to 9 p.m. Monday, Wednesday and Thursday, from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. Saturday and from 11 a.m. to 4 p.m. Sunday.

According to AAA Michigan, this winter at least 900,000 Michiganiens will be ready to hit the trails in state and national forests as well as a great network of privately operated pathways.

Cross-country skiers weave through trails for the workout — cross-country skiing is one of the best forms of cardiovascular exercise. And they ski to be part of the breathtaking surroundings northern Michigan offers its residents and visitors.

Each year Michigan hosts events catering to all skill levels of cross country skiers. One of this year's events is the Boyne Nordic, 10K and 15K classic style events Jan. 5 at Boyne Mountain. For more information about the Nordic call (231) 549-6088.

Several other similar ski-related events are planned across the state. For more information visit these Internet websites: www.skinordic.org and www.goskimichigan.com.

Angels in Charlevoix

Artist's sculpture remembers victims

BY JULIE WITTHOFT
Staff Writer

Responses to the Sept. 11 terrorist attacks included tears, fear and generosity — Charlevoix resident, author and artist Kim Left has captured those responses and the event itself in art.

The morning of Sept. 11, Left was working with a new medium, paper maché. As two paste laden balloons exploded in her hands and a third dropped to the floor where it too met its fate, the phone rang.

On the other end of the line was Left's favorite aunt who asked if she was watching TV. Kim said "no" and casually walked over to see what was going on as her aunt told her about the attacks that morning.

Left said she was stricken by what she saw.

After an afternoon of absorbing the images, the news-casts and the devastation she was inclined to get back to work, but not with the same sculpture.

That day, she decided to work with angels.

Council member hit by vehicle

Third ward Charlevoix City Councilman Sherm Chamberlain, 51, has been hospitalized after he was struck by a pick-up truck on Nov. 30, in the city of Charlevoix.

At 3:15 p.m., Nov. 30, Charlevoix Emergency Medical Technicians and the Charlevoix City Police were informed a pedestrian had been struck at the corner of Bridge and Upright streets.

The call said a man, Chamberlain, had been hit by a truck and was bleeding from the head.

John Ferguson, Chamberlain's partner at the surveying company Ferguson & Chamberlain Associates Inc., said, "We thought we lost him. But fortunately there was a nice gal who witnessed the accident and jumped out of her car and attended to Sherm (Chamberlain). It turned out she was a nurse from Charlevoix Area Hospital."

William Emelander, 49, of Lake City was traveling southbound on Bridge Street in a 1997 red Ford pick-up when he struck Chamberlain. City police chief Dennis Halverson said Chamberlain, who was a pedestrian, was crossing

City council gives OK to ice rink plan

By JULIE WITTHOFT
Staff Writer

Once northern Michigan winter weather gets back to "normal" Charlevoix residents and visitors will be able to lace up their ice skates and head downtown.

Action recently taken by Charlevoix's Downtown Development Authority and city council has opened the door for skating in East Park. In spite of liability concerns voiced by Charlevoix's city administration, city council reviewed and approved plans for an ice rink to be built in East Park on Dec. 3.

On Nov. 28, Charlevoix's Downtown Development Authority authorized $20,000 in operational funds to be allocated to an East Park ice rink project. Merchants and community members agreed to provide a warming hut for the site. The hut is estimated to cost $5,000.

According to city manager Mike Wiesner, city administrators met to discuss the rink proposal the same day the authority made their decision, at which time concerns about the rink's location came up.

These administrative concerns were addressed in a memo written Nov. 29 by Wiesner. The memo was distributed to the mayor, city council, members of the authority, Chamber of Commerce director Jacqueline Merta and Linda Mason, a member of the merchants association.

Wiesner stated, "Our main concern is the close proximity to Round Lake, which occasionally ices over in that area and that being inviting to children. In addition if there was an issue in Round Lake, the low water level and lack of immediate access to get out of the lake would be a problem."

Kohler's impact on area will last forever

By JULIE WITTHOEFT
Staff Writer

We are only on Earth for a short time and what we do with that time defines us — Charlevoix resident Bud Kohler respected his time and made the most of it.

Kohler's friends and family said he was one of those guys who set the tone — an officer, a gentleman, a pillar of the Charlevoix community and a man to emulate.

Kohler's eldest son, Tom, described his father: "Dad understood the nature of grace. My father revered his father and I revered them both. I think we all did. He exemplified a model of how to be in the world."

So, on Nov. 24, when Bud, 77, sat back in an arm chair in his warm, comfortable Charlevoix home, closed his eyes and physically left the world he wasn't lost. In fact, you'll discover him in many places.

No, you won't find Bud walking Charlevoix's Dixon Avenue or bopping in and out of local service organizations like he used to. But you will find his legacy and the model he left behind alive and well in the hearts and lives of those he knew.

Tom said his dad lived with a deep sense of responsibility that he wore lightly. He said Bud believed he was obligated to go take care of things and that's just what he did.

In the Korean War he took care of his fellow Marines, at home he took care of his wife and four children and in the community he took care of business.

William Schuiling, of Charlevoix, one of Bud's close friends, said he was a rare breed. "He (Bud) was an American hero. There's very few men like him in this country. He was a hero in Korea, in this city and in this country," Schuiling said.

Bud believed and pursued his belief that everyone had a responsibility to try and make the world better.

Bud was a member of "Baker Bandits," the United States Marine Corps Korean War Veterans-Baker Company, First Battalion, Fifth Marines, First Marine Division.

Schuiling explained some of Bud's war stories. He said Bud was on the east side of Korea's Chosin Reservoir, 65 miles from the ocean battling the Chinese Army in negative 60 degree weather. It took him 12 days to get his men out, but he did, he persevered and he succeeded.

Bud was everybody's hero at home too. He never forgot anything. During an interview with his daughter, Janet, the secret of Bud's photographic memory was revealed. She ran upstairs and retrieved a white piece of note paper covered in pencil scribbling.

Janet was clutching the paper like it was a Picasso, delicate and priceless. The note was a log of the last conversation she had with Bud, just days before his death. Faithful and organized, Bud would scratch down notes of conversations including details like what the grandchildren were up to and what they wanted for Christmas.

"He paid attention," Janet said. "I have three girls, that day dad signed off the phone call. 'Well, love to you and all the other pretty girls,'" she said as tears rolled down her cheeks.

Places to look for Bud's mark in Charlevoix include environmental meetings. He was an avid outdoorsman who wanted to see Charlevoix's natural beauty proected. Bud was a member of the Lake Charlevoix Association, Water Air Team Charlevoix (WATCH), Keep Charlevoix Beautiful and Tip of the Mitt.

He was also a member of the local Lions Club, the Charlevoix Rod and Gun Club and St. Mary's Catholic Church.

You can also find him in the woods where he spent time with his children fly fishing and bird hunting. Tom fondly remembers time he, Bud and Tom's eldest child spent at the Vermont Orvis Fly Fishing School. They were near the same place Bud's parents had been buried.

His spirit is also alive and well in the woods off See Road where the Kohler cabin proudly sits, just off the shore of Oyster Bay. During the summer the family would come up from Saginaw where Bud worked for 30 years with Michigan Bell.

He and his father, Carl Kohler built the unassuming log home just after World War II. The cabin layout was based on the wood that was available. They purchased the wood from the Loeb Farm and the land was part of the Charlevoix Boy's Camp.

His blood line stretches back over a century in Charlevoix's history. He was a newborn when he made his way to his home, Charlevoix. His mother, Benona Bartlett Kohler was born in Charlevoix in 1900 and his grandfather, the late Dr. Louis Bartlett and grandmother settled here in the late 1800s. Bud was named after Louis but his mother called him Buddy from birth and later shortened it to the more distinguished Bud.

Bud took Frances to be his wife on June 24, 1950, the day before the Korean War broke out. She said she has no long range plans and will currently be at their home in Charlevoix.

Bud's friend and fellow Alano Club member Dave Juilleret said, "Today a lot of people talk about God, family and country. That's what Bud was and did."

Maybe it is too late for ice rink

Images of happy families gliding across the frozen waters of an ice rink in the downtown area is a beautiful thought.

It conjures up a picture of a lovely winter scene straight out of a Norman Rockwell painting: beautiful white snow, bundled up children giggling as they learn to skate and decorative lights illuminating East Park.

Actually, the idea of an ice rink in East Park is a great one. It is something that is perfect for Charlevoix's downtown area in image and in bringing in people during the slow winter months.

It is definitely one that needs further attention, but it may be a little too late for this winter.

Here it is already December and we are just now talking about building a temporary ice rink in the downtown park this winter. The Charlevoix Downtown Development Authority (DDA) already has decided to contribute $20,000 to the project this year, but there are questions about the staffing, there may be a liability problem and winter is fast approaching.

Sure, it is a great idea and a great project for the DDA, but are we moving a little too fast on this? And should the DDA really spend $20,000 on a temporary ice rink this year? That is a lot of money that can be used in many different ways.

So, is a temporary ice rink the best use for those funds, especially considering it is already December and there are some details that still need to be worked out?

Perhaps it would be better to wait until next winter and spend a year planning for a more permanent ice rink. That way we would have all of those nagging details figured out and can just concentrate on having fun at the rink.

But, even so, the plan seems to be a go.

So, until it is built, dreams of ice skating in scenic downtown Charlevoix will fill our thoughts.

Evergreen trees have the perfect design for winter

Roger Knutson
'Ear to the ground'

As we ease into December the color green becomes more and more important and less and less common.

At this time of year it is easy to understand why the ancient Druids in Europe revered the mistletoe plant, because it grew on trees that lost their leaves, but somehow remained green all through the winter. It is not surprising that we use evergreen trees as a Christmas symbol.

Even though a bare maple branch or small tree is just as much alive as the spruce or pine we carry into our homes for the holidays, the maple just doesn't look alive. We quite properly associate green with life and the gray of winter with dormancy, death and decay.

Why some plants manage to remain green through our winter while others lose almost every easily visible characteristic of life is a question that botanists and ecologists have pondered ever since there were botanists and ecologists.

If we look at the really big picture of the plant world we see evergreen plants dominating the tropical and near arctic regions, with the deciduous (leaf losing) trees in the middle latitudes. Here in Michigan we are just on the northern border of the primarily deciduous forest, and so have a mix of evergreen and deciduous trees. It is a basic rule of evolutionary biology that if some characteristic persists then it must be that it provides some relative advantage to the plant or animal that has it.

It is easy to understand why trees might be evergreen in the tropics where it never freezes and where most forested places have abundant rainfall. Competition for space and light are so severe that trees need the largest and most persistent leaves they can manage. Trees in the tropics can keep the same sort of leaves year round without much problem.

The explanations for evergreen trees in the far north are not so simple. In our part of the world, most all of the evergreen trees have needle-like or scale-like leaves and those leaves, it turns out, are better adapted to maintaining themselves at cold temperatures than are the board, flat leaves of maple or oak.

It's a little like the comfort difference between standing in a cold wind with your arms spread wide facing the wind, or rolling up into the smallest ball possible and staying out of the wind. Try it next time there is a below zero day with a good breeze.

It is too expensive to maintain broad flat leaves in a climate that, like ours, is seasonally cold. As the cold gets more intense and lasts longer, the advantage to needle like leaves that are green year-round increases and the most northern forests are all evergreens.

The needles of pines or spruces can warm up enough in a winter sun to manage a little food production for the tree even in January or February.

The thought of evergreens in winter served to prop up the spirits of the Druids and can manage the same thing for us in our more knowledgeable age. Enjoy that Christmas tree and give a thought to how lucky we are to be living in a place where there are lessons about life all around us all year.

Opposition has been acknowledged

Editor:
Recently I was awarded the title of "pompous nincompoop." I am honored by that designation (page 5, Nov. 14). By having the letter published in the Charlevoix Courier and the Petoskey News-Review, you have acknowledged in print that there is an opposing point of view to the construction of the new high school in Charlevoix.

Any serious student of history or political science knows that legitimization is a goal of any opposition movement. I, and my fellow nincompoop, appreciate the work that you have done for us. Your actions greatly enhance our credibility in bringing to light the secretive, autocratic mindset that seems determined to bring great urban expansion to what was and is a small country road. Since you seem to think that we are alone in our efforts may I remind you and the public of the results of the last Charlevoix Public School election? The ballot request was turned down and the school board incumbents were returned to office by only half of the total number of voters. There was also a write-in candidate for one of the school board positions.

Let me also mention support we have received from the front page of the public school paper, "The Insider." According to (Charlevoix High School principal) Gary Grundman, "To me, it's frightening. It would be hard to get to your destination and back in school in the amount of time allotted for lunch (page 1, Fall 2001)." The people of Marion Township voiced

Charlevoix receives good audit

By JULIE WITTHOEFT
Staff Writer

The city of Charlevoix recently received a glowing audit report for 2001.

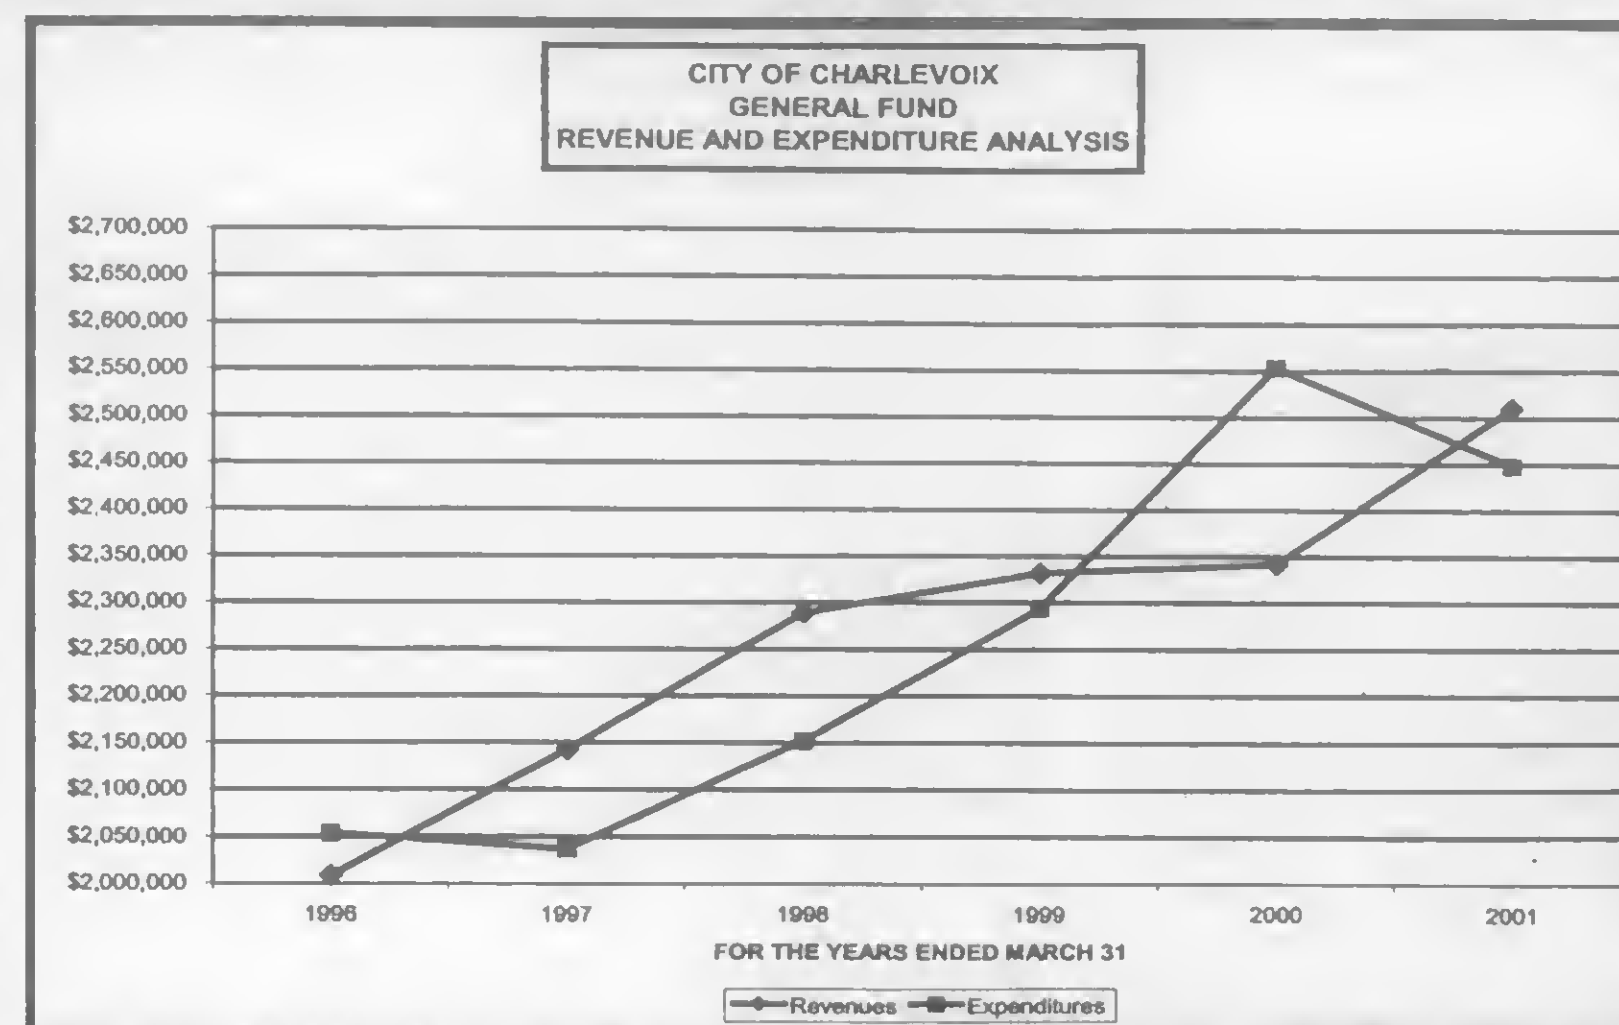

Brian Postma, senior manager and certified public accountant for Rehmann Robson of Traverse City, told city council the audit was clean and unqualified.

City treasurer Rick Brandi said the firm, "doesn't have reservations as to the accuracy of the information and there were no areas of the budget they were concerned with."

Brandi said the report means two things for the city: One — the city is in good financial standing and two — the city's accounting practices and financial record keeping is in order.

In a letter of intention Postma sent to the city in June he states, "As part of obtaining reasonable assurance about whether the financial statements are free of material misstatement, we performed tests of city of Charlevoix's compliance with certain provisions of laws, regulations, contracts and grants."

This year the city took in a considerable amount of federal funds in grants for various projects making them subject to a single audit. The

This graph shows the expense and revenue history of the city. The city was recently commended for its work. (Courtesy of the city of Charlevoix) audit is in place to make sure the city is complying with federal guidelines.

Postma found the city has complied.

Postma highlighted other areas of interest including the finding that the city spent less money in 2001 than in 2000 and the city's general fund has at least two-and-a-half months of operating cash available to pay bills if a catastrophic occurrence were to happen.

The city currently has $492,184 of undesignated funding in their general fund for 2001 and $8,400 designated. The almost $500,000 is there should the city need to dip into it.

the concern long ago that Marion Center Road could not possibly support the traffic flow a new school would generate. I may be a nincompoop, but if a school official can voice the fear of potential traffic accidents and be acknowledged, again in print, then that is also a significant step in the list of complaints which this building generates.

Mr. Grundman very publicly acknowledged the risks that this building is going to cause. The school must cease being more secretive than the Afghan invasion force and accept responsibility for the traffic and resulting accidents which are sure to follow. There was another very nasty accident on Marion Center Wednesday morning, less than a half mile from the construction site. What provisions, if any, are being made to protect the campus, the students and the surrounding homes and farms?

May I bring to mind the results of the drug trial from the last school year? If students could seemingly come and go at will during the school day in town, what is to stop them from doing so in the country?

Once again, thank you for the compliment.

Wedding

Musilek — Witthoeft

Julie Christina Musilek and Charles Frank Witthoeft, both of Charlevoix, were married in front of 200 guests Aug. 25 in an outdoor ceremony at the Charlevoix Country Club.

Musilek is the daughter of Loren and Paula Musilek of Charlevoix and Witthoeft is the son of Ivan and Lucy Witthoeft, also of Charlevoix.

The 33rd Circuit Court Judge for the County of Charlevoix, Richard Pajtas, performed the double ring rites.

The bride wore a white, spaghetti strap, A-line, satin gown with a hand beaded bodice and a cathedral length train. She carried a bouquet of white calla lilies bound in white satin. She was given in marriage by her father.

The maid of honor was Jean

Musilek, the bride's sister and friend, of Charlevoix. Bridesmaids were close friends of the bride including: Natalie Orenstein of Chicago, Ill., Sarah Martin of Santa Cruz, Calif., Sandra Grene of Austin, Texas and Wendy Stapleton of Santa Monica, Calif. They wore blush Vera Wang dresses and each carried mixed bouquets including white hydrangea, pink roses and bells of Ireland.

Julian Witthoeft, Mikaela Witthoeft and Stirling Witthoeft, nieces of the groom, were the flower girls and Camden Musilek, the bride's nephew, was the ring bearer.

The best men were Brandon Kanoff of Charlevoix, Dan Bickert of Beverly Hills, Andrew Al-bosta of Charlevoix, Shawn Bucklin of Austin, Texas and Wes Cumberland of Vail, Colo.

Marvin Witthoeft and A.J. Witthoeft, brothers of the groom, were ushers.

A reception was given at Mahogany's of the Charlevoix Country Club.

The couple spent 10 days on the island of Aruba for their honeymoon. They purchased a home in Charlevoix's Hayes Township where they currently reside.

The bride is a graduate of the University of Michigan and is the staff writer for the Charlevoix Courier. The groom attended Northern Michigan University and is employed by Charlevoix Electrical Service, the Witthoeft family business and is the harmonica player for the local blues band, Mojo and the Boogiemans.

Charlevoix Area Hospital awarded challenge grant

Charlevoix Area Hospital president, William C. Jackson, has announced the receipt by the hospital of a 2-1 challenge grant of $125,000 from the Frey Foundation. To earn the grant the hospital must raise $2 for every $1 from the Frey Foundation.

"We are most grateful to the Frey Foundation. They have already been very generous with an earlier gift of $200,000. This challenge grant will help us reach our goal," says Jackson.

"For those who haven't yet supported our expansion, we hope this gift will help encourage them. Every time we receive $2, we earn $1 from the challenge grant."

While gifts of any size are welcome, those giving $10,000 or more will have their names listed in permanent display. To assist with the Frey challenge grant, prospective donors may contact the Development Office of Charlevoix Area Hospital by calling 547-8502.

Public Meeting
Downtown Park
Round Lake Waterfront

Charlevoix's Downtown Park, your thoughts and ideas are important!

The City of Charlevoix will hold a Public Meeting on December 6, 2001, at 7:00 p.m. to gather input regarding the future of the City's Downtown Park, encompassing that area along Round Lake between Antrim and Clinton streets. This meeting, which is being sponsored by the Charlevoix City Council and the Charlevoix Downtown Development Authority, will be gathering information as a basis for the preparation of goals for a long-range plan for the park area. The park area plan will ultimately be prepared by the City's consultant, Peter Pollack of Ann Arbor, after design goals are established by the DDA and City Council following the public meeting.

This meeting will not address the expansion of docks within the City's marina. A similar public meeting to address expansion of docks will be held in the Summer of 2002.

The meeting will be held at the Charlevoix High School Study Hall, 108 E. Garfield Ave., at 7:00 PM. Persons not available to attend this meeting may direct written communications to Michael Wiesner, City Manager, P.O. Box 550, Charlevoix, MI 49720, fax (231)547-3617, e-mail to chxmgr@unnet.com, or may call (231)547-3270.

Garden Club names poster contest winners

Members of the Charlevoix Area Garden Club were treated to many colorful and imaginative posters entered in this year's contests given on Nov. 13.

Colin Fitzgerald, a fifth grade student at Charlevoix Elementary School, is the overall winner of the "Smoky the Bear" and "Woody the Owl" contest. Emily Wisniewski, a fifth grade student at St. Mary School, is the overall winner of the Garden Party contest.

Charlevoix school students in grades 1-5 participated in the "Smoky the Bear" and "Woody the Owl" contest and first, second, third place and honorable mention winner were selected.

They include:

First grade — Crystal Batdorf in first, Ryder Hoss in second and Pauline Sheets in third.

Second grade — Ering Holdsworth in first, Diana Beckman in second and Christina Russell in third.

Third grade — Danielle Barron in first, Lynzie Gotshall in second, Lakeiska Lorenz in third and Jacob Baier, Eric Buday and Patrick Kenwabikise as honorable mention.

Fourth grade — Alexandra Lobenhertz in first, Jake Waterman in second and Amanda Fritsch in third.

Fifth grade — Colin Fitzgerald in first, Katie Withrow in second, Alysens Glowney in third and Montana Dominex as honorable mention.

The Garden Club also simultaneously sponsors the poster contest titled, "A Garden Party" and local students in grades 1-6 were eligible to compete. The contest was judged not only for its artistic merit, but for the reasons given by the artists for choosing the plants and animals displayed in their posters.

Winners in this contest were: First grade — Kathy Rajewski in first, Anton Volvsek in second, Grace Glenny in third and Paige Ager, Autumn Sobleski and Mariah Zawisza named honorable mention.

Second grade — Samantha Rajewski in first, Robby Hovie in second, Austin Lobenz in third and honorable mention to Kelby Kehan, Trenton Bradley and Molly Jeakle.

Third grade — Logan Carson in first, Katie Mays in second, Jenna Troppman in third and honorable mention to Abbey

Barnes, Linsea Jelinek and Cassidy Stebe.

Fourth grade — Krista Pischner in first, Jenna Kirby in second, Madeline Jeakle in third and honorable mention to Katie Jones, Taylor Storm and Kathryn Young.

Fifth grade — Emily Wisniewski in first, Brennan Stebe in second, Andy Tuck in third and honorable mention to Nickole Cyr, Rachael Nuttall and Tyler Parkin.

Sixth grade — Arielle Kowal in first, Brooke Whittaker in second, Garrett Troppman in third and honorable mention to Cameron Crain, Alina Dhaseleer and Corinne Simoti.

First place winners of each contest at each grade level will be sent on for further competition at the state and national levels. All of the winners will receive a certificate to be presented by the Garden Club in the spring at the annual tea given in their honor.

The top local winners of each contest will be able to receive a U.S. Savings Bond worth $50 at maturity.

Pajtas' ruling upheld in state appeals court

By JULIE WITTHOEFT
Staff Writer

Charlevoix County's Circuit Court and the Michigan Court of Appeals in Lansing have spoken.

Both courts ruled against granting a stay pending appeal in the third case against the Charlevoix School District.

The case-for which the motion was made questions whether or not the school district is misappropriating bond money. The district plans to pay for a sewer extension from the city of Charlevoix out to the site of the new high school. School officials claim the expense will be reimbursed by fees paid by those who hook into the line.

Robert G. Mossman, a Marion Township resident and one of the five plaintiffs in the case said, "What the motion for stay accomplished was to demonstrate to the taxpayers the utter failure of the school to choose an alternative that would best serve the school's waste needs and would most importantly save the taxpayers considerable tax indebtedness."

The most recent decision in the case was made last week when the appeals court in Lansing denied the plaintiffs' motion for stay pending appeal.

The school district's circuit court lawyer, Bill Ewald of Bay City's Braun, Kendrick and Finkbeiner said lawyers for the school district and for the plaintiffs were not on hand the day of the appellate court ruling.

Ewald said his office received information Nov. 20 stating the request was made. Ewald said requests for stays are generally granted, expedited review by the Court of Appeals, as they did in this case.

Ewald said the plaintiffs made the motion because they thought irreparable harm would be caused if the school was allowed to connect to the city sewer.

On Nov. 26, Ewald and Scott Strattard, head of the appellate department at Braun Kendrick and Finkbeiner — who is handling the appeal — presented the opposing argument. They claimed the appellate court should deny the stay because the plaintiffs wouldn't suffer irreparable harm if the project were allowed to move forward.

He added the brief also stressed precedent. "And more importantly we won all the other times and I believe we will this time," Ewald said.

Ewald said the appellate court reviewed the briefs Nov. 27 and contacted his office late Nov. 28 to inform Strattard of their decision to deny the motion for stay. Now, the school is free to continue with plans to extend the sewer line up Marion Center Road.

But Mossman maintains the extension is wrong.

"The school continues to demonstrate its recklessness in the handling of bond proposal money and state credit which in the case of the sewer is to be used to facilitate private development and commercial use of farmland in Marion Township. In no way have the taxpayers authorized such uses, and in no way will we (the plaintiffs) stop insisting that the courts look at such faulty and unconstitutional use of taxpayer money," he said.

The request for a stay was an appeal to the decision made Oct. 26 in the 33rd Circuit Court Charlevoix County where the judge Richard Pajtas also denied the motion.

The case filed in the court of appeals Sept. 27 is still pending. Ewald said the next things to look for in this case are briefing schedules, which will be sent to both Jim Olson, attorney for the plaintiffs of Olson and Bzdok in Traverse City and Strattard.

Then the plaintiffs will order transcripts from the local court and both sides will be given a set time limit as to when they are required to file briefs.

No court date has been set in the Lansing appeals court. Ewald said he expects the appeals court will hear the case in its entirety anywhere from a year to a year and a half from now or sooner. The decision is up to the court of appeals.

According to court documents, plaintiffs in this case include: Kenneth Richard Tunison, Kenneth Staley, Mossman, Paul Richards and Joseph Seidel.

According to court documents, defendants in the case are: superintendent of Charlevoix Public Schools Dr. John Sturock, the Charlevoix Board of Education, Charlevoix Public Schools and the Charlevoix Public School District.

Construction contracts call for the new high school to open for business in September of 2002.

Charlevoix chorale and orchestra to have concert

The Charlevoix Area Community Chorale and Orchestra will present its annual Festival of Carols at 4 p.m. on Sunday at the First Congregational Church at 101 State Street in Charlevoix.

Vivaldi's "Gloria" will open the program. The text of this short work is taken from the traditional Latin mass with the biblical announcement of glory and peace given to the shepherds by the angels.

A chamber orchestra accompanies the "Gloria" and features four soloists: Charlevoix sopranos Barbara Dowty and Fran Tollas and Petoskey soloists Mae Charbeneau, soprano, and Helen Kleymmer, Mezzo soprano. Ellen Addington, of Charlevoix, will conduct. Music of the holiday season will be performed by the chorale and orchestra, including a first performance of a choral composition, "A Tiny Child" by composer, Eric Culver, of Bellaire.

Plus, carols sung by all will be an important part of the afternoon of sounds of the season.

Members of the chorale and orchestra are not only from the Charlevoix area, but from many communities in northwest Michigan have participated in the chorale and orchestra since its inception in 1980.

The public is cordially invited to attend. There is no charge, but a free will offering will be accepted with enthusiasm.

A reception in the Fellowship Hall follows the program.

High school break-ins may be related to others

By JULIE WITTHOEFT
Staff Writer

Charlevoix High School was recently the site of repeated instances of larceny and vandalism that claimed money, a computer and stereo equipment.

According to Charlevoix City Police Chief Dennis Halverson the first of three recent break-ins at the school occurred in October when thieves broke a window, entered the building and stole a computer.

He said the second and third break-ins occurred at some point during the week of Thanksgiving, Nov. 19 to Nov. 25.

Local law enforcement officials investigating the larceny cases are currently unsure how the thieves accessed the building during the second larceny. Halverson said it is a possibility that one of the thieves had a key to the school.

In lieu of the mystery behind the second break-in some locks at the school have been changed.

When the third larceny at the school occurred, the thieves again broke a window which was inset in a door.

Investigators believe the three break-ins are connected and they may even be connected to other larcenies around Charlevoix.

Halverson said other damage occurred inside in areas of the school that suggest the thieves were most likely looking for money.

During the three break-ins an unknown quantity of money was stolen from the cafeteria office, a lap-top computer was taken and stereo speakers, microphones and a stereo receiver were also stolen.

One juvenile, who recently attended Charlevoix High School, has been apprehended by the city police department. And the computer stolen in the October break-in has been recovered.

"We are not sure about the others (perpetrators), we will continue to follow up on leads," Halverson said.

Halverson added that the city police department does patrol the site of the high school at night and the school is not equipped with an alarm security system.

One injured in Horton Bay accident on Nov. 27

The Charlevoix County Sheriff's Office responded to a traffic crash at 3:30 a.m. on Nov. 27 that had been located by a Charlevoix County Road Commission employee on the Boyne City/Charlevoix Road in the village of Horton Bay.

It appeared that a 1987 Chevrolet Suburban had been traveling west and left the roadway sideways, hit a tree on the driver's side, spun 180 degrees and came to rest leaning against several small trees. The driver fled the scene.

The Boyne City Ambulance, Charlevoix County Road Commission and a motorist assisted the Sheriff's Office in searching the area for any possible victims. The vehicle sustained extensive damage.

The owner of the vehicle, who is believed to be the driver, was located on Nov. 29 at his home. He complained of pain in his left side and had several lacerations on his face and arms.

Alcohol and speed are believed to be factors in the crash. The incident remains under investigation and the victim's name is being withheld.

The Sheriff's Office was assisted at the scene by the Charlevoix County Road Commission, the Boyne City Ambulance Service and Larry Gardner of East Jordan.

Head-on crash sends several to hospital

Several people were injured in a two vehicle accident at about 3:30 p.m., Nov. 30 on Behling Road in Wilson Township.

A 1990 Eagle 2 door driven by Damien Conlin, 17, was traveling eastbound on Behling Road when he attempted to pass a vehicle, striking a westbound 1987 Mercury driven by Carrie Cook, 56, head on.

Conlin, as well as his passengers, Dave Wilson, 17, and Joshua Jenkins, 17, were all injured and transported to Charlevoix Area Hospital and Northern Michigan Hospital.

Cook was transported to Charlevoix Area Hospital along with her passengers, Jordayn Cook, 4, and Colton Cook, 3. Cody Cook, 15, also a passenger, was not injured.

Several of the occupants remain hospitalized for multiple injuries.

The Charlevoix County Sheriff's Office is investigating the accident and was assisted at the scene by Boyne City Fire Department, Boyne City Ambulance personnel and East Jordan EMS.

County takes tower company to court

By JULIE WITTHOEFT
Staff Writer

Charlevoix County was recently granted injunctive relief in a circuit court case against American Tower Corporation, a cellular tower construction company with established towers across the county.

American Tower Corporation, based in Schaumburg, Ill., has pursued tower leases in Charlevoix's Hayes and Norwood townships and in Antrim County's Banks Township.

However, two of the townships that are involved say they are having some problems with the company. In Banks Township the company missed lease payments for two years — as was reported in the Oct. 31 edition of the Charlevoix Courier — and in Hayes Township it spurred a lawsuit and a court mandated injunction.

The Banks Township issue has been resolved.

The company is currently negotiating a lease agreement for a tower in Norwood Township.

In regard to the Hayes Township issue, county prosecuting attorney Mary Beth Kur said, "The issue is non-compliance with the soil erosion ordinance. We filed the lawsuit because letters and notices were unsuccessful."

In Hayes, American Tower Corporation leased land from Bennett Cunningham at 06248 Brown Road in order to construct a telecommunications tower.

However, what was built on Brown Road and what was permitted by Charlevoix County were two different things — the plans weren't followed and revised plans, which were requested by Charlevoix County Soil Erosion Officer Wendy Armstrong, were never submitted.

American Tower's environmental consultant, Garth M. Greenan president of E C & S in Traverse City, showed the site would have an open-graded gravel surface with a 12 inch wide unimproved easement to provide access.

However, during a Oct. 31, 2000 site inspection, Armstrong discovered there were two access roads to the site that weren't part of the engineered plans. These roads were also not taken into account for the on-site run-off calculations.

The next day she wrote a letter to American Tower noting the violation of the Charlevoix County Stormwater Ordinance.

Less than two weeks later Armstrong and American Tower representatives met at the site and agreed it was not built as the drawings depicted and American agreed to remove one of the access roads and to update the site plan.

In Charlevoix County Chief Assistant Prosecuting Attorney John A. Jaroma's request for injunctive relief he stated, "There has been nothing further to date regarding any involvement to either remove the road and/or submit the required, proper calculations."

On Nov. 7, 2001 the motion for preliminary injunction made by Jaroma was granted by county 33rd Circuit Court judge Richard Pajtas. Representatives for American Tower Corporation did not appear at the hearing.

In his request for the injunction, Jaroma stated, "The violation may be injurious to the public health, safety and or natural resources."

The cellular company has until Dec. 7 to comply with the Charlevoix County Stormwater Ordinance.

Pajtas stipulated compliance as "...submitted, stamped engineering plans which take into account the two access roads and show the proper drainage facilities" or "...removal of any portion of any access road(s) or other improved surfaces which do not comply with the original submitted plans."

Whichever of the two compliance options the company chooses to pursue will be evaluated by Armstrong.

According to Regional Council for American Tower, David Victor, who is handling the litigation in this case, the county and the company are well on their way towards a resolution.

"We are cooperating fully with the county. Engineers have to coordinate so there could still be glitches along the way if the two don't match up," Victor said.

Kur said the county has been contacted by Victor and were informed

County officials say construction for this tower in Hayes Township did not follow submitted guidelines. (Photo by Julie Witthoeft) of their intention to comply.

If they choose not to comply by Dec. 7, Armstrong can file a verified complaint/affidavit to stop any revenue generating operations at the site including removal of equipment or fixtures attached to the tower, or can mandate the removal of the tower itself and a restoration of the land to pre-development condition.

Victor said these two outcomes are not likely.

WTC victims honored in the work of local artist ANGELS

"I spent all morning watching Tom Brokaw and Katie Couric. I feel like reporters are the messengers and angels in our society," she said.

Left came into the office of the Charlevoix Courier just two days after the tragedy. She requested extra newspapers with headlines related to the attack. Staff members pointed to the pile of recyclables and said, "have at it."

She took the newspapers home and started clipping the tragic photos, headlines and stories.

"Members of the free press are angels, messengers, that's why I used the headlines," she explained.

She took those clippings and sculpted nine flying angels and 11 grounded angels from original newspapers. Those photos, stories and headlines compose the garments of the angel. The angels are also adorned with a ribbon on which a message is inscribed.

The 20 creations now make up her display, "Messengers of Hope." Left's tag-line for the angels is, "Choose to love in the face of hate, when confronted with destruction, choose to create."

And that's just what she did. "This is therapy for me, the thing I despise most is feeling helpless. I feel like through this I, in my own small way, can help. When someone responds positively to these angels I've had a wonderful conversation with them. Through the angels I said something and they heard it," she said.

One of the 20 angels was auctioned off at the Charlevoix Area Hospital's Holly Daze event Nov. 27 at the Charlevoix Country Club.

Ten percent of the proceeds from the sale of the angels will be donated to the disaster relief fund.

BASKETBALL

Basketball team ready for new season

By JEREMY MCBAIN
Editor

Charlevoix's basketball arsenal is looking even tougher this year.

According to coach Keith Haske, seven of last year's eight are back and they are playing better than ever. Added to this, Haske said he has two new players who transferred from Harbor Light Christian School in Harbor Springs.

"We are pretty excited about it (the new season)," Haske said. "I like their athletic ability; we have great depth. We have a lot of kids that can play and can play well."

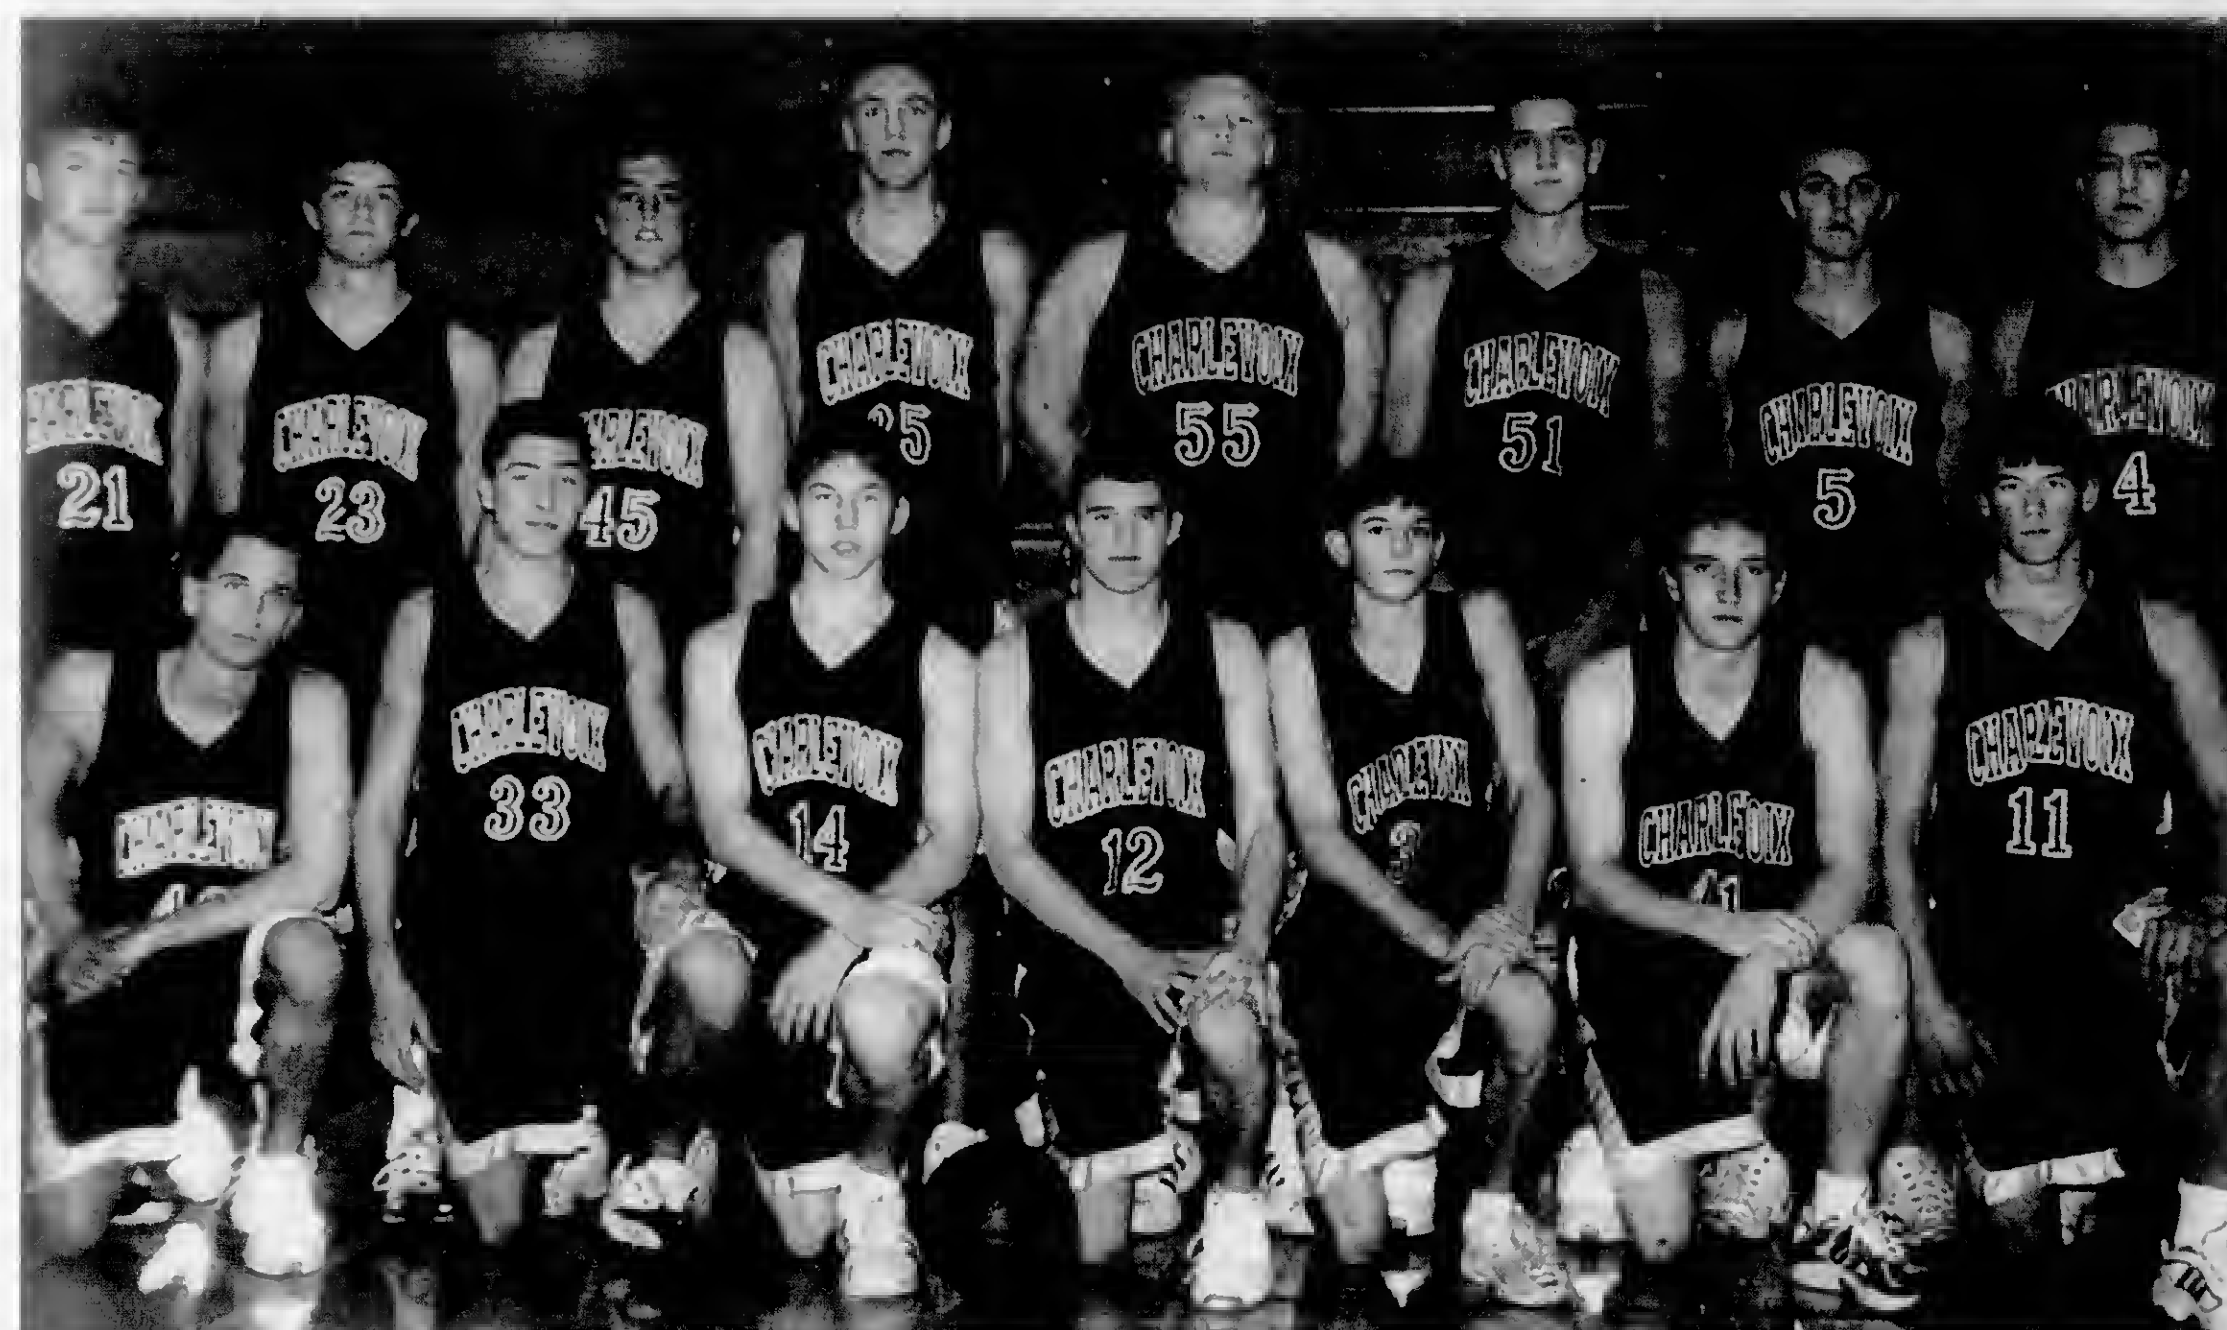

Of the returners Haske said he has a core group of four. They are: Jim Shepherd, Rob Boss, Scott Parrish and Patrick Gowell.

According to Haske, Shepherd — who is known for his three point shooting ability — has come back this year as a great all around basketball player.

"He has made a tremendous improvement from last year," he said.

Additional improvement can be seen in the playing skills of Boss and Parrish — who was first team all state last year. Haske said Parrish has some "tremendous" expectations on his shoulders this year.

Finally is Gowell, who Haske said is a "real solid player, who has great leadership by example."

Other players Haske said have shown some good skills have been Ryan Rafacz, with his athletic ability; Keith Daly, with his quickness and Dennis Avery, who Haske says will do anything he can to help the team.

New to the team from Harbor Springs are Scott Friske and Neil Friske. Haske said Scott is probably the best sophomore he has ever coached and Neil plays a real solid game.

Last year, the Charlevoix basketball team went to the finals and ended up second in Class C. But, this has put a lot of pressure on the team to repeat the feat this year and take first in Class C.

Haske said he has talked about this with the team as a group and individually with each player.

"This is a whole different pressure. Last year, we were a surprise, but this year I think people are going to come after us," he said. "I am real concerned about making sure the kids have fun and not having the pressure of winning on our shoulders."

But as far as the team's skill together, Haske said they are really playing well.

"They are working real good together. We have great kids," he said.

The biggest problem the team is facing, Haske said, is just the usual "start-of-the-year" kind of problems, like rebounding and defensive rotations.

"These are things I think we can work through," he added.

As far as teams that could give Charlevoix the most trouble, Haske said Harbor Springs has the most talent.

The Rayders first game this year will be Dec. 7 at home.

VOLLEYBALL

Volleyball team hopes to rebuild this season

By JEREMY MCBAIN
Editor

The Charlevoix High School varsity volleyball team may have a year of rebuilding ahead of it, but it is doing so with a new coach and a great group of players.

Liz Grunch, new coach of the team, said the team has a great foundation to work with and the right attitude to improve their game.

"They all hustle. I think they are going to be competitive," she said.

Above all, the group is quickly learning Grunch's style of play. That is: always moving fast, going after the ball and the use of specialized positions that the players work on constantly.

Through this style, Grunch hopes the team will steadily improve as the season progresses. Last year, the Rayders did not win any games.

In addition to a more aggressive style, Grunch is also banking on the leadership of two players: Natasha Kleiber and Krista Swenor. She said Kleiber is her best passer on the team and Swenor is an excellent spiker. These are both areas that the team need to improve on as a whole.

But, with the help of these two girls, Grunch is confident they will see success.

"They lead by example. They hustle all the time and have great attitudes," she said. "They stand out and urge others on. The others are starting to adapt."

Getting the younger players some improved skills will help the team not only this year, but in the future.

Grunch has seven returning seniors on the team, but also has three juniors and two sophomores.

And things are starting to look up for the Rayders and the team seems eager to improve its record.

"I have seen a lot of positive things that I think are going to help me," she said. "The younger girls I am working with really listen all the time. They are all trying to do exactly what I am saying."

To further improve the team, Grunch said she has scheduled several tournaments to compete in. The first tournament will be Dec. 8 in Roscommon.

This will improve the Rayders by exposing them to many different teams that use styles that are unique. It also gives the team practice on responding to different situations that come up.

"This gives us a chance to try out the things we are working on," Grunch said.

The team's regular season will begin on Dec. 17 against Harbor Springs.

SKIING

Skiers striving for the 'big win'

By JEREMY MCBAIN
Editor

While the Charlevoix ski team may not have large numbers, it is expected to be a major force on the ski hills this winter.

The team took second in the state finals last year and is expected to do as well if not better this year, said coach Sue Miller.

"We are going for the big win this time," Miller said.

Part of the reason for this thinking is seven of the team's nine players are returnees from the state final team. This gives Charlevoix some excellent experience on the mountain during high pressure meets.

According to Miller, skiers with competition experience are more comfortable on the slopes and can lead the rest of the team to victory. This would also be beneficial for the two new skiers, as they can learn from their counterparts.

"I think they (new skiers) would just gain another level of competition. Being a small group, I think they can also be very supportive of each other," she said.

Two of her experienced skiers who will help boost the team up are seniors Roscoe

Serrels and Lexi Wilson.

"I foresee them taking leadership roles and hopefully taking the team to state finals," Miller said.

This experience and support will come in very handy this winter, especially in Charlevoix's region with so many strong skiing schools. Adding to the pressure, Miller said, is many of the other teams have not lost any of their experienced skiers as well.

"It is hard to really know. We really don't know who is on or off until the season," she said.

And further making things difficult is the current lack of snow and warm temperatures affecting the area, thus not allowing the team practice time on the slopes.

"There are tensions now because it is (December) and it is 55 degrees out," Miller said in a Dec. 3 interview.

Once there is snow on the mountains, the Rayders will be training at either Boyne Mountain or Mount McSaubia in Charlevoix. In the meantime, the team is working on its agility and strength training by playing soccer, biking, swimming and running.

Miller said she hopes to be on the slopes as soon as possible.

"Our ski season is short enough. It is December in Michigan, we should have snow...lots of it," she said.

WRESTLING

Wrestlers working for individual success

By JEREMY MCBAIN
Editor

The Charlevoix varsity wrestling team may be out of the running already mathematically — due to its small size — but the grapplers have their eyes on individual greatness.

Coach Jamie Breithaupt said since the team had only seven players, they cannot win as a whole team, but there are individual goals wrestlers can accomplish.

The only obstacle to this is a lack of experience on the team. There is only one senior along with four juniors, one sophomore and one freshman.

The team only has two returning wrestlers: Bo Moore — who is the senior — and Chris Lahr.

"They are the captains. With a lot of hard work and leadership from them, I think they can help the young guys do well this year," Breithaupt said.

Added to their help, Breithaupt said the team's overall attitude is great.

"They work hard in practice, are very dedicated and want to win. They are all doing a lot of outside running. Their commitment is wonderful," he said.

And with each meet the team takes part in, they learn more.

For example, the team recently competed in two meets. Breithaupt said the team really "got beat up" during the first meet, but put up a real fight in the second meet.

"They learned a lesson: hard work will pay off. If they don't give 100 percent in practice, they are not going to do as well as they expect," he said.

After the first meet, the team became focused and worked hard for the second meet, Breithaupt said this showed.

"I tell them at every meet to learn from their mistakes, whether they win or lose, and to use that to better themselves," he said.

With this knowledge, Breithaupt said he hopes to rebuild the Charlevoix wrestling program and make it very successful.

And from the looks of it, he just may be able to do this, especially with the combination of a successful middle school wrestling program.

"We have a good base for next year. As long as these kids stay in the program, next year we should have a team with experience," he said.

Middle school has celebration

The Charlevoix Middle School Celebration took place Nov. 20, with lots of fun and interesting activities for the students.

Under the direction of middle school teachers, Kaye Wasilewski and Jane Garver, there were both off-campus and on-campus activities for the middle school students to choose from. Charlevoix Middle School Celebration is an opportunity for students to try new activities and experiences during the school day.

"Thanks to a lot of cooperation and volunteering of talent and time, we were able to offer the kids some great opportunities to try something that they may have never done before. Community members and the middle school staff couldn't have been more accommodating and fun to work with. Their flexibility and helpfulness really showed how committed they are to our youth," said Dupuis and Haselschwardt.

CMS Celebration offerings included: Jazz dancing and fencing, taught by Harbor Dance Academy; karate, taught by Rich Wojan; ping-pong, taught by Mark Drenth; hair and nails, taught by Shawnee Blanchard; wood-working, taught by Brian Rockafellow and Paul Gelderblom; holiday crafts, taught by Caroline Smith; Chinese cooking, taught by Tori Fisher; bowling, donut making, ice skating and a private showing of Harry Potter and the Sorcerer's Stone at Charlevoix Cinema III.

The events were planned by celebration coordinators, Molly Dupuis and Sarah Haselschwardt.

Park meeting to be Dec. 6

The City of Charlevoix is hosting a public input meeting for the downtown park renovation project planned for East Park.

The meeting is scheduled to take place at 7 p.m., Dec. 6 in the study hall room at Charlevoix High School.

City Manager Mike Wiesner has stressed this meeting is to discuss renovation ideas for the park area only. At Monday's city council meeting his said changes to the municipal marina will be discussed at a public input meeting in late June 2002.

Wiesner addressed the community concerning the Dec. 6 meeting when he said, "Hope to see you there."

The renovations to the park may start in the fall of 2003, after public comment meetings.

Soccer banquet honors players

The Charlevoix Soccer team recently had its annual banquet and awards ceremony at The Weathervane Restaurant. More than 80 people attended to honor the outgoing seniors and the rest of the 10-9 squad.

Senior Roscoe Serrels was selected Most Valuable Player for the second year in a row, while senior Kyle Tilly and sophomore Scott Friske were awarded the Coach's Award for their effort.

Senior Shawn McDonough earned the Most Improved Player. Serrels and Tilly earned their fourth varsity letters and Spencer Bryan, Trevor Kline, and Travis Smith earned their third. Earning their second was Alax Callihan, Bryce Daly, John DiMartino, Mike Dupuis, Jason Hass, Jake Pace and Craig Stockman. Earning their first were Ezra Baker, Scott Friske, Shawn McDonough and Colin Seguin.

Serrels and Seguin were honored First Team All Conference in the Northern Michigan Soccer League. Bryan and Daly earned second team while Kyle Tilly was Honorable Mention.

Serrels was also named First Team All District as a center mid-fielder while Honorable Mention honors were awarded to Colin Seguin, Travis Smith, Kyle Tilly, Spencer Bryan, Trevor Kline and Bryce Daly.

Coach Josh Block was extremely happy with this year's performance and noted that four of his team's losses came against top 10 teams.

He is also excited about the future of the Rayder program. Next year he returns 12 letter winners, including his entire defensive line, plus leading scorer Spencer Bryan.

Signed to play

We at Grand Bay Marine, Northern Michigan's largest Four Winns dealer, are very proud to have our new location at 06798 US 31 S., Charlevoix, MI 49720. As would any other business in the area, we feel it is important to inform customers of where we are located and what services we have to offer.

We chose to place our advertisements and information columns with the Charlevoix Courier and Petoskey News-Review. To our pleasant surprise, the sales staff for both papers were more than willing to help us out with all our needs. We were also impressed to see the effect the two papers had on increasing customer volume visiting our store.

We are and will continue to do business with the Courier and News-Review to increase our business and keep our customers, existing and new, informed on the latest happenings concerning Grand Bay Marine.

We encourage any business not already advertising in these great mediums to do so and see the positive impact that doing so will have on your business venture. We would also like to extend a special thank you to Denise and Kim!

Should you be interested in a new Four Winns, Pontoon, Hoist, Dock, Outboard or Paddleboat, please give us a call and you will see firsthand how wonderful being in the Grand Bay Marine circle of friends really is!!

Thanks again,
Bill Kerns

HEALTH

BASES busy teaching about drugs, drinking

D. Scott Kelly BASES
'Your health'

For this article, I thought I would share some of the most recent topics that BASES has been working on.

I'd like to announce that BASES now has a web site through the help of Laurie at LLH Graphics here in Charlevoix. You can find us at: www.bascsteencenter.org and we hope that it will help to offset the comments that I hear from new customers, "Your business is the best kept secret around." Your comments and feedback would be appreciated.

For those people that have had a hard time reading the small print in our newsletters, now you can download the newsletter from the web site and magnify the print to meet your needs as well as see everything in color.

Last year BASES piloted an educational program at Charlevoix High School where I go to the school and give a presentation to 50 specially selected Peer Educators that represent each of the seminar classes (similar to a home-

The Peer Educators then take the information and share it with the 460 students a few days later.

This year, BASES was asked to come back and do six more presentations during the school year. Peer Educators were involved in selecting a list of "hot topics" to provide our agenda for the year. We started in October and covered "legal issues and consequences" so that teens would know what the legal consequences are for alcohol and drug related offenses. Thanks to the Charlevoix County Prosecutor's office for their help in gathering information and facts to share with the students.

In early November, our topic was "marijuana" to provide information on the most widely used illegal drug in the United States. One of the main things we covered addressed the perception that "everyone is doing it."

Last year, many of the Peer Educators believed that 50-80 percent of students were using marijuana. Based on the alcohol and drug survey completed last year, the students learned that only 27 percent of students had reported using marijuana at least once in the past year. In comparison, the national statistics for use of marijuana in 2000 were at 32 percent for tenth graders and 36 percent for twelfth graders (Monitoring The Future Study).

This week we are covering the topic of teen stress. The information for the subject came from www.teenshealth.org — a great web site for youth related issues.

Upcoming topics for the Peer Educator project include: depression in January, topic yet to be determined by the teens in February and alcohol will be our final topic in March.

BASES had agreed to undertake the project originally without worrying about compensation. As things work out, last week we received a $500 unsolicited grant from an anonymous donor through the Charlevoix County Community Foundation that will be used to cover expenses for the project. Whoever the anonymous donor is, thank you on behalf of the students of Charlevoix High School.

BASES offers advice for safe holiday parties

And lastly, I'd like to share some tips on hosting safe holiday parties that I picked up from a recent article by The National Clearinghouse for Alcohol and Drug Information. Lawsuits have been successful in recent years in holding employers, bars or hosts responsible for serving alcohol to those who have died or been injured in accidents following an event or gathering. Here are a few things to keep in mind:

- Plan games or lively conversation starters to emphasize the group activity and keep the focus on fun — not alcohol.

- Offer a variety of non-alcoholic beverages for those who choose not to drink. Offer plenty of food so that those who do drink are not doing so on an empty stomach. Avoid salty foods that tend to make people thirsty.

- Never serve alcohol to someone under the legal drinking age and never ask children to serve alcohol.

- If you use an alcoholic punch, use a non-carbonated base, like fruit punch. A carbonated base for an alcoholic punch causes the alcohol to be absorbed into the bloodstream faster.

- Utilize a reliable bartender who is not drinking at the party to mix drinks and keep track of the size and number of drinks that are consumed.

- Stop serving alcohol one hour before the end of the party. Coffee cannot sober a person who has had too much to drink. It takes one hour for the body to metabolize one drink and only time can sober a person.

- If someone has had too much to drink, drive them home or make arrangements for alternate transportation. Just a few drinks can put someone over the legal limit. Having someone remember your party because they spent the night in jail is not something you want.

Be safe, and remember, if you are serving alcohol, you may be held responsible.

P.S. — If you are interested in joining our list of volunteers that we can call for occasional last-minute teen center supervision help, please let us know. Also, we are hosting a teen dance from 7-11 p.m. this Friday for ages 11 — 18. The cost is $5 at the door.

D. Scott Kelly can be contacted by calling BASES at 547-1144. BASES is located at 208 West Lincoln Street in Charlevoix.

Utility, fire marshall give holiday safety tips

The holiday season is traditionally a joyful time of the year, but Consumers Energy and the State Fire Marshal warn that it can also be a dangerous one if caution is not exercised with Christmas trees, holiday lighting, candles and cooking.

"We should all pause in the hectic rush of getting ready for the holidays to make sure we are preparing and decorating safely," said Timothy J. Pietryga, senior public information director for the utility.

There were 165 fire-related deaths reported in Michigan in 2000, a significant reduction from the 240 fire deaths reported in 1999. However, in 2000, 90 percent of fire deaths occurred in residential locations. Fewer than 50 percent of the homes affected had working smoke alarms.

"Preventing home fires through safe practices should always be our goal," said Captain Edmund K. Burke, State Fire Marshal. "But when a fire emergency does happen, knowing what to do is the key to survival. Without the early warning of a working smoke alarm, your chances of survival are significantly reduced. The statistics have shown this very clearly."

To greatly enhance your chances of surviving a home fire, have at least one working smoke alarm on each level of your home, especially near sleeping areas. Test your smoke alarms monthly and replace the batteries at least once a year. Have an escape plan showing two ways out of every room with a designated meeting place outside and practice it with your entire family.

"Give the gift of survival this year," added Burke. "Add smoke alarms, batteries and carbon monoxide detectors to your family's holiday gift list."

Consumers Energy and State Fire Marshal offer these safe holiday suggestions:

- Choose a fresh Christmas tree and water it frequently. Place the tree in a stand that will not tip over and keep the tree away from heat sources and exits.

- Keep burning candles away from decorations and other materials that can catch fire. Do not leave children unattended in a room with lighted candles. Remember to keep matches and lighters out of children's reach.

- When decorating with lights, purchase only those labeled by a testing laboratory, such as Underwriters Laboratories (UL). Check for frayed or damaged cords and replace them. Don't overload electric outlets and always unplug all decorative lights before leaving home or going to bed.

- Never leave the stove unattended while cooking. Keep cooking areas clean, wear clothes with tight fitting sleeves and turn pot handles inward on the stove and out of children's reach.

- Special care should be taken around fireplaces during this season. Make sure the flue is open before starting a fire. Never burn wrappings or a Christmas tree in the fireplace.

- When hosting holiday parties, provide guests who smoke with large, deep ashtrays. After the party, remember to check around furniture and trash cans for smoldering cigarettes.

- Always keep a fire extinguisher handy.

Despite staff opposition, rink plan approved

Because of these concerns the city staff did not recommend council support building an ice rink in East Park.

City attorney Jim Young advised council at the meeting.

Young said, "If there ever were to be a problem and the city ignored the concerns from staff regarding liability, it would make matters worse."

Kirby Dipert, a member of the merchants association and owner of several local businesses, said to council, "I think everyone is concerned about safety. This isn't something we (local merchants) decided to pursue over coffee. The merchants association has talked actively about the rink for six months. Everyone will be involved at peak use times to make every effort to ensure safety at the site."

He added, "As a downtown merchant and a parent, I hope you will consider the DDA (Downtown Development Authority) funds."

The aim of the rink is to generate activity in Charlevoix's central business district during the economically slow winter months.

Four of the five council members at the meeting didn't see the city staff's liability concern as outweighing the benefit a downtown rink could bring the community.

First ward councilmen Norman "Boogie" Carlson and Bill Haggard motioned and seconded respectively the approval of the ice rink in East Park.

But second ward councilman Bill Bellows did vote against the rink. Bellows said he doesn't think two rinks, one at Charlevoix High School and the new addition to East Park, would be used. He added there's also a liability issue to consider.

Third ward council member Shirley Gibson said she sees more of a liability issue with snowmobiles speeding through town than she does with a rink and voted in favor of the project.

Carlson also disagreed with Bellows and gave a first hand account of how both will be used.

He recently spoke with a group of high school girls who said they would skate downtown because they wouldn't be dodging hockey pucks. The downtown rink will be for open skating only.

Second ward councilman Gabe Campbell said to Wiesner, "If you think you can maintain ice, I'm for it. It would look nice downtown."

Wiesner said the unevenness of the ground isn't an issue on the second tier and that will be the 50 foot by 150 foot parcel to be used.

"With the liner and pads, we think we can make ice. There is no temperature difference between here and other sites," Wiesner assured.

The plan for the rink includes snow fencing around the site and the use of used, lit Christmas trees to block wind and mask the snow fence.

Wiesner said in the future, when the marina is renovated, floating docks are installed and the area is bubbled the liability of a rink in East Park would be less. He also said as renovation plans for East Park get underway and if an underground building is included in the design, it would be possible to look at a refrigerated rink to be on top of the building.

This will be the second rink in the park, the first was in place in the mid 1980s.

Love, Charlie & Julie

In Loving Memory of Roger Pischner

Roger, Dad, Papa,
It was very difficult for all of us to say goodbye last December 6th.

39 years of marriage to Connie was a blessing from God.

Your four children Francis (Pam), Lisa (Steve), Michael (Amy Jo), Amy (Chris) have all succeeded in life due to your support and guidance.

Unfortunately your 10 grandchildren only knew you for such a short time. The time they spent with you will always be close to their hearts.

We all love you and miss you!!

Until we meet again,

The seventh annual Teddy Bears and Eggnog fund-raiser will be from 4 to 7 p.m., Dec. 16 at the Charlevoix Country Club. The event helps to bring Christmas presents to less fortunate children in the community. While children can participate in various activities, adults can relax and enjoy complementary eggnog and snacks by the fireplace. Admission is one gift donation per person. Please indicate on the package what the item is, if the gift is for a boy or girl and age recommended for the gift. For further information or to make a donation, call 547-9796. (Courtesy photo)

Sheriff's office given defibrillator

The Northern Michigan Hospital Foundation recently matched a $50,000 grant given by the State of Michigan for the purchase of several Automatic External Defibrillators.

Dubbed the Community Cardiac Response Project, this was a joint effort between the Foundation and the Northwest Michigan Community Health Agency of Charlevoix and Emmet counties. The devices, used by first responders and local law enforcement personnel responding to emergency calls of cardiac distress, were given as part of the hospital and the health agency's commitment to outreach in the community.

The device is used to stimulate the heart for patients who are in cardiac distress/arrest. First responders and EMS personnel use the defibrillator at the scene and while the patient is being transported to the hospital for further treatment.

The Community Cardiac Response Project funds also covered the cost to train first responder personnel in the proper use of the new equipment. The Northwest Michigan Community Health Agency conducted the training sessions. Defibrillators were given to the Michigan State Police in Petoskey, East Jordan Family Health Center, Charlevoix/Emmet County Sheriff departments, the Boyne City, Harbor Springs and Petoskey Police departments, local fire departments along with other area first responders and EMS units.

Each unit cost $2,595. In all, some 35 units were purchased with the money.

Caregivers should take care of themselves as well

The diagnosis of dementia on a spouse or elder parent usually results in familial changes that affect the person needing care, but it can also alter the life of the one who assumes the caregiving role.

"People can develop dementia from a number of disease processes, including Alzheimer's disease, stroke and Parkinson's disease. While dementia can occur among younger people, it is more commonly seen in older adults," Donna Algase, Ph.D., R.N., professor, University of Michigan School of Nursing, faculty associate at the Institute of Gerontology and director of programs for Acute, Critical and Long Term Care Nursing, said.

People with Alzheimer's disease and other dementias have problems with a wide range of abilities involved with thinking, including memory. Problems with attention, language, judgment and visual-spatial skills such as hand eye coordination can precipitate a range of behavioral problems.

Families, when faced with the need to care for a spouse or parent, often choose to provide that care.

Algase said that often, caring for someone with dementia is a 24-hour a day, seven days a week job and caregivers will become run down if they don't take care of themselves. The caregiver may be up at night responding to the problem behaviors. Then, when the family member takes a daytime nap, the caregiver may be catching up on other responsibilities.

"In fact, the caregiver should be resting too. Fatigue, loss of sleep, vague physical discomforts or the worsening of a chronic condition are all signs that extra support is needed," Algase said.

When caregiving is long term, the physical and emotional stress can take a toll. These are some of the tips Algase offers her patients' caregivers:

- If your family member has some insight into the fact that memory is slowly vanishing, deal with it honestly with your family member. Don't sweep this issue under a rug.
- Recognize that you won't be able to re-teach your family member what he or she has forgotten. When your family member has a memory lapse, it is less important to correct the lapse than it is to just fill in the piece of information.

• Focus on older, long-standing memories that are pleasant. Photos, other belongings and music can help the person think of happy times and the good feelings associated with those memories.

• As a caregiver, be realistic about the future. Even if you have promised to care for your loved one at home indefinitely, that eventually may not be possible. If your physical, emotional, or financial resources are running short, be open to the idea of an outside intervention or moving your loved one to a different facility or setting.

Charlevoix pool given Frey challenge grant

By JEREMY MCBAIN
Editor

The Charlevoix Area Community Pool is looking for financial help from the schools and local governments.

Recently, the pool received a $50,000 challenge grant from the Frey Foundation. But, in order to get the grant, the pool must come up with $50,000 of its own money from the government sources and it must do so within the next two years.

"This is a major step forward and a wonderful opportunity for local governmental units to double their support," said Michael Dow, president of the pool.

In response, the Charlevoix City Council voted to give the pool $6,974.10 at its Monday night meeting.

Dow pointed out, before the Monday night city council meeting, the city did not give the pool financial help. And, other than paying for transportation for its students, the school district does not give financial help to the pool.

Therefore, in order to raise money for the challenge grant, the pool has come up with a couple of challenges of its own.

For the city, Dow said the pool is proposing to create $1 open swim times in its schedule for the public.

He suggested the city can cover the price difference. Currently, open swim prices are $3 per person.

Dow said this proposal was created because the city can not give money to a nonprofit organization, such as the pool, unless it has contracted for some service. He added this program will also increase use of the pool by the public.

"This is a great incentive for families to come out and experience the pool. Plus it is a very inexpensive open swim for the public," he said.

For the school, Dow said the pool will challenge it to create a program that will teach all of the children to swim.

"Here we are in our water related community and there is no program to teach children to swim," Dow said. He said the pool does teach children basic water safety, but does not guarantee that each child can swim after the classes.

Dow said a program needs to be created specifically to teach children of the community to swim.

Milt Rohwer, president of the Frey Foundation, said the grant was awarded to the pool for two reasons: 1) Because the pool is very attractive and well maintained and 2) because the pool is used by many people in the community.

"Its numbers are impressive," Rohwer said.

Insurance rates may be lowered

By JULIE WITTHOFT
Staff Writer

Many Charlevoix homeowners got a break on their insurance rates because of improvements made to the city's fire department.

Last week the Insurance Service Office (ISO) notified the fire department and the city administration that the company had improved the city's insurance rating.

"We (members of the Charlevoix City Fire Department) have spent the last eight years trying to get this rating improved. Over the years there has been a lot of hard work contributed by everybody. It's a reward to all the people who tried and worked so hard all these years," city fire chief Doug Carver said.

The ISO rates fire departments on their ability and resources to fight fires. Carver explained every 10 years, the ISO rates the effectiveness of the city in three areas: The fire department, the water supply and the dispatch service. For the most recent rating, the ISO inspected Charlevoix's fire department for four days in October 2000.

The rating is done on a scale of one to 10; one being the best rating, 10 being the worst.

The local fire department was last rated 10 years ago and was listed at a seven. Following this year's inspection the department was upgraded to a five.

"This year we received a five because of training, testing and taking care of our equipment. I think we are doing better and this is one way of proving that," Carver said.

Carver pointed specifically to improvements to the water system, such as work done by the city on new water mains, like those currently being introduced to the system on Michigan and Belvedere avenues.

City Manager Mike Wiesner said when the city worked on its water master plan, it looked at fire protection as a part of that plan.

Charlevoix Township's rating was upgraded a year ago from a seven to a six.

ISO publishes these ratings for use by the insurance industry and the insurance industry uses the ratings to determine homeowner's insurance rates. The new ISO rating for Charlevoix will be published in the Jan. 1 edition of their quarterly publication.

Carver said insurance companies should lower rates in residential, commercial and industrial properties in the city.

Wiesner said he recently received his insurance renewal and he will realize a 5.9 percent reduction in insurance premiums as a result of the rating by the ISO.

The city currently employs 40 fire fighters and emergency medical technicians.

A better rating in fire service by the Charlevoix Fire Department should mean lower insurance rates for homeowners. (Photo by Julie Witthoft)

Input gathered for East Park project

By JULIE WITTHOFT
Staff Writer

Charlevoix residents and visitors recently gathered to draft their East Park wish list.

At 7 p.m., Dec. 6, about 80 people filtered into the Charlevoix High School study hall room where they brainstormed the many possibilities for East Park. Representatives from Ann Arbor's Pollack Design Associates, the firm handling East Park renovation design, were on "This is really an exercise to see what's important about how the land is used...."

Peter Pollack, of Pollack Design, firm hired to design East Park hand to absorb the input of the community.

Park additions and subtractions that were mentioned included: the addition of chimneys, a clock and a promenade and renovations to straighten the bulk head and to upgrade the trout pond, bathrooms, lighting and the band shell.

"This really is an exercise to see what's important about how the land is used and what we can put in place to facilitate those uses," Peter Pollack, principal of Pollack Design Associates, said of the meeting's purpose.

"The more permanent things we put in place the less flexible we can be over time. There is a fine line between not enough and too much and we'll have the most fun together figuring out where that line is," he further explained.

One permanent fixture that's proposed for removal is the Wharfside building, located on the water side of the intersection of Bridge and Mason Streets.

Sequel to Bob Miles' book to be printed

By JULIE WITTHOEFT
Staff Writer

Charlevoix was settled in the late 1800s and has since blossomed into a twenty-first century community — but how did the area get where it is today?

For a taste of Charlevoix's transition from archaic to modern, one could thumb through a copy of Bob Miles' Charlevoix which delves into the town's long, rich history. That is, if you can find a copy, the book is a limited edition — only 2,000 copies were printed.

In fact, demand for Bob's book is so high that last year it sold on eBay for $560.

The author died in 1986, 10 years after he published the book. Bob chose 1976 as it coincides with the centennial anniversary of the United States.

Now, a quarter of a century later, Bob's son, Charlevoix native Dave Miles, is grabbing ahold of the reigns and adding to his father's collection.

Dave started working at the Charlevoix Historical Society's museum and headquarters, the Harsha House, in April 2000 and replaced his mother, Esther Miles, on the Historical Society's board in 1997.

"It's important for me to carry on the legacy of my father," Dave said.

He plans to carry on this legacy with a sequel, Bob Miles' Charlevoix II.

The idea was planted in 1998 when Mike Bergeon, vice president of the Charlevoix Historical Society Board, said it was time to update Bob's book.

Dave said a lot of information has filtered into the society over the past 26 years, warranting updates in the book. From there, the work began.

"So many people are unaware of the absolutely incredible history of this town. I have learned the history of Charlevoix is a bottomless well. There are so many great stories that have come out of this town," Dave said.

Dave and a committee of Charlevoix researchers and writers started the book three years ago. The committee is made up of five Charlevoix women. They are: Kay Heise, Mary Ann Chew, Sharon Knutson, Wanda Rann and Carolyn Minch.

Dave assures prospective readers that while the new book, Bob Miles' Charlevoix II, is similar in title and will include some of the information from Bob Miles' Charlevoix, it will not be a clone.

Dave said his father's book was roughly chronological. The second edition will be organized by topic and chronologically within each topic.

In its final stages the sequel will have around 35 chapters/topics including, professions, schools, social life and early settlers and will have at least 350 pages. His father's book was 247 pages.

In preparation for the January 2002 print date, Dave said he has sifted through roughly 10,000 photos and negatives — 300 of which made the final cut. Dave said his favorite part of this intense project has been the photos.

Dave said he has basically been living at the Harsha House, preparing for the publication. He spent most of the day Dec. 6 picking out photos for the "Bridges" chapter.

"It's the most exhilarating and exasperating thing I have ever done. This is a seven day a week job until we get it to the printer," he said.

Bob's original book sold for $20 a copy and within three years earned $40,000 for the historical society.

"That's what built this museum," Dave said as he looked around the memorabilia covered Harsha House.

This, the second edition, will not be a limited edition. For those who partake in the pre-sale of Bob Miles' Charlevoix II, the book will cost $35. After April 1, the price will go to $45. Proceeds from the sale will benefit the Charlevoix Historical Society.

The book will be on shelves by Memorial Day weekend.

Order forms will be distributed from various locations including the Harsha House. The society plans to mail 1,500 order forms to historical society members and all of those on the hospital's mailing list. The Harsha House is located at 103 State Street in Charlevoix.

The museum phone number is (231) 547-0373.

The museum hours are from 11 a.m. to 4 p.m. Tuesday through Friday and 1 p.m. to 4 p.m. Saturday. They also have evening hours on Thursday when they are open until 9 p.m.

Credit cards are accepted and gift certificates are available.

What we think is reality, may not be the truth

Jeremy McBain

'Just a thought'

Sometimes we tend to lose our grasp of reality, especially when it is what we think of our enemies.

We want to think of them in a bad light so much that we twist it into impossible forms and create an image far from the truth. Then we take that image and engrave it into our minds, never wanting to change it.

Reality is something a lot of us do not want to see or accept. We would rather stick with the impressions we have always had. It's easier that way.

I realized this recently when I helped host a group of 13 Russian newspaper delegates for a week. The group wanted to know more about American journalism and business and it was up to the Charlevoix Rotary Club and me to design training sessions for them. Along with training our guests, the Russian delegates stayed with many Charlevoix residents for the week. I had the honor of hosting one of them.

My guest's name was Konstantin Astafeyev. He was 31 and the general director of a business magazine near Moscow, Russia, along with owning another magazine. In addition to him, the delegation was composed of several other newspaper and magazine directors and owners, many of them under 35.

Before they came to Charlevoix, I was stuck with the impressions I had of Russians while growing up during the Cold War. For most of my life, until the early 1990s, Russians were regarded as the enemy. They were cold, heartless communists who were bent on taking over the world.

They were nothing like us, I thought. I soon learned how wrong I was.

Many times, during that week, Konstantin and I were up late at night talking. We talked about politics, freedom, the press, family, love and money. While most of the time we struggled to find the right words in our Russian-to-English/English-to-Russian dictionaries, we both seemed to enjoy the conversation.

As we talked I realized, here I was, talking with someone who once was regarded as my country's enemy. Someone I grew up fearing and hating. Someone who was not like me.

But, I discovered Konstantin and the rest of the delegation were more like me and the rest of America than I thought.

Beyond politics, beyond religion, beyond all those "hot-point" issues, he was as human as me. He loved the beauty of a woman, the joy in a child's face, the freedom to think and say as he pleases and the feeling of a job well done. He missed his family and friends, but was excited at the chance to see a new land and meet new people during his trip.

If you couldn't hear his accent or watch as he struggled to find the correct English word, you would think he was an ordinary American businessman.

Here I was looking at the enemy and all this time my enemy was really a mirror of myself.

To make matters even more interesting, during that visit I took notice of the national news. I noted the cooperation between our two countries in recent years.

Instead of hating each other, we are helping each other. Instead of getting ready to attack our enemy — and they us — we are helping hold each other up.

It's funny to think how someone you could hate one day, can end up helping you the next.

It started me thinking about my everyday life. How one minute I can speak out against the city council and the next support them or how a person can hate me for an editorial one week, but love my editorial the next.

The reality is, no matter how much you dislike an idea or person, you may need their help some day and they may need yours. Why don't we realize this more often?

Why do we put so much into what we think of a person or country based on that person or country's opinion or political philosophy? The reality of what that person or country is may be completely different than what we interpret from these opinions.

This holiday season, I would like for our readers to think about this. When you find yourself hating a person or group, think to yourself, "Is this reality?"

I think when we start separating our impressions from reality, our community and nation will be an even more wonderful place to live.

Happy holidays.

Camp is not just for the kids

Edith Gilbert

'Behind the news'

As my mother used to say, "Now I've heard everything!"

When I asked my nephew, Larry and his wife Maryellen, who visited me again from North Carolina, "What did you do with your dog, Coco?" They replied, "We took her to camp."

"Camp?"

"Yes, we take her to Camp Canine and she loves it," Larry said. "Come, I'll show you on the internet — www.campcanine.com."

After booting up, sure enough, there on the screen is Camp Canine. It is located in Cary, N.C. and we are invited to take a tour and are shown doggy pictures in full color! We read that for overnight stays, pets are promised, "individual personal attention in a clean homelike environment and the staff is interactive with campers for 16 hours a day, 7 days a week."

OK, but in addition there is TV in the community room, music is piped in and there are surveillance cameras.

Naturally, we are told, as in all camps, one may sign up for extra-curricular activities such as a gym class, which is a one hour group activity or there are mountain hikes with individual mini-mountain hiking over a creek and through a nature trail. (But no big bad wolves.)

Camp also offers — and I kid you not — additional group activities such as watching canine movies with a counselor, including everyone's favorite, "1002 Dalmatians." Not to be overlooked is the tub of cheese buttered "pupcorn" to munch on. No, not for the counselors, but for the pups.

Finally there are bedtime stories to be read to the campers. Honest!

Pet owners are kept informed through a "News-Paw-Per" that among other things advertises an Airport Shuttle Service. "Just leave your car at camp and our driver will chauffeur you to the airport in a minivan."

In addition we learn that owners may enroll in training sessions and seminars, such as, "Learn to walk your dog on a leash," "Control jumping, barking and general attention seeking," "Nutrition" and "Pet First Aid."

East Park suggestions

Editor:

Suggestions — Move the Charlevoix Chamber of Commerce off Round Lake, remodel the building for marina offices and restroom facilities. If rebuilt, please keep the building on the same side of hill, keep our quaint small town. We also have restrooms in the Beaver Island/Coast Guard building. Remove Wharfside building. We have grants to help and availability to purchase same. With the Wharfside gone we will need to redesign the back of the band shell. Could add on public restrooms for all the park activities. Remodel the pond. Don't elevate East Park. Keep the same soft slopes. Keep the angles of the docks, they blend with the natural shoreline. Keep the walkway along the shoreline. We don't need the clutter up Round Lake with 400 foot docks and a pier. No full time boats at dock slips. Make time limits so more boating families can use the facilities without expansion.

Our harbor and marina are being compared to cities and towns with many alternate routes through town. Charlevoix has one — the bridge. The bridge separates the town in half and everyone has to cross sooner or later. Let's try not to make it any busier. We need to plan for future growth, for future generations, when Big Rock and Cemex become Bay Harbors and the countryside is crowded.

Jesus video coming

Editor:

Residents throughout Charlevoix and East Jordan are about to receive an unexpected gift in the mail. This week, Jesus Videos will be mailed to each address.

In these troubling times, since Sept. 11, our nation and Northern Michigan is filled with many frightened and hurting people. Jesus said: "Do not let your hearts be troubled, and do not be afraid." We need hope, and Jesus is our hope.

With Christmas coming, the celebration of Jesus' birth, people throughout the county have donated time and money to get the Jesus Video sent to their neighbors. A lot of people know bits and pieces about what Jesus did, but this video tells the story of his life, as taken from the book of Luke in the Bible. Warner Brothers Studio in Israel produced the video in 1973. It will help people understand who Jesus is and what he can do for them.

Each video is being sent out of the love of area business owners, churches and individuals, who donated $27,000 to pay for the videos and the mailing. In spring, the Charlevoix County Jesus Video Project hopes to complete the county mailing by using an additional $14,000 to send videos to residents in Boyne City and Boyne Falls.

Merry Christmas and God bless Charlevoix County.

Thank you

Editor:

I would like to thank the Charlevoix Courier for their article about the Reach to Recovery program of the American Cancer Society. Because of the article, I am now a Reach to Recovery breast cancer survivor volunteer for the Charlevoix County area.

Anyone (patient, doctor, or nurse) can request a visit by calling either me, at 547-4603, or the Traverse City Coordinator of the American Cancer Society, Teresa Haske, at (800) 723-0370. I am also currently looking for a beauty salon that would be willing to furnish wig styling and other services to breast cancer patients at no charge.

Get U.S. out of U.N.

Editor:

When the people are armed, the state can govern, but it cannot rule. The Second Amendment: "A well regulated militia, being necessary to the security of a free state, the right of the people to keep and bear arms, shall not be infringed."

It is almost absurd to have to say it but no person is made safe if his right to defend himself is taken away.

The move to ban gun ownership is well organized and well-financed.

In matters of disarmament, all roads lead to the United Nations. Veteran journalist, William Norman Grigg, exposes the U.N. crusade with his book, "Freedom on the Altar" and now with "Global Gun Control." He exposes their gun control agenda, he takes the reader to bloody Rwanda and to the Balkans for a close-up look at the U.N. backed civilian disarmament in action.

We must bring pressure to bear, says Grigg, on House of Representatives that would end U.S. membership in U.N. HR 1146 (the American Sovereignty Restoration Act) sponsored by Rep. Ron Paul, R-Texas.

He demonstrates that the U.N. has the same agenda for the U.S. as it did in the above action in Rwanda and the Balkans.

Section Eight of the Constitution states that congress shall have the authority to commit U.S. forces to make rules for government and regulations for land and naval forces.

We do not want the U.S. insignia on uniforms of our soldiers changed to world order insignias.

Resolution to put our army under U.N. command should never be allowed. Plans for Fort Dix to become a U.N. training center should not be allowed.

In the land of the free and home of the brave, the course is clear: Get us out of the U.N., cut off further funds, focus on restoring our institutions at home before our liberties are but cherished memories.

A dog's trip to camp

GILBERT

Of course, if you would like to have a holiday portrait painted of your pet, partake of a foster home care program for German Shepherds, or participate in a rescue and adoption program, here is the place to sign up.

My mouth was still open when we finished watching the screen, and Larry informed me a bit whimsically, "You know, Aunt Edith, when we dropped Coco off at the camp and she saw her counselor, she was so glad to see him, she wagged her tail and ran up to him and began licking him. That's more than she does when I come home!"

"Well," I said, "you better start reading her my Courier Columns at bedtime!"

Edith Gilbert is a Charlevoix resident and columnist for the Charlevoix Courier. Her columns appear every two weeks in the Charlevoix Courier. She can be reached by calling the Courier at (231) 547-6558 or by e-mailing her at egilbert@freeway.net.

Northwest to have concert on Dec. 18

The Northwest Academy department of music will present an evening of music for the season on Dec. 18.

You will be able to listen to the first public performance of the Northwest Academy Choir under the direction of Jeff Londgren, the very popular "Four Man Fish'n Tackle Choir," various solos and ensembles, all fifth through twelfth grade students that are currently enrolled in instrumental music and a special guest appearance of Kristin Stutzman performing with the Northwest Jazz Band. The bands are under the direction of Gary Stutzman.

Parents and all interested people are asked to come early to Northwest Academy and enjoy refreshments along with the sounds of the season throughout the hallways at the school beginning at 6:30 p.m.

The main concert will begin on stage at 7 p.m. You will be treated to an hour and 15 minutes of non-stop seasonal music that is sure to start your holiday season off in a very positive way.

We are looking forward to everyone's attendance at this special event.

Reformed Church to have Christmas Cantata

Members of a volunteer choir and instrumental ensemble, more than 60, are preparing for the Community Reformed Church of Charlevoix's Annual Community Christmas Cantata.

This year's program, "Sing We All Noel," will be presented at 7 p.m. Dec. 15 and at 6 p.m. Dec. 16 at the Community Reformed Church, located at US-31 north — at the corner of Meech and Oak streets in Charlevoix.

Admission is free and a free will offering will be received to defray expenses.

The choir and instrumental ensemble is made up of community members representing several area churches. The program features the choir singing many familiar Christmas carols enhanced by the instrumental ensemble which includes Laura Potter, Prudy Kurtz, Marcy Bennett, Mary Beth Kur, Mike Washburne, Dee Hoadley, Ev Wujcik and piano accompanist Theda Williams.

"Sing We All Noel," arranged by Richard Kingsmore, tells the story of Christ's birth using a variety of traditional favorites, with narration provided by Jeff Ricks, Mary Ann Cox, Ron Williams and Nancy Whitley.

For more information about the cantata, call the church at (231) 547-9482.

Obituaries

Doris M. Morlan: March 10, 1925 - Dec. 5, 2001

Doris M. Morlan, 76, of Beaver Island, died Dec. 5, 2001 in Charlevoix.

She was born on March 10, 1925 in Bellaire, the daughter of Delbert and Laura (Wilcox) Mason.

Doris graduated from Bellaire High School in 1941, then moved to Detroit where she worked for Kroger's for 20 years.

She married Thomas A. Morlan on June 12, 1954, in Angola, Ind. They made their home in Detroit, then moved to Coldwater in the early 1970s where she worked for Bargman Recreational Vehicles.

They bought their home on Beaver Island in 1968, then retired there in 1985.

Doris was a world traveler, having visited Israel five times, as well, traveling to Egypt, Jordan, Africa, Greece, Austria and Alaska, and she maintained pen pals from all her travels.

She was a member of the Beaver Island Christian Church, the Beaver Island Fire Department Auxiliary and participated in several fundraisers for the island community.

Doris is survived by her husband, Thomas, of Beaver Island; sisters, Gladys Matthews of Flint, Zora Smith of North Lewisburg, Ohio, Maxine Babbitt of Gowen and Bea (Willard) Ransom of Remus; brothers, Dorr (Betty) Mason and Earl (Doris) Mason, all of Bellaire and several nieces and nephews.

She was preceded in death by brothers, Glenn, Lee, Carl and Nick Mason; and sisters, Thelma Dewey, Hilda Bradshaw, Ruth Cornett and Dorothy Bailey.

Doris was very well loved by all of her family. A memorial service will be held on Beaver Island in the spring.

Memorial contributions may be directed to the Beaver Island Christian Church. The family is being served by the Winchester Funeral Home in Charlevoix.

Thomas Hodgkinson: April 24, 1928- Dec. 5, 2001

Thomas Edward Hodgkinson Sr., 73, of Charlevoix, died Dec. 5, 2001 at Northern Michigan Hospital in Petoskey.

A funeral service took place at 11 a.m., Dec. 8 at Beautiful Savior Lutheran Church in Petoskey. The Rev. Jonathan Arndt officiated. Interment was in Greenwood Cemetery in Petoskey.

Thomas was born April 24, 1928 in Sandusky, Ohio, the son of Willard and Sally (McCartney) Hodgkinson. He graduated from Margretta High School in Castalia, Ohio in 1946. He served in the United States Army during the Korean Conflict from 1950 to 1952.

Tom married the former Betty J. Meehan on Sept. 12, 1953 in Venice, Ohio and they made their home in Castalia, until moving to Charlevoix in 1967.

He worked 32 years for Portland Cement Company as an analytical chemist before retiring in 1989. He was a member of the Beautiful Savior Lutheran Church in Petoskey and VFW Post 1153 in Charlevoix.

Tom enjoyed hunting and fishing and the out-of-doors.

Tom is survived by his wife, Betty, of Charlevoix; sons,

Thomas (Donna) Hodgkinson of Charlevoix and Gary Hodgkinson of Conway; daughters, Lynn (John) Marquardt of Petoskey and Sandra (Jeffery) Himebauch of Charlevoix; nine grandchildren; brother, Richard (Shirley) Hodgkinson of Castalia, Ohio; stepbrothers, Tim and Ted and stepsisters Gerry and Donna.

Memorial contributions may be made to Beautiful Savior Lutheran Church.

Envelopes are available at the Winchester Funeral Home in Charlevoix, where friends called from 7 p.m. to 9 p.m. on Dec. 7.

Marriage

Keem — Smith

Michelle Marie Keem and Keith N. Smith were married on July 21, 2001 at the Michigan State University Alumni Chapel in East Lansing.

The Rev. Kelly Chapinan performed the ceremony.

The bride is the daughter of Mike and Mary Keem of Charlevoix. The groom's parents are Chuck and Sally Smith, formerly of Petoskey.

The maid of honor was Amie Livingston and bridesmaids were Terah Lamer, Cathy Craig, Amy (Smith) Reno and Sarah (Moore) Campbell.

The bestman was Marshal Perkins and groomsmen were Mike Tesch, Brandon Oaks, Jeff Reno, Vince Frattinardo and Steve Applebee.

Ushers were Bryan Keem and Ben Caine. Readers were Todd and Tonya Rebig. Jake Porath provided a flute solo.

The reception was at the Michigan State University student union parlor with special guest, Sparty. The wedding cake was made by Frances Cuthbertson, grandmother of the groom. The flowers were provided by Craig Steltvriede, uncle of the groom.

The couple spent their honeymoon in Maine and Nova Scotia. They are residing in Flint.

Michelle is currently employed as a clinical dietitian. Keith is a chemistry teacher at Grand Blanc High School.

PARK

Pollack updated the audience on the progression of the acquisition and demolition plans for the building. He said the city has an option to buy which may be complete as early as January 2002. Its removal will leave the band shell standing alone in the middle of the park.

This sparked band shell fever in the crowd. Charlevoix resident Dawson Way said he thinks the band shell would better serve the park on the Clinton Street side. Other thoughts were the inclusion of a better sound system at the site.

It has also been discussed that Mason Street, which runs along the south side of the Wharfside, be removed and integrated into the park as green space.

Former first ward Charlevoix City Councilman Bob Timms opposed the transition for this portion of Mason Street. He said his main concerns are parking and access to the dock area by emergency personnel, delivery companies and repair service people.

"My main concern is eliminating the east end of Mason Street. It would destroy 15 parking places and it would eliminate access to the dry hydrant that is down there now," Timms explained.

Pollack said access will be one of the more complicated issues his design firm will deal with in the East Park project.

No one stood up and echoed Timms' claims about leaving the east end of Mason Street as is, but access was discussed by many.

Round Lake homeowner John Winn said, "I disagree on closing the east side of Mason Street. It would be a real mistake to have a street in the middle of our park. I don't think the city has an obligation to provide boat side parking."

One concerned party, Mary Beth McGraw, director of the Waterfront Art Fair Committee, said the park is used extensively during Venetian Festival, the Waterfront Art Fair and Apple Festival and access should be addressed.

McGraw also said space was a concern. She said currently, her committee sells 10 feet by 10 feet booth spaces and they need 12 feet by 12 feet, so the vendors can have space to store inventory.

McGraw further cautioned those who attended to keep in mind the park's greatest attraction is the lake and anything artificial that's added may take away from the natural beauty that's there.

Additions brought to the table included: a more natural trout pond, a flag pole, a clock, chimneys, the band shell and lighting.

When Timms raised lighting concerns, he was supported by members of the audience, including Winn.

Timms said, "The lights in the park are atrocious. They almost blind you at eye level. They should be shielded or something so they'll illuminate what needs to be illuminated."

Bob Tambellini, of Charlevoix, said all the possible additions will attract pedestrian traffic and Charlevoix is not a pedestrian friendly town. He challenged the designers to modify the way things currently are to get people from one side of the street to the other.

"We have to do something about the chaotic situation with pedestrians and traffic at the corner of Clinton and Bridge streets," Tambellini stressed.

Tambellini suggested defined cross walks and appropriate signs so people know where to cross.

Michael Buttigieg, of East Jordan, said he's noticed there are few eating areas and suggested adding picnic tables and trash bins to make the site more "user friendly."

Charlevoix resident Dale Boss said he would like to see the bathrooms located outside of the park. Boss suggested using Hoopskirt Alley so when people park in the lot behind the businesses on the west side of Bridge street they can use the facilities.

He said the land is too valuable to use it for bathrooms.

"Right now, we are porta john city. Everywhere you go, porta johns, porta johns, porta johns," Boss said.

In February, the design company will meet with the Charlevoix Downtown Park Renovation Committee which is working on the East Park/ Chamber Park project.

The committee is made up of mayor Alvin "Butch" Russell, second ward councilman Bill Belows, Downtown Development Authority chairman Hugh Mason, authority member Janine Wallace, city manager Mike Wiesner, harbor master Hal Evans, city police chief Dennis Halverson, city planner Gerry Harsch and city street superintendent John Martin.

Pollack said when he and Christie Dunbar, project coordinator for Pollack Design Associates, return to Charlevoix in June 2002 for a second public meeting, they won't bring a recommendation. Instead, the firm will return with three or four possibilities for the community to review.

Other design possibilities are currently being drafted by the environmental group Water and Air Team Charlevoix (WATCH).

At the conclusion of the meeting Pollack said, "Some of the thoughts tonight are simple and pragmatic and big, like the bulk head. Let's develop the best possible facility and then find a way to fund it. Let's design the facility, cost it and incrementally put things in place. It's really important to use the money wisely and not spread it too thin. Rather, let's do fewer things really well."

Airport gets upgrade, $1 million in funding

By JEREMY MCBAIN
Editor

With its recent upgrade in status, the Charlevoix Municipal Airport will receive up to $1 million in extra funding from the federal government.

The Michigan Department of Transportation recently announced the airport has been elevated to "Primary Air Carrier" status because it is the primary hub for air transportation to Beaver Island and other northwest Michigan islands. This upgrade also makes the airport eligible for federal funding.

According to airport manager Karyn Brooks, this upgrade was also due to an increase in passengers flying out of the Charlevoix airport.

A Primary Air Carrier airport must have at least 10,000 passengers annually. Brooks said the Charlevoix airport has over 13,000 passengers to the islands annually.

This is mostly daily travel to Beaver Island by construction workers and professionals meeting residents on the island for appointments.

"Other than that, we needed to show the Federal Aviation Administration the importance of this airport and its service to the community. We are the ambulance service for the island and provide transportation of other critical services, such as postal service," Brooks said.

This new designation gives the airport $1 million this year and up to $1 million every year after this. Previously, the airport was only eligible for about $150,000 from the federal government.

Brooks said the airport is already in the process of buying some new snow removal equipment and may use some of the money for that. Other uses for the funding this year include the construction of a building to house the equipment.

"Beyond that, I don't know what (the city will use the money for). We will be looking," Brooks said.

She said the city is starting work on an airport master plan. Once that is complete, she will have a better idea of what the additional funding can be used for.

Brooks added a big reason for this upgrade and additional funding was the work by Jim Downer of the Michigan Department of Transportation. Downer put the proposal together and presented it to the FAA, she said.

"I just really thank Jim (Downer) and give him all the credit," Brooks said.

Employees create book for friend

Employees from the Northwest Michigan Community Health Agency's Administrative offices in Charlevoix have created a cookbook in honor of their good friend and co-worker, Sandy Puhl.

Puhl died last April, after a 2-and-a-half year battle with ovarian cancer.

While reminiscing this past summer about Sandy's love of cooking, a group of employees came up with the idea of a cookbook to gather their favorite recipes as well as Puhl's.

"Everyone was enthusiastic about the idea, and welcomed the opportunity to share their memories of Sandy in a creative way," said Donna Kujat, one of the project's coordinators.

The cookbooks, titled "Per Your Request," contain over 300 recipes in a hardcover format, and are on sale at the Health Department office in Charlevoix for $10.

All proceeds from the sale of the cookbooks, will go to the Charlevoix Area Hospital in Puhl's name. For more information you can contact Kujat at 547-7654 or Vivian Shearer at 547-7607.

A needed gift this holiday: massage

Julie Witthoeft
'Stepping out'

I recently stepped out of the office, into deep relaxation and have an announcement to make.

"Attention all male Charlevoix shoppers involved in a relationship, you have less than two weeks to shop and I'm challenging you to find the right gift."

Sorry to point right at men, but I only know how women work and what many of us want for Christmas. So guys, answer this question, "When was the last time you gave your girl something she really needs?"

And by "really needs" I mean, something other than a blender, a vacuum or a set of Teflon pots and pans. I mean the gift of hot rock relaxation.

It doesn't take a softy to find this gift — in fact, it will even be quick and painless for macho men.

Your gift, professional massage called LaStone.

Yes, the IOU massage from you or the kids is sweet and your occasional shoulder squeezes are interesting, but please, this year leave it to the professionals.

Massage therapy can scare people off because of the stigma laden "therapy" word. But, it isn't like sitting in a chair and shifting around as you divulge your deepest secrets to a shrink.

This therapy is pampering and it just so happens that LaStone, one of the latest developments in the massage industry, has arrived in Charlevoix. LaStone originated in Tucson, Arizona in August of 1993 by creator Mary Nelson-Harrington.

This new treatment hit the Charlevoix market this year. Charlevoix resident and reflexologist Mary Lou Smith is trained and ready to deliver.

"The notion is to use heat in combination with massage to benefit the body more medically and therapeutically," Smith said.

After receiving LaStone myself, I found one of its greatest attributes to be long lasting effects. I've found decreased muscle tension from the typical relaxation massage will last that day and into the next.

But LaStone makes you feel like you're walking on air for at least three days. For the skeptics who need scientific jargon to back up claims of thermal therapy relief I offer you this: The process of LaStone involves hot and cold rocks and Swedish massage strokes which means the treatment is not deep tissue.

Don't try and improvise by administering the treatment yourself; these aren't just any rocks. Hot "basalt" rocks and cold "marble" stones are used. The temperature variations cause a chemical reaction in the body that releases muscle tension and lactic acids and balances the system.

The rocks themselves are harvested in different states across the United States including Montana and even in Michigan's Lake Superior, one of the premier hiding spots of basalt rocks. Basalt stones retain heat for a long period of time.

The size and shape of the stones relate to different body positioning and target areas.

The stones are placed on the body in such a way as to promote healing and relaxation. When I went in for the treatment, I was nervous at first. There I was lying down in front of a lady holding hot, "basalt" rocks, I thought how hot are the rocks and how cold are the marble stones. But Smith walked me through it and deep breathing went a long way.

The hot rock temperature is monitored by a roaster and a cooler keeps the cold ones chilled.

The first question Smith will ask is, "In what area of the body are you experiencing discomfort?"

I told her I have a rotten case of computer neck from typing my life away each week. Smith placed cold rocks in the area of my shoulder blades and neck where the tension festers and warm rocks down the rest of my spine. She also placed soothing warm rocks in my hands to keep the body warm and relaxed.

Those not familiar with massage should be forewarned the treatment requires you to strip down to your skivvies so the modest woman may not be hip on this.

The moral of this trip to the therapist, guys, this year instead of getting caught up in the Christmas shopping grind, order your girl geo-thermal therapy. Whether she's young or old, chunky or skinny, lazy or active, you can't go wrong with LaStone.

For more information about the therapy visit www.las-tonetherapy.com. For gift certificates or appointment booking call Smith at 547-8031.

Lois Becker, massage therapist at Randall Chiropractic Clinic, also offers LaStone massage. She can be contacted by calling 237-0665.

Computer construction

Charlevoix's Northwest Academy students were given new computers recently. In order to make it a learning experience, on Nov. 28 teachers had the students assemble them. A total of 25 computers were given away to students. In order to keep the computers, students are required to keep their grades up in class. Above, Bob Tripp, Hagen Robin and Dave Ruehley work to assemble two computers in the class period. (Photo by Julie Witthoeft)

Contractors need licenses to work

By JEREMY MCBAIN
Editor

Homeowners should always make sure contractors working for them are licensed according to the Charlevoix County Building Department.

Robert Hilton, plumbing and mechanical inspector for the department, said recently there has been an increase in reports of unlicensed contractors performing work for homeowners in Charlevoix.

However, state code requires that any contractor performing construction work over $600 must be licensed. Anyone, other than the homeowner, doing any plumbing or electrical work must be licensed as well.

"We would like homeowners to be aware. They should always ask to see the contractor's license," Hilton said. He also invites homeowners to call the building department at 547-7236 or the State Construction Code office at (517) 241-9302 to check a contractor's license.

Hilton said the county building department writes about one ticket a month to contractors doing plumbing or electrical work without a license and about one ticket a week for those doing construction work without a license.

"We have really been trying to enforce this part (of the code). The hardest thing is homeowners not knowing what the rules are," Hilton said.

Article 24 of the Occupational Code for the State of Michigan states a contractor or builder cannot do any work that costs over $600 in labor and materials without a license. This includes anyone doing "handy-man" type work.

Contractors and other builders who do not have a license cannot even advertise for these types of jobs, Hilton said.

If a homeowner suspects they had work that was done by an unlicensed contractor, they can contact the Charlevoix Building Department and an investigation will start.

If the investigation finds that the contractor is unlicensed, that contractor can be ticketed for $500 or 90 days in jail or the county can file charges for fraud. The homeowner can also sue the contractor in civil court.

"Usually, once we prosecute them, we don't see them reoccurring. But, if we get rid of two of them (unlicensed contractors), especially on the building end, it seems like we see another one pop up," Hilton said.

Fund to help Afghan refugees

Notes printed with colorful holiday themes from original block prints designed by the youth of First Congregational Church are being offered to help raise funds to aid Afghan refugees. The group also made miniature white peace doves as tree decorations. Elizabeth Ulrich, and her brother, Adam, are part of the group assisting Cara Hochhalter, (rear) Youth Education Director, who suggested the project. Church World Service describes the situation in Afghanistan as "possibly the worst humanitarian crisis in history." Donations to alleviate the refugee's desperate circumstances will be forwarded to the CWS program of food and quilts for 20,000 of the three million refugees. All supplies are purchased in the region to further benefit of the people.

To order notes and doves or to make a contribution, call the church office at 547-9122. (Courtesy photo)

Annual Christmas light contest Dec. 18

This year Keep Charlevoix Beautiful is sponsoring its sixteenth residential Christmas light display contest.

Judging for the contest will take place from 6 p.m. to 7 p.m., Dec. 18.

An overall winner will be selected and recognition will be given to three homes in each of the following areas: North of the bridge, east of US-31, west of US-31 and "out of town" — a four mile radius around the city limits.

The winners will be selected on the basis of lighting, originality and the design of the overall display.

To register, contact Judy Corley at (231) 547-1945 by Dec. 17. You may enter your name or that of a friend or neighbor.

Fireworks lawsuits are scheduled for trial

By JULIE WITTHOEFT
Staff Writer

After over four years of settlement discussion, nine plaintiffs claiming damages from the 1997 Venetian Festival fireworks accident will have their day in court.

A final pretrial settlement conference for the nine cases took place in Charlevoix County Circuit Court Dec. 3.

Judge Pajtas ruled those cases that arose following the July 27, 1997 Charlevoix Venetian Festival explosion that killed Charlevoix resident Mark Yager and injured several others, couldn't be settled out of court and will be part of a lengthy jury trial.

The trial will be April 9-12, 15-17, 22-26 and 29-30 and May 1, 6-10, 14-15, 20-24.

The plaintiffs' joint trial brief explained what occurred the day of the accident. The brief states, "This explosion occurred when a 12 inch ball type pyrotechnic shell exploded prematurely while still in the mortar. The explosion shattered the mortar and caused a sympathetic explosion and mortar break in one or more of the adjacent launching tubes."

The plaintiffs state a lawsuit was filed against the defendants seeking compensation for injuries sustained when they were hit by fragments and debris from the explosion.

The nine plaintiffs are Charles and Diana Craddock, Tadeusz and Janet Dobrowolski, Gary and Bryan Kress, Frances Ladi, James Sr. and Winifred Snider, Mark and Lisa Sokolowski, Laura Wilson, Shannon Wilson and Deborah Yager.

The plaintiffs' brief was filed jointly by their attorneys who are the following: Robert M. Scott is Yager's attorney, Craddock's attorney is Daniel P. O'Neil, Charles F. Glass is the attorney for Ladi, Wilson, Snider and Kress, both Louis G. Corey and Christopher J. Hastings are attorneys for Dobrowolski and John D. Tallman is Sokolowski's attorney.

Scott of Toledo, Ohio, the attorney for the Yager family said, "I'm happy to finally have a trial date."

The primary claim stated in the brief is against Richard Davis, display operator, permit holder for the fireworks display and defendant in the cases. Davis is also owner and president of Fireworks North, a corporation he formed to conduct fireworks displays throughout Michigan.

The plaintiffs argue Davis violated well-known and universally accepted industry standards as well as common sense in the conduct of the display.

The plaintiffs' brief states, "The most outrageous of his many violations was allowing the spectators to assemble at less than 10 percent of the required separation distance. According to the standards promulgated by the National Fire Protection Association the separation distance for the Charlevoix display should have been 840 feet."

The brief states the standards used by the fire protection association base crowd separation distance on the size of the fireworks being displayed. It states, "Spectators should be set back 70 feet for each diameter inch of the largest display mortar."

The plaintiffs claim and Davis testified, 12 inch mortars were used at the Charlevoix display. Thus, according to the fire protection agency's standard, the crowd should have been 840 feet from the trailer but the brief states people gathered 50 feet away.

It states that during Davis' deposition he admitted to having no formal pyrotechnics

Plaintiffs in fireworks lawsuit state their case

training. He further claims that before the 1997 Venetian accident he had no knowledge of the National Fire Protection Association or any other of the generally accepted industry standards or guidelines concerning the discharge of fireworks.

The brief further states during Davis' deposition he said he constructed homemade launching trailers to perform the Charlevoix display.

The plaintiffs claim the design of the trailer he used also violated standards for fireworks launching equipment and posed a significant risk of injury.

The plaintiffs also filed suit against Wolverine Fireworks Display Incorporated, a defendant in the case. Wolverine Fireworks Display is a fireworks supply company based in Kawkawlin who sold shells as well as mortar tubes to Davis in 1997.

Davis testified these were used at the Charlevoix display.

However, according to the brief, no expert has been able to identify the shell involved in the accident as being supplied by Wolverine, as it was consumed in the explosion.

Wolverine Fireworks Display Inc. also sold Davis launching equipment at the beginning of the 1997 season.

The plaintiffs are claiming negligent sale and product liability against Wolverine.

The plaintiffs explain their negligence claim in the brief. It states, "In addition, Wolverine supplied fireworks and launching equipment to Davis despite its knowledge that he intended to handle and display these explosives in violation of industry standards and federal law."

Glen Crawford is Davis' brother-in-law and a defendant in the cases. The plaintiffs' brief states Crawford played a role in the construction of the launching trailer and participated in the Charlevoix display.

Crawford also testified that there were several modifications made to the trailer he and others constructed before the Charlevoix Venetian festival display.

Lawrence Grise, a defendant in the case, played a role in the construction of the launching trailer and participated in the Charlevoix display.

The brief states, Michael Jaye, a defendant in the case, participated in the Charlevoix display and investigating police officers noted he had been drinking.

Davis and Fireworks North Inc. carried no liability insurance for public fireworks displays.

The court cases are currently consolidated for jury trial. If any of the plaintiffs or defendants involved object to the consolidation, judge Richard Pajtas will hear those objections at 2:15 p.m. Jan. 4, 2002 in Charlevoix County's 33rd Circuit Court.

Motions and briefs for the jury trial were ordered to be filed by Feb. 7, 2002 and responses will be filed by Feb. 21, 2002. Any reply briefs will be filed by Feb. 28, 2002.

A joint pretrial order will be presented for entry by the court on or before March 22, 2002.

At the Dec. 3 pre-trial settlement conference, defendants Hunan Provincial Fireworks and Firecrackers Import/Export Corp., Temple of Heaven and Marvin McKay were dismissed from the case.

Aesop's fable still holds true.
Bigger isn't always better —
The best shopping is here at home.

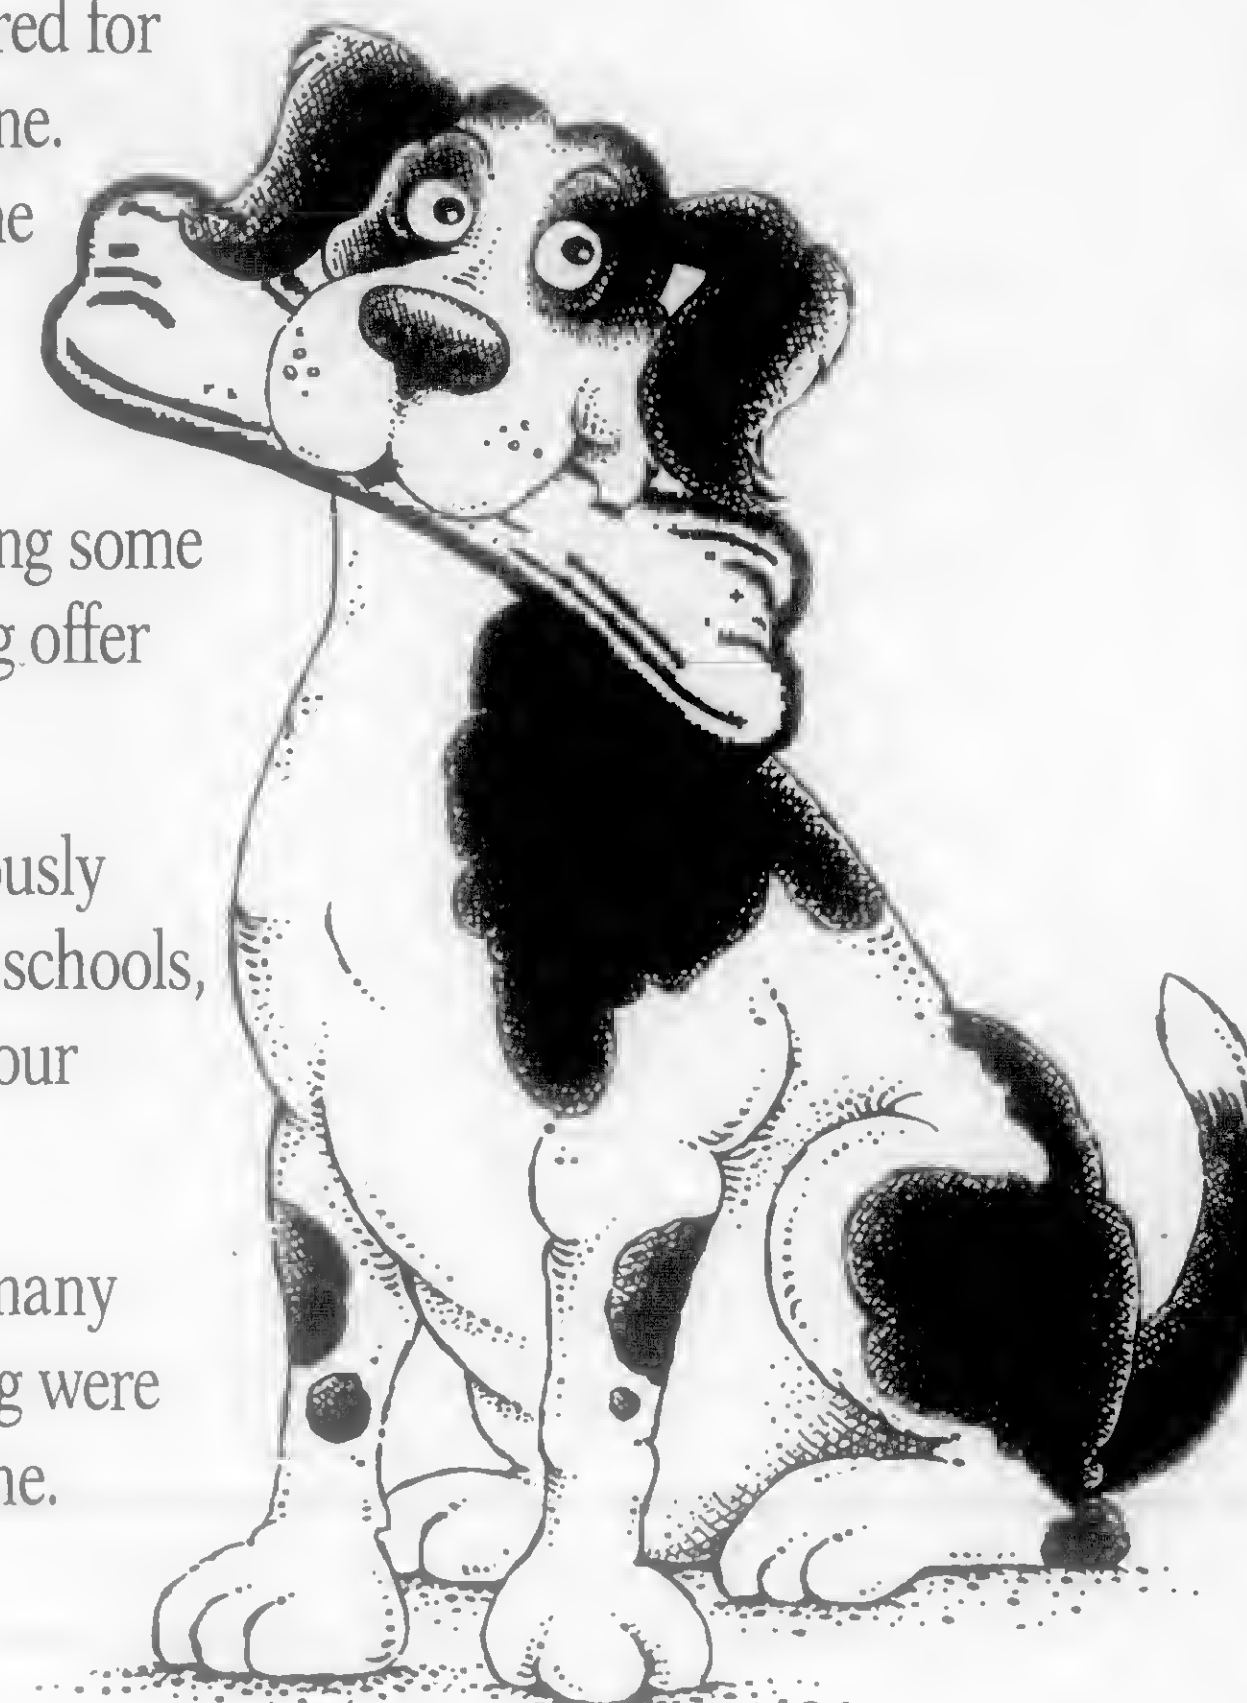

The Fable: Aesop, a famous fable teller is remembered for his story about the dog trotting home with a prize bone. On the way he saw what looked like a much larger one in the reflection of a stream...but, in grabbing for it, lost the bone he already had.

The Fact: Many of us today are still risking and losing some of the good things we have by reaching for a tempting offer outside our own community.

By shopping elsewhere for "the bigger bone" we seriously undermine the economic structure that supports our schools, churches, businesses and everything else that makes our hometown a great place to live and work.

This community could enjoy greater prosperity and many more social and civic facilities if out-of-town spending were kept in our local economic bloodstream. Shop at home. Don't be a victim of a 1300-year-old fable.

Remember...Charlevoix First!

Rayders get first win

CHRISTMAS OPEN HOUSE

A BIG SUCCESS

With help from the weather, our Christmas Open House was a HUGE success. Congratulations to all those who won gift certificates in the drawing: $300 - Ashlee Carter; $200 - Donna Cross; $100 - John Fraterick and Flo Wojan; $50 - Sue Herzog, Joe Powell, Rod Stevens, Crystal Sweet, Karen Tank and Carol Torres.

To all the businesses who participated - Thanks for a great day! A special thanks to all those who volunteered to make it such a special event: The "Charlevoix" Barbershop Quartet - John Lignell, Bruce Shanahan, Ron Willey, and Byron Wright; Crazy Richard; The Ragamuffins; and the St. Mary's Children's Choir who entertained us as we shopped; Jerry and Vicki Wheat who provided hay rides; and to Charlevoix State Bank for sponsoring the children's movie at Charlevoix Cinema. To all who participated as customers - Thank You for Shopping in Charlevoix!

2002 Board of Directors and Officers Announced

Welcome to the following new members of the Chamber of Commerce Board of Directors: Jacqueline Mabee, The Clothing Company; Joe Maltese, J.R. Maltese Construction; and to Linda Mason, Mason Interiors who was re-elected for a three year term. Other board members are Kurt Haag, Big Rock Point Restoration Project; Joe Hayes, Attorney at Law; Laurie Lesser-Hodgson, LLH Graphics. Congratulations to the 2002 officers Roger Nesburg, Chairman; John Campbell, Vice Chairman, and Maura Snabes, Treasurer. We also want to thank departing members Jim Kanary, Citizens Bank, and Mark Maynard, CPI Products for their service to the Chamber and community.

Business Briefs

Trademark Clothiers and Morning Glory Gifts & Collectibles will be consolidating the apparel and gift businesses into The New Trademark, which will be located in the facilities presently used by Morning Glory at 113 Bridge Street. The New Trademark will continue to feature ladies fine apparel along with high quality gifts and collectibles. It will also continue with tuxedo rentals, Charlevoix Rolyer wear and varsity jackets.

CONGRATULATIONS!

Congratulations to newly promoted Lieutenant J.G. Sam Kasten, and Lieutenant J.G. Marc Van Zetta, from the U.S. Coast Guard Cutter, Acacia. To both of you - may this be the first of many promotions!

Annual Meeting

This year's annual dinner meeting will be held on January 10, 2002, at Grey Gables Restaurant. We'll be presenting the awards for the Outstanding Citizen, Ambassador of the Year, and the Chairman's Award. Sean Ryan will provide his usual outstanding entertainment. We thank the following businesses that have agreed to sponsor the event: Big Rock Point Restoration Project, Blue Cross Blue Shield of Michigan, Charlevoix State Bank, Citizens Bank, and Site Planning Development, Inc. This meeting is open to all members of the Charlevoix Area Chamber of Commerce. Come for a great time, and an outstanding opportunity to meet with your fellow businessmen.

First Friday Business Breakfast

Our first Business Breakfast in 2002 will be Friday, January 4, 2002 at 7:30am at Grey Gables Restaurant. The speaker will be Greg Shumaker, of Wildlife Management and Nuisance Control. Start off the New Year with a great breakfast, excellent speaker, and networking with your fellow businessmen.

Next Retail Committee

The Retail Committee will meet December 20, 2001, 9am at Stafford's Weatherlane Restaurant.

Beach bids in, still over cost

By JULIE WITTHOEFT
Staff Writer

Extensive renovation work is being done at two local beaches, but the work is costing the city more than it anticipated.

A big chunk of the projects at Michigan and Depot beaches are being handled by H & D of Bay Shore. However, in late October when H & D entered their bid, the city found some of the company's estimates were higher than expected.

The high bids entered by H & D prompted city council to deduct a picnic shelter at Michigan Beach and bathroom facilities at both beaches from the project list and re-bid them.

The re-bidding process started in mid-November and produced eight bids which were returned in early December, all of which were again higher than the city had envisioned.

The city found itself short $8,700 for construction of the re-bid items at Michigan Beach and $24,000 for the Depot Beach project.

"We found out the original bids (H & D) were pretty close. We certainly have a competitive market (eight re-bids entered). We did get some reduction, but are still short (on budgeted funds). We (the city administration) feel

We might have snow for holidays

By JEREMY MCBAIN
Editor

According to the National Weather Service, Charlevoix has a slight chance for a white Christmas this year.

"I would still remain optimistic," said Bruce Smith, meteorologist for the National Weather Service.

He said while temperatures are expected to hold slightly above normal until about Christmas, long term weather models show a system might come in around Dec. 25 that will bring significant snow.

Smith stressed that it is difficult to make a prediction a week in advance.

"We are gazing quite a ways into the crystal ball," he said. "It looks like we will have a shot at some snow."

Additionally, he said the Charlevoix area may see some small amounts of snow today and this weekend.

"Neither look like they will be large events," Smith said. Smith added, the area's current lack of snow is due to the jet stream being further south than normal. This is not allowing cold air from Canada into the region.

Roger Nesburg, chairman of the Charlevoix Area Chamber of Commerce Board of Directors, said the weather, in combination with a poor economy, has had an impact on some local businesses.

"Winter sports do bring people north. I sure wish the ski hills were going great guns," he said.

High school implements new rules for gym

By JULIE WITTHOEFT
Staff Writer

Charlevoix's new school will have some new rules.

In less than a year students and staff will move into the new Charlevoix High School on Marion Center Road. To prep students and community members for the new environment school administrators have made some changes.

The Charlevoix High School gym has been a site of soft drink sipping and pizza eating for Raydor sports lovers ever since the indoor concession stand made the change to bottled soft drinks.

But, in the middle of the varsity girls basketball season, high school principal Gary Grundman said the food mess started getting bad. So, the school adopted a new policy banning most foods and all soft drinks from the gym.

Grundman said Slurries and other open containers posed challenges to the custodial staff, as this "sticky stuff" isn't easy to clean up.

At the Dec. 10 school board meeting Dr. John Sturock, superintendent of Charlevoix Public Schools, explained the rationale behind the decision to limit consumption in the gym.

"As we get into the new gym we want to try and protect the facility

"By starting now, we are trying to educate the public as to what the rules will be."

Dr. John Sturock, superintendent of Charlevoix Public Schools

we spent $15 million on. By starting now, we are trying to educate the public as to what the rules will be," he said.

However, not all school board members agreed with the new policy. Barney Way asked high school principal Gary Grundman if administrators weighed the pros and the cons of not allowing the food products when they had been allowed before.

Grundman said after discussing it with the school custodians and reviewing how the new facility should be treated they found it would be best to ease sports fans, students and players into the new system by starting now.

Not all food and drink have been banned from the gym — popcorn and water are allowed. Other food and drink will be sold at sporting events, but they have to be eaten outside of the gym.

Grundman said five people had talked to him about the new policy and all agreed it was the appropriate course of action.

Keith Haske, Charlevoix Middle School principal and varsity boys basketball coach said, "I don't think it's unreasonable just to allow water."

Grundman said other changes relating to food products may also be instated at the new school.

Students are currently permitted to snack and sip soft drinks in the hallways during their open period "seminar," Grundman said, once in the new school this privilege may be revoked to protect the carpet.

OPINIONS

Keep a tragedy from happening

It is reported all too often in the media around the holidays.

The stories are about the same: a driver loses control of his or her vehicle, smashes into another vehicle at a high rate of speed, someone is killed, alcohol was involved, someone goes to jail and a family mourns the loss of a loved one instead of celebrating the season.

The driver could have been coming from a family holiday get-together, an office Christmas party, a romantic holiday dinner with their loved one or a friend's party.

The driver knew he or she drank maybe a little too much, but they felt fine. The driver felt like he or she could drive safely.

But, the driver's reaction time was slower, his or her vision was poorer and they were really not the safe driver they thought they were.

They always find this out too late. Maybe the second before they lose control of the car, maybe right before they realize they are about to get into an accident, maybe before they see the bodies of their passengers or the people in the other car or even maybe right before they close their eyes forever, they realize they were not as sober as they thought.

Too often we in the media have to report on deaths or tragedy that occurs as a result of drinking and driving over the holidays. Too often we have to see the horror that results from it and the pain that is caused by losing loved ones.

And too often do we hear the statement: "I thought I was OK to drive."

We urge our readers as they celebrate the holidays to not drink and drive. Please have fun, but please don't ruin the joy of the holidays for everyone else with a bonhead decision to drive drunk.

Plus, if you see someone about to drive intoxicated, please get a sober driver to take them home. Hide their car keys if you have to, just don't let them drive.

Let's hope the only bells we hear are those of the Christmas season and not of an ambulance rushing to the scene of an accident.

Should dove hunting be allowed in Michigan?

Roger Knutson
'Ear to the ground'

The Michigan legislature is considering a bill to place decisions about what should be legally hunted in Michigan in the hands of a governor-appointed board of the Natural Resources Commission.

Now on the surface that doesn't sound like a bad idea, but all the debate has been about whether this is a sneaky way of making it possible to hunt doves in Michigan.

Apparently the opponents of the bill under consideration is convinced the Natural Resources Commission favors dove hunting and will initiate it as soon as they are able. Those same opponents feel the legislature, as representatives of the people of Michigan, should make decisions about what is to be legal game in the state.

The debate about doves has quickly polarized into two camps. One camp says hunting is a good and healthy outdoor sport which leads the hunter into a greater appreciation for and support of the environment generally. The opposing camp says, "Why should anyone be allowed to shoot those gentle birds?" Clearly, there is no compromise in the offing. Some factual information may help us all move toward compromise. We already legally hunt more than 14 species of birds in Michigan. The bird in question is the gray mourning dove, not the pigeon or other birds that might be called doves.

The normal mortality rate for the mourning dove is such that for every 100 birds born, only 13 or 14 survive for two years. That means that they have a reproductive rate that is far above the capacity of any environment to support it.

Doves are no more gentle than other less favored birds and no bird or animal has the sort of human characteristics that we like to give them. They are just doves: They are not kind or gentle or loving or caring. They are birds doing what they must do to survive and produce offspring. The numbers of doves in the state of Michigan will in no way be affected by hunting.

Should dove hunting be decided by a majority vote of either the people of Michigan or their representatives? Hunters are, and will be in the future, an increasingly small minority of Michigan residents and, if hunting as a legal activity is to survive decisions like these, the decision will have to be made by something other than a majority vote.

I hesitate to think of what the outcome of a statewide vote on deer hunting might be. Even deer hunters in their millions are a minority of the voters in the state.

Will many people hunt doves in Michigan? Almost certainly not. Is that a reason to prohibit dove hunting? Almost certainly not.

Both snipe and rails are legally hunted in Michigan and both are much more rare than mourning doves. If put to a vote now do you suppose a majority of people in or out of the legislature would support the hunting of rails and snipe? Most people do not even know what a rail or a snipe is. I was for many years a dedicated hunter of rails and snipe in Iowa, one of three such hunters I knew of in the state.

I don't know if I would hunt doves in Michigan. I understand they are quite tasty and not all that easy to shoot. They fly fast and erratically. I do know that hunting doves in Michigan would have no effect on the numbers of the birds and that people who might not otherwise spend much time outdoors might do so in pursuit of doves.

Tell your legislator that you support both dove hunting in Michigan and the bill to put those decisions in the hands of the Natural Resources Commission and away from the legislature. The legislation is HB 5478.

Crooked Tree gets large grant

The Crooked Tree Arts Center's capital campaign, Building on our Heritage, was awarded a grant of $52,500 recently at the Fiscal Year 2002 Grant Award meeting of the Michigan Council for Arts and Cultural Affairs (MCACA).

A special project, titled CTV Grants, entitles any city, township, village, county or recognized municipality to submit a grant on behalf of an arts organization within their jurisdiction. Emmet County wrote a grant to support the restoration and expansion project for the arts center's building on the corner of Mitchell and Division streets in downtown Petoskey.

Crooked Tree Arts Center's director, Dale Hull and development director Donna McDougall attended the public meeting of the MCACA of the Department of History, Arts and Libraries in Lansing.

"This is a wonderful example of how arts organizations can bring state dollars back to their hometowns," said Hull.

Support for the campaign has been received from businesses, government agencies, foundations and individuals.

When Bob and Mary Pew, summer residents of Charlevoix, were asked why they pledged their support to the project, Bob Pew said, "Mary and I are interested in the community and in the arts as a whole ... music, dance and all the rest. An emphasis on Arts in Education programs is what drew us to support the programs of Crooked Tree Arts Center, and we are very impressed with the total arts program there. The arts foster a certain level of sensitivity and civility in life."

Crooked Tree Arts Center announced the public portion of the campaign to raise the remainder of the goal of $4 million of the Building on our Heritage Capital Campaign in June of 2001. Architectural plans for the restoration and expansion for the facility were disclosed at a press conference on June 26 and are on display at the arts center.

Pledges, cash, grants and gifts in-kind total over $3,300,000 as of Dec. 14.

A $400,000 challenge grant from the Kresge Foundation was also awarded in June. To receive this challenge grant, the goal of $4 million dollars must be met within 18 months. The arts center is actively seeking the remaining $700,000 and is accepting donations and pledges for the Building on the Heritage Capital Campaign.

Restoration plans of the 110-year-old structure include returning the exterior of the building to its original state including the removal of the aluminum siding. The original Victorian color scheme will echo the most recent work on the restored landmark tower. A ramp will be added to the Division Street main entrance for greater accessibility. Interior flow of the building will be redesigned with the addition of an elevator and repositioning of staircases. An exhibition hall will be added on the main floor with a new dance studio directly below on the lower level. For comfort of visitors and to meet exhibition standards, a climate controlled environment is an integral portion of the plans. Programming will be expanded and improved, including new music studios, art room and pottery lab.

For more information regarding the capital campaign please contact Dale Hull at the Crooked Tree Arts Center. The arts center is located at 461 E. Mitchell Street, in downtown Petoskey. The telephone number is (231) 347-4337.

Library story time

Over 20 children and adults gathered in the basement of the Charlevoix Public Library for a "Winter Celebration" from 10:30 to 11:30 a.m., Dec. 15. Patti Clark presented stories and songs. Children even did a few crafts before snacking on cookies and sipping on punch. Here Clark acts as "Mother Goose" as she tells the children the tale of a boy named Ivan who lost his red glove in the woods. The animals of the forest made it a home. (Photo by Julie Witthoef)

Weddings

Keem — Smith

Michelle Marie Keem and Keith N. Smith were married on July 21, 2001 at the Michigan State University Alumni Chapel in East Lansing.

The Rev. Kelly Chapman performed the ceremony. The bride is the daughter of Mike and Mary Keem of Charlevoix. The groom's parents are Chuck and Sally Smith, formerly of Petoskey.

The maid of honor was Amie Livingston and bridesmaids were Terah Lamer, Cathy Craig, Amy (Smith) Reno and Sarah (Moore) Campbell.

The best man was Marshal Perkins and groomsmen were Mike Tesch, Brandon Oaks, Jeff Reno, Vince Fratinardo and Steve Applebee.

Ushers were Bryan Keem and Ben Caine. Readers were Todd and Tonya Rebiag. Jake Porath provided a flute solo.

The reception was at the Michigan State University student union parlor with special guest, Sparty. The wedding cake was made by Frances Cuthbertson, grandmother of the groom. The flowers were provided by Craig Stelivriede, uncle of the groom.

The couple spent their honeymoon in Maine and Nova Scotia. They are residing in Flint.

Michelle is currently employed as a clinical dietitian. Keith is a chemistry teacher at Grand Blanc High School.

Editor's note: Due to an error, we are republishing the wedding announcement for Keem — Smith.

Gagnon — Wegener

Cheryl Ann Gagnon, of Charlevoix and Farmington Hills, and Robert Andrew Wegener, of Farmington Hills, were married Aug. 18 at St. Mary's Church in Charlevoix.

Cheryl is the daughter of Carol and John Gagnon, of Charlevoix. Robert is the son of Robert and Shirley Wegener, of Kawkawlin.

The Father Thomas Neis performed the double ring rites.

The bride wore a modern strapless A-line gown in candlelight ivory with a sautache lace design, covered buttons and a chapel-length train with a fly-away veil. Her bouquet was made of black beauty roses, burgundy snaps, deep purple lis, purple stock and deep greenery.

The maid of honor was Mary Beth Gagnon, sister of the bride. Bridesmaids were Shelly Thompson, Kelly Prime and Susan Elder.

They wore floor length wine-colored gowns with spaghetti straps with embroidered waists.

Sarah Addy and Emmy Irwin were the flower girls. Spencer Hardy was the ring bearer.

The best man was Bob Wegener, father of the groom. Groomsmen were Rodney Hardy, Todd Dillon and David Gagnon.

John Rathjens and Erik Kunze were the ushers.

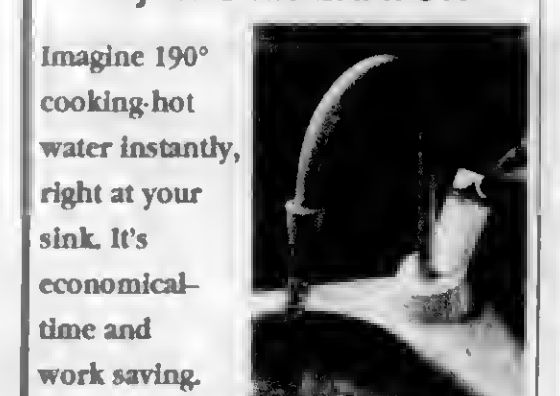

A reception was given at the Knights of Columbus Hall in Petoskey. The couple took a six day wedding trip to Alaska.

They are making Farmington Hills their home.

The bride is a graduate of Western Michigan University and is a high school English teacher in Brighton. The groom is a graduate of Alma College and is the IT manager for DaimlerChrysler in Southfield.

Vera Irene Hallman: March 25, 1925 - Dec. 17, 2001

Vera Irene Hallman, 76, of Huntington, Ind. and formerly of Charlevoix, died Dec. 17, 2001.

Vera was born on March 25, 1925 in Indiana to Elisha and Irene Murlin Losh.

She was a graduate of Jackson Township High School in Wells County, Ind. She lived her early years in Wells County before moving to Michigan where she was a secretary with Consumer Power Company in Charlevoix.

She returned to Indiana in October 2001 due to health.

Vera was married to Frank Hallman on Jan. 1, 1981 in Michigan. She had five stepchildren. Her husband preceded her in death.

She was a member of the Horton Bay United Methodist Church.

Vera has one sister, Dorothea Hensley, of Muncie, Ind.

A memorial service will be planned for a later date. Burial will be at Lake Forrest Cemetery in Grand Haven.

Mary Ewing: Feb. 19, 1906 - Dec. 7, 2001

Mary Ewing, 95, of Fort Myers, Fla. and Charlevoix's Sequanota Club, died Dec. 7, 2001 at the Pavilion, Shell Pointe Village, Fla.

She was born in Macomb, Ill., Feb. 19, 1906 to James and E. L. a. n. o. r (Eads) Bailey and married H. e. n. r. y Dewey Ewing on May 11, 1928. He died Dec. 30, 1986 in Fort Myers.

She is survived by one son, Jack (Virginia) Ewing of Macomb, Ill. and one daughter, Harriet (Brian) Harburn of Seattle, Wash. A brother, Albert, preceded her in death.

Mrs. Ewing graduated from Western Illinois State Teachers College Training School, 1923, and Knox College, Cum Laude, 1927. She was employed as vice-president, marketing and public relations at Union National Bank from 1956 to 1983 and also served as a board member from 1950 to 1983. Further she served as a board member of the State Bank of Industry in Illinois from 1950 to 1983.

Mrs. Ewing was very active in the community. She was a board member of the American Association of University Women; treasurer, trustee and president of Women's Organization of the First Presbyterian Church; founding member and on Advisory Committee of Girl Scouts; board member Home for the Aging of PEO; trustee of the Iowa Wesleyan College in Mount Pleasant; class chairman for alumni of Knox College; board member of the McDonough County Heart Association, McDonough County Tuberculosis Association, McDonough County Welfare Services Committee and Wesley Village; life member of the Advisory Board for the Salvation Army of Macomb; chair of the Illinois Advisory Council for Small Business Administration; member of Macomb Beautiful and co-chair of the 1982 United Way Campaign.

In 1956 she received the Macomb Chamber of Commerce Outstanding Citizen Award. On the national level, she was a delegate to the White House Conference on Children and Youth and co-founded the National Association of Banking Women.

Mrs. Ewing also supported Western Illinois University. She was on the Advisory Board to the President (Leslie Malpass); funded, along with her husband, the Mary B. Ewing and H.D. Ewing Scholarship and aided the Western Illinois University Museum. She and Dewey received the coveted Macomb Chamber of Commerce and the College of Business Recognition Award in 1975.

Her past memberships include Altrusa, charter member; American Association of University Women; Fortnightly; League of Women Voters; McDonough County Historical Society; War Dads Auxiliary; XXMD Club; McDonough District Hospital Auxiliary; PEO and Tri Delta Sorority.

Mrs. Ewing will be cremated in Fort Myers, Fla. and buried at a later date in the Oakwood Cemetery in Macomb. At her request no services are planned.

Memorials may be made to the charity of one's choice.

Lucile J. Martin: Oct. 15, 1915 - Dec. 8, 2001

Lucile J. Martin of Cary, N.C., and formerly of Charlevoix, died Dec. 8, 2001 at the Glenaire retirement community in Cary, N.C.

A funeral will take place at 11 a.m., Jan. 10 at the First Congregational Church in Charlevoix. The Rev. Nancy Rohde will officiate and burial will be in Brookside Cemetery in Charlevoix.

Lucy was born in Detroit on Oct. 15, 1915, the daughter of Roy E. and Ethel (Ayers) Gustafson. In 1938 she earned a bachelor of arts degree from North Central Michigan College in Naperville, Ill., and later earned her certification in library science at Central Michigan University in Mount Pleasant.

She married Robert G. Martin, M.D., on July 10, 1940 in Detroit where they made their home. They later moved to New Jersey and then to Cheboygan before settling in Charlevoix in 1954. Bob preceded her in death on March 11, 1996 and Lucy moved to Cary, N.C. in 1997 to be near her two children.

Lucy was employed by Charlevoix Public Schools from 1957 until 1979, first as a high school English and speech teacher and later as the middle school librarian.

She was a member of the First Congregational Church and its Pilgrim Circle, where she is still an associate member. She helped establish the Charlevoix Community Food Pantry and was a Girl Scout leader for several years. Lucy was also a member of White Plains United Methodist Church in Cary.

Lucy is survived by her daughters, Ann (Maynard) Sherwin of Raleigh and Elaine (John St. Laurent) Martin of Naperville, Ill.; son, Paul (Beth Gilbert) Martin of Superior, Wis.; grandchildren, Cynthia (Matthew) Gresham of Houston, Texas, Craig (Alecia) Sherwin of St. Paul, Minn., Monique St. Laurent of Portland, Ore., Caroline Martin of Raleigh and Kristin Martin of Superior, Wis.; brother, Roy J. (Jeanne) Gustafson of Ypsilanti; sister Elinor (Lloyd) Vincent of Phoenix, Ariz.; and many loving nieces and nephews. Lucy was also preceded in death by a granddaughter, Adele St. Laurent who died in 1984.

Memorial contributions may be made to the First Congregational Church in Charlevoix. Visitation will take place from 7 p.m. to 9 p.m., Jan. 9 at the Winchester Funeral Home in Charlevoix.

BUSINESS

Local company doubles its size with expansion

By JEREMY MCBAIN
Editor

Seeing a need for more room and a boom in business, DCL, of Charlevoix, added 24,000 square feet to its building and is hoping to increase its workforce by 10.

Reinhard Matye, president of the company located in the Charlevoix Industrial Park, said the expansion was needed for several years.

"We were running out of room. We were spending much of every day moving things in and out of the way so we could do business," he said.

In addition to this space constraint, the company was also seeing an increase in business, according to Tim English, sales manager for DCL.

"We saw a need to increase our product capacity and capabilities. Customers wanted larger and bigger equipment," he said.

So, the company started an expansion project in late 2000 that would double the size of its building. The new expansion was completed this fall.

This is not the first expansion DCL has seen since it started in 1981.

Matye said when the building was purchased for the business, it was only 6,400 square feet. In 1990, another 12,000 was added.

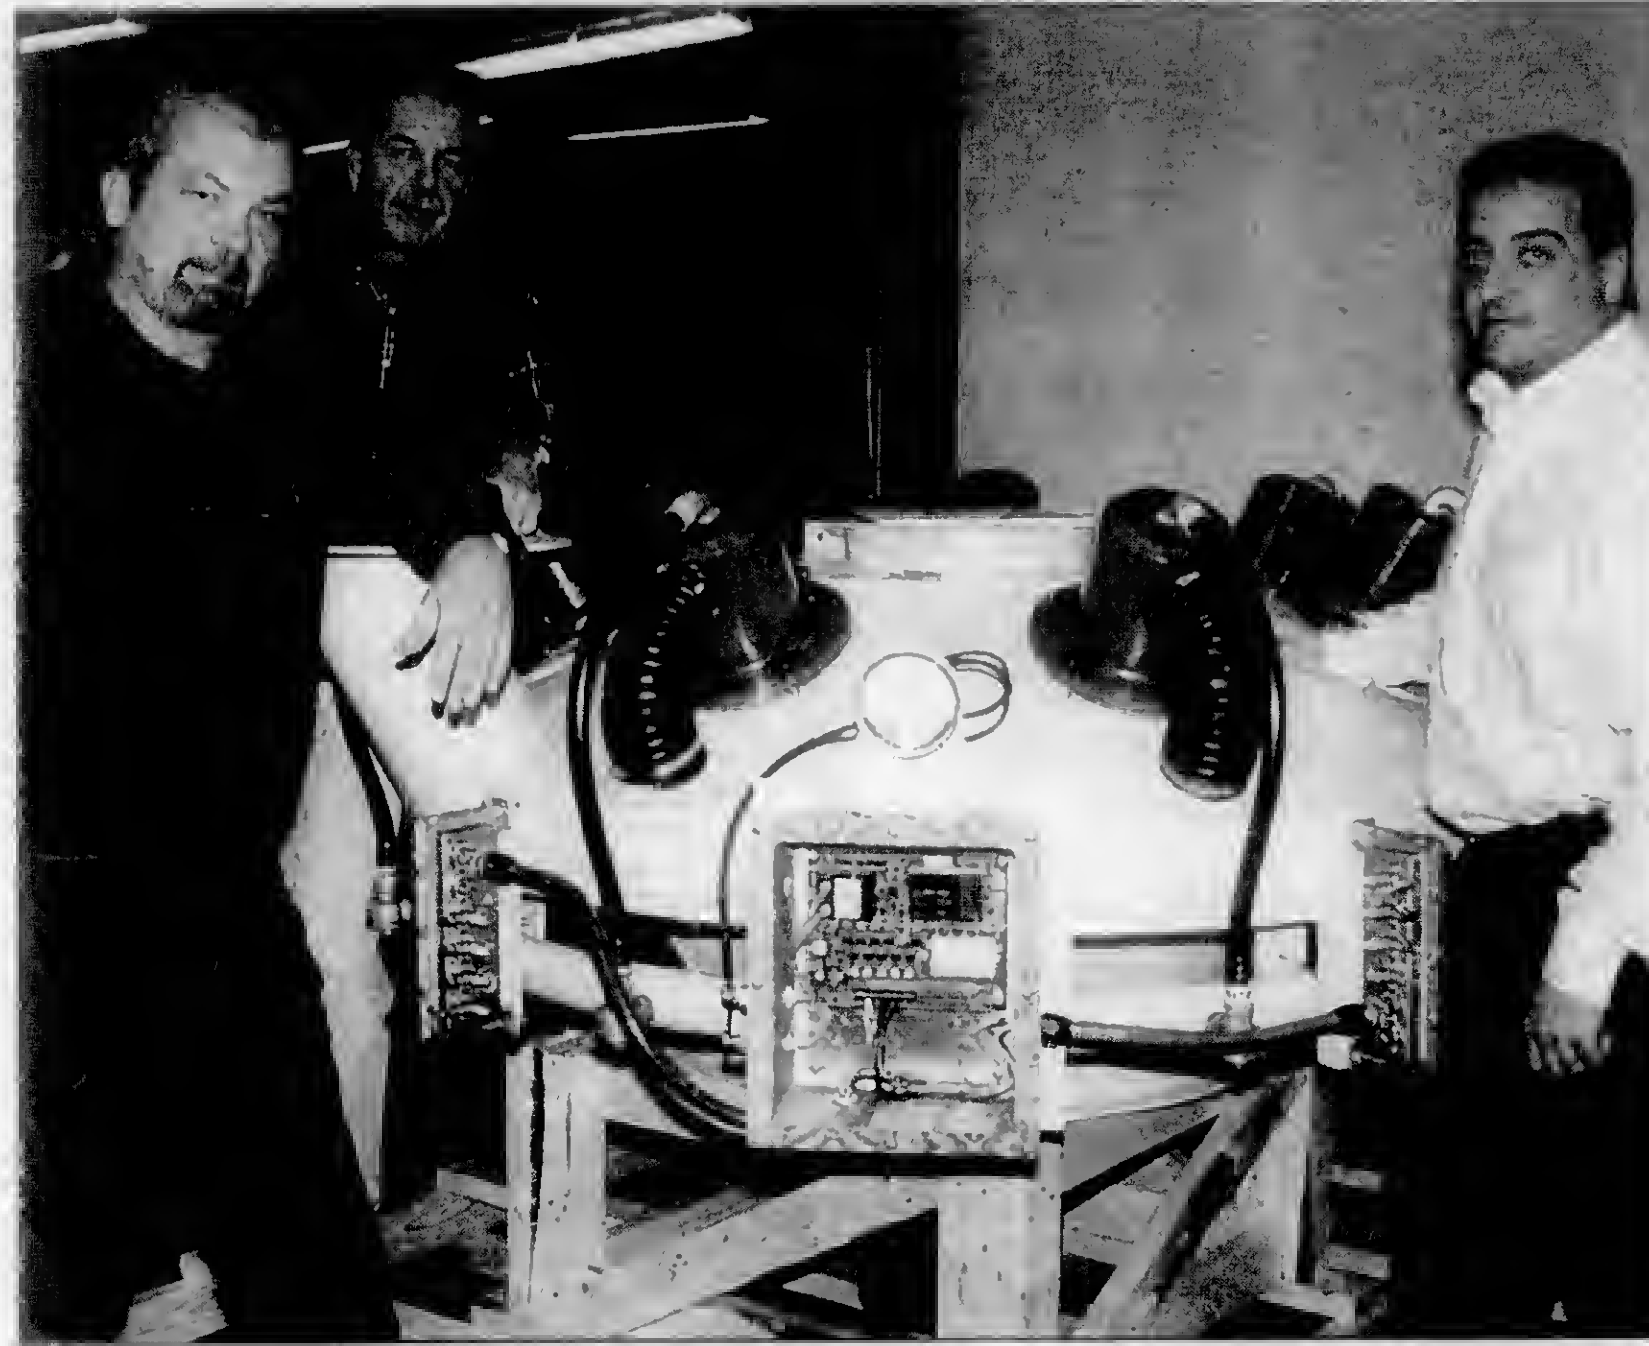

With the additional 24,000 square feet, the building is up to 42,000 square feet. DCL also has a total of 46 employees.

So how does a company experience growth during a recession? Matye said it is timing.

"We serve the right industry at the right time," he said. This is because the company deals with a lot of cement and building trades companies, during a time when there is a lot of construction taking place throughout the world.

Additionally, Matye said the company spends a lot of its resources on research and development of new products, which adds to its growth.

DCL — also known as Dust Control and Loading Systems — manufactures equipment used in the handling of dry bulk materials, such as cement, coal and grain. The company has five product lines, orders from around the world and a new manufacturing plant in India.

Office space planned for former church property

By JULIE WITTHOEFT
Staff Writer

The site where the parish of Charlevoix's Bethany Lutheran Church used to congregate and worship will soon be office space.

The church started a construction project at a new site located off US-31 North across from the community pool last year. The project increased their available space from roughly 2,500 square feet to almost 11,000 square feet.

William H. McNaughton of Burr Ridge, Ill., and East Jordan closed on the former Bethany Lutheran Church, located at 1403 Bridge Street, Dec. 18.

McNaughton plans to start demolishing the church in February.

Ed Amick, co-owner of Amick Lakeside Realtors and leasing agent for the office facility to be located at the old church site, said McNaughton is planning to start building at the site in April. Amick said both he and McNaughton hope to have construction completed in August 2002.

McNaughton has proposed to construct a one story, 10 suite office building at the one acre site.

The office facility McNaughton calls "Woodland Park" will contain around 12,357 square feet of floor area with 10,503 square feet of usable floor area.

Amick said, "I took a look around and saw what appears to be substandard office space and what I perceive to be a need for some upscale ground floor office space which prompted us (McNaughton and Amick) to do the project."

The local zoning ordinance requires a building of the dimensions proposed to have 53 parking spaces available and McNaughton has shown his intention to provide 57.

The Charlevoix City Planning Commission recommended certain conditions apply to the property. These include: not stacking snow in the parking lot and only removing snow from 6 a.m. to 1 p.m. so as not to disturb the nearby residential zone.

The office uses are restricted to business/professional offices unless it's demonstrated that there's sufficient parking for other uses. Amick said this means no offices can be leased for retail at this time.

The building at the site McNaughton purchased was built in 1948.

Bethany Lutheran Church Pastor Mike Teuscher said the parish will be moving into the new facility after Christmas. This year, they will celebrate their last Christmas at the old site. Teuscher said they plan to open the new year at a new church. He added the move will most likely begin Dec. 26 and 27.

Teuscher said the decision to relocate involved a number of factors including: the need for more space and a newer facility. He expects a dedication service will take place in late January or early February. The church is waiting for sanctuary furnishings to come in, the furnishings are expected to arrive in mid January.

Nov. 12 the Charlevoix Planning Commission voted to recommend city council approve the development plan review.

At the meeting the commission found the plan complies with the city zoning ordinance, proposes no negative impacts and flows with the surrounding uses.

Amick said he hopes Woodland Park will open the door for new businesses to locate in the city.

County decides not to plow on weekends

By JULIE WITTHOEFT
Staff Writer

Statewide funding cuts hit the Charlevoix County Road Commission's operating budget hard forcing cutbacks in weekend plow service for the 2001-2002 winter.

"We have to cut somewhere, the money is less than last year and we can't keep doing the things we have been," Charlevoix County Road Commission Manager Pat Harmon said.

"I felt there would be a considerable costs savings by cutting the secondary road system (from the plow schedule) on weekends."

At the Dec. 10 meeting of the road commission Harmon recommended that this winter "local roads" not be plowed during ordinary weekend snows. Harmon said the commission supported the cutback.

"Under normal snowfall, we won't plow local roads. If there is four inches of light, fluffy snow on a local road on a Saturday morning, it won't be plowed. If we have a major snowfall, a foot or 14 inches over the weekend, we are all going to work — our guys will be there," he assured.

County plows will also clear roads for emergency situations. But most of the 370 miles designated "local roads" won't be plowed during winter weekends.

The 34 employees who work for the commission will continue to maintain the county's 75 miles of state highway, its over 183 miles of primary roads and a few miles of its local roads.

Harmon said there are between 10 and 12 roads classified as local roads that function as primary roads and these 10 to 12 will be serviced as primary roads.

Some of these primary/local roads include: Bay Township's Camp Daggett Road, Ridge Road near Eveline Township, Charlevoix Township's Waller and Mt. McSauba roads and Behling Road in Wilson Township.

This winter's policy is not entirely new. Harmon said when he started with the commission in 1986 the only roads that were always plowed on the weekends were state highways and main primaries.

He said in the last three to four years the Charlevoix County Commissioners voted to increase the winter plow coverage area in an effort to offer residents and visitors "the best service possible."

However, the best service possible recently became impossible to offer.

The county road commission was informed of an executive order issued by Governor John Engler that took away Michigan Transportation Fund money from counties across the state. Engler made the order in an effort to balance the state budget.

Harmon said the order cut $85,000 of the commission's operating budget.

The local commission's total budget is $3 million.

Harmon said the state cuts weren't the only unexpected loss in revenue this year. He explained an increase in salt costs has also hit hard.

Salt for the 2001-2002 winter season went up $10 a ton over last year. The commission carries between 1,500 and 2,000 ton at each of its three garages which are located in Boyne City and Charlevoix and on Beaver Island.

Harmon said the decision to make cuts now was also made to accommodate some of the county's townships in the spring and summer.

He explained 10 of the 15 townships in Charlevoix County have a road millage to raise money for road improvements. And, this money is supplemented by the road commission in a cost share.

"I didn't want to get caught. I felt it was more important in the spring to participate with the townships in road projects. If we spend a bunch of money this winter, in the spring we would have to say we can't cost share on road improvements. I wanted money left in the budget to continue these policies with the townships next summer," Harmon explained.

Harmon added that the commission has saved money so far this winter as snow hasn't really fallen in Charlevoix County. But, he isn't counting this winter as a snow free fluke just yet.

"I've seen winters like this, when it finally starts snowing and it won't stop for 30 days. There's plenty of time left between now and the end of March," he said.

The Emmet County Road Commission also voted to eliminate routine plowing of local roads on weekends.

Masonic Lodge installs officers

The Charlevoix Masonic Lodge 282, installed its new officers for 2002 on Dec. 8.

A special meeting was given that evening to install the officers. It was open to friends and family.

Dr. James Stewart was the installing officer, Charles Davis was the installing secretary, Donald Bowers was the installing marshal and Thomas Carr was the installing chaplain.

Those installed were: worshipful master — Roger Silvertson; senior warden — Richard Sayward; junior warden — William Block; treasurer — John Taylor; secretary — Robert Kelly; senior deacon — Tony Lee; junior deacon — Russell Brown; chaplain — Scott Kelly; senior steward — Ervin Barrett; junior steward — Sam Wilcenski; tyler — David Smith and marshal — Donald Bowers.

After the guests were introduced, all retired to the dining room for refreshments.

The lodge meets, beginning with a 6:30 p.m. dinner served by the Charlevoix Eastern Star, on the second Tuesday of each month. It was chartered in 1871.

The lodge currently has a membership of 121, counting both life members and regular members. Men must be a Mason before they can be a Shriner.

To become a Mason, just ask one. But you must be at least 21 years old. For further information, call 547-9078.

Thank You

On behalf of Charlevoix Public School, Board of Education, and Charlevoix Sports Boosters, we would like to express our gratitude for the donation of time and equipment from Charlevoix Electric and Way Transportation and for a task well done in moving a new second story press box located at Kipke field. Mr. Brian Certa's High School Construction class constructed the press box and will now work on the interior renovation.

In speaking with Mr. Certa, he said that the owner of Charlevoix Electric, Ivan Witthoeft was very helpful in not only lifting the structure but was instrumental in setting up the whole process and I am thankful for that.

Both Ivan and the people of Charlevoix Electric and DJ Way of Way Transportation are to be commended for the support of the school and our community.

Middle school getting ready to move

By JULIE WITTHOEFT
Staff Writer

The move to the new Charlevoix High School in Marion Township, scheduled for fall 2002, promises changes for all students in the Charlevoix School District.

Fifth grade students currently attend classes at Charlevoix Elementary School. But, starting in the fall they too will make a move. The fifth grade will join the middle school students making the middle school program one that serves grades five through eight.

This change will open up space at the elementary school which will get rid of its portable classrooms.

All middle school students will move from their current facility, located at 204 Grant Street, into the old high school located at 108 East Garfield, leaving their current facility vacant.

Superintendent of Charlevoix Public Schools, Dr. John Sturock said the future of the Grant Street middle school building is uncertain.

"We are getting the building appraised right now. Then the building and grounds committee will sit down and figure out a process," he said.

Charlevoix Middle School principal Keith Haske estimated the middle school will have 440 students next year.

"We fit right into the school (the old high school), pretty much like a glove," he said.

Haske met with Bret Croneline, an architect with BETA Design — the company handling the design

"We fit right into the school (the old high school) pretty much like a glove."

Keith Haske,
Charlevoix Middle School principal of the new high school, to see what changes need to be made to the old high school to accommodate the needs of middle school students.

Haske said the two decided on minimal renovations to the facility, but came up with some ideas to augment the students' learning environment.

He said the middle school is currently looking into doing more team teaching and he suggested the addition of doors in between two rooms to make them adjoi-ing.

As they toured the site Haske highlighted one of its many benefits — increased space.

"Most of the rooms are bigger — the shop room, the art room, the cafeteria, the gym. Overall it will be more roomy," he said.

Some of the most exciting space is green. Haske said increased outdoor open space will allow for the construction of a playground.

He's also excited about the prospect of having a large group gathering area, with the current high school study hall room. This will be utilized for instruction of large groups.

He said this room used to have a stage that came out from the rear wall which he hopes to have reinstalled to benefit a performing arts program at the school.

He's also looking forward to picking up another computer lab that teachers will have the opportunity to check out throughout the day.

The middle school will also be expanding their technological opportunities. Haske said the plan is to install a technology lab to be used for career planning classes.

This is Haske's first year as a principal. He said thus far, it has been a success.

"It's really been fun. The kids are fun to be around," he said.

Jeff Haas Trio to be at Crooked Tree Arts Center

The Crooked Tree Arts Center will host the Jeff Haas Trio at 8 p.m., Jan. 11 and 12 in the Ross Stokes Theater.

The group will be featuring Chuck Hall on bass and Alex Trajano on drums with new original music and some very hip arrangements of jazz classics.

"There is magic in a performance and we see it every time Jeff Haas comes to Crooked Tree Arts Center and fills our house with his special brand of jazz. For two years in a row we've had packed houses, so I suggest you get your tickets now. I've got mine," said Dale Hull, director of the Crooked Tree Arts Center.

Joining Haas for tunes from Ellington, Monk and Irving Berlin are special guests, legendary sax man George Benson and Chicago vibraphonist Jim Cooper.

Benson's resume reads like a who's who of jazz including extended stints with Ella Fitzgerald, Dinah Washington, Errol Garner and Tony Bennett. During the Golden Age of Motown in the 1960s, he was the featured soloist with all the great Motown groups, including the Temptations, Four Tops, Supremes, Marvin Gaye and Stevie Wonder.

Cooper is one of the handful of first call vibraphonists in the country having performed and recorded with a long list of jazz notables. Also joining Haas and his trio will be regulars multi-instrumentalist Rob Smith and percussionist John Alfieri.

Haas, pianist/composer, began receiving national attention in 1996 with his unique blend of Jewish, African-American and European musical traditions.

Combining his passion for two musical traditions and classical music, he has developed a very personal and fascinating musical style. The musicians who join Jeff on stage are incredibly talented and quite well traveled.

Hall, a regular with the Trio since 1992, has performed with jazz legends Dizzy Gillespie, Johnny Griffin and Freddie Hubbard. Smith tours regularly with the Woody Herman Band and was a featured artist on their recent Live in London CD. He is a professor of music at Central Michigan University. Trajano, the newest member of the Trio, performs with a wide variety of groups. Alfieri, an instructor at Interlochen Arts Academy has performed throughout the country with the Eastman Jazz Ensemble.

Jazz enthusiasts can meet the musicians during an afterglow on Friday evening, following the performance.

The Crooked Tree Arts Center is located in downtown Petoskey at 461 E. Mitchell Street. The phone number is (231) 347-4337. Ticket prices are $20 for adults and $8 for students. The box office is open 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. Monday-Friday, and 11 a.m. to 4 p.m. on Saturday.

Let's talk about money...and how to keep it working for us at home.

Money is beautiful stuff to look at...not so much for the artistic design, but because the sight of it reminds us of the many pleasing things it can do for us.

Yet, if we're not careful how we handle it, we may thoughtlessly cheat ourselves out of some of the finer things our money can bring us. Our schools, churches, our homes and our jobs depend on dollars spent in our community.

When we shop at home we get everything our money pays for in goods and services plus a lot more. We also share the benefits of better business, better jobs and better living with our friends.

Coast Guard warning of winter weather dangers

The U.S. Coast Guard recently warned boaters and sportsmen of the dangers of cold water and the rapidly changing weather of the Great Lakes.

While the weather may be mild, it may be misleading some boaters, fishermen and hunters into a false sense of security, the Coast Guard said in a press release. Every year, outdoor enthusiasts become victims of cold water's greatest danger — hypothermia and rapid changes in the weather.

Hypothermia becomes the biggest danger after a person enters the water. It begins to set in quickly as the body's core temperature drops below 95 degrees.

One of the keys to increasing your chance of survival is wearing a personal flotation device, such as a lifejacket or survival suit, the Coast Guard said.

If you find yourself in the water, your first concern is to get out as fast as possible. If there is no way of exiting the water, then try to get as much of your body out as you can, by climbing onto any debris or floating objects.

Get help as soon as possible.

In addition, everybody who lives on the Great Lakes knows how fast the weather can change. If you are not ready on the water, it can be deadly.

The biggest threat this time of year are the gales that sweep the water out of the shallows, leaving boaters and hunters stranded on mud flats, the Coast Guard said. These gales normally bring foul weather and a drop in temperature, making hypothermia a real threat.

The Coast Guard is suggesting these items when boating on cold waters: A cold weather survival suit, a marine band radio or cellular phone — carried in a waterproof, zip-style bag — and a strobe or chemical light and signaling device, such as a whistle.

Council member gets beach project bid

we can budget for this in the upcoming budget and feel we should proceed," city manager Mike Wiesner said to council at its Dec. 17 meeting.

Second ward councilman Gabe Campbell moved to award the entire project to low-bidder, Carlson Home Improvements, a Charlevoix based building company owned by first ward councilman Norman "Boogie" Carlson.

Carlson and first ward councilman Bill Haggard abstained from the vote.

H & D's original bid to reconstruct the concession/bathroom building at Michigan Beach was $101,390. The city estimated the re-bid amount for the building would be $86,181.50.

Their estimates were about $10,000 low. Carlson agreed to construct the new concession/bathroom facility at Michigan Beach for $96,429.66.

The second piece removed from H & D's Michigan Beach project list was a picnic shelter, 28 feet by 34 feet. Carlson bid the shelter at $44,679.86.

H & D is being paid $347,594.04 for their work at Michigan Beach and the side projects that were re-bid to Carlson are costing the city an additional $141,109.52. For a Michigan Beach total of $488,703.56, engineering costs are not part of this figure.

The city originally budgeted $136,782 from its Lake Michigan Public Improvements Fund to be allocated to the Lake Michigan Beach project and Charlevoix's Downtown Development Authority offered up almost $100,000 for the project. Adding to the city dollars are those of two granting agencies, the Department of Natural Resources Trust Fund and the Coastal Zone, who combined to offer the city just short of $300,000 to spruce things up at Michigan Beach.

All these funding sources combined for $522,182 in estimated funds for the project.

H & D estimated its cost for constructing a bathroom facility at Depot Beach to be $105,000. During the re-bid Carlson said he could construct the building for $92,311.99. He will also be installing some sidewalks at the site. Carlson documented his total cost at Depot Beach to be $99,603.99.

Even though the bid was below H & D's it still left the city $24,000 short.

Council agreed to fund the $32,700 shortage for Michigan and Depot beaches in the 2002-2003 budget year.

Carlson said the contract states work on the project must begin within 10 days of signing. He plans to start the Michigan Beach bathroom/concession stand first and then, when the winter weather breaks, he will get started on the picnic shelter at Michigan Beach and the bathroom facility at Depot Beach.

Trademark, Morning Glory to consolidate into one store

By JULIE WITTHOEFT
Staff Writer

Jan. 1 will mark the moving date of a long standing business in downtown Charlevoix and the expansion of another.

Trademark Clothiers, a local men's and women's clothing and accessory retailer, has been a fixture at 221 Bridge Street for over two decades. But according to Barney and Kris Way, Charlevoix residents and owners of the store since 1996, "business reasons" have put an end to it.

"We are consolidating for business purposes," Barney said.

The couple made the decision to end operations at the current Trademark Clothiers location in mid October after building lease rates increased. Building owner Fred Dimartino, who started Trademark Clothiers in 1980, said he did increase the rent at the site.

Other factors also played a role in their decision to close up shop including the difficulties they face in operating two businesses downtown. Aside from Trademark Clothiers, Kris and Barney own and operate Morning Glory Gifts at 113 Bridge Street. And, out of town, Barney is co-owner of Dry Harbor Motor Sports.

They explained by scaling operations back to one store they will decrease their overhead costs and limit summer scheduling and personnel issues.

"I think we can provide a better single store than two stores, with more personal service," Kris said.

But they stressed the primary benefit they see to operating one store downtown is increased time to focus on their family — they have five children.

"I want to be more involved in their (their children's) lives," she said.

So, rather than throwing in the retail towel, the two have opted to consolidate under the name, Trademark. Trademark will be located at the Morning Glory building which Kris and Barney own.

The consolidated store, Trademark, will not offer men's apparel as Trademark Clothiers did, but will offer accessories for men including hats, wallets and belts. Their inventory of fine women's apparel will continue at the new site.

Kris said many concerned residents have asked about Rayder school wear that Trademark Clothiers once specialized in.

HEALTH

The causes, treatments of headaches in children

Roderic Tinney, M.D.

'Your health'

To many parent's surprise headaches are quite common in children. In fact children as young as 1 year have been reported to develop migraine. While occasionally a headache may indicate serious disease such as tumor or infection, the majority of children with headache are generally in good health.

Common causes of headache in children include minor viral illnesses, strep throat and sinus infection. Recurrent headaches are often migraine or psychogenic (stress) headaches. Poor vision which parents usually worry about is a very rare cause of headache in children. Fortunately life threatening causes of headache in children such as tumors and meningitis are rare and usually can be determined by the history and physical exam.

Migraine is one of the most common causes of recurrent headache in children and by definition is recurrent with symptom free intervals. Migraine in children will often have associated abdominal pain, nausea and/or vomiting. It is often a throbbing headache located on one side of the head although children will often be unable to describe it that precisely. Older children may describe an aura or strange feeling, visual changes, flashing lights or the Alice in Wonderland syndrome where things appear bigger or smaller than they actually are. Parents may describe younger children as being pale, "acting strange" or unsteady before or during a migraine.

Migraines are usually relieved by sleep and sometimes by vomiting and there will be a family history of recurrent headaches in most cases.

Migraines occur in about 5 percent of school age children.

Interestingly in younger children (less than 10) boys are more apt to develop migraine, whereas they occur more commonly in girls during adolescence and adulthood. At least half of all boys who develop migraine in early childhood will stop having them after 10 years of age.

The exact cause of migraine remains unknown. The pain appears to come from the blood vessels in the head (the brain itself actually has no pain receptors) and there is a definite genetic tendency (if you have migraines your children are a lot more likely to). Women often find hormonal changes precipitate migraine. Other precipitants include certain foods (for some), stress, physical activity, loud noise (concerts) bright lights (sunshine), fatigue, certain drugs, and hunger. Children with certain personality types such as the "high achiever" are also more prone to migraines.

There are a number of reported "migraine variants" in children where symptoms other than the headache may predominate. These include states of temporary confusion, recurrent or cyclic vomiting, ataxia or unsteadiness and even a temporary paralysis. Diagnosis of these variants may be challenging as there is not test for migraine.

Treatment of migraine in children depends on the frequency. For the child with occasional

What to do about your child's headache

headache the best treatment appears to be a nap as most are relieved by sleep. Occasional use of Tylenol or ibuprofen is also appropriate, but frequent use should be avoided as some children can actually experience some rebound symptoms. For children that need something else there are a number of different prescription "abortive" treatments for migraine available from your child's physician.

For children with more frequent migraines there are preventative medications which can be prescribed, but must be taken every day to be effective. Behavior management, stress reduction, bio-feedback and avoiding known precipitants when possible are also effective ways to prevent or at least decrease the frequency of migraines.

Unlike migraine, stress headaches are rare in the young child. They do occur in the adolescent and are often associated with school or home stress and sometimes a depression. Like migraine, the diagnosis is based on the history and exam. Treatment often requires some counseling and occasionally antidepressants.

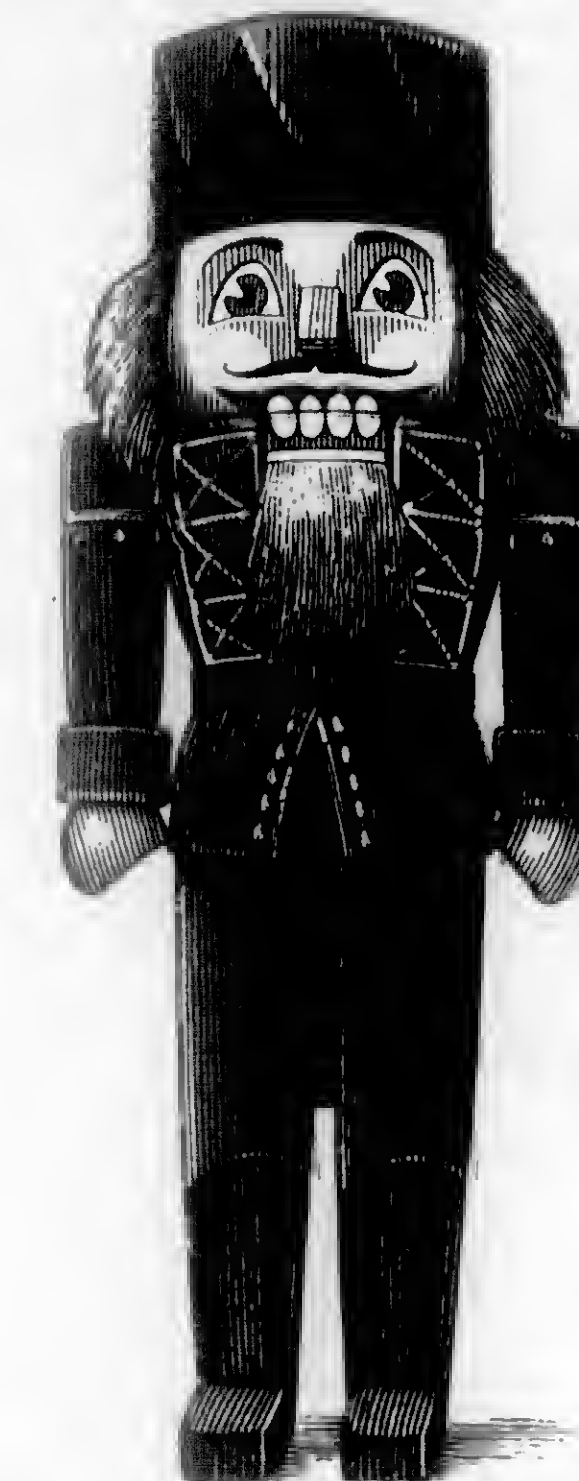

While the majority of headaches in children will be due to non-life threatening causes there are signs and symptoms which raise concern. These include headaches which awaken a child during sleep or occur early in the morning. Headaches which are increasing in severity and frequency. Headaches associated with school failure, behavioral changes, or any neurological changes. There are also certain physical exam findings that alert a physician to the potential of a more serious cause.

If your child has recurrent headaches he/she should see a pediatrician or family physician. Keeping a log of the headaches may be very helpful in the evaluation and in helping our children understand what might be causing their headaches. Encouraging them to take things less seriously, creating a loving stress-free home and supporting them in a positive way in school will be the best prevention of headaches and several other potential problems in our children.

Men hurt in head-on collision Friday

Two men were injured in a head on crash around 7:30 p.m., Dec. 14 on C-48 near Ranney Road in South Arm Township.

According to the Charlevoix County Sheriff's Office, a 2000 Chevrolet S-10 pickup driven by Ryan M. Fisher, 24, of Boyne City, was traveling east on C-48. The truck crossed the centerline at the crest of a hill and struck a 1997 Chevrolet Astro van driven by David J. Feldman, 31, of Houghton Lake, who was traveling west.

Both of the drivers were pinned inside their wrecked vehicles. They were extricated by the East Jordan Fire Department and Emergency Medical Service.

East Jordan Ambulances transported both to Charlevoix Area Hospital for multiple injuries. Feldman was admitted to the Intensive Care Unit.

According to Sheriff George T. Lasater, both drivers were using their seatbelts and their vehicle's air bags deployed upon impact. This resulted in less serious injuries and saved the lives of the drivers, he said.

Both vehicles were totaled and the road was closed for almost three hours due to the crash.

The incident remains under investigation.

East Jordan man hurt in accident on Dec. 14

A 19-year-old East Jordan man was injured around 12 a.m., Dec. 14, in a one car injury accident on Behling Road near Pleasant Valley Road in Wilson Township.

According to the Charlevoix County Sheriff's Office, the man received a severe laceration to his left eye when the 1997 Jeep he was driving west on Behling Road left the roadway and struck a tree head on.

He was transported to Northern Michigan Hospital by the Boyne City Ambulance.

Alcohol was found to be a factor in the crash.

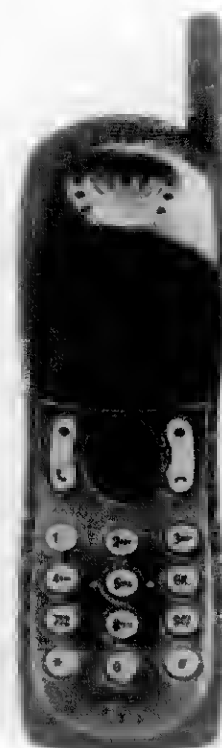

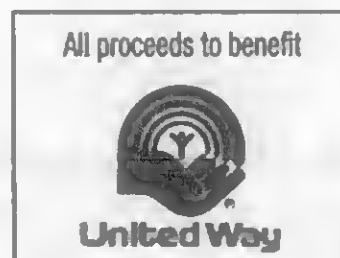

The sheriff's office is withholding the name of the driver pending criminal charges.

The sheriff's office was assisted at the scene by the Boyne City Ambulance, the East Jordan Ambulance and the Boyne City Police Department.

But, the business will keep the school gear, Rayder paraphernalia will include varsity jackets, t-shirts, sweatshirts and more.

They will also be offering tuxedo rental and a discounted bridal registry which will cater to the store's extensive collection of gifts and collectibles.

Until the move on Jan. 1 Trademark Clothiers is clearing their men's section and offering large discounts on all men's merchandise.

Barney said the building they are moving to is 400 square feet larger than Dimartino's building.

The future of Dimartino's building is not yet set in stone. Dimartino said he would like to see it kept as one large retail space as opposed to breaking it into two stores.

He added that he received a call Dec. 11 from an interested lessee but the outcome of that conversation is uncertain at this time.

"This is a rough time to have a building come open. It's hard to know what will happen there. But I'm confident, Charlevoix is so strong, someone will come along," he said.

Dimartino owns no other retail buildings in downtown Charlevoix.

Basketball team gets two more wins last week

The Huskies were held scoreless for over four minutes. Seven different Charlevoix players scored during the surge and Haske emptied the bench, using 12 different players in the half.

"All the guys that came in did something positive," Haske said. "That is a key for us."

The rout was accentuated by three straight Scott Parrish buckets, the last a flying, two-handed slam dunk. Charlevoix led 53-19 at the half.

In the third quarter, Shepherd got into the act, scoring to open the second half and later hitting back-to-back three pointers to extend the lead to 65-23 at the 5:35 mark of the third quarter. The 40 point lead mandated that the Michigan High School Athletic Association "mercy rule" go into effect, meaning that the clock would not stop on dead balls, but would continue to run to get the game over more quickly.

The mercy rule accomplished something that no team has been able to do this year. It slowed the Rayders down as Charlevoix scored only four points in the fourth quarter.

"We were emotionally ready for Benzie," Haske said. "They've kind of had our number in football; they beat us in cross country. I think the guys were up for them."

Despite the fact that no one played much more than half of the game, the Rayders had four players in double figures. Parrish led all scorers with 14 points and 10 rebounds. Sophomore sixth man Scott Friske scored 13. Shepherd had 12, Boss tallied 11 and Pat Gowell added seven. Teuscher didn't score, but dished out five assists.

Earlier in the week, however, the Rayders had a scare from Cheboygan on Dec. 11. For three quarters, at least, then it was back to business as usual.

"We didn't shoot the ball well," Haske explained. "That was a tremendous run to end the game — one of the best I've ever been involved in. It was good for us to go on the road, have some things going against us, not getting some calls from the refs and having to struggle through."

Although it was an away game, the crowd wasn't entirely unfriendly, however.

"It was about 2 to 1 Charlevoix fans. It's fun to have that kind of support," Haske said.

"All of the guys that came in did something positive. That is the key for us."

Keith Haske,
Basketball coach

Parrish paced Charlevoix with 22 points and had 11 rebounds and three blocks.

Haske said, "Parrish played an excellent game. He kept us in it at times."

Scott Friske had a double-double of his own with 13 points and 10 boards. Boss chipped in with 11 points and nine caroms. Teuscher keyed the defense with nine points and five steals.

The Rayders opened league play against Harbor Springs on Tuesday; however, results were not available at press time. The next game is at East Jordan on Jan. 4.

NO OUTDOOR LIGHTS IN HOLIDAY SEASON

Holiday Decorations Are Banned As Conservation Measure

For the second successive year, Charlevoix will have no community Christmas tree or outdoor lighting decorations, in accordance with a recent ruling of the war production board.

Restrictions prohibiting installation of temporary extensions for Xmas lighting fixtures were ordered by WPB as a measure to conserve critical resources. By curtailing outside lighting for the holiday season, rationed fuel oil for the diesel plant will be conserved.

LETTERS from the ARMY CAMPS

Dear Mr. Usher,
I have been receiving the Courier for some time but just never got around to writing. Old Uncle Sam keeps us pretty busy most of the time.

I sure enjoy getting the home town paper very much, for through it I kind of keep in touch with the people I know back home.

People don't hear much about the Coast Guard as yet, but it's one of the most important parts of our military forces and people will come to know more about it I am sure.

Since I have been in the service I have covered the largest part of the east coast and am in Boston now. The people out here are very nice to men in uniform and much the same as the people there in Charlevoix.

I guess I have said enough for this time, so will knock it off by giving you my new address and thanking you very much for the paper.

ADOPT A STUDENT'S YANK FOR SHARE IN WAR PROGRAM

CSO, KIWANIS WANT SERVICE MEN'S ADDRESSES

Central Drug Store Bulletin Board Gives List Charlevoix Men's Addresses and Birthdays

People who have no relatives or close friends in the country's armed forces will have a chance to "adopt a Yank" to send a Christmas gift, according to a plan presented by the Charlevoix Service Organization.

A bulletin board placed in the Central Drug Store lists names and addresses of Charlevoix men in the service, thumbtacked to the board on separate slips so that each person may make his choice simply by removing a name, or more than one if they so desire.

This list is being compiled by the Kiwanis Club and CSO, and will be available to any service group or individual for reference.

Names and address of soldiers to be put on the list should be left at the Central Drug Store, either in person, by phone or mail. A card index file of this information is kept, to which birthdays of service men are also to be added for the convenience of those who wish to send gifts or cards on those occasions. People who have already sent in addresses of soldiers are asked to supply the information about their birthdays at the earliest possible time, to complete the filed records.

Some people who are already preparing Christmas packages for soldiers or sailors will welcome this opportunity to do a bit more. As only about 175 names will be on the bulletin board, applicants are urged to pick their Yank at once, the earlier the better to insure he gets the package. Overseas mail must be sent by Nov. 1 and mail within the continental United States should also be sent well in advance of the Christmas season.

PHYSICAL FITNESS DRILLS INAUGURATED MONDAY

High School Youths are Given Commando Training; Girls Also Share Effort

After several weeks in the experimental stage, a physical fitness program for Charlevoix High School boys from seventh to twelfth grades was officially inaugurated Monday.

Designed to form a vital part of the high school's contribution to the war effort, class periods have been re-arranged to allow for 45 minutes of calisthenics and stunts in the school gymnasium, patterned on the commando training given United States soldiers, coach Ray Kipke and assistant coach Max Novak are directing the program.

Equipment to be used in the project consists of bars upon which many feats of balancing and turning can be performed; overhead ladders, ropes, mats, walls and other obstacles employed in the commando training courses. Adapted at the beginning to the abilities of the students, the training will be gradually intensified as their muscles are developed.

Physical training for high school girls will consist of short periods of light calisthenics. The major portion of the girls' participation in the war effort will be sewing and Red Cross work, which will be directed by teachers. Work done outside of school will be credited. Definite plans for the girls' program have not yet been completed.

That the high school students are eager and anxious to do everything within their capabilities for the nation is shown by the fact that 35 students are registered for duty at the airplane spotting station, forming fully a third of the crew needed to man the station full time.

How to drive safely in winter

Navigating through snow-covered streets can be challenging, even for experienced drivers. But reviewing winter driving techniques can help ease the stress and difficulties involved in driving, AAA Michigan says in its brochure: "How to Go on Ice and Snow," which is available, free at AAA branches statewide.

The pamphlet presents information on driving on slippery surfaces, regaining control of the vehicle if it skids, and braking on ice and snow, among other tips and precautions.

To drive on slippery surfaces remember: Traction is greatest just before the wheels spin. Gentle pressure on the accelerator pedal when starting is the best method for retaining traction and avoiding skids — especially if your vehicle is not equipped with a traction assist device. If your wheels start to spin, let up on the accelerator until traction returns.

Sometimes all four wheels lose traction. This generally occurs when the vehicle is driven at a speed too fast for conditions. The most effective way to get your vehicle back under control when all four wheels skid is:

- Ease your foot off the accelerator or take your foot off the brake.
- Shift to neutral (if you are certain of finding neutral immediately) on a vehicle with automatic transmission.
- Look and steer in the direction you want the front of the vehicle to go.
- Wait for the wheels to grip the road again. As soon as the wheels regain traction, the vehicle will travel in the desired direction.

Shift to drive and maintain a safe speed.

The most common driver action preceding a crash is the inability to stop. Remember to increase your following distance from three seconds to between eight and 10 seconds when driving on icy, slippery surfaces.

To brake on ice and snow with anti-lock brakes, use the heel-and-toe method to make a controlled stop. Keep the heel of your foot on the floor and use your toes to apply firm, steady pressure on the brake pedal.

You will notice a mechanical sound and typically feel the brake pedal pulse back against your foot. Do not pump the pedal or remove your foot from the brake.

Another key suggestion: Carry a winter driving kit in your vehicle should an emergency develop. These items should include abrasive material (sand, salt or cat litter), shovel, jumper cables, warning devices (flares or triangles), flashlight, snow brush, windshield washing solvent, cellular phone and blanket.

From a mechanical standpoint, winter conditions — wet, cold and icy weather — present the greatest challenge to your engine's operating efficiency.

Since these conditions cannot be avoided, AAA Michigan recommends drivers prepare for winter by getting a complete vehicle checkup.

Acacia back downtown

Was docked at Coast Guard station since Sept. 11 attacks

By JEREMY MCBAIN
Editor

The U.S. Coast Guard Buoy Tender Acacia is back at its downtown dock.

The ship was moved out to the U.S. Coast Guard Station Charlevoix on the channel between Round Lake and Lake Charlevoix after the Sept. 11 terrorist attacks. This was mostly because the alert status the ship was under would not allow vehicles or containers anywhere near the ship, something that officials could not control at the city dock.

This ship was given the OK to return to the downtown dock on Dec. 19.

Coast Guard Commander Mike Shomin, captain of the Acacia, said the ship's crew is happy to be back downtown in a "more comfortable" location.

"Being downtown is nice. We are more visible and close to town," he said. Plus, the crew no longer has a long walk to the ship from the parking lot.

While at the station, the Acacia's crew had to park at Depot Beach, several blocks from the ship, Shomin said. This would have been a very uncomfortable walk in snowy weather, he added.

The ship was allowed to go back to the dock after it was put on a lower alert status. Shomin said while the ship is still on a heightened awareness, it is no longer required to keep vehicles and containers away from the ship.

However, the crew is still required to search and identify anyone who boards the ship, Shomin said.

The ship was out on Lake Michigan pulling shipping buoys when the announcement was made that it could dock downtown again.

Council member recovering well

By JULIE WITTHOFT
Staff Writer

Third ward Charlevoix City Councilman Sperm Chamberlain, 51, is well on his way to making a full recovery after recently being hit by a car.

"Things are going well. In four weeks my leg and pelvis should be healed. My arm will take a little longer," Chamberlain said.

Chamberlain was hit by a pickup truck on Nov. 30, while walking across Bridge Street, causing him to sustain multiple injuries including: a broken pelvis, a double fracture to his upper left arm, a broken knee and a bad concussion.

Doctors implanted a permanent rod in his left arm where the breaks occurred to encourage straight healing.

The current councilman is undergoing occupational and physical therapy at Boulder Park where he's also living.

While his physical setbacks and therapies sound painful, they aren't getting him down. Chamberlain said the worst part of the accident's aftermath has been the restrictions.

"The hardest thing is being dependent on others. I went from being a single parent who does all the cooking, laundry and cleaning and the co-owner of a business to being thrown into a situation where I am totally dependent on people. It's shocking to say the least," Chamberlain said.

The accident Chamberlain was involved in happened around 3 p.m. when he walked from the site of his surveying business, Ferguson and Chamberlain, over to the United States Postal Service drop box. As he crossed Bridge Street from West Upright to East Upright, William Eme-lander, 49, of Lake City traveling southbound on Bridge Street in a 1997 red Ford pickup struck him, knocking him unconscious.

Chamberlain said three hours of his life, starting from just before

Officials: Local cocaine supplier busted

By JULIE WITTHOEFT
Staff Writer

Law enforcement officials say a major cocaine pipeline running from Florida into Charlevoix and Antrim counties has been broken up.

Officials believe cocaine from this source has been sold in the city of Charlevoix and the surrounding townships.

The Traverse Narcotics Team (TNT), the Straits Area Narcotics Enforcement Team (SANE) and the United States Postal Service teamed up to investigate the pipeline and recently located and arrested its alleged ring leader, William D. Altman, 40, of Miami.

"This was an exciting investigation. It's always good to be able to go back and get the main source of the supply, cutting it off where it's coming from. More times than not you end up with just locals and the cocaine obviously isn't produced here," Chet Wilson, detective/first lieutenant of the Traverse Narcotics Team, who is involved in the investigation said.

"In this particular case as we know most cocaine in the United States comes through Mexico to Florida and Texas; we were able to track it to the Florida connection."

The aforementioned local enforcement agencies worked with the Florida authorities, including the FBI and Florida's local drug task force and were able to locate Altman.

Wilson said the dealers were mailing packages of drugs and money back and forth.

"If my memory serves me right there was an informant that gave information," he explained.

"Some of the cocaine was put inside toys and mailed. They may have used other carriers as well, but the U.S. mail was one of the main ones."

Wilson said the Traverse City based narcotics crackdown team worked the investigation for over a year. Wilson said the ring was most likely functional for well over a year and may have operated for a couple of years.

Altman has been extradited and charged with multiple felony counts of delivery and possession of cocaine including: delivery of 225-649 grams, delivery of 50 to 225 grams and a third count of delivery of under 50 grams.

If convicted on all three counts, Altman faces up to 80 years in prison.

Altman is currently being held in Charlevoix County Jail on a $500,000 cash bond.

An informant helped law enforcement officials find Altman in Florida. In February of 2000, almost a year before Altman's arrest, three of his alleged connections who lived in Charlevoix and Elk Rapids were arrested, Wilson said. All three are currently in prison for the delivery of cocaine.

Wilson explained Altman apparently knew one or more of the people involved in northern Michigan, but their exact connection is unknown. He said Altman may have lived in Michigan at one time.

Wilson alleges that Altman had other clients in places across the state.

The three local busts were Susan Verecke, 42, of Elk Rapids, Mark Donker, 38, of Charlevoix and Megan Jones, 22, of Elk Rapids.

According to a police report authored by William Sybesma, a Michigan State Police Officer and an officer with the narcotics team out of the Straits, in January and February of 2000 a confidential informant purchased cocaine twice from Donker.

Through the confidential informant and receipts from the United Parcel Service and Western Union, Sybesma said it was discovered that Donker, Verecke and Jones had been conspiring to deliver cocaine.

On Feb. 2 and 3, 2000, the informant contacted Donker to arrange a purchase of two to three ounces of cocaine. Sybesma states during their conversation Donker told the informant the cocaine would be delivered to the Verecke/Jones residence in Elk Rapids and he would pick the cocaine up from the residence Feb. 4, 2000.

But, the package was intercepted

"It's always good to be able to go back and get the main source of the supply, cutting it off where it's coming from."

Chet Wilson, of the Traverse Narcotics Team (TNT)

by the police and an officer posing as a Fed Ex employee delivered it to the Verecke/Jones residence.

After the package was delivered the surveillance team observed Donker enter the Verecke/Jones home, leaving two minutes later carrying the package just delivered by a police officer.

Donker was then pulled over and the cocaine was recovered from the package.

On Feb. 4, 2000 both Verecke and Jones were interviewed about their involvement with Donker.

Both women said they sold cocaine while living in Charlevoix at a trailer park off US-31 North.

Sybesma's report states, "They indicated they would receive the cocaine from Donker and sell it. Jones indicated sometimes Verecke would give her the cocaine to deliver to people including the confidential informant. Jones indicated that on several occasions she received the cocaine from Verecke at the Charlevoix trailer and she delivered it to the confidential informant in Elk Rapids."

The report added both women admitted to receiving an ounce of cocaine semi-weekly from Donker to sell.

Jones admitted to over 100 sales in the Charlevoix area from 1998 to February of 2000, when the three were arrested. According to court documents, Jones sold the drugs to Charlevoix residents.

Jones was charged with conspiracy to deliver under 50 grams of cocaine. She was sentenced to a minimum of two years in prison and a maximum of 20 years.

On March 23, 2001, Verecke who had no prior felony convictions and no prior drug convictions was charged for delivery of between 50 grams and 224 grams of cocaine. She was sentenced to prison for a minimum of 10 years and a maximum of 20 years and fined $10,000.

Donker was sentenced in August of 2001 for the charge of conspiracy to deliver between 225 grams and 649 grams of cocaine. He was sentenced to prison for a minimum of 14 years and a maximum of 30 years.

In last week's edition of the Charlevoix Courier, a story on page 15 regarding the installation of Masonic officers had two names misspelled. The article should have stated Thomas Carey was the installing chaplain and Roger Sievertson was named worshipful master.

OPINIONS

What do you do in the winter?

The results are in from this month's "What do you think?" question.

The question was: What should be done about the traffic in Charlevoix during the summer? We had one response to this question, but it was a good one.

Charlevoix resident Robert D'Alcorn took a little time to ponder this question and give us a finely detailed response, which is printed at right. He makes some great points and has some interesting suggestions on keeping things safe for pedestrians as well as improving the traffic flow. Take a moment to read it.

On to this month's question.

While it seems like this winter is having a little trouble getting off the ground, many residents are dreaming of their favorite wintertime activities. Some like to snowmobile, ski, snowshoe or just drink hot chocolate.

What do you think?

However, some of us — especially those who go south for the winter — are not really fond of all this cold weather and wonder why people get excited about it.

Therefore, this month's question is "What is your favorite winter activity and why?" Convince the winter-haters among us why this is a great time of the year in Charlevoix.

Try to keep your response to about 250 words and remember to sign your name.

Send your responses to the Charlevoix Courier at P.O. Box 117, Charlevoix, MI 49720; fax them to (231) 547-4992; e-mail them to charlevoixcourier@charlevoixcourier.com or just drop them off at 112 Mason Street.

The deadline is 5 p.m., Jan. 25.

What do you think?

What is your favorite winter activity and why:

Please mail this to the Charlevoix Courier at P.O. Box 117, Charlevoix, MI, 49720, fax it to (231) 547-4992 or drop it off at our office located at 112 Mason Street in downtown Charlevoix. Answers can be e-mailed to charlevoixcourier@charlevoixcourier.com. Please keep your answers under 250 words and turn them in by 5 p.m., Jan. 25. Remember to sign your opinion.

Response to last month's question

This is my response to the question of what should be done about traffic in Charlevoix: A solution without major disruption to existing neighborhoods is to keep traffic on Bridge Street. I would make Bridge Street three lanes wide by eliminating parking from the east side. This leaves only one block of merchants without parking in front of their businesses. The three lane section would run from about Upright to Dixon. The center lane could have a series of pedestrian refuge islands and dedicated left turn lanes between Antrim Street and Bridge Park Drive. The length of the left turn lanes and islands would vary depending on turning capacity at the various intersections. Studies would have to be conducted to determine the most efficient layout.

Traffic activated lights with pedestrian signals would be placed at both the Clinton and the Park/Bridge Park Drive intersections because left turn lanes would be needed both north and south of these two intersections. These two traffic signals would be interconnected to provide breaks in the traffic flow. Mason Street east of Bridge would be closed, eliminating the need for a left turn lane north of this intersection.

Marked mid-block pedestrian crossings would be installed across the islands without signals. Pedestrians crossing Bridge would only have to contend with traffic approaching from one direction when using these islands, making crossing much safer.

These suggestions conform to the walkable community concept with emphasis on pedestrian safety. Since Bridge Street is a state trunkline, any changes to Bridge Street require Michigan Department of Transportation's approval.

A surprise birthday party

Edith Gilbert

'Behind the news'

Bonnie Staffel expected to go to the country club for dinner. Instead, 90 of her closest friends sang "Happy Birthday" to her as she walked through the door of her daughter Marell's home on Sunday.

The living room was filled with fellow artists from all over Michigan. There was Ed Grey from Saugatuck — I recall his early support, along with Bonnie, that helped the Charlevoix Waterfront Art Fair get off the ground over 30 years ago. There were local artists like Sue and Russ Bolt, Barbara Godwin, Jan Glass, Ray and Tami Bier, Joann Moffitt and June and David Otis, among others.

There were the collectors from Suttons Bay, who started their Staffel collection in 1957 when they were honeymooning in Charlevoix. They reminded me that in 1998 they loaned a piece of her finest pottery to the Crooked Tree Arts Center for Bonnie's "Fiftieth Retrospective Show."

The surprise eightieth birthday party went off without a hitch in spite of all the cars parked in front of the house.

"Isn't Bonnie going to be suspicious when she sees all these cars?" I asked Marell.

"No, we told her the neighbors are having a party!"

A surprised Bonnie circled the room smiling. "Everyone who was part of my life is here," she said.

To the strains of Jim Owen, guitarist, we were invited to partake of lovely refreshments and to proceed downstairs where a video showed photographs of Bonnie, the great-grandmother and professional potter.

She first fell in love with ceramics when she studied at the Toledo Art Museum and, believe it or not, her first potter's wheel was made out of an old Edison phonograph machine! Here she learned how to make three firings: bisque, glaze and gold decorations. In 1951, Bonnie received a scholarship to Cranbrook Academy of the Arts.

Maijo Grotel, her mentor, chose one of her pots as the best glazes he had ever seen, which she still considers a supreme compliment.

After running a successful shop seven miles south of Charlevoix for many years, with more orders than she had time to fill, Bonnie felt "the tail was wagging the dog." She accepted a position as resident potter at the John C. Campbell Folk School in North Carolina.

She traveled to Denmark for three winters as an exchange potter in five folk schools. Later she was recruited by the city of Canton, Miss. to help create a new arts and crafts campus in the town square, where the movie "A Time to Kill" was filmed. In addition, Bonnie has received numerous awards and honors from major museums and Japan. She has traveled to Guatemala and England in pursuit of her work.

For Bonnie, the biggest surprise of the evening was when Bob Tambalini, executive director of the Charlevoix County Community Foundation, presented her with the news that her family and friends had established a "Bonnie Staffel Fund." The income from this will be used to support the arts in Charlevoix County. The principle will last forever and will create a permanent legacy in Bonnie's name.

As Tambalini read the letter aloud, all Bonnie could softly say was, "Oh, my!...Oh, my!"

Hosts Marell Staffel, owner of the Charlevoix Camera Shop, Shannon Cummings and Heather Harrod, daughters and granddaughters, were proud as peacocks that they were able to pull this hush hush surprise party off in a town as small as Charlevoix.

Editor:
It was reported in the article about the Frey Challenge grant for the Charlevoix Area Community Pool (Dec. 5, 2001) that the open swim price is $3, which is incorrect. The fee is $3.50 for adults and $2 for children.

However, starting with the New Year, Dollar Nights from 6 to 8 p.m. on Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays the cost will only be $4 for a family of four. This compares to $11 at the regular rate.

So, join your friends and family in the hot tub.

Northwest did a great job

Editor:
We had a special privilege to attend the Christmas concert at Northwest Academy. We attended because we had children performing. We were pleasantly surprised at how well the beginning band performed. We were equally pleased at the performance of the choir in their first year of development.

Out of politeness, we stayed for the rest of the concert. The advanced band was pure joy. We felt we had been transported to a professional concert. Never have we heard such a quality sound from a high school band. It was a privilege to be there.

What we experienced at Northwest Academy was quality education in action! It also reinforced our belief that facilities do not determine quality education.

Wedding

Marcie Ray Beaudoin and Brian Keith Sladics, both of Charlevoix, were married on Aug. 18, 2001 at the First Congregational Church in Charlevoix.

Marcie is the daughter of Joseph and Sandra Beaudoin of Charlevoix. Brian is the son of Robert and Margaret Sladics of Rochester Hills.

The Rev. Philip Schairbaum performed the double ring rites in front of 200 guests.

The bride wore a white satin organza sheath a-line gown, with a square beaded neckline, a lace back and a detachable semi-cathedral length train beaded in crystal and pearls. Her veil was white with organza trim attached to a crystal tiara and she carried a bouquet of white roses.

The maid of honor was Jenny Supernaw and the matron of honor was Heather Parrish. Bridesmaids were Erin Dailey, Jessica Hisey, Devra Sladics, Amy Beaudoin and Michelle Carlson. They wore plum satin gowns with tank-style necklines and bows down the back.

The flower girl was Kaeli Bales. The ring bearer was Haden Beaudoin.

The best man was Ryan Haberek. Groomsmen were Jim Lynch, Kyle Kornoely, Chris Beaudoin — Sladics

Johnson, Brett Eberlein, Jeff Bafs and Brad Barnard.

Ushers were Mark Beaudoin and Bruce Beaudoin.

A reception was given at the Charlevoix Country Club. A rehearsal dinner was given at the Grey Gables Inn in Charlevoix on Aug. 17. On Aug. 19, a brunch was given at the home of Jim and Laurie Keller on Lake Charlevoix.

The couple took a wedding trip to Maui, Hawaii. They are making Charlevoix their home.

The bride is a contract designer at Northern Office Suppliers in Petoskey. The groom is a dentist with the Maple Ridge Dental Group in East Jordan.

Community pool to start dollar night

The Charlevoix Area Community Pool will start its "dollar night" swim sessions on Jan. 2, 2002.

From 6 to 8 p.m., each Monday, Wednesday and Friday, the usual admission charges will be lowered to $1 for each person.

This new program, which will last all year, is the result of the combined efforts of the councils of the city of Charlevoix, Charlevoix Township and Hayes Township, plus the Frey Foundation. The Frey Foundation offered a matching grant, which was taken up by these municipalities.

The pool will use the money to underwrite this lower-fee swim program. The "dollar night" price and all the pool fees are the same for everyone, regardless of where they live.

Historical society to have New Year's bash

The Charlevoix Historical Society invites the public to its annual New Year's Eve Party, proceeds of which will support the preservation of local history. The evening begins with an exclusive showing of the British art film, Greenfingers, directed by Joel Hersman and starring David Kelly, Helen Mirren and Natasha Little. Ticket holders will gather at the Charlevoix Cinema at 7:15 p.m., Dec. 31, with the film starting promptly at 7:30 p.m.

Following the show, everyone will head to the historic Depot for hors d'oeuvres, dancing and a champagne toast to the New Year at midnight.

Tickets are $100, which includes a $75 donation, and are available at the Charlevoix Historical Society. Call 547-0373 for more information.

Coast Guard ship's alert status lowered

ACACIA

Shomin said the Acacia will be in port for at least the next three weeks.

Currently the crew is on search and rescue detail until Dec. 31, Shomin said. This means it will remain at its dock unless there is an emergency on the lakes.

After Dec. 31, the ship will be in "maintenance status" for two weeks.

After this period, the Acacia will remain in port unless it is called out to clear the shipping channels.

"It depends on the ice and traffic (on the lakes)," he said.

City council member in rehab after accident the accident and extending into his hospital stay, are a total mystery to him.

As the Christmas season kicks into full swing, Chamberlain will have to let his imagination take him to London, England where he was scheduled to meet his daughter Rebecca and her husband for a week-long stay.

They were planning to partake in a traditional English Christmas in Bath, that would have included running of the foxes and the hounds on Dec. 26.

The animals weren't the real excitement though. Chamberlain was looking forward to being with his daughter before she boards a plane to Israel. She plans to be in Israel for eight days beginning the second week in January.

"I'll be biting my nails," he said.

Even though his Christmas plans have been called off and his daily routine has had a wrench thrown in it Chamberlain said his experience has gone very smoothly and his recovery has been fast.

"I think it confirms all the comments I've heard over the years about the quality of health care services in the Charlevoix area. I've heard the EMTs, doctors and caregivers are good around here and I found out first hand, it's true," Chamberlain said.

He explained small town generosity and help from his family has really made a difference.

"You don't really know how much you do until you are stuck in a hospital bed. A lot of people stepped in and really helped out," he said.

Obituaries

Catherine J. Neff: May 21, 1915 - Dec. 20, 2001

Catherine J. Neff, 86, of Charlevoix, died Dec. 20, 2001, at Boulder Park Terrace Nursing Home in Charlevoix.

A funeral was given on Dec. 23 at Winchester Funeral Home in Charlevoix. The Pastor Kenneth G. Bernthal officiated and burial was in Brookside Cemetery in Charlevoix.

Catherine was born on May 21, 1915, in Chicago, Ill., the daughter of Gustaf S. and Rebecca M. (Anderson) Walgren. Charlevoix High School hires new teacher

By JULIE WITTHOEFT
Staff Writer

Don Richards has joined the staff at Charlevoix High School as the new special education teacher.

The position was opened after former high school special education teacher and former varsity girls' basketball coach, Jason Otter, submitted his resignation in August, just before school resumed.

Don Richards

After bouncing substitutes in and out of the position, Charlevoix resident Kim Keller was appointed to the interim position for the remainder of the first semester in the 2001-2002 school year.

But, on Dec. 10, nearly four months after Otter's resignation, the Charlevoix School Board approved the appointment of Boyne City resident Don Richards.

Richards is now a new permanent special education instructor at the school.

High school principal Gary Grundman told the board, "I think we really struck it rich with this one. He's a fine candidate and I'm looking forward to working with him."

Richards, 23, is fresh out of college. In fact, he graduated last week from Marquette's Northern Michigan University with a bachelor of science in emotional impairments.

Richards recently completed what Grundman referred to as a successful student teaching experience in Munising.

He worked with grades two through six in Munising and is looking forward to working with older students at Charlevoix High School.

Richards' is one of three special education instructors at Charlevoix High School. His typical class size is between six and 10 students. He is teaching the students applied math, consumer math and earth/life science.

His choice to join the high school staff was not easy; Richards was offered positions at Petoskey Middle School and in Vanderbilt. He narrowed the field to Petoskey and Charlevoix and called teachers from both school districts to try and make his decision.

"Both had nice things to say which made it hard in the end. I chose Charlevoix because it's a smaller school and I like being able to get to know the community," Richards said.

Last Monday he was approached by staff to be part of the Charlevoix boys' junior varsity baseball team. He said he was excited about being asked.

He said he became interested in special education as a career when he attended Boyne City High School, his alma mater. While a Rambler, Richards took part in a peer tutoring program in a special education classroom.

From that experience he said he gained insight into what his future may hold.

"I saw that I wanted to be able to help kids with difficulties, kids that needed that extra support," Richards said.

He and his wife, Mandi, are living in Boyne City, where they met. She is working toward her degree in elementary education through a satellite program offered at Petoskey's North Central Michigan College.

Even though Richards' roots are closely tied to Boyne, he said he plans to be a Rayder fan from here on out and he doesn't feel like a traitor.

The selection committee that recommended Richards to the board includes: Grundman, Mary Lieberman, Dawn Hovic, Deb Devitt, Ann Gorney and Lori Urban.

Barcenas may not be fit for trial

By JULIE WITTHOEFT
Staff Writer

A question of competency has delayed the preliminary examination of a Charlevoix man charged with murder.

Juan Antonio Barcenas, 23, of Charlevoix was charged Nov. 14 with first degree murder. Barcenas has since been arraigned and he was scheduled to appear for preliminary examination in Charlevoix County District Court Dec. 13.

However, on Dec. 10, Barcenas' court appointed attorney, Christopher Turkelson of the Charlevoix law firm, Joseph, Corcoran, Telgenhof & Snyder, entered a motion for a competency examination to precede preliminary examination. The examination will decide whether Barcenas is fit to stand trial.

On Nov. 29 Turkelson made a motion for two court appointed interpreters to be assigned to the case. One to be present at the preliminary examination and the other to assist at Charlevoix County Jail when he and Barcenas communicate.

Turkelson's motion states, "Even with the appointed interpreter the undersigned (Turkelson) had a very difficult time communicating with Barcenas and because of that, the defendant is unable to assist in his defense."

Turkelson states that based on these conversations, it is his belief that Barcenas may be incapable of understanding the nature and proceedings he is facing.

If found incompetent, "he cannot be the subject of criminal proceedings," Turkelson's brief states.

As of Dec. 19 Turkelson said he was unaware of the status of the evaluation. He added it usually takes 60 days.

Charlevoix County Prosecuting Attorney Mary Beth Kur is representing the plaintiff in the case, the people of the State of Michigan.

Kur said the Center for Forensic Psychology in Ypsilanti is conducting the testing.

Of the testing, Kur said, "If found incompetent he (Barcenas) will be treated until he is found competent."

Charlevoix County 90th District Court Judge Richard May will review the findings of the competency examination at a status conference set for 9 a.m., Feb. 12.

At the review May will decide whether he accepts the report or not, Kur said.

During Barcenas' preliminary examination, which may follow the status conference, Kur will attempt to prove to May the evidence she has is enough to hold Barcenas for trial.

The crime for which he's accused is punishable in Michigan by life in prison.

The charge made against Barcenas followed the death of Carissa Nicole Kuzmik, an 18 pound, 8-month-old girl. Both the infant and Barcenas lived in apartment 704 of Pine Cove Apartments, located at 1001 May Street in the city of Charlevoix.

Barcenas was the live in boyfriend of Kuzmik's mother, Renee Kuzmik. He was neither married or divorced and had no children of his own. There were two other children living in the apartment.

According to the affidavit authored by Michigan State Police Detective-Sergeant Gwen White-Erickson, at 9:54 a.m. Nov. 12 Charlevoix City Police were dispatched to Pine Cove Apartments. The call referenced a baby not breathing, who had possibly fallen down the stairs.

City police officer Gerard Doan and city emergency medical technician Audrey Roloff were met by Barcenas' neighbors who directed them to the living room where the baby was lying on the floor. The report states Carissa did not appear to be alive.

Carissa was transported to Charlevoix Area Hospital and died shortly thereafter.

MURDER

After the baby was taken to the hospital, Doan questioned the witnesses who explained how the baby had come to be in their apartment.

The affidavit states the witnesses told Doan, Barcenas brought the baby to their apartment and told them he and the baby had fallen down the stairs. The neighbor called 9-1-1 and Barcenas eventually left the baby at the apartment. He was wearing a white T-shirt and dark shorts when he left the room. The neighbor told Doan he then came back after changing his clothes.

They added Barcenas left again saying he was going to try and find the baby's mother.

At the hospital, Renee was interviewed.

The affidavit states, "She (Renee Kuzmik) stated she left the baby alone in bed with her boyfriend Juan Barcenas at approximately 9:10 a.m. and left to go to a doctor's appointment in Petoskey. She stated the baby was awake, playful and otherwise healthy when she left her with Juan (Barcenas)."

An autopsy was performed by Dr. David Start at Blodgett Hospital in Grand Rapids on Nov. 13. The autopsy showed the cause of the child's death to be blunt force trauma to her mid-section.

Start also found a fractured rib that appeared to be more than two weeks old and an old bruise which he believed to have been caused by an earlier blow to the child's stomach.

The affidavit states, "Start also stated, in his opinion the death was in no way accidental and could not have been caused by a fall down any type of stairway."

Late Nov. 13 Kur authorized the charge of felony murder against Barcenas, marking the second homicide charge in the city of Charlevoix this year.

In a previous interview city police chief Dennis Halverson said Barcenas was at the police department when Kur's authorization was made.

The arrest warrant states that Barcenas, "did, while in the perpetration or attempted perpetration of child abuse in the first degree, murder one Carissa Nicole Kuzmik."

Barcenas' prior record shows he was charged for driving under the influence of alcohol. Halverson said before Nov. 12 the city police department had never been called to the apartment.

On Nov. 15 Barcenas was arraigned on the charges. At the arraignment Charlevoix County 33rd Circuit Court Judge Richard Pajtas sat in for 90th District Court Judge Richard May.

Pajtas found Barcenas indigent as he is unemployed, has no source of income, owns no property and has no money. Barcenas said he speaks but can't read English. And he was not a lease holder at Pine Cove Apartments; the baby's mother is the sole lease holder.

She further explained there is a likelihood he is a Mexican national who is possibly in the United States illegally. She said he has been in Michigan one year and was previously living in Florida for at least four years.

Kur added that while in the United States he has possibly used a false social security number. The number he purports to be his own was issued in the State of Washington in the 1950s and Barcenas was born June 17, 1978.

Before ruling Barcenas would be held without bond; Pajtas said, "This is serious, if not the most serious offense one could be charged with."

Deputy, officer honored for their service to community

Each year the National Sheriff's Association recognizes deputy sheriffs and police officers who have accomplished outstanding service to the citizens of Charlevoix County.

This year, Sheriff George T. Lasater, his Undersheriff, William D. Schneider, and Deputy Sheriff George Robert Lasater of the Charlevoix County Sheriff's Office were recognized, along with East Jordan Police Chief Jerry Alward and East Jordan Sergeant Dan Reece.

Deputy Sheriff Lasater was recognized for his actions Jan. 3, 2000 when he assisted the East Jordan Police Department at a trailer where a man was threatening to take his life with a large bowie knife or to stab the police officer who attempted to confront him.

Reece and Deputy Lasater confronted the man, secured the scene and talked with the man in an attempt to reason with him.

Both officers requested assistance from Alward and Sheriff Lasater. Alward and Sheriff Lasater negotiated with him for several hours and he evenually surrendered the knife.

Before he could reach additional knives which were on the banister of the trailer's deck, he was subdued, arrested and lodged in Charlevoix County Jail.

Deputy Sheriff Lasater and

Reece were recommended for the award after confronting the "knife wielding subject" and used good judgment in organizing and coordinating negotiations between the subject and Alward and Sheriff Lasater.

NOTICE OF SHOW CAUSE HEARING AND JUDICIAL FORECLOSURE HEARING
NON-PAYMENT OF PROPERTY TAXES

On March 1, 2001 real estate with unpaid 1997 and/or 1999 property taxes was forfeited to the Charlevoix County Treasurer pursuant to the General Property Tax Act, Public Act 206 of 1893, PA 206, MCL 211.1 to 211.157, as amended.

The State of Michigan is acting as the Foreclosing Governmental Unit in proceedings to foreclose on this property for unpaid property taxes.

There are two hearings scheduled to finalize the foreclosure process. This publication is intended to provide additional notice to parties of interest in these parcels as to the nature, time, and location of these hearings.

A Show Cause Hearing is scheduled for Jan 15-Feb 3, 2002 at 608 S Washington, Lansing MI 48933.

Any person with an interest in the property forfeited to the county treasurer may appear at the show cause hearing and redeem that property or show cause why absolute title to that property should not vest in the Foreclosing Governmental Unit.

A Judicial Foreclosure Hearing is scheduled for Feb 15, 2002 1:30 PM at 33rd Circuit Court, 301 State St, Charlevoix MI 49720.

At this hearing the Foreclosing Governmental Unit shall ask that the court enter a judgment foreclosing the property as requested in the petition for foreclosure. A person claiming an interest in a parcel of property set forth in the petition for foreclosure, who desires to contest that petition, must file written objections with the clerk of the circuit court and serve those objections on State of Michigan, the Foreclosing Governmental Unit. The docket number of the petition is 01-895-19-CZ.

If you are a person with an interest in property being foreclosed:

- ! You have the right to redeem this parcel from the foreclosure process by payment of all forfeited unpaid taxes, interest, penalties, and fees prior to the expiration of the redemption period. You should contact the Charlevoix County Treasurer for the amount required to redeem.
- ! You may lose your interest in the property as a result of the foreclosure proceeding.
- ! The title to the property shall vest absolutely in the Foreclosing Governmental Unit unless all forfeited unpaid delinquent taxes, interest, penalties, and fees are paid within 21 days after judgment is entered in the foreclosure proceedings.

PLEASE NOTE :

The following list represents parties that appear to have title, lien, or other apparent rights to the parcels being foreclosed by the Foreclosing Governmental Unit.

This notice is required to be given by law, even if the party no longer claims or desires an interest if it appears they hold any undischarged, apparent, or potential title or lien right to the property.

Listing of a party does NOT necessarily indicate that they are the owner of a parcel, or that they are liable for the property taxes.

This list is NOT an offering of property for sale. These parcels are NOT being sold, auctioned, or otherwise made available by virtue of this notice.

There is no procedure for purchasing these parcels from the Foreclosing Governmental Unit at this point in the foreclosure proceedings. Those parcels that are foreclosed and not redeemed may become available at public auction in July, September, and November of 2002. These parcels remain the property of their current owner until redemption rights have expired. No party should make any attempt to inspect or enter upon these parcels assuming them to be for sale. This may constitute trespassing and subject the offender to criminal prosecution. The street address of the parcels listed is based on local records and is not guaranteed to be the actual location of the property.

The amount due listed indicates the balance which was due as of forfeiture on March 1, 2001. The current amount required to redeem must be obtained from the Charlevoix County Treasurer, as additional penalties, fees, and interest have accrued since forfeiture.

How To Kill A BUSINESS ... in ten easy steps

1. Don't Advertise
Just pretend everybody knows what you have to offer.
2. Don't Advertise
Tell yourself you just don't have time to spend thinking about promoting your business.
3. Don't Advertise
Just assume everybody knows what you sell.
4. Don't Advertise
Convince yourself that you've been in business so long customers will automatically come to you.
5. Don't Advertise
Forget that there are new potential customers who would do business with you if they were reminded.
6. Don't Advertise
Forget that you have competition trying to attract your customers away from you.
7. Don't Advertise
Tell yourself it costs too much to advertise and that you don't get enough out of it.
8. Don't Advertise
Overlook the fact that advertising is an investment in selling ... not an expense.
9. Don't Advertise
Be sure not to provide an adequate advertising budget for your business.
10. Don't Advertise
Forget that you have to keep reminding your established customers that you appreciate their business.

SCRAPBOOK

The groans of the taxpayers in Charlevoix

By DAVID L. MILES
 Charlevoix Historical Society

Has our latest bridge ever struck open to cause the ultimate back-up and frustration? Yes.

Once, early in its tenure, it opened on an extremely hot day and stayed up quite a while for either a lot of water traffic or the passage of a lake freighter loaded with coal for the rural electric plant down at Advance near Boyne City.

Apparently, while up the steel expanded and when they were lowered the two halves wouldn't mesh normally. Someone recalled that happened with old number four, too, and the fire department was put into action hosing it down to cool the steel until it would cooperate and fit into place.

Again, on an August day in 1987 the bridge opened at 12:30 p.m. then a high voltage switch on the south side blew, affecting some 400 businesses and houses plus the bridge. With the two leaves standing wide open, traffic started backing up and eventually reached the city limits and beyond on both sides of town. The lines of vehicles reached an estimated five miles if not more in length.

A crew of eight was finally assembled to hand crank the bridge back down, but in the scorching heat of midday they could only turn, in teams of two at each of the bridge's four corners, a few revolutions before having to stop from exhaustion. After 40 minutes of work they had the beast tamed and back in its cage and the power came back on at 1:40 p.m. for a stack of vessels waiting to pass. T-shirts were produced at once proclaiming survival of the great gridlock of 1987.

In 1988, the state, after a few rejected grandiose and expensive plans, spent a mere $9,000 for simple electrical switching equipment that could utilize another circuit should one of the two main power lines that junction near the bridge ever go out.

Beyond the teeth-grinding frustrations of a long ago power failure and normal everyday opening delays, how have people reacted to the bridge? At the Lodge Motel, where I worked for many years, one man came every year just to lie on the bed for hours and listen to the hum of the tires across the grating. His wife took their children and left him alone, for in her words it was the best therapy for a stressful job he could ever have. He was in Charlevoix and could forget about everything for a week.

Another man came here for the first time ever, he had heard our town's virtues and attractions extolled for years, and on his first night in the motel, he slept with the south balcony windows open. He came down the next morning enraged at the machinery we kept running in the building.

"Off, on, off, on, all night long; didn't get a wink of sleep," he said.

He too had been listening to nighttime tires going over the bridge and would not be mollified at my patient explanation and assurance that he would pay no attention the next night. He checked out and left.

My house is only a block from the bridge on Park Avenue and the guest room faces the channel on the top north end. Many years ago, a cousin turned out the light, went to bed and within seconds had the sheet pulled over her head because the sound of the tires coming in the window made her think she was being attacked by giant mosquitos.

First-time guests whom we neglected to warn of the sound often showed up at the breakfast table looking like zombies from a sleepless night. Once they knew what the sound came from, they didn't even hear it next time.

But for one woman, a bridge sound scared the bejebees out of her to the extent she left Charlevoix forever (we think). The original signal horn was so loud and piercing it was claimed the people of Green Bay, Wis. could hear it and it could peel a grape at 100 yards.

One day, the lady had driven parallel to the control house just as the bridge tender Chick Gallagher pulled the rope to blast a reply signal to an incoming boat. She screamed to a halt on the grating, leaped from her car, walked back to the concrete and just stood there. He stepped out to ask her to please move her car. She refused.

He asked her twice and she replied if she ever had to drive north again, she would go 50 miles out of her way to bypass

Charlevoix because she never, never, NEVER would cross the bridge again. So Chick had to get in her car and back it off the bridge. Once it had been raised and lowered, he asked her once more to get in and drive off. She again refused and traffic needed to cross. So, he got back into the car, made a U-turn to point it south. She got behind the wheel at last and drove back through town and away.

Perhaps she wasn't so much frightened at the screeching ban-shee noise that jolted her to a stop as she was insulted to the depths of her very soul by the biggest raspberry she ever received. The signal horn has since become more friendly to him.

Olds took ill at his cottage at the Belvedere Club in the early summer of 1950 and was taken back to Lansing where he died not long after.

For one man, the sound of the bridge represented an element he despised regarding government and public works.

Ransom E. Olds, founder of the Oldsmobile automobile company, was one of Charlevoix's most prominent summer residents for much of the first half of the 20th century. He was a true rugged individualist, a firm believer in laissez faire capitalism, hater of government interference and regulation. And above all, the bane of his existence was the whole idea of taxation. The fact that tax dollars could be put to good use, such as constructing something so needed, functional and beautiful as the Charlevoix bridge, meant nothing to him.

Olds took ill at his cottage at the Belvedere Club in the early summer of 1950 and was taken back to Lansing where he died not long after.

ter, so he had only the summer of 1949 to enjoy the new bridge. But he didn't enjoy it because it represented everything he didn't believe in. And what was that?

Once, as Olds was driving some friends across the bridge and that low, mournful buzzing sound rose to meet their ears he told them in no uncertain terms, that the sound they were hearing represented nothing less than "the groans of the taxpayers."

The next time you drive across the bridge and the rubber hits its metal, remember the words of Ransom Olds, titan of American industry, lover of Charlevoix and hater of the bridge.
